

French riots felt locally

By Jonas Hogg
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Although France lost New Orleans in the Louisiana Purchase more than 200 years ago, the two are starting to look quite similar.

As the French riots enter their 14th day, there is still uncertainty about what to do for both the long- and short-term problems.

Ever since the accidental deaths of two French-Arab teens, allegedly while they were hiding from the police, France has been unable to stem the violence that has spread from the Mediterranean in the south to the northern border.

The rioters are predominately Arab and North African, and are composed of a mixture ranging from immigrants to second- and third-generation French citizens.

Charles Reagan, associate to the president, has been traveling to and studying France since the 1960s.

"They're alienated from the Arabic culture. Many don't speak Arabic and frequently don't speak French that well, either," Reagan said. "They're caught between two cultures, French and Arab, and that's part of the root of their alienation."

Dale Herspring, professor of political science, said the alienation comes with all aspects of the population.

"The French have not put a great effort into integrating these people," Herspring said, adding that the isolationist attitude has hindered efforts that have been made.

See FRANCE Page 8

Morrison changes parties

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Johnson County District Attorney Paul Morrison recently announced plans to challenge Phill Kline next year for state attorney general.

In a press conference, Morrison said he plans to switch political parties from Republican to Democrat to make the challenge.

By changing his affiliation on the ballot, some Kansas Democrats said they feel betrayed.

"This state will soon be left to nothing, with more and more Republicans gaining control," Manhattan resident Jennifer Blackwell said. "As a Democrat, I am now forced to not have any representation on the ballot and to vote for someone who doesn't share any of my views. Will the little man, us minority parties, get any chance to prevail?"

In 2004, the Kansas Secretary of State office polled Kansas voters, with 27 percent registered Democrats and 46 percent registered Republicans.

When Kline won the popular vote in 2002, Morrison, then, said he was rather upset with the turnout. Morrison said with Kline's focuses on abortion and issues outside his jurisdiction, he posed an executive threat to the state.

People should overlook Morrison's switch in political party and focus more on

See SWITCH Page 8

Nature of reality

New organization looks to expand Buddhist faith to Manhattan community

FAITH ON CAMPUS

The fourth of a five-part series exploring the beliefs of religious groups on campus.

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A new university organization has been established to provide Buddhists with an outlet to practice their religion in a community environment.

"Because of this university, there are a lot of international students coming into the community who might practice Buddhism," said Mariko Price, graduate student in curriculum and instruction, "not only students, but faculty and researchers as well."

The group is ecumenical and is open to people of any faith who have an interest in the Buddhist way of life. It has 10 members and would like more.

"We're hoping to expand so people coming into this town find us to keep them practicing their faith based on Buddhism," Price said. "Our goal is getting to the community to show people extra proof that the religion works in daily life."

Buddhism is a religion originally developed overseas about 3,500 years ago when Siddhartha Gautama, known today as the Buddha, was spiritually awakened at age 35.

"You can think of it as a philosophy, a religion, a psychology," Christina Hauck, associate professor of English, said. "I prefer to think of it as an investigation. It's an investigation into the nature of the self and, through that, the nature of reality."

Religion can be divided into two basic categories — object religion and subject religion. Object religion recognizes and pays respects to a deity above human nature, which is the basis of most religions. Subject religion teaches that divinity exists in human nature itself.

"We don't seek for something superior," Price said. "We seek harmony with the universe and seek to bring out the best in ourselves."

This philosophy was handed down to Hauck, who practices Buddhism in the Kwan Um School of Zen, which is derived from the Korean Zen practice.

"Buddhism is probably the only subject religion," Hauck said. "We assume God, Buddha nature, some

See BUDDHISM Page 8

ABOVE: Christina Hauck, associate professor of English and a Buddhist, meditates Wednesday afternoon in her home. Hauck said she usually meditates twice a day.

TOP: Resting on Hauck's altar are items representing the Buddhist religion.

Author investigates, traces family history to Manhattan

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Stephen Hanks has spent more than 10 years researching his family history.

"I came to Manhattan because I wanted to stop at every town my ancestors had been through," Hanks said during a presentation Wednesday night at the Riley County Historical Museum. "Manhattan is where my dad grew up, and then he went into the Navy. Eventually he was stationed at Portland, and made his home there, which is where I live today."

His interest in genealogy began in July 1989, when a funeral letter arrived from Manhattan. The obituary was for his great uncle, Murt Hanks, the first African-American mayor of Manhattan.

"I got to reading the names of all these people I'd never heard of," Hanks said. "I immediately started going through the family files and ended up finding some information and a few photos."

Hanks said his search for ancestors was not an easy journey. He traveled to several states in order to look at archives, wrote many letters requesting information and conducted numerous interviews.

"That's what you have to do in genealogy, interview people," Hanks said.

Several members of the audience were also active in searching out their ancestry.

"When doing genealogy research, the probate records are especially helpful," he said.

Hanks was able to access several names of his ancestors as they were listed as property under their slave owner's name.

"When doing African-American history, you have to also research and trace the whereabouts of the slave

Author Stephen Hanks, resident of Portland, Ore., talks to attendees about his book, "Akee Tree, A Descendant's Search for his Ancestors on the Eskridge Plantations," and tells about his troubles tracking down his family's genealogy.

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

owner and find out everything about them," Hanks said.

Hanks also wrote a book about his ancestry titled "Akee Tree, A Descendant's Search for his Ancestors on the Eskridge Plantations."

"Part of the book is an investigative research, and the other part is a family narrative," he said. The tale explains how Hanks eventually discovered his family's life through 140 years of slavery, and focuses on four of his women ancestors: Akey, Jenny, Rose and Eliza. Later in the book, Hanks wrote about his African lineage, and his trip to West

See ANCESTRY Page 8

Today

High 66
Low 43

Friday

High 74
Low 54

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Inappropriate campaign

The father of former K-State student Ali Kemp, who was slain three years ago, says he doesn't want her case involved in next year's race for attorney general. Roger Kemp told the Kansas City Star, "I flat out will not get involved in any political campaign, period. I don't want Ali involved."

Jordan chaos

At least 57 people were killed and 114 injured after suicide bombers carried out nearly simultaneous attacks on three U.S.-based hotels in the Jordanian capital Wednesday night. Jordan's deputy prime minister, Marwan Muasher, said there was no claim of responsibility but that Abu Musab al-Zarqawi was a "prime suspect."

Miller retires

Judith Miller has retired from the New York Times, the paper announced Wednesday. Miller spent 85 days in jail this summer for refusing to testify about her conversations with a confidential source. "I respect her decision to retire from the Times and wish her well," Times publisher Arthur Sulzberger Jr. said in a statement.

DON'T FORGET

Students with 21 or more credit hours are eligible to enroll today.

The Internal Ag Panel will meet at 6 tonight in Waters 231.

The KSU Faculty Brass Quintet will play at 7:30 tonight in the All Faiths Chapel.

Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!

1122 Laramie

539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Clear the decks?
5 Newton filter
8 Courted a ticket
12 Metropolis
13 LAX info
14 Nastase of tennis fame
15 Each
16 1 billion years
17 Show chutzpah
18 Send back to custody
20 More hoary
22 Weep
23 Stocky steed
24 Probability
27 Annual publications
32 In favor of
33 One of the brass (Abbr.)
34 Prompt
35 Treats at an afternoon affair

DOWN

38 Gumbo base
39 "Holy moley!"
40 Dallas sch.
42 "I Kissed a Girl" singer
45 Rat on 49 Persia, now
50 Calif.-eat-eria
52 Vitriol
53 Diplo-mat's sine qua non 54 Varnish ingredient
55 Pedestal occupant
56 Benevo-lent
57 Early love boat?
58 Profound
19 "Fuhged-daboudit!"
21 Nipper's old co.
24 Fre-quently
25 Anony-mous Jane
26 Flaw
28 Shelter
29 Old foggy
30 Mongrel
31 Vast expanse
36 Matters
37 Piercing tool
38 Beat on eBay
41 Yours truly
42 Location
43 Evangelist
44 Logan or Raines
46 Carnival attraction
47 Lotion additive
48 Kennel cry
51 Listening device

Solution time: 25 mins.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER 11-10

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55 56 57 58

11-10 CRYPTOQUIP

Y I A E G P G B S K K E V W S
C V L A W G P I G B G P S A B Y G F
S K K Z G E F J A S G V N W K E A
Z V C I S P G N N V S K L A B J B G Y E

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF YOU WORK AS A WINDOW WASHER, I GUESS YOU'D FIND YOURSELF ON THE OUTSIDE LOOKING IN.
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: K equals O

DIVERSIONS

A waste of time, but hey, it's better than lecture

How well do you know your movies?

1. "Worrying is like a rocking chair. It gives you something to do, but it doesn't get you anywhere."
A. The Lion King
B. Van Wilder
C. Practical Magic

2. "We're on a mission from God."
A. The Blues Brothers
B. Saved
C. Kingdom of Heaven

3. "Apparently, there's a leak ..."
A. Pirates of the Caribbean
B. Into the Blue
C. Waterworld

4. "I see Blue; he looks glorious."
A. Ice Age
B. Fight Club
C. Old School

5. "Pink is my signature color."
A. Steel Magnolias
B. Grease
C. Pretty Woman

6. "I'm sorry that people are so jealous of me ... but I can't help it that I'm so popular."
A. Jawbreaker
B. Mean Girls
C. Crossroads

7. "Who knows where thoughts come from? They just appear."
A. The Karate Kid
B. Finding Neverland
C. Empire Records

8. "Mommy, mommy, the rhino's getting too close to the car."
A. Tommy Boy
B. Anchorman
C. The Cable Guy

9. "Grab a brew. Don't cost nothin."
A. Sorority Boys
B. Animal House
C. The Breakfast Club

10. "Come out to the coast, we'll get together, have a few laughs ..."
A. Payback
B. The Terminator
C. Die Hard

Source — www.imdb.com

Answers:
1. C 2. C 3. A 4. C 5. B 6. B 7. C 8. B 9. C 10. A

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Nov. 8

- Rhonda Sloan, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, Apt. 107, was arrested at 1:40 p.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Luke Starns, 730 Allen Road, Lot 163, was arrested at 2:43 p.m. for obstruction of legal process, driving with a suspended license, DUI and failure to appear. Bond was set at $2,000.
- Myrtle Crawford, Junction City, was arrested at 4:10 p.m. for probation violation and failure to appear. Bond was set at $10,000.

Wednesday, Nov. 9

- Alex Stultz, 1030 Fremont St., was arrested at 2:35 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Paulette Watson at 10 a.m. today in Blumont 368.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Sherry Bowman-Kragh at 10:30 a.m. today in Blumont 339.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Fat's BAR & GRILL

Thursdays

$200 bottles

$350 fishbowls

12th & Laramie
Aggieville

Put the résumé professionals to work for you.
Claflin Books and Copies

JOE'S TAP ROOM
776-3593 1127 Moro

20¢ wings (4pm-9pm)
$1.50 all drinks (premiums, calls, draws)
$2.00 bottles
LADIES $80's

sudoku
On the Classified Page

Porter's
537-7151 706 N. Manhattan
$1.50 any pint on tap
50¢ tacos (hard & soft)
$3.00 Jager bombs
$3.00 Red Bull & vodka

EARN up to $200 this month
EARN GREAT MONEY TODAY
FEEL GREAT FOREVER.
New Higher Pay - Come in today!
ZLB Plasma Services
Good for You. Great for Life.
1130 Gardenway • Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)-776-9177 • zlbplasma.com
Fees and donation limits may vary. New donors please bring a photo ID, proof of address, and a Social Security card.

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center

Walk-in Flu Vaccine Clinic
Thursday, Nov. 10th
8:30-11:30 am
1:30-4:30 pm
Cost:
$13 shot
$22 intranasal
Students Only!
Only students at high risk for complications due to the flu will be given the injectable vaccine.
All other students will be offered the intranasal flu vaccine.
For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/lafene

Royal Thai Cuisine

One of the best quality restaurants in town

Beautiful Decor and Friendly Service

Very peaceful & relaxing atmosphere

Variety of Food with many choices of:
meat, seafood, tofu, and fresh veggies
at affordable prices.

Fast Service, All main dishes served with free tasty soup of the day and Crab
Rangoon that everyone loves!

Hours: 11am-10pm, 7 days a week
3003 Anderson Ave. (in plaza west, by Alco)
539-0399

Congratulations New Initiates

We Love You

Karen Alexander	Alden Haugh	Gina Raymonde	Chelsi Thissen
Devon Allen	Jennifer Haverkamp	Natalie Regan	Alex Wilson
Darcey Ball	Jessica Henback	Alynn Reinhardt	Eryn Woolfer
Lexi Billinger	Jamie Johnson	JoAnna Selby	Shannon Yost
Jenny Cole	Katie Johnson	Ashley Skillman
Julie Curtin	Andrea Kahlfeldt
Jacque Dennihan	Karla Kerr
Amanda Dixon	Sarah Kruse
Christen Dykmann	Rachel Manning
Kelly Fischer	Anikka Martin
Vanessa Fleming	Kelsey Morgan
Chelsey Fritch	Savanna Nightengale
Lindsay Gallion	Caillin O'Malley
Lacey Gassmann	Erin Panley
Laura Gross	Jeanne Pierzynski
Celia Haney	Elise Podhaysky

Love
Your KA Sisters

Antique cars gaining popularity

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Some might say antique cars are appreciated and collected by people of all ages.

For Brandon Hagman, senior in mechanical engineering, his involvement with remodeling vintage cars originated within his own family.

"My father and I remodeled the entire car," Hagman said. "My mother and I did the interior, I did a lot of odds and ends, and we put in a rebuilt engine."

Today, Hagman owns a 1965 Shelby Cobra Mustang, but he said he eventually wants a 2005 Mustang, which matches his current car.

"When it came time for me to get a car, it just seemed natural to get a classic car," he said.

While Hagman has his family to help rebuild cars, Kevin Bosch, freshman in animal sciences and industry, said he prefers classic cars over others offered today.

"People see them when they're redone and then want one," said Bosch. "That's what happened with me."

Bosch bought his car from a junkyard nearly four years ago. "It's a '71 Nova, and I've been restoring it ever since," he said.

Nearly everything on Bosch's car was something he restored by himself, excluding some exterior features, like the paint.

Like many car collectors, Bosch said he constantly checks the latest car trends and hopes to get a 1967 Corvette.

Several other K-State students also said they love old cars.

"I just enjoy the looks of them, the way they sound and move," Rex Robichaux, senior in geography, said.

Like Bosch, Robichaux was exposed to car-collecting early in life.

"My father and I got started when I was 10 or 11 and started going to shows together," he said.

Together, they also bought a 1941 Ford Coupe, which they restored into a street rod and eventually bought a 1969 Cobra Jet Mach 1 Mustang.

"Now we help put the car shows on," Robichaux said. "It's a hobby I want to do my whole life. You meet a lot of cool people and learn cool things."

Robichaux is currently a member of KSU Motorsports Club, a group for automotive and motorcycle enthusiasts to share their love for cars.

Automotive clubs are a great way to share a common interest in a hobby, said Terrence Jones, president of local Yard Arts Classics Car Club.

"It just started as a get-together for guys with old cars," Jones said. The club consists of about 45 members, ranging from high school and college students to area residents, and as a club, they participate in parades and car shows. They're also very involved with giving to the community.

"We'll have car shows or have the cars on display in the mall to make and donate money to various organizations in town," Jones said.

Some of the groups Yard Arts Classics Car Club has donated to include Sunset Zoological Park, Flint Hills Breadbasket and Big Lakes Development Center.

"One of the unique things about our club is that we have many different types of cars," Jones said. "Some clubs are specifically mustangs, but we have street rods, antique cars, classic cars and muscle cars. The variety is part of the fun."

On every Friday from April

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Cleaning the side of his car, Terry Jones, Manhattan resident, wipes down the body of his rebuilt 1958 Mercury Monterey. Some K-State students rebuild vintage cars with their families.

to October, the Yard Arts Classics Car Club meets for a day of cruising.

"Most people in the club drive their cars everywhere they go, whereas a lot of people might trailer theirs," he said.

Through the latest retro-style car trends, older generations use it as a way to return to their youth, Hagman said.

"That era is at the point in their life when they're retiring, and have initial stability to buy extra cars and pay someone to restore them," he said. "Those people who were stuck driving their mom's old panel station wagon now have time and money to do that."

Senior interviews for Marshall Scholarship

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Patrice Holderbach interviewed for a Marshall Scholarship Wednesday.

Holderbach, senior in mass communications, interviewed in Chicago for one of 40 Marshall Scholarships distributed nationwide.

"It went amazingly well," she said. "It was nothing I couldn't handle."

The scholarship generally fully funds two to three years of graduate study at any university in the United Kingdom, Jim Hohenbary, scholarship adviser, said.

"It's the British government's official expression of gratitude for the help extended to the British people under the Marshall Plan," he said.

K-State nominated three students this year to the Chicago region, but Holderbach was the only K-State nominee to receive an invitation to interview, Hohenbary said.

There are eight regions of competition for the scholarships, and students are nominated to the region they are from.

Holderbach applied for the campus nomination in spring 2005 and was interviewed by a campus committee. She then completed the national application in October.

"I feel this opportunity would enhance my understanding of the types of issues I'll be covering," she said.

Holderbach, who is studying in London this semester, has interned at The Kansas City Star, the Topeka Capital-Journal and the Scripps Howard Foundation. She was the editor in chief of the Collegian in fall 2004.

"The Marshall is looking for students with a strong academic record, a strong resumé, and a strong sense of how their goals will be served by studying in the United Kingdom and I think Patrice had all those," Hohenbary said.

Scholarship recipients will be notified today or Friday. If selected, Holderbach said she will study either development studies at the University of Oxford or comparative ethnic conflict at The Queen's University of Belfast.

From 1984-1999, K-State had 10 Marshall Scholarship winners, Hohenbary said.

Once in a Lifetime — Everyone's doing it.
engagements and weddings

To announce your milestone, visit Kedzie 103. To advertise, call 532-6560.

Veteran's Day Celebration

Salute to America

November 11, 2005

7-9 a.m. Veteran's Day Breakfast

Tickets available in advance or at the door:
$4.00 Donation
American Legion Post #17
114 McCall Road

9 a.m. State & Territorial Flag Display

Riley County Courthouse Plaza

9:30 a.m. Veteran's Day Honor Parade

15th & Poyntz Ave. from City Park to Manhattan Town Center Mall
Grand Marshal - MG Dennis Hardy
Commanding General Ft. Riley

11 a.m. Commemorative Program

Wareham Opera House
410 Poyntz Ave.
Speaker - MG Dennis Hardy

6 p.m. American Legion Veteran's Day Banquet

American Legion Members and Guest
Turkey Dinner - $10.00 Per Person
Reservations Preferred 776-4656
Pay at the door
114 McCall Road

Thurs. November 10 vs. Emporia State

7pm
Bramlage Coliseum

All Tickets - $10
K-State Students - Free with valid student I.D.

Be Proud Be People
GO STATE!

Check out

shout outs

on the Classifieds page!

RAMBLERS

Every Thursday night is Steak Night

$8.95

12oz USDA Top Sirloin with all the trimmings

$17.45

Couples Dinner-2 complete dinners

$1.75

All Domestic Bottles

8711 E Hwy 24
(785) 539-4989

LOVE Advertising?

Work for the Spring 2006 Collegian

Advertising Manager

Applications due 5 p.m. Nov. 11

Interviews will be conducted Nov. 15

Advertising Staff Positions

- Assistant Advertising Manager
- Account Representatives

Applications due 5 p.m. Nov. 16

Pick up an application & job description in Kedzie 103.

We're Looking

For YOU!

Executive Position

Spring 2006 Editor in chief

- Applications due 5 p.m. Nov. 11

- Interviews will be conducted Nov. 15

News

Staff Positions

Spring 2006

- Managing Editors
- News Editors
- Desk Editors • Reporters
- Copy Editors • Designers
- Photojournalists
- Graphic Journalists
- Graphic Artists
- Online Journalists
- Applications due 5 p.m. Nov. 16

Pick up applications in Kedzie 103

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

KSU Theatre & Dance and the Department of Music Present

Pippin

the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.

November 20 at 3 p.m.

McCain Auditorium

book by Roger O. Hirson

music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50

Seniors: $11.50

Public: $13.50

McCain Box Office

532-6428 weekdays

11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

www.ksu.edu/sctd

by the creator of Godspell and Wicked

Campus Phone Books

you can finally Buy A Book WORTH ITS PRICE

on sale NOW in Kedzie 103
8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

TO THE POINT Attorney should represent party after switch

Changing sides midstream is rarely a good idea.

Regardless, Johnson County District Attorney Paul Morrison announced his decision to switch party affiliation from Republican to Democrat and challenge Phill Kline for his position as state Attorney General.

Although many doubt the sincerity of this change, if Morrison is ready to flip sides as a potential election-winning tactic, he needs to be ready to represent his democratic constituents' view and opinions.

The United States is based on the freedom to choose on just about everything. If a political candidate wants to choose to change his party affiliation, he has the right to do so.

Making such a change only to win an election is an exploitation of this freedom.

In a time where a small percentage of people exercise their right to vote, and fewer take time to learn about the candidates, this type of political trickery only serves to stealthily steal the votes of those who vote the party line.

Morrison must back up his hop to the left by supporting democratic initiatives and showing his change is more than a farce.

Morrison is obviously looking at an uphill battle in his bid to convince die-hard democrats he has changed his ways, and it will be his actions that show constituents with which party his loyalties rest.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

The poverty of diversity

Harmony, objective cultural truths not possible

Truth, objectivity and knowledge are under attack at our university, by that fashionable dogma, "diversity." Posing as a beacon of moral neutrality, it is instead a creator of the morally neutered.

Diversity has a vague, cheery ring to it, attractive to idealistic students. But, if you examine diversity's premises, their poverty becomes evident.

Diversity's major presupposition is that "all cultures are equal." Each culture has its own assumptions about reality which cannot be measured against the assumptions of another culture. Objective truth — truth applicable to all cultures — is an ethnocentric fiction.

We see this in the diversity's operation. Due to the cultural subjectivity of knowledge, classrooms must have cultural representatives to convey different cultural perspectives. These reps must be admitted regardless of merit, merit being a false, ethnocentric appeal to objective truth.

Due to the cultural relativity of knowledge, these reps are needed even in the hard sciences — physics has no special claim to objective truth and benefits from other cultural perspectives.

I have previously pointed out the incompatibility of individualism with diversity's focus on group identity. If we are defined through involuntary group categorizations rather than through acts of self-definition, then individuality is a sham.

Diversiphiles were unmoved. Individuality is a western concept, they said. It cannot be imposed, because all values are relative to their culture.

But, then, one loses not just individuality, but liberty, equality and even diversity itself. For diversity also formed within western culture, and, since it privileges culture over non-culture, also makes a claim to absolute truth — the truth of the primacy of culture.

Therefore, diversity is internally contradictory. To wit, it states "There are no objective, cross-cultural truths — oh, except for diversity."

Diversiphiles say diversity is necessary for intercultural dialogue. But if "individuality" is inadmissible into argument then any value-laden statement is also inadmissible.

Having denied there is an objective truth to referee between competing beliefs, all beliefs become equally valid, and therefore dialogue becomes impossible. The claims "culture B believes value X is good" and "culture C believes value X is abominable" cannot be debated without appeal to some higher standard, some objective truth.

Therefore, diversity cannot be harmony. Since cross-cultural debate is impossible, the only way to refute subjective beliefs is, as the philosopher

Karl Popper noted, by the "elimination (killing) of the carrier of the subjective knowledge."

When argument is rendered ineffectual, the sword becomes the only means of persuasion. Violence is the end-state of diversity, as an increasingly restive Europe is realizing after years of unthinking multiculturalism.

It's not the mere difference of viewpoints that is praiseworthy, but the objective content of those views, when analyzed with universal reason.

Likewise, the imperative to "think outside the box" is bankrupt. It's one of diversity's premises that we're bound, as cognitive prisoners, to our culture. Since our culture contains our basic assumptions about reality, thought outside of it is impossible, unless objective truth exists. This imperative, then, is really a plea to accept, uncritically, the view being offered.

In "The Abolition of Man," a book that now seems prophetic, C.S. Lewis attacked the encroachment of subjectivity into schooling. One dangerous aspect, he noted, is that a student "has no notion that ethics, theology and politics are all at stake" when they, say, turn in a diversity reflection paper.

Each foray into subjectivity insinuates certain principles into us — and saps others out.

GRANT REICHERT

Grant Reichert is a junior in political science. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

Illustrations by Kent Holle | COLLEGIAN

Denver marijuana law won't hold up

Stoners across the world were able to giggle happily last week as the mile- "high" city passed one of the most liberal marijuana laws our country has seen. Well, that is, the most liberal law since President Reagan was a little boy and pot was legal.

As of Nov. 1, it is no longer a criminal act in Denver for a 21-year-old to be in possession of up to one ounce of the once-taboo drug.

Similar laws in Amsterdam have allowed coffee shops to sell five grams of cannabis without being prosecuted and no legal action is taken for possessing small quantities for personal use.

Sadly, Denver's recently passed city ordinance isn't being looked at as anything more than a huge political statement. Mayor John Hickenlooper, who opposes the ordinance, said local police will continue to use the state laws to prosecute offenders.

Once again big brother has to come in and take away what people have worked so hard to achieve. Whether the man is on a power trip or just uneducated about marijuana is uncertain. It is only a plant, not something derived from a plant such as alcohol, cocaine or opium.

ZACHARY T. ECKELS

Marijuana also differs from the above drugs as it does not produce nearly the same health risks.

While it has been reported that about 85,000 people die from consuming alcohol annually, marijuana has caused zero deaths. It is physically impossible to overdose on pot.

According to the Institute of Medicine, an independent program, marijuana isn't even the gateway drug people fear it to be. In fact, there are few people who ever turn to other drugs after smoking weed.

There is also the misconception that it is dangerous for people to be driving under the influence of this plant. Many tests have proven that while it may have a significant affect on psychomotor skills, the effect is neither severe nor long-lasting. This situation is easily explained by proving most people under the influence of marijuana tend to drive slower and make up for slower reactions by being much more cautious.

The list of other arguments against the plant continue to get more and more outrageous. Claims that it will make someone kill or rape innocent victims are laughable.

Marijuana doesn't deserve to be legalized just because it won't hurt society. The truth is that it will actually end up doing good and helping our nation thrive.

In a recent report by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, or NORML, an estimated $7.6 billion is annually spent to enforce anti-marijuana laws. After saving that much we could also add a sin tax to a little economy booster and watch the schools get funded again.

Freeing all those prisoners of the war on drugs would also greatly relieve the stress our correctional system has been feeling as of late.

If these reasons aren't good enough for you, maybe you'd consider the fact that legalizing it would help eliminate a small section of racism that still exists in the United States.

The recent NORML report also mentioned that while black adults only account for 11.9 percent of annual marijuana users, they make up 23 percent of all marijuana possession arrests in the United States. Although this argument can be made on most crimes in America, it is blatantly obvious on this one.

Until Hickenlooper and the rest of the world understands these things, we will continue to oppress those who would benefit from its legalization.

The only thing we can do now is follow Denver's example right here in Manhattan and announce to the world that nothing is wrong with marijuana.

Zachary T. Eckels is a junior in print journalism. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@pub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

I have never put anything on the Fourum. How hard is it to get on?

Does anyone else feel like singing "The ants go marching one by one, hurrah, hurrah" when walking up and down Calvin Hall's stairway single file each day?

Shane Sanders, quit making excuses for you being a sorry fan. Less tickets sold equals less revenue equals worse facilities and coaches equals fewer recruits and wins. Go back to Lawrence.

I vote T.O. gets banned. That's one less guy burning the Chiefs' secondary.

Chuck Norris sold his soul to the devil for his rugged good looks and unparalleled martial arts ability. Shortly after the transaction was finalized, Chuck roundhouse-kicked the devil in the face and took his soul back. The devil, who appreciates irony, couldn't stay mad and admitted he should have seen it coming. They now play poker every second Wednesday of the month.

To the guy in the huge truck who graciously decided to take two parking spaces instead of one — learn to park. Next time I'll leave something else besides a nice note.

I just had sex in one of those study rooms at Goodnow Hall.

The perfect end to the perfect day, you broke my heart and you don't even know.

To the guy that just yelled at us on the third floor in Hale — if you can have a spit cup, then we can talk.

I would like to announce that the band "The Spins" are absolutely the greatest band that Manhattan has seen in over a century.

The library's custodial help needs to dust the alcoves on the fourth floor.

I was walking past someone who was on the phone, and they were saying, "man, I knew your back was hairy, but I didn't know it was that bad."

My chem lab partner sucks at titrations, but it's OK because I want to get on him.

Gumby's Drivers. Keep your cars off of the sidewalk.

Kudos to Childress on an excellent article. K-State's inferno is the article of the year.

Don't you hate it when you bite into a peanut butter cup and realize the wrapper is still on?

Ladies, by the way, along with the bottom bunk, I've got a private bathroom, yeah girl.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

THE EDGE

Thursday, Nov. 10, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 5

Dream significance, theories depend on individual experiences

By J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It was only a dream ... right? Dreaming that one is embarrassed might mean one has hidden weaknesses and fears. If a person dreams of a pirate, it might mean someone in his or her life is causing chaos.

Joe Eisenbarth, sophomore in pre-psychology, said he remembers at least one dream a week and has had a recurring dream.

"I know that everyone dreams," he said. "The one recurring dream I had was when I was living with my mother and at the time. We were locked out of the house."

He said he was not sure as to what the dream meant, but it could have meant something about his mother not being nurturing at the time.

Even though there are countless books on dream interpretation, there is no real scientific consensus on what dreams are, said Leon Rappoport, professor emeritus in psychology.

Historically, dreams were extremely important to various cultures, including Romans and native American cultures, but in modern day, the emphasis in dreams is not as present, he said.

"It's been pushed back by the scientific ideology," Rappoport said. "The simple-minded view of science is that if you can't measure it, weigh it or get a hold of it, then it's not worth bothering about."

Dreaming occurs when one is asleep and experiences what is known as Rapid Eye Movement and it occurs for about 30 minutes every hour or so each time one sleeps, Rappoport said, who taught a dream class at K-State for eight years. He said everyone dreams, but in some cases people may not remember them.

There are many differences of opinion on what dreams are, Rappoport said.

He said one view is that dreams are basically mental static -- what we experience in dreams are random images and thoughts with no significance. The other extreme is that dreams are very significant in what is happening in one's life and in some cases the future.

There are some reports of lucid dreaming, which includes people who try to program dreaming, creating your own dream or solving problems, he said.

"People report solving problems in their dreams," said Rappoport, who taught at K-State for 40 years. "I was told by a guy years ago that was working on a Ph.D. thesis in mathematics, and he couldn't solve some equation, and it came to him in a dream. And that's a very interesting aspect, but I was actually skeptical about it until it happened to me."

He said he was working on a problem involving an interaction effect, like the quality of beauty and how you can tell if someone's attractive.

"Well, you can go by any single variable, like their hair, their facial features," Rappoport said. "And I couldn't get anywhere with that problem."

"And then in a dream it came to me, somehow, that it's an interaction. It's how the hair and the body and everything goes together. It's like height and weight, one of them doesn't specifically tell you how the object is formed."

There are several theories on significance of dreams, Rappoport said. He said generally, objects or symbols in a dream tend to depend on the person, and dream dictionaries probably will not work for everyone.

In the book "In Search of Dreams: Results of Experimental Dream Research" by Inge Strauch (1996), Strauch presents methods and results of laboratory dream research.

"Dreams are purely personal experiences," Strauch wrote, "and the dreamer alone is the witness to the dream ... It is only when we look back on our dream, and report it on awakening, that we are able to integrate the dream into the waking world."

Rappoport said the Freudian view on symbols of dreams come from repressed feelings and desires.

"None of us would really (care) about atomic theory or nuclear physics and all that if it wasn't for the fact that you can blow things up with it," he said.

"I mean until then, no one paid much attention to it. Nobody could really even understand it. But once you can blow something up, or once you can, you know, get something to happen, then that's when all kinds of research starts," he said.

Dream Interpretations

A cat: It signifies misfortune and bad luck, but for cat lovers, it signifies an independent spirit.

Castration: It signifies overwhelming fears the person lost their virility or feelings of sexual pressure.

A dog: It indicates a skill a person has ignored or forgotten but needs to be activated.

School: It signifies feelings of inadequacy and childhood insecurities that have never been resolved.

Falling: To dream of falling and not being frightened, signifies the person will overcome adversities with ease. If they are frightened indicates a lack of control, insecurity and/or lack of support in their waking life.

Being chased: To dream if are being chased signifies the person is avoiding a situation they do not think is conquerable.

Money: To see or win money in a dream symbolizes success and prosperity is within a person's reach.

Source: www.dreammoods.com

Photo Illustration by Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Fruit pizza offers variety with alternative ingredients

By Kelly Schmitt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Anytime cookies are topped with fruit and cream cheese, lots of smiles are bound to be the end result.

Fruit pizza is built on a foundation of sugar cookie "crust." In this recipe, the crust is topped with a cream cheese mixture and a variety of fruit. To add variety to this recipe, use cream cheese with strawberry or orange flavoring.

The fruit toppings can be switched out as well. Strawberries, mandarin oranges and a kiwi can be substituted with pineapple, mango and raspberries or blueberries. For the best results, make sure the fruit is well-drained before adding to the pizza.

For a sinfully delicious variation, use chocolate cream cheese. Add chocolate chips to the fruit topping the pizza, and serve with a dollop of whipped cream.

Fruit pizza recipe

1 roll of pre-packaged sugar cookie dough
1 8-ounce package of cream cheese
1/3 cup of sugar
1/2 teaspoon of vanilla
1/4 cup of chopped strawberries
1 chopped kiwi
1 small can of mandarin oranges, drained

at 375 degrees for 9 to 12 minutes, or until the crust is a light, golden brown. Cool completely.

Mix one package of cream cheese with 1/3 cup of sugar and 1/2 teaspoon of vanilla. Blend until creamy smooth. Spread over the cooled cookie crust.

Sprinkle the chopped strawberries and kiwi on top of the cream cheese. Add the mandarin oranges; making sure the oranges are drained very well.

Slice with a pizza cutter and serve. Refrigerate leftovers.

Cut 1/4-inch thick slices of the cookie dough, overlapping slices slightly on a baking sheet to form an even crust. Bake the cookie dough

HOROSCOPES

Aquarius (Jan. 21 - Feb. 18)

Good day to do crossword puzzles in the park. Life is short enough without letting it get you all stressed out like that.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

Your manager will be a twit today. That's ok, though — it's what he's paid for.

Aries (March 21 - April 19)

You will write a newspaper article about the Internet today. Why not? Everybody else has

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)

Angst day today.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Excellent day to fill some pantyhose with popcorn and do the reindeer dance.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22)

Uh oh. "Bursting into song day" again. Your friends will avoid you.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Leek soup day today. Despite your recent tendency towards shoplifting vegetables, I highly recommend you buy a leek, not take one.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

You are about to have an idea of almost mind-boggling brilliance. Try to remain calm.

Libra (Sept. 22 - Oct. 22)

Good day to learn ventriloquism. Lesson 1: making squishy sounds when people walk by, in time with their footsteps.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

A hive of naked mole rats will move in with you today. You will find that they are relatively tidy creatures, but that it's a trifle difficult to explain their presence to your friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

Don't you owe someone a thank you note? If not, send one anyway — that's always fun.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20)

You will win 12,000 cases of peanut brittle today on a call-in game show. That's a lot of peanut brittle as it turns out.

Source: www.humorscope.com

UPCOMING SHOWS

Tonight

Who: The Dewayn Brothers and Shady Lane String Band
When: 10 p.m., 21+
Where: Auntie Mae's Parlor, 614 N. 12th St.

Friday, Nov. 11

Who: Pendergast and Sleepyhead
When: 10 p.m., 21+
Where: Auntie Mae's Parlor, 614 N. 12th St.

Who: Emma's Mine with Lojic, Darlin' at Sea
Where: 18+, at PJ's Bar, 1129 Laramie St.

Monday, Nov. 14

Who: Madonna CD Release party
When: 9 p.m., 21+
Where: SOS Music, 1214 Moro St.

Who: The Vince Harmon Band with The Fast Food Junkies
When: 10 p.m., 18+
Where: PJ's Bar, 1129 Laramie St.

Wednesday, Nov. 16

Who: Barefoot Rebellion with Shaking Tree
When: 10 p.m., 18+
Where: PJ's Bar, 1129 Laramie St.

Making STRIDES

Wildcats face Emporia State in final exhibition

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State men's basketball team will look to continue its improvement when it takes the floor tonight against Emporia State in its second exhibition game of the season.

Tonight's game at Bramlage Coliseum is the final exhibition match for the Wildcats and will serve as the last tune up before the regular season begins on Nov. 18. It will be important for the team to work towards correcting its errors against Emporia State before the regular season begins, coach Jim Wooldridge said.

"We need to play better," Wooldridge said. "Time is crucial. We need to see some improvement, so in that sense (this game) is crucial."

"We don't want to go into the last week of preparation for the regular season scratching our heads. We want to feel better about our team, and feel like we're moving ahead."

There are a few areas of the game that his players have been focusing on since their 62-53 victory over the EA Sports All-Stars on Nov. 3, Wooldridge said.

"We've got to do a better job of guarding the dribble," he said. "They dribbled by us a lot, and that created some open jump shots. Obviously, turnovers are a concern. We tried to clean that up. I think that's an ongoing process."

Surprisingly, the largest concern for the Wildcats headed into the 2005-2006 season was one of their greatest strengths against the All-Stars, as evidenced by a 48-28 rebounding margin in their first game.

Tonight's game will mark the second straight season K-State has played a Division II, in-state opponent in an exhibition game. Last year, the Wildcats posted an 88-69 victory over Pittsburg State University. Emporia State should provide a good test for the Wildcats, sophomore guard Clint Stewart said.

"Coach told us Emporia State will come in playing hard and playing to win," Stewart said. "It will definitely be good competition for us, and we're

K-State vs. Emporia State
When: 7 tonight
Where: Bramlage Coliseum
Price: Adult $10, Youth $5

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

K-State's sophomore guard, Clint Stewart, defends against EA Sports All-Stars' Roy Stigall Nov. 3. The Wildcats face Emporia State at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

looking forward to making strides."

Emporia State is expected to have good guard play this season, so the backcourt of K-State will be handed a solid defensive test.

"They have some good shooters," junior forward Cartier Martin said. "They can shoot the ball well, so we're going to have to fight through screens and contest (shots), and then get back and recover on defense."

Although the regular season is still more than a week away, both the players and coaches know the team is far from where it wants to be.

"It hasn't changed — we have a ton of work to do," Wooldridge said. "The identity of our team, how our team is going to have to play, the toughness of our team, the role identification to our team — we've got all that in front of us. It's still a question mark."

The game against Emporia State tonight should help answer some questions and give the players a sense of where they stand early in the season.

"We're going to see where we are," Stewart said. "The first game gave us some things we need to work on. Hopefully we will step up offensively more this game, and defensively we'll step it up even more."

Kansas City's season salvaged at woeful Oakland's expense

There aren't many must-win games in the National Football League, especially in week nine.

But the Kansas City Chiefs, who entered last Sunday's game against the Oakland Raiders with a record of 4-3 (1-2 AFC West), needed a win to remain securely in playoff contention. A loss would have dropped them into a last-place tie in a tough AFC West Division and halted all momentum heading into the second half of the season.

And thanks to another Raiders' choke job, victory is exactly what the Chiefs achieved.

Historically, the Chiefs vs. Raiders rivalry has been one of the NFL's best.

With Sunday's last second, come-from-behind 27-23 win, the Chiefs own a five-game advantage (47-42-2) in the all-time series, dating back to 1960.

The rivalry has been more one sided recently, however. The Chiefs are 25-8 overall against the Raiders since 1990. The last time the Raiders defeated Kansas City was Dec. 28, 2002, which was also the last time the Chiefs were shut out, and the Raiders reached the postseason behind former Chiefs quarterback Rich Gannon.

Since then, the Raiders have done nothing but fold under pressure.

The Chiefs have triumphed in the previous six contests, all by seven points or less.

Kansas City's last three victories against the Raiders at Arrowhead Stadium have come in overtime or the final 25 seconds of regulation.

Remember week 12 of 2003, when Oakland's Phillip Buchanon committed an inopportune unsportsmanlike penalty for ripping off his helmet with about four minutes remaining, after returning a 27-yard-deep punt in Kansas City territory?

The Raiders had to settle for a field goal to tie the game, and the Chiefs drove down the field on the ensuing possession. Chiefs quarterback Trent Green's fourth-down completion to wide receiver Marc Boerigter — who was being defended by Buchanon — set up a 27-24 win on a 41-yard field goal by 43-year-old veteran kicker Morten Andersen.

Or how about week 16 of 2004, when Oakland scored a field goal with 1:03 left to lead 30-28?

Dante Hall's 49-yard kickoff return with under a minute to go was the difference maker in this game, setting up a Lawrence Tynes game-winning 38-yard field goal with 22 seconds remaining.

Sunday was no different — a typical Raiders meltdown.

The Chiefs practically gift-wrapped the game to Oakland when they allowed Raiders quarterback Kerry Collins to hook up with much-maligned wide receiver Randy Moss for a go-ahead touchdown with 1 minute, 45 seconds remaining.

It was Moss' only catch of the day. The poised Chiefs, playing without former All-Pro cornerback Patrick Surtain, All-World running back Priest Holmes and All-Universe offensive tackle Willie Roaf, mounted another game-winning drive, thanks to a 36-yard catch and run by backup running back Larry Johnson.

With 5 seconds left in regulation, Kansas City called a running play, and Johnson dove through a gap created by linemen Will Shields and Brian Waters and tight end Jason Dunn.

The Chiefs (5-3, 2-2) won the game 27-23 and their playoff hopes are still alive, for which they should thank the woeful Raiders.

Mark Potter is a senior in public relations. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

MARK POTTER

Werner leads K-State to victory with 23 kills

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Whoever said everything is bigger in Texas might have been on to something, as the K-State volleyball team posted a big 3-1 (30-21, 25-30, 30-21, 30-17) win against Texas Tech in Lubbock, Texas.

This is a significant for the Wildcats (17-8, 8-7 Big 12) because, not only is it the second victory in their last six outings, but it is only the second Big 12 Conference team the Cats have beat both at home and on the road.

"I thought we played really well in games one and four," coach Suzie Fritz said. "I thought we played far better in those two games than we have in the last two matches."

Lately, the Wildcats have also been troubled by some uncontrollable issues off the court, so this victory should give her players some much-needed reassurance, Fritz said.

"I think it should give confidence that we could go on the road and win, especially since, historically, Lubbock hasn't been kind to us," Fritz said.

Junior outside hitter Sandy Werner stepped up again for K-State, tallying 23 kills on 46 attempts for a .370 hitting percentage. Sophomore outside hitter Rita Lilliom continued her recent offensive streak with 16 kills, and junior middle blocker Joy Hamlin wasn't far behind with 10. Sophomore setter Stacey Spiegelberg followed her normal pattern, dishing out 52 assists.

It was quality serving and the outside hitters' performance that kept K-State in the match, Fritz said.

"We served exceptionally well — probably the single reason for our success," Fritz said. "Sandy and Rita played great, and so did Joy and Megan (Kroeker), for that matter."

Game two was the one black mark

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Sandy Werner goes for a kill against Missouri's Lisa Boyd during the Wildcats' match at Ahearn Field House Oct. 26. The Wildcats played at Texas Tech Wednesday night and beat the Red Raiders, 3-1 (30-21, 25-30, 30-21, 30-17).

on the night.

Both teams attempted 43 total kills, but the difference came in the hitting percentage, with the Red Raiders (11-15, 4-11) finishing the game with a .279 percentage, compared to the Wildcats' .140. Texas Tech had five errors in game two, while K-State committed nine.

When asked what went wrong in game two, Fritz had no reply.

"Good question," Fritz said in response. "It's frustrating we can put forth such a fabulous effort in one game and not the second. The inconsistency is something this team's going to have to learn how to manage."

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

WBB | K-State inks Kincaid, Sweat

Two of the top seniors in the nation — and in the state of Kansas — have signed their National Letter of Intent to join Kansas State for the 2006-2007 women's basketball season, coach Deb Patterson announced Wednesday.

K-State signed standouts Kari Kincaid from Andover Central High School and Ashley Sweat from McPherson High School in the fall early signing period. Both played alongside current Wildcats Marlies Gipson, JoAnn Hamlin, Shalee Lehning and Danielle Zanotti on the Kansas Belles AAU squad, which won the Under-19 AAU National Championship this past summer in Orlando, Fla.

The Associated Press

NFL | Holmes placed on injured reserve, out for season

Kansas City Chiefs running back Priest Holmes will miss the rest of the season because of the lingering effects of a helmet-to-helmet hit.

Holmes, 32, a three-time Pro Bowler, was injured Oct. 30 during the Chiefs' loss at San Diego. He was placed on injured reserve Wednesday.

Injuries have caused Holmes, the Chiefs' career rushing leader, to cut short two of his last three seasons. But he has shown flashes of his old self while rushing for 451 yards and six touchdowns on 119 carries.

MLB | Palmeiro: B12 shot may have caused positive test

Rafael Palmeiro gave his first public explanation of his failed drug test Wednesday, on the eve of a congressional report on whether the former Baltimore Orioles slugger lied under oath when he denied using steroids.

In a statement released by his lawyer, Palmeiro acknowledged several facts of his case that already had been reported, including that the anabolic steroid stanozolol was found in his system in May, and that he had raised the possibility that a shot of vitamin B12 he took in April "might have been the cause."

"I have never intentionally taken steroids," Palmeiro said in the statement.

Palmeiro

CBB | Duke No. 1 in AP; Tar Heels, Jayhawks left off

Duke is back at No. 1 in The Associated Press' preseason college basketball poll while defending champion North Carolina failed to even make the Top 25.

Kansas, the preseason No. 1 last year and another regular in the poll, also was not among those teams ranked Monday.

The Blue Devils were a runaway choice for No. 1, the sixth time they have started the season atop the rankings.

North Carolina becomes the first defending national champion not to be in the preseason poll the next season since Kansas in 1988-89.

BOX | Rahman: If not Vitali, bring on Wlad

Heavyweight champion Vitali Klitschko stunned the boxing world Wednesday, announcing his retirement because of his recent knee injury.

Klitschko, 34, suffered a right knee injury while sparring last Thursday, just nine days before he was to make a long overdue mandatory defense against former champion Hasim Rahman. However, the injury forced Klitschko to postpone the match for the fourth time this year because of various injuries.

Klitschko

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Thursday, Nov. 10, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview (785)317-7713.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice. 515 Belmont, available January, no pets, laundry included. $620 plus utilities. (785)313-0462, leave message

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT Close to campus. Water and trash paid. Available October 1st. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255

120
For Rent-
Houses

A TWO-BEDROOM house. Edge of town. Pets ok. $500, available now. (785)317-7713

THREE-BEDROOM. THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

FOUR-BEDROOM. TWO bath duplex. One-half mile from campus. Washer/dryer included. Single property owner. No pets. No smoking. 1410 Houston Number Two. (785)776-9260.

FOUR-BEDROOM. TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or malone-entail@yahoo.com

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom house. $200/month, next to campus, washer/dryer. Available now. (913)579-2209.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)558-0169.

ROOMMATES, MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/month. Call (485)202-0678, Available December

ROOMMATES, MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE NEEDED. January 1 for two-bedroom house three blocks from Aggieville. Walk to campus. Rent $300. Call (913)219-7801 or (913)638-2323

SUBLEASER FOR one of four-bedrooms. University Crossing. Begins January $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/dryer furnished. (316)650-6563

150
Sublease

$365/ MONTH. University Crossing. Cable, washer/dryer, furnished. One bedroom open in two-bedroom apartment. Please call (913)909-5448

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January-August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $350/month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for spring semester. One-half block from campus. $275. All utilities paid. Call Ashley at (316)258-7768

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Great apartment in Wildcat Village. <http://www.village-rentals.com/>. $350/month plus one-third electric and water. Washer/dryer in unit. Basic cable included. Call Liz (785)456-4986

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Three blocks from campus/ four from Aggieville. Washer/dryer. $275 month plus one-half utilities. Call (785)282-5364

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300 plus one-third utilities. Available immediately. Please call (785)640-3288

ONE-BED, ONE bath. $385, cable included. Pay for gas and electric. Call (620)694-7766

ONE-BEDROOM $396, cable/ water paid. Laundry/ pool/ hot tub on site. Small pets. Quiet. Available now. (785)375-3015

ROOM AVAILABLE from January 1st. Washer/dryer. Near campus. $265/month. (620)560-3037

SUBLEASER FOR one of two-bedrooms. University Crossing. Begins January. $275/ month plus cable/ trash/ washer/ dryer/ furnished. Deposit paid. (816)728-1019

SUBLEASER NEEDED for January 1. Spacious one-bedroom, close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)664-7134

SUBLEASER NEEDED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one bathroom apartment. Near campus. $450/month plus electric. Call Caroline (785)564-1264

SUBLEASER WANTED. Spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment, two blocks from campus. $250/ month plus utilities. Contact Kelly (852)200-6842

NICE BRICK home. Washer/dryer, walk to class, porch, storage, three female roommates. $275 rent, no bills. Available January. (785)443-2229

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554

SHOUT OUT to the Women's Basketball team for pulling off that win against Emporia

SOMEBODY REMIND me. Is Sig Ep a frat or a home for the mentally handicapped?

SUPERMAN, YOU'VE more than rocked my world, you've swept me off my feet.

THIS SHOUT out goes out to Whitney for being so damn fine.

TO THE people in my sociology class. Gain knowledge and common sense and then debate with me.

TO ALL the crazy baby mama's!

TO MY good lookin' neighbor I just wanted to say hello.

YORK, YOU know that sad existence you call life... well it's sad! P.S. Wow, they printed this zrlsknyttfwrk.

032
Shout
Outs

COME SUPPORT the men of Alpha Phi Alpha for "Ebony Regn"

GOTTA LOVE my chad buddy. Thanks girl, you know you've one of my BFF's

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY to Noah and Amber

I JUST got all figured up with my buddies from Burlington!

I WANT to give a shout out to all the people on campus from the DOTTE DOTTE DOTTE!

JUST WANTED to say congrats to the sisters of APTB (Apple Pie Bake-uh). Corrie, Alegra, Ashley, Camila, Angie, Kayla KRYSTLE, HEY Lady!! hope everything works out for you like you need it cause you deserve it. Stay sweet!

LIZ HAS had hygiene problems and sucks at life

MAD LOVE to the unit. You know who y'all are. Darren, Des, Willy, C.J. Dennis, and Reese. State ya gangsta.

MEGAN, YOU suck at life and have bad hygiene problems.

NASTY NATE, I saw the girl you got on this past week and. Your life's in shambles my man!

NATTY D teachers are horrible! The Mr. G. C. is out of control!

ONCE UPON, there was 20 Shurfs copulating with ancient druids and the mythical Beast of Morgoth, while Frodo watched!

REUBIN D. Let's get this money I know you will. Too many ladies!!

RUTH, I love you with all I am

RUTH, WILL you marry me?

SHOUT OUT to all the black people on campus, and those people from the Dotte.

SHOUT OUT to dem boyz

SHOUT OUT to my homies Adrian, Craig, Anno, Big Kyle, reppin' that Dotte, blow it big then!

SHOUT OUT to the beautiful vivacious, intelligent women of BSC. Blessed sisters in Christ. Don't forget UBV is having their Harvest Time Concert.

SHOUT OUT to the BSC. Love you guys. Shout out to MCFE.

SHOUT OUT to United Black Voices and God Bless your Fall Harvest Concert.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452

NOW LEASING
Large 2 Bedroom Apts. • Cambridge Square • Sandstone • Pebblebrook
Open Saturday 10-3
537-9064
www.bulkinvestandrental.com

MONTH- MONTH Leases. Two-bedroom, $620. Three-bedroom, $620. 1510 College Ave. (785)537-2096

NICE TWO-BEDROOM, walking distance from campus. Water and trash paid. Lease starts January first or possibly sooner. (785)672-2317

THREE AND four-bedroom duplexes. Walk to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866

105
For Rent-
Apt. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

ONE-BEDROOM. WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554

THREE-BEDROOM. ONE bath, house across from campus. Modern appliances, central air, very clean. Available immediately. $350 per bedroom plus utilities. 1735 Anderson. Call KSU Foundation at (785)532-7569 or (785)532-7541.

VERY SPACIOUS three-bedroom, two bath, half duplex. Immaculate condition. All appliances included. Walk to Aggieville. $825/month. (785)565-2432

JANUARY 1. One-bedroom. $335, no pets. (785)587-0399

125
For Sale-
Houses

LAKE HOUSE, two stories, 1,700 square feet. Large deck and screened porch, sand beach, boat ramp, great view! $139,500. (785)468-3531

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1995 SKYLINE 14x52 with appliances. $9000 or best offer. (785)787-0373 in Salina

2000 SCHULT 16x80. Three-bedroom, two bath, large deck, fenced lot, #257 Riverchase. Reduced to sell. Call (785)564-0304 or (785)566-8292

HORSE LOVERS, two-bedroom mobile home, Barn and Corral, close to town. (785)537-9718

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom house. $290 plus utilities. Available immediately. (913)980-7859

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom apartment half block from campus. $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Call (785)342-1554

ROOMMATE WANTED, $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153

FEMALE ROOMMATE. No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837

FEMALE ROOMMATE. three-bedroom house for spring semester. Rent $320 plus utilities. Very nice house. (316)990-2046

NICE BRICK home. Washer/dryer, walk to class, porch, storage, three female roommates. $275 rent, no bills. Available January. (785)443-2229

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554

Advertising Design

Practicum/Newspaper MC 484

Earn class credit working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2006. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary. Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for an application. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.

Graphic Design Internship

Advertising Design — Kansas State Collegian

If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus spring 2006 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Your art department adviser's permission is required. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.

Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR MACTECHS

Student Publications Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning the first week of January 2006.

The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance.

Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmin, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server.

Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in spring semester 2006 for at least six hours at Kansas State University can be considered.

Applications are available in 113 or 115 Kedzie or online at <http://spub.ksu.edu/tech/application.html>.

Application deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, 2005. Please include your spring 2006 class schedule. Return applications to 113 Kedzie.

200
service
directory

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190, (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

THE WOMEN'S Health Group, P.A. is seeking a Certified Laboratory Technician to fill Clinic Lab Manager position. Candidate must possess excellent patient and employee relation skills, organizational skills, a positive attitude and team building skills. It is preferred that candidates have prior lab management experience. Bachelors degree a plus. Qualified candidates should submit resumes to Administrator, 1620 Charles Place, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

STUDENT NEEDING ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069

THE WOMEN'S Health Group, P.A. is seeking a Certified Laboratory Technician to fill Clinic Lab Manager position. Candidate must possess excellent patient and employee relation skills, organizational skills, a positive attitude and team building skills. It is preferred that candidates have prior lab management experience. Bachelors degree a plus. Qualified candidates should submit resumes to Administrator, 1620 Charles Place, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190, (785)232-0454.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800-$2000 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $8.50 per hour, one and one-half hours per day. 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Payntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format.

PROGRAMMER. CIVICPLUS is hiring a full-time programmer. Microsoft ASP.NET and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com

RETAIL SALES Clerk position available at McMillin's Liquor. Apply in person at 930 Hayes Drive Suite A. Must be able to work evenings and weekends.

310
Help Wanted

ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

410
Items for Sale

THREE MEAT goats for sale. (785)396-4396

WOMEN OF K-State Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email hacman72@hotmail.com

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$9.50
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.95
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.05
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.90
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103
(across from the
K-State Student Union)
Office hours are
Monday through Friday
from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
The office is open
except on holidays

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

500 transportation

530
Motorcycles

1994 NINJA 600 4-cycle, 15,000 miles. Vance and Hines pipe. $2000. firm. (785)341-6972

600 travel/ trips

Spring Break

Spring Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus.

www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LetSureTours.com (800)838-8202

SPRING BREAK- Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlessummers.com

400
open market

with the Collegian Classifieds

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
103 Kedzie 532-6555

Quiznos Sub
MMMM...TOASTY!

sudoku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

5	1	4		3
		4	6			9
9			3					5
	6	8	4
	2				8
		5	3	4
2			1			6
7				9	5
	1		6		2	9

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$9.50
each word over 20
20¢ per word

BUDDHISM | Meditation component in worship

Continued from Page 1

people call it 'it,' is everywhere. "We believe we already have it. We just need to find it inside of ourselves."

Like other religions, Buddhism varies in practice. Buddhism can be divided into three main branches: Hinayana Buddhism, which means "lesser vehicle"; Mahayana Buddhism, which means "greater vehicle"; and Mantrayana Buddhism, which originated in Tibet.

"It's like the differences between Protestantism, Catholicism and the Church of (Jesus Christ of) Latter-Day Saints," Hauck said. "Catholicism could be considered original, but we wouldn't say Catholicism is the lesser Christianity."

Buddhism is a belief system that can be practiced alone by personal meditation.

"Anybody can meditate, and you don't need a teacher, although a teacher is helpful — just a quiet place and some quiet time," Hauck said. "And also people can do Buddhist meditation techniques and still practice whatever religion they practice. We're not asking for worship, just an inward contemplation."

ANCESTRY | Author related to George Washington

Continued from Page 1

Africa. Through marriage, Hanks discovered he is distantly linked to George Washington and Tom Hanks.

Hanks has been on an "Ancestral Footsteps Tour" in which he visited several cities that his ancestors passed through.

Some of these cities include Oakland, Calif.; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Richmond, Va. His last stop was Manhattan.

Diane Dollar, Manhattan resident, was a classmate of Murt Hanks, whose death triggered Stephen Hanks' research.

"I enjoyed this thoroughly," she said. "If I had more time, I would be chasing around the country to see where my ancestors came from too."

Drew Gaschler, sophomore in business administration pre-professional, said he found the presentation intriguing including several audience links.

"I think it was most interesting when the audience said they knew some of his relatives," Gaschler said.

James Butler, Manhattan resident, said he attended the presentation with interest. Like many other people in the audience, he had a connection to the Hanks tradition.

"I was married to Murt's sister," Butler said. "I thought the presentation was very good. It's good to know where you came from to know where you're going. I thought it was enlightening to hear about the family."

FRANCE | International students feel effects of rioting, social unrest

Continued from Page 1

"Much of Islam does not integrate. It tends to isolate itself," Herspring said.

He speculated that a policy shift toward a more anti-immigration stance could pose problems for the integration plans of the European Union, an organization which France helped found.

For some French citizens attending K-State, the complexity of the problem is nothing new.

Angelique Courbou, Spanish instructor and coordinator, is a French citizen.

"The problem has been here for a long time. We've always been saying it was going to go up at some point," Courbou said. "I never expected that it would go up to that extent."

Although Courbou's hometown of Châlons-en-Champagne has been spared from the violence, she has family in Nice, where the British Broadcasting Corporation reports said there have been violent attacks.

"Right now they have curfew. I hope it's going to help," Courbou said. "I'm not sure it will. Honestly, I don't know what they can do. I know they need to do something but I don't know what."

Claire Nodot, a graduate student from the French city of Orleans, said she has had to deal with the recent violence as well.

"They are very confused between their French identities and what they think is their homeland," said Nodot, who taught English in some of the suburbs now affected by the riots.

As the violence subsides, both Nodot and Courbou said they agree that long-term solutions are needed.

"Sometimes social chaos can bring dialogue," Nodot said. "It might be a way to find a solution."

SWITCH | Political affiliation can be changeable

Continued from Page 1

the candidate with the 2006 State Attorney General campaign, Morrison said.

"I do so because I am most comfortable running as a Democrat," Morrison said. "Because I sense their strong commitment to safety, security and the rule of law. But whether you are a Democrat, a Republican or a proud Independent, you have my assurances: You're a Kansan in my eyes."

Switching political parties is not uncommon, at least when it boils down to heavily Democrat- or Republican-centered states, said Joseph Aistrup, associate professor and head of the Department of Political Science.

"In the South, for example, it was pretty common that more conservative Democrats would change their party and run as Republicans. That's what you're seeing happening here," Aistrup said. "There are a number of people who are not particularly enamored in the way Kline has ran his office — those aren't just Democrats but moderate Republicans are the same way."

In 2002, Gov. Kathleen Sebelius and Lt. Gov. John Moore earned 53 percent of the popular vote, with Moore who changed his political party to run with Sebelius in the election.

With the Kansas Republican domination, the Democratic party has to take more opportunities to work with, not against the Republican party, Aistrup said. By next year, he said the strength of the Sebelius-Moore is imperative to the success of Morrison's campaign.

"For him, he's counting on the Kansas voting public to retract from Phill Kline," Aistrup said. "Not that voters will be attracted to him, or unattracted to him. He's just trying to take advantage of that on the other ticket."

Other area residents, however, say Morrison's affiliation is weak in terms of his political representation.

"If he were such a strong candidate, then he shouldn't have to change his political party just for the chance of winning," said Matthew Vincent, Manhattan resident who said he considers himself to be Independent. "But now, I am just going to focus on what Kline and Morrison have to offer — that's all that I can do."

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

For more information visit the website at: <http://www.ksu.edu/osas/legal.htm>

Students' Attorney:

SARAH BARR
785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours

Monday - Friday
9:00 - 11:00 am & 1:00 - 3:00 pm

Other appointments available upon request

advertise
in the Style guide
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN 532-6560

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
PIZZA
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

To advertise on kstatecollegian.com
Call 785-532-6560

Ben Franklin Crafts and Frame Shop
HOLIDAY OPEN HOUSE
Friday 11th - Sunday 13th
Holiday greenery, swags, candle rings and trees.
Also a large selection of candles.
Great Specials
Selected Holiday Trees
Up To 50% Off
FREE Make-It-Take-Its
Sat. & Sun. Schedule Posted In Store
Register for FREE
Framed Drawings and Matted Christmas Prints
Draw a number for Great Discounts.
1 customer will receive their purchase Absolutely Free!
(Value up to $50)
Not Good w/any other offers
Mon-Fri 9-8
Sat 9-7 Sun 1-6
Westloop Shopping Center • Manhattan 785-776-4910

RC McGraws
Manhattan's #1 Premier Country Night Club
Best Tacos in Town:
59¢ (hard or soft)
$1.50 Coors Light Pints
Thursday is Karaoke Night!
Prizes for ALL Singers!
$1.99 Margaritas
2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd. • 776-9588
In the Blue Hills Shopping Center

hungry? check out the Menu Guide
Campus Phone Book
Mon-Fri 8 a.m. - 6 p.m.

Bluemont Thanksgiving Buffet
Monday, November 21 • 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
$7.95 (includes tax)
Cash and Credit Card only
Salads
Tossed Salad—Ranch, Italian
Cranberry Orange Salad
Spinach Salad with Shallot Vinaigrette
Creamy Dill Pasta Salad
Vegetables
Homestyle Green Bean Casserole
Squash
Meats
Carved Roast Turkey with Cranberry Sauce
Roast Pork Loin with Maple Glaze
Starches
Mashed Potatoes with Turkey Gravy
Candied Yams
Breads
Traditional Stuffing
Assorted Dinner Rolls
Dessert
Assorted Gourmet Desserts
For Reservations call 532-6068
Bluemont Room • 2nd floor • K-State Student Union

Shakin' Up Turkey Day!
Try our specialty coffees
Shake it up with a Pumpkin Custard Pie
Shake Cakes are here!
104¢ special every Monday
$1.04 cups and cones
10% OFF WITH K-STATE ID
$1 OFF WITH THIS AD
5th & Ft. Riley Blvd.

LONGHORNS SALOON
Agassville Manhattan
LIVE TONIGHT
TICKETS ONLY $5
TREVOR BURGESS & PETE GILE

Indian Student Association Presents
UTSAV 2005
"The India Nite"
On Saturday, November 12th, 2005
Cultural Program 1:30 pm (Forum Hall)
Exhibition 4:30 pm (Union Courtyard)
Indian Dinner 5:30 pm (Durland Atrium)
Live Music Concert 8:30 pm (All Faiths Chapel)
"Entrance Free"
Dinner Tickets Will Be Sold
At K-State Student Union (in front of food court) or email isa@ksu.edu for tickets
Date: Nov. 10th
Time: 11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.
Dinner Tickets: Members $4, Non-Members $9
Advertising Sponsored by: SGA
Indian Student Association
Web: <http://www.ksu.edu/isa> Email: isa@ksu.edu
Flyer designed by Sudha Piplaiti & Pavan Nayini

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Friday, November 11, 2005

INSIDE

Shoe styles change with the season

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

3 No. 60

Al-Qaeda's hotel bombings draw protest, criticism

By Christina Hansen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Three suicide bombings in Jordan's capital city Wednesday have strengthened its citizens' resolve to fight terrorism and drawn the condemnation of nations across the globe.

Terrorists attacked three western hotels in downtown Amman early Wednesday morning.

Suicide bombers detonated explosive devices at the Grand Hyatt, Radisson and Days Inn hotels, killing at least 56 people and injuring more than 100.

According to the Associated Press, Islamist militant Abu Musab al-Zarqawi's terrorist organization al-Qaeda claimed responsibility for the bombings in a Web site posting Thursday, sparking a protest of hundreds of citizens in Amman.

"Al-Qaeda was probably hoping these attacks would encourage Jordan's citizens to oppose their government's housing of western citizens and tourists," said Stephen Long, instructor of political science. "But it has actually had the opposite effect. Jordanian citizens are in the streets demonstrating against the attacks and al-Qaeda."

Government offices, schools and other businesses were closed Thursday in Jordan as citizens mourned the victims of the attacks, and government officials planned their next course of action.

In a televised address, Jordan's King Abdullah II ibn al-Hussein promised citizens the terrorists responsible for the attacks would not go unpunished.

"We pledge to everyone that we will track down the criminals and those who stand behind them and get to them wherever they are and flush them out of their holes and bring them to justice," he said.

President Bush also condemned the attacks Thursday during a White House meeting with President Ali Abdullah Saleh of Yemen.

"The killings should remind all of us that there is an enemy in this world that is willing to kill innocent people, willing to bomb a wedding celebration in order to advance their cause," he told the Associated Press.

Al-Qaeda's Internet posting said the suicide bombing attacks were carried out in the name of Islam, a claim which Ebrahim Merza, graduate student in economics and a member of the Muslim Student Association, said is untrue and upsetting.

"These men have no hearts, no families, no feelings," he said. "They are killing innocent people — it's a crime against humanity."

Merza said the only way world nations can successfully combat terrorism is to work together to find a common solution.

"Even before Sept. 11, terrorism was a problem," he said. "The terrorists still have money and they still have equipment."

All countries, not just Muslim countries, must unite to stop these attacks.

Student parents

K-State seniors balance school, work, wedding plans, time with 3-month-old son

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Monday and Thursday nights are Bruce Boos and Jackie Vondenkamp's favorite nights of the week.

That's because they get to spend time together as a family with their 3-month-old son, Ethan.

Boos, senior in marketing, and Vondenkamp, senior in mass communications, are full-time students working toward graduation in May 2006. They also are planning their wedding for May 6 — the weekend before graduation.

"Mondays and Thursdays we try to cook a meal and eat as a family," Boos said. "That is pretty important to us."

On days they don't have time together, Boos said balancing schedules can be a challenge.

"We do really well communicating and arranging our schedules differently," he said. "The hardest thing of all of this is not getting down on each other and not fighting with each other because we are always stressed out."

Boos said sometimes it is difficult to fit in time for doing homework or studying for a test.

"A lot of times if we have group meetings or something, I ask everyone to come to my place or we will try to do it on Monday or Thursday," he said.

THE COST OF A BABY

Boos and Vondenkamp receive women, infants and children vouchers for formula, eggs, milk, juice, beans and cheese.

"It helps out with the groceries and keeps Jackie healthy when she breast feeds," Boos said.

Most of Ethan's toys, clothes and furniture are gifts from family and friends, Vondenkamp said.

"They have been really generous and we couldn't have done it without them," she said.

See FAMILY Page 12

Above: Jackie Vondenkamp, senior in mass communications, and Bruce Boos, senior in marketing, try to get their son Ethan, 3 months, to smile. The family enjoyed time together on one of the few nights they were all home.

Left: Bruce Boos, senior in marketing, plays games like patty-cake and peek-a-boo to entertain his son Ethan, 3 months. Ethan's nursery was decorated with Winnie-the-Pooh products.

Photos by Joslyn Brown
COLLEGIAN

New program could reduce security delays

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

WICHITA — For those who are tired of airport security checks, the wait just might get shorter.

The Transportation Security Administration plans to establish a "Registered Traveler" program available nationwide by June 2006, TSA director Kip Hawley said in recent testimony to Congress.

After successful testing of the program in five major airports, Hawley said Registered Traveler will allow people to avoid random pat-down security checks if they pay an estimated $80 fee, clear a background check and provide biometric identification — like a fingerprint and iris scan — for government clearance.

Hawley said registered travelers, just like other airplane travelers, will be required to go through traditional metal detector scans and other minor security checks.

"We believe that a nationwide Registered Traveler program can provide expedited screening for many travelers and enhance

See SECURITY Page 12

Cheerleader competes for $2,000

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A K-State cheerleader is vying for votes in an online spirit contest.

Kelli Lair, sophomore in pre-professional secondary education, is in second place in Round 4 of the 2005 Samsung Sideline Spirit Contest, an online competition between representatives from six of the nation's Division I athletic conferences.

From Nov. 6 until Nov. 27, the polls will be open to vote for Lair or one of her five competitors. People can vote one time per day.

Al Enlow, cheerleading coach, said Athlon Sports contacted the university to arrange for a K-State woman to represent the Big 12 in the fourth round of the contest.

He said Athlon Sports asked each candidate to submit photographs to be put on its Web site. The public then has three weeks to vote for its favorite representative.

"I did it thinking, 'What is there to lose?'" Lair said.

The winner of each of four preliminary rounds moves on to the final round. Prizes include $2,000 and a photo shoot to be put in Athlon Sports' 2006 Football Annual.

Enlow said about seven women from the cheerleading squad submitted photographs

Lair
CHEERLEADER

See CONTEST Page 12

Today

High 76
Low 56

Saturday

High 75
Low 42

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Cameras in court

Supreme Court justices said Thursday that troubling memories of O.J. Simpson's televised murder trial a decade ago hang over the present-day debate about cameras in court, including the highest court. Although Supreme Court justices have opposed courtroom cameras, Congress wants to open proceedings to cameras.

Iraq bombings

Forty-two people were killed by bombs Thursday at a Baghdad restaurant. A suicide bomber blew himself up in a restaurant about 9:45 a.m. in the deadliest bombing since Sept. 19, Police Maj. Fahad al-Mohammedawi said 35 officers and civilians died and 25 were wounded in this bombing.

Oil vote on hold

House leaders put off plans Thursday to vote on the budget-cutting package on oil drilling in Alaska because of opposition to issues unrelated to the Alaska refuge, deep cuts in Medicaid, food stamps and student loans. Geologists believe 10.4 billion barrels of oil are in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

DON'T FORGET

Students with 16 or more credit hours are eligible to enroll today.

The rowing Sunflower Showdown begins at 8 a.m. Saturday at Tuttle Creek Reservoir.

A self-defense class will be from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday in the K, S and U Ballrooms in the K-State Student Union.

Xtreme tanning
Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!
1122 Laramie 539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Twangy
6 — de deux
9 Performance
12 Farewell
13 Comedian
Philips
14 Born
15 Anjou and Bosc
16 It's said to be golden 18 Norman Bates's alter ego
20 Destroy
21 Grand —
N.S.
23 Ready to go 24 Series of tennis shots
25 Facility
27 Velcro forerunner
29 Coal-tar chemical 31 Christmas carol opener
35 React to a pun
37 Laugh-a-minute type 38 Extem-porize

DOWN

1 Siesta
41 Ray's longtime partner
43 Pantheon member 44 Boxer
Barkley
45 Infraction
47 Husky's home?
49 Terra —
52 Writer
53 Throw into the mix
54 Anne or Calvin
55 Screw up
56 Itsy-bitsy
57 How one says
"alas"

Solution time: 25 mins.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER 11-11

1 SWAB 2 FIG 3 SPED
4 CITY 5 ETA 6 ILLIE
7 APOE 8 EON 9 DARE
10 REMAND 11 GREYER
12 SOB 13 CON
14 ODDS 15 ALMANACS
16 FOR 17 GEO 18 CUE
19 TEACAKES 20 OKRA
21 WOW 22 SMU
23 SOBBLE 24 BETRAY
25 IRAN 26 LEA 27 BILLE
28 TACT 29 LAC 30 IDOL
31 ELKS 32 ARK 33 DEEP

11-11 CRYPTOQUIP

MC GBL UKDDHIHS YB AH
YUHTH VUHI EBQHBHTE
THKFFG QKS, VBLEFS GBL
AH MI YUH FMIH BC MTHS
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHEN A CARTOONIST
GIVES A CHARACTER WAY TOO MANY DETAILS
ONE MIGHT CALL IT OVERDRAWN.
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: G equals Y

BEST BETS

Your guide to the weekend's entertainment

1 | Rock Shows

Pendergast and Sleepyhead will be performing at 10 tonight at Auntie Mae's Parlor. Cover charge is $5 for ages 21 and over. Emma's Mine with Lojic and Darlin' at Sea will perform at P.J.'s Bar for Emma's Mine compact disc release at 10 p.m. Cover charge is $3 for ages 18 to 21 and $5 for 21 and over. Call Auntie Mae's at 539-8508 or P.J.'s at 539-7055 for more information.

2 | Military Appreciation Day

Admission is free for everyone from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today at the Sunset Zoological Park in honor of our armed forces, and all they do for our country. Call 587-2737 for more information about the event.

3 | After Hours

Grocery Bingo is from 7 to 11 tonight in the K-State Student Union Courtyard. Students can play bingo for a chance to win groceries and larger prizes, such as a portable DVD player, microwave and refrigerator. Free chili dogs will be served at Union Station at 9:30 p.m. Call the Union Program Council at 532-6571 or e-mail at upc@ksu.edu.

5 | Singin' in the Rain

The 1952 classic love story, "Singin' in the Rain," is playing all weekend in the Union Little Theatre. Show times are 8 tonight, 7 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and 8 p.m. Sunday. Cost is $1 and runtime is 103 minutes. Call 532-6571 or e-mail at upc@ksu.edu.

4 | Protect Yourself

Avoid becoming the victim of a violent crime by learning easy and effective self-defense techniques. The event takes place from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday in the K, S and U Ballrooms, 2nd floor of the K-State Union. Suggested donation to The Ali Kemp Educational Foundation. Space is limited, so e-mail dmanhart@ksu.edu to reserve a spot. It is for women only please. Call 532-6571 or e-mail at upc@ksu.edu.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Nov. 9

- Chad Lemon, 3000 Tuttle Creek Blvd., Lot 199, was arrested at 1:44 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Thomas Oldfather, 1121 Claflin Road, was arrested at 5:12 p.m. for unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia.
- Oshwane Pryor, 2046 Collegeview Road, was arrested at 6 p.m. for unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $500.
- Lashawn Spiller, 509 S. 15th St., was arrested at 6 p.m. for unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $2,500.
- Jeffrey Currie, 2306 Willow Lane, was arrested at 8 p.m. for failure to appear and probation violation. Bond was set at $4,250.
- Anthony Moss, 3000 Tuttle Creek Blvd., Lot 521, was arrested at 11 p.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.

Thursday, Nov. 10

- Michael Davis, 1015 Humboldt St., was arrested at 1:55 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A library basics for science and technology class will be from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. today at Hale Library's reception desk.
- An effective web searching class will be from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. today in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kristin Simons at 4:00 a.m. today in Throckmorton 4031.

Corrections and clarifications

The Madonna CD Release party is for all ages at SOS Music, 1214 C Moro St., instead of 21 and over, as was stated in Thursday's Collegian. The address for Auntie Mae's Parlor is 616 N. 12th St. The Collegian regrets the errors.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

Friday
$1.00 Burgers
$1.00 Fries
$1.00 PBR
$2.50 High Life Bottles

Joe's Tap Room 776-3593
1127 Moro

Saturday
2 pm Chili Cook-off
•See bar to sign up
•Cash & Prizes
•Free chili tasting

CAN YOU BELIEVE IT?
2 GREAT SPECIALS
1 GREAT PRICE

$60 COLOR AND HAIRCUT OR STYLING

*with Jess, Heather, & Nichole
*additional costs may be included on additional colors
*call for details

GALLERY
Glenn Theodore
FOR HAIR

3266 Kimball • Candlewood • 776-5632

NO CONTRACTS
NO CREDIT CHECK
NO DEPOSIT

For the Best Prepay Plans on the Planet

Kansas Wireless

MANHATTAN
305 Fort Riley Blvd
785.565.9219

JUNCTION CITY
7th & Washington
785.238.4020

clip & save
FREE Faceplate
When you sign up for Prepaid Service
Expires 12/31/05

Phones Start At $19.95

go one better
CELLULARONE

Every Weekend!
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.

We Drive. You Ride. Every Weekend.

Call:

539-0480

A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association

KANSAS STATE
2005-06 ROWING

Sunflower Showdown

vs. Kansas

Saturday, Nov. 12 - 8am

Tuttle Creek Reservoir

Free to the public

In case of inclement weather, check k-statesports.com

Tithes support ministries, underprivileged

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Some students don't keep all they earn, but instead donate a portion of it — a tithe — to churches or ministries.

A tithe is "a 10th part of one's annual income contributed voluntarily or due as a tax, especially for the support of the clergy or church," according to The American Heritage College Dictionary.

Ali Brown, senior in English education, said she tithes through Compassion International. With $28 a month, she supports 5-year-old Yesenia Fernandez by providing funds for food and education.

"I've been blessed," she said. "My money and my stuff I want to use for God because it's his stuff."

The Bible mandates tithing in the Old Testament, but the commandment is superseded by Jesus' fulfillment of the law in the New Testament, said Steve Ratliff, senior pastor at Faith Evangelical Free Church.

"We encourage people to tithe, but it's not like a law," he said. Modern-day tithes are used to support the church, just as tithes in biblical days supported the priests.

Budgets at both FEFC and Grace Baptist Church are covered by offerings.

Weekly offerings of between $8,000 and $18,000 sustain the $500,000 annual budget at Grace Baptist, April Bockus, Grace Baptist financial secretary, said.

"Our budget is covered by the giving," she said.

Ratliff said weekly offerings at FEFC average $11,000, which now covers expenses, but not the entire budget.

Neither church pushes strongly for tithes. Ratliff said he preaches on tithing when it falls within a book on the Bible on which he is preaching or within a series.

"We have a very low-key approach to giving and we've been discussing if it needs to be more emphasized," he said.

Giving is a part of the Christian life, Ratliff said, along with praying, worshipping and reading the Bible.

Ratliff said since a lot of college students receive funds from their parents and don't earn their own money, theirs is a different situation.

He said FEFC encourages proportional and sacrificial giving based on income, but 10 percent is a good guideline.

"We would encourage students to start giving," he said. "If you start now, chances are you'll continue for a lifetime."

About 600 people attend Grace Baptist weekly, Bockus said, including 150-200 college students.

At FEFC, between 500 and 550 people attend Sunday services, including about 100 college students, Ratliff said.

Ratliff said tithing is important not only to fund churches' ministries, but also as an expression of the giver's love and devotion to God.

"I don't want my heart to be gripped by material things but remember what really matters in the world," Brown said.

Senate delays band decision

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Student Senate sent the K-State Marching Band privilege fee bill back to committee Thursday night.

Matt Wagner, chairman of the privilege fee committee, recommended the Senate send it back.

The Senate then voted unanimously to do so.

Wagner said the reason was that discrepancies were found and needed to be reviewed.

He also said he expected the revised bill to be finished with his committee Monday night and ready for a vote at the next meeting on Nov. 17.

Allocated money

Campus Crusade for Christ: $1,000 to attend regional conference in Denver, Co.

Chinese Students and Scholars Association: $605 for Spring Festival

Theta Alpha Phi: $1,000 to attend American College Theatre Festival at the University of Minnesota to pay for rising operating costs. He said he expected no change in funding.

"We'll take anything we can get," Tracz said.

The Senate also approved allocations for three campus organizations totaling $2,605.

The senate voted to remove three words from the University Honor System's constitution.

The change requires students and faculty to report all transgressions of academic dishonesty whenever an academic sanction is imposed or a hearing and investigation are requested.

Students for Clean Air Manhattan use shoes to represent deaths

By Megan Green
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Four-hundred pairs of shoes in the shape of the number 400 represented the 400 people who die annually from second-hand smoke.

In Bosco Student Plaza on Thursday, Students for Clean Air Manhattan set up the display in support of the Clean Air Manhattan Campaign.

SCAM is campaigning with CAM for smoke-free workplaces in Manhattan.

"Next week, organizations will go to the Manhattan City Commission to get smoke-free places all over," said Briana Engelken, junior in marketing and event coordinator.

The group had sign-up sheets next to the shoe display to support smoke-free places for students and Manhattan residents.

People were encouraged to sign and support the idea of smoke-free Manhattan workplaces.

The sheets were not petitions, but will give the City Commission a better idea of how many people support smoke-free workplaces.

"I want to be able to go out and not have smoke in my face and not have to wash my clothes after going to the bars

For more information

For more information on the campaign, visit SCAM's Web site, www.cleanairmanhattan.org.

because of smoke," Engelken said. "It's also a public health issue."

She said, according to the American Legacy Foundation, tobacco kills more Americans than AIDS, drugs, homicides, fires and auto accidents combined.

About 10 Kansans die per day from secondhand smoke, she said.

"We've had so much support," Engelken said, "more support than not — lots of students, Riley County and Manhattan residents."

A majority of Manhattan residents are non-smokers."

Tate Betz, fifth year in architectural engineering, said the display presented its message well.

"I am not a smoker, but overall I see the project as a positive thing," he said.

Cathy Harnes, director of human resources at city hall, said no Manhattan ordinance prohibits smoking in restaurants.

Individual businesses make the decision.

Manhattan's only smoking policy prohibits smoking in city

"I want to be able to go out and not have smoke in my face and not have to wash my clothes after going to the bars because of smoke. It's also a public health issue."

Briana Engelken
JUNIOR IN MARKETING

buildings and vehicles.

If the ordinance SCAM supports is passed, businesses will no longer have a say in whether people can smoke in the workplaces.

Smoker Steven Zeier, graduate student in regional and community planning, said the campaign was a good idea.

He said he has been places where the smoke bothers him.

"I try not to smoke around people," he said. "I realize it's a concern among people. It's a good idea for Manhattan as a whole."

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

As part of a display about secondhand smoke by the Students for Clean Air Manhattan, Marcia Locke, public relations and outreach coordinator for the Center for Basic Cancer Research at K-State, stacks pairs of shoes into a pile Thursday morning in the Bosco Student Plaza. The display used 400 pairs of shoes to represent the about 400 Kansans who die annually due to secondhand smoke related illnesses.

Religion Directory

ADVERTISE YOUR CHURCH HERE
CALL 532-6560

Westview Community Church
Serving God, reaching people

Worship services 9:00 a.m.
10:45 a.m.
Sunday school 9:00 a.m.

Campus ministry director
Carol Buchheister - cybuch@juno.com

3001 Fort Riley Boulevard
www.westviewcommunity.com
785-537-7173

NEW HOPE community church
Pursuing relationships that change the world

WORSHIP SERVICE
10:00 AM

Small groups for men, women & married couples. College and Family Ministries.
www.newhopeks.org

Location: KSU Student Union
537-2389

First United Methodist Church
Worship at 8:30, 8:45 and 11:00

Come at 8:30 and 11:00 for more traditional worship with choirs and organ in our beautiful sanctuary.

Come at 8:45 for a BLENDED worship in our auditorium. Free doughnuts. 45 minutes long. Great band. COME AS YOU ARE!

Come at 9:45 for Sunday School in the auditorium. A special class for college students, relating the Bible to YOUR life.

JUST COME.

612 Poyntz, Manhattan Kansas
CAMPUS MINISTRY: Check out the website: ksu.edu/umcm

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan

481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth.
Day care for toddlers.
A Welcoming Congregation.
For information call (785) 537-2349
Rev. Michael Nelson
www.uufm.net

First Presbyterian Church

9:15 a.m. Worship Service
9:15 a.m. Sunday School
10:30 a.m. Worship Service
5:00 p.m. Contemporary Service
6:00 p.m. Dinner for College Students

Rev. Anne Scheiber, Assoc. Pastor
Rev. R.C. McConnell, Pastor
801 Leavenworth • 537-0518
www.firstpresmanhattan.com

CrossRoads
1021 Denison Avenue
539-4281
www.kscrossroads.org
David Jones, Pastor

Sundays 5:30pm
Table Fellowship (free food!)
Wednesdays 5:00pm
Bible Study
Thursdays 6:30pm
Fantasy and Spirituality

Explore • Discover • Belong • Serve

St. Francis Episcopal Campus Ministry
at Kansas State University

Sunday worship at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Sixth & Poyntz, Manhattan
785-776-9427

11:30 a.m. Contemporary Service (followed by lunch for KSU students)

Monday, 9:30 pm. Supper & Conversation at St. Francis' Canterbury House, 1823 Lansme St.
Drew Vining, Program Coordinator, 341-3021

Celebration Service
CONTEMPORARY WORSHIP SERVICE
For Everyone! All ages and all people who want to worship God. Sundays at 5 p.m.
Fellowship Meal at 6 for College Students

First Presbyterian Church
801 Leavenworth
Manhattan, KS 66502
785-537-0518
Pastor: R.C. McConnell
Associate Pastor: Anne Scheiber
Email: staff@firstpresmanhattan.com
www.firstpresmanhattan.com

"Sing to the Lord a new song, his praise from the ends of the earth..."
Psalm 82:10

You are welcome at...
FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD

For College Students
Christian Alpha
www.ksuchialpha.com

Wednesday 8:00 p.m. (KSU Little Theater)
Pastor Bryan Elliott

Sunday Services
Sunday School 9:00 a.m.
Morning Worship 10:15 a.m.
Evening Worship 6:00 p.m.

Nursery Provided for All Services

Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS 66503
(785) 537-7633 www.manhattanag.org

Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church
Established in 1879

401 Yuma Street
(1 Bl. North of 11 Hwy Blvd. at 4th Street)
Reverend Penny Pitchford
Pastor

(785) 539-9992 Kansas • (785) 421-4974 Poyntz
Sunday School 9:30 AM
Bible Study 10:30 AM
Worship Service 11:00 AM

"Enter To Worship, Depart To Serve"

Christian Science Society

Sunday 10:30 a.m.
Danforth Chapel
KSU Campus

Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room
Reading Room open Tues.-Thurs. 11-1
105 N. 4th St.

St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center

MASS SCHEDULE
Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m.
Friday 12:10 p.m.
Saturday 5 p.m.
Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m.
Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m.
Father Keith Weber, Chaplain
711 Denison 539-7496

Grace Baptist Church

2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child

◆ Sunday Worship ◆
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.
Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.
776-0424
www.gracechurch.org

St. Luke's Lutheran Church
330 Sunset Avenue

Saturday-
Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.
Sunday-
Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
Email: stlukes@flinthills.com
(785) 539-2604

Faith Evangelical Free Church

• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 10:40, 12:00
• Sunday School at 9:15

Steve Koff, Pastor
Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor

1921 Barnes Rd
1.6 Miles North of Kimball
776-2086

All Welcome to Worship!
Sunday Evening 7p.m. Danforth Chapel

New on Thursday Oct. 20
6p.m. Meal & Dialog at Luther House
1745 Anderson
SE Corner of Denison & Anderson

Nov. 5-Walk Konza Trails

ELCA #1
313-3895 LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY

Come Worship With Us

1st Church of the Nazarene
3031 Kimball Ave.

9:30 Sunday School
10:40 Sunday Worship
7:00 Wed. Bible Study, Teens

Youth & College ministry opportunities
Senior Pastor: Pat Weyrauch
539-6376

GERMAN MENNONITE MEAL, INTERNATIONAL CRAFT & BAKE SALE

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 2005
NOON - 6:00 PM
POTTORF HALL - CICO PARK

— INTERNATIONAL CRAFTS —
FINE HAND-CRAFTED BASKETS, BRASS, WOOD, NATIVITY SETS, JEWELRY, HOLIDAY DECORATIONS, AND MORE (MENNONITE CENTRAL COMMITTEE - TEN THOUSAND VILLAGES)

— DINNER —
BORSCHT (CHICKEN & VEGETABLE SOUP - NO BEETS!), HOMEMADE BREAD, WHOLE HOG SAUSAGE, NEW YEAR'S COOKIE.

ONE DOLLAR FROM EVERY TICKET WILL BENEFIT SHEPHERD'S CROSSING

Adults $8.00 Children under 12 $4.50
Sponsored by the Manhattan Mennonite Church 539-4079

TO THE POINT New security program should be monitored

A Transportation Security Administration official recently testified in front of a Senate subcommittee about the new "Registered Traveler" program.

This program will allow travelers to pay an $80 fee for the luxury of quicker and more lenient security checks and U.S. airports.

As part of the program, travelers will pay the fee, have to clear an extensive background check and provide biometric data as proof of identity. These people will also be exempt from the random screenings so many of us have come to enjoy as a part of our traveling experience.

They will still have to walk through metal detectors and have carry-on baggage screened the same as anyone else.

Since Sept. 11, traveling at U.S. airports usually means long security lines, requiring passengers to arrive long before their flight is scheduled to depart.

The TSA is on the right track in implementing this program. However, there is also a need for added vigilance.

It is the responsibility of the TSA to have a process which recertifies the security of each person within the program.

We will all rejoice when air travel no longer requires question-asking officials sifting through personal belongings.

Right now, airlines are struggling to remain afloat and people are, at the least, nervous about flying. The program has the opportunity to breathe fresh air into a fledgling industry by decreasing time spent dealing with security.

As long as adequate safeguards assure those in the program are not risks, the TSA should expand the program.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

France fries

Racism, poverty, intolerance fuel fires behind French rioting

Rioting in the streets of Paris and other French cities has raised many concerns about the issues and discontentment that the youthful rioters are expressing.

Triggered at the end of October with the accidental electrocution of two North African teenagers who thought they were being chased by the police, the French have faced riots that are exposing the underlying issues and structural problems that have fueled this explosive violence.

France has the largest Muslim population in Europe, with immigrants coming from African and Arab countries, many from the old colonies of France. These people are faced with high unemployment and the prospect of living in inferior housing complexes, as well as facing racism and intolerance within society.

Adjusting between the diverse cultures that are being combined is a hard and imperfect task, and the extreme poverty and lack of opportunities to build a better standard of living and different way of life has resulted in the restlessness of many French-born children of immigrants.

As the government implements curfews and deploys increasing numbers of police to quell the rioters, the problem behind the anger needs to be addressed to correct the cracks that have bred these problems. Simply calming the streets and stopping destruction will not have lasting results or solutions.

Poverty is a powerful issue that has enormous impacts on people's lives. Fighting to scrounge enough money for food, housing and clothing leaves little time for anything else, including education that can lead to new opportunities and a better existence. Many struggling people move into the worsening suburbs because there is nowhere else they can afford to go.

RACHEL THOMPSON

Conditions of the neighborhoods are deteriorating and getting public services is increasingly problematic for those living in these crime-stricken suburbs. The city's service people, like utility workers and firefighters, have refused to enter the worst parts of the suburbs because they fear the violence of the gangs.

Racism and intolerance is a hard issue to solve because of its complexity. Injustice is a serious concern. While many may think these riots are originating from fundamentalist Islamic groups because the majority of rioters are Muslim, they are mistaken.

There is a high concentration of Muslims in these suburbs but it is the social and economic situation as well as racism that have fueled the violence, not the religious background of the individuals, which is merely a coincidence.

The people surviving in the decrepit suburbs just want the chance to live a better life while getting a better education, having nicer places to live, and having an opportunity to work. A reduction of the disrespect and racism directed at their culture and religion is another cause.

The riots in the broken-down suburbs of French cities is not a mindless display of violence; it is a call for attention, a cry for society to make some much needed changes that will make lives better for those that suffer to survive.

These people just want to have better lives.

Rachel Thompson is a sophomore in anthropology and international studies. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

Illustrations by Eric Thompson | COLLEGIAN

Holiday season a time for helping out

We can all put away the fishnets and Napoleon Dynamite wigs; Halloween is over. And we've finally gotten our mid-term grades back (yikes, at least we still have almost half a semester to fix that). All this means just one thing: the holidays are just around the corner.

I love the anticipation of the holidays. There's enough good food to make you sick, Christmas lights, and my favorite, Black Friday. What more could a person want?

While I'm getting more spirited by the day, I'm left wondering how the holidays could possibly make so many people around me want to go missing in action until January. After I put a little thought into it, it started to make a little sense. I don't really do any of the cooking — or grocery shopping for that matter.

ADDIE LAUE

I don't plan whose family will be where, and it's not my responsibility to fill any stockings. I do shop for Christmas presents for my family and friends, but I could hardly call that a chore for me.

Maybe it seems like so much fun to me because all I do is show up and eat what's been cooked and open what's been wrapped. Besides the stress of planning, cooking and shopping, and of course paying for it all, there is family at the holidays. Sometimes big families in small places. At my house the sound of the Christmas music usually gets drowned out by crashing, screaming and thudding on the walls.

No, my family is not likely to be on an episode of Cops. My house is full of little cousins, nieces and nephews, all of whom have not gotten much sleep in the last two days and who have usually eaten at least one giant chocolate Santa and too many Christmas cookies to count.

All the adults in the house want for all their hard work is to have one conversation with each other that is not interrupted by something crashing followed by someone wailing or to scramble to find batteries for one more beeping, music-playing toy.

While I do usually chip in on washing the dinner dishes, I'm beginning to see how that doesn't quite cut it. I am 22 now, and there is no reason why I shouldn't be more helpful than I have been.

I enjoy having a good conversation with my family as much as anyone, but I think it's fair that for all that has been done to make my holiday perfect, I spend some time entertaining the kids with a football game or snowman-building outside.

I could grocery shop for my mom to give her a little extra time. I am even looking forward to helping with the cooking, as long as I'm more help than trouble.

Kids are supposed to enjoy the holidays, but as I've gotten older, my holiday spirit has gotten a little off balance. After all, it is the season of giving, and I want to give back to my family just a little of the joy they've worked so hard to give me over the years.

Addie Laue is a junior in mass communications. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@spub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
--	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Is it my degree from KU? Because why am I the first one to speak up about the disturbing "FOR SALE: three meat goats" classified that's been running in the Collegian all week?

50 cent was formally known as One Dollar until Mr. T pitied that fool.

When Chuck Norris plays Oregon Trail his family does not die from cholera or dysentery, but rather roundhouse kicks to the face. He also requires no wagon, since he carries the oxen, axles and buffalo meat on his back. He always makes it to Oregon before you.

No, you guys don't understand. I really got to pee.

I never thought the day would come when none of the 16,000 songs on my computer sound good, but at least they sound better than what's coming from next door.

Have you ever had the new Cheez-It Fiesta Cheesy Taco flavored crackers? It's like an entire campus party and only my mouth is invited.

Is it sad that I can't tell you what my Geology teacher talked about for an hour, but I can fill you in on every detail if you missed the Fourum today? Yes.

To my future husband: Please propose via the Fourum. Thanks.

To the girl that told me that I had a booger hanging, you are really hot.

Hey ... is this in the Fourum? Oh my God. I have so many people to thank, my mom, uh...

It's not our government's job to judge terrorists. We can leave the judgement up to God. All we have to do is help arrange the meeting.

I live everyday like it was my last, mostly because I live in Marlatt and use the elevators.

The thought just crossed my mind to go to my 10:30 calc lecture, but then it quickly passed.

Eviscerate the proletariat.

Forgive me if I sound condescending when I say this, but you are one pathetic loser.

Have you seen my baseball?

Well how the hell did you get the beans above the frank?

According to the map we've only gone about four inches. You know, I don't think we have enough gas money.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Special Olympics arrive in town for Fall Classic

By Adrianne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

About 1,400 Kansas athletes will participate in the fifth annual Special Olympics Kansas Fall Classic today and Saturday in Manhattan.

Teams of one to 100 athletes will compete in volleyball and bowling competitions at the K-State Student Union, Peters Recreation Complex and Zuckey Bowl Inc.

Volunteers are still needed to assist athletes on the bowling lanes, to tally scores and to present awards, said Susan Krumm, volunteer coordinator for Special Olympics Kansas.

Those interested in volunteering should bring a photo ID and check in at the volunteer table for an assignment, Krumm said.

Eunice Kennedy Shriver or-

Volunteers still needed

When: 9:30 a.m. - noon today and 8:30 to 11 a.m. Saturday

Where: The K-State Student Union and Zuckey Bowl Inc. (515 Richards Drive)

For a tentative schedule of events: go to www.ksoo.org.

ganized the First International Special Olympics Games in 1968, and Special Olympics Kansas began in 1970. According to its Web site, Special Olympics Kansas has 5,800 athletes who train and compete in 23 sports.

Krumm said the purpose of the Fall Classic is to offer a state bowling and volleyball competition for athletes with mental disabilities.

Proceeds from the event will go to Special Olympics Kansas. "The athletes look forward to the event every year," she said. "It's not just for the competition aspect, but also for the social aspect."

Student organizations volunteering at the Fall Classic include leadership classes, Alpha Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta and Ichthus Christian Fellowship.

Alpha Chi will have about 20 members interacting with participants and helping with the event, said Jayme Sauber, senior in family and consumer education and Alpha Chi member.

Sauber said she has volunteered at the event in the past and it was a rewarding experience.

"The athletes are always so happy and grateful for the volunteers," she said. "It really makes volunteering worthwhile."

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

After correctly answering a question with only seconds remaining, Mike Barta, senior in biology, receives a pat on chest from Willie Meier, senior in horticulture, during a sports trivia contest Thursday night at Peters Recreation Complex.

8 students participate in intramural sports trivia bowl

By Chuck Armstrong
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Competitors tested their knowledge of sports trivia during the Intramural Sports Trivia contest Thursday night at the Peters Recreation Complex.

Thirty-seven individuals competed in a 45-minute written preliminary test. The top eight advanced to the quiz-bowl-style final round.

The preliminary test consisted of 60 questions, evenly divided among four categories: baseball, basketball, football and miscellaneous said John Wondra, assistant director of recreational services.

"This is one of the only fun-type events we do for intramurals. There's no points involved," he said.

One competitor said he was surprised by the test's difficulty.

"It was pretty challenging," Joel Koehler, junior in marketing, said. "There were a lot of things I didn't know."

Also among the competitors was junior in secondary education Lucas Sullivan. After taking the preliminary test, Sullivan said he didn't think he'd make it to the final eight.

"It was harder than I'd expected," he said. "There's hard ones and easy ones. It depends on which questions you get asked."

The winner was Jeff Kreuser, an athletic trainer for Lafene Health Center.

"This is my third year competing," Kreuser said. "I'm a sports trivia junkie."

He said the hardest category was basketball but shined in the miscellaneous category, as he knew every hockey question.

Kreuser said he prepared by watching a lot of sports and researching competition winners in the past year.

"I'm full of useless knowledge, I guess."

Fundraiser at Cold Stone Creamery benefits Humanics Student Association

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

At Manhattan's Cold Stone Creamery, Dan Patrick, senior in mass communications, scoops ice cream into a dish during a fundraiser for the American Humanics Student Association on Thursday.

By Megan Green
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The American Humanics Student Association became the first organization to combine fundraising with Manhattan's Cold Stone Creamery, 1225 Moro St., Thursday night.

While two group members scooped ice cream, others distributed information about AHSA to customers.

"We arrived 20 minutes before so they could show us how to scoop and gauge," said Danny Troop, freshman in secondary education and treasurer.

Cold Stone will donate at least 15 percent of all the money earned Thursday between 4 and 8 p.m. to AHSA, said Sara Stephens, AHSA president and senior in family studies.

Cold Stone will give AHSA a check for $140 today.

"It's really nice to be the first group to do this because we can set a really high bar," Stephens said.

The group is working to raise money to send students to the its national conference. They are doing several fundraisers, including work at Bramlage Coliseum and Ahearn Field House where they are paid for post-event cleaning.

In total, the group needs between $8,000 and $9,000.

"I think it'll be really successful," manager Kara Kent said. "The more we sell, the higher percentage they get."

The conference, which will be in January in San Diego, is meant for students working toward a minor in non-profit leadership.

A bill was introduced last night at the Student Senate meeting requesting $4,000 for travel and registration for the conference. It was sent to the allocations committee for review.

At the end of the night, Troop said the group had raised $140.

"It was a great experience, and we all had fun," he said.

Irish poet reads at Manhattan Public Library

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A soft Irish voice was heard by more than 50 people at the Manhattan Public Library Monday afternoon.

The voice belonged to Moya Cannon, an Irish poet at her last stop in a short series of poetry readings before returning to Ireland.

Cannon read to the audience as they drank tea and munched on biscuits. Cannon's voice, marked with the accent of her home land, was very quiet throughout the performance. The back rows of the seats were full, but people were more sparse toward the front.

"I feel sort of like a priest in a parish," she said.

Cannon started each poem with a bit of background to set the context and then began reading her work without a pause.

"Here's a poem I don't read too often," she said, setting up the piece's title as a punch line. "It's called 'No Sense in Talking.'"

Cannon was in Manhattan because Donna Potts, associate professor of English, met her last year while on sabbatical in Ireland and arranged the reading.

"For those who left my county, girls from the Downing and the Rosses who followed herring boats north to Shetland gutting the sea's silver as they went."

-Excerpt from Moya Cannon's "Carrying the Sound"

"I found her so warm and accessible," she said.

Potts said Cannon liked a poem of hers she submitted at a writing workshop and invited her to lunch afterward, where they got to know each other better.

Cannon said she just finished a month living as a writer-in-residence in Virginia, and has spent the past week doing readings at several Midwest cities including Carbondale, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo. She has also been a writer-in-residence in Ontario, Canada.

She said she will now return to her home in Galway, Ireland.

Jonathan Holden, distinguished professor of poetry and Kansas' poet laureate, said he enjoyed the performance and was the first to applaud at the end of "No Sense in Talking," his favorite poem from the reading.

"She's a beautiful poet, a wonderful poet, a very traditional poet," he said.

Cannon has published two books of poetry and is finishing a third.

She is a member of the esteemed Irish artist's association, Aosdána, Potts said.

She said Cannon will not be the last Irish poet to appear at the library.

Kevin Higgins, a poet from the same city as Cannon, whom Potts described as "very satirical and funny," will be performing there Feb. 8, she said.

Cannon said she enjoyed the introduction Potts gave her.

"You sit there and hear people say nice things about you and then you say, 'I have to live up to this,'" she said to laughter from the audience.

We've got the stories you've got to read.

The Royal Purple yearbook is available in Kedzie 103. Stop by or call 532-6555.

Check out
shout outs
on the Classifieds page!

More Shoes, More Service, More Friendly
A steady throb of versatility, adaptability & performance. Delivers instinctive reaction to hard use and varying, multi-sport demands.

Brown's SHOE Co.
New Business Hours • Mon.-Sat. 9 AM - 6 PM
311 Poyntz Ave. • 776-6612 • Downtown Manhattan

Ben Franklin Crafts and Frame Shop
HOLIDAY OPEN HOUSE
Friday 11th - Sunday 13th
Holiday greenery, swags, candle rings and trees.
Also a large selection of candles.

Great Specials
Selected Holiday Trees
Up To 50% Off

FREE Make-It Take-Its
Sat. & Sun. Schedule Posted In Store

Register for FREE
Framed Drawings and Matted Christmas Prints

Draw a number for Great Discounts.
1 customer will receive their purchase Absolutely Free!
(Value up to $50*)
Not Good w/any other offers

Westloop Shopping Center • Manhattan 785-776-4910
Mon-Fri 9-8
Sat 9-7 Sun 1-6

KSU Meat Sale
FRIDAY • Noon-5:45 p.m.
Rm. 166 • Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

LAMB
chops, roast, ground lamb

Paid for by Kansas State University.
For information call 532-1279

MADONNA
Album Release Party
Monday, November 14th
10PM
S.O.S. Music 1214-C Moro
All Madonna-All Night-All Ages
Come as Your Favorite Madonna!
Costume Contest/Trivia/PRIZES!

Holiday Open House!
This Saturday & Sunday 9am - 7pm
Sample Kansas Foods! Prize Drawings!
Largest Display of Theme Ornaments in town!
Eastside Westside Markets
E. Hwy 24 or W. Ft. Riley Blvd. Manhattan

"We're probably like anyone else: there's a bunch of would-be, could-be and should-be, but until you can do something about that, there's the old adage that you're shooting yourself in the foot. We have so many holes in our feet right now, we're spilling water."

Bill Snyder
K-STATE COACH

K-State (4-5, 1-5) vs. Nebraska (5-4, 2-4)

1 p.m., Saturday

History: Nebraska leads series — 72-15-2

Radio: 1350AM, 101.5FM

Allan Evridge was supposed to wear red. Then Nebraska fired coach Frank Solich, and Evridge took back his verbal commitment. This will be the first time he steps into Memorial Stadium since he watched every game from the stands his senior year of high school.

Running out of time

Senior fullback Victor Mann tries to get past the Iowa State defense Nov. 5. The Wildcats need a win against the Nebraska Cornhuskers and Missouri Tigers to become eligible for a bowl game.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Loss would prevent K-State from becoming bowl eligible

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Jeromey Clary and the rest of the senior class can do something this Saturday that no other senior class has done in the history of the program.

They can become the first class to beat Nebraska every time they have played them.

If they lose, they will become part of the first team since 1989 to lose five straight games — and be eliminated from bowl consideration for the second straight season — after making the post-season 12 straight years.

"Our approach needs to be 'let's go do as well as we can and win this game,' and then the bowl possibility looms a little bit brighter," coach Bill Snyder said.

"They're aware of it, and I've addressed the issue with them."

With only two games remaining, and the Wildcats needing two wins to become bowl eligible, Saturday's game at Nebraska is a must-win for K-State, whose only win this year in conference came at home against Kansas.

Clary said the Wildcats are overdue for a win this weekend, and they need to do something they have not done in conference — play a complete game.

"We didn't play a complete game against Kansas, but we're definitely overdue," Clary said. "I would like to have one (a complete game); it kind of beats the confidence down. I would love to be able to have a complete game, complete four quarters of offense and good defense and would be a great thing for us going into the Missouri game."

Going into Saturday's game, K-State finds itself in the same position they were in last season with two games remaining.

K-State did not respond, dropping the final two games. The first on the road in the final seconds to Colorado and the next at home to Iowa State, giving up three touchdowns with less than four minutes to play.

"I think we're frustrated, but we're not going to back down like in 2004, and I don't want anyone to compare us to 2004," Clary said. "We're not the same team, we may have the same record right now, but we don't give up, we fight, and we do the best we can to try to get back in the games."

Nebraska can become bowl eligible with a win over the Wildcats, or a win at Big 12 Conference North division-leading Colorado next week.

After 35 straight bowl appearances, the Cornhuskers finished with a 5-6 record last year.

It is essential — especially on the road — that the Wildcats focus on the Huskers and drown out the fan noise, said senior fullback Victor Mann.

"It's just about us getting a win," Mann said. "We have to go out there and do what we can to get a win, and it doesn't matter where we are playing at, who's going to be there. Once we step between those white lines, we have to get the job done."

OFFENSE

Allan Evridge is 0-4 this year as the starting quarterback. In conference play, the Wildcats are ranked last in the conference, running for an average of 1.5 yards per carry, and last in total offense, averaging 274 yards per game.

Coach Bill Callahan's West Coast offense has yet to click for the Cornhuskers who are averaging 24 points per game in conference play. Nebraska was held to a season low 138 total yards in last week's loss to Kansas.

DEFENSE

Iowa State had a season high 221 yards rushing last week against the Wildcat defense. The No. 10 ranked pass defense in conference play will get tested this week against the throw first Nebraska West Coast offense.

The Cornhuskers lead the nation in sacks (40) and tackles for a loss (97). Junior defensive end Adam Carriker leads the Cornhuskers with eight sacks for 72 yards. Sophomore linebacker Corey McKeon has seven.

SPECIAL TEAMS

The sporadic play from the special teams unit continued in last week's loss at Iowa State. Trailing 17-3 after sophomore Jeff Snodgrass connected from 36 yards out, his next attempt from 28 yards was blocked by the Cyclones.

Nebraska ranks 14th in the nation overall in punt returns and fifth in punting, led by Ray Guy semifinalist Sam Koch. Koch averages 45.4 yards per punt, including a career long 84-yard punt against Pittsburgh.

PREDICTION

K-State has lost four straight games. Nebraska has lost three straight. Both teams have bowl bids riding on this game. With a win, the Cornhuskers become bowl eligible, after not qualifying for the first time in 35 years. The Wildcats need to win their final two games of the season in order to become bowl eligible, after missing the postseason last year for the first time in 12 seasons. Expecting the Wildcats to walk into Lincoln, Neb., on senior day with a bowl bid on the line for Nebraska is too much for this young team that has been outscored on the road in conference play 147-58 to overcome.

— Nebraska 34 - K-State 21
Anthony Mendoza | COLLEGIAN

HUNAN EXPRESS

Chinese Food Lover's Choice

BUFFET

Lunch 11:00-2:30 $3.99
Dinner 5:30-9:00 $4.99

Free Delivery: 537-0886

Fax: 539-9111

Hours: Sun. - Wed., 11 a.m. - Midnight; Th. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
1116 More St. Aggieville (only a few blocks south of KSU)

SPEND OVER $25 AND GET A FREE T-SHIRT!!

Need-Money?

New Name... Same great deals!!

We pay top dollar for:

Tools, electronics, movies, CDs, guns, music equipment, jewelry, & sporting goods

Two Locations

501a Ft. Riley 3110 Anderson
537-1803 565-0046

AMERICAN CASH EXCHANGE

CASH ADVANCE & PAWN LOANS

GOPOWERCAT.COM

The online leader in Kansas State sports and recruiting news

POWERCAT ILLUSTRATED'S
GOPOWERCAT.COM

Officially licensed partner of the Rivals.com network

Free pool Every 1st & 3rd Sunday of every month

• Ice Cold Beer, Darts, Big Screen TV

SUNDAY - $1⁰⁰ Domestic

MONDAY - $1⁰⁰ Imports & Domestic

TUESDAY - $1⁰⁰ Busch, Keystone, & Old Mill

WEDNESDAY - 75¢ Draws, $3⁰⁰ Pitchers

THURSDAY - $1⁰⁰ Wells, $2 Calls, $2⁰⁰ Premiums

LUNCH SERVED
Tues. & Fri.

cock
BULL

NEIGHBORHOOD TAVERN

(785) 776-6699

2413 Stagg Hill Road • Behind Briggs

OPEN
3:00 p.m. - Mon, Wed,
Thurs.
Noon - Sat. & Sun.
9:00 a.m. - Tues. & Fri.

CINCH REVERSABLE JACKETS

10% OFF

for the upcoming cold weather!

Offer Expires: Nov. 12 2005

(785) 776-6715

8426 E. Hwy 24
2 1/2 miles East of Manhattan
Mon. - Fri. 10 - 6, Sat. 10 - 5

Lee's
Western Wear

november SPECIALS

RELAXER RETOUCH $22

STRAIGHTENER $25

PERM SHORT HAIR $25

Includes cut & style day of the service

ARTIFICIAL NAILS $16

MANICURE $10

Hot Oil/French/Spa

* expires
Nov. 30

512 Poyntz • 776-4794

Crum's

Beauty College
performed by supervised students

FREE
Activation
& Case or cord
$36 value
$15 value

Limited time. See our store for details

Sprint

HOURS

M-F 9am-8pm

SAT 9am-7pm

SUN 11am-6pm

537-1476

614 Ft. Riley Blvd.

MANHATTAN

RadioShack

2 nights of music playing Nov. 11th & 12th, 2005
Friday & Saturday
Wanted
9-1 Band

K-State Rodeo Association Auction
Saturday, November 12th: 6 - 9

RC McGraws

2317 TUTTLE CREEK BLVD.
BLUE HILLS SHOPPING CENTER
776-9588

Evridge puts past behind him

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Allan Evridge's friends and fans couldn't fathom why he chose to play football at K-State two years ago, when he had the golden opportunity to live every native Nebraskan's dream and play football in Lincoln, Neb.

What they didn't realize was Evridge wasn't a native. He didn't have those deep-rooted ties to the Cornhuskers like those around him. It wasn't his dream — it was theirs.

"In Nebraska, they are quite fanatical in a good way," the redshirt freshman said of his friends and fans. "They support their team, and they are a great set of fans, but a lot of my friends who had grown up in Nebraska their whole lives did not understand."

"It was a dream, of course, growing up, and since I did not grow up there, it had not been my life-long dream."

In reality, though, Evridge wasn't to blame. After playing Papillion-LaVista High School in Papillion, Neb., he gave a verbal commitment to — then Nebraska coach Frank Solich. It wasn't long thereafter that a proposal to play at K-State came via mail from coach Bill Snyder. While the Wildcat offer was appealing, being a man of his word, Evridge declined.

"I had always been interested (in K-State), but I committed to coach Solich and his program before I had gotten an offer," Evridge said. "I thought my word was very important, and I wasn't going to back off from that. It was kind of the way I was raised."

The firing of coach Solich on Nov. 29, 2003, for failing to maintain the Cornhuskers' national powerhouse status, put a new spin on things for Evridge. He was now confronted with a choice — stay and play under new Nebraska coach Bill Callahan or wear purple for Snyder? Obviously, he chose the latter.

"The change in the coaching staff and just knowing what I would have at Kansas State, the type of program it was, the coaches," Evridge said of things that led to his decision to be a Wildcat. "When I would turn on the TV and see (former quarterback) Eli Roberson — I liked what I saw from that aspect."

Callahan, on the other hand, did not like Evridge's decision. Once he was named head coach, he continued to pursue the quarterback. He contacted him the weekend after he was hired, trying to persuade him to change his mind. Still a man of his word, Evridge refused, and once he committed to K-State, animosity grew in Nebraska.

K-State redshirt-freshman quarterback Allan Evridge tries to outrun the Iowa State defense Nov. 5 in Ames, Iowa. The Wildcats take on the Nebraska Cornhuskers Saturday in Lincoln, Neb.

"There were things that happened that I would like to leave in the past," Evridge said of spiteful incidents that happened after he pulled his commitment from Nebraska. "I think it was a small minority speaking for the majority of the Nebraska fans. As a whole, they are a great fan base, and I have nothing but good things to say about them."

As Evridge prepares for the game in Lincoln, he said he knows he made the right decision and is confident the red in the stadium and his emotions will not interfere in Saturday's performance. He's got his own football team to worry about. For him, the game against Nebraska is no different than any other, he said.

"I've seen it. I know what it's like," Evridge said of playing in Lincoln. "It's more about X's and O's right now and trying to get the game plan down and put a win in the win column."

Like Evridge, Snyder said he refuses to get caught in the hype, despite his quarterback's history with the Cornhuskers. He reiterated Evridge's comments, saying he's seen no difference in his demeanor in the days building up to the game.

"I really appreciate Allan's approach. I really think he is an even keel guy," Snyder said. "He's not totally unaware of going back to Nebraska and playing there, but I think his focus is on what he can do to get himself better and to help our football. I think that's where his attention lies."

"If I'm incorrect about that, he's got me fooled." Offensive lineman Jeromey Clary wants to do all he can to give K-State — and Evridge — a win against Nebraska. Clary can sympathize — when he goes back to play in his home state, Texas, he wants to leave knowing he made an impression, the senior said.

"I think he's ready," Clary said. "He's definitely going to be pumped up and hopefully we can take care of our business, so that he can enjoy a victory."

Ross key to Nebraska's West Coast offense

By Cedrique Flemming
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State Wildcats (4-5, 1-5 Big 12) will need to win their final two games of the season to become bowl eligible.

The first of these two tests comes this weekend when the Wildcats travel to Lincoln, Neb., to take on the Nebraska Cornhuskers (5-4, 2-4).

The Huskers have lost four of their last five games and are coming off a 40-15 loss to the Kansas Jayhawks last weekend. They, too, will be looking to become bowl eligible with a win this weekend.

Nebraska quarterback Zac Taylor completed 14 of 26 passes for 117 yards against the Jayhawks, pushing his season passing total to 1,874 yards, the fifth-highest single-season total in Nebraska school history.

Nebraska sophomore wide receiver Terrence Nunn has scorched opposing defenses lately, scoring five touchdowns in the Cornhuskers' last five games.

Coach Bill Snyder said he is impressed with the play of Taylor and Nunn, but he says the Huskers' West Coast offense is led by senior running back Cory Ross.

"Ross is an outstanding player, even though his numbers don't always reflect that," Snyder said. "He's got the physique of a Darren Sproles, and he has some of that kind of jitterbug-type movement."

Ross is averaging 99.4 all-purpose yards per game to rank sixth in the Big 12 Conference. He averages 71.0 yards rushing a game, which ranks 10th in the conference.

This season, Ross has shown not only can he run the ball, but he can also be an effective receiver. He is third on the team with 29 receptions and has 256 yards receiving.

When Nebraska defeated Iowa State on Oct. 1, Ross caught eight passes out of the backfield for a Nebraska running back record 131 yards. He provided all three of the Huskers' touchdowns, scoring on a 70-yard screen pass, a one-yard touchdown run and an eight-yard reception to win the game in double overtime.

The Wildcat defense gave up 415 yards of total offense last week in a 45-17 loss to the Cyclones.

The majority of those yards (221) came as a result of the running game. The defense ranks 39th in the nation against the run, allowing 127.4 yards per game, and ranks 47th nationally in total defense, giving up 352.7 yards per game.

Senior defensive lineman Derek Marso collected three tackles last week against the Cyclones and knows the importance of being able to stop a running back like Ross.

"He is like (Texas Tech running back) Taurean Henderson in that he is an amazing runner but he can also catch the ball," Marso said. "I have played against him for a few years now and we have to try and make him one-dimensional."

"Hopefully we have the ability to shut down the running game and turn them into strictly a passing team. If we can do that, then we should have a pretty good chance at winning."

Ross
RUNNING BACK

See a photo opportunity?

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Advertise in the Kansas State Collegian's

Gameday

Comprehensive pregame coverage Fridays before home games.
118 Kedzie • 532-6560

Check Out
sudoku
in the Classifieds

SPORTS MASSAGE
BODY FIRST
2308 ANDERSON
587-8300
www.bodyfirst.com

Motorcycle Supply
• Dirt & Street • Parts
• Accessories • Helmets
• Apparel • Tires
• Leather • Service

Wohler's Used Furniture
Visit Wohler's for used:
Furniture, Antiques,
Appliances and
miscellaneous
items for all needs.
615 N. 3rd St.
10-6 Mon.-Fri. 10-5 Sat.
539-3319 Closed on Sun.

431 S. 5th
Manhattan, KS 66502
785-776-6171

7 TVs
Cold Beer
Good Friends
Before, During & After The Game
Finn's Pub
Manhattan's Favorite Irish Pub!
317 Poyntz-Downtown Manhattan
www.finnspub.com 785-776-2119

"Your Repair Specialists" serving Manhattan for 27 years
Mention This ad and receive 10% discount!
Repairing of:
• Purses • Shoes • Boots • Luggage
• Backpacks • Leather Coats
• Gloves • Suede Shoe Dyeing
• Birkenstocks • Harness
216 S. Fourth (corner of 4th and Pierre) • VFW Plaza • 776-1193

Junior • Petite
Blue Jeans
Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch, and more!
$2.50 - $4.95
Clip this ad for 50% off any one clothing item
QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL
The Apple's Heart
"Where Kansas Meets New York"
1135 5th & downtown poyntz

Happy Valley
CHINESE RESTAURANT
LUNCH SPECIALS $4.99
Includes: choice of 2 entrees, rice, soup, appetizer
DINNER SPECIALS
Includes: entree, appetizer, salad, rice, soup, kim chee, daily dessert
$6.95 & up
DINE IN & CARRY OUT
1120 Laramie
539-9888

Voted
Sports Illustrated's
#12 Sports Bar
in America!
Good Luck, Wildcats!
Rustys
LAST CHANCE SALOON

FRIDAY {Dance & Country Party}
SATURDAY {Country Party}
$2.50 Miller Lite Pioneers $2.00 Tequila Shots
$2 Cover for 21 & up HONCHORNS SALOON $5 Cover for 18-20
Bolingville Manhattan

Cats Are On the Road This Week-end... But Pizza Hut Can Still Be Part Of Your Game Plan!
$9.99 "Purple Pride Special"
1-Topping Large Big New Yorker Pizza, Side Order of Stix, 2-Liter of Soda
$13.99 "Big Willie Combo"
1-Topping XL-16" Full House Pizza, Family Order of Stix, 2-Liter of Soda Pizza Hut
Agawam
"World's Oldest Pizza Hut"
A 125U Tradition Since 1980
1181 Moore 539-7866
Westloop 2031 Clifton 539-7447
2nd Street 201 Moore 776-4334
Agawam
"World's Oldest Pizza Hut"
A 125U Tradition Since 1980
1181 Moore 539-7866
Westloop 2031 Clifton 539-7447
2nd Street 201 Moore 776-4334
BEAT THE HUSKERS!

Football team needs to show us something

I have spent this entire football season watching as a fan and, for the most part, I have kept my mouth shut about the struggles of the 2005 K-State football team. Not this week. This week, I'm calling the Wildcats out. On Saturday, you have the chance to make a statement against the Nebraska Cornhuskers. Do it for yourselves.

I'm sure you are tired of hearing the same questions week after week about what is wrong with your team.

I know because Collegian sports reporters are tired of asking those questions.

This is the game where you show everyone that you are better than you are playing right now, instead of making us roll our eyes when you give us that answer.

This is the game where the offensive line and the running backs show us why you're on this team by pushing some people around and bowling people over.

You shouldn't be looking at statistics, but in the past three games, you are only averaging 40 yards rushing – and you have been held under or below that number five times this season.

This is the game where the wide receivers prove why they are called "receivers."

How many dropped passes does it take to realize you need to be looking at the ball all the way in?

It's your job to take the pressure off a redshirt-freshman quarterback in Allan Evridge.

Catch the ball. This is the game where you, Mr. Evridge, get to give your quasi-home state the middle finger, and make us believe you are the next great Wildcat quarterback – not the guy who threw two costly interceptions in last week's 45-17 loss to Iowa State.

This is the game where the defensive line and linebackers need to step up and make the Cornhuskers sorry for even thinking about running the ball.

If you haven't noticed, safety Marcus Watts is your leading tackler.

That means you are not stopping anyone.

Above all, this is the game where you have to stop shooting yourselves in the foot. In nine games, you have been penalized 76 times for 666 yards, have not had one game without a turnover, and have a Big 12 Conference-leading 14 fumbles.

You could tell us the other team is making plays, but that is just another excuse.

Making good decisions and hanging onto the ball are mental issues.

You are only two wins away from being bowl eligible, and at 4-5, you must start with the Huskers.

Coach Bill Snyder has said he believes in you, and there are still many Wildcat fans who do, too.

Matthew Girard is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

The rowing team hopes to beat a familiar opponent on Saturday at the Sunflower Showdown.

The Wildcat rowers will be competing in their last regatta of the fall season against intrastate rival Kansas at Tuttle Creek Reservoir. It marks the ninth annual Sunflower Showdown, and the Jayhawks might be favored to win this one, said coach Patrick Sweeney.

By Jessica Barnard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

VOLLEYBALL

K-State to try for series sweep of Texas A&M

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State volleyball team has struggled to win matches during the past month.

Despite Wednesday's 3-1 victory over Texas Tech, the Wildcats (17-8, 8-7 Big 12) have dropped five of eight matches in that span, causing them to fall out of the Top 25 for the first time in more than two months.

Coach Suzie Fritz said she does not pay much attention to the rankings.

"I don't put a lot of stock in it," Fritz said. "I think if we do what we are capable of doing here at the end of the year, we will still put ourselves in a good position to make a run in the NCAA Tournament."

In addition to rankings, Fritz barely acknowledged the 107-victory milestone she earned in the Cats' Wednesday win, putting her at a tie with Mary Phyl Dwight for second in K-State all-time wins.

"I like to win, but it's not about the wins for me," Fritz said.

With only five regular season matches remaining, K-State will take on Texas A&M (11-12, 4-10) at 1 p.m. Saturday in College Station, Texas.

Fritz's squad will not only try for a second straight victory, but a series sweep against the Aggies.

The last time the two teams played, K-State defeated then-No. 23 Texas A&M with a 3-0 sweep Oct. 1.

Junior outside hitter Sandy Werner led the Wildcats against the Aggies with 14 kills on 19 total attempts for a .737 hitting percentage.

Texas A&M is led by 2004 second-team All-American Laura Jones. The senior outside hitter leads the Big 12 Conference in kills with 489, averaging 5.89 per game.

Werner said she expects Texas A&M to fight hard on its home court.

"Playing at Texas A&M is always tough," Werner said. "I'm sure they have improved since we saw them last."

"They will be especially good at home," sophomore setter Stacey Spiegelberg said. "To beat them, we are definitely going to have to play hard and intense."

K-State's trip to the Lone Star state is its third since Oct. 22 and its second this week.

"I don't like going there," Werner said while laughing. "I'd rather play at home."

Lingering questions

Above: Clent Stewart tries to get around Emporia State's Tyrell Sledge Thursday evening at Bramlage Coliseum.

Left: K-State's Cartier Martin and David Hoskins go for a rebound against Emporia State Thursday evening in the Wildcats 79-75 win at Bramlage Coliseum. Martin scored 27 points and Hoskins scored eight.

Photos by Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Wildcats edge Hornets in final exhibition game

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

In a game that proved to be a series of opposite runs, the K-State men's basketball team edged Division II Emporia State 79-75 Thursday night in Bramlage Coliseum.

It was the final exhibition match before the regular season begins next Friday, and the Wildcats left many questions to be answered after a somewhat shaky performance.

"We didn't come out to play our best game, obviously," junior guard Lance Harris said. "We had a lot of shaky things, and a lot of things we need to work on."

Right from the start, K-State knew Emporia State had come not just to play, but to win.

The Hornets opened the game with a 10-0 run in the first two minutes of play. K-State responded quickly, going on a 16-0 run of its own to help the team cruise to a comfortable 42-31 halftime lead.

"There are just so many games within the game," coach Jim Wooldridge said. "The way we started the game, it was a big surprise. (Emporia State) is an excellent team."

Indeed, the Hornets proved to be a much tougher test than expected. After falling behind 57-40 midway through the second half, Emporia State went on a 19-3 run to close the gap to 60-59 with 7:03 remaining in the game.

The game went back and forth until the Wildcats eventually sealed the victory with a Mario Taybron fast-break layup with seven seconds remaining.

Junior forward Cartier Martin was the star of the night. Martin had 27 points on 10-of-16 shooting, and added 10 rebounds and six assists.

Had it been a regular season game, Martin would have had new career highs in both points and assists.

"I was feeling good," Martin said of his performance. "Last game, I didn't shoot the ball too well, so I made that an emphasis. It felt good coming up. I know I can shoot the ball, so I put the ball up."

Martin carried the Wildcats in the second half, scoring 15 points, including two crucial buckets late in the game to help keep the Hornets from taking the lead.

Martin's teammate, sophomore point guard Clent Stewart, said he was very pleased with Martin's emergence as a go-to player.

"He played really well," Stewart said. "He was shooting the ball as well as he could. He carried us in the second half. He was our go-to guy and at the end, he

K-State 79 Emporia State 75

	K-State	ESU
Field goals	29-66	28-65
3-point	7-23	8-26
Free throws	14-26	11-15
Rebounds	42	40
Assists	21	15
Turnovers	13	16

Leading scorer	Martin	Blevins
Leading rebounder	Martin	Herrman
Leading assists	Martin	Sledge

made some big buckets for us. He's a tremendous player."

This game might be considered a cause for concern, especially since the players expressed disappointment with their defensive performance. At the same time, they said they know things will improve.

The game Thursday could, in fact, give the team valuable experience in the future in close, regular season games.

"This team has to get a little bit more competitive mentality," Stewart said. "At times we were a little too casual. I don't care who we're playing, we have to prove (ourselves) every single game. We haven't arrived. We have a lot to prove."

SPORTS ONLINE

The men's and women's cross country teams are heading to Iowa City, Ia., on Saturday to compete in the NCAA Midwest Regionals. To read on, go to www.ksstatecollegian.com.

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

CFB | Clary Named Academic All-District

K-State senior offensive lineman Jerome Clary has been selected to the 2005 ESPN The Magazine Academic All-District 7 football second team, selected by the College Sports Information Directors of America, the organization announced Wednesday.

The nomination is the first to the academic all-district team for Clary, who is also a two-time Academic All-Big 12 honoree, possesses a 3.41 G.P.A. in psychology and is on track to graduate from K-State in December.

Regarded as one of the top offensive tackles in the Big 12 Conference, Clary will make his 36th straight start for the Wildcats Saturday at Nebraska.

The Associated Press

MLB | Carpenter wins NL Cy Young Award

Chris Carpenter won the National League Cy Young Award on Thursday.

After going 21-5 with a 2.83 ERA for the St. Louis Cardinals, he received 19 of 32 first-place votes and finished with 132 points in balloting by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

He beat out Florida lefty Dontrelle Willis, becoming the first Cardinals pitcher to claim the honor since Hall of Famer Bob Gibson in 1970.

NFL | Bloch to decide if Eagles were unreasonable

Richard Bloch is an arbitrator, a premium public speaker for hire, a Washington Redskins season-ticket holder and a magician by hobby.

Bloch will decide very soon whether Terrell Owens will disappear or reappear with the Philadelphia Eagles and the NFL.

Bloch is the arbitrator who, on Nov. 18 will hear the NFL Players Association grievance that, on Owens' behalf, claims the Eagles have improperly suspended the receiver for four games under the "conduct detrimental to the team" clause in his contract. In addition, the union will claim that additional punitive action announcing that Owens would not be allowed to play another game this season also is excessive.

NFL | Football set to return to Los Angeles

Paul Tagliabue said the NFL and city officials have reached a preliminary agreement on terms to bring a team back to the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The Los Angeles area, the second-largest television market in the country, has been without a team since 1995.

GLF | Tiger mixes 10 birdies, three bogeys

Tiger Woods bogeyed his last hole after hitting a tee shot into a bunker, costing him a share of the first-round lead Thursday in the $5 million HSBC Champions.

Scotland's Paul Lawrie, the 1999 British Open winner, England's Nick Dougherty and Australia's Peter O'Malley led at 8-under-par 64. Woods was at 65 with England's David Howell, the Netherlands' Robert-Jan Derksen and South Korea's K.J. Choi.

Woods

THE EDGE

Friday, Nov. 11, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

Dressing your feetPhotos by Catrina Rawson and Joslyn Brown
COLLEGIAN

Winter brings changes to footwear

By Eileen Laux
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

loafer," she said.

CASUAL

Casual shoes are available at Journey's and The Buckle. Both stores carry Puma, which Kulp said is coming back strong for the winter season. Puma has a vintage tennis shoe look in many colors.

"Boots are very in right now," she said. "We have cowgirl boots and Nordic boots, or furry boots, I guess you could call them. Harness boots are a popular choice for men."

Wedge moccasins and sequin scuffs are trendy and can be casual as well as dressy.

Pugh said Diesels have been a popular pick for men and women seeking a casual shoe. Adidas and Puma are also popular, as is the Doc Martin shoe, he said. Converse is another shoe that is coming back and gaining popularity, Pugh said.

"Converse is good because it is a unisex shoe and comes in many different colors," he said.

ATHLETIC

James White, junior in interior architecture and part-time sales associate at Foot Locker in the Manhattan Town Center, said there are several types of shoes that are "hot" right now.

Nike Shox, Air Jordans and Air Max have been the popular styles for men in terms of athletic wear. For the more casual look, he said K-Swiss, Reebok Classics and Timberlands have also been selling well.

"I know that Air Force Ones are still popular even though they came out a few years ago, but we don't carry them right now," he said.

Scott A' Hearn, managing director for Finish Line, said some of the more popular styles are the Nike Shox and the Maddie Collection by Nike, exclusively at Finish Line. The collection features coordinating footwear, apparel and accessories, he said.

"Some companies have different styles," he said. "For example, many companies are coming out with retro styles because it is becoming more and more popular."

Dr. Michael Hamler, chiropractor at the Alternative Healthcare Center, said he had a patient who had plantar fasciitis, which is burning and aching on the bottom of the feet.

He said she was a runner and was wearing old shoes, which tend to wear down the sole or weaken the arch with time.

"If the arches are bad, then that can harm the balancing of your pelvis," he said. "Everything has to balance with everything else and work together. Your pelvis, knees and ankles all have to work together to help you walk and run successfully."

Hamler said the most important thing about choosing appropriate footwear is paying attention to how much it is worn.

Dress shoes will not hurt anything, though it may begin to make a difference if they are being worn everywhere and every day, he said.

"People shouldn't panic if they want to wear dress shoes. You probably just shouldn't get into a running or walking program and wear them," he said.

DRESSY

Barry Pugh, store manager for Journeys in Manhattan Town Center, said heels are still popular for women.

"Kaya, Classifieds and Playhouse are all brands that are pretty popular women's dress shoes," he said.

Most of the heels come in different colors, usually brown and black and sometimes white. Flats, clogs and wedges are also popular for women, he said.

Cindy Kulp, district manager at The Buckle in the Manhattan Town Center, said men have choices at the store when choosing dress shoes.

"We have the low profile tennis shoe, which is brown leather, as well as a shoe that is an updated

MOVIES

- Times for today through Sunday.
- All times are p.m. unless otherwise noted.
- (I) denotes times that are playing Saturday and Sunday only.

"Get Rich or Die Tryin'" R
(1:00), 4:00, 7:00, 9:50"Chicken Little" G
(1:00), (3:00), 7:00, 9:00"Jarhead" R
(1:15), 4:10, 7:10, 9:55"The Weather Man" R
(1:40), 4:15, 7:10, 9:35"The Legend of Zorro" PG
(1:00), 4:00, 7:00, 9:50"Prime" PG-13
(1:50), 4:45, 7:15, 9:45"Saw 2" R
(1:10), (3:20), 5:30, 7:40, 9:55"Dreamer" PG
(1:15), 4:20, 7:10, 9:35"Doom" R
(1:30), 4:15, 7:00, 9:30"North Country" R
7:00, 9:50"Elizabethtown" PG-13
(1:20), 4:05, 7:15, 10:00"Wallace and Gromit: Curse of the Were-Rabbit" G
(1:45), 4:30"Zathura" PG
(1:00), (3:15), 5:30, 7:45, 10:00TOP 20
ARTISTS

1. Black Eyed Peas
2. Green Day
3. 50 Cent
4. Fall Out Boy
5. Kelly Clarkson
6. My Chemical Romance
7. Notorious B.I.G.
8. Lindsay Lohan
9. Madonna
10. Gwen Stefani
11. Korn
12. Clara
13. Eminem
14. Bow Wow
15. Avril Lavigne
16. Simple Plan
17. Mariah Carey
18. Linkin Park
19. Ashlee Simpson
20. Britney Spears

Source: MTV

Dealing with roommates has positive, negative sides

Ask the 5th year

My roommate is growing pot in our coat closet. I really didn't mind before, but now that it is getting cold out and I'm getting into the closet more often, it is starting to bother me. What should I do?

You don't want to ask him to move it because the closet is the best hiding place for it. Asking him to get rid of it completely might put a strain on your relationship. As a strong evader of all drama, I wouldn't suggest that either.

No, the only way to get rid of the plant in a discreet manner, without offending anyone, is sabotage. All you need to do is feed the marijuana plant a tablespoon of bleach each week and it will be dead by Christmas.

Of course, there's always the chance that he'll just put a new pot plant in its place. In that case, go out and buy a couple of sleeping bags to put in the closet right after he removes the dead plant.

Have you ever had a bad roommate?

There are two types of roommates: those who are never there and those who are always there.

Unfortunately, I have had more than my fair share of roommates who were always there.

There was one who kept me up until 2 or 3 every morning playing Counter Strike. I asked him to be quiet and all he did was put on his headphones. The typing on his keyboard still kept me up no matter how loud I played my iPod. There was definitely a link that semester between a bad roommate and only passing nine hours.

There are other things to consider when evaluating past roommates. There was one from Marysville who lived on a pig farm.

As a result, all of his stuff stunk up the whole room like pig crap. Of course, he was oblivious to the smell because he had been around it his whole life, but every girl I brought back to the room said something.

The best roommate to have is one that listens to the same kind of music as you and shares a similar sleep pattern.

My current roommate, technically now my housemate, Grant, and I like pretty much the same music, except he can't get behind the Doors or Bright Eyes. Well, Grant, I can't get behind listening to the Taxi theme song four consecutive times.

Matt Peterworth is a fifth-year senior in architectural engineering. You can e-mail him at edge@pub.ksu.edu.

MATT
PETERWORTH

Lackluster nutrition

Students miss out on fruits, veggies

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Milk, pizza, cheese, eggs, cabbage, soy sauce and pre-made hamburger patties fill Bryan Watts' refrigerator.

Watts, senior in chemical engineering, said he buys groceries based on taste and what is quick and easy to cook.

Megan McCall, sophomore in pre-professional elementary education, said she keeps frozen vegetables, soup, turkey, peanut butter and jelly on hand.

Deborah Canter, head of the department of hotel, restaurant, institution management and dietetics, said a typical student diet sounds devoid of fresh fruits and vegetables and the vitamins and minerals they contain.

Fiber is also missing in this high-fat, high-sodium diet, Canter said. But pizza can have some redeeming value, she said, if it's Hawaiian or vegetarian.

The selection in a college student's diet is often based on cost and convenience, said Mark Haub, assistant professor of human nutrition.

"They may be neglecting some of the nutrients that can be found in fruits and vegetables," he said.

It is hard to tell if there are any long-term consequences to eating a somewhat unbalanced diet for four years.

"Given their age, most tend to not have clinical problems," Haub said.

The "freshman 15" weight gain does occur, he said, but effects of a university diet are often not noticeable since students graduate and begin "a real job with a real paycheck" that allows them to purchase a more balanced variety of foods.

Andrew Trent, senior in pre-professional secondary education, said cost is a factor in what groceries he buys.

"If something's on sale, I'm probably going to lean toward that," he said.

But time may be an even bigger factor in Trent's diet he said.

"I'm definitely short the fruits and vegetables a lot of the time, and that's a time issue, but I make a concerted effort to balance it," he said.

Trent's refrigerator is filled with hot dogs, pears, apple sauce, eggs, chocolate milk, pizza, salsa, lunch meat, carrots, grapes and cheese.

He said he rotates his dinner entrees between about six items, including hamburgers, chili and spaghetti. He said he would like to diversify his main courses and make them more healthy.

McCall said she would like to eat more meat.

"My roommates are kind of vegan, so I'd like to get some more meat," she said. "I feel like when I was at the Derby I had a lot more choices."

Jeremy Roberts, senior in speech, said if cost and time weren't factors, he also would like to incorporate more meat

For a more balanced diet:

- Fuji apples: 86 cents/pound
- Sara Lee whole wheat bread: $1.78/loaf
- Fresh Express 16 oz. bagged lettuce: two bags $3
- Cheerios: $2.37-$3.28/box, depending on type and size
- Deli turkey: $2.98-$5.98/pound

Source: Wal-Mart, 101 E. Bluemont Ave.

into his diet. He said he doesn't have time to make special trips to the grocery store to buy fresh meat, and he doesn't plan meals ahead of time in order to thaw frozen meat.

"Eight out of the last 10 meals we've had were pasta, and it's different each time," Roberts said.

He and his roommates fix community meals, which are often pasta with homemade sauce, with cheese or with any number of different additions. Frozen pizza is also a staple.

"When frozen pizzas are on sale for $3, we buy as many as we can," Roberts said. "We look for the clearance stuff."

Watts, on the other hand, said he incorporates meat into his diet in the mornings, with breakfasts like a chicken-and-vegetable omelet. His lunches are often leftovers, he said, and dinners are pasta and whatever else is in his refrigerator.

Sandy Procter, associate specialist in human nutrition for K-State Research and Extension, said most Americans get enough protein in their diets through sources like cheese, eggs and milk. She said students may not perceive chicken nuggets or fast-food tacos as sources of protein, but they are.

"A lot of what we purchase on the fly is going to be a protein source," Procter said.

Students may not purchase traditional meats, Procter said, because they think it is difficult to prepare and expensive.

She said bean burritos, omelets and shelf-stable cans of tuna or chicken that can be combined with casseroles, macaroni and cheese or ramen noodles all make easy, inexpensive sources of protein.

"It might not show up as it would in their parents' refrigerators, but for the most part, protein is usually very plentiful in the typical American diet," Procter said.

Dianna Schalles, nutritionist at Lafene Health Center, said students need more lean proteins in their diets. They can get those through beans, lean deli meats, low-fat dairy products and homemade trail mixes.

Canter said students can easily increase their fruit and vegetable consumption by picking up a bag of apples or a bag of pre-cut, pre-washed vegetables, like lettuce.

"Fresh fruits are nature's fast foods," Schalles said.

Taking a vitamin or mineral supplement can also help round out a student's diet, Canter said.

Students can get more fiber through whole grains like cereals, Schalles said. However, they need to read ingredient labels and make sure "whole wheat," "brown rice" or "whole oats" are toward the top of the list.

A lack of fiber can cause constipation in the long-term, Schalles said.

Eating a balanced diet will help maintain a student's energy level and immune system, which is important as the semester progresses, Canter said.

"If you're not really eating a balanced diet, you might be putting yourself at risk for catching colds and flu," she said. "You sort of end up paying the piper later."

But the key to a balanced diet is simple.

"Variety and moderation are the two things we look at across the board," Canter said. "We really would probably do better if we kept those two words in mind."

Canadian playwright tells story of new beginnings, strange occurrences

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A thriller about strange events in the Maine countryside opens tonight at the Manhattan Arts Center.

"I'll Be Back Before Midnight," written by Canadian playwright Peter Colley, is not well-known in the United States, but is often performed in Canada, director Michael Parker said.

The four-actor play tells the story of a husband and wife who move to the country to rekindle their relationship after the wife has a nervous breakdown.

Jan and Greg Sanderson, played by Rebecca Butler and Scott Mulryan, respectively, see strange events at their farmhouse, and Jan appears to go insane.

Other characters in the play include Greg's sister, played by K-State senior in English and journalism education, Amy Epperly, and George Willoughby, played by Manhattan resident Phil Pugh.

Butler, graduate student in speech, said it has been difficult playing a character different from herself.

"It's been challenging trying to create a full and believable character who is separate from myself," she said. "The play also has a lot of twists and surprises, which the audience will enjoy."

Mulryan, senior in theater, described his character Greg as an archeologist who has moved to the country to rebuild his relationship with Jan.

"Greg cares about his wife, but he gets very blind to what she is going through because he's very into his work and recreational activities," Mulryan said.

The positives of portraying

Trying to calm down his wife during the final dress rehearsal of "I'll Be Back Before Midnight," Greg Sanderson, played by senior in theater Scott Mulryan, speaks with Jan Sanderson, played by graduate student in speech Rebecca Butler.

Joslyn Brown
COLLEGIAN

'I'll Be Back Before Midnight'

When: 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday and Nov. 17-19; 2 p.m. Nov. 13 and 20
Where: Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Ave.
How much: $12 for adults, $10 for military, $9 for students, $5 for children
For more information, call 537-4420.

Greg are the energy and movement through the play, Mulryan said.

"The audience will get involved in the show," he said. "They'll be wondering what's around the next corner and what's going to happen next."

Parker said students and the community will enjoy the psychological scare aspect of the play.

"There aren't too many thrillers performed around here, and everybody likes to be scared and thrilled," he said.

"Seeing the stuff live brings a whole new aspect to it."

advertise with the
COLLEGIAN
532-6560

on the Wild Side

has a NEW ADDITION

Sadie River
born 10-31-05

Now she's 10 days old,
& we're celebrating by taking

10% OFF Everything in the store

1128 Moro • Aggieville • 776-2252

Snip N' Clip
Hair cut stops

Student cuts $7.95

Highlite & color service available

3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410

M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

Beer Specials

30 pk $13.39
30 pk $15.94
30 pk $15.79
30 pk $13.39
30 pk $11.84
30 pk $14.99

Keystone
Coors Light
Bud Light
Busch light
Natural Light
Miller Lite

Month of November

720 N. 3rd St.
539-3510 &
2010 Tuttle Creek
776-0767

Short Stop

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
PIZZA

$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only

ALL DAY
EVERYDAY!

1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

KSU Theatre & Dance and the Department of Music Present

Pippin
the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.
November 20 at 3 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

book by Roger O. Hirson
music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50
Seniors: $11.50
Public: $13.50

McCain Box Office
532-6428 weekdays
11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
www.ksu.edu/sctd

by the creator of Godspell and Wicked

We can't get you girls. Or boys.

We can't get you beer or cigarettes.

You won't be any cooler.

You won't be more attractive.

You won't be thinner, smarter, or suddenly wealthy.

But maybe, just maybe, you'll get the experience you need to land a job that CAN get you those things...after college.

The Kansas State Collegian is looking for people who are reliable, show initiative, and are creative and enthusiastic. If this description fits you, please apply. Pick up an application and/or job description in Kedzie 103. The following positions are available:

Executive Positions Spring 2006

- Editor in Chief
- Advertising Sales Manager

News Positions Spring 2006

- Managing Editors
- News Editors
- Desk Editors
- Reporters
- Copy Editors
- Designers
- Photographers
- Graphic Artists
- Online Journalists

Advertising Positions Spring 2006

- Assistant Advertising Managers
- Advertising Sales Representatives

Applications for executive positions due 5 p.m. Nov. 11. Interviews will be conducted Nov. 15.

Other staff applications are due 5 p.m. Nov. 16.

Get the experience you NEED.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Friday, Nov. 11, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 11

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice, 515 Bluemont, available January, no pets, laundry included, $620 plus utilities, (785)313-0462, leave message.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. Available October 1st. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$490. Three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255.

120
For Rent-
Houses

A TWO-BEDROOM house. Edge of town. Pets ok. $500, available now. (785)317-7713.

THREE-BEDROOM. THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath duplex. One-half mile from campus. Washer/dryer included. Single property owner. No pets. No smoking. 1410 Houston. Number Two. (785)776-9260.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/dryer hookups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or maloneental@yahoo.com

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom house. $200/month, next to campus, washer/dryer. Available now. (913)579-2209.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom house. Two bath, washer/dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female. pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/month. Call (485)202-0678. Available December.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ROOMMATE NEEDED. January 1, for two-bedroom house three blocks from Aggieville. Walk to campus. Rent $300. Call (913)219-7801 or (913)638-2323.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153.

SUBLEASER FOR one of four-bedrooms. University Crossing. Begins January. $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/dryer furnished. (316)850-6563.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

$365/ MONTH. University Crossing. Cable, washer/dryer, furnished. One bedroom open in two-bedroom apartment. Please call (913)909-5448.

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January-August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $350/month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for spring semester. One-half block from campus. $275. All utilities paid. Call Ashley at (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Great apartment in Wildcat Village. <http://www.village-rentals.com/> $350/month plus one-third electric and water. Washer/dryer in unit, basic cable included. Call Liz (785)456-4986.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300 plus one-third utilities. Available immediately. Please call (785)640-3288.

LAKE HOUSE, two stories. 1,700 square feet. Large deck and screened porch, sand beach, boat ramp, great view! $139,500. (785)468-3531.

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866

AVAILABLE NOW. three-bedroom, 908 Vattier, $750. Off-street parking. (785)313-2579.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, marital status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1995 SKYLINE 14x52 with appliances. $9000 or best offer. (785)787-0373 in Salina.

2000 SCHULT 16x80. Three-bedroom, two bath, large deck, fenced lot. #257 Riverchase. Reduced to sell. Call (785)564-0904 or (785)565-8292.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom apartment half block from campus. $250/month plus one-third utilities. Call (785)342-1554.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: three-bedroom house for spring semester. Rent $320 plus utilities. Very nice house. (316)990-2046.

NICE BRICK home. Washer/dryer, walk to class, porch, storage, three female roommates. $275 rent, no bills. Available January (785)443-2229.

ROOMMATE NEEDED. January 1, for two-bedroom house three blocks from Aggieville. Walk to campus. Rent $300. Call (913)219-7801 or (913)638-2323.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153.

SUBLEASER FOR one of four-bedrooms. University Crossing. Begins January. $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/dryer furnished. (316)850-6563.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

$365/ MONTH. University Crossing. Cable, washer/dryer, furnished. One bedroom open in two-bedroom apartment. Please call (913)909-5448.

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January-August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $350/month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for spring semester. One-half block from campus. $275. All utilities paid. Call Ashley at (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Great apartment in Wildcat Village. <http://www.village-rentals.com/> $350/month plus one-third electric and water. Washer/dryer in unit, basic cable included. Call Liz (785)456-4986.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300 plus one-third utilities. Available immediately. Please call (785)640-3288.

LAKE HOUSE, two stories. 1,700 square feet. Large deck and screened porch, sand beach, boat ramp, great view! $139,500. (785)468-3531.

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866

AVAILABLE NOW. three-bedroom, 908 Vattier, $750. Off-street parking. (785)313-2579.

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, marital status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

150
Sublease

MALE SUBLEASE wanted. One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $300/month plus utilities. Close to campus. (316)644-2118.

NEED MALE or female sub-leaser December. $275/month plus utilities. Close to campus. (316)644-2118.

ONE-BED, ONE bath. $385, cable included. Pay for gas and electric. Call (620)694-7766.

ONE-BEDROOM. $395, cable/ water paid. Laundry/ pool/ hot tub on site. Small pets. Quiet. Available now. (785)375-3015.

ROOM AVAILABLE from January 1st. Washer/ dryer. Near campus. $265/month. (620)560-3037.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for January 1. Spacious one-bedroom, close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)564-7134.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one bathroom apartment, near campus. $450/month plus electric. Call Caroline (785)564-1284.

SUBLEASER WANTED. Spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment, two blocks from campus. $250/month plus utilities. Contact Kelly (952)200-6842.

SUBLEASER(S) NEEDED. One block from campus! Water/ trash paid. Washer/ dryer included. Wanted for second semester. Call (316)288-9629.

TWO-BEDROOM SPA. CIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

200 service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, marital status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

THE WOMEN'S Health Group, P.A. is seeking a Certified Laboratory Technician to fill Clinic Lab Manager position. Candidate must possess excellent patient and employee relation skills, organizational skills, a positive attitude, and team building skills. It is preferred that candidates have prior lab management experience. Bachelors degree a plus. Qualified candidates should submit resumes to Administrator, 1620 Charles Place, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

SPRING BREAK. Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlesssummertours.com.

Find your soulmate! Place a personal in the Classifieds. Kedzie 103-532-6555

QUIZNO'S SUB HMMH...TOASTY!

sudoku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

Advertising Design Practicum/Newspaper MC 484

Earn class credit working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2006. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary. Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for an application. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.

Graphic Design Internship Advertising Design — Kansas State Collegian

If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus spring 2006 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Your art department adviser's permission is required. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.

Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR MACTECHS

Student Publications Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning the first week of January 2006.

The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmind, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server.

Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in spring semester 2006 for at least six hours at Kansas State University can be considered.

Applications are available in 113 or 115 Kedzie or online at <http://pub.ksu.edu/tech/application.html>.

Application deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, 2005. Please include your spring 2006 class schedule. Return applications to 113 Kedzie.

310
Help Wanted

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator: Full-time position available in Wabaunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansas.net.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMER. CIVICPLUS is hiring a full-time programmer. Microsoft ASP.NET and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

RETAIL SALES Clerk position available at McMillin's Liquor. Apply in person at 930 Hayes Drive Suite A. Must be able to work evenings and weekends.

ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

STUDENT NEEDING ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069

THE WOMEN'S Health Group, P.A. is seeking a Certified Laboratory Technician to fill Clinic Lab Manager position. Candidate must possess excellent patient and employee relation skills, organizational skills, a positive attitude, and team building skills. It is preferred that candidates have prior lab management experience. Bachelors degree a plus. Qualified candidates should submit resumes to Administrator, 1620 Charles Place, Manhattan, KS 66502. No phone calls please.

SPRING BREAK. Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlesssummertours.com.

Find your soulmate! Place a personal in the Classifieds. Kedzie 103-532-6555

QUIZNO'S SUB HMMH...TOASTY!

sudoku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

Advertising Design Practicum/Newspaper MC 484

Earn class credit working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2006. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary. Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for an application. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.

Graphic Design Internship Advertising Design — Kansas State Collegian

If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus spring 2006 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Your art department adviser's permission is required. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.

Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR MACTECHS

Student Publications Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning the first week of January 2006.

The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmind, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server.

Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in spring semester 2006 for at least six hours at Kansas State University can be considered.

Applications are available in 113 or 115 Kedzie or online at <http://pub.ksu.edu/tech/application.html>.

Application deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, 2005. Please include your spring 2006 class schedule. Return applications to 113 Kedzie.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMER. CIVICPLUS is hiring a full-time programmer. Microsoft ASP.NET and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@c

FAMILY | Boos, Vondemkamp get help from friends with 3-month-old

Continued from Page 1

For diapers, Boos and Vondemkamp clip coupons.

"It helps save a couple of dollars," Vondemkamp said.

UNPLANNED BLESSING

Boos and Vondemkamp were dating each other when they found out Vondemkamp was pregnant with Ethan.

"It wasn't planned, it just happened," Vondemkamp said. "But I don't regret it."

However, Vondemkamp said she wondered how her parents would react.

"I come from a pretty conservative Catholic family," she said. "I didn't know what they would say, but my parents are really supportive."

Friends were also supportive and Boos said they sometimes offer to help with babysitting.

Not everyone is as understanding, Vondemkamp said.

"People sometimes think it's your mistake, you weren't being careful, or if you're a young mother you are promiscuous," she said.

Although Boos and Vondemkamp are engaged, they are not only getting married because of Ethan, Vondemkamp said. The couple got engaged last May.

Now that he is a parent, Boos said he has a new outlook on life.

"Before Ethan, I'd go out three nights, four nights a week you know and get pretty drunk," Boos said. "Having Ethan made me realize there are more important things to life than having fun."

Despite the challenges of being a young parent, Boos and Vondemkamp said they want people to be happy for them and their family.

"I don't want people to feel pity for us," Boos said. "He's a blessing. I wouldn't have it any other way."

SECURITY | Program designed to allow people to avoid delays

Continued from Page 1

aviation security as well," Hawley told the House Homeland Security subcommittee on economic security last week.

The program is designed to let people avoid security check delays and to allow screeners to focus on other at-risk travelers, said Chris Harding, customer service representative of TSA Wichita Mid-Continent Airport.

Orlando International Airport head and Court TV founder Steven Brill told the Senate subcommittee that 10,000 frequent travelers have paid nearly $80 to join the program.

Screenings lasted an average of four seconds for registered travelers. The average total wait time for registered travelers was three minutes, compared to the much longer regular wait time of 31 minutes, 48 seconds, Brill said.

"You know, a program like this seems reasonable, if you're willing to cough up the 80 bucks," Wichita resident Drew Patterson said. "It'd be a pretty sweet deal to brush through security and not have to worry, at least for people who frequent airports constantly."

While some people may slide through security faster upon launch of the program, groups like the American Civil Liberties Union said it forces passengers to give up personal information for a little convenience.

ACLU legal counsel Timothy Sparapani said this is also an opportunity for terrorists to learn if they are on any security watch lists.

"Those who don't want to give up this information — or who can't afford the costs — will have to deal with other airport screening lines growing exponentially longer," Sparapani told to the Associated Press.

CONTEST | Wildcat cheerleader represents K-State in online competition

Continued from Page 1

and Athlon Sports chose Lair.

This is Lair's second year on the squad.

"She's got a great personality," he said. "She's athletic. She's talented."

Both Lair and Enlow said Lair's participation in the contest is good for K-State.

"Cheerleading in Kansas isn't as big as it is in other places," Lair said. "It'll open people's eyes that we do have a good program here."

Kelly Dupree, a University of Kentucky cheerleader who currently has about double Lair's vote total, is the face of Kentucky cheerleading, Lair said.

"I'm a little nervous," Lair said. "I don't know if I can handle this for three weeks."

Kentucky is one of the biggest states for cheerleading, Lair said, but K-State's cheer-

Vote totals as of Thursday

Kelly Dupree (SEC, University of Kentucky): 8,711
Kelli Lair (Big 12, K-State): 4,373
Jennifer Ogletree (Big East, University of Cincinnati): 2,686
Andrea Lligibel (Big Ten, Indiana University): 2,435
Ashley White (ACC, University of Miami): 1,294
Christy Delp (PAC 10, University of California-Los Angeles): 119
To vote, go to www.athlonsports.com/spirit.

leading squad has seen steady improvement since Enlow took over as coach.

Both the women's-only and the coed squads will be competing in national competitions in spring 2006.

"I've been in love with K-State cheerleading since I was little," Lair said. "Hopefully someday we can be one of the powerhouses for cheerleading."

$3 OFF

Full Set

White Tips

K NAILS

with student ID and coupon expires 11/20/05

2030 Tuttle Creek Blvd. • 776-2444

Veterans Day

Clafin Books and Copies

Check out SHOUT OUTS

in the Classifieds Today!

"Yeah, I want you to notice."

Bling your ring with the HOTTEST gear for your phone.

Do Your Thing

www.your-thing.com

Order Now, Right From Your Phone!

Type in the 6-digit code and text it to 386. A link to your purchase will be sent to your msg inbox!

Supported carriers: Cingular.

Save 20% with the Ringtone

3 PACK HOOKUP

Sometimes One Just Isn't Enough!

Get 3 new real music ringtones every month for just $5.99. Text HOOKUP to 7225 to

SUBSCRIBE NOW

Games & Apps for as low as $3.99* Text code to 386

141040	141041	141042	141043	141044	141045
141047	141048	141050	141051	141052	141053
141054	141055	141056	141057	141058	141059
141060	141061	141062	141063	141065	141066

Graphics for $1.99 Text code to 386

141080	141081	141082	141083	141084	141085	141086	141087
141088	141089	141090	141091	141092	141093	141094	141095

NAACP, USD 383 diversity commission consider reform

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Elected officials, parents, students and concerned citizens crowded into the Douglass Community Center Annex, 901 Yuma, for an education town meeting Saturday afternoon.

The meeting was presented by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Manhattan-Ogden Diversity Commission, and was titled "Bridging the Achievement Gap: Our Children... Our Community... Our Concerns... Our Solutions."

An 11-person panel, including USD 383 Superintendent Bob Shannon, administrators and educators throughout the district, parents and high school students, discussed topics presented by the audience.

"I don't know if anyone heard the sound of the children playing outside, but I did," David Griffin, assistant dean of secondary education for K-State, said. "And that's why we're here - to keep that sound alive and well."

Ethnic achievement gaps have been an issue for the district since results from the state assessments taken during the 2004-2005 academic year were released.

According to the Kansas State Department of Education, a considerable discrepancy existed between the proficiency rates of multi-cultural students.

White students at Manhattan High School, east and west campuses combined, scored a proficiency rate of 81.51 percent. African American students received 7.89 percent proficiency and Hispanic students placed at 3.53 percent. Students of other ethnicities received a score of 7.06 percent proficiency combined.

The USD 383 minority population is currently 23 percent. Minority teachers make up 4 percent of the staff, 5 percent of administrative officials are of minority descent, and 13 percent of classified employees are multi-cultural.

Board of Education members will be receiving a board agenda for Wednesday's meeting, which includes suggestions to develop some specific plans for attracting more minority students and faculty to the district, Shannon said.

However, the limited ethnic diversity that exists within the district is not the only factor blamed for the achievement gaps.

"There's another force we're not

See NAACP Page 6

At a loss in Lincoln

K-State's Casey Hausman and Yamon Figurs, hang their heads after the Wildcats 27-25 loss to Nebraska Saturday afternoon at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln, Neb. With the loss, the Wildcats will not play in a post-season bowl game for a second consecutive year.

Photos by Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

K-State Wildcats relinquish 4th-quarter lead, bowl bid

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

LINCOLN, Neb. — The K-State football team did not want to be linked to last year's 4-7 team that missed a bowl game for the first time in 12 seasons. They were going to be different, have more pride and spirit on and off the field, paying the price during the off-season with early morning workouts.

Going into the last game of the year at home against Missouri this Saturday, they are staring the results of the 2004 team directly in the face after their 27-25 loss to Nebraska eliminated them from bowl eligibility for the second straight season, and a 4-6 record overall.

"I don't know, I am not that philosophical right now," coach Bill Snyder said after the game about the loss reflecting what the season has been about. "We have experienced this before, quite obviously. I don't know if it is exactly the same way or not. We have had some extremely disappointing losses and this is probably as disappointing to our players and coaches as any."

Trailing 24-22, in the fourth quarter, Bryan Baldwin intercepted freshman back-up quarterback Harrison

Victor Mann struggles to get past Nebraska's Bo Ruud and other Nebraska defenders Saturday afternoon in Lincoln, Neb. Mann rushed for 32 yards during the Wildcats loss to the Huskers.

See FOOTBALL Page 8

By the numbers

0

K-State did not complete a pass during the first half. They finished with 103 yards passing.

108

The number of yards K-State was penalized. They finished with 14 penalties.

10

The total number of fumbles for both teams combined. Nebraska had seven, and lost two.

2

Number of safeties against Nebraska and missed PAT attempts by K-State

248

Number of yards K-State finished with rushing. They had 134 yards in the first half.

Postage stamp prices to increase

By Brigitte Burandt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A 5.4 percent increase in the cost of postage stamps was approved Nov. 1 by the Postal Rate Commission, raising the cost of first-class stamps to 39 cents. The postcard rate will also increase one penny to 24 cents.

Cheryl McKinnon, postmaster for Manhattan, said the increase in rates was requested in order to meet a $3.1 billion escrow payment, which is due in 2006.

Some K-State students say the increase in price will not affect them.

"I only use stamps to pay my bills," Melinda Golden, junior in political science, said. "College students don't use stamps on a regular basis like the real world."

Maren Taylor, junior in agronomy, said she doesn't use stamps at all.

"I pay my bills online," she said.

The new postage rate increase will go into effect in January 2006. The last postage rate increase occurred in June 2002.

Alumni rodeo funds club, team

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The KSU Rodeo Club hosted the annual alumni rodeo Saturday and Sunday in Weber Arena. An auction was also held at R.C. McGraw's.

All proceeds from the auction will fund academic and rodeo scholarships, travel expenses for the rodeo team, purchase of practice stock and the K-State sponsored National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association rodeo.

Elly Blasi, senior in animal science and industry and Miss Rodeo K-State 2005 said the auction would add much needed money to the rodeo club to fund trips to rodeos in the Central Plains Region.

NIRA cards cost $245, and travel

See RODEO Page 6

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

Ashley Cooper, senior in agribusiness, finishes her barrel-racing event at the KSU Rodeo Club's annual alumni rodeo on Saturday.

Today

High 85
Low 58

Wednesday

High 75
Low 56

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Sebelius named Top 5

Gov. Kathleen Sebelius was named one of the five best governors in the United States by Time magazine. "Through spending cuts, fee increases and some borrowing, Sebelius was able to balance Kansas' budget in her first year in office without raising taxes or cutting funding for education," the magazine said Sunday.

Manager killed

Robin Bell, 44, was found beaten to death at 2:30 a.m. Saturday inside the Dollar General store in Bonner Springs, Kan., where she was manager. Sgt. Mark Zaretski said she suffered a severe head trauma. Police are reviewing a tape from a security camera at a nearby restaurant, but no suspects have been identified.

Georgia-Pacific acquired

Georgia-Pacific Corp. is being acquired for more than $13 billion by Wichita-based Koch Industries Inc. The deal was announced Sunday. It also includes the assumption of a $7.8 billion in Georgia-Pacific debt. Paper products from Georgia-Pacific include Brawny paper towels and Angel Soft tissue.

DON'T FORGET

Students with 10 or more credit hours are eligible to enroll today.

The KSU Women's Glee Club will meet at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.

The Intramurals swim meet will begin at 7:30 tonight in the Natatorium. For more information about intramurals, visit www.reservices.ksu.edu/intramurals.

Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!

1122 Laramie539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Malt drink

4 Tummy muscles, for short

7 Had on

11 Bank transaction

13 Bikini half

14 Fanzine subject

15 Sit for a snapshot

16 Auto

17 Welsh emblem

18 Reline ore

20 Sailing vessel

22 America's uncle

24 A little lower?

28 Suspend indefinitely

32 The Beast's beauty

33 Collateral, maybe

34 Dine

36 Schnoz

37 Sidestep

39 Decorate with gems

DOWN

1 Swiss range

2 Weaving apparatus

3 Relaxation

4 "Lost" network

5 Heehaw

6 Fergie, more formally

7 "On the Road Again" singer

8 Praise in verse

9 Wade opponent

10 Wapiti

12 Longtime Sinatra collaborator

19 Greek cross

21 Symbol of intrigue

23 "Dalloway"

25 Circulate

26 Otherwise

27 Angler's item

28 Winglike

29 Prima donna

30 Military vehicle

31 Gist

35 Energy

38 Links prop

40 Binge

42 Hydrophobic

45 Turner or Wood

47 Second-hand

48 Nastase of tennis

49 Turnpike fee

50 George W.'s brother

51 Eggs

52 Melody

54 Whatever number

Solution time: 27 mins.

NASAL PAS ACT
ADIEU EMO NEE
PEARS SILENCE
MOTHER RUIN
PRE SET RALLY
EASE LACES
PHENOL ADESTE
GROAN RIOT
ADLIB BOB GOD
IRAN BREACH
SIBERIA GOTTA
LEO ADD KLEIN
ERR WET SADLY

WEEK IN REVIEW

7 things you didn't know 7 days ago

Avian flu found in Kuwait; officials say no threat to humans

The first known case of the bird flu in the Arab world was reported Nov. 11 after a dead flamingo was found on a Kuwaiti beach. Mohammed al-Mihana of Kuwait's Public Authority for Agriculture and Fisheries said the flamingo had the deadly H5N1 flu strain. Officials said there was no indication the disease would spread to humans and saw no cause for the slaughter of bird stocks. The bird flu has devastated poultry stocks and killed more than 60 people in Asia.

Laszlo Balogh | REUTERS
Veterinarians prepare to take a blood sample from a chicken during an exercise to practice steps to be taken in case of a bird flu outbreak in Tetetlen, Hungary, Nov. 10.

RADIO HOST ARRESTED
James Keown, 31, a Jefferson City, Mo., radio talk show host was arrested Nov. 7 on murder charges. Keown is suspected of allegedly poisoning his wife by spiking her Gatorade with a chemical found in antifreeze. Julie Keown, 31, began experiencing nausea, vomiting and dizziness and developed a rash on her leg in May 2004. On Aug. 20, 2004, she was admitted to the hospital and tests showed her kidneys were damaged and she was in need of a transplant. She was released but was brought back to the hospital on Sept. 4 and slipped into a coma; she was pronounced dead four days later. A preliminary autopsy showed Keown had ingested a lethal dose of ethylene glycol about eight to 10 hours before she was admitted. Middlesex District Attorney Martha Coakley said the motive may have been financial because of Julie Keown's $250,000 life insurance policy, but her husband has never been able to collect because the death came under investigation.

POLICE ARREST SUSPECTS
Australia police arrested 17 men on Nov. 8 suspected of planning a major bombing in Australia. Norm Hazzard, who heads the state's counter-terrorism police unit, told the Associated Press that the suspects were followers of al-Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden. Police said they expected more arrests in coming days and weeks. "This has nothing to do with ethnic origin, cultural beliefs or religious beliefs, this is about people preparing to commit an act of terrorism," New South Wales Police Commissioner Ken Moroney said in an interview with the AP.

TEACHERS CONTINUE STRIKE
Oregon Trail District teachers are in the third week of their strike over the No Child Left Behind Act. Teachers said they believed they will be replaced, penalized or transferred if their schools don't perform. According to No Child Left Behind, schools must bring increasing percentages of children from all backgrounds on reading, math and writing tests. Schools that repeatedly fail to measure up will face sanctions, which include school closure. Unions are asking for the right to take part in developing new required curriculums and want assurances that staff will not be replaced or transferred.

WAL-MART APOLOGIZES
Wal-Mart Stores Inc. said on Nov. 10 the employee who wrote an e-mail to a shopper that Christmas is a mix of world religions, but the company still supports the generic greeting "Happy Holidays" as being more inclusive of celebrations by other faiths, no longer works for the company. The Catholic League for Religious and Civil Rights called for a boycott over Wal-Mart's approach to Christmas, which has ended because of an apology. The customer service worker, identified only as Kirby, was responding to an e-mail sent by a customer who was complaining about the replacement of "Merry Christmas." Wal-Mart spokesman Dan Fogleman said the e-mail had been taken out of context and said Wal-Mart apologizes to any person or organization who was offended by the e-mail.

NEO-NAZIS TURN VIOLENT
A group of neo-Nazi extremists clashed with police Nov. 12 outside the largest World War II cemetery in Halbe, Germany. About 2,000 neo-Nazis hoped to stage a demonstration in honor of the Nazi soldiers. Counter-demonstrators blocked the entrance to the cemetery, and officers were there to keep the peace between the two sides. The neo-Nazis tried to rush the police and counter-demonstrators, but were driven back. Several officers were injured.

LEADERS WANT TROOPS OUT
Sunni Arab leaders demanded that the United States and Iraq stop military operations in heavily Sunni areas. The leaders are accusing the Shiite-led government of trying to divide the country because of next month's legislative elections. Salih al-Mutlaq, a spokesman for the National Dialogue Front, said military offensives are meant to stop Sunnis from voting in the Dec. 15 election. U.S. commanders said the offensives are to encourage Sunnis to vote by keeping insurgents from tampering with the ballot.

Source: The Associated Press

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

11 12 13 14

15 16 17

18 19 20 21

22 23 24 25 26 27

28 29 30 31 32

33 34 35 36

37 38 39 40

41 42 43

44 45 46 47 48 49

50 51 52 53 54 55

56 57 58

59 60 61

11-14 CRYPTOQUIP

SL YF KNH UNLSF RQKN

WUMYF MKSFM KGR KF

RIU RKPF Y NKR, PKGNH

IU WU Y TURQK-MFKTU?

Yesterday's Cryptiquip: IF YOU HAPPENED TO BE THERE WHEN SOMEONE'S REALLY MAD, WOULD YOU BE IN THE LINE OF FIRE?

Today's Cryptiquip Clue: U equals E

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Chad Godsey at 2 p.m. today in Throckmorton 2002.
- The Women's Glee club will perform at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.
- The KSU Theatre will perform musical numbers from "Pippin" at noon today in the Union Courtyard.
- Up 'til Dawn will have the make-up letterwriting party from 6 to 9 tonight in the alumni center ballroom.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

At press time, the weekend's arrest report was unavailable.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

To advertise on kstatecollegian.com
Call 785-532-6560

1814 Clifton Rd.
(785) 776-3771
Fax: (785) 776-1009

Claflin
Books and Copies

Mon-Fri 9am - 7pm
Sat 9am - 5pm
Sun 1pm - 5pm

The Best Quality Copying and Printing in Town!

sudoku

On the classified
Page

Little Caesars

HOT-N-READY
PIZZA

$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Crazy Out Only

ALL DAY,
EVERYDAY!

1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Pregnancy
Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

MEAL
MANIA

Quiznos Sub
MMMM...TOASTY!

This coupon entitles you to:
FREE CHIP/DRINK WITH PURCHASE OF ANY SIZE SUB

Expires: 12-31-05

2015 Hayden Drive
Manhattan, KS 66503
Phone: 785-538-8800
Fax: 785-538-0802

2815 Anderson Road
Manhattan, KS 66502
Phone: 785-778-4200
Fax: 785-778-6600

DELIVERY
539-9500

WWW.QUIZNOS.COM

$1 off
Build your own Sundae

When you clip this coupon!

5th & Fort Riley Blvd. • 537-9553

More Shoes, More Service, More Friendly

A steady throb of versatility, adaptability & performance. Delivers instinctive reaction to hard use and varying, multi-sport demands.

MERRELL

Brown's SHOE Co.

New Business Hours • Mon.-Sat. 9 AM - 6 PM
311 Poyntz Ave. • 776-6612 • Downtown Manhattan

NO CONTRACTS
NO CREDIT CHECK
NO DEPOSIT

NO Age Limit

For the Best Prepay Plans on the Planet

Kansas Wireless

MANHATTAN
305 Fort Riley Blvd
785.565.9219

JUNCTION CITY
7th & Washington
785.238.4020

Phones Start At $19.95

clip & save
FREE Faceplate
When you sign up for Prepaid Service
Expires 12/31/05

go one better
CELLULARONE
WIRELESS PHONE OWNERS

Royal Thai Cuisine

"One of the best quality restaurants in town"

Beautiful Decor and Friendly Service

Very peaceful & relaxing atmosphere

Variety of Food with many choices of:
meat, seafood, tofu, and fresh veggies
at affordable prices.

Fast Service, All main dishes served with free tasty soup of the day and Crab
Rangoon that everyone loves!

Hours: 11am-10pm, 7 days a week
3003 Anderson Ave. (in plaza west, by Alco)
539-0399

A day for remembrance

Photo by Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Students from Chris Payne's second-grade class of Theodore Roosevelt Elementary School wave American flags during a Veteran's Day Parade on Poyntz Avenue Friday morning. The parade started at City Park and ended at the Manhattan Town Center Mall.

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Charlotte Congleton's class of second-graders from Woodrow Wilson Elementary stood at the northeast corner of Juliet and Poyntz avenues before the start of Friday's Veteran's Day Parade.

The students played with small American flags they were given for the parade and joked about not letting them touch the ground.

"It's not touching, it's not touching," Maddie Taylor, 7, said as she touched the wooden pole to the concrete but kept the flag itself in the air.

Across the street on the southwest corner, Andrea Harral, a teacher at Seven Dolors Child Care Center, kept watch over a group of preschoolers all waiting for a chance at some candy.

Army Lt. Col. Patrick Johnson, assistant professor of military science, organized the parade with help from K-State Army and Air Force ROTC cadets. Students, residents and soldiers were prominent both on the sidewalk and in the parade.

The parade included many distinguished officers and soldiers from Fort Riley, several area politicians and hundreds of schoolchildren carrying posters, waving flags in support of veterans.

Maj. Carl Rosenberg, a chaplain with the 24th Infantry Division, marched with his son Nathan, 11, and Nathan's fifth-grade class taught by Angie Motley at Amanda Arnold Elementary School.

"It's a day for soldiers to be

Online

For more Veteran's Day coverage, go to www.kstatecollegian.com.

with their families and honor the veterans that went before us," he said.

The parade went down Poyntz Avenue and each entry paused at the grandstand in front of the Riley County Courthouse. They were then announced by Col. Richard Jepsen, a veteran of World War II who was stationed at Fort Riley in the 1960s while in the National Guard and spent several years working at K-State.

The parade continued through an arch made by the upright ladders of two firetrucks with an American flag hung by rope between them.

Edward Field stood between the arch and the parade's end, who saluted with the passing of each of the several military color guards bearing the American flag.

He said he served two tours in Iraq and was saluting in honor of the soldiers he had served with.

His family sat near his feet. He saluted alone and didn't make anyone else salute with him.

"It's a personal preference," he said. "I'm not going to tell people what to do, that wouldn't be what freedom is about."

Bill Salazar, who said he served in the Army from 1961 to 1981, stood with his 2-year-old granddaughter, Keilee, to watch the parade.

"She loves it, she's having a ball," he said as Keilee tried to wave an American flag that was almost as big as her. "This is her first parade."

The flag proved too much for the girl, who lost her grip and dropped it. Her grandfather picked it up and waved it himself and a soldier with the parade walked up and handed her one of the small American flags he was distributing to parade-watchers.

The last entry in the parade was Fort Riley's Commanding General's Color Guard, a unit of soldiers who march in uniforms made to match those worn by Union troops in the Civil War. This was the last event for the color guard's leader, Capt. Cayla Shusher, who is being transferred to Fort Rucker in Alabama.

"Between these guys and these horses, it's been a dream job," she said.

That afternoon, members of the Arnold Air Society, a part of the K-State Air Force ROTC and the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity sponsored a demonstration on prisoners of war in Bosco Student Plaza.

Members of the two groups took turns sitting in a wooden cage to represent the confinement of thousands of American soldiers throughout history, and uniformed guards stood next to the cage holding mock rifles. Each hour, a different POW from history was depicted.

At 4 p.m., the demonstration closed with a ceremony for all prisoners of war.

"We give them their due gratitude, appreciation and thanks," said Cadet Natasha DelRosario, junior in industrial engineering, who organized the demonstration.

1,400 Kansas athletes compete in Special Olympics Fall Classic

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Special Olympics Kansas was in town this weekend and volunteers turned out in droves to run the tournament.

More than 1,400 athletes from Kansas participated in this year's Fall Classic, a two-day bowling and volleyball tournament.

Susan Krumm, assistant vice president of sports and competition with the Special Olympics, said the athletes were bowled at three different locations — Zuckey Bowl Inc., the K-State Student Union and Custer Hill Bowling Center in Fort. Riley, Kan. Volleyball matches took place at the Peters Recreation Complex.

Krumm said athletes qualified through area tournaments in order to participate in the Fall Classic, the state tournament.

A Friday night dance provided a break in competition for the athletes.

"We have a celebration dance, and the athletes love it because they get to see their friends from across the state," Krumm said.

Krumm said many of the athletes returned from previous years, and that they all have made friends during the tour.

"I like the dances," athlete Mary Ann Timmons said. "But I don't dance with anybody. I dance at home by myself."

The McPherson Bullpups, coached by George and Ramona Eck, were one of several teams in competition.

"We have 56 athletes on our team, and half of them are over playing volleyball," said George Eck, who is also a local coordinator for Special Olympics. "Our team is doing very well."

George Eck said everyone who participates in the Fall Classic wins something. Medals were awarded to the top three finishers.

"Some teams get ribbons, but ours likes the medals better," he said. "No one goes home empty-handed."

George Eck said in past years, there has been a banquet for the athletes before the dance. This year, funding was not sufficient.

"Special Olympics couldn't afford a banquet for all the athletes this year," he said. "But they love the dance. They have such a good time. It's just one big party for them."

Ramona Eck said the out-of-town excursion is a big deal for the athletes. The Bullpups' travel and other expenses are covered by contributions.

"Every penny goes to benefit the athletes," George Eck said.

The Ecks said when money is short, they do not hesitate to purchase necessary items for their team. In the past five years they have volunteered to coach a team, they usually end up donating quite a bit each year to support the team, both said.

Krumm said many people donated their time this year, including on-campus organizations and league bowlers.

Tonja Kiser, Manhattan resident, assisted with bowling.

"This is a great experience for them, and I do it because I want to see them have a good time," said Kiser, who volunteered for five years.

Athlete Michael Davis, of the McPherson Bullpups, said he likes the bowling tournament.

"I enjoy bowling," he said. "It's one of my favorite sports. I've played others but this is my favorite."

Bekah Biery, senior in secondary education, also volunteered at the tournament.

"We're volunteering for a Block-One assignment, but also for the experience," Biery said. "The people are so much fun to hang out with and very uplifting to me. I enjoy being around them."

India Nite displays music, food, culture

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Indian Students Association celebrated UTSAV 2005: The India Nite on Saturday with folk dancing, songs and skits.

UTSAV means festival, said Sham Kashyap, graduate student in computer science.

The celebration's cultural program featured members of the Indian Students Association. Songs from movies and plays, folk songs and devotional songs were also performed.

A folk dance was performed with music in three languages — Tamil, Telugu and Hindi — and a comical skit about a committee meeting encouraged audience participation.

The cultural program ended with audience members going on stage to do a folk dance with the performers.

After the program, books, clothes, musical instruments and photographs of different types of Indian weddings were on display.

Weddings were featured prominently, as they vary greatly by region in India. Sujatha Prakash, senior in pre-professional elementary education, said.

"Weddings are very different," she said. "The dresses are very different."

Several silk objects were also on display, including one made of ahimsa silk.

Normal silk is created by boiling the cocoons and killing the moth pupae and unwinding the silk. Ahimsa silk is made by allowing the pupae to develop into a moth, then gathering the silk. The silk is a little rougher, Prakash said, but the practice is more humane.

"It's the same principle of nonviolence that Gandhi preached," Prakash said.

To end UTSAV 2005, there

Photo by Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN
Playing the tabalas, Ashwin Mistoy performed at a concert in All Faiths Chapel. The concert was part of the Indian Students Association celebration on Saturday from 1:30 to 10 p.m.

was an Indian dinner in Durand Atrium and a concert in All Faiths Chapel.

ROYAL PURPLE

we've got the stories you've got to read

Get your Royal Purple yearbook in Kedzie 103, or call 532-6555.

HUNAN EXPRESS

Chinese Food Lover's Choice

BUFFET

Lunch	11:00-2:30	$3.99
Dinner	5:30-9:00	$4.99

Free Delivery: 537-0886

Fax: 539-9111

Hours: Sun. - Wed. 11 a.m. - Midnight; Th. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.

1116 Maro St. Aggieville (only a few blocks south of KSU)

SPEND OVER $25 AND GET A FREE T-SHIRT!!

$50 foil

$40 Brazilian wax or 1/2 leg

$30 pedicure

$20 women's haircut

$10 men's haircut

Shear Dynamics

Where Beauty is Just the Beginning expires: December 1st

1125 Iaromie • aggieville • manhattan • 785.776.9100

with Shannon, Bri, Ashley, or Tara

MOTIVATION

Dale Brown

Former Men's Basketball Coach
Louisiana State University

Friday, November 18
1:30 p.m.
Forum Hall
K-State Student Union

Sponsored by Leadership Studies and Programs and the President's Office

Former Russian Mafia Hit-man tells his story

VICTOR ISAJEV
FROM RIGA, LATVIA

NOVEMBER 15TH
TUESDAY 8PM
LITTLE THEATER

TO THE POINT School district, students must be accountable

The poor performance of minority students in the Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 school district presents a difficult dilemma for the parents and administrators of USD 383.

Certainly, there cannot be an acceptance of these conditions.

Instead, there must be acknowledgment of a difficult situation and a combined effort to overcome.

Although race is not a popular or easy subject to discuss, it is necessary to determine what cultural and societal factors have lead Manhattan minority students into an academic gutter.

To accomplish this task we must examine each child on an individual basis.

Children do not like to be lumped into groups, the hallmark of standardized testing, and it is irresponsible to assume that what works for one child will be effective for all children.

Empowering teachers and counselors to deal with each child on an individual basis is an important step to making children feel as if they are more than bubbles on an answer sheet.

At the same time, students must be made accountable for their own progress, both good and bad. If poor grades bear no ill consequences and good grades garner no rewards then students won't be inspired to achieve.

The problems facing children today are not ones that can be put off. For they are, undoubtedly, tomorrow's catastrophes.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

The art of compromise — like representative democracy — was an important part of the genius of America's gift to the world. The Republican and Democratic political parties today, however, seem to have lost sight of the lesson.

Both parties have become so obsessed with a win-the-next-election-at-any-cost strategy that attack politics are now considered normal and serious national problems are viewed as issues to be leveraged against the opponent rather than problems that need to be solved.

The political focus seems less upon what the average citizen wants, and more upon what the best-organized activists claim to want in the name of the rest of the citizens of the United States.

Both parties must come to realize that the number of votes for each side is close not because the country is evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats. It is close because an underlying majority of people, who do not trust the extremists on the left or the right, vote for candidates based on more than just political affiliation.

CHRISTINA FORSBERG

Unfortunately, both parties are so delusively polarized that voters find their choices increasingly limited.

Over the past few decades, polarity between the parties has increased, and the fruit of that polarity is falling even farther from the stable roots upon which our country grows.

Today's parties are completely flipped from their original positions on the political spectrum.

The Whigs, ancestors of the modern day Republican Party, originally supported the use of government to "promote, regulate, correct and reform" as stated in the Encarta Encyclopedia.

The current Democratic Party, however, once had the belief that government should act only when necessary, if at all. This is quite the philosophical role reversal for today's parties.

The Whig Party was originally created solely to oppose the policies of President Andrew Jackson. Most political parties are formed and thrive based on a common unifying set of beliefs in how the nation should be governed. When opposition for the sake of opposition takes priority over an evolving effort to improve governance, then such parties lose justification for their existence.

What happened? The focus has shifted from supporting a workable approach to governance that recognizes our differences and the need for compromise, to striving for the most votes possible in an attempt to force the winner's will upon the losing side.

John F. Kennedy famously said, "Ask not what your country can do for you ... ask what you can do for your country." That includes the very leaders that the people of America elect to government offices. If neither party can understand that they must meet the needs of all of the people in the best way possible, then both party's causes are also lost.

If neither party can get beyond its obsession with the next election contest and begin focusing on solving voter concerns, then perhaps it is again time for a viable new political party.

The last time that happened in American history, we elected a president named Abraham Lincoln. Maybe we could use someone like that now.

Christina Forsberg is a sophomore in English and economics. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

Illustrations by Christina Forsberg | COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

'Red Green Show' bids farewell to faithful fans

LUCAS MADDY

"I'm a man ... but I can change ... if I have to ... I guess."

For 15 years, the "Red Green Show" has commanded the rapt attention of tens, possibly hundreds, of faithful Public Broadcasting Service viewers whose antennas receive no other channels. Red is Ray Stevens without a song, James Earl Jones without the voice and Possum Lodge 13 leader without a choice.

Red's can-do attitude and motto found their way into the hearts of outdoorsmen lacking in looks but hoping to be lucky in love.

"If the women don't find you handsome, they should at least find you handy," he said.

Such depth of thought, camouflaged in plaid flannel and simplicity. Last Saturday before a sold-out audience of flask-packing, duct-tape wrapping, long winter diehards, after 300 episodes of inventive antics, quick quips and punctual puns, the "Red Green Show" finally played its last card.

Says the sign on the Possum Lodge door; Quando Omni Flunkus Moritati — When All Else Fails, Play Dead.

In truth, the only failure is Red's habitual tardiness in returning to satisfy wife Bernice's apparently insatiable hunger for hairy men in Christmas suspenders. Creator and lead writer Steve Smith is the main-man under the misshapen hunting hat. His pragmatic, country approach to life's everyday social and backwoods challenges with nothing more than common sense and an ever present roll of silver miracle have earned him the Order of Canada.

The commendation is the highest any Canadian civilian is eligible to receive. Good to see Uncle Red is getting his due in the Northern regions, because Americans easily forget the man who brought them canoe jousting and creative uses for stepladders. If a recent poll is any indication, perhaps Red should be promoted as the savior of the Canadian image. The top 20 neighbors of Alaska included a number of lobe-assaulting musicians (Avril Lavigne, Sum 41, Shania Twain, Neil Young, Alanis Morissette and Celine Dion) and shady thespians (Pamela Anderson, Peter North, Shannon Tweed) whose best efforts fall provinces short of Smith's wisdom and humor.

The backyard battles with physics and political correctness, gruff and insecure male bonding moments, utter disdain of technology: I smile at the man who made a moped from a bicycle and a chainsaw. It brings back memories of the childhood I barely survived.

This Christmas, give the gift that gives ideas that gives mothers heart attacks. Order the Red Green DVD (Duct-Tape Virtuoso Deluxe), gift wrap it in a checkered wool shirt, and present to that special friend who longs for an excuse to eat chili and sip Hot Damn on a frigid winter's eve.

Lucas Maddy is a senior in agriculture technology management. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@pub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

To the Tri-Delts dancing naked in my house, thank you. You made my week.

To the person calling Shane Sanders a sorry fan, his article had nothing to do with K-State or even college sports. The gap between your mother's front teeth, though significant, is nothing compared to the logical gaps in your argument. Why don't you go back to Lawrence, jerkface?

Thank you Zachary Eckels for writing the article about marijuana, I completely agree. See you in Denver.

Kelsey Childress is the coolest thing since sliced bread.

Who would win in a jump-rope match; Yoda or Rocky?

To the girl who keeps leaving her dirty, white q-tip in the shower on the fourth floor of Boyd, honestly, how nasty is that? Just throw it away.

So is Tiger Woods' cousin good at golf? Cause I need a new partner. Tiger Woods' cousin, if you are reading this, I'll pay for all our tee times if you just come play with me. Please.

We should be 7-3, but yet another dose, heartbreaking loss.

In due time, these close games will end in our favor and we will be good again, but to do this we must earn it.

Who would've thought blocked point after attempts and a blocked field goal would have been the difference in the game? That hurts.

Does it ever get any easier? Does the pain ever lessen? Or are we destined to follow a pattern of berating one another until the death of every living creature is on our hands?

I just found an expensive pair of sunglasses between Ackert and Throckmorton. If the owner wants them back, e-mail itemfound@gmail.com with a description.

Congratulations to the Kappa Sigma new initiates. Sigma Kappa loves you.

Oh my God, Butters the Squirrel has more Facebook friends than I do.

Wanted: Kansas State University boy, Tall, strong and handsome. Must be reliable, friendly and fun.

Do you have a test tomorrow? Nope, OK let's go.

I just found my comment on the Fourum and ran around my dorm floor.

Why do banks get to be closed on Veteran's Day, but we still have to come to class? That is not cool.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

THE EDGE

Monday, Nov. 14, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 5

Star Wars

Lucas' full saga now available
on DVD

Photos courtesy Lucasfilm Inc.

CELEBRITY QUOTES

Courtesy Art

"I remember back when I was a kid there was a comic strip called Plastic Man. His body was elastic and he could make his extremities as long as he wanted. As a youngster I didn't fully appreciate it. But I'm now thinking Plastic Man was probably pretty popular with the ladies."

Ben Affleck

"To be in this business and have tremendous integrity and only make distinguished choices is very tough. Denzel Washington's career is an enormous luxury. Compare him to Wesley Snipes. Do you think that they set out for it to be that way? All actors set out for the same thing: to make both entertaining films and important films."

Alec Baldwin

Courtesy Art

"I mean, I have a great job. I get to dress up and become somebody else, especially when it's someone like Legolas, who's this super-cool kind of otherworldly elf. It's like, I'm lucky, man, so why would I not appreciate that?"

Orlando Bloom

"I don't see myself as the Hunk of the Month"

Pierce Brosnan

"Classes were always a bore to me. I wanted to learn things on my own, not by presentations. I was a loudmouth and a clown. It came as a surprise to me, later, that I could be serious and still get attention."

Nicolas Cage

"Because of what I did when I was 10 years old, I'm not living from paycheck to paycheck, and I can do things because I want to do them."

Macauley Culkin

"I'll never understand the animal, the machine of Hollywood business. And I don't want to understand it. It's like joining a club, a clique just because everyone else is in it. You don't have any particular interest in it, and it has nothing to do with who you are as a person. You just join it because it's the thing to do."

Johnny Depp

"Did you ever notice they never take any fat hostages? You never see a guy coming out of Lebanon going: I was held hostage for seven months and I lost 175 pounds, I feel good and I look good and I learned self-discipline. That's the important thing."

Dennis Leary

"I just try to try to keep an attitude that I don't know what I'm doing. Not to the point where I'm beating myself up, but I just go in thinking that I have a lot to learn. And I hope I still have that attitude 30 years from now."

Tobey Maguire

Courtesy Art

"Now comes the part where I relieve you, the little people, of the burden of your failed and useless lives. But remember, as my plastic surgeon always said: if you gotta go, go with a smile."

Jack Nicholson

"I have to believe there's some other life force out there. I don't know in what form. But we can't have all these galaxies and universes without something going on."

John Travolta

Source: Brainy Quote

By Mark Sibilla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A long time ago, in a galaxy far, far away . . . "Star Wars" has been an integral part of the world's culture for nearly 30 years. What began in 1977 as a little-film-that-could has turned into a multi-billion dollar industry that includes everything from action figures to video games, lunch boxes to clothing and costumes; it is also the leader of special effects and digital filming technology.

"Star Wars: Episode IV A New Hope" spawned two sequels, 1980's "Star Wars: Episode V The Empire Strikes Back" and 1983's "Star Wars: Episode VI Return of the Jedi." Through work with the special effects in the film, Lucas created his own visual effects studio, Industrial Light and Magic. He then began work on his own projects and waited for the time when the technology was available to best translate the worlds and characters in his head onto the theater screen.

Lucas began thinking about getting back in the director's chair when he saw ILM's first fully digital creations in the dinosaurs of "Jurassic Park."

The Special Edition Trilogy added new digital effects to the old films; this proved to be testing grounds for digital characters, producer Rick McCallum said. Work began on the prequel trilogy and was completed with 1999's "Star Wars: Episode I The Phantom Menace." The rest, as they say, is history.

The saga is now complete. Nov. 1, marked the day that fans of the saga were able to complete their "Star Wars" DVD collection with the third, and final, movie of the prequel trilogy, "Star Wars: Episode III Revenge of the Sith."

The DVD, in addition to the feature film transferred directly from its digitally filmed source, includes commentary from writer/director George Lucas, producer Rick McCallum, animation director Rob Coleman, and ILM visual effects supervisors John Knoll and Roger Guyett.

The real treat of the DVD, however, is the included second disk that contains more than six hours of bonus material. One of the most exciting features of the bonus materials is the full-length documentary, "Within a Minute."

The purpose of the documentary is to show the amount of work and the number of individuals (conceptual artists, scene builders, sound engineers, prop-makers, musicians, etc.) that are required to make a scene in a movie that is literally less than a minute in length, McCallum said.

"The main purpose of the ('Within a Minute') documentary is to demystify the film business," he said. "We want to show those who are interested in film just how many people are involved and how the process [of creating a film] develops."

McCallum met George Lucas in England when he was working on the set of a film called "Dream Child," McCallum said.

Lucas and McCallum kept in touch until 1989, when McCallum was recruited to produce the "Young Indiana Jones" TV series. McCallum

"Star Wars" DVD special features

■ Six never-before-seen deleted scenes with commentary by George Lucas and Rick McCallum

■ Full-length documentary, "In a Minute," which gives an in-depth look at the filmmaking process for "Star Wars: Episode III Revenge of the Sith"

■ "The Chosen One" feature that focuses on Anakin Skywalker's transformation into Darth Vader

■ Behind-the-scenes web documentary collection that gives a look into the making of certain aspects of the film

■ Theatrical trailers and promotional television and print campaign spots

■ "A Hero Falls" music video featuring John Williams and the London Symphony Orchestra has been with Lucas ever since and has been in charge of production for all of Lucas' endeavors.

McCallum helmed production duties for "The Special Edition Trilogy" as well as all three prequel movies: "Star Wars" has been an integral part of McCallum's career as a producer and he said he is sad to know that it will end, he said. His sorrow is also mixed with feelings of being free at last of "Star Wars." It felt like the right time to end the movie series, he said.

Lucas will not be making any further "Star Wars" films, McCallum said. There is a live-action TV series in the works that will take place between "Episode III" and "Episode IV." It will focus on the young life of Luke Skywalker as he grows up on his aunt and uncle's moisture farm on Tatooine. The release of "Star Wars" games and merchandise will continue, McCallum said.

"All of the revenue from merchandising allows George to keep his films truly independent and 'in-house,'" he said.

Lucas is also working on new, personal films. One such story is of the Tuskegee Airman, an all-black company that fought in World War II. It will focus on the racism and tribulations faced by these brave men, McCallum said.

Evolution of Darth Vader

'Derailed' falls short as psychological thriller

"Derailed"
★★★★★

Movie review by Christina Hansen

"Derailed" is a dark action thriller that explores the danger of lies, and the lengths to which people will go to protect their most shameful secrets.

Clive Owen ("Closer" and "Sin City") plays mild-mannered Charles Schine, a successful advertising executive and dedicated family man who seems to have it all.

Hidden under Charles' pleasant facade, however, are the daily demands of a daughter's serious illness, and the toll they have taken on Charles' relationship with his wife. There are staggering bills to pay, and the burden has left him lonely and burnt out.

Then one day Charles misses his usual train, and meets an alluring fellow commuter, Lucinda Harris (Jennifer Aniston), who will change his life forever.

The two hit it off, and immediately strike up a friendship. But what starts as casual phone conversations and friendly lunch dates quickly evolves into dinner drinks, lies to their spouses, and nervously checking into a seedy motel to spend the night together.

The couple is interrupted when a brutal attacker bursts through the door. He beats Charles unconscious, rapes Lucinda, and leaves with their wallets and cell phones in hand.

Too ashamed to call the police, the two part ways, hoping to forget the terrible night ever happened. But their attacker, armed with their identities and dirty secret, refuses to fade away.

Blackmail, threats and bloodshed ensue as Charles and Lucinda try to escape the nightmare that their brief affair has become. Charles creates lie after lie to cover his dishonesty, and struggles to turn the tables of victimhood on his vicious attacker.

Director Mikael Hafstrom built "Derailed" into a dark, action thriller, where nothing is ever quite what it seems.

While loaded with tension and suspense, the film never quite lives up to its full potential as a psychological thriller. A few too many gaps in logic, and an ending twist that has been executed before in superior films, leave too many questions unanswered.

Owen and Aniston deliver riveting performances, but their characters are never fully explored. For example, why Charles and Lucinda never break down and call the police seems unfathomable after watching an hour and a half of the film.

Ultimately, "Derailed" is a diverting film that packs creative punch and plenty of surprises. Fewer gunshots and more character development, however, may have pushed this film's caliber from simply good to great.

RODEO | Auction proceeds to fund team scholarships, expenses

Continued from Page 1

expenses are high to send the rodeo participants to compete.

"We're already out of money from SGA," Blasi said.

The silent and live auction at RC McGraw's featured prizes from area merchants, Blasi said.

"The community really does help us out a lot. We wouldn't be able to do it without the community," she said.

The alumni rodeo and jackpot roping events included bullriding, barrel racing, calf roping, breakaway roping, steer wrestling, goat tying and team roping.

The jackpot rodeo included an open 3D barrel race, calf roping, breakaway roping, goat tying and team roping.

The KSU Rodeo Club is growing in size, and there is a lot more involvement, Blasi said.

Most of the participants are from the College of Agriculture, but that isn't necessary factor in ability to be part of the rodeo team.

Lucas Holland, freshman pre-professional construction science and management performed well the calf roping event in the region, which is remarkable for a freshman, Blasi said.

His brother, Rob Holland, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, won the team roping event in the region last year.

A graduate student who is considered a coach, but the team members are respon-

Rodeo Results

Calf Roping
First place: Troy Kitchner

Breakaway
First place: Jarek VanPetten

Goat Tying
First place: Jamie Dunn

Barrels
First place: Kandee Priebis

Team Roping
First place: Rob and Luke Holland

Source: KSU Rodeo Club

sible for all facets of running the club and setting up events, said Shelly Brenton, senior in animal sciences and industry said.

Dustin Wiley, senior in animal science and industry, competed in the bullriding event, which featured a $1,000 prize and was open to all participants.

He said he has been bullriding for five years, Wiley said.

"I just do it right now because it's fun," Wiley said, adding that he didn't think about getting hurt much because that made it more likely to happen.

"You just have a positive attitude and hit the ground running," Wiley said. "It's still a sport and we're still athletes."

The bulls used for rodeo are mostly Plummer bred, due to their being smaller and more athletic, giving for a better ride.

There are two judges who

Roping a steer during team-roping, participants at the KSU Rodeo Club's annual alumni rodeo and auction competed in a variety of events, ranging from bull riding to goat tying. The rodeo was in Weber Arena on Saturday and Sunday.

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

score on a scale of 50 points each, said Ashley Cooper, senior in agribusiness and girls club president.

The first part is a scale of 1-25 and is based on the bull and how it bucks.

The more athletic it is, and the better it bucks, the higher the score. The second part is on a scale of 1-25 and ranks the cowboy and how they ride.

Wilber Kelley, professional bullfighter from Adrian, Mo. goes to 65-70 rodeos a year.

"Wherever the good Lord will let us go, we'll go," Kelley said.

He has been fighting bulls for 14 years Kelley said, and he doesn't mind people confusing him with a rodeo clown.

Rodeo clowns are there for entertainment, as a sort of half time show, while bullfighters protect the cowboy from the bull, Kelley said.

He said he had his head stepped on and spent more than two months in the hospital recovering.

He said he still is trying to get back to his previous condition, and at first he was scared of going back out in the arena.

"I'm just a little bitty squirrel trying to bust a nut in the big world of rodeo," Kelley said.

NAACP | Study shows discrepancy in students' scores

Continued from Page 1

recognizing: peer pressure. You have kids out there who will take those tests, and they're doing dot-to-dot," said Marvin Colbert, assistant principal of Manhattan High. "That's what they're doing. Not because they don't have the skills, they just haven't bought into it ... It is for themselves, and it is for their peers, and it is for their community."

The academic curriculum was another topic discussed at the meeting. The district is exploring possible ways to help those students at an academic disadvantage to catch up with their peers in terms of academic performance.

"We're almost getting to the point where we're talking about school year-round, because we know we have students with those needs," said Karen Roberts, executive director of teaching and learning for USD 383.

The NAACP is an international organization established in 1909. The mission of the organization is to ensure the political, educational, social and economic quality of rights of all persons and to eliminate racial hatred and racial discrimination.

Today the NAACP is divided into seven regional branches worldwide, with 19 divisions in Kansas alone.

"Some of the solutions that USD 383 has put in place, now you know more about them," Rep. Sydney Carlin, D-Manhattan said at the meeting's conclusion. "The question is: 'Is this a good forum?' and I think we should do it again."

Students can get money by donating plasma

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students who are strapped for cash can help others while earning money by donating plasma.

ZLB Plasma Services, 1130 Gardenway, gives $25 for a first donation, and $40 for a second donation in seven days.

Return donors receive from $15 to $20 for the first donation and $15 to $30 for the second donation.

The amount received for return donors depends on factors such as the weight and amount of plasma taken, Chase Koester, junior in management, said.

"I do it to make a little money, and it helps people," Koester said.

He learned about ZLB through an ad in the Collegian and has been donating plasma for about one year, he said.

According to ZLB Plasma Services, the plasma is used for treatment of various diseases.

It is also used for critical care cases such as shock and burn treatment, and is used during surgery and for fluid replacement.

Plasma is made of the liquid portion of blood and is used for bleeding and infection control.

ZLB Plasma Services is open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays.

People who receive tattoos or body piercings must wait before donating plasma, and ZLB adheres to federal guidelines, said Sonya Williams, senior manager of corporate communications.

"Any donor who receives a tattoo or body piercing must be deferred for a 12 month period," Williams said.

Read the Gameday edition Fridays before home games.

Junior • Petite
Blue Jeans
Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch, and more!
$2.50 - $4.95
Bring In Student ID for 25% off any one clothing item
QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL
BUY & SELL
The Apple's Heart
Boutique Atmosphere... Thriftstore Prices
"Where Kansas Meets New York"
113 S. 5th • downtown poyntz • 317-5475

Manhattan Shoe Repair

 Double Bottom Fleece Slippers
List Price $39.99
Now $29.99

 Womens House Shoes
Tan Suede/Pink Suede
List Price $29.99
Now $22.49

216 S. 4th St. • VFW Plaza Plaza • 776-1193

MADONNA
Album Release Party
Album Release Party
Monday, November 14th
10PM
S.O.S. Music 1214-C Moro
All Madonna-All Night-All Ages
Come as Your Favorite Madonna!
Costume Contest/Trivia/PRIZES!

Snip N' Clip
Hair cut stops
Student cuts $7.95
Highlite & color service available
3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410
M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

KSU Theatre & Dance and the Department of Music Present

Pippin
the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.
November 20 at 3 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

book by Roger O. Hirson
music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50
Seniors: $11.50
Public: $13.50

by the creator of Godspell and Wicked

McCain Box Office
532-6428 weekdays
11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
www.ksu.edu/sctd

CRIMPERS

$65 Foil Hilite
(add another color and haircut for $25)

$30 Men's Hilite
(add a haircut for $12)

$27 Full Set of Nails

$18 Lip/Brow Wax Combo

$40 Massage or Spa Pedicure

$47 Brazilian Wax

"Best Deal in the Ville" 717 N 11th St. • 539-7621

November Specials
Since 1975

$60 Foil Hilite
(add another color and cut for $20)

$27 Full Set of Nails

$15 Lip and Brow Combo

$35 Men's Hilite and Cut
(cut and brow wax)

CRIMPERS TOO
K-State Student Union Lower Level
Call for Appt. 532-5972

Monday Night Football

25¢ JUMBO WINGS

$2 BIG BEERS

LAST CHANCE SALOON

Chance to win a Budweiser tool box refrigerator and other prizes!

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Monday, Nov. 14, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency, 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

LIVE ONLY half block from campus and walk to class. Huge one-bedroom basement apartment. $400 plus electric (all other utilities paid). Available now with short term lease. Emerald Property Management (785)556-6899.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water, trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice, 515 Blumont, available January, no pets, laundry included, $620 plus utilities, (785)313-0462, leave message.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. Available October 1st (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

STUDIO APARTMENT. $260/month. All utilities except electric paid. Lease and deposit required. Available December 1. (785)537-7794.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX. Available now for short-term lease. Small pets okay. $550. Emerald Property Management, (785)556-6899.

120
For Rent
Houses

EVERYTHING NEW. Three-bedroom, two bath house with garage. West of campus. Available soon. Emerald Property Management, (785)556-6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or malone-entail@yahoo.com

HAVE YOUR own bathroom. Four-bedroom, four bath. Walk-in closets. BRAND NEW DUPLEX. Close to Aggieville and campus. Available now. Emerald Property Management, (785)556-6899.

THREE-BEDROOM. THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/ dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom house. $200/ month, next to campus, washer/ dryer. Available now. (913)579-2209.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (485)202-0678. Available December.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom apartment half block from campus. $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Call (785)342-1554.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: Three-bedroom house for spring semester. Rent $320 plus utilities. Very nice house. (316)990-2046.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

NICE BRICK home. Washer/ dryer, walk to class, porch, storage, three female roommates. $275 rent, no bills. Available January (785)443-2229.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153.

SUBLEASER FOR one of four-bedrooms. University Crossing. Begins January. $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/ dryer furnished. (316)650-6563.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

$365/ MONTH. University Crossing. Cable, washer/ dryer, furnished. one bedroom open in two-bedroom apartment. Please call (913)909-5448.

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January- August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $350/ month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for spring semester. One-half block from campus. $275. All utilities paid. Call Ashley at (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Great apartment in Wildcat Village. <http://www.village-rentals.com> $350/ month plus one-third electric and water. Washer/ dryer in unit. Basic cable included. Call Liz (785)458-4986.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Three blocks from campus/ four from Aggieville. Washer/ dryer. $275 month plus one-half utilities. Call (785)282-5364.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300 plus one-third utilities. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted. One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $300/ month plus utilities. Available second semester. (913)636-6686.

NEED MALE or female sub-leaser December. $275/ month plus utilities. Close to campus. (316)544-2118.

ONE-BED, ONE bath. $385, cable included. Pay for gas and electric. Call (620)694-7766.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available January. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM. $395, cable/ water paid. Laundry/ pool/ hot tub on site. Small pets. Quies. Available now. (785)375-3015.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for January 1. Spacious one-bedroom, close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)564-7134.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for spring semester. One-bedroom, one bathroom apartment, near campus. $450/ month plus electric. Call Caroline (785)564-1284.

SUBLEASER WANTED. Spring semester. Four-bedroom apartment, two blocks from campus. $250/ month plus utilities. Contact Kelly (952)200-6842.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASER WANTED. Founders Hill, four-bedroom. $308.75 a month plus bills. Very Nice! Call (785)317-1875 or (785)317-5145.

SUBLEASER(S) NEEDED. One block from campus! Water/ trash paid. Washer/ dryer included. Wanted for second semester. Call (316)288-9629.

SUBLEASING A two-bedroom close to campus. For more information call (620)276-4940.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPA-CIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

160
Office Space

AGGIEVILLE RETAIL/ office space for lease. Handi-Corner Shopping Center. Off-street parking. (785)539-0350, (785)313-2976.

200 service directory

Weight Loss & Nutrition

I LOST 55 pounds in eight weeks! See pictures and read my story online. www.loseweightfast.com.

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

BAR TENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half- two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

310
Help Wanted

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator. Full-time position available in Wabaunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansas.net.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMER, CIVICPLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

RETAIL SALES Clerk position available at McMillin's Liquor. Apply in person at 930 Hayes Drive Suite A. Must be able to work evenings and weekends.

ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

STUDENT NEEDED ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning the first week of January 2006. The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmind, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server. Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in spring semester 2006 for at least six hours at Kansas State University can be considered. Applications are available in 113 or 115 Kedzie or online at <http://apub.ksu.edu/tech/application.html>. Application deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 16, 2005. Please include your spring 2006 class schedule. Return applications to 113 Kedzie.

BROKE?
Find a job under the help wanted section.
Kedzie 103 532-6555

Quiznos Sub
MMMM...TOASTY!
sudoku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

			6	4	3	2
5		2		7	4
4	2	9				8
2	7		4				8
8		5	3					6
	6		2				5	1
	7					1	3	4
	2	7		1				8
5	3	4	9

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.
(with purchase of any size sub)

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400
open market

410
Items for Sale

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email hacman72@hotmail.com

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1998 DODGE Neon, white, two-door, five-speed, air-conditioning, dependable transportation. Great car for new driver or work vehicle. Very clean, in great shape. 75k asking $3000. (785)587-9242 for details.

530
Motorcycles

1994 NINJA 600 four-cylinder, 15,000 miles. Vance and Hines pipe. $2000. firm. (785)341-6972.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

*#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LetSureTours.com or (800)838-8202.

SPRING BREAK- Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlesssummer.com

BROKE?
Find a job under the help wanted section.
Kedzie 103 532-6555

Quiznos Sub
MMMM...TOASTY!
sudoku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

			6	4	3	2
5		2		7	4
4	2	9				8
2	7		4				8
8		5	3					6
	6		2				5	1
	7					1	3	4
	2	7		1				8
5	3	4	9

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.
(with purchase of any size sub)

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $8.50
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $9.95
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $11.65
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $12.90
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20 40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

shout outs

032
Shout Outs

ATO= KING of hoos.

CHUCK NORRIS is my baby's father

MISS ALPHA Chi Omega in red Grand AM. VBB 015, after your AMS drop, you should watch your speed on Kimball in the school zone

GODDARD LIONS, LEO WOLVES, Parsons Vikings, Wichita SE Buffaloes, school wearing your high school t-shirts, sweats and hoodies, you're in college now, invest in some new gear.

GOOD NEWS: THERE are two thriving swinger groups in the Manhattan area. Oh what they teach in class. I want to join, at least I can get some action.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Matt! We love you!

HEY MEN of the blue and white. Just a tip...someone might join your frat if you stop sharing women.

I RECENTLY found myself daydreaming about my 75 year old psychology prof.

I TOOK your baseball hostage... now guess what you have to do to get it back.

K. LOPINA is the coolest kid ever... did you know he plays football and wears jeans shorts?

MARBLE SLAB style, that's how I like my ice cream and boyfriend. HARD AND COLD!

OLATHE EAST- Hawks, Olathe west- Falcons, hummm... bird names, what is that supposed to mean.

SO I met the girl on the sixth floor of Hale, we are meeting again in the stacks.

THE VETERAN'S Day parade was nice and well attended, wish you were there.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/kstc www.bobbyts.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105
For Rent- Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent- Apt. Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments. All utilities paid! Available in December and January, offering semester leases. Call MDI at (785)776-3804.

MONTH- MONTH Leases. Two-bedroom, $520. Three-bedroom, $620. 1510 College Ave. (785)537-2096.

K-State senior Joe Moore competes Sept. 9 in the K-State/KU Dual in Manhattan. The Wildcats ended their season Saturday with a 14th-place finish by the men's team at the NCAA Midwest regionals.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

K-State finishes 14th at regionals

By Chris Patch
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State cross country season ended with a 14th place finish by the men's team at the NCAA Midwest regionals Saturday in Iowa City, Iowa.

Senior Joseph Moore led the way for the Wildcats, finishing 31st with a time of 32 minutes, 3 seconds, narrowly missing the top-25 cut-off that qualifies runners for nationals.

The women's team, which struggled with injuries throughout the year, did not run. Liliani Mendez and Jana Gwinn were the only two female runners. Mendez finished 50th with a time of 22:44.

Gwinn placed 136th with a time of 24:55.

Coach Michael Smith said he was somewhat pleased with the squad's effort.

"I think we finished where we could, we didn't do anything special," Smith said. "We ran an average race, (Joseph) Moore ran what he could run. We thought five teams from four regionals could make the NCAA's, so it was a tough meet."

Throughout the season, the men's team struggled to crack into the top half of races, while the injury-plagued women's team found themselves routinely in the back of the pack. The respective eighth and 10th place Big 12 finishes were typical of the season.

Smith said the men did an adequate job meeting expectations.

"I think the men did what they could do," he said. "Some guys ran better than expected, some guys met expectations. We were better than we thought we could be at the beginning of the year. Is that where we want to be? No. Is that successful? No. But it's realistic."

"With the women it's not what we want, we can be better but that's going to take time. Cross country is lumped with track (at K-State), so we're competing with schools that maybe put all of their emphasis in that area and neglect track. We don't do that, for us to compete it takes time. You can't do it all at once."

With no representatives at nationals, the Wildcats will begin to prepare for track season, which starts Dec. 9 with the Carol Robinson Winter Pentathlon.

SPORTS ONLINE

The rowing team defeated Kansas in the ninth annual Sunflower Showdown on Saturday. To read on, go to www.kstatecollegian.com.

NFL Scores

Arizona	21	Houston	17
Detroit	29	Indianapolis	31
Kansas City	3	Minnesota	24
Buffalo	14	NY Giants	21
New England	23	Denver	31
Miami	16	Oakland	17
Baltimore	3	Green Bay	33
Jacksonville	30	Atlanta	25
NY Jets	3	San Francisco	9
Carolina	30	Chicago	17
St. Louis	16	Washington	35
Seattle	31	Tampa Bay	36
Cleveland	21
Pittsburgh	34

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

CFB | 3 Wildcats named to Big 12 Anniversary Team

Three K-State Wildcats were named to the Big 12 Conference's 10th Anniversary Football Team, league officials announced Nov. 10.

The list of K-Staters on the 26-man team includes defensive back Terence Newman, return specialist David Allen and place-kicker Martin Gramatica.

The team was selected by a combination of media and online votes from Big 12 fans. More than 2,300 fans participated in online voting through the league's Web site.

In order to be eligible for consideration, candidates must have been an All-Big 12 First Team selection at least once in their careers.

Newman

CSC | Manhattan Christian College soccer wins title

The Manhattan Christian College men's soccer team won the NCAA National Championship on Nov. 5 in Kissimmee, Fla. The Crusaders defeated Cincinnati Christian University 2-0 to secure the title.

Not only were the Crusaders national champions, but they also won the Central Region Conference, marking their eighth straight regional championship — the longest current streak in NCAA soccer.

The Associated Press

CAR | Busch wins race after brother's suspension

AVONDALE, Ariz. — It's a family thing.

Even as Kyle Busch celebrated victory at Phoenix on Sunday, he stood up for older brother Kurt, who was suspended by his team earlier in the day for a Friday night run-in with police.

Kurt Busch, the reigning Cup champion, was set down by Roush Racing earlier in the day for the final two races of the season because of a Friday night run-in with police.

Chase leader Tony Stewart finished in fourth, and now holds a 52-point lead over Jimmie Johnson, who finished seventh. Stewart also has an 87-point cushion over Carl Edwards, who came into the race with two straight victories but finished sixth Sunday.

Busch

VOLLEYBALL

Road winning streak ends in Texas

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Wildcats had become quite the road warriors, having won three straight matches on the road.

That winning streak ended on Saturday afternoon in College Station, Texas, when Texas A&M dropped K-State 3-2 (28-30, 30-23, 18-30, 30-20, 25-13).

For the second time this week, coach Suzie Fritz was speechless when asked what went wrong.

"You know, I'm just not sure," Fritz said of the Cats' most recent loss.

It seemed that inconsistency, once again, reared its ugly head.

In game one, K-State was down most of the game — at one point by nine — but managed to tie it at 23 off a kill by sophomore setter Stacey Spiegelberg.

From there, senior outside hitter Agata Rezende and sophomore outside hitter Rita Lilliom took charge, tallying two kills each to take the first game, 30-28.

"We had a tremendous comeback," Fritz said of game one.

In game two, K-State took a quick 1-0 lead and stayed within reach throughout, until the Aggies began pulling away at 20-15.

After that, the Cats never got closer than five points.

Game three was a flip flop and proved to be in K-State's hands from the start.

Texas A&M never led, and the Wildcats started the frame with a 12-3 lead with the help of junior Jamie Perkins' three quick kills.

The Cats even increased the lead to 21-9, staying in an offensive rhythm to grab the victory.

"We played really well in game three," Fritz said, "and then just broke down in game four with service errors and net fouls — we're still fighting those."

Indeed, K-State was its own worst enemy, combining for 11 service errors.

Game five was no better, as the Wildcats couldn't combat the offensive force of Laura Jones, an Aggie outside hitter who had eight kills in the last frame and 35 on the game, which tied a school record.

"Laura Jones was on a mission today," Fritz said. "She was getting 70 percent of their sets, and we were having a difficult time stopping her."

Rezende paced K-State with 18 kills and Lilliom joined her in double digits with 10 kills. Perkins and redshirt-freshman Megan Kroeker were right behind with nine each.

Spiegelberg had 51 set assists.

Still, sporadic moments of offense aren't going to win games, Fritz said.

"There are no excuses. We didn't play well down the stretch," she said.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Victor Mann picks up a dropped pass from Allan Evridge Saturday afternoon in Lincoln, Neb. The Wildcats were attempting a 2-point conversion after scoring a touchdown during the second half of the Wildcats' loss to Nebraska.

Miscues plague Wildcats in loss

By Matthew Girard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

LINCOLN, Neb. — The Nebraska Cornhuskers handed K-State a win Saturday, and the Wildcats promptly handed it right back.

With 4:18 left in the fourth quarter, sophomore kicker Tim Schwerdt sent a high, arching kick through the uprights to give K-State a 25-24 lead.

The outcome then rested with the Wildcat defense.

On Nebraska's ensuing drive, freshman quarterback Harrison Beck completed a 21-yard pass to redshirt-freshman Nate Swift to the K-State 46-yard-line.

After the throw senior defensive end Tearrius George hit Beck, drawing a roughing the passer penalty which tacked on an extra 15-yards to the completion.

The penalty set up Nebraska kicker Jordan Congdon's eventual 40-yard game-winning field.

"We did good things in all phases of the game and we did some things that were very costly in all phases of the game," coach Bill Snyder said after the Nebraska loss.

For the Wildcats, who will finish with their second consecutive losing season for the first time since the 1989-90 seasons and will not play in a bowl game for the second-year in a row, miscues such as George's have haunted the team all season.

Against Oklahoma, punter Tim Reyer was absent from the punt formation, which resulted in a safety.

A blocked punt was called back due to a holding penalty, swinging the momentum in Texas Tech's favor and returner Jermaine Moreira's muffed punt set up the win for Colorado.

Along with George's penalty against the Cornhuskers, kicker Jeff Snodgrass had an extra point and a field goal blocked, while sophomore Marcus Watts miss handled an extra point snap and the Wildcat offense was unable to capitalize on two safeties by the defense.

"We had every chance to win the game," Watts said. "We just didn't execute when we needed to."

Defensive tackle Derek Marso said the blame for the loss and the season falls on the whole team's shoulders.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Coach Bill Snyder argues with a referee during the fourth quarter of the Wildcats' loss to Nebraska Saturday afternoon.

"The defense gave the offense some great field position, and we didn't get the points that we needed, but then again the defense had the game in our hands and we couldn't stop them," Marso said. "It's just something that has plagued us all year."

Against Nebraska, the Wildcats were flagged 14 times for 108 yards, bringing their season total to 90 penalties for 774 yards.

K-State also added three fumbles to its Big 12 Conference lead.

Despite the loss putting K-State out of contention for a bowl game, Watts said there is still plenty to play for against the Missouri Tigers Saturday.

"We'll be motivated," Watts said. "It's the seniors last game and we want them to go out on top with a win. We're not going to quit. You guys (the media) can say we are like the '04 team, but we know we are not like the '04 team and if you guys want to say it, that's fine with us."

FOOTBALL | Late penalty sets up game-winning field goal for Huskers

Continued from Page 1

Beck's pass and returned it to the Nebraska nine-yard line. That set up Tim Schwerdt's 26-yard field goal, in place of Jeff Snodgrass who had a field goal and point-after attempt blocked, to give K-State a one-point lead with four minutes to play.

It was sophomore Schwerdt's first field goal of his collegiate career, and the first time the Wildcats had the lead in the fourth quarter in conference play since they beat Kansas.

On their next possession, the Cornhuskers offense — that been kept in check after their first possession of the second half when they scored on a 34-yard touchdown pass — connected on a big pass play and got the break they needed to move into scoring position.

In for an injured Zac Taylor, Beck, who had not taken a snap all season, connected with Swift on 21-yard pass play that put the ball at the K-State 46-yard line.

Another 15 yards were added on from the spot of the ball on Tearrius George's second personal foul of the game, putting the Cornhuskers in field goal range.

Nebraska tacked on seven more yards on the possession to set up Jordan Congdon's 40-yard game winning field goal that made Nebraska bowl-eligible after missing the post season last year for the first time 35 years.

"It was reminiscent of the Colorado drive last season. We had a big penalty that really, really hurts us, but we just didn't execute at the end of the game," Marcus Watts said.

"We felt coming into the season we had a good opportunity to make it to a bowl this year, we felt like we had a good team and we still do have a ball just didn't go our way this year, just like last years team.

It's tough, but we never have given up and that's the key thing."

K-State still had a chance to win the game with less than a minute to play and no timeouts remaining.

The drive faltered on fourth down and 15 as quarterback Allan Evridge was flushed from the pocket, and his pass to Davin Dennis was broken up, officially ending the Wildcats attempt to become bowl eligible.

"People are down, people are frustrated, senior Jerome Clary said. "We now know that we are not going to a bowl game."

SYNDER TO ANNOUNCE RETIREMENT

Story, Page 6

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE

Technology gets smaller, more

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
P.O. Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

3

No. 62

www.kstatecollegian.com

Tuesday, November 15, 2005

Woman restrained in movie theater

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A woman was restrained in the Seth Childs Cinema early Monday morning, Capt. John Doebling with the Riley County Police Department said.

Doebling said a cleaning crew employee was confronted by an unknown white male suspect with a handgun. The suspect asked the whereabouts of other cleaning crew members, and the victim said she didn't know where they were, Doebling said.

The victim was then restrained Doebling said, but he could not comment on the method.

After the suspect left the room, the victim broke loose and ran to the RCPD building at about 6:20 a.m., Doebling said. He said she was not harmed.

RCPD officers responded immediately and surrounded the theater to search for the suspect. Doebling said the suspect wasn't found when police cleared the scene shortly after 10 a.m.

It is unknown if anything was stolen or what the suspect was after, Doebling said. The case is still under investigation.

Instructor recuperating at home

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Almost five weeks after suffering a brain aneurysm, a K-State Spanish instructor is recovering at home.

Ines De La Torre Ugarte spent three weeks at the Via Christi Regional Medical Center in Wichita and one week at Mercy Health Center after her Oct. 12 aneurysm. She was released Nov. 8.

Fernando Ugarte, her husband and a general surgeon, said doctors performed procedures to stop the bleeding and did three angiograms.

An angiogram, Fernando Ugarte said, is a procedure in which doctors inject dye into the brain's arteries in order to examine the arteries. He said his wife underwent brain scans nearly every day while hospitalized in Wichita.

Ines De La Torre Ugarte said she was given last rites while in the hospital.

"The first week was a very difficult week and they thought I was going to die," she said.

Fernando Ugarte echoed his wife's sentiments.

"I didn't think she was going to survive," he said. "The feeling that I have is that I've been born again. I think it was a miracle she survived."

Dr. Fatma Radhi, a neurologist with Neuroscience Associates, said

See INSTRUCTOR Page 8

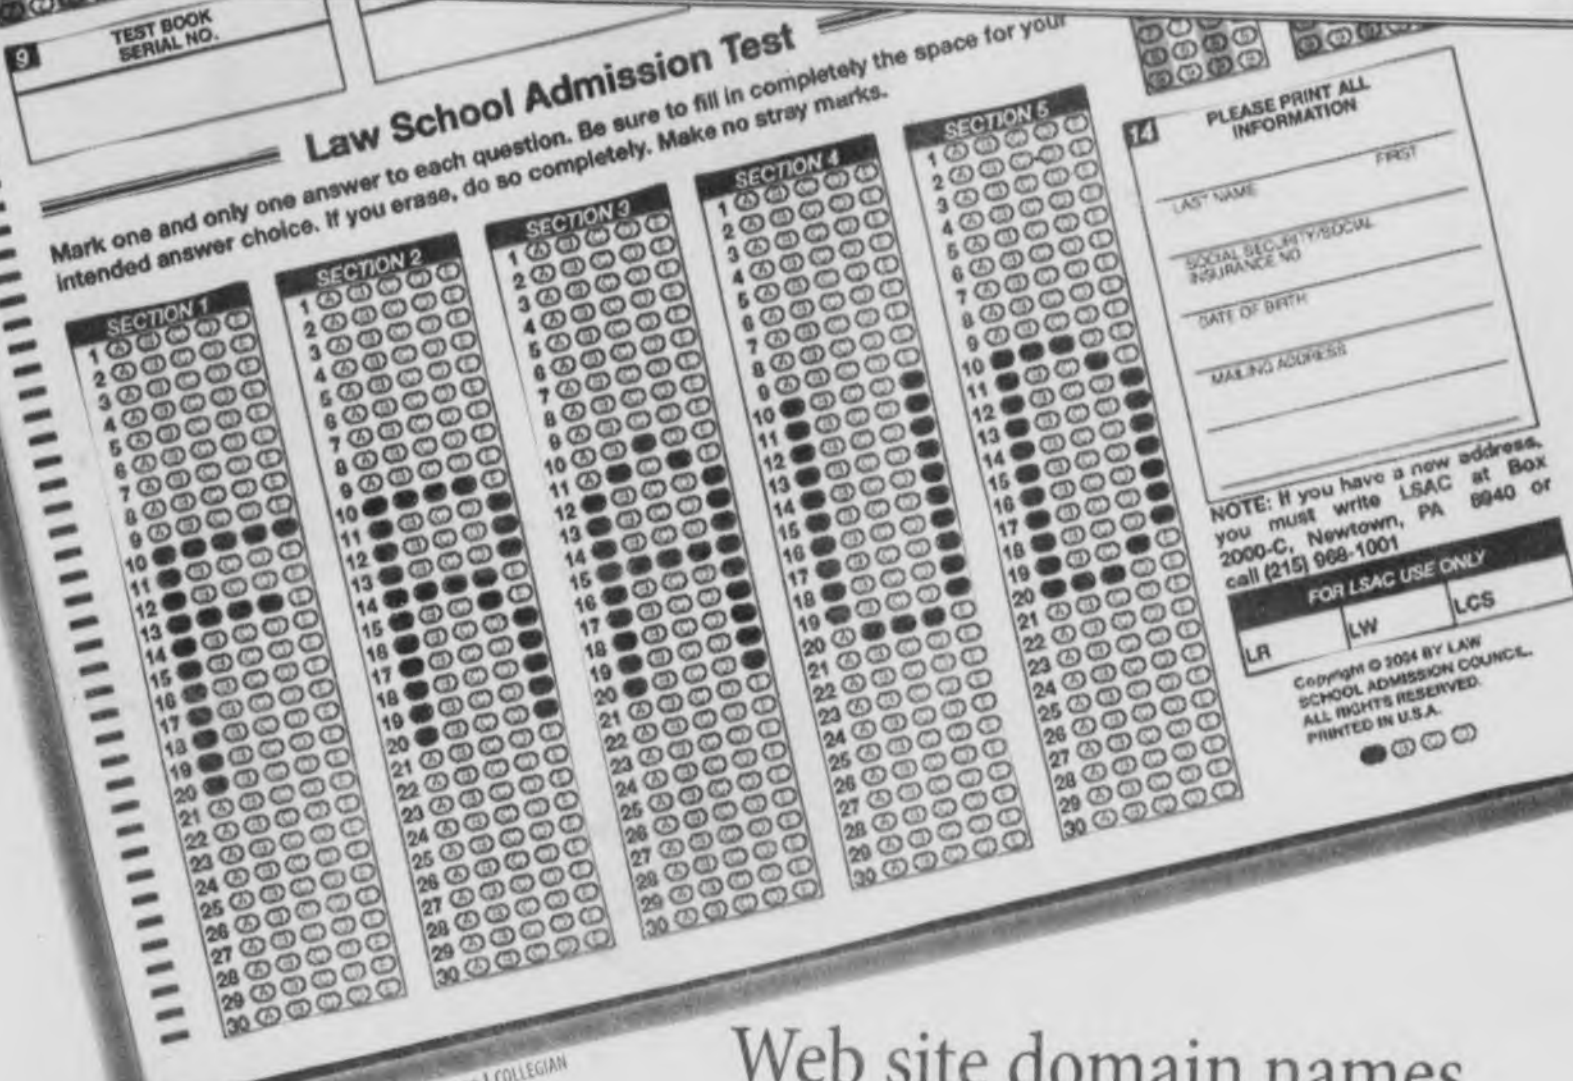

Photo illustration by Emily Lawrence | COLLEGIAN

Web site domain names cause LSAT confusion

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

What a difference a simple, single space can make for students preparing to study law.

A space is the only difference between the names of two companies that provide preparation courses for the LSAT, the test required for admission to law school. They are TestMasters, a firm based in Santa Monica, Calif., and Test Masters, based in Houston.

In October, 17 students at Hunter College in Manhattan, N.Y., dropped out of the Houston-based company's course after learning they weren't taking classes with the company they'd wanted. They filed complaints with the New York State Consumer Protection Board, which issued a warning stating Test Masters was exploiting the similarity of the companies' names.

The Santa Monica firm has been teaching LSAT preparation ever since the firm was started in 1991 by Robin Singh, who has taken the test 25 times since 1988 and scored in the top percentile each time. The firm also posts LSAT scores for all of its instructors on its Web sites, www.testmasters180.com and www.testmasters.net.

The Houston firm started in 1991, according to its management, or in 1992, according to the consumer protection board, but taught preparation for tests like the SAT and others, not the LSAT. It only started offering help with the law school test in 2003, according to a release from the board, and does not list any scores for any of its faculty.

The board said in a release that the Houston firm has been advantaged by having the domain name www.testmasters.com, and when students are looking for LSAT help from the more LSAT-experienced Santa Monica firm, they get the Houston firm by mistake. Also, the Houston firm spells its name as one word at the top of its Web site, and it uses similar colors and layout to the Santa Monica firm's Web site.

Sharon Naim, legal counsel for the Santa Monica firm, said the Houston firm used to operate only in Texas and then started offering classes nationwide. She said the Houston firm uses improper scheduling techniques.

"They set up classes all over the country, then cancel those that don't get enough students," Naim said.

Roger Israni, president of the Houston firm, objected to Naim's accusations.

"That's not correct," he said. "I don't think she has access to our enrollment figures."

Naim also said the Houston firm and its faculty don't have enough experience with LSAT preparation. She said they often used teachers who have never taken the test.

Israni said every one of his company's teachers has "taken either an actual or practice exam" and passed.

The two companies have been to court twice in suits over ownership of the trademark, and the Houston firm has come out on top so far, but a new case is pending. The Santa Monica firm

See TESTMASTERS Page 8

Houston-based Test Masters

Santa Monica, Calif.-based TestMasters

Computers, electronics create opportunities for students to recycle

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

More than 1 million computers are thrown into the trash every year, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

From computers and paper to cars and sidewalks, EPA officials said recycling is breaking back into the mainstream and into American households, though tons of items are still thrown away each year.

With today being the ninth annual America Recycles Day, environmental groups across the country are preparing significant efforts to collect paper, plastic and other recyclable goods.

Though Manhattan has no official plans to celebrate America Recycles Day, a proclamation originally approved by President Bill Clinton, one county official said he emphasize the importance of participating in the local efforts.

"This fall, we launched our first e-waste recycling program," said Dennis Peterson, director of the noxious weed department and household hazardous waste facility in Riley County.

The program focuses on recycling electronic goods, including computers, cell phones and MP3 players.

"It kind of came down from a nationwide basis, after

See RECYCLING Page 8

Today

High 41
Low 22

Wednesday

High 46
Low 23

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Gas explosion

Pat Clawson, 81, and Janet Clawson, 67, were killed early Monday morning in a natural gas explosion at a house in Clearwater, Kan. Tim Millsbaugh, the Sedgwick County fire marshal, said they were apparently asleep when the explosion occurred about 4 a.m. The one-story house was leveled by the blast.

Poachers wanted

Authorities were searching Monday for three men who may have been involved in the stabbing of Marvin Macy, 66, after he reportedly confronted them about poaching a deer on his land. Macy is in serious condition at Wesley Medical Center in Wichita with knife wounds to his abdomen and face.

Fraudulent marketers

Western Union Financial Services will post warnings to customers about fraudulent tele-marketers who are requiring consumers to wire money because it is harder to trace, according to an agreement Monday with 47 state attorneys general.

DON'T FORGET

Miguel Caraballo, lead singer of The Rest of Us will play at 7 tonight in Union Station.

Steve Taylor, percussion, and Kelly McCarty, bass, will perform at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.

The Peace Corps will meet from noon to 1 p.m. today in the Union Courtyard. Returned volunteers will share stories of their time in Latin America, Africa and Asia.

Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!

1122 Laramie 539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Fall into a beanbag chair

5 Closed rose

8 Shoe part

12 "The Music Man" setting

13 Id counter-part

14 Nobel Prize city

15 Old timers?

17 Cold War abbr.

18 Billboards

19 Firma-ment

20 AKC category

21 Crafty

22 Lose firmness

23 Malice

26 Resenting a rival

30 In addition

31 Average guy

32 Basilica area

33 Lolita, for one

35 Item in the plus column

36 Humor

37 Part of H.R.H.

38 Discard

41 Marry

42 Anger

45 LummoX

46 Its days are numbered

48 A Baldwin

49 Expert

50 Arm bone

51 Big celebration

52 Pismire

53 Trawler gear

DOWN

1 Tower city

2 Stentorian

3 Possesses

4 Cushion

5 Big-nosed

6 In pre-swan mode

7 Two, in Tijuana

8 Shapely one's comparison

9 Existence (Lat.)

10 Differently

11 Parlia-mentarian

16 Gilligan's home

20 Bleating sound

21 "60 Minutes" starter

22 Witness

23 — Diego

24 Thickness

25 Doctrine

26 Make marginalia

27 Harvest goddess

28 Work with

29 See 31-Down

31 With 29-Down, Riviera patrons

34 With it

35 Staffer

37 Serf

38 Thick slice

39 Pop flavor

40 Is contrite

41 Caution

42 "Spama-lot" creator

43 Carry on

44 Historic times

46 Figure head? (Abbr.)

47 Sister

Solution time: 21 mins.

A	L	E		A	B	S		W	O	R	E
L	O	A	N	B	R	A		I	D	O	L
P	O	S	E	C	A	R		L	E	E	K
S	M	E	L	T		Y	A	W
				S	A	M		H	E	L	F
A	D	J	O	U	R	N		B	E	L	L
L	I	E	N		S	U	P		N	O	S
A	V	E	R	T		D	E	J	E	W	E
R	A	P	I	E	R		P	A	L
				D	E	A	L		G	S	U
J	O	A	D		B	A		O	S	L	O
E	V	I	L		I	N		N	E	I	L
B	A	R	E		D	A		Y		D	E

Yesterday's answers 11-15

11-15 CRYPTOQUIP

E W S Y U D H E K W S
I H X X H B V D A U G G S Q E U K W
D K H B V S Q I S Q D . U D W F M K S Q

"K W H K ' D H G F K F A I M Y V I "
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF AN OLD ELFIN TROLL BEGAN GOING OUT ON THE TOWN A LOT, WOULD HE BE A METRO-GNOME?
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: K equals T

STREET TALK
If you had a theme song, what would it be and why?

Vieselmeyer

"Girls Just Want to Have Fun," because I like to go out, party and hang out with my girls."

Krista Vieselmeyer
FRESHMAN IN BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION, PRE-PROFESSIONAL

Hayen

"Motley Crue's 'Dr. Feelgood.' I don't know why but somehow it seems to summarize what I feel most of the time."

Bernie Hayen
MANAGEMENT INSTRUCTOR

Yankey

"Peace of Mind" by Boston, because it's my favorite song."

Will Yankey
SENIOR IN INTERIOR ARCHITECTURE

Louk

"Stairway to Heaven," because it's a really good song."

Jennifer Louk
SENIOR IN INTERIOR ARCHITECTURE

White

"I'd have to say 'Baby Got Back.' I think it's kind of self explanatory why."

Kayla White
FRESHMAN IN PRE-PROFESSIONAL SECONDARY EDUCATION

Helman

"Low Rider" because it's just bad ass."

Sean Helman
JUNIOR IN ARCHITECTURE

Lada

"I'd have to go with the Knight Rider theme song, because it's just pure 70s funk."

Sam Lada
FRESHMAN IN ANTHROPOLOGY

Kowal

"Meant to Live" by Switchfoot, because I really like the meaning of it."

Andy Kowal
SENIOR IN MANAGEMENT

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A topic research class will be from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. today in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Haigang Yi at 1 p.m. today in the Chemistry/Biochemistry Building 437.
- The Business Council will meet at 8:30 tonight in Calvin 202.
- "In the Situation... Know the Information" will be at 7 tonight in the Big 12 room.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2005

The blotter
Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, Nov. 10

- Christopher McBride, 2925 Hickory Court, was arrested at 10:25 a.m. for abuse of a minor. Bond was set at $1,000.
- Stephanie Rogers, 708 Dondee Drive, Apt. 6, was arrested at 12:35 p.m. for worthless check and failure to appear. Bond was set at $899.
- Matthew Lowry, Overbrook, Kan., was arrested at 1:30 p.m. for burglary, possession of a simulated controlled substance or unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $6,000.

- Charles Forgy, Topeka, was arrested at 1:30 p.m. for burglary. Bond was set at $5,000.
- Michael Jones, 3034 Powers Lane, was arrested at 3:24 p.m. for arson. Bond was set at $500.
- Casey Lindley, 4736 Freeman Road, was arrested at 7:50 p.m. for battery and criminal restraint. Bond was set at $1,000.
- Colene Lovin, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 8:20 p.m. for worthless check. Bond was set at $500.
- Daniel Anderson, El Dorado, Kan., was arrested at 9:15 p.m. for criminal threat. Bond was set at $1,000.
- Ben Puett, 4090 K-18 Bypass, was arrested at 9:20 p.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.
- Andrew Schuler, 406 Osage St., was arrested at 11 p.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.

■ Sterling Pond, Manchester, N.H., was arrested at 11:30 p.m. for criminal trespass. Bond was set at $750.

Friday, Nov. 11

- Marshall Hawkinson, 925 Colorado St., was arrested at 8:40 a.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $750.
- Peter Kunze, 524 Edgerton Ave., was arrested at 2:15 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.

Saturday, Nov. 12

- Janea Humphrey, Lakewood, Colo., was arrested at 12:32 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- Virginia Wynn, 1819 Rockhill Road, was arrested at 2:50 p.m. for violation of protective order. Bond was set at $1,000.

Sunday, Nov. 13

- Jennifer Boeding, 2456 Vaughn Drive, was arrested at 4:20 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $100.
- Kenneth Seldon, Junction City, was arrested at 12:50 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $600.
- Shea Torrez, 1203 Colorado St., was arrested at 1:55 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $5,000.
- Jason Leonard, Denton, Texas, was arrested at 5 p.m. for criminal restraint. Bond was set at $750.
- Antoinette Timms, Junction City, was arrested at 9 p.m. for theft. Bond was set at $2,000.
- Antoinette Timms, Junction City, was arrested at 10:15 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $161.

ONE HOUR MASSAGE
$35
w/ KSU Student ID

Body First
BODY FIRST
2308 Anderson Ave.
(785) 587-8300

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Come and join us from 7 to 9 on Friday, November 18th to help celebrate 20 years of buying, selling, and exchanging books in Aggieville. Enjoy friends, food, music, and 20% off our entire inventory as a big thank you for your encouragement and support.

700 N. Manhattan
785.539.2839

The Dusty Bookshelf

1208 Moro • 537-0775

$2.00
shots wells imports draws premiums
bottles

1814 Clafflin Rd.
(785) 778-3771
Fax: (785) 778-1009

Clafflin
Books and Copies
Mon-Fri 9am - 7pm
Sat 9am - 5pm
Sun 1pm - 5pm

The Best Quality Copying and Printing in Town!

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
pizza
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

TUESDAY

60¢ Tacos

$2.00 Margaritas

Trivia Night

BOBBY TS
3240 Kimball Ave
537-8383

WEDNESDAY

$7.99 Steak Night

$2.00 Bottles

www.hobbyts.com

$60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60

CAN YOU BELIEVE IT?

2 GREAT SPECIALS

I GREAT PRICE

$60 COLOR AND HAIRCUT OR STYLING

*with Jess, Heather, & Nichole
*additional costs may be included on additional colors
*call for details

GALLERY
Glenne Theodore
FOR HAIR

3266 Kimball • Candlewood • 776-5632

$60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60

MORTAR BOARD
SCHOLARS...CHOSEN FOR LEADERSHIP...UNITED TO SERVE

The K-State Chapter of Mortar Board honors these faculty members for their Outstanding Teaching and Mentoring.

College of Agriculture
Honoree: Dr. Melvin Hunt
Dean Fred Cholic

College of Arts and Sciences
Honoree: Dr. David Poole
Honoree: Dr. Michael Wesch
Dean Stephen White

College of Education
Honoree: Ms. Dru Clarke
Dean Michael Holen

College of Human Ecology
Honoree: Ms. Sharon Kay Morcos
Dean Carol Kellett

College of Architecture, Planning, and Design
Honoree: Dr. David Seamon
Dean Dennis Law

College of Business Administration Honoree: Mr. Rodney Vogt
Dean Yar M. Ebadi

College of Engineering
Honoree: Dr. Margaret Rys
Dean Terry King

Student Life
Honoree: Ms. Andrea Bryant
Dean Pat Bosco

$1
SCOOPS
(2 Scoops for $2 and 3 Scoops for $3)

Tuesday Nights
6:30 pm
Only
537-3136
319 Southwind Pl

Baskin Robbins.
Where Wonders Never Cease.™

In your foot there are 26 bones and 56 ligaments. Take a step forward in personal wellness.

Olson's Birkenstock
539-8571 AGGIEVILLE 1214-B Moro

EDDIE OLSON & JOHANNA BURNISTON, CERTIFIED PEDORTHISTS

Professor publishes 3rd book

By Megan Green
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wayne Goins, assistant professor of music, published his third book in September.

The book, "A Biography of Charlie Christian, Jazz Guitar's King of Swing," is about jazz guitar player Christian, described by Goins as "the greatest guitar player in the world."

The book details Christian's life and his accomplishments, starting with his birth in Texas and following his rise to becoming one of the first to play with a white band. Goins also wrote about when Christian played guitar with K-State students in 1937.

"It took two years to finish," Goins said. "One year of research and then one year to write."

In writing the book, Goins and co-author Craig McKinney interviewed people who knew Christian, including Jay McShann, Count Basie and members of Benny Goodman's band. Goins and McKinney did all the interviews except for a few, which they obtained from Rutgers University. The Rutgers interviews had never before been published.

Goins spoke with Christian's daughter, and she gave him pictures of Christian's family. All these pictures are in the book.

"I wrote all of it," Goins said. "Craig talked to Christian's brother, Clarence, and we shared facts and then he fell in love with Charlie."

Goins said no American has written a book about Christian. He said his book has the most thorough information on him.

Wayne Goins, assistant professor of music, published a book that took him two years to finish. The book was his third book and is titled "A Biography of Charlie Christian, Jazz Guitar's King of Swing."

Christopher Hanewinkel
COLLEGIAN

Wayne Goins' book signing

When: 7 p.m. Dec. 2

Where: Manhattan Arts Center

"It was an incredible learning experience and definitely the hardest thing I've done," he said. "We had to do so much digging but in the process found so many treasures."

While researching, Goins discovered that former K-State professor Matt Betton, who was one of the founders of K-State jazz education, took students to meet and play with Christian.

On Oct. 29, Goins was recognized for his contributions to the Black Liberated Arts Center and to Oklahoma history.

"The lady who gave the award stood up at the banquet and said that because of the book, we had put Oklahoma City on the map," Goins said. "I'll never forget that."

Goins attributes his love for Christian to his love of the guitar. Goins has recorded more than 24 records and has played all around the United States. He recently started his own record company, Little Apple Records.

"Ever since I could crawl I was obsessed with guitar," he said. "I don't remember not knowing how to play. It's all I've ever wanted to do. I owe my entire life to that instrument."

Informal fraternity recruitment allows men to look into greek life

By Hannah Crippen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A week of semi-formal fraternity recruitment began with Monday Night Football.

Greek Affairs designed activities for each night this week that will give independent men the opportunity to learn more about K-State fraternities.

On Monday, prospective new members watched football in the K-State Student Union and met with fraternity recruitment chairmen.

Tonight, potential new members will play basketball with current fraternity members and K-State men's basketball players at the Peters Recreation Complex.

Before Wednesday's K-State volleyball game, there will be a barbecue in the parking lot across from Memorial Stadium. A raffle at the game will give free K-State men's basketball tickets to a potential new member.

"I'm looking forward to Wednesday because it's a really relaxed and social environment," Michael Rohr, sophomore in business administration and assistant recruitment chair of Alpha Tau Omega. "Every-

Semi-formal fraternity recruitment

When: 8 to 10 tonight

Where: Peters Recreation Complex

How much: Free

one can relate at a tailgate."

On Thursday, individual fraternities will have recruitment events at their houses.

Tony Savastano, sophomore in psychology and Interfraternity Council executive recruitment officer, said this is a way for potential new members to become acquainted with the houses on a more personal basis.

This week is a new process for men who did not participate in recruitment in the fall.

Most fraternity recruitment is done in the summer through a few meetings with certain houses.

"The guys participating this week really have a great advantage over the guys who rushed in the fall because they can base their decisions on more than a few meetings with one guy over the summer," said Adam Works, junior in pre-professional architectural engineering and recruitment chairman for Sigma Nu.

Savastano said the fraternities can recruit as a community this week.

"We are starting to use our community to recruit potential new members, rather than depending on individuality," he said. "The K-State greek community is something not found in other places."

KSU Theatre & Dance and the Department of Music
Present

Pippin

the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.

November 20 at 3 p.m.

McCain Auditorium

book by
Roger O. Hirson

music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50

Seniors: $11.50

Public: $13.50

McCain Box Office

532-6428 weekdays

11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

www.ksu.edu/sctd

by the creator of
Godspell and Wicked

REMINDER TO

K-STATE CONNECTION CELL PHONE
SUBSCRIBERS

If you are on the K-State Local Plan ($37.95) and leave the Kansas area over Thanksgiving, your minutes do not apply. If you use your phone outside of the Kansas area, you will incur roaming charges.

Please call our office at 532-7001 if you need additional information.

to Car • Eye Care • Clothing • Beau ll • Planning • Service • Eye Care • Your Service Here
y • Refill • Planning • Service Heat ing • Oil Change • Auto Car • Eye C
ing • Beauty • Refill • Planning • Ser

Oil CHANGE
APPROXIMATELY $14.95
No Oil Changes, Please!
We Service All Makes of Cars
American & Foreign Cars
• Engine Overhaul • Motor Tune-ups •
• Complete Brake • Electrical & Automatic • Transmission Service • Manual
• Transmissions & Clutch Repair • Sun
• Computer Print Out • Diagnostic Center •
• Air Conditioning Service
$14.95
WHEN YOU BRING IN THIS AD
Ekart
Automotive Services
776-5110 411 S. 5th St. • 1 Blk. North of Ft. Riley Blvd.

Check out
shout outs
in the Classifieds
Get your own shout out for just $2! (20 words or less)
Come to 103 Kedzie or call 532-6555

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

For more information visit the website at:
<http://www.ksu.edu/osas/legal.htm>

Students' Attorney:

SARAH BARR
785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours

Monday - Friday
9:00 - 11:00 am & 1:00 - 3:00 pm

Other appointments available upon request.

Former Russian Mafia Hit-man tells his story

VICTOR ISAJEV
FROM RIGA, LATVIA

NOVEMBER 15TH
TUESDAY 8pm
LITTLE THEATER

UPC
UPCOMING EVENTS
Union Program Council

Tuesday, November 15
Tuesday Night Buzz: Miguel Caraballo
7 pm, Union Station, Ground Floor, free coffee and treats!

Wednesday, November 16
Lunchtime Lounge: Featuring the KSU Dance Department
Noon - 1 pm, Union Courtyard, Ground Floor

Friday, November 18
After Hours: Ego Imaging, Mega Flix, and Freaky Snapshots
8 pm - midnight, Union Courtyard, Ground Floor
Film: "Hustle and Flow," 8 pm, Forum Hall, Ground Floor, $1

Saturday, November 19
Film: "Hustle and Flow," 7 & 9:30 pm, Forum Hall, Ground Floor, $2

Sunday, November 20
Film: "Hustle and Flow," 8 pm, Forum Hall, Ground Floor, $2

William T. Kemper Gallery
Student Photography Competition
Exhibit: October 31-November 18

Attention film makers: Check out www.k-state.edu/upc for information on the Little Apple Film Festival.

www.k-state.edu/upc
UPC hotline: 532-6572
UPC phone: 532-6571

TO THE POINT Campus should be more aware of testing scams

A scam that could potentially cost K-State students thousands of dollars is coming to campus – and the university is virtually unaware of it.

On Dec. 17 and 18, Test Masters, a Houston-based LSAT preparation company, will be in Manhattan to administer a class for students who plan to attend law school. On its Web site, the company lists the phone number for K-State general information and says the class is scheduled to be in Anderson 9, a room used by K-State Media Relations and Marketing.

The company is a parrot of California-based TestMasters, a reputable LSAT preparation company that has helped aspiring law students since 1991. The less reputable company mimics TestMasters by using a similar Web site, and has drawn complaints from dozens of students who have been duped into paying the $1,000-plus fee.

Classes are sometimes taught by instructors who have never taken the LSAT, said TestMasters legal counsel Sharon Naim. The Houston-based Test Masters has also been warned by the New York State Consumer Protection Board and has an unsatisfactory record, according to the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Houston.

K-State may be unaware its information is being promoted on the Test Masters Web site, but the university has a duty to protect its students from such scams. It must be proactive in doing so.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@spub.ksu.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

CLASH OF THE COLUMNISTS

Conflicting theories

Few who follow evolution understand science behind it

Let us all don war paint and file our teeth into points, for evolution is in the news again. Never in recorded history has one word caused so many hemorrhoids.

The proponents of creationism, intelligent design, deific planning or whatever they're calling it these days, think they have won a victory (they have not) and the congregation at the Church of Evolution seems to think the Huns are outside, making ready to pillage and burn.

Creationists wax bizarre with pseudo-science, and Evolutionists snarl back with all the venom of the true believer. Where is our logic now?

While evolution claims the scientific high road, the majority of its proponents know little to nothing about its workings. Deep down, most creationist and evolutionist thought patterns run equally shallow. "It is so because I read it somewhere" seems to be the common theme throughout.

Perhaps 30 percent of evolutionists can ramble off something about genes and mutation or the fossil record, maybe 2 percent understand the hard science.

Most striking of those who claim the scientific high ground is a deep-rooted intolerance for the expression of other ideas. If evolution is so sound, why then, is there such hemming and hawing over opposing ideas?

It seems to most that intelligent design is, as a science, equivalent to astrology and dowsing rods. But the educated have nothing to fear from bunk, and if astrologers were right, then I would be quiet and unopinionated.

For what reason do scientists fear debate? It is only through discourse that science has progressed at all. Heretics have challenged misinformation since time immemorial and have, occasionally, been burned at the stake for their troubles.

So too, we see it now. The Church of Evolution sits atop its podium, ever vigilant for sounds of dissent. The ritual is the same as the Catholic Church of Galileo's time – ideas that are viewed as counter to accepted thought are silenced.

It is not "these ideas are twaddle" that is espoused, it is "these ideas shall not be spoken." Thus we are launched into a profane, rather than sacred, censorship.

And censorship it is. Perform a quick Google search for "Creationist" or "Intelligent Design Studies" and count the number of independent universities offering such a program. A similar search for "Queer Studies" reveals at least five U.S. universities that offer undergraduate programs, including such obscure academic grounds as Brown University.

For what reason? There are, statistically, more people who believe in some form of creationism than there are "queers." Perhaps it is not considered as "free-thinking" to study creationism instead of homosexuality.

Like all true believers, the true believers of evolution seek no argument and leave no room for debate. But the glaring questions that confront evolution simply cannot be ignored.

To borrow from Fred Reed: (www.fredoneverything.net) Has the chance occurrence of life ever been demonstrated? Do we even know what would be needed for the chance formation of life? Do we have mathematic proof that the spontaneous formation of life is probable in any conditions?

Evolution is not the theory in crisis some would like it to be. But neither is it an immutable fact. The recent decision to allow criticism in Kansas schools is only sensical. As academics, it is our charge to question what is common knowledge, not devour it like zealots.

Jonas Hogg is a junior in sociology, international studies and Russian. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

JONAS HOGG

Proponents of intelligent design not advocating 'good science'

In some ways, the rhetoric from a certain Seattle-based think tank is similar to that of the former Iraqi information minister, Mohammed Saeed al-Sahaf. Whether the slogan is "evolutionary theory is on the precipice of utter collapse" or "there are no American infidels in Baghdad, never," you have got to be seriously deluded to actually believe what the other party is saying.

I am, of course, referring to the Discovery Institute, the nation's foremost champion of "intelligent design" – the new name for creationism. Intelligent design proponents contend life is too complicated to have been created by natural selection. Ergo, a supreme being must have done the work.

It's a pretty nifty idea, but there's one problem: It isn't science. If one were to draw an analogy, their line of reasoning would be akin to the ancient Greeks saying, "Look. We can't explain lightning. It must be Zeus."

Not surprisingly, intelligent design has never had much success in mainstream science. But having been utterly defeated in the scientific arena, proponents of intelligent design have bypassed the scientific community altogether. Choosing, instead, to do direct marketing to the public and politicians using clever catch-phrases and slight-of-hand tricks.

Their main contention is evolution is a "theory in crisis" and because of that, schools should "teach the controversy", namely, intelligent design.

To prove their case, Discovery Institute collected a list of 105 signatures from scientists around the country on petition titled "A Scientific Dissent on Darwinism" in 2001.

On it, signatories attested they were "skeptical of natural selection to account for the complexity of life."

One-hundred and five signatories, and about half of them biologists. Shouldn't that say something?

Not so fast.

When the National Center for Science Education contacted some of the signatories regarding their attitudes toward evolution and common descent, they found many of those who signed the petition weren't supporters of intelligent design at all.

"I believe the genetic evidence (for evolution) is overwhelming," said one. "I am not a creationist and have no reason to doubt common descent," another said.

So how did the institute come up with the 105 signatures? Clearly, it involved some underhanded Machiavellian trick – precisely the kind that has no place in academia.

Scientists argue about the details of evolution, yes. When exactly did Homo habilis evolve to become Homo erectus? Was it 2 million years ago, or 1.7? That's the nature of science. Theories (or laws for that matter) are always being scrutinized; details are constantly being refined.

In fact, evolution is probably one of the most solid theories in modern science. Molecular biology as we know it today only makes sense in light of evolution. The "controversy" that intelligent design proponents keep droning on about simply isn't there.

But the point of contention here isn't about science or evolution – it never has been. In a widely-publicized document referred to as "the wedge" or "the wedge project," Discovery Institute plainly state their goals to reshape American public policy to reflect conservative Christian values, to "defeat scientific materialism" and promote a new idea of science "consonant with Christian and theistic convictions."

Sadly, a great deal of the public seem to have bought into their we're-only-doing-it-for-academic-freedom charade. The truth is not as innocuous, and no one knows it better than the intelligent design supporters themselves.

David Liang is a graduate student in biochemistry. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

DAVID LIANG

Illustration by Jordan Mizell | COLLEGIAN

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Bill Snyder, will ye u marry me? I'm single and I need somebody to support me. Since you've been supporting the football team for so long, send them to hell and let's get married. I love you Bill Snyder.

It's pretty sad that the Collegian's own editor in chief throws his cigarette butts outside on the ground, and it's even sadder that the Collegian won't print it.

Can you tell me why people call you at home and ask the question "where you at?"

The Collegian says today's high is 85 degrees. The Weather Channel says it will be 62 degrees. Good thing I never believe anything written in the Collegian.

What if there was a light powered by darkness. Would it ever be able to turn on? Would it ever be off?

It's a good thing that they give us our school ID's because we have to have them for everything.

I lost my gallbladder at Mercy Regional Health Center.

A masked man once stabbed Chuck Norris in the alley behind a children's hospital. The knife bled to death.

I miss my gallbladder. Sad face.

In response to the person criticizing via Friday's online Fourum, the guy with the left ear piercing and the "all or nothing" black shirt: He is an amazing person with a great sense of humor and amazing guitar skills — and he definitely has more integrity and character than most guys walking around this campus. I consider myself privileged to be his friend.

When will people quit talking about the 2003 football season and realize K-State sucks?

Put Spores in.

Why isn't the Internet working? It's pissing me off so much. It should be on, because that's what the Internet's for.

Stephen Colbert said it best, what is there to learn in Kansas? Apparently, not a lot.

ResNet, you're the most slip-shod organization on campus. Frankly, I don't want you controlling my computer anymore, you suck.

It's official — Bill Snyder's first two seasons, no bowl games. His latest two seasons, no bowl games. Full circle, it's time to let him go, we need some new blood.

So, I'm just curious. Would you buy a gummy penis extender?

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

THE EDGE

Tuesday, Nov. 15, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 5

Sex toy purchase important decision

Finding the right erotic toy is not an easy task. You may have to deal with sleazy, hole-in-the-wall novelty shops, financial limitations and products that may or may not work. When you find the one that works, fits and makes you feel hot, it's the sexual equivalent of the perfect pair of jeans.

HOLLY
KRAMER

Some women are fond of the tiny, lipstick-shaped vibrators because they are small, compact and perfect for a little discreet fun in a car when people think you're sleeping.

Some prefer a variety of options that come in many shapes, sizes, colors and even scents.

Since I hadn't ventured out into the sex toy universe for quite some time, my friend and I decided to see what the latest technological advances are, using our highly-developed sense of scientific reasoning.

It was a noble quest. We had to weed out the mediocre to get to the extraordinary, until it became sort of like sexual Darwinism. Only in this case, instead of smart, superior people taking over, it was smart, superior electronic equipment that would truly win in the survival of the quickest.

The old rule of thumb is to choose a vibrator you can hold up to your nose and if it tickles, but doesn't make you sneeze, then it should be right for you. In addition to this rule, I also challenge you to ask several questions to help in this decision: How much does it cost? Could a small child mistake it for a regular toy? Is it quieter and less trouble than an actual man?

Once you have the initial queries answered, then it's only logical to look for one that suits you, whether it is a hummingbird-shaped vibrating contraption or just a good, old-fashioned "realistic" feeling dildo.

This is the absolutely gut-wrenching part of shopping for toys and don't feel bad if it takes you a long time.

Never mind the stares in your direction as you test size, shape and consistency. Ignore the creepy old gentleman who just asked the cashier where the fake vaginas are. You are a woman on an important mission and can't afford to be easily distracted.

After you've made that important decision, females might like to peruse the sexy lingerie section of the store. I noticed some very naughty leather outfits that could be coupled nicely with something from the S & M part of the store. Complete with horsehair whips, ankle restraints and a leather gimp mask, you can rest assure your favorite sexually deviant equipment can be matched with a cute outfit.

After nixing a leather whip, my friend and I bravely went to the flavored lube and various erotic oils section. This was hard to interpret.

While everyone needs lubrication from time to time, does it really have to taste like bananas or coconuts? Chances are it would just confuse the mission at hand (and other body parts) and end up being joked about at parties.

All good things must come to an end, and after purchasing some unmentionables, we left the store.

The experience was like most sexual encounters. It started out thrilling, became confusing and ended with a nice mixture of elation and shame. And if that's not enough to make a trip out to Abilene, Kan., worth every moment, I honestly don't know what is.

Holly Kramer is a senior in human ecology and mass communications. You can e-mail her at edge@spub.ksu.edu.

Tiny gadgets

New technology changes product size

By Amy Bolton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

As technology grows, the products keep shrinking.

New releases on the market, such as the iPod Nano and Nintendo's Game Boy Micro, are examples of superior products in a smaller package.

Chris Loeher, the manager of the K-State Student Union Computer Store, said the new iPod Nano, which is replacing the iPod Mini, uses flash memory instead of hard drive memory. With a hard drive, there are moving parts that could break if the iPod is dropped, but the flash memory uses static memory, which doesn't move. The static memory is more expensive, but you don't have to worry about it breaking, Loeher said.

The iPod Nano also has color screens and can show photos on the screen, while the iPod Mini has a monochrome screen and can't show photos.

The Nano comes in two sizes — a two gigabyte that holds about 500 songs and a 4GB that holds approximately 1000 songs. The 2GB retail price is $199 and the 4GB is $249, but with the education discount students can get at the Computer Store, they cost $179 and $229, respectively.

Christa Beach, freshman in open option, said she considered buying the new iPod Nano but chose to get the iPod Mini instead.

"I went to go buy it," Beach said. "They showed me the Nano and the Mini and I didn't like how small the Nano was."

Neil Gutowski, junior in humanities, said he doesn't know anyone who has had trouble with the iPod Minis breaking.

"I haven't really heard of anyone having trouble with the hard drives," Gutowski said. "They're pretty handy from what I hear."

Nintendo's Game Boy Micro is a new, smaller Game Boy than the Game Boy Advance.

"It offers you the same technology as the Game Boy Advance but smaller," John Lackey, electronics specialist at the Manhattan Target, said.

Lackey said the new Game Boy Micro doesn't actually have any new technology, but it is smaller and not as heavy. He said it is about the size of the old Nintendo controls.

The new Game Boy Micro has been on the market for a month or a month and a half, Lackey said, but the Manhattan Target has not sold very many of them.

The Game Boy Micro retails for $99.99, and it comes with two different faceplates users can switch to make their Micro more personal.

Photo by Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN
Game Boy Advance SP, 3.3" x 3.23" x 0.96"

iPod
4.1" x 2.4" x 0.43"

Photo courtesy of Apple

Game Boy Micro, 4" x 2" x 0.7"

Photo by Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

NEW RELEASES

Music

P.O.D., "The Warriors EP, Vol. 2"
Eurythmics, "Boxed"
Madonna, "Confessions on a Dance Floor"
Carrie Underwood, "Some Hearts"
Green Day, "Bullet in a Bible"
Stuart Cassells (Performer), et al., "Harry Potter & The Goblet of Fire"

Madonna

Wilco, "Kicking Television: Live in Chicago"
Jimmy Buffett, "Live at Fenway Park"
Big & Rich, "Comin' to Your City"
Mariah Carey, "The Emancipation of Mimi - Platinum Deluxe Edition"
Alanis Morissette, "The Collection"
Madonna, "Hung Up"
The Moody Blues, "Lovely to See You: Live from the Greek"
Rod Stewart, "The Great American Songbook"
Bruce Springsteen, "Born to Run: 30th Anniversary 3-Disc Set"
Original Soundtrack, "Walk the Line"
Loggins & Messina, "Live: Sittin' in Again at Santa Barbara Bowl"
A-Ha, "Analogue"
Roine Stolt, "Wall Street Voodoo"

Source: Amazon.com

Movies in theaters Friday

"Harry Potter and Goblet of Fire"

rated PG-13
Our young hero Harry Potter is now 14 years old and is set to leave his Muggle relatives to return to Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry. But one night Harry has a disturbing vision. Knowing Lord Voldemort and his sinister followers — the Death Eaters — are out to get him, Harry is understandably on edge. He contacts his godfather, Sirius Black, for help.

"Walk the Line" rated PG-13

This biopic about Johnny Cash stars Joaquin Phoenix as the legendary country icon and focuses on the singer's early career in Memphis, Tenn., including his struggles with drug addiction. Reese Witherspoon stars as his wife and bandmate, June Carter Cash.

Source: Movies.go.com

DVD Releases

"Madagascar"
"Friends - The Complete Tenth Season"
"Charmed - The Complete Third Season"
"U2 - Vertigo 2005 - Live From Chicago"
"The Sound of Music (40th Anniversary Edition)"
"The Oprah Winfrey Show - 20th Anniversary DVD Collection"
"Friends - The One with All Ten Seasons"
"Stargate Atlantis - The Complete First Season"
"Scrubs - The Complete Second Season"
"Stealth"
"U2 - Vertigo 2005: Live From Chicago DVD"
"The Skeleton Key (Widescreen Edition)"
"The Harold Lloyd Comedy Collection Vols. 1-3"
"The Golden Girls: A Lifetime Intimate Portrait Series"
"Frasier - The Complete Seventh Season"
"Cheers - The Complete Seventh Season"
"Journey: Live in Houston 1981 the Escape Tour"
"Wal-Mart - The High Cost of Low Price"

Source: Amazon.com
Photos: Courtesy art

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Coach Bill Snyder talks with Allan Evridge on the K-State sideline Saturday while the Wildcats played Nebraska in Lincoln, Neb. The Wildcats lost to the Huskers 27-25. Snyder will announce his retirement today at a weekly press conference after 17 years as the coach of the Wildcats.

Snyder to coach final game

By Michael Ashford
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Coach Bill Snyder will coach his final game at K-State Saturday against Missouri.

Snyder, K-State's all-time winningest coach with a 135-68-1 record, is expected to announce his retirement at today's 1 p.m. press conference, the Web site www.gopowercat.com reported Monday night.

Tim Fitzgerald, editor and publisher of Powercat Illustrated, of which www.gopowercat.com is affiliated with, reported Snyder, who is nearing the end of his 17th year as head coach at K-State, will address the media at his weekly press conference about his retirement.

Fitzgerald said his sources were from inside the program.

Snyder came to K-State in 1988 and inherited a program mired in a 27-game winless streak that would stretch to 30 games. The Wildcats were known as one of the worst programs in college football.

What Snyder did at K-State has since been regarded as the greatest turnaround in college football history.

He led K-State to its second bowl game in program history in 1993, the Copper Bowl.

Throughout the next 11 seasons, the Wildcats were a staple in the top 25, and won 11 games in six of seven seasons from 1997-2003. The Wildcats went to 11 straight bowl games from 1993-2003. Snyder was named National Coach of the Year after the 1991, 1994 and 1998 seasons.

In 1998, Snyder steered the Wildcats to an 11-0 regular season and a No. 1 ranking.

In 2003, the program arguably reached its highest point when it defeated No. 1 Oklahoma 35-7 in the Big 12 Conference Championship, giving K-State its first conference title since 1936.

No successor to Snyder has been named at this time.

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Senior golfer Ben Kern chips from the fairway during a match last season in Lawrence, Kan. The men's golf team finished the fall season on Oct. 24-25 at the Barona Collegiate Cup.

Correcting mistakes

K-State men's golfers use fall season as preparation for spring

By Cedrique Flemming
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For the K-State men's golf team, some clear goals are on the table for the time between the end of the fall season, which wrapped up Oct. 24-25 at the Barona Collegiate Cup, and the start of the spring schedule.

Specifically, the Wildcats have to make improvements in how they finish tournaments, coach Tim Norris said.

"Everybody has improved from last season and we had a pretty good season," Norris said. "We have put together two-out-of-three good rounds each time we go out and now the guys are realizing how competitive college golf is."

The Wildcats' highest finishes came at the Wolverine Intercollegiate and the Memphis Intercollegiate, where they finished fourth in both tournaments.

K-State averaged a score of 287 in the first two rounds of its tournaments this season, with its lowest round of 279 coming at the Wolverine Intercollegiate.

The Wildcats also shot a 279 in the final round at Barona, but the average score for the final rounds this season was 292.4.

"We have to find ways of putting together solid tournaments where we don't have that one round knocking us out of contention," Norris said.

"We haven't had too many good final rounds, but the experience has definitely been beneficial for us."

Senior Ben Kern had the best performance of the season for the Wildcats, which came at the Cleveland State Invitational, where he shot three rounds in the 60s and placed second.

He shot five consecutive rounds in the 60s to begin the season and finished with nine rounds shooting 69 or lower.

Kern said he was pleased with his two top-10 finishes during the season, but said he has to fix a specific part of his game if he wishes to compete for more titles in the spring.

"There are a few rounds I would love to play over," Kern said. "I know I could have played so much better had it not been for my putting, which is something I have been trying to improve lately."

Seniors Tyler Cummins and Jonathan James, sophomore Kyle Yonke and freshmen Joe Kinney and Robert Streb were all contributors to the team to go along with the play of Kern.

Yonke was the low Wildcat at the Alister MacKenzie Invitational, placing 32nd at 5-over-par, and Tyler Cummins took eighth at Memphis with a 2-over-par.

The play from the younger guys on the team has been somewhat surprising, Kern said.

"We are all pretty good players," Kern said. "But the freshmen guys did better than I expected. They really stepped up when we needed them too."

Streb had his best showing at Memphis, where his 5-over-par was good enough to tie for 16th.

He said he is pleased with his overall performance to start his collegiate career, but knows there are many things to correct to become a better golfer.

"I played pretty well, but I would really like to correct some things and play better in the spring," Streb said.

"Over the winter I will be trying to make a few swing adjustments and I will need to work on my putting a little."

With cold weather just beginning to find its way to Manhattan, the Wildcats have taken advantage of the recent warm weather to practice outside before having to move inside to the Branderberry Indoor Complex.

"I would rather practice outside because I can correct more of my problems on the course than in Branderberry, where we are limited to what we can do," Kern said.

The Wildcats will begin the spring season Feb. 13-14 at the Matlock Collegiate Classic in Lakeland, Fla.

SPORTS ONLINE

Sports online. After traveling to the K-State vs. Nebraska football game this weekend, columnist Mark Potter gives his opinion of K-State football fans and how they stack up to Nebraska fans. To read Mark's column, go to www.k-statecollegian.com.

NFL Scores

Dallas 21
Philadelphia 20

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

MLB | Rodriguez wins

2nd MVP in three seasons

NEW YORK — Alex Rodriguez won the American League Most Valuable Player award for the second time in three seasons, beating David Ortiz on Monday in a vote that rewarded a position player over a designated hitter.

Rodriguez, in his second season as the New York Yankees' third baseman, received 16 first-place votes, 11 seconds and one third for 331 points from the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Ortiz, the DH for the Boston Red Sox, got 11 firsts and 17 seconds for 307 points. Los Angeles Angels outfielder Vladimir Guerrero received the other first-place vote and was third with 196 points.

Rodriguez

TEN | Agassi loses,

withdraws from Masters Cup

SHANGHAI, China — Andre Agassi and Rafael Nadal withdrew from the Tennis Masters Cup on Monday because of injuries, leaving Roger Federer the only top-five player in the elite field.

And even Federer, the two-time defending champion, might not go the distance. The top-ranked Swiss has a sore ankle.

Agassi lost 6-4, 6-2 to Nikolay Davydenko and then pulled out after aggravating an injury to his left ankle.

Agassi

NBA | Kings fined $30,000

for Detroit-bashing pictures

NEW YORK — The Sacramento Kings were fined $30,000 by the NBA on Monday for showing derogatory images of Detroit on video screens prior to their home opener against the Pistons.

When the Pistons were introduced Nov. 8, the Arco Arena scoreboard flashed pictures of abandoned buildings, burned-out cars, piles of rubble and other negative images of Detroit. The Pistons won the game 102-88.

The Kings apologized that night and owners Joe and Gavin Maloof bought full-page ads that ran in The Detroit News and Detroit Free Press.

NFL | Giants 2nd co-owner fighting terminal illness

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — The New York Giants are dealing with the terminal illness of one of their co-owners for the second time in less than a month.

Robert Tisch, 79, who purchased 50 percent of the team in 1991, has inoperable brain cancer.

On Oct. 25, Wellington Mara, who had co-owned the team since 1930, died of cancer at 89.

His son John, the team's executive vice president and chief operating officer, has overseen the team's operations for the last several years.

Tisch

College Football BCS Standings

1. USC	.9829
2. Texas	.9771
3. Miami (Fla.)	.8906
4. Penn State	.8520
5. LSU	.8224
6. Virginia Tech	.7895
7. Ohio State	.6893
8. Alabama	.6805
9. Notre Dame	.6803
10. Oregon	.5508

Other Big 12 teams:
19. Texas Tech .2211
25. Oklahoma .1205

K-State's Helene Robert competes in the Marilyn Smith/Sunflower Invitational at Colbert Hills Golf Course on Oct. 10. Robert earned a first place finish in the tournament at 1-under-par 215.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

Wildcats improve during fall season

By Wendy Haun
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Although the women's golf team is only halfway through its season, the Wildcats have already made good progress on some goals they had at the beginning of the year.

"I wanted to improve from last season," coach Kristi Knight said. "I wanted to play better, and they have."

Last season, the highest the team finished was fourth in the Ptarmigan/Ram Fall Classic in Fort Collins, Colo.

So far, the K-State golfers finished second in the Chip-N Club Invitational Sept. 26-27 in Lincoln, Neb., and third in the Marilyn Smith/Sunflower Invitational Oct. 10-11 at K-State's home course, Colbert Hills Golf Course.

A major highlight of the fall season came during the Sunflower Invitational, when junior Helene Robert took first place individually after a play-off hole.

"Helene's victory was definitely a highlight," Knight said. Sophomore Michelle Regan agreed.

"A highlight was when Helene went head-to-head with a girl from Nebraska for the tournament championship," she said.

"The whole team got to go and watch and we all got to see her play."

Knight said closing strong was a focus for the fall and continues to be for the rest of the season.

"I liked the way we responded in the final round in two situations," she said.

"The way we came back at the Nebraska and home tournaments was positive."

Knight said in the off-season, she's going to alter other things.

"As a coach, I'm going to make some changes," she said. "We have done some good things in practice, but I can see areas of practice that need to have more purpose."

Robert said she plans to work hard in the offseason on her scoring.

"I had one really high score [this fall], but I maintained a good average," she said.

"My goal is not to go too high and have some top-10 and 20 finishes."

Robert is excited about the spring schedule, which includes trips to Florida and Hawaii.

"We have a really good schedule and meet a lot of good teams," she said.

"Being able to meet them and beat them would be amazing."

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Tuesday, Nov. 15, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

LIVE ONLY half block from campus and walk to class. Huge one-bedroom basement apartment. $400 plus electric (all other utilities paid). Available now with short term lease. Emerald Property Management (785)556-6899.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex. close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE and two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice, 515 Blumont, available January, no pets, laundry included. $620 plus utilities. (785)313-0462, leave message.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

STUDIO APARTMENT. $260/ month. All utilities except electric paid. Lease and deposit required. Available December 1. (785)537-7794.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810. (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX. Available now for short-term lease. Small pets okay. $550. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

120
For Rent-
Houses

EVERYTHING NEW. Three-bedroom, two bath house with garage. West of campus. Available soon. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/ month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or malonerental@yahoo.com

HAVE YOUR own bathroom. Four-bedroom, four bath. Walk-in closets. BRAND NEW DUPLEX. Close to Aggieville and campus. Available now. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

THREE-BEDROOM. THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/ dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

145
Roommate
Wanted

MALE ROOMMATE needed for three-bedroom house. $200/ month, next to campus, washer/ dryer. Available now. (913)579-2209. Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (485)202-0678. Available December.

125
For Sale-
Houses

LAKE HOUSE, two stories, 1,700 square feet. Large deck and screened porch, sand beach, boat ramp, great view! $139,500. (785)468-3531.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

1995 SKYL 14x52 with appliances, $9000 or best offer. (785)787-0373 in Salina.

2000 SCHULT 16x80. Three-bedroom, two bath, large deck, fenced lot, #257 Riverchase. Reduced to sell. Call (785)564-0904 or (785)565-8292.

HORSE LOVERS, two-bedroom mobile home, Barn and Corral, close to town. (785)537-9718.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom apartment half block from campus. $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Call (785)342-1554.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9637.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: three-bedroom house for spring semester. Rent $320 plus utilities. Very nice house. (316)990-2046.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

NICE BRICK home. Washer/ dryer, walk to class, porch, storage, three female roommates. $275 rent, no bills. Available January (785)443-2229.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities. Scott (785)341-5153.

SUBLEASER for one of four-bedrooms, University Crossing. Begins January. $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/ dryer furnished. (316)650-6563.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment, Chase Manhattan apartment. Will pay January rent if signed by December. Call (785)871-0738, (785)871-1553.

SUBLEASER WANTED. Founders Hill, four-bedroom, $308.75 a month plus bills. Very Nice! Call (785)317-1875 or (785)317-5145.

SUBLEASER(S) NEEDED. One block from campus! Water/ trash paid. Washer/ dryer included. Wanted for second semester. Call (316)288-9629.

SUBLEASING A two-bedroom close to campus. For more information call (620)276-4940.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPACIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

160
Office Space

AGGIEVILLE RETAIL/ office space for lease. Handi-Corner Shopping Center. Off-street parking. (785)539-0350, (785)313-2976.

200 service
directory

220
Weight Loss & /
Nutrition

I LOST 55 pounds in eight weeks! See pictures and read my story online. www.loseweightfast.com.

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

IBARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

ROYAL PURPLE YEAR-BOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

310
Help Wanted

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com.

310
Help Wanted

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator. Full-time position available in Wabunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansas.net.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005- 2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMER. CIVICPLUS is the nation's leader in providing custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

RETAIL SALES Clerk position available at McMillin's Liquor. Apply in person at 930 Hayes Drive Suite A. Must be able to work evenings and weekends.

STUDENT NEEDING ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning the first week of January 2006. The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmind, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server. Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in spring semester 2006 for at least six hours at Kansas State University can be considered. Applications are available in 113 or 115 Kedzie or online at <http://spub.ksu.edu/tech/application.html>. Application deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, 2005. Please include your spring 2006 class schedule. Return applications to 113 Kedzie.

www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LetsureTours.com or (800)838-8202

SPRING BREAK- Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlessummers.com

Quiznos Sub
WWW...TOASTY!

su|do|ku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

6	1	9	2		5
				8	7
5	6	3			4
6	4	7	2
9	7		6	3
	4	3	9	8
3		9	6	5
8	6	1
2		7	1	9	6

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

6X10 DOG-KENNEL, $45, 26" ladies bike, $15. Architect leather carrying case, table, miscellaneous supplies, $30 or best offer. Call (785)776-8901, evenings.

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email hacman72@hotmail.com.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1998 DODGE Neon, white, two-door, five-speed, air-conditioning, dependable transportation. Great car for new driver or work vehicle. Very clean, in great shape, 75k asking $3000. (785)587-9242 for details.

530
Motorcycles

1994 NINJA 600 four-cylinder, 15,000 miles, Vance and Hines pipe. $2000, firm. (785)341-6972.

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

"#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LetsureTours.com or (800)838-8202

SPRING BREAK- Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlessummers.com

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. Call 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $8.50
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $9.95
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $11.65
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $12.90
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20 40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD

Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY

All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS

As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS

If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS

If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES

For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

032
Shout
Outs

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

BRANDON S., even though I got hitched, I still think you're hot.

BRYAN C., of DU house. I'm starting to wonder if you are even looking for me. I am looking for you this weekend. Don't forget I'm wet. -Secret Admirer.

DIAMONDS ARE forever! Kanye's political views about the government are right on the money.

EAT PIZZA on Tuesday for order of Omega!

DOES ANYBODY feel like our football teams sucks, or is it just me. Can we win another game this season.

I TRIED to jump from an orange barrel but it tipped over on me. Help

MARY B., we love you! BOS

MATT G.- you are the best, keep doing what you are doing. I like it.

MY DOG farts, but I was wondering if squirrels fart?

RYAN- WHY is your stuff so little?

TO MY goodnight hug buddy, I heart you!

TO THE girl in the Union with the big butt, keep wearing those jeans. They serve you right.

WALTERS. I know someone who wants to be your lady. Clue #1, keep looking.

YAY FOR Alpha Xi Delta for winning the Coldstone Creation contest!

000 bulletin
board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/ksfc

www.bobbyts.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

REAL ESTATE Auction Tuesday, November 29, 2005 7:00 PM at 4H/Senior Center, 1107 S Spring Valley Rd, Junction City Kansas. Location of Property: 13112 McNeal Rd, Dwight Kansas. From Junction City, 8 miles east on I-70 to Humboldt Creek Rd at exit #304, then south 11 miles to McNeal or Edwards Roads. From there go south and watch for auction signs. For more maps, drawings, photos, terms, and more details, see www.SimnitsAuction.com or www.grassandgrain.com. See the Nov 8 issue of Grass and Grain. This property consists 554 acres of primarily of pasture. There is approximately 90 broke acres. There is a farm home and outbuildings and creek, trees, and other good wildlife habitat. The property will be divided in 4 tracts and sold in a manner which will allow purchase of any or all of the tracts. The diversity of the land and the scenic location make this a desirable property for a variety of uses. OPEN HOUSE: Sunday November 20th from 2:00- 4:00 PM. Buyer(s) to pay 10% down day of sale. Your inspection invited prior to the time of sale. Owners and auctioneers not responsible for accidents. The auction firm is working for the sellers. Announcements made sale day take precedence over printed matter. RONALD L. MCNEAL ESTATE, seller. Auction conducted by Clay County Real Estate. GREG KRETZ AND GAIL HAUSERMAN, salesmen and auctioneers.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/
real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

GREAT DEAL! Studio apartment available January 1. Five or seven month lease. $340, all utilities paid. (785)410-6361 or (785)341-4754.

MONTH- MONTH Leases. Two-bedroom, $520. Three-bedroom, $620. 1510 College Ave. (785)537-2096.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM, walking distance from campus. Water and trash paid. Lease starts January first or possibly sooner. (785)672-2317.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

THREE AND four-bedroom duplexes. Walk to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866

NOW LEASING

• Large 2 Bedroom Apts. •
Cambridge Square •
Sandstone • Pebblebrook
Upon Saturday 10-3
537-9064
www.hillcrestapartments.com

120
For Rent-
Houses

AVAILABLE NOW. three-bedroom, 908 Vattier, $750. Off-street parking. (785)313-2579.

ONE-BEDROOM

TESTMASTERS | LSAT classes possibly fraudulent

INSTRUCTOR | Heredity factors into aneurysms

Continued from Page 1

operates as "TestMasters" in 49 U.S. States, and as "ScorePerfect" in Texas as a result.

The Houston firm has scheduled a weekend class to be taught at K-State on December 17 and 18. As of Monday evening, its Web site listed the class to be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day and listed the following address: 9 Anderson Hall, Manhattan, Kan. It also listed the phone number (785) 532-6011.

The address is not a classroom, but the home of K-State Media Relations and Marketing, and the phone number is the general contact number for the University itself. Kim Jackson, K-State room-scheduling specialist, said to her knowledge no classes, K-State or Test Masters, are scheduled in Anderson.

An employee of Test Masters said the company actually had not reserved any room for the class, and would wait until it had enough enrolled in it before arranging for a room "within three miles of campus."

She said students would be notified within a week and a half of the class's scheduled date if the class were to be cancelled.

Camille Rustia, 22, a graduate of Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., said she had a similar experience. She said she was advised by friends already in law school to take classes from "TestMasters," because they had taken instruction from the Santa Monica firm, but she went to the Houston firm's Web site by mistake.

Rustia said she enrolled and received an e-mail from the Houston firm that told her the classes would be at the Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta. She said when she got there and tried the phone number, she was connected to an anesthesia secretary there.

Rustia said she later discovered there were two "test masters," and called the Houston firm for an explanation. First, they told her the class was cancelled and all the students had been called but her. She had been missed, but she did get a refund.

Rustia said she pushed for more information, and later was told the class was cancelled because only one person enrolled, her. She was not pleased.

"Well, if I was the only one enrolled and you called everyone in the class, well, who did you call?" Rustia said.

She said she then enrolled in the Santa Monica firm's classes, but had already missed the first two. They did not give her a discount.

The New York State Consumer Protection Board also said Test Masters requires students taking its course to sign a refund-waiver agreement at least twice that said the students know there are other non-affiliated companies that use names similar to them. However, it referred to the Santa Monica firm by its corporate name, Robin Singh Educational Services, and not its public name, TestMasters.

An individual contacted the Kansas State Collegian last week and said the Houston firm was making students sign confidentiality agreements to get refunds, preventing other students from learning about the deception.

The student, who asked to remain anonymous out of fear of legal action, also signed the agreement.

Israni said his company was being falsely depicted by the New York Board and by its competitor.

"We have had over 63,000 satisfied customers since 1991," he said. "Every class is subject to enrollment."

Continued from Page 1

said an aneurysm is the dilation of an artery somewhere in the body. The walls of the artery become thin and the sides press against organs or the artery ruptures.

Radhi said an aneurysm in the brain can cause headaches, seizures or death and can affect visual nerves and the motor cortex.

No specific age group is more prone to aneurysms, Radhi said, but heredity is a factor. A person has a 10 percent to 20 percent chance of having an aneurysm if a relative had one.

Ines De La Torre Ugarte said she has not lost any abilities, but she does feel weak.

"Everything's exactly the way it was in the past," she said. "My brain needs rest."

Fernando Ugarte said his wife has retained all her faculties and movement, but lost a considerable amount of weight.

Ines De La Torre Ugarte suffered the aneurysm on Oct. 12 in her office. She originally thought she would be back teaching classes in January, but her doctors said she will probably need more time to recover.

"It's just a miracle for me," Ines De La Torre Ugarte said. "I never thought something like this could happen to me. God gave me another opportunity to be here."

RECYCLING | Electronic products can be reused

Continued from Page 1

recommendations from the Kansas Department of Health."

Nearly 100 percent of plastic and 80 percent of chemical-based products are recyclable, Peterson said.

One of the toughest obstacles in advertising for a recycle program is overcoming misconceptions, Peterson said.

"Everything helps," he said. "Most people think a little bit here or there won't help the city, but it does."

In 1989, Peterson said Riley County experienced heavy problems with chemical recycling, where people would inappropriately discard waste.

When discarding these wastes, serious legal and environmental hazards may occur, Kate Krebs, National Recycling Coalition director, said.

"Numerous states have singled out electronic products as a direct threat to the environment when disposed, and as a result, have enacted strict laws and regulations banning their disposal and landfilling," Krebs said.

Through America Recycles Day and other county-sponsored events, Peterson said the county aims to eventually expand the recycling programs so the community can enjoy the long-term benefits of safely discarding waste.

$50 foil

$40 Brazilian or 1/2 leg wax

$30 pedicure

$20 women's haircut

$10 men's haircut

with Shannon, Bri, Ashley, or Tara

exp. expires: December 1st

1125 laramie • aggieville • manhattan • 785.776.9100

1/2 PRICE EVERYTHING

Karaoke Night

LONGHORNS SALOON

IN CONCERT NOV. 17

KEVIN FOWLER WITH SPECIAL GUEST BOBBY DALE & NEXT OF KIN

Tickets on sale now!

HOLIDAY FUN

DO YOUR HOLIDAY SHOPPING AT ACME GIFT & RECEIVE 10% OFF ABSOLUTELY EVERYTHING!

SALE RUNS SATURDAY THE 19TH FROM 10AM TO 8PM.

FREE HOT CHOCOLATE & FRESHLY POPPED POPCORN

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE ON YOUR LIST. WE PROMISE.

ACME GIFT

1227 moro street aggieville

You know how great food smells when you don't have to make it yourself?

We can get that for you.

Check out the MENU GUIDE in back of the Campus Phone Book

Available in Kedzie 103 Mon. - Fri. 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

January 2006

intersession

December 27, 2005 - January 11, 2006

Time is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an Intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our web site at <http://www.dce.ksu.edu/>. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $164 per undergraduate resident credit hour and $227 per graduate resident credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14 per credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/5-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN Design Graphics and Visual Thinking Prb/Advanced Design Graphics/Visual Thinking	LAR 310 LAR 741	94108 94110	3 UG 3 UG/G	12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES Forensic Medicine & the Investigation of Death Hip-Hop as Literature The History of Insurgency on American Soil The History of American Movies and the Movie-Going Experience Sport and Exercise Personality Philanthropy and Corporate Communication Jazz in Kansas City and the Southwest Social Construction of Serial Murder	ANTH 684 ENGL 295 HIST 200 HIST 533 KIN 592 MC 450 MUSIC 424 SOCIO 562	94112 94118 94118 94117 94121 94123 94124 94126	3 UG/G 2 UG 3 UG 3 UG/G 3 UG/G 3 UG 3 UG 3 UG/G	1/3-1/10 1/3-1/10 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/29-1/11	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM MTWUF 12:30 PM-5:00 PM MTWU 6:00 PM-10:00 PM MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:45 PM MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM Sa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Theatre for Conflict Resolution	THTRE 673	94129	3 UG/G	12/30-1/11	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
BUSINESS Achieving Career Success; Developing Personal Competencies, Outwitting Opponents, & Avoiding Common Career Traps Introduction to Total Quality Management	GENBA 498 MANGT 300	94131 94133	3 UG 1 UG	12/27-1/11 1/6-1/9	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
EDUCATION Stress Management Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, and Administrators Early Field Experience	EDCEP 502 EDCEP 802 EDSEC 230	94142 94146 94148	3 UG/G 3 G 1 UG	12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM APPT
ENGINEERING CAD in Engineering and Construction CAD in Engineering and Construction Energy and Environmental Impacts Related to Sustainability Introduction to Information Technology Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications Topics in Construction Management: Building Commissioning Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management Introduction to Total Quality Management	ARE 311 ARE 311 CHE 650 CIS 101 CIS 102 CIS 103 CNS 644 CNS 644 DEN 300	94151 94152 94153 94154 94155 94156 94158 94159 94186	2 UG 2 UG 1 UG/G 1 UG 1 UG 1 UG 2 UG/G 2 UG/G 1 UG	12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 1/4-1/6 12/27-12/29 1/4-1/6 1/9-1/11 12/28-1/11 12/27-1/11 1/6-1/9	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM MTWUF 12:30 PM-4:30 PM WUF 8:00 AM-5:00 PM TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM WUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:00 PM MTWUF 9:00 AM-11:30 AM F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM TWUF 8:00 AM-7:00 PM
Problems/Eng. & Tech: Hazwoper Training	DEN 398	94160	3 UG/N	1/3-1/6
HUMAN ECOLOGY Topics: Introduction to Infant Mental Health: Raising Emotionally Healthy Children Problems in FSHS: Family Law Introduction to Marriage and Family Therapy Topics: Premarital Education and Counseling Seminar in Long-Term Care Administration Lodging Management Theory	FSHS 300 FSHS 700 FSHS 704 FSHS 708 GERON 610 HRIMD 664	94162 94166 94161 94168 94171 94180	3 UG 3 UG/G 3 UG/G 3 UG/G 3 UG/G 3 UG/G	12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11 12/27-1/11	MTWU 8:30 AM-1:00 PM MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:45 PM TWUF 8:30 AM-12:15 PM MTWUF 5:30 PM-9:00 PM MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM

VERIFY ALL COURSE INFORMATION BY CHECKING THE WEBSITE PRIOR TO THE FIRST DAY OF CLASS.

Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

Inside: In-depth coverage, Pages 6-7

THE EFFECT ON K-STATE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

3

www.kstatecollegian.com

Wednesday, November 16, 2005

Vol. 110, No. 63

'This is the right time'

BILL SNYDER | COACH 1989-2005

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

During a press conference announcing his retirement, coach Bill Snyder pauses after becoming overwhelmed with emotion. Snyder will coach his final game at K-State Saturday against Missouri.

Coach to leave program he placed among nation's elite

By Michael Ashford
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The sun has begun to set on the Bill Snyder era at K-State. After leading the K-State football team from the darkness of the college football world, Snyder and university officials announced Tuesday that Snyder will retire as head football coach at K-State after the Wildcats' final game of the season Saturday against Missouri.

Snyder, who inherited college football's losingest program when he was hired on Nov. 30, 1988, will leave the program as the school's winningest coach with at least 135 victories in 17 years. By comparison, from 1937-88, a span of 52 years, K-State accumulated 134 wins.

The decision to retire was based on Snyder's family and what was best for the football program and university, Snyder said.

"The question is why, and the answer, to me, is really simple," Snyder said. "Kansas State University has been very good to Bill Snyder and the family of Bill Snyder and to our football program, and I appreciate this university a great deal. I think there's a foundation to entice the right individual to lead this program, and that makes it, in my way of thinking, the right thing for Kansas State University, and that's what's important to me. This is my home. It will continue to be my home and the home of my family."

"We have been blessed by the people who have surrounded our program, and I appreciate them so very much."

However, Snyder will not completely leave K-State, as he will assume the position of special assistant to the athletics director once he retires as head coach.

Snyder said he will do all he can to help the football program and the school after he hangs up the clipboard, but that he doesn't want to interfere with the next coach's job.

The process of Snyder's retirement began on Sunday when he called K-State President Jon Wefald and Athletics Director Tim Weiser and asked to meet them at Wefald's house on Monday.

Snyder informed Wefald and Weiser of his decision to retire, and Monday night after football practice, Snyder told his players of the decision at about 9 p.m.

As Snyder huddled his team in the locker room, the players were left in shock when Snyder made the announcement, junior line-backer Maurice Mack said.

"That was the last thing I expected to hear. It's still kind of a big shock to me," Mack said. "(The meeting) was very emotional for everybody. It took everybody back, and it makes you realize there's more to life than just football."

Many members of Snyder's family were at Snyder's press conference. On numerous occasions, Snyder choked up while speaking of his family and the support they have shown during his tenure at K-State.

"This has been very consuming for me, and very consuming for my family," Snyder said, pausing to collect himself as he did several times during the conference. "I've got five children, wonderful children. I've got eight grandchildren who are going to be very special in my life. Indeed, I am going to do that. I've not been the kind of father that I should have been nor the kind of husband. I don't know

See SNYDER Page 10

To the Faculty, Students, Administration and Staff of Kansas State University:

There is no easy way to thank you for your loyal and genuine concern, caring and support of our university, our football program, me and my family through the past 17 years (although most of you have not been here that long). You have given me an opportunity to share with you a wonderful university and a wonderful community.

You have done far more than just cheer at the games. As students and faculty, you have made this a proud and friendly campus. You have achieved beyond the norm and you have demonstrated such great concern and compassion for the truly important things in life.

I will always admire, respect and be deeply indebted to those of you who have represented our university so very well. Wishing each of you continued success and good fortune.

May God bless and be with you and yours,
Coach Bill Snyder

Today

High 42
Low 20

Thursday

High 55
Low 29

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Sports online

The K-State volleyball team will attempt to break out of its recent slump when the Wildcats play Colorado at 7 tonight at Ahearn Field House. The Wildcats (17-9, 8-8 Big 12) have lost two of their last three games and have fallen out of the top 25. To read more, go to www.kstatecollegian.com.

BTK denied burial

Convicted murderers like Dennis Rader will not be buried in a military cemetery upon death because of an amendment to the Defense Authorization Bill passed by the Senate Tuesday. The amendment denies honors to veterans convicted of a capital crime.

Collegian editors named

The Board of Student Publications named Leann Sulzen as the Editor in Chief for the spring 2006 Collegian Tuesday. Brandon Smith was named the Advertising Manager. Applications for the remaining spring 2006 staff positions are due at 5 p.m. today in Kedzie 103.

Page 3

DON'T FORGET

The Lunchtime Lounge will have a table tennis demonstration from noon to 1 p.m. today in the Union Courtyard.

The Wisecats will meet at 7 tonight at Gambino's Pizza, 1219 Bluemont Ave.

The KSU Clarinet Choir and KSU Euphonium Ensemble will perform at 7:30 tonight in the All Faiths Chapel as a part of the Student Recital Series.

Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!

1122 Laramie

539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS	DOWN
1 Piercing tools	1 Wile E.'s supplier
5 Toy-shop employee?	2 Tyler or Taylor
8 Overconfident	3 Protracted
12 Comes-tibles	4 Tried for a homer
13 Apiece	5 Brief witicism
14 Galileo's hometown	6 Meadow
15 Tiny details	7 Sassy
17 "The — lama, he's a priest"	8 Angel
18 Christmas quaff	9 Labyrinth beast
19 Churchly councils	10 Dealt with
21 Needle-fish	11 Guys' cohorts
22 Emcee	16 Loathsome one
23 Huck's pal	20 — Kippur
26 Hoover, e.g.	23 Koppel or
28 Expresses pain	24 Kennedy
31 Tend texts	25 Troubadour
33 Treasure seeker's aid	27 Frenzied
35 Mysterious character	29 Away from SSW
	30 Driver's license datum
	32 Unisex casual-wear
	34 Sackcloth and ashes
	37 Listening device
	39 From a specified time, in law
	42 Little devil
	44 Scurvy preventives
	45 "You're — Boy Now"
	46 Squeezable container
	48 Evans or Earmhardt
	49 Perry's creator
	50 Luminary
	51 Infuriate

Solution time: 21 mins.

11-16 CRYPTOQUIP

Yesterday's answer 11-16

11-16 CRYPTOQUIP

EI XAFHARH PHCH WHCL
PHZBSGL UTS RHWHC
DBHZRHV GEFXHB. E XTKKAXH
GH'V UH IEBSGL CEDG.

Yesterday's Cryptquip: WHEN I SAW THE BARRACKS FILLED WITH STACKED BEDS, I SHOUTED "THAT'S A LOT OF BUNK!"

Today's Cryptquip Clue: U equals B

CAMPUS CHRONICLES

Headlines from the nation's universities

Toledo students take part in Potter craze

TOLEDO, Ohio — Ala kazoom and ala kazaam — Harry Potter and his magical ways are at it again. Author and Harry Potter creator J.K. Rowling will again bring the young wizard to life Nov. 18th, when her coming-of-age character will leave audiences spellbound for the fourth time as the film version of "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire" arrives on the red carpet.

Ask almost anyone, and he or she can tell you that Harry Potter may look like a children's book character, but the appeal spreads as far as college campuses.

"The children I saw when the third book was released, I saw again with the latest book release ("Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince"). So they are growing up with these books as Harry grows up," said Jennifer Habrych, community relations manager at Barnes & Noble.

"There is a bit of nostalgia for young adult readers because (Rowling) captures what it is like to be a teen," Habrych said.

When "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince" was released in the summer, Barnes & Noble had a huge midnight release party that saw almost 900 Harry Potter fans of all ages walk through the doors, Habrych said.

Jordan Blaney, a junior majoring in pharmacy, was at a Chicago Barnes and Noble when the book was released.

"That was the only store that had people in it that night. The mall parking lot was full of cars that only came for the Harry Potter book," Blaney said.

The true Harry Potter aficionado knows the boy-wizard's story goes beyond the four books.

The characters have made their way to the big screen, captivated viewers and net $830 million in total sales for the three movies released thus far, said Brian Callaghan, director of communication for National Amusements Theaters.

In regards to the movies, Callaghan said he has found a difference between the college "Harry Potter" fan and the high school "Harry Potter" fan.

"Students in college generally feel more comfortable with themselves and are not afraid to go out with friends and see a Harry Potter movie," Callaghan said. "However, high school students may still hide behind the fact that they like 'Harry Potter' and don't want anyone else to know." College-aged students and young adults also anticipate the first screening of "Goblet of Fire" because special showings will begin at the stroke of midnight, a prime time for most college students, Callaghan added.

The University of Toledo's Order of the Phoenix club is a prime example of students getting hyped up for the film.

This group of students has regular meetings to discuss everything and anything "Harry Potter"-related.

Daniel Compura, a professor of English and the UT Order of the Phoenix adviser, said college students can relate to the "Harry Potter" characters.

"Harry Potter has become a hit with college students because throughout Harry's life, he has dealt with making friends, being in new places, being rejected and the universal themes of death and loss," Compura said. "All things college students deal with."

Tony Kreamer, a junior majoring in biology, is a member of the UT Order of the Phoenix, and took second place out of about 20 people in a trivia contest during a meeting in March, where the group discussed the upcoming book and ideas for future meetings.

Kreamer has his own ideas as to why Harry Potter has become one of the newest literary heroes and trends.

"I love 'Harry Potter' because it is instantly readable," Kreamer said. "I think that's the main reason everyone else is into it. The trend comes into play with reading becoming fun again for young adults."

Kreamer is realistic about the trend and knows that Harry Potter will have his time now, only to see it escape.

"Once the new books stop coming out, I think the cultural phenomenon will filter out and the books will be relegated to good book status," he said.

"Harry Potter is at his peak right now," Compura said. "In the future it will be out of sight and out of mind with him, but for now, the popularity waxes and wanes when a new Harry Potter book or movie is released."

MAN CITED FOR KEG JOYRIDE IN STOLEN GOLF CART AT OREGON STATE

CORVALLIS, Ore. — A stolen golf cart belonging to the Oregon State University golf team — with three men and an untapped keg on board — crashed into a university public safety vehicle on Saturday at about 7:30 p.m., according to police records.

The driver of the stolen cart, 28-year-old Ted Cersovski, refused to take a breath test but was cited for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, driving under the influence of intoxicants and reckless endangering, police logs show. He reportedly told police he had paid somebody on campus $20 for the cart.

Two other men riding with Cersovski told police Cersovski offered them a ride in the cart. One of the passengers was cited for minor in possession of alcohol.

The keg did not have required paperwork and will be investigated by the Oregon Liquor Control Commission.

Illustrations by Bennie Green | COLLEGIAN

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, Nov. 14

- Christopher Fateley, 3000 Tuttle Creek Blvd., Lot 217, was arrested at 10:16 a.m. for battery. Bond was not set.
- John Cox, 920 Kearney St., was arrested at 1:30 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $200.
- Mekel McAlpine, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 3 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.
- John Martin, 813 Sunrise Circle, was arrested at 6:24 p.m. for furnishing alcohol to a minor and contributing to child misconduct. Bond was set at $250.
- Arnold Tyson, 711 Allison Ave., Apt. 3, was arrested at 11:40 p.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

Tuesday, Nov. 15

- Joshua Resto, 207 N. 14th St., Apt. 3, was arrested at 4:30 a.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.
- Amanda Resto, 207 N. 14th St., Apt. 3, was arrested at 4:42 a.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A library basics for science and technology class will be from 3:45 to 4:45 p.m. today at Hale Library's reception desk.
- A RefWorks class will be from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. in Hale 408.
- The WiseCats (non-traditional student club) will meet at 7 tonight at Gambino's Pizza, 1219 Blumont Ave.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Kathryn Beougher at 9 this morning in Blumont 368.
- The Clarinet Choir and the Tuba and Euphonium Ensemble will perform at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.
- An ice cream social for women interested in Smurthwaite Scholarship House will be at 7 tonight at the Smurthwaite, 1500 W. Manhattan Ave.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

REMINDER TO

K-STATE CONNECTION CELL PHONE SUBSCRIBERS

If you are on the K-State Local Plan ($37.95) and leave the Kansas area over Thanksgiving, your minutes do not apply. If you use your phone outside of the Kansas area, you will incur roaming charges.

Please call our office at 532-7001 if you need additional information.

Snip N' Clip

Hair cut stops

Student cuts $7.95

Highlite & color service available

3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410

M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

KSU Theatre & Dance and
the Department of Music
Present

Pippin

the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.

November 20 at 3 p.m.

McCain Auditorium

book by
Roger O. Hirson

music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50
Seniors: $11.50
Public: $13.50

McCain Box Office

532-6428 weekdays

11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

www.ksu.edu/sctd

by the creator of Godspell and Wicked

modern woodmen of america

Take control of your retirement planning with a TSA

Consider these advantages of a TSA:

- Contributions made on a pretax basis.
- Salary deduction provides for a convenient contribution method.
- Contributions and potential earnings are not subject to federal income tax until time of distribution.

Modern Woodmen provides a number of funding vehicles for your TSA. Select from fixed and variable annuities, as well as mutual funds, to fund your retirement.

We offer fraternal financial services. As a fraternal, we also provide member benefits to enrich your family and community. Call today and find out if a TSA is right for you.

Modern Woodmen is approved by the Kansas Board of Regents as a TSA Provider.

*Registered representative. Securities offered through MWA Financial Services Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Modern Woodmen of America, 1701 1st Avenue, Rock Island, IL 61201, 309-358-3100. Member: NASD, SIPC.

Shares of securities products are not deposits or obligations of any bank, are not guaranteed by any bank, are not insured by the FDIC or any other agency, and involve investment risks, including the possible loss of the principal amount invested. Individual representatives may not be licensed to sell all products.

Touching lives. Securing futures.®

Joe Belardo*
FIC, LUTCF
Junction City, KS
785-238-5648

Bruce Burdick* FIC
Topeka, KS
785-234-8600

Corporate Accountability and the Local Green Economy

Dr. Kevin Danaher

Co-founder of Global Exchange veteran human rights activist
esteemed author

Thursday, November 17
Union Station at 7:00PM

Giving the word on globalization,
environment, economy,
trade, and labor

"The Paul Revere of globalization's woes"
New York Times

"Dr. Kevin Danaher's analytical expertise sense of humor and blunt eloquence make him an exceptionally dynamic speaker"
Global Exchange

Brought to you by your friends at Students for Environmental Action

Convicted killers will not be given military honors

By Kristen Roderick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Convicted murderers like Dennis Rader won't be buried in a military cemetery upon death because of an amendment to the Defense Authorization Bill passed by the Senate Tuesday.

"I find it unconscionable that the serial murderer, Dennis Rader, whose heinous crimes terrorized Kansans over three decades, would be granted a hero's funeral," Sen. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., said in a release. "I am pleased that the Senate has quickly responded with this important amendment which I strongly support."

The amendment denies military funeral honors to veterans convicted of a capital crime.

A previous loophole in the bill allowed capitol offenders with honorable discharge, who are eligible for parole, to be buried in veterans cemeteries.

Last year, 1,200 veterans were buried with military honors by Fort Riley soldiers, said Deb Skidmore, deputy public affairs officer at Fort Riley.

Skidmore said ceremonies for those honor burials include folding and presenting the U.S. flag and the playing of taps.

Rader, an Air Force veteran, was awarded the Air Force Good Conduct Medal, the Small Arms

Expert Marksmanship Ribbon and the National Defense Service Medal.

Rader pleaded guilty in August to 10 killings in the Wichita area from 1974 to 1991. He is currently serving a 175-year sentence at a maximum security prison.

Allen Halling, junior in electrical engineering, said he agrees with the amendment, but he can see the other side of it, as well.

"They earned their spot in a veterans national cemetery by serving their time in a branch of the armed forces," he said. "On the other hand, committing capital crimes sort of voids that service."

Students prepare for Air Force life

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

On the surface, Mary Beth Cook is a typical graduate student. She carries a full class load, has a job and she and her husband are anxiously anticipating their lives after K-State.

Mary Beth Cook is also an extended cadet for the Air Force ROTC at K-State and will be commissioned as an officer of the United States Air Force in a Dec. 9 ceremony.

Cook was also a distinguished graduate in field training, which means she was in the top 10 percent.

Though females make up only about one-quarter of Air Force ROTC cadets, Cook said she has never been treated any differently because of gender.

"From the very beginning when we came to talk to the Cadre, I was welcomed just as much as my husband was. I've never seen any females treated differently," Mary Beth Cook said. "Standards are set, if you can meet them, you're in. We actually have a lot of female leadership in the Corps."

Chris Mantle, sophomore in mechanical engineering, said Cook and the other women are good for the ROTC.

"I think they're a valuable asset," Mantle said. "Anyone who wants to serve their country should be able to. They are held to the same standard as everyone else."

Though physical abilities differ slightly between males and females, this does not necessarily put female cadets at a disadvantage. In fact, Cook says that these physical differences serve as additional motivation to her when it comes to physical training (PT).

"Being a competitive person in nature, I don't want to drop

Steven Doll/KOLLEGIAN

Air Force ROTC members run around the indoor track in Ahearn Field House during physical training Tuesday morning.

out of a workout if everyone keeps going," she said. "Everybody's going to cheer you on, everybody's going to build you up. I think it's a good chance for a lot of females to work hard and gain a lot of respect that they deserve."

Air Force cadets attend two mandatory PT sessions Mondays and Wednesdays at 6 a.m.

Though involvement in ROTC can lead to a military career, it is possible to be involved without ever commissioning with the military. However, both Mary Beth and Zac Cook are said they plan to make the Air Force their career.

"It's great that we both face the same challenges together, most people don't do that," Zac Cook said. "There hasn't been a downside to us both being there."

Within 59 days after commissioning with the Air Force, Mary Beth Cook will receive her first assignment. She has been categorized as an intelligence officer, and will be heading to intelligence training when the assignment comes.

Zac Cook is preparing to be an engineer in the Air Force, and will be trained as a pilot. Separation for the two is expected during the training, as there are four bases for pilot training, and only one for intelligence officer training, Mary Beth Cook said.

However, once the training phase of their careers is complete, the couple is hopeful that they will remain united. The Air Force is well known for its efforts to station spouses together, and even offers a joint spouse program.

"It's been the best opportunity I've had to stand up and stand out and become a leader," Cook said about her ROTC experience. "I'm real excited about going into the real world, the real Air Force, and seeing where it takes me."

City approves TIF redistricting

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Nearly one month ago, local business owners and residents pleaded for the Manhattan City Commission to reconsider a vote on a tax increment finance district.

However, Tuesday night the commission unanimously voted against this group's plea and approved setting up a TIF district to benefit the city's proposed downtown redevelopment project.

City officials will now set up a TIF district where taxes are gathered from particular business districts in Manhattan.

Then, TIF will allocate a percentage of those taxes toward projects like the $140 million downtown redevelopment.

The intentions of the vote were not to inconvenience the city, but rather provide benefits for the area, Chamber of Commerce Chairman Larry Heyka said.

He said this is especially true for the upcoming population growth in the area, which Lt. Gov. John Moore estimates to increase by 22,000.

"It will also help make Manhattan a destination shopping area, compared to cities like Wichita, Topeka and Kansas City," Heyka said.

Assistant City Manager Jason Hilgers said that TIF will provide the process necessary to give private and public partnership in the downtown redevelopment project.

The last time Manhattan approved a TIF district was to contribute toward establishing Manhattan Town Center.

Though nobody publicly argued against the approval of this ordinance on Tuesday, local businesses have expressed hesitation.

"We believe the boundaries should be larger to increase the leverage of the area infrastructure," said Lisa Rockley, executive director for Downtown Manhattan, Inc., one month ago. "It lacks vehicular access to the community of the west."

Long-term residents in parts of the TIF district have also argued that the district doesn't give fair compensation for the toll it places on some residents.

Yet, Dial Realty spokesman Bob Welstead said while concerns are valid, contractors will work to provide a solid outcome for city.

"With the process, it's been long and timely, but steel sharpens steel. Each time we've examined an issue, it just makes for a better project."

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

For more information visit the website at:
<http://www.ksu.edu/oas/legal.htm>

Students' Attorney:

SARAH BARR
785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours

Monday - Friday
9:00 - 11:00 am & 1:00 - 3:00 pm

Other appointments available upon request.

Open the door...

to a superior education at Dodge City Community College.

Coming back to DCCC is a smart move for many reasons. Smart...

- because DCCC's low tuition and fees make it an excellent educational value.
- because DCCC's faculty and staff cares about you and your success.

Maybe you've decided the big-college atmosphere isn't right for you just yet. Come back to DCCC...get some of the basics out of the way...then give the university another try.

Whether you're laying the groundwork for a four-year degree, or training for a job right now, DCCC is the place to make it happen.

Make the smart decision. Open the door to a superior education at Dodge City Community College. For more information, call the Admissions Office at 1-800-367-3222, email admit@dc3.edu, or check out the spring semester schedule online at www.dc3.edu.

Now Available!

HOT ONES!

Served on Multi-Grain Bread...Goodcents Gold

Get 'Em While They're Hot!

Get Em' While They're Hot!

Mr. Goodcents
Subs & Pastas

We Deliver! 539-1900
1317 Anderson

- Limited Time Offer -
Buy any regular price 1/2 Sub Sandwich and get the second 1/2 Sub Sandwich for only

99¢

Mr. Goodcents
Subs & Pastas

Valid on subs of equal or lesser value. Offer valid at participating Topeka, Manhattan, and Salina Mr. Goodcents locations. Not valid in conjunction with any other offers. Offer expires 12/31/05.

LOOKING FOR A LATE NIGHT SNACK?

We've got your midnight cravings covered!

Real Chicago-style pizzas, more than 110 brews and all kinds of calzones, pastas, sandwiches and more.

Come try us today!

Eat. Drink. Be Yourself.

Open daily from 11am to 2am

100 Manhattan Town Center • 785.537.3322 • www.oldchicago.com
At the intersection of 3rd Street and Poyntz Avenue

TONIGHT

Condom FREE Sense

t-shirts & condoms

Featuring...

16 oz. Bud & Bud Light Aluminum Bottles with K-ROCK

LAST CHANCE SALOON

TO THE POINT Snyder deserves gratitude from all K-State fans

Bill Snyder announced his retirement as football coach at K-State effective after Saturday's football game against Missouri.

For those living in a hole the past 17 years, Snyder orchestrated what has been called the most impressive turnaround in the history of college football. After taking the reins of a program that had been winless in 27 games, he leaves the program among the nation's elites.

But Snyder's success on the field transcends just football.

When he arrived at the university, enrollment was dwindling and prospects in Manhattan were bleak. Less than two decades later, K-State boasts 24,000 students, largely as a result of Snyder's efforts.

Hale Library receives funding from the football team's annual spring football game and has authored books on leadership that are used in classrooms across the nation.

Snyder is also responsible for bringing the Powercat logo to K-State, which has become the nationally-recognized symbol of the entire university and transformed its entire image.

At the very least, Snyder has placed K-State on the map among college football's finest programs. It is now a program to be reckoned with rather than the football farce it was in 1989 season.

It is time for people to pause for a moment and shower Snyder with the admiration and respect of a grateful fan base.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

Turkey tolerance

'Sensitivity training day' should replace out-dated Thanksgiving holiday

Thanksgiving? Does this country seriously continue to celebrate a holiday instituted by Puritan Pilgrim Christians whose "thanks-giving" was to God for His bountiful blessing upon their autumn harvest?

Yes, it's true, modern America actually acquiesces to this Christian relic purported by Presidents Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt (number two). This is unacceptable. As a potbellied Pantheist American, I am doubly outraged.

How dare such an insensitive holiday be allowed? Thanksgiving to one creator? Monotheism? Says who? Billions of believers worldwide? The three worst American Presidents?

According to the pagan Pantheist punditry—God is all. God is a tree, God is a wrench, God is a dodgeball, God is cranberry sauce. Indeed, God is a turkey.

How am I supposed to enjoy my Pantheist Thanksgiving? I'm trying to give thanks to my turkey-God, and the oppressive majority wants to eat it. How can I thank my God and eat Him at the same time?

True, I guess monotheistic transubstantiationist Catholics thank and eat Jesus with regularity. But, really, what does "transubstantiation" mean anyway? According to my theological thesaurus — also known as my brain — its synonym is "flatulence."

Now I'm confused. I thought flatulence meant "secular liberalism." Forgive me; my thoughtsaurus has several entries.

Thanksgiving is not only an affront to my false religion, but also to my fat ass.

Six-hundred fifty million pounds of cranberries, 1 billion pounds of sweet potatoes, 7 billion pounds of turkey — what a way for America to prey upon and cash in on overeating fatsoes like me.

I can't help my obesity. What if I love gorging myself and hate sit-ups? It isn't right for America to institutionalize my cholesteric demise.

My disgusting fat body is my fault? Not according to peer reviewed scientific journals. Scientists recently uncovered the genealogical cause for "love of fatty foods and hate of exercise" — the Michael Moore gene, discovered in 2004.

At least one champion is fighting for fatties. Former President Bill Clinton is currently crusading against youth obesity across America. He recently gave a pre-Thanksgiving speech to a group of overweight children, admonishing: "Don't have sexual relations with your turkey breasts."

Excellent advice, Mr. President. I'm glad someone is looking out for the fat kids this Thanksgiving. But, what about the oppressed false-religiously faithful?

Christian-rooted "Thanksgiving" insensitively belittles my fallacious Pantheistic creed.

Some tolerant and multicultural country this is. Obviously the arms of Lady Liberty don't welcome downtrodden paunchy Pantheists.

It's time to replace Thanksgiving Day with "Sensitivity Training Day". It will be a day when Americans learn how to be tolerant of all religious creeds. Macy's Sensitivity Training Day parade will be quite an event.

Watching the parade, Americans will be re-educated to equate all creeds on the same moral plane via "diversity floats". Pantheist culture will be on display in promotion of tolerance.

In an age of radical Pantheistofascists engaging in terrorism, Sensitivity Training Day will be a terrific opportunity to reach out to try and understand this misunderstood culture. I can see the new NBC telecast now:

"Wow, Katie. Here comes our first diversity float titled 'Pantheistic women'."

"I see it Matt. Just look at those beautiful burkas and cunning hijabs. These four ladies would make fine wives for any polygamous Pantheistic man."

"Stunning, Katie. You can barely see their faces. What rich culture."

"I love Sensitivity Training Day, Matt. It's a time for turkey and tolerance."

Kody Cooper is a senior in political science and Spanish. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

Need goes beyond holiday season

The grocery store where I work is raising money for the Flint Hills Breadbasket. We are supposed to ask each customer if he or she would like to donate a dollar to contribute toward a turkey dinner for the less fortunate.

I recently asked a middle-aged woman if she would like to donate a dollar to the Breadbasket for Thanksgiving. She said no, quite rudely. Then I noticed her T-shirt. It said, "Food Walk: End Hunger!"

How ironic. This got me thinking, how often do we contradict ourselves in this way?

What about that sedan, with scripture and a cross plastered on the back window? Yet, they cut you off and refuse to let you into the lane after a football game? It would cost them about thirty seconds to let another car in, but they refuse to. Obviously, you can't let in every person in line, but one or two surely won't hurt anything.

Little things - compliments, donations, extra clothes - sometimes make a person's day, even if they are merely an afterthought of the giver.

It's not hard to do little favors for others. If everybody was like the "Scrooges" of the world, and nobody helped anyone, a lot more people would be suffering than those who are already.

It is great to have people who want to help - the "Food Walk" organizers, the "assisted living" program volunteers - these people really do make a difference, simply because they care and they passionately push others to care.

Christmas is my favorite holiday, not because of the presents, but because of the "holiday spirit," which pushes people to give something during the holidays. It would be a wonderful thing to have the holiday spirit year-round.

This goes hand-in-hand with the Golden Rule: Treat others the way you want to be treated. Imagine how grateful people are when they can eat a warm Thanksgiving meal from the Breadbasket, or the tears in the eyes of the single mothers who are now able to put presents under the tree for their children because of donations to Toys For Tots.

Extra help is especially needed around the holidays. However, there is a catch-22. People feel it is their duty around the holidays to help those in need, but what about the other 10 months of the year? People don't stop being poor after the new year. It is so easy to move on with our lives, feeling like we have done our "civic duty" because we helped those in need during the holidays.

When the alcohol and sugar buzzes have worn off, it's important to remember there are still others in our community who need our help. Just $1, one can of food or one hour of volunteering could change a life. It takes so little to help so much.

Kelsey Childress is a sophomore in English literature and Spanish. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@pub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Snyder's retiring? Seriously, what other reason was there to go to K-State? I don't know about you, but I'm wearing black today.

Everyone better be at the game this weekend to say goodbye to the best thing to happen ever happen to KSU football. Thanks coach Snyder.

How about we pack the stadium on Saturday afternoon to give Snyder the farewell that he deserves? Hats off to you, coach Snyder.

Thanks for all the great memories, coach. We will truly miss you.

What's with all these idiots just posting in the Fourum to complain? Oh ... damn it.

Note to Tim Weiser: if any member of this coaching staff gets the job, we will still suck. Bill couldn't do it all.

If Tiger Woods' cousin was any good at golf, do you think he would be going to college?

To the people who wanted Bill Snyder to step down, are you happy now? If it wasn't for him, KSU would be so bad they would have to give tickets away.

Let's show coach Snyder the respect he deserves by packing the student section with purple on Saturday and after the game everyone needs to storm the field and tear down the goal posts one last time in his honor.

Attention: we are no longer in Kansas. The campus mysteriously relocated to Siberia overnight. Return to Kansas is expected mid-March.

To those who are criticizing of Bill Snyder, I dare you to say that to his face.

If I ever hear anyone criticize Bill Snyder out loud, I will use their head to bowl with at league on Wednesday night.

I bet my tutor is hotter than your tutor.

If you're saying goodbye to one of college football's all time greatest coaches, at least spell his name right.

Does Lafene give senioritis vaccinations? I'll take two.

Why be honest? Liars and backstabbers always win.

Those goal posts are coming down Saturday to honor Snyder.

Remember that time that there was music on MTV? That was awesome.

We love you, wild Bill.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatedeal.com for the full version.

Leadership retreat open to all students

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Applications are due Friday for January's Leadership Challenge 2006.

The four-day retreat, facilitated by Leadership Studies and Programs, will help design and identify one's leadership potential at K-State, said Candi Hironaka, associate director of Leadership Studies and Programs.

Hironaka said the retreat is open to all K-State students, with graduate and international students encouraged to apply. However, the retreat is limited to 50 students.

"We select the most diverse students we can bring together," she said. "We hate to leave anyone out, but if we have more than 50 apply, we have to make that decision."

Applicants will be notified of their selection on Nov. 28 by e-mail.

Hironaka said participants will be divided into teams of 10. Each team will be led by a senior exponential leader, who is a K-State instructor, and a junior exponential leader, who is a K-State upperclassman.

Through large group sessions and hands-on simulations, participants will look at issues of leadership from different perspectives, Hironaka said.

"Students will examine possibilities in coming back to K-State and initiating some type of positive change they would like to see on campus for the spring semester," she said.

This is the fourth retreat Leadership Studies and Programs has put on, Hironaka said. She said the retreat planning committee will vote on a theme for the retreat today.

The $50 application fee will cover material costs for the retreat, Hironaka said. Campus organizations have sponsored students for the retreat in the past, she said.

Leadership Challenge 2006

When: Jan. 4-7, 2006

Where: Rock Springs 4-H Center, Junction City

How much: $50

Applications are due by 5 p.m. Friday to Leadership Studies and Programs, 918 N. Manhattan St.

Applications are available at www.k-state.edu/leadership/Challenge.

The retreat is a way for students to meet others from the residence halls, the greek system and off-campus housing, Sarah Decke, leadership development coordinator, said.

"Students get to come together with other students they would have never met otherwise," Decke said. "They get to learn about who they are as a leader and what can they do as student leaders to help impact K-State."

Americans giving more to charity

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Plan to give a little more to charity this year?

According to a recent Deloitte & Touche USA LLP survey, Americans plan to contribute their hard-earned cash to charity, as opposed to spending it on gifts and other holiday purposes.

The trends are heavily related to recent international disasters including Hurricane Katrina and the earthquake in Pakistan, said Laura Wilker, press contact of Deloitte & Touche USA LLP.

"Charitable donations ranked fourth in spending categories, exceeding planned spending for holiday entertaining at home, non-gift clothing and holiday furnishings, which all showed sharp declines from last year," Wilker said.

Locally, Manhattan organizations are also feeling the generous contributions from the community, said Jason Lantz, director of operations at the Flint Hills American Red Cross.

Thus far, the Manhattan-area has donated nearly $250,000 toward relief efforts through Flint Hills American Red Cross.

"Whether it's through money or time, they are willing to help out during the holiday season," Lantz said. "We do experience people coming in and wanting to volunteer. We're preparing for winter storms, coming with the holidays and preparing to set up shelters to help people who don't have anywhere to go."

Philanthropic organizations like the American Red Cross offer people a way to channel their money positively back into the community, Lantz said.

And for those looking at ways to contribute to others in need, Lantz said there are plenty of local options available.

"The hurricane relief efforts are going to continue over the next several months," he said. "There are many families that will spend their Christmas without the comforts that many have that weren't effected by the hurricanes."

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

Free Consumer & Tenant Advice

for more information visit the website at <http://www.ksu.edu/osas/cia.htm>

The Consumer and Tenant Affairs Office provides information on landlord/tenant rights and responsibilities and aids in the resolution of consumer complaints regarding products and/or services. Brochures regarding landlord/tenant and consumer issues are also available.

Consumer and Tenant Affairs Office
Appointments Available Daily
Call 532-6541 to make an appointment

FOOD BY FARMER BROWN. NOT CHIEF SCIENTIST BROWN.

GOURMET BURRITOS & TACOS.
IN AGGIEVILLE

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

ROYAL PURPLE

we've got the stories you've got to read

Get your Royal Purple yearbook
in Kedzie 103,
or call 532-6555.

January 2006

intersession

December 27, 2005 - January 11, 2006

Time is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an Intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our web site at <http://www.dce.ksu.edu/>. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $164 per undergraduate resident credit hour and $227 per graduate resident credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14 per credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/5-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Design Graphics and Visual Thinking	LAR 310	94108	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
Pbl/Advanced Design Graphics/Visual Thinking	LAR 741	94110	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
Forensic Medicine & the Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94112	3 UG/G	1/3-1/10	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Hip-Hop as Literature	ENGL 295	94118	2 UG	1/3-1/10	MTWUF 12:30 PM-5:00 PM
The History of Insurgency on American Soil	HIST 200	94116	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 6:00 PM-10:00 PM
The History of American Movies and the Movie-Going Experience	HIST 533	94117	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Sport and Exercise Personality	KIN 592	94121	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:45 PM
Philanthropy and Corporate Communication	MC 450	94123	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Jazz in Kansas City and the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94124	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 562	94126	3 UG/G	12/29-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
Theatre for Conflict Resolution	THRE 673	94129	3 UG/G	12/30-1/11	Sa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
BUSINESS
Achieving Career Success: Developing Personal Competencies, Outwitting Opponents, & Avoiding Common Career Traps	GENBA 498	94131	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	MANGT 300	94133	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
EDUCATION
Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94142	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, and Administrators	EDCEP 802	94146	3 G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Early Field Experience	EDSEC 230	94148	1 UG	12/27-1/11	APPT
ENGINEERING
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94151	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94152	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 12:30 PM-4:30 PM
Energy and Environmental Impacts Related to Sustainability	CHE 650	94153	1 UG/G	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94154	1 UG	12/27-12/29	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94155	1 UG	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94156	1 UG	1/9-1/11	MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Building Commissioning	CNS 644	94158	2 UG/G	12/28-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:00 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management	CNS 644	94159	2 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-11:30 AM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	DEN 300	94186	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
Problems/Eng. & Tech: Hazwoper Training	DEN 398	94160	3 UG/N	1/3-1/6	TWUF 8:00 AM-7:00 PM
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics: Introduction to Infant Mental Health: Raising Emotionally Healthy Children	FSHS 300	94162	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 8:30 AM-1:00 PM
Problems in FSHS: Family Law	FSHS 700	94166	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:45 PM
Introduction to Marriage and Family Therapy	FSHS 704	94161	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	TWUF 8:30 AM-12:15 PM
Topics: Premarital Education and Counseling	FSHS 708	94168	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:30 PM-9:00 PM
Seminar in Long-Term Care Administration	GERON 810	94171	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Lodging Management Theory	HRIMD 664	94180	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM

VERIFY ALL COURSE INFORMATION BY CHECKING THE WEBSITE PRIOR TO THE FIRST DAY OF CLASS.

Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

Timeline: Coach Bill Snyder's K-State Career

1988	1989	1990	1991
	Nov. 30, 1988: Snyder is hired as the 32nd head football coach at K-State.		1991: K-State finishes the season 7-4, its first winning season since 1982. This prompted ESPN to name Snyder its National Coach of the Year.

Sept. 30, 1989: K-State wins its first game under Snyder when quarterback Carl Straw hits receiver Frank Hernandez for a 12-yard touchdown pass to give the Wildcats a 20-17 victory over North Texas State. K-State finishes the 1989 season 1-10.

Oct. 9, 1993: The Wildcats defeat rival Kansas 10-9, the first of 11 consecutive victories in the series for K-State.

Dec. 29, 1993: The Wildcats appear in the program's second-ever bowl game. K-State beats Wyoming 52-17 in the Copper Bowl in Tucson, Ariz., giving K-State its first-ever bowl win.

Oct. 30, 1993: Snyder earns his first victory over Oklahoma and first victory over a ranked team when the Wildcats defeat the No. 13 Sooners 21-7. It was K-State's first win over Oklahoma in 22 years.

1994: CNN names Snyder National Coach of the Year.

Sports editor says goodbye

Dear coach Bill Snyder,
As I write this, a tear is making its way down my cheek, because I can't quite come to terms with the fact that after Saturday's game against Missouri, you will never roam the K-State sideline again. I know I'm supposed to be an "unbiased" reporter, but not today. Today, I am a K-State fan. I am the K-State fan I was raised to be. I can't even begin to say how hard it is to see you go. I don't think I'm ready to see another coach on that sideline, directing the program you built from nothingness.

MICHAEL
ASHFORD

Coach, what you have done for K-State — not just for the football team, but for the university that so many love and cherish — will never be forgotten.

You came in with a vision: that one day, K-State would have a football team its fans and alumni could be proud of.

Before you, K-State barely had a football team.

You envisioned a football program that stood for integrity, class, dedication, hard work, all while winning games, and lots of them.

Well coach, you won more than just games. You won the heart of every true, purple-bleeding Wildcat fan out there, and that will be what sticks with us the most.

More than the wins, the titles and the bowl games, we K-State fans will remember how you cared about every last one of us. And quite frankly coach, that means more than 1,000 Fiesta Bowls.

To the doubters who said it could never be done at K-State, enjoy knowing that you did the impossible.

You made winners out of losers, dreamers out of realists and most importantly, you made believers out of nonbelievers.

At the press conference to introduce you as the K-State coach in 1988, when you said the opportunity exists at K-State for the greatest turnaround in college football history, you might have been the only one to believe those words.

I want to apologize for every last one of us who thought, "It simply can't be done."

We should have never doubted you, and those of us who are true fans never have doubted you since. Those who did were fools.

I hope you realize you've touched the lives of so many more people than the ones who have filled soon-to-be Bill Snyder Family Stadium each Saturday.

So often, the little things you did for people went unnoticed.

When former Wildcat defensive coordinator Phil Bennett's wife, Nancy, was struck by lightning, you were there to offer your support and love.

When former K-State running back Darren Sproles' mother died from cancer, you offered your time and a shoulder to lean on.

When a young K-State fan approached you at a K-State basketball game and asked for your autograph, and you obliged him by signing his photo and talking with him for several minutes afterward, you did more than sign a piece of paper; you filled his heart with joy.

That young boy was me, and quite frankly coach, you are my role model.

At a recent press conference, you spoke about how young people today don't have very many role models in this day and age.

Well coach, every little Wildcat fan, every kid who paints a Powercat on his face every Saturday, every "youngster" who played for you these past 17 years had at least one role model they could depend on: you.

You have given us 17 amazing, inspiring, incredible years at K-State, and on behalf of every K-State fan out there, I want to thank you from the very bottom of our hearts.

There will never be another like you, coach.

K-State was never the same once you arrived, and K-State will never be the same after you're gone.

Thanks Bill. For everything.

Forever Snyder.

That last tear was for you, coach.

Michael Ashford is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

End of an era

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Along with other spectators, Kyle Liebe, freshman in pre-journalism and mass communications, watches as coach Bill Snyder delivers his announcement of retirement during a press conference Tuesday afternoon. The press conference was shown in the Union Food Court so that students could watch the announcement.

Students surprised by Bill Snyder's retirement announcement

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

An unusual silence filled the room in place of the chatter of friends gathering for lunch.

Students leaned forward in their seats, resting their heads in their hands as they watched coach Bill Snyder's news conference on the big screen TV in the K-State Student Union Tuesday afternoon.

To the doubters who said it could never be done at K-State, enjoy knowing that you did the impossible.

You made winners out of losers, dreamers out of realists and most importantly, you made believers out of nonbelievers.

At the press conference to introduce you as the K-State coach in 1988, when you said the opportunity exists at K-State for the greatest turnaround in college football history, you might have been the only one to believe those words.

I want to apologize for every last one of us who thought, "It simply can't be done."

We should have never doubted you, and those of us who are true fans never have doubted you since. Those who did were fools.

I hope you realize you've touched the lives of so many more people than the ones who have filled soon-to-be Bill Snyder Family Stadium each Saturday.

So often, the little things you did for people went unnoticed.

When former Wildcat defensive coordinator Phil Bennett's wife, Nancy, was struck by lightning, you were there to offer your support and love.

When former K-State running back Darren Sproles' mother died from cancer, you offered your time and a shoulder to lean on.

When a young K-State fan approached you at a K-State basketball game and asked for your autograph, and you obliged him by signing his photo and talking with him for several minutes afterward, you did more than sign a piece of paper; you filled his heart with joy.

That young boy was me, and quite frankly coach, you are my role model.

At a recent press conference, you spoke about how young people today don't have very many role models in this day and age.

Well coach, every little Wildcat fan, every kid who paints a Powercat on his face every Saturday, every "youngster" who played for you these past 17 years had at least one role model they could depend on: you.

You have given us 17 amazing, inspiring, incredible years at K-State, and on behalf of every K-State fan out there, I want to thank you from the very bottom of our hearts.

There will never be another like you, coach.

K-State was never the same once you arrived, and K-State will never be the same after you're gone.

Thanks Bill. For everything.

Forever Snyder.

That last tear was for you, coach.

Michael Ashford is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

ies and wildlife biology. "I don't know what the program will be like without him."

Others said they were expecting Snyder's retirement.

"I think it's the right time," BJ Bjostad, sophomore in electrical engineering, said. "After so many years and winning the Big 12 Championship, he's probably accomplished what he's wanted."

Kelsey Zirkle, junior in theater, wasn't in the Union watching the news conference, but said she was upset when she heard the news from a friend Monday night.

"It was a real surprise," she said. "I was kind of taken off-guard he would want to end a season like that."

Janousek said he heard rumors about Snyder's retirement a couple of weeks ago and he didn't believe they were true.

"I just figured they were rumors," he said.

Snyder addressed students, faculty and fans during his conference saying they have been "truly special."

"I think we have a relationship here with the administration and the faculty and the student body that I think is rather unique," he said. "I've appreciated it so very, very much. The state of Kansas and the K-Staters all across the country have been unbelievable, and you don't know the half of it."

Bjostad said he expects K-State will be able to find someone good to fill Snyder's place.

"If you look around the Big 12, most head coaches have been assistant coaches or in some way connected to Snyder," he said.

Janousek said the task of finding a new coach won't be easy.

"I'm just anxious to see who will fill his shoes," Janousek said.

Players respond to coach's decision to step down

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The message coach Bill Snyder delivered to his players and assistant coaches was a complete shock to everyone in the locker room Monday night after practice.

Snyder pondered over the decision for the last seven to eight days, he said, and with a media blitz and the leak of his intentions, he was forced to deliver the message to his players and coaching staff prematurely: he would retire after Saturday's game against Missouri.

"It was hard. I wasn't prepared. I wasn't as prepared as I needed to be at that particular point in time, but after practice I talked to the coaches because I hadn't had the chance to visit with the coaches, either, so it came as a surprise to our team and coaches," Snyder said.

"I regret having to do it that way, but it was a matter of time as much as anything. There were some emotional moments during that time, and there were some emotional moments after that time for coaches and players alike."

Snyder's message was a surprise to the players because he did not show any emotion when he first entered the locker room, senior Jeromey Clary said, but Clary said he knew something was different when Snyder began to address the team.

"He's a man who does not show too much emotion, so when he walked in, we noticed nothing different," Clary said. "When he started talking, you noticed that something was wrong. It was kind of a surreal event. I can remember bits and pieces of it, but I can't recall everything. He slowly told how his situation was, and how he felt and he felt that it was time for him to step down and move on to get back into being a family man and enjoying his family."

In 17 years, Snyder turned around a program that was 3-40-1 in the four years prior to his arrival in 1988, to a program that has gone 130-40-1 since 1990, his second year as K-State's coach.

Junior Maurice Mack said K-State is synonymous with Snyder, and it will be hard not to have them linked together.

"When you think of Kansas State, you tend to think of Bill Snyder," Mack said. "When you associate Bill Snyder, you've got Kansas State. Those two go hand-in-hand. It's going to be different coming in next year. We're going to have a new coach, a new coaching staff and everything like that, but I'm just going to remember the good times and the hard times that we've had with

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Maurice Mack answers questions during a Tuesday's news conference. Mack and other players gave their responses to coach Bill Snyder's retirement.

coach Snyder."

K-State currently sits at 4-6 overall this season and has been eliminated from bowl eligibility, but Mack said the team wants to send Snyder out with a win in his last game.

"No other team, even the Big 12 Championship team, can do what we can do this year, and that's give coach his last win," Mack said. "I think that everybody has that extra motivation to go and win this one for coach."

Sept. 21, 2002: No. 25 K-State defeats No. 11 Southern California 27-20.

Nov. 2, 2002: K-State defeats Kansas 64-0 in Lawrence, the largest margin of victory in the series.

Nov. 15, 2003: With a 38-9 win at Nebraska, Snyder picked up his first victory in Lincoln, Neb.

Dec. 6, 2003: K-State thrashes No. 1 Oklahoma 35-7 in the Big 12 Championship Game in Kansas City, Mo., giving K-State its first conference title since 1934.

Dec. 27, 2003: K-State loses 35-28 to Ohio State in the Fiesta Bowl, K-State's first appearance in a Bowl Championship Series game.

Oct. 28, 1995: No. 14 K-State whips No. 6 Kansas 41-7, giving Snyder his first win over a top-10 team.

Dec. 31, 1997: K-State defeats Donovan McNabb and Syracuse 35-18 in the Fiesta Bowl.

Nov. 21, 1998: With a 31-25 win over Missouri, the Wildcats cap the first-ever undefeated regular season in school history, compiling an 11-0 record and a No. 1 ranking.

1998: Snyder is named the Associated Press, Bobby Dodd Foundation, Walter Camp Foundation and FWAA/Bear Bryant National Coach of the Year.

Sept. 8, 2001: Snyder earns career victory No. 100.

1995 1996

Sept. 21, 1996: Snyder becomes K-State's winningest coach with a 34-7 victory over Rice.

1997 1998

Nov. 14, 1998: Snyder earns his first victory over Nebraska with a 40-30 win in Manhattan. It was the Wildcats' first win over the Huskers since 1969.

1999 2000 2001

Dec. 5, 1998: Heavily-favored K-State loses 36-33 in two overtimes to Texas A&M in the Big 12 Championship game, knocking the Wildcats out of the national championship picture.

Jan. 1, 2001: K-State defeats South Eastern Conference powerhouse Tennessee 35-21 in the Cotton Bowl.

Potential candidates

"For this week, we won't be having any comments on candidates or processes. I'm not going to have any comment until after the season about where we go and how we proceed with it."

Tim Weiser, Athletics Director

Phil Bennett
Head Coach, SMU
Bennett worked under Snyder from 1999-2001 before taking over an embattled SMU program. The Mustangs, who are 3-6 this season, are the only team to defeat Mountain West Conference champs TCU.

Darrell Dickey
Head Coach, North Texas
North Texas won Sun Belt Conference titles from 2001-04, but is 2-7 this season and lost to K-State 54-7. Dickey, a former K-State quarterback, led the Wildcats to the 1982 Independence Bowl.

Dana Dimel
Graduate Assistant, K-State
After coaching at K-State from 1987-96, Dimel served as head coach at Wyoming and Houston before returning to the Wildcat staff this season. He played on the offensive line at K-State from 1985-86.

Bob Elliott
Def. Coordinator, K-State
Elliott, who served as an assistant at Iowa before joining Snyder at K-State, has been under fire much of the season. He attended Snyder's news conference Tuesday but left immediately afterward.

Jim Leavitt
Head Coach, South Florida
Leavitt, who is under contract at South Florida through 2009, coached at K-State from 1990-95. The Bulls, a start-up program upon Leavitt's arrival, are three victories away from earning a BCS bowl berth.

Chuck Long
Off. Coordinator, Oklahoma
Long played quarterback at Iowa from 1982-85, when Snyder served as the Hawkeyes' offensive coordinator. He told the Associated Press Tuesday he would be interested in the K-State job.

Gary Patterson
Head Coach, TCU
Patterson was born in Larned, Kan., and played at K-State from 1981-82. He has led TCU to a 10-1 record. Patterson told The Dallas Morning News late Tuesday he had no comment on the K-State job.

Brent Venables
Assoc. Head Coach, Oklahoma
Venables, a native of Salina who played at K-State from 1991-92, got his first job from Snyder and coached at K-State from 1993-98. He did not attend Oklahoma's regular Tuesday news conference.

Snyder by the numbers

- 1 — Big 12 Conference Championship
- 3 — National Coach of the Year awards (1991, 1994 and 1998)
- 6 — Big 8/12 Coach of the Year awards (1991-93, 1998, 2002-03)
- 6 — Seasons with 11 victories (1997-2000, 2002-03)
- 8 — Consensus First Team All Americans
- 8 — CFA National Scholar Athletes
- 8 — Academic All Americans
- 11 — Bowl games (1993-03)
- 45 — All-American selections
- 52 — Big 12 wins
- 68 — First Team All-Big 8/12 selections
- 80 — Consecutive weeks ranked in the top 25 from 1995-2001
- 135 — Total wins under Snyder

Michael Ashford | KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"A lot of very, very wonderful things have taken place over the years in my tenure here. There are some things that I am awfully proud of and I know K-Staters are awfully proud of."

Bill Snyder

Sept. 11, 2004: K-State loses 45-21 at home to Fresno State. K-State dropped out of the national rankings the next week, and the Wildcats have not been ranked since.

2004: K-State suffers its first losing season since 1992, finishing with a 4-7 record.

2004 2005

Oct. 9, 2004: K-State loses to Kansas for the first time since 1992 with a 31-28 loss to the Jayhawks in Lawrence.

Oct. 9, 2005: The Wildcats defeat Kansas 12-3.

Nov. 15, 2005: Snyder announces his retirement.

Graphic by Loni Woolery | COLLEGIAN Art courtesy the Royal Purple archives

Music education major balances schoolwork, performances

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Wendy Crawford, sophomore in music education, plays the piccolo during band practice Tuesday afternoon in McCain. Crawford has been playing a musical instrument since the second grade.

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

William Shakespeare once said, "If music is the food of love, play on."

For Wendy Crawford, music and love are synonymous.

Crawford, sophomore in music education, started her music career early in life. She began taking piano lessons after second grade and started playing the flute in fifth grade.

It was during K-State's high school band day that Crawford decided she would attend the university.

"I heard the sounds of the band, and I knew then that I had to be a part of that organization," she said. "I think musicians are wired differently, and I had to come and be with all the crazy people."

"We're a different breed."

K-State's music education program is a nine-semester curriculum designed to prepare music teachers to teach kindergarten through 12th grade. Between 136 and 139 hours are required for graduation, depending on the student's emphasis. Instrumental majors in music education are required to participate in K-State Marching Band for at least two semesters.

In addition to professional education requirements, the bachelor of music education degree also requires 23 music classes, including Instrumental Conducting, Instrumentation and Arranging, Piano Proficiency.

Recital Attendance is a required seven-semester, no-credit class. It would be expensive to give credit hours for the course, and it is tradition at universities across the country not to give credit, said Gary Mortenson, acting head of the Department of Music and professor of music.

K-State's music education program combines practical curriculum with a theoretical and knowledge base of music, said Frank Tracz, professor of music and director of bands.

Tracz, who has taught at other universities, said K-State's music education program allows students to develop leadership skills through its ensembles, like the marching band and symphony band.

He said the major requires outside practice to develop what students learn in the classroom.

"It's a labor of love," Tracz said. "I don't know anyone who comes in at 9 a.m. and goes home at 4:30 p.m. and is successful. It just doesn't work like that anymore."

A half recital is required as a type of final project before graduation, and a student must meet piano proficiency requirements one semester before scheduling student teaching.

Crawford said she chose to pursue an education degree instead of a performance degree because she gets nervous performing.

"With being an education major, I can choose when I want to perform," she said. "Music is how I express my soul, and my soul doesn't run on a schedule."

Crawford said there is a misconception about music majors.

"A lot of people have this notion that music is a major for slackers," she said. "But if you're serious about it, it's not."

And Crawford is serious about her major. She has a 3.9 grade point average, and she is enrolled in 18 hours, with six classes, two ensembles and two lessons. Crawford is in K-State Catband, marching band and symphony band.

Even though this is marching band's last week, as the K-State football team did not qualify for a bowl game, Crawford said her schedule does not get easier after the season ends.

"Something else comes in and takes its place, and my schedule takes on a different rhythm," she said. "I believe in staying busy."

A typical day for Crawford begins at 6 a.m. She arrives at McCain Auditorium before 8:30 a.m. to start a solid day of classes and ensemble rehearsals, with piano and flute practice during free time. Some nights, Crawford can't eat dinner until nearly 10 p.m.

"I have a set schedule based on classes, but the rest varies based on what I have to accomplish for the day," she said. "Sometimes it's good to mix it up so I don't get bored."

Crawford said she wants to teach music in an elementary school, give private lessons and participate in a community orchestra.

"I love children, and it is refreshing to be around that sort of innocence," she said. "I want to be that kind of teacher who inspires kids to carry on with music for the rest of their lives."

Crawford's chances of receiving job offer as a Kansas music teacher are good.

Mortenson said in the 17 years he has taught at K-State, a student has never completed the music education program without receiving a job offer in Kansas.

With her busy schedule, Crawford said she has pulled the occasional all-nighter to stay on top of schoolwork.

"Sometimes I think I should just stop sleeping, but I know I'd fall apart," she said.

So is it worth it? You bet, Crawford said.

"All of the hard work will make me a better person and a better teacher," she said. "Dr. Tracz is always telling us, 'It may seem hard now, but you'll look back and wish you were here because this is not as hard as real life.'"

Program assists alcohol-policy violators

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Residence hall violators of K-State's alcohol policy now have two options: Assessing Behaviors for Change or judicial board.

The Assessing Behaviors for Change program requires violators to meet with their residence hall coordinator and discuss issues in their lives, then meet with a counselor at Counseling Services to create a plan to improve some aspect of their lives, said Tanya Massey, Haymaker Hall residence life coordinator.

The program is based in psychology and behavioral change, said Kipp Van Dyke, residence life coordinator for Goodnow Hall. Part of the program is taking e-CHUG, a Web-based assessment that takes six to 10 minutes to complete.

"It is an assessment tool that is self-guided that allows you to measure your alcohol intake to the norm," Massey said. "It's a way for students to see how their alcohol intake might affect their regular behavior."

The program was developed at the University of San Diego, and K-State gave it a trial run in 2003-2004. Since its implementation, Massey said she has seen a decrease in alcohol violations in the residence halls.

"We have seen an increase in the education and awareness students have and just being responsible about the choices they make," she said.

Van Dyke said he has also seen a decrease in the number of alcohol violations since Assessing Behaviors for Change was implemented.

However, he has only referred one of the 10 to 15 offenders he has seen this year to Assessing Behaviors for Change. This, Van Dyke said, is because some low-risk violators receive just a written warning for their first offense.

Assessing Behaviors for Change is available only to first-time offenders who admit to the offense or to repeat offenders who have been referred to the program by their hall's judicial board. Sixty-eight first-time offenders participated in the program last year, Massey said. Two repeat offenders also went through the program.

If offenders choose to go to a hall's judicial board instead of participating in Assessing Behaviors for Change, the board generally assigns punishments like writing an essay or creating a bulletin board, Van Dyke said.

"The underlying thing is education," he said.

In the residence halls, students younger than 21 are not allowed to have alcohol, Massey said. Students older than 21 can have alcohol with a less than 3.2 percent alcohol content. They cannot have hard liquor.

"We know we're not going to create a dry campus," Massey said. "We just want students to be responsible."

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings

"She was a beautiful bride."

Once in a Lifetime,
in the Collegian the first
Friday of the month.

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center

Walk-in Nasal Spray Flu Vaccine Clinic

Thursday, Nov. 17th
8:30—11:30 am
1:30—4:30 pm

Nasal Spray Flu Vaccine
available for $22

Students Only!

Only healthy persons between the ages of 5-49 can receive the
nasal spray flu vaccine.
For restriction information see:
www.cdc.gov/flu/about/qa/nasalspray.htm

For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/lafene

Optometrists
Dr. Mark Beittencourt &
Dr. Russell Hart

539-2020

$20 off Next
Contact Lens Exam

930 Hayes Drive Suite D
Across from Wal-Mart Tire Center

AGGIE LOUNGE

$1.50
wells

$2.00 shots & schooners

Open till 2am
537-8585

712 N. 12th St.

Porter's
537-7151
706 N. Manhattan

20+
Wings

$2.00
Domestic
Big Beers

$1.00
Cosmopolitan
Martinis

$2.00
Frozen
Drinks

Spring 2006 — On-line Courses

Kansas City Kansas Community College • 7250 State Avenue • Kansas City, KS 66112 • 913-334-1100

<http://www.kckcc.edu/schedule/index.psp>

Course Name
ACCOUNTING I
ACCOUNTING II
ADDITIONAL COUNSELING WITH SPECIAL POPULATIONS
ADVANCED SYSTEM MANAGER
ADVANCED VISUAL BASIC
ADVANCED WAN INTERNETWORKING
AMERICAN GOVERNMENT
ARCHAEOLOGY
ART HISTORY I
BANKRUPTCY
BASIC KEYBOARDING
BIOCHEMISTRY
BIOCHEMISTRY LAB
BLACK HISTORY
BUILDING CONSTRUCTION FIRE SERVICE
BUILDING FIRE CODES
BUSINESS COMMUNICATIONS
BUSINESS ETHICS
BUSINESS LAW I
BUSINESS LAW II
BUSINESS MATH
C++ PROGRAMMING
CAMPING AND OUTDOOR EDUCATION
CARE OF CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES
CBI PERL
CHILD DEVELOPMENT
CLIENT MANAGEMENT PROCEDURES
COLLEGE CHEM II + LAB
COLLEGE ALGEBRA
COLLEGE CHEMISTRY I AND LAB
COMPOSITION I
COMPOSITION II
COMPUTER AIDED DRAFTING
COMPUTER CONCEPTS AND APPLICATIONS
COST ACCOUNTING
COUNSELING THE ALCOHOLIC AND DRUG ABUSER I
CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION II
CRIMINAL LAW FOR THE PARALEGAL
CRIMINOLOGY
CURRENT TOPICS AND ISSUES IN EXERCISE SCIENCE
CURRENT TOPICS AND TECHNOLOGY IN FIRE SCIENCE
CUSTOMER SERVICE
DOCUMENT FORMATTING I
DRAFTING FIELD PROJECT I
EARLY WORLD LITERATURE
ELEMENTARY ALGEBRA
ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE
ETHICS
EXERCISE PHYSIOLOGY
EXERCISE TESTING AND PRESCRIPTION
FIRE ADMINISTRATION I
FIRST AID
FORENSIC SCIENCE ANALYTICAL TECHNIQUES
FORENSIC SCIENCE ANALYTICAL TECHNIQUE LAB
FUNDAMENTALS OF EARLY CARE EDUCATION
FUNDAMENTALS OF RESPIRATORY CARE
FUNERAL SERVICE COUNSELING
GENERAL BIOLOGY
GENERAL CHEMISTRY
GENERAL PHARMACOLOGY
GROUP DYNAMICS AND ADDICTIONS I

Course Name
HTML WEB PAGE DEVELOPMENT
HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY
HUMAN DEVELOPMENT
HUMAN RELATIONS IN BUSINESS
HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
HUMAN SEXUALITY
HUMANITIES II
INCOME TAX PROCEDURES
INCOME TAX PROCEDURES
INDUST INTRN COMPUTER
INDUSTRIAL INTERNSHIP (COMPUTER)
INFANTS AND TODDLERS I
INFANTS AND TODDLERS II
INTRODUCTION TO CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY
INTERMEDIATE ALGEBRA
INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS CULTURES
INTRODUCTION TO HOMELAND SECURITY
AND WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION
INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATIONS
INTRODUCTION TO SOCIAL WELFARE
INTRODUCTION TO TEACHING: CAREER AWARENESS
INTRODUCTION TO ENTREPRENEURSHIP
INTRODUCTION TO FICTION
INTRODUCTION TO ADDICTIONS
INTRODUCTION TO BUSINESS
INTRODUCTION TO CULTURAL GEOGRAPHY
INTRODUCTION TO HUMANITIES
INTRODUCTION TO INTERNETWORKING AND ROUTERS
INTRODUCTION TO LAW
INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY
INTRODUCTION TO PHYSICAL EDUCATION
INTRODUCTION TO PHYSICAL SCIENCE
INTRODUCTION TO PHYSICAL THERAPY
INTRODUCTION TO THE INTERNET
INTRODUCTORY PHYSICS LABORATORY
INTRODUCTORY PHYSICS
JAVASCRIPT
KINESIOLOGY
LEGAL POLICY IN VICTIM SERVICES
LEGAL RESEARCH I
LEGAL WRITING
LIFETIME FITNESS
LITIGATION I
LOCAL AREA NETWORKING
MAJOR ENGLISH WRITERS II
MANAGERIAL ACCOUNTING
MARKETING
MATH ESSENTIALS
MEDICAL TECHNOLOGY
MICROCOMPUTER APPLICATIONS I (SPREADSHEETS)
MICROCOMPUTER BUSINESS SOFTWARE
MODERN AMERICAN LITERATURE
MUSIC APPRECIATION
NUTRITION
OIS FEATURES REVIEW
OCCUPATIONAL INTERNSHIP I
OFFICE PRACTICUM
OFFICE SIMULATIONS
ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II
ORIENTATION TO FUNERAL SERVICE

Course Name
PATHOLOGY
PERSONAL FINANCE
PERSONAL SCHOOL COMMUNITY HEALTH
PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR THE ELEMENTARY TEACHER
PHYSIOLOGY LABORATORY
PHYSIOLOGY
PICTORIAL DRAWING
POLICE ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION I
PRE-CALCULUS MATHEMATICS
PRE-COMPOSITION
PRESCHOOLERS II
PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT
PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
PRINT READING
PSYCHOLOGY
PUBLIC SPEAKING
REAL ESTATE LAW
SMALL BUSINESS MGMT
SOCIAL PROBLEMS
SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
SOCIOLOGY OF THE FAMILY
SOCIOLOGY
SPECIAL TOPICS IN ADDICTION: PHARMACOLOGY, HIV/MEDICAL HIGH RISK, ETHICS
SPEEDBUILDING I
SPEEDBUILDING II
SPORTS OFFICIATING
STATISTICS
STRATEGIES FOR ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE/LIFELONG LEARNING
SUPERVISION TECHNIQUES
SYSTEM MANAGER
TECHNICAL INTERVENTIONS I
TECHNICAL WRITING
TECHNIQUES IN STRENGTH TRAINING
THE BIBLE AS HISTORY
THE GRIEVING PROCESS
THE LIVING BODY
TRAFFIC ADMINISTRATION AND CONTROL
TRANSITION CONCEPTS
UNITED STATES SINCE 1877
UNITED STATES TO 1877
VISUAL BASIC
WEB GRAPHICS AND MULTIMEDIA
WELLNESS, HEALTH AND SAFETY FOR THE YOUNG CHILD
WOMEN'S HEALTH: A TEAM APPROACH
WORLD CIVILIZATION II

"Making Life Better"

"An Equal Opportunity Educational Institution"

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Page 9

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Wednesday, Nov. 16, 2005

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820. COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

LIVE ONLY half block from campus and walk to class. Huge one-bedroom basement apartment. $400 plus electric (all other utilities paid). Available now with short term lease. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8266.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice, 515 Bluemont, available January, no pets, laundry included, $620 plus utilities, (785)313-0462, leave message.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX Available now for short-term lease. Small pets okay. $550. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

120
For Rent-
Houses

EVERYTHING NEW Three-bedroom, two bath house with garage. West of campus. Available soon. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/ month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or maloneerental@yahoo.com

HAVE YOUR own bathroom. Four-bedroom, four bath. Walk-in closets. BRAND NEW DUPLEX. Close to Aggieville and campus. Available now. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

LOOK BRAND NEW House 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

THREE-BEDROOM, THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/ dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

145
Roommate
Wanted

Roommates needed for four bedrooms next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Available immediately. 1006 Laramie. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. (913)775-0327.

ROOMMATES MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (785)202-0678. Available December.

LET'S HELP OUR LOCAL CHARITIES.
Please consider a contribution to support our local charities.

THINK GLOBALLY. ACT LOCALLY.

120
For Rent-
Houses

THREE-BEDROOM, ONE bath, house across from campus. Modern appliances, central air, very clean. Available immediately. $350 per bedroom plus utilities. 1735 Anderson. Call KSU Foundation at (785)532-7569 or (785)532-7541.

150
Sublease

ONE-BEDROOM $395, cable/ water paid. Laundry/ pool/ hot tub on site. Small pets. Quiet. Available now. (785)375-3015.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for January 1. Spacious one-bedroom, close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)564-7134.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED two-bedroom apartment. Chase Manhattan apartments. Will pay January rent if signed by December. Call (785)871-0738. (785)871-1553.

SUBLEASER WANTED: Founders Hill, four-bedroom. $308.75 a month plus bills. Very Nice! Call (785)317-1875 or (785)317-5145.

SUBLEASER(S) NEEDED: One block from campus! Water/ trash paid. Washer/ dryer included. Wanted for second semester. Call (316)288-9629.

SUBLEASING A two-bedroom close to campus. For more information call (620)276-4940.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPACIOUS apartment sublease January 1. May 31, $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

160
Office Space

AGGIEVILLE RETAIL/ office space for lease. Hand-Corner Shopping Center. Off-street parking. (785)539-0350. (785)313-2976.

200 service
directory

220
Weight Loss & Nutrition

I LOST 55 pounds in eight weeks! See pictures and read my story online. www.loseweight.thats.com.

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

IBARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

CATTS GYMNASICS in Wamego is needing recreational and team coaches. Starting pay $8.00 plus hr depending on experience and availability. Call Angie at 785-456-8488 if interested.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NEED MALE or female sub-leaser December. $275/ month plus utilities. Close to campus. (316)644-2118.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $325/ month, water and trash paid. Close to campus. Available January 1 (negotiable). Call (573)718-7321 or als7333@ksu.edu.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available January. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

310
Help Wanted

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com.

330
Business
Opportunities

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator. Full-time position available in Wabaunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansas.net.

FULL AND part-time help needed. Please apply in person. Feldkamp's Furniture Mart, 7977 East Highway 24, Manhattan.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors: Hall Monitors needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half hours per day. 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMER, CIVICPLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

STUDENT NEEDING ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning the first week of January 2006. The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmin, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server. Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in

Quiznos SUB
"MMH...TOASTY!"

su|do|ku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

7				8
9	1	8		5
	6	4	7
3	1	2	5	8	4
8						6
7	2	4	6	9	1
		7	6	3
6		9	2		3
3					5

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY	20 words or less	$8.25
	each word over 20	20¢ per word
2 DAYS	20 words or less	$9.65
	each word over 20	25¢ per word
3 DAYS	20 words or less	$11.30
	each word over 20	30¢ per word
4 DAYS	20 words or less	$12.50
	each word over 20	35¢ per word
5 DAYS	20 words or less	$13.60
	each word over 20	40¢ per word
	(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union) Office hours: Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000
bulletin
board

100 housing/
real estate

200 service
directory

300 employment/
opportunities

400 open market

500 transportation

600 travel/
trips

032
Shout
Outs

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

DOES ANYONE want a deviled egg? I want a deviled egg!!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Joe C.!

HAPPY RETIREMENT Coach Snyder!

HEY FRAT guys, you can officially pack your shorts and sandals away until spring break or Christmas in California.

HOW MANY guys are called "Juice" on the football team?

I DON'T care if you smoke, just do it in your own vehicle with the windows up tight.

I LOST my rubber duckie, if found shout out and I'll shower with you.

I REALIZE it's been a couple weeks since halloween, but I saw a witch this morning.

JOKE: Student comes to a professor's office after hours and closes the door, kneels pleadingly, "I would do anything to pass this exam." "Anything?" "Absolutely anything." "Would you... study?"

MY FAVORITE football player is "Rimmie."

PAM B: we love you! Take us to Colorado on our next trip. You know how to have fun!!

RYAN, WHAT shall we do for your birthday? Drink or party?

SCREW IFC, party on!

SMOKING WITHIN 30 feet of a building on campus, who really enforces this? Just puff to the sky, not near my eye.

TO MY friend with the cute, pink, sequenced cami, it's cold out, and one size don't fit all!

WHO IS that older looking guy in the Marching Band? Not the one on the ladder. Please respond!

000 bulletin
board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/kstc

REAL ESTATE Auction Tuesday, November 29, 2005 7:00 PM at 4H/ Senior Center, 1107 S Spring Valley Rd, Junction City Kansas. Location of Property: 13112 McNeal Rd, Dwight Kansas. From Junction City, 8 miles east on I-70 to Humboldt Creek Rd at exit #304, then south 11 miles to McNeal or Edwards Roads. From there go south and watch for auction signs. For more maps, drawings, photos, terms, and more details, see www.SimintAuction.com or www.grassandgrain.com. See the Nov 8 issue of Grass and Grain. This property consists 554 acres of primarily of pasture. There is approximately 90 broke acres. There is a farm home and outbuildings and creek, trees, and other good wildlife habitat. The property will be divided in 4 tracts and sold in a manner which will allow purchase of any or all of the tracts. The diversity of the land and the scenic location make this a desirable property for a variety of uses. OPEN HOUSE: Sunday November 20th from 2:00- 4:00 PM. Buyer(s) to pay 10% down day of sale. Your inspection invited prior to the time of sale. Owners and auctioneers not responsible for accidents. The auction firm is working for the sellers. Announcements made sale day take precedence over printed matter. RONALD L. MCNEAL ESTATE, seller. Auction conducted by Clay County Real Estate. GREG KRETZ AND GAIL HAUSERMAN, salesmen and auctioneers.

010
Announcements

www.bobbybys.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/
real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

MONTH- MONTH Leases. Two-bedroom, $520. Three-bedroom, $620. 1510 College Ave. (785)537-2096.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

WILDCAT PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
537-2332

Anderson Village
1 BD-1BA
$460 for January

1507 Poyntz #1
2 BD @ $600
NEW carpet & paint
Gas & water paid

1509 Poyntz
1 LG BD @ $525
Washer & Dryer
ALL Utilities PAID

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus yard room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)539-2452.

NOW LEASING

• Large 2 Bedroom Apts. •
Cambridge Square •
Sandstone • Pethlebrook

Open Sat/ Sunday 103
537-9064
www.hillcrestapartments.com

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

GREAT DEAL! Studio apartment available January 1. Five or seven month lease. $340, all utilities paid. (785)410-6361 or (785)341-4754.

JANUARY LEASE: Two-bedroom, two bath apartment. Brand new, great location. Two blocks from campus. One block from Aggieville. All appliances including washer/ dryer. (785)317-5326 or (316)640-1885.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments. All utilities paid! Available in December and January, offering semester leases. Call MDI at (785)776-3804.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM, walking distance from campus. Water and trash paid. Lease starts January first or possibly sooner. (785)672-2317.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS, available now and in January. Offering semester leases. call MDI at (785)776-3804.

THREE and four-bedroom duplexes. Walk to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866.

120
For Rent-
Houses

HOUSES FOR rent. Close to campus. Three, four or five-bedroom. (877)439-4038.

ONE-BEDROOM WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

Graphic Design Internship

Advertising Design — Kansas State Collegian
If you are a graphic design major and would like an on-campus spring 2006 internship for credit, stop by for an application. Your art department adviser's permission is required. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.
Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for more information.

Advertising Design
Practicum/Newspaper MC 484
Earn class credit working with the ad design/production staff on the Kansas State Collegian during spring semester 2006. Limited enrollment. The instructor's permission is required. No prerequisites are necessary. Stop by 113 Kedzie from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. for an application. Application deadline is Friday, Nov. 18.

ALL EYES ON CLENT STEWART

Guard set to top record-setting freshman season

Story, Page 4

The K-State's men have questions in the post, but the backcourt may be among the league's best

SPALDING
Stories, Page 3

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN BASKETBALL PREVIEW

Wednesday, November 16, 2005

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Shalee Lehning, Danielle Zanotti, JoAnn Hamlin and Marlies Gipson, K-State's four freshmen, came to K-State hoping to create their own identities after the graduation of Kendra Wecker, Megan Mahoney and Laurie Koehn.

The new face(s) of women's basketball

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When the four freshmen stepped onto the court at Bramlage Coliseum for the first time this fall, there was a bizarre chemistry; like they already knew each other.

The three Kansas natives — Shalee Lehning, Marlies Gipson and JoAnn Hamlin — and Danielle Zanotti, a product of Oklahoma, became acquainted this summer when they played on the Kansas Belles team that stormed the under-19 AAU national championship this summer, overwhelming its opponent in the championship 100-48.

"It gave them an opportunity to get to know each other on and off the floor, which is important," coach Deb Patterson said. "I think it built their confidence and gave them a comfort level they were able to bring to campus when they made the transition here in the fall."

The foursome has certainly had no problem re-creating the relationship they formed this summer with the rest of their teammates. In fact, Lehning said she already refers to her new teammates as her best friends.

"This group of freshmen seems to have melded very easily with our returners in terms of chemistry on the floor and in terms of chemistry off the floor," Patterson said. "I think that's a real positive for our team."

The freshmen also bring the same winning attitude that has become synonymous with K-State women's basketball the past four seasons, Patterson said.

"We have a group of young people that is very committed to playing Kansas State basketball and to keeping the stature of this program very high and elevated, both in the Big 12 Conference and nationally," she said.

Lehning, a 5-foot-9 guard from Sublette, Kan., could be considered the spark plug of the freshmen, Patterson said.

"She's a fiery competitor and has a competitive disposition on the floor," Patterson said of Lehning. "She brings the great ability to push the basketball and does extremely well in transition."

Following the Patterson ideal, Lehning said she is ready to shed any selfishness and put her team first.

"It's about our team and we're going to put everybody first," Lehning said of the message Pat-

"We're hoping to make a name for ourselves. They had an awesome four years, and we all looked up to them, but we're just ready to start our own tradition."

Marlies Gipson
FRESHMAN FORWARD

erson sent the freshman. "That was a great lesson for us because we realized that it's not about individual anything anymore. It's about doing it as a team with the people that you love."

After the loss of forwards Kendra Wecker, Brie Madden and Megan Mahoney, Marlies Gipson, a 6-foot forward from McPherson, Kan., is expected to fill a missing void and command authority down low this year.

Gipson said although she looks up to last year's graduates, she and her teammates don't intend to play in the shadows of the former Wildcats.

"We're hoping to make a name for ourselves," Gipson said. "They had an awesome four years, and we all looked up to them, but we're just ready to start our own tradition."

Gipson has a strong athletic presence on the court, and what she lacks in size at the post, she makes up for in her ability to score nearly anywhere on the court, Patterson said.

"She's a little bit undersized as a post player, but I think what you'll find is she makes very few mistakes, she plays with a great deal of intelligence and she has a real good ability anywhere around the paint to finish shots," Patterson said. "That's going to be very big for our basketball team."

Joining Gipson is Zanotti, a 6-foot-2 forward from Yukon, Okla., who brings her classroom smarts — she was her high school valedictorian — to the basketball court.

"The first word that comes to my mind when I think of Danielle, besides intensity and communication, is intangibles," Patterson said. "She's very smart and she picks things up quickly."

Because she's so busy helping others out on the court, Zanotti has yet to prove herself as an offensive threat. Still, it's the things people don't notice that Zanotti excels at, Patterson said.

"She makes everyone else on the floor better," Patterson said. "She plays defense well, she's quick to get rebounds, she keeps you in offense and she screens well."

Patterson has dubbed Zanotti as one of the best screeners in program history.

"She (Patterson) actually referred to me as 'massive,' which is the first time I have ever been referred to as that," Zanotti said. "I take that as a compliment when it comes to getting my teammates open."

At 6-foot-3, not only is JoAnn Hamlin the tallest on the K-State roster, but she is arguably the most physical, Patterson said of the Douglas, Kan., center.

"JoAnn's the kind of young person that will bang a little bit in

See FRESHMEN Page 4

Coggins' role no longer to fit in, but to stand out

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Two years ago, freshman Claire Coggins joined a K-State team coming off a second-round NCAA Tournament appearance that would ultimately finish the year as Big 12 Conference co-champions.

"Hopefully I'll be someone who can take care of the ball," Coggins said of her role at her first K-State basketball media day. "I'll feed Nicole (Ohlde) and Kendra (Wecker) whenever they're open - just not do anything too out-there at first."

Now a junior, Coggins will be the one her teammates feed the ball to as K-State's returning leading scorer. She averaged 10.1 points per game a season ago.

"Last year we had our All-Americans who basically played the scoring roles," she said. "Now it falls more on all of us to score more. On me a lot and a whole lot of us."

With the eligibility depletion of leading scorers Wecker, Laurie Koehn and Megan Mahoney, Coggins' role on the team will change this season from a role player to a teammate who will garner a majority of the shots.

With that comes a larger leadership role as one of only two returning starters from last season. Coach Deb Patterson said Coggins is ready to take on the role.

"For Claire, that will be the next big step for her," Patterson said, "to step into that role this season as a player with the potential to make a significant contribution and impact, and to grow your own game as you would expect from your freshman to your junior year, to becoming very consistent, game in and game out, possession in and possession out."

"I think we saw a big leap from her freshman year to her sophomore year. If we can get that same kind of leap from her sophomore year to her junior year, then it's going to bode very well for us and very well for her future development."

Last season, Coggins logged 450 more minutes than in her freshman year, playing in every game for the Wildcats and starting 24 of them. Coggins set career and season highs in all individual statistical categories, and was second on the team in steals with 40, behind Wecker.

She was one of three players to score in double-digits last year for K-State in conference play and finished fourth on the team overall in minutes played.

Freshman guard Shalee Lehning said Coggins has been a leader by example for her and the other three freshmen this year.

"Claire has been an amazing leader for us," Lehning said. "She's been very supportive and she's helping us in letting us know what we have to do and how we have to do it. She's been great, leading by example. She's a great person on and off the court and that's good for us."

Along with leading an inexperienced team, the Big 12 honorable mention selection will have to maintain the versatility she brings to the court and handle the basketball without having the talent that she had in the past, Patterson said.

"She found her niche in being surrounded by great strength in the rest of that lineup," Patterson said. "Now the challenge will be, 'Who are you when you are primarily the strength with respect to experience and where those taking the floor with you?' There is not necessarily a lot of separation between the four of you."

"That's an interesting dynamic, and I expect her to do real well with that," Patterson said.

Junior Claire Coggins is K-State's leading returning scorer from last season, when she averaged 10.1 points per game while starting 24 games.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

Wildcats plan for Wheeler to become more of an offensive threat

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

After blocking a K-State-freshman record 37 shots and averaging 4.3 points per game last season, the Wildcats will rely on sophomore center Shana Wheeler to provide more offense this year.

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Coach Deb Patterson did not need soft-spoken Shana Wheeler to score last year.

She already had that covered. This season, Patterson's safety net of Kendra Wecker, Megan Mahoney and Laurie Koehn has been pulled from beneath her, and the 6-foot-2 Wheeler, who averaged 4.3 points per game last season, is Patterson's lone returning starter in the post.

Last year, Wheeler broke the 22-year-old K-State freshman record for blocked shots, sending back 37. That included blocking a career-high four shots in one game twice.

Wheeler's defense in the post, on the help side and outside the three-point line displayed her versatility covering opposing players.

Her defense shone last year, but her offensive game was lost in the shadows.

Wheeler was not able to keep up her progression after she was named a starter in the second game of Big 12 Conference play, replacing senior Brie Madden.

Wheeler said she knows the team was going to need more out of her offensively this year, with the loss of point production that is no longer around this season due to graduation.

"Last year, I felt like they (Wecker, Mahoney and Koehn) were great players, and they were going to make the shots a majority of the time," Wheeler said. "I just felt better as a team player, that if they shot it, they usually made it, then we would be more likely to win. As a team player last year, I thought it would be a smarter choice for me to be a role player than a scorer all the time."

She said she worked out at Bramlage Coliseum five days a week for about an hour on her jump shot outside 15 feet and on post moves. She also worked on getting stronger in the post, working with heavy medicine balls to increase her speed and strength down low.

"I've been stunned by her quickness this upcoming season," junior guard Twiggy McIntyre said. "A move that she didn't do last year, she's now doing. I see more confidence with her taking shots - a little 17-foot jump shot that she usually wouldn't take - and I think her confidence has gotten better. Last year was a tremendous experience for her. She got a lot of time on the court and that just helped her develop her game."

"You name it, and she's improved on it - strength, endurance, conditioning, everything," Patterson said. The Wildcats are going to need Wheeler to be more of an offensive threat, and Wheeler is a significantly better player with the ball than she was last year because of the work she put in during the offseason.

"We're going to need her to put the ball in the basket. We're going to need eight to 10 points a game from her," Patterson said. "This season is about finding out who's going to produce for us. While Shana brought that great defensive presence a year ago, she really needed to grow offensively - strength-wise; dominantly, in terms of her mentality; and physically. I think she's taken steps there and I know she will continue to."

"We will look for her to work real hard to become a double-digit scorer for us this season."

Gameday starts with the

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Shake's
FROZEN CUSTARD
5th & Ft. Riley Blvd.

Shakin' Up

Wildcat Basketball!

$1 OFF WITH THIS AD

10% OFF WITH K-STATE ID

- Try our specialty coffees
- Try our Wildcat Sundae
- 104¢ special every Mon. & Tues. $1.04 cups and cones

Shake Cakes are here!

KANSAS STATE

2005 VOLLEYBALL

vs. Colorado

7pm - Wednesday, Nov. 16
Ahearn Field House

K-STATE STUDENTS, FREE ADMISSION WITH YOUR STUDENT I.D.

you can finally buy a book

WORTH ITS PRICE

CAMPUS PHONE BOOK

On sale in Kedzie 103
8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Kansas State University

Got a NewsTip or Story Idea?

Call 532-6556 or e-mail: collegian@spub.ksu.edu

Massey leaves big void for Hughes, post players to fill

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After the departure of second-team All-Big 12 Conference forward Jeremiah Massey, who led K-State in points per game (17.9) and rebounds per game (6.9) last season, the men's basketball team has big shoes to fill.

Tyler Hughes, a 6-foot-11 junior, said replacing Massey will be no easy task.

"He was putting up 18 points per game, which will be hard to replace, but Dramane (Diarra), Serge (Afeli) and I are going to try our best to do everything we can to get rebounds, put-backs and whatever else we need in the post," Hughes said.

Hughes, Diarra and Afeli will likely split time at the post for K-State this season.

Hughes, from Olathe, Kan., averaged 2.2 points, 2.9 rebounds and a team high 0.8 blocks per game last season.

Coach Jim Wooldridge, whose decision to incorporate a new motion offense that was "personnel driven," said Hughes must prove he deserves more playing time.

"It would certainly help our team if we can get him on the floor more, but perhaps we will just have to gauge that as we go," Wooldridge said.

Diarra, a 6-foot-8 senior from Paris, France, missed last season with an ankle injury. During the 2003-04 season, he averaged 1.2 points and 1.2 rebounds in 16 games for the Wildcats.

Wooldridge said Diarra is healthy and could be a major contributor this season.

"His practices have been really positive," Wooldridge said. "He is playing athletic, and with his size, we certainly need that. I think he is going to be a big part of what we do this year."

Afeli is a 6-foot-9 junior from Abidjan, Ivory Coast. A late addition to K-State's recruiting class, Afeli was considered to be one of the top players in the Ivory Coast.

Six-foot-10 freshman Darren Kent, from Apple Valley, Minn., may also see minutes inside.

Kent said Diarra and Hughes have both played well in practice.

"I think Dramane and Tyler are the two big guys who are going to do a lot of our rebounding," Kent said. "But all the guys are going to have to buckle down and get it done."

Last season, K-State finished tied for eighth in the Big 12 in rebounds per game, averaging 35 a contest.

While some may be skeptical of K-State's rebounding ability this season, Wooldridge said his squad has shown promise in practice.

"I don't think we are going to be a great rebounding team, (but) I don't think we are going to be the worst rebounding team," Wooldridge said. "I think we have people who are quick off their feet and have some natural tendencies to rebound."

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Junior Lance Harris had a breakout season for the Wildcats last year, as he upped his point production from 2.1 points per game as a freshman to 10.4 points per contest last season.

Harris hopes postseason snub provides motivation

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Lance Harris said he can still remember the disappointment he felt at the end of last season.

Harris, along with the rest of his teammates, said he felt they had done more than enough to prove they were qualified to compete in the postseason NIT Tournament.

So much so that coach Jim Wooldridge had a practice after the season-ending 80-67 loss to the Kansas Jayhawks in the quarterfinals of the Big 12 Conference tournament.

As it turned out, there would be no postseason appearance for those Wildcats.

"Coach definitely thought we had enough wins to be able to play in the postseason, but it didn't end up happening like that," Harris said.

"Some of the returning players have that in the back of our minds, and we're looking forward to getting out there and hopefully getting into the postseason this year."

This season, Harris said he knows the team cannot let a tournament selection committee determine its fate.

He said last year's outcome should affect this season in a positive way.

"Toward the end of last season, I was thinking about (some games we should have won)," Harris said.

"Maybe we could have even gone to the NCAA Tournament if we had won some of those games. I'm pretty sure that's going to be in the back of a few of our players' minds."

Harris, a junior shooting guard from Columbia, Mo., showed a vast amount of improvement last season, increasing his scoring average from 2.1 to 10.4 points per game.

In particular, Harris came on strong at the end of the season, averaging 15.1 points on 48-percent shooting over the team's final 11 games.

His play earned him a starting spot during the final seven games and led to the smaller lineup the Wildcats will again feature this year. After the season, Harris was selected to the Big 12's All-Reserve team.

With all the improvement last season, Harris' coaches and teammates said they expect a lot from him.

"We have high expectations for Lance," junior forward Cartier Martin said. "He can shoot the ball. He's defending well. He's been working on his dribbling skills. Lance, Clint (Stewart) and I have stepped up and are trying to lead the new guys."

In the offseason, Harris said he worked to become a more complete player. This involved conditioning, as well as repetition in different areas of the game.

"I didn't work too much on shooting, but I still stayed with it," Harris said. "I also worked on putting the ball on the floor and my pull-up shooting. I worked on my stamina, because I was finding out that I was getting tired more quickly."

Some of his teammates said they have seen a difference in Harris in the weight room, as well. His friend and roommate Mario Taybron said he has noticed Harris taking a leadership role with the team.

"Lance is a very good person," said Taybron, a junior point guard who transferred from Eastern Oklahoma State College. "In the weight room, he's been enthusiastic, telling people what we have to do. We have to beat certain teams. We have to prove ourselves. On the court, he's helping a lot of people who don't know the system."

All of this is for that one common goal: to make it to a postseason tournament.

Harris believes this year's team can achieve that goal.

"We have great athletes," Harris said. "We have a lot of returning players. We can run the floor. On paper, that makes us look good."

"We do all the little things, and as the season goes on, we are going to learn other things."

K-State backcourt could be strength

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

There is no question about it: the backcourt for the K-State men's basketball team will have to perform at a high level in order to have a successful season.

With the loss of second-team All-Big 12 Conference performer Jeremiah Massey — and the apparent hole left in the middle for this year's squad — a greater responsibility lies on the shoulders of the Wildcats' smallest players on the court.

Coach Jim Wooldridge has installed a new, four-guard offense to help create more scoring opportunities for the smaller lineup, and the K-State guards know the amount of points they score will directly affect the team's ability to win.

"Coach assessed our team and knew, with the athleticism that we have, it would probably be best to change the offense to a more open offense," sophomore point guard Clint Stewart said. "He thought that would benefit us most and I think it definitely will."

A year ago, Stewart became the first true freshman in school history to start every game in a season. He averaged four assists per contest, and putting him in a tie for seventh in the Big 12 and first among Big 12 freshmen.

Wooldridge said Stewart will be expected to take more of a leadership role this season.

Along with Stewart, K-State has depth at the guard position due to the number of returning players combined with a few newcomers.

Junior Lance Harris, the sixth man for much of last season, is a presumed starter and should provide leadership as one of the more experienced players on the team.

Sophomore Curtis Allen is also expected to see more playing time in his second year. In fact, Harris said he expects a lot of improvement out of Allen this season.

"He is a very talented player," Harris said of Allen. "He's probably our best athlete on the team. I expect big things out of Curtis Allen. He's definitely a great player, and he's going to show it this season."

The group of returning guards is joined by several newcomers who add to the overall athleticism of the team.

Mario Taybron joins K-State after a year each at Temple University and Eastern Oklahoma State College. A 6-foot-2 junior, Taybron is expected to help Stewart with the point guard duties off the bench.

"I will be able to come off the bench and pick up the intensity defensively and offensively," Taybron said. "I'll probably play the point, because I like to pass, and I get a thrill out of everybody scoring and dunking."

Another addition to K-State's backcourt is Akeem Wright, a junior who played two years at Neosho Community College. Wright earned NJCAA honorable mention All-America honors last season after averaging 11.6 points, 6.8 rebounds and 6.7 assists per game. Due to his 6-foot-6 frame, Wright is expected to play a variety of positions.

Perhaps the player who will have the most immediate impact is sophomore David Hoskins. Hoskins is expected to start and play both the guard and forward positions. He played in 30 games as a true freshman at Central Michigan and averaged 8.0 points and 3.2 rebounds per game.

Overall, the backcourt for K-State could be the team's biggest strength, Stewart said, provided the players can come together and enough playing time can be found for all of them.

If that happens, Stewart thinks K-State could surprise people and reach their ultimate goal — the NCAA Tournament.

"We want to get to postseason play," Stewart said. "We don't want to settle for the NIT. We want to get to the NCAA Tournament. A lot of people say that might be too much of a stretch, but I feel like we have a pretty good team, and if we stick together, we can do good things this year."

See a photo opportunity?

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Got a NewsTip or Story Idea? Call 532-6556 or e-mail: collegian@spub.ksu.edu advertise with the COLLEGIAN 532-6560

SPORTS MASSAGE BODY FIRST 218 ANDERSON 587-8300 www.bodyfirst.com

GOLDEN WOK BUFFET

All You Can Eat

Grill Table • Mongolian BBQ • Free Soda

Seafood Dinner Buffet Daily • Desserts • Large Salad Bar • Big Party Room

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK 3003 Anderson Ave. in Manhattan (behind ALCO) 587-9111

Coupon Good for

$1.00 OFF

Golden Wok Buffet (1 Coupon Per Person) or 10% off with a student I.D.

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

REPAIRING

PURSES • SHOES • BOOTS • LUGGAGE • BACK PACKS • LEATHER COATS • BALL GLOVES • SATIN SHOE DYEING • BIRKENSTOCKS

216 South Fourth • 776-1193

ROGER & MELODY- OWNERS INVITE YOU TO SHOP AT THE

Grand Ol' Trunk

Thrift Shop & Bookstore 1/4 mile south of the viaduct on HWY 177 Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mon-Sat -- Sun 12 to 5

Credit Cards Welcome 785-537-2273

1304 Pillsbury Dr. Manhattan, KS 66502

2-4-10

2 lunch buffets for $10

Valid M-F during lunch only 11:00-2:30 (Coupon required)

Largest Italian buffet in the state of Kansas!

3003 Anderson • 539-6444

With Purchase Of Any Medium or Large Pizza at Menu Price

• Aggieville 1121 Moro 539-7666

• Westloop 2931 Claflin 539-7447

• 3rd & Moro 231 Moro 776-4334

* Not good in combination with any other special offer • 1/20 cent cash redemption value • Pizza Huts of Manhattan, Inc. 11/05 Expires: Dec. 15, 2005

Blue Jeans Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch, and more! $2.50 - $4.95 Bring in Student ID for 25% off any one clothing item QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL BUY & SELL The Apple's Heart Boutique Atmosphere... Thriftstore Prices Where Kansas Meets New York! 113 S. 5th • downtown pointz • 317-5475

Wooldridge says Stewart must be offensive spark

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Point guard Clent Stewart became the first true freshman in K-State men's basketball history to start every game last season and set a freshman record for assists with 116.

But prior to this season, coach Jim Wooldridge told Stewart, who averaged 11.6 points per game for a .329 shooting percentage, he needed to improve his overall game.

"Coach wanted me, during the offseason, to work on ball handling and shooting the ball a lot better this year, so I went to the gym and got a lot of shots off over the course of the summer," Stewart said. "I definitely have a lot of room to improve, so that is what I am going to try and do this season."

Wooldridge said Stewart gained a lot of experience last season, as he was one of two Wildcats to start all 29 contests.

"We gave Clent a lot of responsibility a year ago as a young player, and I think that experience will help him be a better player in his sophomore year," Wooldridge said.

K-State's success this season partly hinges on Stewart's ability to communicate, Wooldridge said.

"Can he make others better on the floor from his position? That is one of the things I think good point guards do, and I think he's ready to take that step," Wooldridge said.

While Stewart is clearly the starting point guard, the sixth-year coach named three other players capable of earning playing time at the position: senior Schyler Thomas, junior Mario Taybron and junior Akeem Wright.

Thomas saw action in 22 games off the bench last season, while Taybron and Wright each transferred to K-State after leading their former teams in assists.

The 6-foot-2 Taybron started six games as a true freshman at Temple and averaged 5.2 assists for Eastern Oklahoma State College last season. Wright, listed at 6-foot-6, dished out 6.7 assists per game at Neosho County Community College last season, good for fifth in the nation.

Stewart said these players have contributed to an increased level of competition at point guard, which should benefit the team.

"Having other guys who can handle the ball well definitely brings competition," the Broken Arrow, Okla., native said. "We are making each other better on the court, which makes it a lot more fun."

Taybron, who averaged 15 points per game last season, said he and Stewart have helped each other become better players, but there is no ill will between them.

"It's not even a competition," Taybron said. "I've been helping him with shooting and he has been helping me get the offense down to what coach Wooldridge wants out of a player at point guard."

Sophomore point guard Clent Stewart became the first player in K-State history to start the entire season as a true freshman. He leads a veteran Wildcat backcourt that hopes to send K-State to the postseason in 2005-06.

Junior guard Claire Coggin will attempt to build on a 2004-05 season in which she took over the starting point guard position.

Diminutive McIntyre expected to carry load for K-State women

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Twiggy McIntyre stands 5-foot-5, making her the shortest player on K-State's women's basketball team and one of the smallest players in the Big 12 Conference. The leadership role McIntyre is expected to fill this season, however, is anything but small.

Nor is it something she is used to.

"It's just a different mentality," McIntyre, a junior point guard, said of her newfound responsibility. "I'm in a leadership role now, and I've got to come outside of myself and become more vocal this year. There's been a big difference."

The difference this year is that the team will be more reliant on McIntyre than she is accustomed to. Last year, she was a sophomore who saw time off the bench. This year, she is a veteran on the team and is vying for a starting position.

"This year, we're going to rely on her to be a significant contributor, whether that's as a starter or off the bench remains to be seen," coach Deb Patterson said. "I think Twiggy, every year, has continued to grow in her overall understanding of playing a more dynamic game, and one that's not quite as careful as she might have been prone to want to play early in her career."

What Patterson said she likes about McIntyre is her desire and willingness to do whatever is necessary to improve her game.

"She's constantly stretching herself," Patterson said. "She's constantly saying, 'What's the next thing to address, coach?' Then she works on that thing."

"I mean, that's gold. That's very special when you have a player like that."

This summer, McIntyre devoted much of her time to preparing for the 2005-06 season.

"It's just a bigger sense of responsibility that I felt this last off season," McIntyre said. "I had to spend more time getting mentally prepared, as well as physically. The obvious comes with shooting, dribbling — all those things that go with it."

Patterson said McIntyre's hard work is very apparent, as she's watched the Oklahoma native make strides over the past couple years. Last year, especially, she said she watched McIntyre develop into more of an offensive threat, something that will be demanded of her this season.

"I think as we watched her evolve in her sophomore year, she became more aggressive offensively and began to look for her own shot," Patterson said.

"Good things came of it. She can find her gaps, and we're going to need that from her."

McIntyre, who averaged only 4.7 points last year, agreed.

"As a point guard, you don't look to score as much, but this season, I think it's something that's going to have to happen," McIntyre said.

Junior guard Claire Coggin said she knows what McIntyre is capable of. She saw it in last season's Big 12 Tournament game against then-No. 11 Texas, where McIntyre boasted a career-high 19 points in a 72-69 Wildcat come-from-behind win.

"She was huge in our Texas win last year in the Big 12 Tournament," Coggin said. "She knows what it's like to compete in big games. We don't have our All-Americans and we know it's going to be up to us and the rest of our team to step up."

This season is inspiring for McIntyre because nobody knows what she, or the rest of her team, is qualified to do.

"I'm excited to step on the court with this young group of ladies," she said. "I know no one knows them. No one really knows anything about my game either, or the other returning players. I'm just excited to show what I can do and what this Kansas State team can do as a group."

FRESHMEN | Hamlin expected to be versatile post

Continued from Page 1

there," Patterson said. "Certainly more physical than we've seen with Nicole (Ohlde) and more physical than we've seen with Shana Wheeler, and more physical than we'll see with Marlies Gipson."

Not only is Hamlin a solid body in the paint, but once she gets the ball, she has the ability to put it away, Patterson said.

"I think JoAnn has a real proficiency as a scorer, and you can pretty much rely on the fact that most catches, she's going to find a way to score the basketball," Patterson said.

Hamlin said she considers herself to be flexible around the basket and is even working on extending her shot to beyond the three-point arc.

"I'm kind of a versatile post," she said. "I can step out and shoot the three, even though I still need a little work on that."

Although many have voiced concern about the young make-up of a previously All-American-laden team, Lehning, Gipson, Zanotti and Hamlin said they are willing to do whatever it takes to stifle the chatter. Hamlin said she can't wait to step on the court and let her and her teammates' performance speak for itself.

"They made great accomplishments, and we're not going to make the same accomplishments," Hamlin said. "We're going to make different kinds of accomplishments. We're looking forward to being just as great."

We're Looking

Executive Position

News Staff Positions

For YOU!

Spring 2006 Editor in chief

•Applications due 5 p.m. Nov. 11

•Interviews will be conducted Nov. 15

Spring 2006

• Managing Editors

• News Editors

• Desk Editors • Reporters

• Copy Editors • Designers

• Photojournalists

• Graphic Journalists

• Graphic Artists

• Online Journalists

• Applications due 5 p.m. Nov. 16

Pick up applications in Kedzie 103

LONGHORNS SALOON

776-8770

Ladies' Night

$2 bottles • $2 wells

IN CONCERT NOVEMBER 17

KEVIN FOWLER

w/ special guests Bobby Dale & Next of Kin

TICKETS ON SALE NOW

CINCH REVERSIBLE JACKETS

10% OFF

for the upcoming cold weather!

Offer Expires: Nov. 20, 2005

(785) 776-6715

8426 E. Hwy 24

2 1/2 miles East of Manhattan

Mon.-Fri. 10-6, Sat. 10-5

Lee's Western Wear

Go Wildcats!

DISCOUNT LIQUOR

539-5269

BEER WINE & SPIRITS

LIBRARY

Voted Sports Illustrated's #12 Sports Bar in America

Good Luck, Wildcats!

Rusty's LAST CHANCE SALOON

Campus Phone Books

you can finally Buy A Book WORTH ITS PRICE

on sale NOW in Kedzie 103

8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Thursday, November 17, 2005

INSIDE

K-State upsets
No. 24 Colorado
in 5 games

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

3 No. 64

Facebook involved in possible Honor Pledge violation

By Owen Kennedy
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A group of K-State students on Facebook.com are the target of a possible Honor Pledge violation, according to the Honor System Web site.

According to the site, a message board group was created to share information given at the end of each class period for George Clark's Natural Disasters class.

Matt Raple, junior in pre-professional business administration, is in Clark's class and said "Words of the Day" are part of weekly online homework assignments.

"Questions would ask what the word of the day was for a certain class period, and if you were in class you knew the answer," Raple said. "But even if you weren't in class, you could find the word out from a friend."

Raple said he did not know about the group until David Allen, director of the K-State University honor council, and Helene Marcoux, associate director of the honor council, informed the class of the report.

"I guess Clark found out about that group and asked some honor council people to come tell us about it," Raple said.

Allen said he could not comment on the specific number of students involved, but it may include more than 100.

"It was reported that Facebook was being used to share the word of the day," Allen said. "Two case investigators then started to familiarize themselves with the Facebook and the group."

Allen said this instance may be an Honor Pledge violation because it involves unauthorized sharing of class information.

According to the Honor System

Honor Pledge violations

Number of Honor Council cases per school year from August to July.

1999-2000	25
2000-2001	55
2001-2002	63
2002-2003	79
2003-2004	91
2004-2005	127
2005-current	23

See HONOR PLEDGE Page 10

Source: www.k-state.edu/honor

King Charles, played by graduate student in speech Chris Scott, acts out a scene with Pippin's half brother Lewis, left, played by freshman in theater Raynal Cherenfant, and Pippin, played by junior in applied music Austin Short. "Pippin" opens at 8 tonight at McCain Auditorium with shows Thursday, Friday, Saturday and a 3 p.m. Sunday matinee.

'Pippin' sets out to discover the MEANING OF LIFE

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The musical "Pippin" will be performed this week at McCain Auditorium.

The story is based on the book by Roger O. Hirson, with music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz. Performances are scheduled for Nov. 17-19 at 8 p.m., and Nov. 20 at 3 p.m.

Austin Short, junior in applied music, plays the character of Pippin.

"My character is about in his mid-20s, out of college and coming home to his father, the king," Short said. "He begins looking for fulfillment in life, through war, promiscuous sex, power and eventually love."

The play begins with Pippin draining a liquor bottle, taking pills and suggestively falling into a dream-like sleep.

"The play is all set in a bad, boozed-out, psychedelic dream," Christopher Scott, graduate student in speech, said.

Scott plays Pippin's father King Charles, also known as Charlemagne.

"It's a musical comedy, and I think people will enjoy the elaborate sets and great music," Short said.

He sings a touching solo in the beginning of the play that describes his character's desire for something more.

"It's not like other plays, the audience doesn't have to think hard," Scott said. "The scenes are colorful and big."

Scott describes his character as a tyrannical king who does care about his son.

"I play Charles the Great, and I'm like a strutting peacock," Scott said. He said the hardest thing for him in preparing for the play was the music.

Pippin, played by junior in applied music Austin Short, along with Lauren Rohrer, sophomore in applied music, and Price Messick, senior in theater, works through a scene in "Pippin" the musical Monday evening McCain Auditorium.

"I'm not a great musician, I can't really read music that well, and so I spent a lot of time listening to tapes," Scott said.

Kate Anderson, associate professor of theater, is the director of the play. She said she encourages people to come and see what she believes is a common theme.

"I hope people come because it's a

See PIPPIN Page 10

Curriculum change suggested

By Adam Hanks
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Graduate School will vote on a proposed change in curriculum in the College of Architecture, Planning and Design that would add two new masters degrees and change several other tracks next week.

The proposed alterations would change every major from a 10-semester bachelor's degree program to an 11-semester master's degree program, and create a new track for the master's degree program in regional and community planning and an interdisciplinary doctorate program.

"The proposal has passed through our college and next will go through the graduate school, Faculty Senate, the Council of Chief Academic Officers and the Kansas Board of Regents," Wendy Ornelas, associate dean for the college of Architecture, Planning and Design, said.

The changes to the curriculum were suggested at the beginning of the semester to put K-State in line with other programs across the country, Ornelas said.

"In the old days, up until the 1960s, the bachelor of architecture was the standard degree," said David Sachs, interim head of the department of Architecture. "Since then, there has been the move to offer the first professional degree at the master's level. Sixty-five percent of the programs in the country are at the master's level and with an ever-increasing number of programs moving in this direction."

Ornelas said another reason for changing all architecture majors to an 11-semester

See ARCHITECTURE Page 10

With tools in hand, Daniel Robben, sophomore in landscape architecture, drafts his design for an art institute Wednesday afternoon in Seaton Hall. A vote next week could change a number of degree programs in the College of Architecture, Planning and Design.

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Snyder

K-State coach Bill Snyder will coach the final game of his 17-year career at a stadium that will bear his name Saturday.

On Wednesday, the Kansas Board of Regents unanimously approved the immediate renaming of KSU Stadium to the Bill Snyder Family Football Stadium. Snyder announced his retirement Tuesday.

K-State officials plan to announce the change at the Wildcat's regular season finale against Missouri.

"It is certainly an honor to approve this new name which reflects coach Snyder's tremendous contributions, not only to Kansas State University, but also to the entire state of Kansas," regents vice chairman Nelson Galle told the Associated Press.

Although Athletics Director, Tim Weiser, has not speculated who will replace the 66-year-old coach, Snyder will remain until a successor is named.

Once a successor is named, the three-time national coach of the year will remain on K-State's payroll as a special assistant to Weiser. At K-State, Snyder amassed a record of 135-68-1 and led the Wildcats to 11 consecutive bowl game appearances from 1993 to 2003.

Today

High 50
Low 29

Friday

High 54
Low 35

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Soldier accused of murder

Defense attorneys for an infantry officer accused of murder said Wednesday the charges are based on statements from two soldiers already convicted of the crimes who want to shorten their time behind bars. The hearing for 2nd Lt. Erick J. Anderson, 26, began with testimony from the first of nearly 30 expected witnesses.

5 Marines Killed

Five U.S. Marines were killed in fighting with al-Qaeda-led insurgents near the Syrian border and an Army soldier died of wounds suffered in Baghdad, making Wednesday the second deadliest day for American forces in Iraq this month. The soldier, from the Army's Task Force Baghdad, died of wounds suffered the day before.

Internet fight unclear

Representatives of a number of countries remained adamant that U.S. control must be tempered if the Internet is to fully reach its potential. And even traditional allies of Washington considered it to have opened the door to the possibility of more shared governance.

Jeff Stilley will speak of corporate accountability and the local green economy at 7 tonight in Union Station.

"Pippin" opens at 8 tonight in McCain Auditorium.

The Peace Corps will have an Information Meeting from 4:30 to 5:30 tonight in the Union Stateroom.

DON'T FORGET

Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!
1122 Laramie 539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
1 Crimson Tide
5 Over-supply
9 That girl
12 Not "fer"
13 Steak-house order
14 Silthery one
15 Meeting points
17 Urban transport
18 Country music?
19 Aquarium favorite
21 Symbol of strength
22 "Heidi" author
24 Despot
27 Carnival city
28 Lurid
31 Chit notation
32 Emmet
33 Society-page word
34 Wharf
36 Astronaut

DOWN
37 Answer an invitation
38 Oceans' motions
40 — ne sais quoi
41 Hogs
43 Wollongong resident
47 Discoverer's cry
48 Bits
51 Sermon subject
52 Into the sunrise
53 By — of (because of)
54 Chances, for short
55 Agts.
DOWN
1 Mexican peninsula
2 "Son of —"
3 Mouth-wash flavor
4 News-room VIP
5 Bleak
6 "The 7"
8 Irritable
9 Sports, Arts & Leisure, etc.
10 Get wind of 11 Exile isle
16 John Ritter's dad
20 Work unit
22 Hole in the head?
23 Cookware
24 Spanish literary hero
25 Menagerie
26 eBay goings-on
27 Anger
29 Preacher's title (Abbr.)
30 "Uh-huh"
35 Family
37 Dwell
39 Yield (to)
40 Stick out
41 Mediocre
42 Defeat decisively
43 Gospels' follow-up
44 Earth
45 B&Bs
46 "¿Cómo" —usted?"
49 Actress Charlotte
50 Venomous viper

Solution time: 25 mins.

AWLS	ELF	SMUG
CHOW	PER	PISA
MINUTIAE	OWEL
EGGNOG	SYNODS
GAR	HOST
TOM	DAM	MOANS
EDIT	MAP	RUNE
DEWIS	DEN	AREX
SHAD	NIL
ATTIRE	ASIDES
OURR	MINIMART
IBET	ORC	ELLA
GLLS	NIE	SEER

Yesterday's answer 11-17

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
				13					14
				16					17
								19	20
			21			22	23
24	25	26				27		28	29	30
31						32			33
34			35			36			37
			38			39		40
41	42								44	45
										46
47				48	49	50
51				52					53
54				55					56

11-17 CRYPTOQUIP

VCDXLBC G FXAC JU
QICXQ UT KIXGJ-HLJDFGJK
VCCSRCB, EUL HGKFS PCRR
BXE G TCXI JU PCCAGR.
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF SOMEONE WERE VERY WEALTHY BUT NEVER CLEANED HIMSELF, I SUPPOSE HE'D BE FILTHY RICH.
Today's Cryptoquip Clue: J equals N

DIVERSIONS

Made-up news for made-up times

Collegian headline writer fired

Joe Weaver, senior in print journalism and lead headline writer for the Kansas State Collegian, was fired this week for misspelling coach Bill Snyder's name on the top headline of the front page in Tuesday's paper.

Editor in chief Matthew Girard said this wasn't the first time Weaver had an embarrassing typo on a front-page headline.

"He misspelled 'Gorbachev' and 'globalization' in the same headline a couple of weeks ago. Because Gorbachev was such a high profile speaker, the Collegian received a lot of pressure to ensure that this would never happen again," Girard said.

The decision to fire Weaver was made by Girard, who became physically ill when he saw the error in Tuesday's headline.

"When it happens once — as in the Gorbachev misspelling — you let it go. But when it happens again in two weeks, this time misspelling the name of one of K-State's most beloved public figures, it not only makes the Collegian look bad, it makes Kansas State look bad," Girard said. "Something had to be done."

According to several reports by Collegian staff members, Weaver was reading random Chuck Norris facts from the Internet out loud in the newsroom, Girard said.

"He obviously was not doing his job, which entails writing and double checking headlines," he said.

Weaver was unavailable for comment.

BUSH NOMINATES SELF TO SUPREME COURT

In a surprise announcement on Wednesday, President George W. Bush quickly nominated himself to the Supreme Court after nominee Samuel Alito withdrew his nomination.

"Let's face it, no matter who I nominate, the Democrats are going to do everything in their power to prevent confirmation," Bush said at a press conference yesterday afternoon.

"By the time the Senate will get to vote on the nominee after all of the debating and filibusters, it will be 2009. I will no longer be president, which would allow me to take the seat on the Supreme Court."

When asked what his qualifications to sit on the high court were, President Bush said that his father was at one time President of the United States, "and if that isn't qualification enough, I don't know what is."

Bush has received much criticism for his most recent nomination. Bush himself has never served on the bench. His first nomination, Harriet Miers withdrew after criticism for lack of judicial experience.

"In selecting a nominee, I've sought to find an American of grace, judgment and unwavering devotion to the Constitution and laws of our country. George W. Bush is just such a person," Bush said. "I've known George for more than a decade. I know his heart. I know his character."

E-MAIL SERVER SWITCHES TO PINE

The university wide central e-mail system will no longer be accessible through Webmail or various e-mail clients, iTac announced on Wednesday.

"Because of the recent spike in e-mail usage on campus and the resultant outages, we are rolling back e-mail access to only be available within Pine," Rebecca Gould, director of iTac, said.

Pine is a text-only e-mail client for the Unix platform. Older faculty and staff may already be familiar with Pine, as it predates Webmail and Outlook.

Jessica Norman, professor in English, said she has continued to use Pine at home because it is considerably faster than Webmail.

"This announcement by iTac won't affect me much," Norman said.

Lauren Davis, sophomore in open-option, expressed concern over the change.

"I have never even heard of Unix before. How am I supposed to check my e-mail now?" she said. She said she has used Webmail exclusively since coming to K-State last fall.

"Switching back to Pine will help reduce the e-mail load on our servers and greatly increase reliability of the system," Gould said. "Those that depend on e-mail so much will just have to learn how to use Pine."

By Matthew Peterworth

These news articles are intended for entertainment purposes only.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Nov. 15

- Jeremy Wilson, Wamego, Kan., was arrested at 9:09 a.m. for violation of protective order. Bond was set at $2,500.
- Andrew Schuler, 406 Osage St., was arrested at 10:35 a.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $750.
- Patsy Wright, no address given, was arrested at 12:19 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $100.
- Vernon Chapman, St. Louis, was arrested at 2:16 p.m. for theft. Bond was set at $2,500.
- Chad Lemon, 3000 Tuttle Creek Blvd., Lot 199, was arrested at 4:45 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $5,000.

Wednesday, Nov. 16

- Christopher Miller, 1030 Pierre St., was arrested at 1:30 a.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- Felicia Conforti Grove, 2323 Indian Mound Lane, was arrested at 4:35 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $1,000.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A class on how to find a journal article will be from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. today in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Debra Gustafson at 9 a.m. today in Bluemont 341D.
- The Peace Corps will have an information meeting from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. today in the K-State Student Union Stateroom.
- Kori Wells and Jessica Shank will perform on the piano at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.
- The K-State Relay for Life Committee will meet at 5:30 tonight in Union 212.
- Dr. Kevin Danaher will speak at 7 tonight in Union Station about the "Corporate Accountability and the Local Green Economy."
- WIN's Fall Ball Bash is from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. tonight in the Union Recreation Center. Bring canned goods for the Flint Hills Breadbasket.
- A walk-in nasal spray flu vaccine clinic will be from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. today at Lafene Heath Center for students only.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

HOT-N-READY
pizza
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carni Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1130 Westport • 539-3333

My beer is gone,
I bombed my test...
but I just saved a bunch of money on my movie rentals.

Rent 1 Movie or Video Game at full price, Get 1 for 1/2 off!
Expires:
12-31-05
706 N. 11th
776-6959

Thank You, Coach Snyder

for 17 great years of service and stewardship for Kansas State University and Manhattan. Congratulations from the Hibachi Hut and Texas Star family.

dependable, quality service
Let us print your overheads in color.
Clafin Books and Copies

Pregnancy
Testing Center
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."
539-3338
Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

REMINDER TO

K-STATE CONNECTION CELL PHONE
SUBSCRIBERS

If you are on the K-State Local Plan ($37.95) and leave the Kansas area over Thanksgiving, your minutes do not apply. If you use your phone outside of the Kansas area, you will incur roaming charges.

Please call our office at 532-7001 if you need additional information.

AUDITIONS

Saturday, November 19th
10:00 am to 3:00 pm
Open to all KSU Students

KSU THEATRE SPRING PRODUCTIONS

"The Underpants" by Steve Martin

"Metamorphoses" by Mary Zimmerman

"The Complete Works of William Shakespeare Abridged"

"Dimly Percieved Threats to the System"

Call backs
Monday at 6:00 pm

No Preparation Necessary
Reading scripts available in 129 Nichols Hall
Question: Call 532-6875

More Shoes, More Service, More Friendly

A steady throb of versatility, adaptability & performance. Delivers instinctive reaction to hard use and varying, multi-sport demands.

New Business Hours • Mon.-Sat. 9 AM - 6 PM
311 Poyntz Ave. • 776-6612 • Downtown Manhattan

Corporate Accountability and the Local Green Economy

Dr. Kevin Danaher
Co-founder of Global Exchange
veteran human rights activist
esteemed author

Thursday, November 17
Union Station at 7:00PM

Giving the word on globalization,
environment, economy,
trade, and labor

"The Paul Reveré of globalization's woes"
New York Times

"Dr. Kevin Danaher's analytical expertise, sense of humor and blunt eloquence make him an exceptionally dynamic speaker"
Global Exchange

Brought to you by your friends at Students for Environmental Action

Student quits cold turkey because of cost

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It has been 13 days since Mary Wyrsh smoked a cigarette.

The junior in family studies and human services finished her last pack of cigarettes and quit cold turkey on Nov. 4.

Wyrsh said she was first offered a cigarette as a freshman in high school by the older girls on her high school swim team. She said she only smoked a handful of times after that to look cool.

"I always thought smoking was stupid," Wyrsh said, whose mother has been smoking since age 17.

Wyrsh said she started smoking an average of seven cigarettes per day last semester.

"After I came out of a stressful situation or something that took a lot out of me, I would want a cigarette," she said.

Wyrsh's roommate, Erin Zimmerman, saw her stressed state and offered Wyrsh cigarettes until she finally gave in

Page 5

Secondhand smoke in bars and other establishments can be harmful to the health of employees and customers.

and took one. Wyrsh said she smoked Zimmerman's cigarettes for a while but then started buying her own packs.

Wyrsh said she has tried quitting before. Earlier this semester, she went three days without a cigarette, but stress over the death of her pet became too much.

"That's when it started up again," she said, "and I didn't even care."

Wyrsh said her main reason for quitting was the cost.

"Every time I go to the gas station, I spend $4 unnecessarily," she said. "When it wasn't such a part of my life before, why does it have to be such a part now?"

Wyrsh is not using a program or nicotine patches to help her quit because she said she knows

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Mary Wyrsh, junior in social work, has given up smoking cold turkey since her last cigarette on Nov. 4 and so far has been successful.

she can quit on her own. The key is to not get bored.

"If you're sitting there and thinking about it, then you're going to want one," she said.

Wyrsh said she also stays away from other smokers at parties to avoid the temptation.

Zimmerman said she does not smoke around Wyrsh and does not ask Wyrsh to go outside with her when she smokes.

"I know it's hard for her," said Zimmerman, senior in hotel and restaurant management. "I can also smoke by myself."

Kasey Randle, junior in advertising, has known Wyrsh since kindergarten and the two started living together this semester. Randle said she is concerned about Wyrsh's health.

"I'm aware her mom has been smoking for a very long time, and Mary is one of my best friends," Randle said. "I know it's not good for you."

"If she wants a cigarette, I try to help talk her out of it."

Wyrsh offers advice to other students who consider quitting smoking: "If you want to smoke, you can. But just know that there are repercussions."

Substitute teacher salaries to increase

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Due to the lack of substitute teachers in local schools, the Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 school board unanimously approved to increase salaries for emergency substitute teachers Wednesday night.

The goal of the $5 daily pay increase is to increase the number of substitute teachers in the district, and also to give teachers an incentive to provide quality education, said board member Walt Pesaresi.

"There's just not as many people out there as there was one time," he said. "We've got to worry about test scores, our kids. We need qualified people."

More than 50 students have been enrolled in the district since September, and with numbers expected to increase, Colburn said the district must prepare.

"I was surprised on the number of days we didn't fulfill substitute requests," Tatarko said. "We were having difficulties for substitute requests, and that is because we're at the bottom with substitute pay."

In USD 383, there are 61 certified and 65 emergency substitutes. Teachers with 60 college credit hours or more can serve as emergency substitutes, while most certified substitutes have some type of degree, Colburn said.

Since 2002, USD 383 emergency substitutes have been paid $65 per day, but after the board's approval, these teachers will earn $70 per day.

The emergency substitute pay increase, though, does fall short compared to other large school districts in the state.

In several other districts, certified and emergency substitutes are paid at the same rate. Some districts offer up to $100 per day for substitute teachers.

According to information provided by USD 383 director of human resources Monta Harris, USD 383 will continue to rank as the second-lowest paying school district.

Junction City schools pay the least with $55 for emergency substitutes per day and $70 for certified substitutes.

In September, the board approved a salary increase for certified substitute teachers from $72.50 to $75 per day.

While some board members said the pay increase will not fulfill all the district demands, it is the first step to providing incentive for area-teachers.

"This is an area where we want to support administration and teachers," Colburn said. "If that means additional dollars, then we're willing to pony up there. It's all about quality and quantity."

Breaking smoking habit has psychological benefits

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The average smoker tries to quit about seven times before succeeding, according to the American Cancer Society.

Smoking is a habit on which people are emotionally dependent, said Fred Newton, directing professor of University Counseling Services.

"Breaking a habit is not easy, especially with one that people use physiologically as part of their daily make-up," Newton said.

Carol Kennedy, director of health promotion for Lafene Health Center, is also the director of K-Stat's Inspired to Stop Smoking.

A consultation service and medication are offered for those who want to quit, she said.

"We try to get to know students a little bit and tailor the program to fit their needs," she said.

Kennedy said there are physical changes when one quits smoking, but they can be overcome. These include tension, cravings, lightheadedness and coughing, she said.

"There are simple things

Quit smoking

1. Make the decision to quit
2. Set a date and choose a plan
3. Deal with withdrawal
4. Stay quit (maintain success)

Source: American Cancer Society

students can do, such as deep breathing and muscle relaxation exercises," Kennedy said.

Psychology has played a role in helping smokers quit, said Jerry Frieman, professor of psychology.

A method that has produced some success is having the quitter give money to someone, and if the quitter succeeds, he or she gets the money back. If the quitter starts smoking again, the other person donates the money to an organization the smoker dislikes, Frieman said.

Frieman said psychologists are interested in studying why people smoke.

"We want to know how we can help people change their behavior," he said.

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center

Walk-in Nasal Spray Flu Vaccine Clinic

Thursday, Nov. 17th
8:30—11:30 am
1:30—4:30 pm

Nasal Spray Flu Vaccine available for $22

Students Only!

Only healthy persons between the ages of 5-49 can receive the nasal spray flu vaccine.

For restriction information see:

www.cdc.gov/flu/about/qa/nasalspray.htm

For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/lafene

We are honored to be the carrier of...

- A variety of cellphone accessories for a wide variety of phones
- Colorful face covers for your old and new phones, including flip phones
- Brand-name body oils for long-lasting fragrances
- Sunglasses to protect your eyes from pollens and sunlight
- Puzzle and stunt vehicles for the young and young at heart

776-5300

COOL GIFTS
CELL PHONE ACCESSORIES

ALL AT COMPETITIVE PRICES!

We also do special orders at no extra cost!

Check Out sudoku in the Classifieds

MEN'S BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Wamego Recreation is seeking entries for our Men's Basketball League. Registration began Monday, October 31 and will continue until Friday, November 25. Registration is $200 per team. Games will be played on Sunday afternoon/evenings starting Sunday, December 4 and running through the beginning of March. Team representatives meeting will be on Monday, November 28 at 6:30 pm in the Wamego City Offices.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Recreation office is seeking OFFICIALS (prefer High School certifies) for our Men's Basketball League. Officials will be paid $20/game (certified) and $15/game (non-certifies).

If you are interested in these employment opportunities, please contact the Wamego Recreation Office at 785.456.8810 or recreation@wamego.org

Wamego Recreation - "Come Grow With Us"

For cats who bleed purple.

Wildcat Visa® Credit Cards, Check Cards and Gift Cards. Available only at INTRUST Bank.

INTRUST encourages responsible credit card spending. For credit tips, go to www.intrustbank.com/creditcards.

INTRUST is the exclusive provider of Wildcat Visa Cards, which benefit the KSU Sports Alumni Association.

800-895-2265
www.intrustbank.com

Member FDIC

yes you can.

INTRUST
Bank

Shakin' Up Manhattan!

$1 OFF WITH THIS AD!

10% OFF WITH K-STATE ID!

- Try our specialty coffees
- Try our Wildcat Sundae

104.7 special every Mon. & Tues. $1.04 cups and cones

TO THE POINT Students should respect K-State Honor Pledge

Every student at K-State has signed the Honor Pledge before or after taking an exam.

The problem is some are just signing and forgetting what that signature stands for while they use secret crib sheets hidden in some rather interesting places.

Cheating is becoming more of a problem as technology allows for instant communication anywhere, anytime.

However, there is no reason to risk an XF and the consequences of being labeled a cheater just to take an easy out in a class.

In recent years, there have been an increased number of investigations into Honor Code violations. Obviously students are deciding the easy way is more to their liking.

Cheating in college classes is among the dumbest things students can do, closely behind stealing stop signs or recreating "Jackass" stunts.

Students who break this pledge deserve whatever punishment is dealt to them.

It is a dark path: cheating leads to increased scrutiny by professors which leads to more Honor Pledge investigations eventually rooting out those who cheat.

Basically, cheating is not only dumb, but it leads to getting caught.

Save yourselves the trouble of cheating and dealing with the consequence. Grow up, act responsible and do your own work.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

In John Prine's song "Your Flag Decal Won't Get You Into Heaven Anymore," he describes a man so patriotic that he continually covers his windshield in American Flag Decals.

Eventually, the man is unable to see because of the decals, crashes into a tree and ascends to heaven.

Upon reaching the pearly gates, the chorus breaks in reminding the man that heaven is already crowded from our "dirty little war." Even though he had collected so many flags, they weren't enough to get him into heaven.

Although this song was originally written for the Vietnam War, Prine has recently brought it out of a 25-year retirement due to a similar problem we are facing today.

The only difference is that during the Vietnam period, the protesters were the ones who had a problem separating the war from the warrior. Their ignorance quickly led to them associating the evils of war with the men drafted to do a job nobody else wanted. The events that took place when the soldiers returned home were despicable.

Now it is President Bush who is making this horrendous mistake. His recent speeches have included sharp criticisms of those who oppose the war.

In a speech on Nov. 11, Bush went as far as to suggest that opposing his administration for its war efforts hurt American troops and empowered the enemy. It seems he is once again trying to suggest that bad war translates into bad soldiers.

It is understandable that anti-war speech may be perceived as encouraging an enemy. However, it is far more important to let our government know we don't support these wars and avoid future confrontations.

The real question is how the message to the troops could be considered wrong. Is it really better to celebrate a war that should have been avoided?

Of course not, as long as you are able to tell the difference between the war and the warrior.

When one is able to separate the two, it becomes no problem understanding why it is good to criticize an administration that so easily and carelessly threw our troops into battle. After all, if it wasn't for these troops, a draft would be necessary and it could very easily be you or me over there right now.

People simply can't let Bush get away with attempting horrible tactics to gain support for his war. It is not only disrespectful, but it also leads to fanatics on both sides.

From anti-war groups spitting on Vietnam soldiers coming home to the anti-gay and anti-military groups protesting funerals, things have gone too far.

To all of you out there who still blindly support the war due to whatever reason you have, I suggest you remove at least a few of those decals from your windshield. It is OK if you aren't able to see the warm glow of liberalism just yet, but hopefully you can begin to understand that neither the United States nor its president is infallible.

Zachary T. Eckels is a junior in print journalism. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

ZACHARY T. ECKELS

Illustrations by Kent Holle | COLLEGIAN

Catholics shut doors to homosexuals

There is good news for Catholics everywhere. According to Il Giornale, an Italian newspaper, the Vatican is due to release a new list of rules on Nov. 29 barring from the seminary men who "support" gay culture or have "deeply rooted" gay tendencies.

Now the Catholic Church has elevated a debate already taking place in the United Methodist Church and the United States Episcopal Church.

Seven archbishops from Africa, the West Indies and Asia attended the Hope and a Future Conference in Pittsburgh, Penn. They want to split from the Episcopal church and adhere to the Anglican doctrine found overseas.

What has the archbishops in an uproar is the move of the U.S. Episcopal Church to include homosexuals and ordain a homosexual bishop, thereby including people instead of driving them away.

Not to be left out, the United Methodist Church recently reaffirmed its decision to defrock the Rev. Elizabeth Stroud for living with her lesbian partner. She is now a lay minister in the church.

Equally timely, a pastor within the Methodist church was reinstated after being suspended for refusing to allow a parishioner to transfer to his church because the man was an "unrepentant homosexual," according to the Florida Baptist Witness.

Repenting for the way God made you should be a prerequisite for membership in any church.

"Anglicanism is really now in a state of flux. We are being forced into this by people who are teaching something new and something totally different," Archbishop Drexel W. Gomez of the West Indies told Fox News.

He is a member of the Anglican Communion Network and attended the Hope and a Future conference.

The Second Vatican Council caused a rift within the Catholic Church and the United Methodist Church crisis revolves around interpretation of the Book of Discipline, while Episcopalians are dividing over violations of the Windsor Report.

The Report is a peace treaty between the conservative and liberal factions of the Episcopal church. It orders liberal bishops not to ordain any more homosexuals and conservatives not to establish bulkheads in liberal diocese.

Nothing says love and acceptance like establishing bulkheads. In the words of Jesus, "Forgive them, Father. They know not what they do."

Religion shouldn't be a fraternity/sorority-type thing. It's not an us or them ideal. Jesus plays predominately in most Protestant religions, and he preached love of all, but his message is getting lost in the debate.

Religion should be inclusive, not exclusive. We all need to get over the "God likes us better than you" idea. If God created life, then he or she created all life: gay, straight, right- or left-handed — All of us.

Jesus didn't teach me to hate. If the Anglican Communion Network is threatened by homosexuals worshipping their god, then let them create their own church in the United States. If Catholics are so desperate to keep gays out of the church that they would insinuate the pedophile problem is because of gay priests, then I don't need them, either.

I don't understand the Bible so I'm writing my own. Acceptance of differences, tolerance of others and love for all creatures will be my Book of Discipline. I don't care if people are gay or straight. I just care if they treat others with respect.

Lola Shrimplin is a senior in pre-journalism. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

LOLA SHRIMPLIN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian	Classified ads.....532-6555
Kedzie 103	Newsroom.....532-6556
Manhattan, KS 66502	news@pub.ksu.edu
Display ads.....532-6560	Delivery problems.....532-6555

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

You would have to be a monumental dumbass to think that tearing down the goal posts somehow honors Bill Snyder.

Good job forgetting Veterans Day, Collegian. Now I'm not going to your birthday party.

Kody Cooper, you have an awesome talent for writing, but you make me sick. Write about something worth reading.

Ervidge, commit to NU, Solich leaves. Play for KSU, Snyder leaves. What's the deal? Is there a curse?

Saturday, everyone storm the field and tear down the goal posts. Coach deserves it. Thanks for the legacy, coach.

It's nice to see that the Collegian honors the best coach we've ever had by spelling his name wrong. We'll miss you, Snyder.

To the Collegian weather man — you suck. Rod Stewart could do a better job than you.

You know what would be wild? If we went outside of our house, ran around it screaming and then ran inside really fast. Farmhouse, you guys are crazy.

It's "Snyder," not "Synder."

Snyder doesn't like it when the goal posts come down. If you were real fans you would know that, so in honor of him let the players carry him off the field to a standing ovation and leave the goal posts as they are.

KSU Stadium: "The House that Bill built."

Willie, do you smile when you get your picture taken? We all love you though.

Ditka for Coach. Seriously, let Tim Weiser know that we want Mike Ditka for coach, not some no-name like Phil Bennett. Visit "Ditka for Coach" on Facebook.

Nice that the Collegian knows how to spell the name of the most important man on campus. S-N-Y-D-E-R, not S-Y-N-D-E-R.

I have a better idea. Instead of tearing down what Snyder built, let's leave the goal posts up.

As a tribute to Snyder, I think I am going to sprint on the field, tackle a Big 12 referee, do the KSU chant and then shake Snyder's hand. Will anyone bail me out of jail when it's all done?

Hey Kody, here's another synonym for "flatulence" to put into your thoughtsaurus: your articles.

Oh, yeah? Well I bet my tutor can translate the graph of a parabola better than yours ever could.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstate-collegian.com for the full version.

International Week teaches students other cultures

Daniel Aguilar, graduate student in sociology, talks to a small group about the Colombian conflict Wednesday afternoon in a K-State Student Union meeting room.

Christopher Hanewinkel
COLLEGIAN

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Four international students gave presentations on political issues in their respective countries as part of International Education Week on Wednesday.

Daniel Aguilar, graduate student in sociology, explained Colombia's distribution of power.

"We have a problem of wealth distribution," he said. "And we have a problem of land distribution, and we have a problem of poverty."

Aguilar said the richest 10 percent of Colombia's population earns 43 percent of the national income while the poorest 10 percent earns only 1 percent of the national income.

Yu-Chuan Lin, Danielle Nguba and Bala Thiagarajan spoke on the structure of government and politics in Taiwan, Cameroon and India, respectively.

Chelsie Burden, sophomore in animal sciences and industry, said she attended because of Ag Ambassadors' promotion of diversity awareness and to learn about international business.

The presentations were part of International Education Week, which started during the Clinton administration as a joint effort of the Department of State and the Department of Education.

Sudha Rani Pisipati, president of International Coordinating Council and graduate student in International Education

Fair

When: 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. today
Where: K-State Student Union Courtyard
How much: Free

English, said the week was designed to inform students about the culture and education of other countries.

Study abroad director Jenifer Chambers said universities nationwide observe International Education Week this week.

"We believe the internationalization of the campus is essential for your education," she said. "People are citizens of the world now. The world is global, and globalization isn't going to go away."

Smoke in bars can be damaging to patrons', bartenders' health

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Adverse effects from second-hand smoke can affect people after only 15 minutes of exposure, said Carol Kennedy, director of health promotions at Lafene Health Center.

"There's not been any safe level (of cigarette smoke) determined," Kennedy said.

Cigarettes contain more than 4,000 chemicals, at least 60 of which are considered carcinogenic, according to the Mayo Clinic. They include carbon monoxide, benzopyrene, methane, arsenic and cyanide.

People who smoke become ill more frequently, and those who are asthmatic should never be around anyone who smokes, Kennedy said.

Smoking is allowed at Fast Eddy's. A large part of the clientele is military, and the soldiers tend to smoke while they play pool and drink, co-owner Coty Gilman said.

"They probably smoke a lot more now than they will in a few years, when (the war in Iraq) is over," he said.

Fast Eddy's has always had ventilation to disperse the smoke, and it is upgraded on a regular basis. The main filter is changed yearly and there are two filters coinciding with the main filter that are changed weekly, co-owner John Gilman said.

Fast Eddy's also has air conditioners that bring in outside air to dissipate the smoke, he said.

Because Fast Eddy's is not a restaurant, the business is not required to have a non-smoking section.

In 2000, Rusty's Next Door became Manhattan's first non-smoking bar.

Rusty's Outback and Rusty's Last Chance allow smoking and no one has complained too much about the level of smoke in the air, bartender Becky Sinnes said.

"Even the nonsmokers, when they drink and get drunk, they smoke," Sinnes said.

Ben Hake, junior in accounting, said smoke does not affect most students who go out.

"It depends on where my friends are," he said, adding that his roommate works in a bar, and his work clothes smell of smoke.

"He's not allowed to keep his clothes in the room," Hake said.

Working in Aggieville at businesses that stay open after the bars close sometimes causes problems when students who are drunk attempt to smoke in restaurants, said Graham Fox, junior in pre-professional secondary education and an associate at The Pita Pit.

Fox said he thinks Manhattan will eventually ban smoking in all businesses, just as Lawrence did.

If Manhattan were to pass a smoking ban, Coty Gilman said it shouldn't be limited to the Manhattan area, due to the potential negative impact on the bars in Aggieville.

Because many patrons are from the military, she fears losing business to Junction City.

"They should do both Geary and Riley counties," Coty Gilman said.

Overuse of word 'like' not a factor in hiring process

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Despite the popularity of the word "like" in everyday speech, students are not being denied job opportunities because of overusing the word, said Kerri Day Keller, director of Career and Employment Services.

"I think the total piece of communication is what you say, the tone of voice and the nonverbal language that you use," she said.

Kevin Wagner, senior vice president of Community First National Bank, said if job applicants have said "like" during an interview, he hasn't noticed it.

"I can't think of anyone where they used that word," he said.

Keller said during an interview, recruiters are not criticizing applicants' grammar skills. Instead, they are looking at the applicants' answers to the questions.

Wagner said he focuses on other parts of the interview, including another repetitive word often used to fill time.

"Using 'um' and not looking at us while we are talking to them is what I look for," he said.

Although using "um" while trying to find something to say is discouraged, Wagner said he encourages applicants to take a moment before giving a response.

"Pauses are entirely appropriate, because it shows to me they are giving thoughtful consider-

"Pauses are entirely appropriate, because it shows to me they are giving thoughtful consideration to what we're asking."

Kevin Wagner
SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT OF COMMUNITY FIRST NATIONAL BANK

ation to what we're asking," he said.

Keller said students can use mock interviews through CES to make sure they are not using the words "like" and "um" too often.

"One of the reasons we offer mock interview opportunities for students is that it is an opportunity for students to see if they have a particular pattern of speech that will not be working to their advantage," she said.

However, Keller said students should not focus too much on their speech patterns during an interview.

"I'd hate for students to get too conscientious when they get into an interview situation that they only focus on their speech patterns," she said.

RAMBLERS

Every Thursday night is Steak Night

$8.95

12oz USDA Top Sirloin with all the trimmings

$17.45

Couples Dinner-2 complete dinners

$17.50

All Domestic
Bottles

8711 E Hwy 24
(785) 539-4989

LONGHORNS

SALOON

Aggieville Manhattan

Live Tonight

Kevin Fowler

with special guest Tickets $5 only

Bobby Dale & Next of Kin

What's hot at the beach?

You and 5 best friends winning the Venus Beach Spring Break Sweepstakes!

Enter the Venus Beach Spring Break Sweepstakes
FOR A CHANCE TO WIN one of 3 dream trips to Panama City Beach, FL, including:

- Luxury suite at Holiday Inn Sunspree
- Roundtrip airfare for six
- VIP passes to clubs and special events
- Airport transportation
- $500 spending money

HOW TO ENTER
Check out the web site and find out!
www.findyourvibe.com/springbreak

For 3 weeks, Gillette Venus is turning everyone's favorite Spring Break hot spot into Venus Beach with events, promotions, prizes and full-on fun!

venusbeach

spring break '06

Every Weekend!

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday

11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.

We Drive. You Ride. Every Weekend.

Call:

539-0480

A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association

Bluemont Thanksgiving Buffet

Monday, November 21 • 11 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.

Salads

Tossed Salad---Ranch, Italian
Cranberry Orange Salad
Spinach Salad with Shallot Vinaigrette
Creamy Dill Pasta Salad

Vegetables

Homestyle Green Bean Casserole
Squash

Meats

Carved Roast Turkey with Cranberry Sauce
Roast Pork Loin with Maple Glaze

Starches

Mashed Potatoes with Turkey Gravy
Candied Yams

Breads

Traditional Stuffing
Assorted Dinner Rolls

Dessert

Assorted Gourmet Desserts

For Reservations call 532-6068
Bluemont Room • 2nd floor • K-State Student Union

$7.95 (includes tax)
Cash and Credit Card only

NFL playoff picture becoming clearer

The Dallas Cowboys stunned the Philadelphia Eagles in the fourth quarter on Monday Night Football, scoring 14 points in a 21-second span en route to a 21-20 comeback victory.

The Cowboys' victory capped off a Week 10 that was full of surprises.

CEDRIQUE FLEMING

Nathan Vasher of the Chicago Bears returned a missed field goal 108 yards for a touchdown during the second quarter of the Bears' 17-9 victory over the San Francisco 49ers. The return broke the record for the longest play in NFL history, and Vasher's jersey and the ball are going to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

The Minnesota Vikings scored a touchdown on a kickoff, punt and interception return against the New York Giants in a 24-21 victory. No team in NFL history has accomplished that feat.

But the records and surprises are only a part of what makes the NFL so exciting.

The playoff picture is becoming clearer with seven weeks remaining, and it is time to begin debating which teams will make it deep into the playoffs.

The Indianapolis Colts are undefeated and appear to be the clear favorites to make the AFC Championship Game, where they will likely play the Denver Broncos.

Indianapolis quarterback Peyton Manning is starting to put up the same type of numbers as a year ago, when he broke Dan Marino's single-season record for touchdown passes. The Colts are poised to become just the second team in NFL history to have an undefeated regular season, joining the 1972 Miami Dolphins.

The Broncos have won seven of their last eight games behind quarterback Jake Plummer's 13 touchdowns and seven consecutive games without an interception.

In the NFC, the Carolina Panthers are destined for the championship game behind receiver Steve Smith's league-leading 937 receiving yards and nine TDs.

Which team will play opposite the Panthers, who are riding a six-game winning streak, is still a toss-up.

The Seattle Seahawks boast the league's best running back in Shaun Alexander while Chicago's defense has been amazing this season.

But my money is on the Cowboys playing for the conference championship and a spot in Super Bowl.

Dallas has been in one game this season that was decided by more than six points, and that was a 33-10 blowout of the Philadelphia Eagles on Oct. 9.

The Cowboys' 6-3 record leads the NFC East, and lately, they have shown the poise and resiliency needed to win close games after losing heartbreakers to Seattle and the Washington Redskins.

The rest of the season will be exciting regardless of who makes the playoffs as teams begin to make the post-season push.

Cedrique Flemming is a junior in print journalism and business. You can e-mail him at sports@spub.ksu.edu

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

K-State's Megan Kroeker goes for a kill against Colorado's Allie Griffin Wednesday evening in the Wildcat's win over the Buffaloes. The Wildcat's beat the Buffaloes in a five-game win, 3-2 (19-30, 30-21, 28-30, 30-23, 18-16).

Exorcising demons

Kroeker carries Wildcats against No. 24 Colorado

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The holidays came early for the K-State women's volleyball team, on Nov. 16 to be exact.

In K-State's 3-2 (19-30, 30-21, 28-30, 30-23, 18-16) victory over No. 24 Colorado Wednesday night, the Buffaloes handed the Wildcats a few much-needed presents; K-State's first victory against a ranked opponent since it defeated then-No. 23 Texas A&M on Oct. 1, the Cats' first home win since they beat Iowa State on Oct. 8 and the upper hand against Colorado in the Big 12 Conference.

Most importantly, the Buffs (18-9, 9-8 Big 12) helped K-State find what it was missing most — its heart.

"We got some heart, that's what happened," junior Joy Hamlin said. "Confidence is important, but heart is vital."

The Wildcats' heart arrived in the nick of time. The Cats have been battling inconsistency, leadership problems and a lack of intensity throughout the season.

On Wednesday, the Wildcats (14-

Agata Rezende celebrates with Megan Kroeker and other members of the women's volleyball team after their five-game win Wednesday evening at Ahearn Field House.

Christopher Hanewinkel
COLLEGIAN

9, 10-8) faced their demons head on, coach Suzie Fritz said.

"I think our team is starting to realize we need to play with more passion and more heart, and I saw glimpses of that in our team tonight," Fritz said. "We played consistent, which is something we've been demanding and fighting and, something we've been striving for all season."

Games two through five were the best the Wildcats have played all season, Fritz said.

Game one, on the other hand, was a glimpse of the K-State squad that lost five of its last eight games. That team allowed the Buffaloes to hit .605 as a team compared to K-State's .243.

"You're thinking, 'Nobody can maintain that kind of pace,'" Fritz said. Hamlin had one thought.

"It's not going to happen again," she said.

The Wildcats came alive, and games two through five and gave K-State volleyball fans what they needed this week — some excitement.

The last hour-and-a-half of play saw 50 ties and countless lead changes. Redshirt-freshman Megan Kroeker played strong throughout for the Cats, hitting 15-for-29 for a .500 hitting percentage, with only one error.

"We were relaxed but intense, at the same time," Kroeker said. "We knew what we had to do, but we had to do it calmly and not just run around."

When asked if K-State keeps its heart and maintains its composure, could the season end on a high note, Hamlin had only one remark.

"Yeah, for sure," Hamlin said.

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

CVB | Fritz signs Topeka native for 2006 season

Coach Suzie Fritz announced Wednesday the signing of Kelsey Chipman, a Topeka native, to the K-State volleyball team for the 2006 season.

Chipman is a 6-foot-1 middle blocker out of Washburn Rural High School. Chipman earned first team All-State honors in 2004 and was cited on the first team of the All-State 6A Tournament team from 2003-05.

During the 2005 season, Chipman led the Blues with 313 kills, a .479 hitting percentage and 93 total blocks in 44 matches.

She is the daughter of Bob and Carol Chipman, and her father played basketball for the Wildcats in 1972-73 and is the men's basketball coach at Washburn University.

CVB | Cats place 8 on

Academic All-Big 12 team

The K-State volleyball team had eight student-athletes earn Academic All-Big 12 Conference honors Wednesday. The eight selections were the most for K-State since the inception of the Big 12 in 1996, when the Wildcats had nine honorees.

K-State's first team selections were juniors Joy Hamlin, anthropology; Jamie Perkins, nutrition sciences pre-medicine; Sandy Werner, kinesiology; sophomores Angie Lastra, biology; and Stacey Spiegelberg, life sciences/pre-nursing, and redshirt-freshman Jenny Jantsch, business. The Wildcats' second team selections were senior Katie Stanzel, marketing, and sophomore Rita Lilium, social science.

To qualify, student-athletes must maintain a 3.00 GPA or higher either cumulative or the two previous semesters and must have participated in 60 percent of her team's scheduled contests.

SPT | K-State to offer

'Ultimate Wildcat Weekend'

The K-State Department of Intercollegiate Athletics announced Wednesday that the upcoming weekend will be the "Ultimate Wildcat Weekend."

The K-State men's basketball team plays host Georgia Southern in its season opener at 7 p.m., Friday at Bramlage Coliseum. Fans who show a ticket for the K-State vs. Missouri football game can purchase a basketball general admission ticket for $10.

Football tickets for the K-State vs. Missouri game at 1:10 p.m., Saturday are still available. Fans are encouraged to bring hand-held signs to the game supporting coach Bill Snyder.

The Wildcat weekend comes to a close as the K-State women's basketball team takes on Detroit in its season home opener at 2 p.m., Sunday at Bramlage.

Fans who present their ticket stub from the weekend's football game or men's basketball game will receive admission for $1.

WBB | Heidrick and Waller

join K-State radio network

Former Wildcats Missy Decker Heidrick and Kristin Rethman Waller will join play-by-play announcer Brian Smoller on the K-State Sports Network for Wildcat women's basketball radio broadcasts during the upcoming 2005-06 season.

Heidrick, a guard for the Wildcats from 1993-97, rejoins the radio network as a color analyst for 17 games of the season. Heidrick currently serves as senior coordinator for special programs at the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City.

One of the best three-point shooters in Big 12 Conference and school history from 1998-02, Waller enters her first season as a color analyst.

She will provide color for eight games during the season. Waller currently serves as assistant compliance director for the K-State Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and is pursuing a master's degree in journalism and mass communications.

The Associated Press

SPT | Congress puts other

pro sports leagues on notice

WASHINGTON — Congress is sending a message to the NFL, NBA, NHL and their players: Now that baseball strengthened its steroids policy, we're turning our attention to you.

But those other leagues and unions aren't necessarily planning to get right to work rewriting drug-testing programs that already have been made tougher since lawmakers began focusing on the issue eight months ago.

"We don't think we need to stiffen our penalties," NFL Players Association executive director Gene Upshaw said Wednesday. "Let Congress act if they want to."

EQUESTRIAN

K-State set for showdown with Black Hawk

By Jessica Barnard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A showdown is brewing this weekend for K-State equestrian's Western team.

The Wildcats travel to Ke- waukee, Ill., on Saturday and Sunday for the last show of the fall season, where they will compete against nine other teams in their region. K-State currently has a 35-point lead over Black Hawk Community College.

Although the Wildcats have a substantial lead in the region, coach Teresa Slough said the team will need to stay focused throughout the show to maintain, or even increase, its lead.

"We'd really like to keep this lead, win both shows and come home further ahead," Slough said.

The Wildcats will compete against Black Hawk for the fourth time this season.

Junior Sara Weller said Black Hawk challenged K-State the last time the two teams met.

"I guess I expect them to be as good as they have been — probably better, because it's their own show," Weller said. "At the last show they definitely challenged us. They were on top of their game."

Along with the advantage of beating the Wildcats the last time out, Black Hawk will have an additional advantage.

"We use their horses, they have been riding them all year, and it's our first time to be on them, so it gives them a home-field advantage," sophomore Lindsey Salsbury said.

Regardless of the arena, Black Hawk has provided the most competition to K-State throughout the course of the season, Slough said.

Slough also said she expects Black Hawk to be competitive this weekend, and in order for the Western team to win, the Wildcats must ride well, remain focused and have a game plan.

"It's tough when your toughest competition is the one hosting the show," Slough said. "I think that Black Hawk will be very competitive. They will be geared up and motivated to do well."

True love (can) wait

Some students decide not to have sex until marriage

By Lola Shrimplin and J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Some evangelists believe college campuses are hotbeds of fornication, but not all students at K-State think having sex is a priority in life.

Kelly Huerter, junior in marketing, said students who abstain from sex before marriage do so for many reasons.

The students who wait to have sex until they are married do so because of belief systems instilled in them by their churches and families, he said. Some consider their sexuality a gift to be given only in a secure relationship.

"I feel that I am solid in knowing that I am right in waiting," Huerter said.

Religion plays a major role in many of Huerter's beliefs, he said. Values instilled in him by his family and faith lead him to practice abstinence.

Huerter said he attends Christian Challenge, a nondenominational worship group, where values are discussed and support is given to those who choose not to have sex before marriage.

University Counseling Services does not have a specific program in place to deal with students facing the issue of abstaining from pre-marital sex, Counseling Services psychology intern Naoko Kinoshita said.

"We don't have anything that specifically targets (abstinence)," she said. "We have relationship groups, but that tends to deal with students fighting with roommates or with their parents."

Many students have sought the advice of the Rev. Don Fallon, a graduate of the Menninger marriage counseling program and coordinator of religious activities in the student life office. Fallon has been helping students through pre-marital counseling for years.

"I think a majority of people I see have engaged in pre-marital engagements," Fallon said. "I guess their values reflect their family and religious background, and they may be more on the liberal side. But with almost all of them, sex is an expression of love and commitment."

Some students who have families that encourage more strict religious beliefs may face a situation that is hard to overcome, Fallon said.

"People with really rigid religious beliefs might feel a great guilt or anxiety with pre-marital sex. It might be a situation where they have the inability to adjust to a certain lifestyle and that can go with smoking, drinking or church," he said.

Fallon said the important thing to consider is the person someone is with and if he or she is having sex for the right reasons.

"Sometimes students are not choosing a very healthy lifestyle," Fallon said. "I see some people having sex for the wrong reason, such as low self-esteem or people acting out of a conflict with their family or parents."

"When I speak of acting out, that might mean holding on or controlling another person and even to the extent of getting pregnant to hold on to a person."

Apollo Okwuone, junior in social science, said there are differences be-

Abstinence

What it is

Abstinence means to not have sex. Abstinence is when couples choose not to have any kind of vaginal, anal or oral sex. You can still express yourself sexually when you choose not to have vaginal, anal or oral sex. Some of these ways are: Holding hands, flirting, kissing, massage, touching other parts of your partner's body and sharing fantasies.

How to use it

Know and understand why you have made the choice not to have sex. Talk to your partner about what you want and don't want. Ask your partner what he or she wants. Make a decision about what kinds of things are right for both of you.

Source: www.teensource.org tween sex and love, and sometimes it can be difficult to understand the difference.

"Some people substitute (sex) for love," Okwuone said. "It can be used for different things. Love is more of a compromise. It's not just a single action. It's years of hard work."

Add warmth to holiday celebrations with spiced drinks

By Kelly Schmitt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

'Tis the season for holiday celebrations. A great addition to the homemade cookies and candies served at these gatherings is hot apple cider or hot, spiced tea.

Both of these recipes require a little advanced preparation time before serving, but most of the wait time is in heating the beverage rather than making them.

Instead of heating up regular apple cider, this cider recipe features a rich flavor with allspice, cinnamon and cloves. The flavors simmer together into a velvety-smooth texture that soothes the senses. In the process, the cider fills a house with a welcoming holiday scent.

The spiced cranberry tea is a deliciously tart beverage. The spices and juices meld together into a flavorful blend that is not overly sweet. Although it is a tea, it is a favorite with children as well as adults.

Courtesy art

Spiced tea, cider recipes

Hot spiced cranberry tea

4 cups of water
1 cup of sugar
3/4 cup of hot cinnamon candies (Red Hots)
15 cloves (in a strainer)
1 quart of cranberry juice
1 can of frozen orange juice
4 cups of liquid tea
1 cinnamon stick
2/3 cup of lemon juice

Heat the water, sugar, Red Hots and cloves until sugar dissolves. Add the remaining ingredients. Serve warm. This makes one gallon of spiced tea.

If preferred, use a coffee percolator by putting the cloves and cinnamon stick in the basket and heating the coffee pot percolates.

Spiced hot apple cider

1 gallon of apple cider
1 teaspoon of allspice
1 teaspoon of cinnamon
1 teaspoon of whole cloves
2 sticks of cinnamon

Mix all ingredients and simmer for 30 minutes, but do not boil. Serve hot.

HOROSCOPES

Aquarius (Jan. 21 - Feb. 18)

Excellent time to show the world that plaid and stripes do mix. (Tip #12 of Arnold Pinknoble's "How To Get Noticed.")

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You've heard that when economists use the word "nice," they're actually saying that something is homosexual and nonautoregressive. Today you will find out what they mean when they say something is "like, totally kewl."

Aries (March 21 - April 19)

You feel like you're slowly being crushed at work in a mental and spiritual sense. Perhaps travel would refresh you? For spiritually beneficial travel, I usually consult my neighborhood Astral Travel Agency.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)

Today you will be struck by the notion that "Life is like one of those little cars that the Shriners get to drive." You have a mind of great depth and profundity.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Soon, through no fault of your own, you will catch someone underlining words in a library book. It's just one of those signs, you know? Before the Apocalypse.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22)

You will hear a strange "clicking" sound today as you are walking through the kitchen. Time to trim the toenails, don't you think?

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Today you will discover a hair growing in an odd place. Don't worry about it unless the odd place is your eye.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

You will be overly impressed by a commercial for a golf club, which describes it as a "weapon of incredible range and power." You will make people nervous by referring to your pencil as "a weapon of incredible pointedness and surprise."

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Today you will rescue several hostages from a life-or-death situation using only a banana milkshake and a length of twine. Film at 11.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

Today you will have a sudden and brilliant idea for how to eliminate the U.S. federal deficit. "Let's all just pretend there isn't one," you'll say.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

Through a casual remark in an elevator, you will realize that both you and your fellow passenger have seen John Cleese's informational film called "How To Irritate People." By the time you reach the 10th floor, you will both be severely vexed with one another.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20)

After years of study in higher mathematics, and a fiendishly complicated topological proof, you will finally be able to prove that half a loaf is exactly 7.412 times better than no bread.

Source: Humorscope

UPCOMING SHOWS

Tonight

Who: Split Lip Rayfield and The White Ghost Shivers
When: 21+, 10 p.m.
Where: Auntie Mae's Parlor, 616 N. 12th St.

Saturday, Nov. 19

Who: Kipper's Cradle, Asleep for Dreaming and Broken Toys
When: 18+, 9 p.m.
Where: PJ's Bar, 1129 Laramie St.

Tuesday, Nov. 22

Who: Buck and Talon
When: 21+, 10 p.m.
Where: Auntie Mae's Parlor, 616 N. 12th St.

Wednesday, Nov. 23

Who: Shaggy Green Carpet with The Symphony
When: 18+, 10 p.m.
Where: PJ's Bar, 1129 Laramie St.

Internet sales on the rise

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

As the holidays approach, local businesses are not just competing against each other.

According to a 2005 U.S. Census Bureau report, Manhattan retailers will face heavy competition from e-commerce this holiday season.

The report states that the estimate of U.S. retail e-commerce sales for the second quarter of 2005 totaled $19.8 billion, a 3.5 percent increase from first quarter.

To compete with the online industry, some local businessmen have joined the competition by launching Internet business sites, including Sara Strothman, owner of Zotcis Attire, 1203 Moro St.

"When we first launched the site, I figured my past customers would have bought from it," Strothman said. "However, a lot of my current customers are from all over the U.S. I barely sell to people in Kansas right now."

After owning Zotcis Attire for four years, Strothman said her business needed a boost, so she decided to try the online industry. Since the launch of her Web site, Strothman said the site has drawn crowds of new customers from nearly 40 states.

Manhattan resident Monica Keller said she shops online because of the convenience of e-commerce services.

"How can you beat going online and finding exactly what you want — color, size, shape and all?" Keller said. "Several places sell items at black market prices, offer me free shipping and return shipping. They offer me a money-back guarantee, so why should I have to leave my apartment to get my stuff?"

While some customers value convenience, others said they feel more confident walking into a store and talking to a sales associate.

"If you have a problem with the product, you can just walk straight back to the store and confront the company itself," Manhattan resident Richard Douglas said. "Online, the process for returns is maddening."

But some customers are willing to take the risk in order to get a variety of products in a short time frame.

"I have bought anything from clothes to DVDs to a computer online," Manhattan resident Brian Carlson said. "If you are a collector, you could spend hours looking for it locally or 15 minutes shopping for it on eBay."

Although shopping for some items on the Internet is difficult, Carlson said if shoppers are patient, they might find a better deal.

"It takes time to find the better deal online," he said. "But sometimes you have to sacrifice, buy locally, and pay 25 percent more."

Children's author visits Manhattan

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Manhattan Public Library will be giving books away tonight when it is host to author Debi Gliori and a reading of her book, "No Matter What."

Glori, who lives in Scotland, writes and illustrates her own children's books and is visiting Manhattan as a part of the Kansas Reads to Preschoolers program, a part of the One Book, One State project of the State Library of Kansas.

Glori
AUTHOR

Jennifer Adams, youth services manager at the library, said the evening will start with a book signing and sale at 6:30 p.m. Then at 7 p.m., there will be a special reading with a prize for young children.

Glori will read "No Matter What" and other children's books she has authored and illustrated, and then every child will get a copy of the new book.

The book is about a young fox named "Small" and its caretaker, "Big."

The story shows unconditional love as "Small" presents "Big" with several scenarios in which the youngster would become a less appealing thing, such as an ill-tempered crocodile.

After each situation, "Big" reaffirms that "Small" would be loved no matter what.

Adams said the book does not assign specific roles to "Big," just that of someone who takes care of the younger fox. She said this lets the story apply to other caretakers like grandparents, older siblings or guardians.

"It's kind of a reassuring story," she said.

Adams said the Manhattan Library Association paid for the purchase of 500 copies of the book and donated some to local registered day care providers.

At 7:30 p.m., there will be a final session for older children, as well as adults, to learn from Gliori about writing and illustrating their books.

Different perspective

Bryce Ackerman, freshman in pre-professional business administration, takes a shot over Chris Ballard, freshman in pre-journalism and mass communications, while playing basketball in wheelchairs at the Derby Complex basketball courts Wednesday. The event was part of Disability Awareness Week at Moore Hall.

Fat's
BAR & GRILL
Thursdays

$2.00
bottles

$3.50
fishbowls

12th & Laramie
Aggieville

Get your SHOUT OUT for just $2!
(20 words or less)

Come to 103 Kedzie or call 532-6555

January 2006

intersession

December 27, 2005 - January 11, 2006

Time Is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our web site at <http://www.dce.ksu.edu/>. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $164 per undergraduate resident credit hour and $227 per graduate resident credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14 per credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/5-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Design Graphics and Visual Thinking	LAR 310	94108	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
Pbl/Advanced Design Graphics/Visual Thinking	LAR 741	94110	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
Forensic Medicine & the Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94112	3 UG/G	1/3-1/10	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Hip-Hop as Literature	ENGL 295	94118	2 UG	1/3-1/10	MTWUF 12:30 PM-5:00 PM
The History of Insurgency on American Soil	HIST 200	94116	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 6:00 PM-10:00 PM
The History of American Movies and the Movie-Going Experience	HIST 533	94117	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Sport and Exercise Personality	KIN 592	94121	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:45 PM
Philanthropy and Corporate Communication	MC 450	94123	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Jazz in Kansas City and the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94124	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 562	94126	3 UG/G	12/29-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
					Sa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Theatre for Conflict Resolution	THRE 673	94129	3 UG/G	12/30-1/11	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
BUSINESS
Achieving Career Success: Developing Personal Competencies, Outwitting Opponents, & Avoiding Common Career Traps	GENBA 498	94131	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	MANGT 300	94133	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
EDUCATION
Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94142	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, and Administrators	EDCEP 802	94146	3 G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Early Field Experience	EDSEC 230	94148	1 UG	12/27-1/11	APPT
ENGINEERING
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94151	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94152	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 12:30 PM-4:30 PM
Energy and Environmental Impacts Related to Sustainability	CHE 650	94153	1 UG/G	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94154	1 UG	12/27-12/29	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94155	1 UG	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94156	1 UG	1/9-1/11	MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Building Commissioning	CNS 644	94158	2 UG/G	12/28-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:00 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management	CNS 644	94159	2 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-11:30 AM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	DEN 300	94186	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
Problems/Eng. & Tech: Hazwoper Training	DEN 398	94160	3 UG/N	1/3-1/6	TWUF 8:00 AM-7:00 PM
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics: Introduction to Infant Mental Health: Raising Emotionally Healthy Children	FSHS 300	94162	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 8:30 AM-1:00 PM
Problems in FSHS: Family Law	FSHS 700	94166	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:45 PM
Introduction to Marriage and Family Therapy	FSHS 704	94161	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	TWUF 8:30 AM-12:15 PM
Topics: Premarital Education and Counseling	FSHS 708	94168	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:30 PM-9:00 PM
Seminar in Long-Term Care Administration	GERON 610	94171	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Lodging Management Theory	HRIMD 664	94180	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM

VERIFY ALL COURSE INFORMATION BY CHECKING THE WEBSITE PRIOR TO THE FIRST DAY OF CLASS.

KSTATE
Kansas State University

Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Thursday, Nov. 17, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. Washer/dryer. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

LIVE ONLY half block from campus and walk to class. Huge one-bedroom basement apartment. $400 plus electric (all other utilities paid). Available now with short term lease. Emerald Property Management (785)556-6899.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex close to campus. Available now for short-term lease. Small pets okay. $550. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$430. three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice, 515 Bluemont, available January, no pets, laundry included, $620 plus utilities, (785)313-0462, leave message.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX. Available now for short-term lease. Small pets okay. $550. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

120
For Rent-
Houses

EVERYTHING NEW. Three-bedroom, two bath house with garage. West of campus. Available soon. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath duplex. One-half mile from campus. Washer/ dryer included. Single property owner. No pets. No smoking. 1410 Houston. Number Two. (785)776-9260.

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/ month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or malone-ent@yaho.com

HAVE YOUR own bathroom. Four-bedroom, four bath. Walk-in closets. BRAND NEW DUPLEX. Close to Aggieville and campus. Available now. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

THREE-BEDROOM. THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/ dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

145
Roommate
Wanted

BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Beautiful three-bedroom, two bath house near Westloop. No deposit or lease. Furnished if needed. (785)587-9997.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Available immediately. 1006 Laramie. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. (913)775-0327.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. $230/ month. Four-bedroom house next to campus. Pets allowed. Washer/ dryer. Chelsea (314)660-1942.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (785)202-0678. Available December.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE FOR January-May. Two-bedroom house, close to campus. $275/ month plus utilities. Washer/ dryer. Call Megan (785)906-0131.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. Available December 15. January to May. $290/ month. Pets allowed. 615 Thurston. Call (785)341-1073.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share two-bedroom apartment. $280/ month, split electric and cable bill. Call Megan at (402)750-0570.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom apartment half block from campus. $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Call (785)342-1554.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: three-bedroom house for spring semester. Rent $320 plus utilities. Very nice house. (316)990-2046.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each (913)486-2745.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153.

SUBLEASER FOR one of four-bedrooms. University Crossing. Begins January. $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/ dryer furnished. (316)650-6563.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

$365/ MONTH. University Crossing. Cable, washer/ dryer, furnished. One bedroom open in two-bedroom apartment. Please call (913)909-5448.

1111 VATTIER. Two-bedroom, $550 a month. Close to campus. (913)645-8321.

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January- August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $350/ month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300 plus one-third utilities. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

MALE SUBLEASE wanted. One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $300/ month plus utilities. Available second semester. (913)636-6686.

NEED MALE or female sub-leaser December. $275/ month plus utilities. Close to campus. (316)644-2118.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT $325/ month. Water and trash paid. Close to campus. Available January 1. (negotiable). Call (573)718-7321 or ag7333@ksu.edu

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available January. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM $395, cable/ water paid. Laundry/ pool/ hot tub on site. Small pets. Quiet. Available now. (785)375-3015.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for January 1. Spacious one-bedroom, close to campus/ Aggieville. (785)564-7134.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment, Chase Manhattan apartments. Will pay January rent if signed by December. Call (785)871-0738, (785)871-1553.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER WANTED: Founders Hill, four-bedroom. $308.75 a month plus bills. Very Nice! Call (785)317-1875 or (785)317-5145.

SUBLEASING A two-bedroom close to campus. For more information call (620)276-4940.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

160
Office Space

AGGIEVILLE RETAIL/ office space for lease. Handi-Corner Shopping Center. Off-street parking. (785)539-0350, (785)313-2976.

200 service
directory

220
Weight Loss & /
Nutrition

I LOST 55 pounds in eight weeks! See pictures and read my story online. www.loseweightfast.com.

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

'BARTENDING' $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

CATTS GYMNASICS in Wamego is needing recreational and team coaches. Starting pay $8.00 plus/ hr depending on experience and availability. Call Angie at 785-456-8488 if interested.

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator: Full-time position available in Wabaunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansanet.net.

FULL AND part-time help needed. Please apply in person. Fieldkamps Furniture Mart, 7977 East Highway 24, Manhattan.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

HOSPITAL MANAGEMENT Consulting a management company that has been doing business with Geary Community Hospital is announcing that they have a position open in the Senior Health Center and Brimley Inpatient Rehab for an Assistant Director. The qualified applicant must have a minimum of a bachelor's degree in Business and/or Marketing with a healthcare background being preferred but not required. The hours are Monday through Friday with alternating call every other weekend. Interested and qualified applicant should apply in writing to Geary Community Hospital, At: Melanie Griffin Senior Health Center, 1102 St. Mary's Rd. Junction City, KS 66441 or fax to (785)238-2681 or email to mgriffin@gechs.org Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROMO HELP needed this Saturday 4-6 hours before football game. Pay range $15- $17/ hour. Contact Josh or Verna (314)729-1565.

310
Help Wanted

LUNCHROOM/ PLAY-GROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day. 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMER. CIVIC-PLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

ROYAL PURPLE YEAR-BOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

STUDENT NEEDING ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning in the first week of January 2006. The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmind, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server. Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in spring semester 2006 for at least six hours at Kansas State University can be considered. Applications are available in 113 or 115 Kedzie or online at <http://pub.ksu.edu/tech/application.html>. Application deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, 2005. Please include your spring 2006 class schedule. Return applications to 113 Kedzie.

SPRING BREAK Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus.

www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.Let'sGoTours.com or (800)838-8202.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Quiznos Sub
"HMM...TOASTY!"

su|do|ku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

	8	5	4	9
5	4			7	8
6			3		4
4		7	5	3	9
2		4	6	1	7
9			7		2
8	7			5	3
	5	2	9	4

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.
(with purchase of any size sub)

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

6X10 DOG-KENNEL. $45. 26" ladies bike, $15. Architect leather carrying case, table, miscellaneous supplies, $30 or best offer. Call (785)776-8901, evenings.

420
Garage/Yard
Sales

HUGE SALE! Saturday, November 19th, 8am-12pm. 2151 Fort Riley Boulevard. Collectibles, furniture, and household goods.

465
Tickets to
Buy/Sell

NEED GENERAL Admission ticket for Missouri football game. Call (402)230-0215.

NEED ICAT ticket to the MU game. (785)410-5384.

500
transportation

510
Automobiles

1998 DODGE Neon, white, two-door, live-speed, air-conditioning, dependable transportation. Great car for new driver or work vehicle. Very clean, in great shape. 75k asking $3000. (785)587-9242 for details.

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

*#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.Let'sGoTours.com or (800)838-8202.

SPRING BREAK- Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlessummers.com.

Campus Phone Book

Buy it
in Kedzie 103.
Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Quiznos Sub
"HMM...TOASTY!"

su|do|ku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

	8	5	4	9
5	4			7	8
6			3		4
4		7	5	3	9
2		4	6	1	7
9			7		2
8	7			5	3
	5	2	9	4

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.
(with purchase of any size sub)

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $8.50
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $9.95
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $11.65
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $12.90
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20 40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin
board

100 housing/
real estate

200 service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

400 open market

500 transportation

600 travel/
trips

032
Shout
Outs

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

ARE THERE real smurfs in Smurthwaite?

ARIEL. I want my pumpkin back. You know who.

GIRLS LIKE boys who smell good. So go buy some cologne!

HAFERTY. YOU'RE the love of my life. I don't know what I'd do without you as my sweetie pie!

HAYMAKER BOYS = smelly armpits.

I AM the only one that has noticed that boys in Haymaker don't shower...ever!

I HEARD a squirrel fart so loud the other day, his nuts blew off.

I'M SITTING in class drunk thinking about how the floor beneath me won't stop moving. Somebody make it stop!

MARY + John Mayer = True love

NEEDED: STALKER to follow around my crush. If available meet me at the Union food court. Will be well paid.

OPERATOR CAN I help you?

SYNDER. OH wait I mean Snyder...you'll be missed.

THE THIRD floor of FORD HALL IS THE BEST!

THANKS FOR not hitting on our Stats professor this week, it was so much easier to concentrate without your giggles.

THE GOAL

PIPPIN | Play described as Broadway rock musical

Continued from Page 1

a wonderful show," Anderson said. She said the play is about a young man who is in search of meaning, but looks for it everywhere except inside himself.

"It's about searching for meaning in life, and I think that we can relate to that whether we're 18 or 60," Anderson said.

Anderson also said the music in the play is great, and the story intriguing and comical. "Pippin" makes interesting connections with other characters in his search, and that idea in itself can be appreciated by anyone.

Price Messick, senior in theater, said he agreed.

"It's highly entertaining, and just non-stop," he said.

Bill Wingfield, instructor of music, is the music director for "Pippin." He described the production as a Broadway rock musical.

"We have about 15 people in the orchestra," Wingfield said. "There are two keyboards, lots of drums and electric bass. The play will be interesting and has great costumes and lots of dance."

Scott said the entire cast has worked a long time on the play.

"I encourage people to come because we've been working on this since pretty much the beginning of the semester," Scott said.

Anderson said the play is never boring, and that audiences will be entertained.

"I love watching it, and I've been watching it for eight weeks."

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Pippin, played by junior in applied music Austin Short, rocks out to music in the opening part of the musical "Pippin." The musical opens at 8 tonight at McCain Auditorium

HONOR PLEDGE | Possible cheating investigated

Continued from Page 1

Web site, the current Honor System was approved by Student Senate in 1997 and by the faculty in 1998.

"Our goal is to go one step at a time with the investigation," Allen said. "We're going a little slow, but we want to make sure the facts are known."

Raple said he thinks using the group to obtain the Word of the Day is cheating and should carry consequences.

"(Clark) had words of the day to ensure people come to class, and people cheated his process," Raple said. "They broke the rules. They should have to complete one of those honor classes offered by the University."

Allen said consequences for honor code violation have varied in the past.

"For first-time offenders, an XF is a high-level sanction," Allen said, "and a warning is more low-level."

In fall 2003, an introduction sociology class taught by graduate teaching assistant Sara Fisher was investigated after

Fisher said students were taking in-class quizzes for others who did not attend class.

Students who violated the honor code received warnings and had to take one of the university's classes on the honor code.

Clark, professor in geology, asked not to comment but did say the anonymity of the students is one of the top priorities at the moment.

"We want to promote integrity and honesty in our university community," Allen said. "That is our main goal here."

ARCHITECTURE | College considers change to 11-semester program to offer master's degree

Continued from Page 1

degree was because most architecture students work as hard, or harder, than students in some master's degree programs.

"The students in our college currently take between 160 and 170 hours for their bachelor's degree. Their degrees are much more like a graduate degree than an undergraduate degree," Ornelas said. "It will make their degree more in line with how much work they do."

The suggested changes would add between six and 12 credit hours to each major, Ornelas said, even though most architecture students take up to 40 hours more than most graduates.

"I can't deny that it will be more work, because they will be taking graduate classes, but it also means that their degrees will be recognized for the work that they do," she said.

If the changes are approved, they would not become effective until next year's freshman class, Ornelas said, although the college is looking into giving current students the option to earn a master's degree.

Along with the change from a bachelor's to a master's degree, the proposal would add a master's in interior architecture and product design major, a master's of science of architecture, and

"We basically take as many hours when we graduate with a bachelor's degree as most people do when they graduate with a master's. We might as well get credit for it."

Daniel Robben
SOPHOMORE IN LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

an interdisciplinary doctorate degree, Sachs said.

"I think it's an exciting time, that we can begin to look at ourselves, look at the quality of education the students have, and the quality of research that comes out of the college," Ornelas said. "The faculty and administration are pretty excited about the possibility of these degree changes."

Daniel Robben, sophomore in landscape architecture, said that he thinks the move to a master's degree is a good idea.

"We basically take as many hours when we graduate with a bachelor's degree as most people do when they graduate with a master's," Robben said. "We are doing as much work. We might as well get credit for it."

Given the opportunity, Robben said he would consider going for a master's degree.

"It just depends on the criteria, like how many more hours I'd have to take to get it," he said.

Despite the higher recognition a master's degree would offer, Nick Robinson, a fifth-year senior in architecture, said he disagrees with the college's decision.

"I think it's unfortunate. A five-year program gets you out sooner," Robinson said. "We already have to take 160 hours. Why should we add another year? The reason why I came here was because it was a five-year program. All the other schools I looked at were six years."

Sachs said that the changes to the curriculum will help maintain K-State's architecture program among the top programs in the nation.

"I think this was an opportunity for all of us to look at our curriculum and at least do some fine-tuning, and hopefully improve the quality of education we are providing," Sachs said. "We hope that we will have better prepared graduates, and we hope that this change will help us recruit better and better students."

LICENSE PLATES | Out-of-state plates at risk

Continued from Page 1

in other ways could result in more serious consequences.

"Sometimes more accomplished criminals put a stolen tag on a vehicle while they commit some other crime in that vehicle, so if someone traces a tag it won't come back to them," he said.

Doehling said he believes there are people who know who the suspect.

"The kind of people that steal street signs and tags don't put them in a drawer or box. They put them up on the wall as decoration," he said.

Although Doehling knows out-of-state tags are being stolen, he said there is not much that can be done to prevent someone from taking them. People who do have license plates stolen will need to contact their state's department of motor vehicles to find out about getting replacement plates, Doehling said.

Those who know anything about the stolen plates are en-

State license plates stolen

Arizona	New Mexico
California	New York
Connecticut	North Carolina
Florida	Texas
Iowa	Virginia
Kansas	Washington
Minnesota	Wisconsin
Montana

couraged to call Crime Stoppers at 539-7777. Calls are anonymous and Doehling said there could be a reward if the suspect is caught.

Looking for the perfect gift?

www.injeaniuscreations.com

New locally owned online store.
Order online, no credit card necessary.
Free delivery on local orders.

Chowing for Children

Saturday, Nov. 19th
4-7pm & 12am-2am @ The Tri-Delt House
following the game (1834 Laramie)

Large Gumby's Pizza
$7
Look for Tri-Delts selling $5 tickets on campus!

KSU Theatre & Dance and
the Department of Music
Present

Pippin

the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.

November 20 at 3 p.m.

McCain Auditorium

book by
Roger O. Hirson

music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50

Seniors: $11.50

Public: $13.50

by the creator of
Godspell and Wicked

McCain Box Office
532-6428 weekdays
11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
www.ksu.edu/sctd

ESTABLISHED IN CHARLESTON, IL
IN 1983 TO ADD TO STUDENTS GPA
AND GENERAL DATING ABILITY.

JIMMY JOHN'S

Since 1983

$3.99

8" SUB SANDWICHES

All of my tasty sub sandwiches are a full 8 inches of homemade French bread, fresh veggies and the finest meats & cheese I can buy! And if it matters to you, we slice everything fresh everyday in this store, right here where you can see it. (No mystery meat here!)

#1 PEPE®

Real applewood smoked ham and provolone cheese garnished with lettuce, tomato, and mayo. (Awesome!)

#2 BIG JOHN®

Medium rare shaved roast beef, topped with yummy mayo, lettuce, and tomato. (Can't beat this one!)

#3 SORRY CHARLIE

California baby tuna, mixed with celery, onions, and our tasty sauce, then topped with alfalfa sprouts, cucumber, lettuce, and tomato. (My tuna rocks!)

#4 TURKEY TOM®

Fresh sliced turkey breast, topped with lettuce, tomato, alfalfa sprouts, and mayo. (The original)

#5 VITO™

The original Italian sub with genoa salami, provolone, capicola, onion, lettuce, tomato, & a real tasty Italian vinaigrette. (Order it with hot peppers, trust me!)

#6 VEGETARIAN

Several layers of provolone cheese separated by real avocado spread, alfalfa sprouts, sliced cucumber, lettuce, tomato, and mayo. (Truly a gourmet sub not for vegetarians only... peace dude!)

J.J.B.L.T.™

Bacon, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (The only better BLT is mama's BLT. This one rules!)

★ SIDE ITEMS ★

• Soda Pop	... $1.29/$1.49
• Giant chocolate chip or oatmeal raisin cookie	... $1.50
• Real potato chips or jumbo kosher dill pickle	... $0.90
• Extra load of meat	... $1.25
• Extra cheese or extra avocado spread	... $0.75
• Hot Peppers	... $0.25

FREEBIES (SUBS & CLUBS ONLY)

Onion, lettuce, alfalfa sprouts, tomato, mayo, sliced cucumber, Dijon mustard, oil & vinegar, and oregano.

WORLD'S GREATEST GOURMET SANDWICHES

$2.99

PLAIN SLIMS™

Any Sub minus the veggies and sauce

SLIM 1	Ham & cheese
SLIM 2	Roast Beef
SLIM 3	Tuna salad
SLIM 4	Turkey breast
SLIM 5	Salami, capicola, cheese
SLIM 6	Double provolone

Low Carb Lettuce Wrap

JJ UNWICH™

Same ingredients and price of the sub or club without the bread.

YOUR CATERING SOLUTION!!!

BOX LUNCHES, PLATTERS, PARTIES!

DELIVERY ORDERS will include a delivery charge of 49c per item (+/- 10c).

 JIMMYJOHNS.COM ***

$6.99

THE J.J. GARGANTUAN™

This sandwich was invented by Jimmy John's brother Huey. It's huge enough to feed the hungriest of all humans! Tons of genoa salami, sliced smoked ham, capicola, roast beef, turkey & provolone, jammed into one of our homemade French buns then smothered with onions, mayo, lettuce, tomato, & our homemade Italian dressing.

OK, SO MY SUBS REALLY AREN'T GOURMET AND WE'RE NOT FRENCH EITHER. MY SUBS JUST TASTE A LITTLE BETTER, THAT'S ALL! I WANTED TO CALL IT JIMMY JOHN'S TASTY SANDWICHES, BUT MY MOM TOLD ME TO STICK WITH GOURMET. SHE THINKS WHATEVER I DO IS GOURMET, BUT I DON'T THINK EITHER OF US KNOWS WHAT IT MEANS. SO LET'S STICK WITH TASTY!

Jimmy John

$4.99

GIANT CLUB SANDWICHES

My club sandwiches have twice the meat and cheese, try it on my fresh baked thick sliced 7 grain bread or my famous homemade french bread!

#7 GOURMET SMOKED HAM CLUB

A full 1/4 pound of real applewood smoked ham, provolone cheese, lettuce, tomato, & real mayo! (A real stack)

#8 BILLY CLUB®

Roast beef, ham, provolone, Dijon mustard, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (Here's to my old pal Billy who invented this great combo.)

#9 ITALIAN NIGHT CLUB®

Real genoa salami, Italian capicola, smoked ham, and provolone cheese all topped with lettuce, tomato, onion, mayo, and our homemade Italian vinaigrette. (You hav' to order hot peppers, just ask!)

#10 HUNTER'S CLUB®

A full 1/4 pound of fresh sliced medium rare roast beef, provolone, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (It rocks!!!)

#11 COUNTRY CLUB®

Fresh sliced turkey breast, applewood smoked ham, provolone, and tons of lettuce, tomato, and mayo! (A very traditional, yet always exceptional classic!)

#12 BEACH CLUB®

Fresh baked turkey breast, provolone cheese, avocado spread, sliced cucumber, sprouts, lettuce, tomato, and mayo! (It's the real deal folks, and it ain't even California.)

#13 GOURMET VEGGIE CLUB®

Double provolone, real avocado spread, sliced cucumber, alfalfa sprouts, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (Try it on my 7-grain whole wheat bread. This veggie sandwich is world class!)

#14 BOOTLEGGER CLUB®

Roast beef, turkey breast, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. An American classic, certainly not invented by J.J. but definitely tweaked and fine-tuned to perfection!

#15 CLUB TUNA®

The same as our #3 Sorry Charlie except this one has a lot more. Homemade tuna salad, provolone, sprouts, cucumber, lettuce, & tomato. (I guarantee it's awesome!)

#16 CLUB LULU™

Fresh sliced turkey breast, bacon, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (J.J.'s original turkey & bacon club)

WE DELIVER! 7 DAYS A WEEK

MANHATTAN 1212 MORO ST. 785.539.7454

"YOUR MOM WANTS YOU TO EAT AT JIMMY JOHN'S!"

© 2005 JIMMY JOHN'S FRANCHISE INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. We Reserve The Right To Make Any Menu Changes

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Friday, November 18, 2005

SPECIAL SECTION

Bill Snyder to coach the final game of his career

Sub. Exp. Date: 11/18/05
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

3

Vol. 110, No. 65

Necessary precautions

Bramlage security plans, prepares for upcoming season

By Ben Spicer
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A mass of purple-clad fans migrate toward the entrance of Bramlage Coliseum. Tickets are ripped, the stubs are returned and items are checked at the door. For fans these days, this is normal.

More than a month after the suicide of an Oklahoma student, K-State students can rest assured that all the necessary precautions are being taken to prevent and react quickly if a similar event occurred during an athletic event here.

Jim Muller, manager of intercollegiate athletics, said preparations for Friday's season-opening contest against Georgia Southern are sound and Bramlage is secure.

"We have emergency procedures in place based on the severity and nature of the emergency," Muller said. "In the event of a serious emergency, public address announcements would be made and ushers would help to evacuate the building."

Muller said the Big 12 Conference sets the guidelines on security measures, then allows each university to enact its own policies and procedures.

Big 12 schools meet once a year to discuss crowd control, game day policies and discuss present issues, Muller said. Recommendations then go to the institutions which choose whether to adapt new policies.

Muller said an emphasis this year is making fans more aware of sportsmanship. Obscene gestures, profane language and throwing objects are grounds for immediate dismissal and potential termination of visitor rights.

"We typically have good group of students and fans who know and understand what our tradition is, as well as how to act, even at a potentially emotional time," Muller said. "We want the students to have a great time, to uphold the traditions of K-State, but to be able to do so in a safe and pleasant environment."

Muller said as a result of the University of Oklahoma bombing incident, K-State is more stringent on carrying out its policies.

"The OU bombing incident was one that "The OU bombing incident was one that everyone in charge of facilities had to take notice of. It will cause us to rethink security measures for years to come."

Jim Muller
MANAGER OF INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

See SECURITY Page 12

Student found dead in home

By Kristen Roderick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A K-State student died Wednesday at his Manhattan home, Capt. Gary Grubbs with the Riley County Police Department said in a release.

Jonathan Micheal Wood, freshman in horticulture, was found at 6:12 a.m. Wednesday inside his home after the RCPD was notified of an unattended death. An investigation by detectives and the Riley County coroner revealed the probable cause of death was suicide by hanging, Grubbs said in the release.

University Counseling Services employees were notified of Wood's death Tuesday morning by the K-State Police and have been consulting Wood's roommates, said Heather Reed, assistant dean of student life.

Counseling services are available for students who are distressed by the death of Wood.

"John was a member of our K-State family and he will be missed," Reed said. "We extend our deepest condolences to his family and friends."

A memorial service is being planned for Wood. Reed said details will be available Friday and will be released in Monday's Collegian.

Funeral services are pending and will be announced at a later date.

— To contact counseling services, call 532-6927.

SGA rejects increase for band fund

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

At last night's meeting, Student Senate announced that the proposal to increase the K-State band's privilege fee allocation by 15 percent was defeated, in an 11-1-0 vote.

The proposition to increase the funding was made by band director Frank Tracz at the Nov. 4 meeting.

"They've had a large increase in past years," Matt Wagner, Senate privilege fee chair, said. "The committee felt at some point there needs to be accountability from other campus entities."

The band will receive the same amount of funding for the next three fiscal years as they have for the past three years, which is $146,057.

Compared to other Big 12 schools, the K-State band program receives one of the largest amounts of funding through privilege fees. Texas A&M and Oklahoma State are the two other schools in the league who allocate campus privilege fee funds to support their band budgets.

The band received a privilege fee funding increase of 22.66 percent in 1998, and the funding has increased by 102 percent in the past 10 years.

The band currently receives limited additional funding from other campus organizations. The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics provides funding for an assistant band director, and fundraisers are held through an account with the K-State Foundation.

Limited, and not necessarily annual, funding can also be provided by the Alumni Association and campus president.

"Other venues than just the students benefit from the band's services," Wagner said.

Tracz said at last week's meeting that he expected no change in funding.

Proposed budget
Salary/Wages: $40,000.00
Postage: $5,000.00
Office Supplies: $6,000.00
Vehicle Maintenance: $3,000.00
Non-Athletic Equipment: $50,057.00
Copy Costs: $9,000.00
Team Travel: $20,000.00
Banquet/Awards: $13,000.00
Total Budget: $146,057.00

Photo Illustration by Emily Lawrence | COLLEGIAN

Snyder's legacy worth more than football to Manhattan economy

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Coach Bill Snyder is often given credit for turning around what was arguably the worst college football program in the nation.

When Snyder took over in 1989, K-State was the only major college program with 500 losses.

But after Snyder's arrival, an unusual thing happened: K-State started winning football games.

In 17 years with the Wildcats, Snyder's teams have compiled a 138-65-1 record, 11 consecutive bowls (1993-2003) and a Big 12 Conference Championship in 2003.

"He's always going to be remembered as the greatest coach Kansas State has ever had — probably one of the finest football coaches of the last generation," President Jon Wefald said.

Less documented than Snyder's on-field success, however, is his effect on the Manhattan community.

Before Snyder arrived in Manhattan, K-State's football facilities were in poor condition, and some discussed the possibility of ridding the university of football altogether.

"Back in 1989, our facilities were like Division III," Wefald said. "We had no tradition, and we didn't win

Snyder
COACH

many games. Now, we're winning the Big 12 North and the Big 12, and I think people are really pleased."

Wefald said before Snyder's tenure, it was relatively easy to get a good seat at home games.

"When I came to Kansas State in the fall of 1986, no matter who it was, if the game started at 1:10, people could get here at five minutes 'til 1:00 and get a seat between the 30 and 50 yard lines," Wefald said.

Since then, KSU Stadium has expanded, ticket sales have grown and revenue has increased.

Manhattan Area Chamber of Commerce President Lyle Butler said Snyder's economic influence has reached beyond the university.

"When you have 50,000 plus people come to your community six, seven, eight times a year, the impact is just tremendous," Butler said. "It's part of the reason why we have some of the restaurants and stores we have today."

Butler, who has lived in Manhattan for more than five years, said he thinks Snyder has done more for economic development than anyone in the history of the Manhattan community.

"Retailers, hotels and restaurants

See SNYDER Page 12

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Smith convicted

Joseph Smith, 39, was convicted Thursday in Sarasota, Fla., of kidnapping, raping and strangling 11-year-old Carlie Brucia. Her half-naked body was found several days after a security camera captured her kidnapping. Smith showed no emotion while the verdict was read.

Page 3

Sales tax

In a proposal adopted Thursday, the Kansas Board of Regents wants lawmakers to pass an annual sales tax increase of about $40 million for 10 years and issue $150 million in bonds to pay for $584 million in maintenance needed for buildings on the state's six college campuses.

Sex offender proposal

Senate leaders offered a proposal calling for a minimum of 25 years behind bars for crimes involving children and life imprisonment for a third conviction. Anyone convicted of rape or aggravated criminal sodomy of a child under 14 would serve at least 25 years before being eligible for parole.

DON'T FORGET

Kickoff for Wildcat football against Missouri is at 1:10 p.m. Saturday at Snyder Family Stadium.

Ego Imaging, Megaflix and Freaky Snapshots will be from 8 to midnight tonight in the K-State Student Union Courtyard as a part of Union Program Council's After Hours.

United Black Voices Gospel Choir will perform a Harvest Time Concert at 7 tonight at Mount Zion Family Worship Center, 916 Yuma St.

Today

High 54
Low 36

Saturday

High 55
Low 30

Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!

1122 Laramie 539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Moo goo
gai pan pan
4 On 8 Purpose of an online room 12 Literary collection
13 Hideaway
14 Rob, formerly of
"The West Wing"
15 Popular board game
17 Between jobs 18 Sometimes it's pointless
19 Paddock parent
21 Indivisible
22 Half a comedy team
26 Prologue
29 Have bills
30 Lobster
eggs
31 Earth's satellite 32 Forefront
33 A billion years
(Var)
34 Standard

DOWN

1 Nasty stinger
2 Formerly
3 "Family Feud" host 4 Pale one of its species
5 Dinette necessity
6 Art medium
7 3 or 4
a.m., maybe
8 Scale
9 Scuttie
10 Puncturing implement
11 Shirt style
16 Squirrel's morsel
20 Honest politician?
42 Expansive
43 Malaria symptom
44 "Sports-Center" channel
45 Make up your mind
46 In favor of 47 Intention
49 "Norma
—"

23 Black-and-white treat
24 Cat's-paw
25 Incline
26 Mischievous group 27 Ham's
father
28 1/3 of a 1970 movie title
29 16-Down's
home
32 Capt.
Janeway's
starship
33 Biting
35 Small
shots
36 Titanic's resting place
38 Swell
39 World-weary 42 Expansive
43 Malaria
symptom
44 "Sports-Center" channel
45 Make up your mind
46 In favor of
47 Intention
49 "Norma
—"

35 — choy
36 Berate
37 Threadbare 39 Spelldown
40 NAFTA
signatory
41 Baby bugs
45 October
stone 48 Miscellanies
50 Overly proper one
51 Facility
52 Take a meal
53 Heavy reading
54 "The Brady Bunch" star
55 Pinochle card

Solution time: 25 mins.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER 11-18

CRYPTOQUIP

ON C GJMFZ JN HQSKOB
CYOACAJMR UZMZ UJMF
YCPZ HKCDZMR, POYGA AGZD
SZ RBMCSSKZ-MJORZMR?

11-18 CRYPTOQUIP

ON C GJMFZ JN HQSKOB
CYOACAJMR UZMZ UJMF
YCPZ HKCDZMR, POYGA AGZD
SZ RBMCSSKZ-MJORZMR?

Yesterday's Cryptquip: BECAUSE I HAVE NO DREAD OF GRAIN-MUNCHING BEETLES, YOU MIGHT WELL SAY I FEAR NO WEEVIL.
Today's Cryptquip Clue: N equals F

BEST BETS

Your guide to the weekend's entertainment

1 | Fill the 'Bill'

Football coach Bill Snyder will oversee the final game of his career at 1:10 p.m. Saturday at Wagner Field. The Wildcats will face off against the Missouri Tigers for the last game of the season. Snyder will be honored when the stadium will be renamed to Bill Snyder Family Stadium. Saturday's game will also mark the final appearances of 17 senior players. For more information, call 1-800-221-2287 or visit www.kstatesports.com.

2 | K-State vs. Georgia Southern

The K-State men's basketball season opener against Georgia Southern is at 7 tonight at Bramlage Coliseum kicking off the Wildcat Weekend sporting events. Fans can show their football ticket and get into the basketball game for $10 general admission. The Wildcats have a 2-0 preseason record and have extended their exhibition winning streak to five games with a 79-75 win over Emporia State on Nov. 11. For more information, call 1-800-221-2287 or visit www.kstatesports.com.

3 | K-State vs. Detroit

The K-State women's basketball season gets underway when the Wildcats play the Detroit Titans at 2 p.m. Sunday at Bramlage Coliseum. Fans who present their ticket stub from the football game or men's basketball game will be admitted for $1. The game will be broadcast on the K-State Sports Network. For more information, call 1-800-221-2287 or visit www.kstatesports.com.

4 | Pippin

The Broadway musical "Pippin" will be performed by the KSU Theatre at 8 p.m. tonight, Saturday and Sunday at McCain Auditorium. It is the story of a young man who sets out to discover the true meaning of his life and runs into war, sex and politics before discovering love. Cost is $13.50 for the general public, $11.50 for seniors and $9.50 for students. For more information, call 532-6857 or e-mail maricama@ksu.edu.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Nov. 16

- Andrew Schuler, 406 Osage St., was arrested at 10 a.m. for extradition of imprisonment. Bond was not set.
- Joseph Agnew Jr., 1300 Ady Drive, was arrested at 1:20 a.m. for Driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- Harold Heilman, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, was arrested at 1:30 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was not set.
- Zachary Edmund, Junction City, was arrested at 3:25 p.m. for obstruction of legal process and probation violation. Bond was not set.
- Zachary Gipson, 1420 Watson Place, was arrested at 6:15 p.m. for four counts of theft and one count of criminal damage. Bond was set at $3,000.
- Hung Tran, 1420 Watson Place, was arrested at 8:20 p.m. for three counts of theft and one count of burglary. Bond was set at $3,000.
- Holly Wolf, 908 Claflin Road, was arrested at 9:15 p.m. for two counts of failure to appear. Bond was set at $2,000.
- Russell Allen Jr., 708 Allison Ave., was arrested at 10 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $157.
- Eric Orth, 1420 Watson Place, Apt. 15, was arrested at 10:15 p.m. for possession of a simulated controlled substance, unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia, unlawful sale of drugs and paraphernalia and evidence of drug taxation. Bond was set at $5,000.

Thursday, Nov. 17

- Jay Brothers, Hutchinson, Kan., was arrested at 12:35 a.m. for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
- Jonathan Altvater, 2452 Himes Road, was arrested at 12:50 a.m. for obstruction of legal process, disorderly conduct, purchase and consumption of alcohol and transportation of an open container. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Adam Suhler, 3312 Kinsington Court, Apt. 10, was arrested at 2:15 a.m. for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
- Kahlyn Cain, Topeka, was arrested at 2:39 a.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2005

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Juvenal Higiroy at 8:30 a.m. today in Call 206.

■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Danielle Padilla at 9 a.m. today in the Practice Management Center in Trotter Hall.

■ The KSU Marching Band will perform at 5 p.m. Sunday at Ahearn Field House.

■ Kipper's Cradle will play at 9 p.m. Saturday at P.J.'s Bar, 1129 Laramie St.

■ Workers of Wisdom will meet at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Union Little Theatre for praise, power and prayer revival.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

✓5¢ self-serve copies

Claflin Books and Copies

Little Caesars

HOT-N-READY
pizza

$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only

ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!

1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Collegian
xplore it!

kstatcollegian.com

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Chowing for Children

Saturday, Nov. 19th
4-7pm & 12am-2am @ The Tri-Delt House
following the game (1834 Laramie)

Large Gumby's Pizza $7

Look for Tri-Delts selling $5 tickets on campus!

HOLIDAY FUN

DO YOUR HOLIDAY SHOPPING AT ACME GIFT & RECEIVE 10% OFF ABSOLUTELY EVERYTHING!

- ✂ SALE RUNS SATURDAY THE 19TH FROM 10AM TO 8PM.
- ✂ FREE HOT CHOCOLATE & FRESHLY POPPED POPCORN
- ✂ SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE ON YOUR LIST. WE PROMISE.

ACME GIFT 1227 moro street aggleville

UPC presents.....

former SNL Comedian
Friday, Dec 2, 2005
7:30pm
K-State Student Union Ballroom
2nd floor

Tracy Morgan

IN ADVANCE:
TicketMaster Tickets:
-Students w/KSU student ID $8.50 plus service fees
-Non-student $13.50 plus service fees

DAY OF:
-For students w/KSU student ID: $10 plus service fees
-Non-students $15 plus service fees

TICKETS AVAILABLE ONLINE AT TICKETMASTER.COM. AT ALL TICKETMASTER OUTLETS INCLUDING ALL HEN HOUSE MARKET LOCATIONS, SELECT JONES STORES, AND STREETSIDE RECORD STORES. TO CHARGE TICKETS BY PHONE, CALL (816) 931-3300.

ticketmaster

LASIK...

"I cannot imagine a better experience than what I had at Heartland LASIK Center. Everyone was very professional and considerate...after the procedure, I could not believe how well I could see...I feel more confident about doing things I wouldn't have been comfortable with when I had glasses or contacts." --K.G.

...A Life Changing Experience

CustomVue™ LASIK can give you the opportunity to eliminate or reduce your need for glasses or contacts with a customized, unique treatment. Dr. Kansal completed a fellowship in refractive surgery with specialty training in LASIK. For your scheduling convenience, we offer an on-site, state-of-the-art laser.

Call today for a FREE consultation!
785-263-6678

Heartland LASIK Center

511 NE 10th, Abilene, KS 67410
An affiliate of Memorial Health System and in partnership with Dr. Suresh Kansal

Appleby to go to trial in July for Kemp murder

Sentencing portion may take longer than verdict

By Christina Hansen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Benjamin Appleby's case is scheduled to go to trial in July, although it is unclear whether prosecutors will pursue the death penalty.

Appleby, 29, was charged with first-degree murder in connection with 19-year-old former K-State student Ali Kemp's death.

In a taped confession, he told police he beat, strangled and attempted to rape Kemp after she resisted his initial advances.

Roy Barnett, sociology, anthropology and social work instructor, said the sentencing portion of the trial may be more drawn out than finding a verdict.

"Determining guilt or innocence may be a relatively short process, but sentencing could take much longer if it becomes a death penalty case."

In June 2002, Kemp was working as a swimming pool attendant in her hometown of Leawood, Kan., when a strange man brutally attacked and killed her in a nearby pump house.

Kemp's case remained unsolved until Connecticut police Appleby in November 2004.

Several tips led police to the former Leawood family man and business owner, who was living in Connecticut under an alias.

The tips came in response to an unusual notice posted by Kemp's family.

As part of an exhaustive search to find the man who murdered his daughter, Roger Kemp posted the Leawood police department's composite sketch of her killer on a highway billboard.

"I was going down the highway and I looked at (the billboards) and I thought, why not?" Roger Kemp said on the Oct. 28 edition of "20/20," which featured the Kemps' search.

"Why not give them a call and see what a billboard costs? And that's what I did."

He didn't stop with the billboards.

Kemp took out ads in USA Today, publicized his daughter's case on the nationally syndicated television show "America's Most Wanted" and helped set up a $50,000 reward fund for information about the killer.

The Kansas City Crime Commission received more than 3,000 tips concerning the case, two of which led to Appleby's arrest.

Barnett said the Kemps' publicized search reflects a growing trend among victims' families.

"With the growth of Internet news sites and cable news networks, people with the means are able to keep cases in the public eye," he said.

"They keep it out there so that people don't forget. The publicity gets leads, and puts pressure on the police."

Barnett compared the Kemp's case to the recent media coverage of Alabama teen Natalie Holloway's disappearance during a senior trip to Aruba.

Appleby's preliminary hearing for the murder of Kemp was in September 2005.

KFC sales decrease in China due to recent avian flu scare

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Due to a heavy outbreak of avian influenza in China, some consumers are too chicken to eat chicken.

Corporate Kentucky Fried Chicken officials said last week that the company plans to launch an advertising campaign to ease consumer fears of a potential outbreak of the flu in the United States.

Though district KFC officials denied any connection between the avian flu outbreak and sales, National Chicken Council spokesman Richard Lobb commended KFC's "wise and prudent" decision.

He said while the chance of an outbreak in the United States is slim, an effective advertising campaign will advise consumers not to worry about eating at the national chain.

Manhattan resident Brad Dyer said he often consumes chicken, including chicken from the local Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant, 901 N. 3rd St.

He said the "rumor mill outbreak" bothers him more than avian flu outbreaks.

"I don't understand all the fuss and fuss over the chicken scare," Dyer said. "People are just paranoid, thinking they are going to get some wild international disease, but officials denied the connection. Plain and simple, nothing is likely to happen."

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, more than 100 human cases of the avian flu have been reported since 1997.

Most major outbreaks have occurred in Asia this past year, with Vietnam reporting its 42nd human case of the virus last week.

The virus is difficult for humans to catch, and the CDC reported that most deaths are linked to human handling of infected poultry.

Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurants in China reported a 66 percent decline in growth compared to October 2004 levels. Recently, other chicken merchants in China are experiencing a similar sales deflation, said David Novak, chairman and CEO of Yum Brands Inc., KFC's parent company.

Most of the Chinese sale declines are based on fear, Novak said.

"We haven't had anyone come and mention a concern to us locally," Dan Nichols, Kansas-Missouri KFC District Manager, said.

"As far as I know, domestically, we're just following USDA guidelines. KFC has really stringent processes on how we cook our chicken."

KFC announced a 6 percent increase in sales compared to last year, receiving limited domestic concerns about the spread of the virus.

The strict national guidelines, along with positive advertisements, are what is keeping KFC afloat in the United States, said Larry Miller, Prudential Equity Group representative, in an Associated Press report.

Miller said KFC's biggest threat with the avian flu outbreak was not with the outbreak itself, but with media speculation on food contamination.

"Headlines from the avian flu situation continue to weigh on overall consumer sentiment toward chicken in China," Miller said.

Fort Riley soldier retracts statement

By Jonas Hogg
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A Fort Riley soldier convicted of murder has recanted an earlier statement which implicated his platoon leader, the Associated Press reported Thursday.

Pvt. Michael Williams made earlier claims that 2nd Lt. Erick Anderson had given an order to shoot an Iraqi man in August 2004.

Williams has now admitted the statement is false, and he made the claim to shorten his sentence, according to the AP story.

According to a Fort Riley press release, Anderson is undergoing a hearing under Article 32 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The purpose of the hearing is to determine if he will proceed to court-martial, and is compared in the press release to civilian preliminary and Grand Jury hearings, which are inapplicable to military personnel.

Anderson is facing charges for conspiracy to commit murder, two specifications of murder, dereliction of duty, false official statement and two specifications of conduct unbecoming an officer, the press release said.

Both Williams and Anderson are part of the 1st Battalion, 41st Infantry Brigade which is located at Fort Riley, and the alleged incident occurred while the unit was performing operations near Sadr City, Iraq, according to the AP.

Lt. Col. Arthur Degroat, professor of military science, said the presence of a trial indicates accountability and responsibility possible wrongdoings.

However, Degroat said the K-State Army ROTC program was not putting any special emphasis on the proceedings.

Jurors convict mechanic of killing girl

By Mike Schneider
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARASOTA, Fla. — The grainy images captured by a car wash's security camera were chilling: a burly, tattooed man in a mechanics uniform grabs the wrist of an 11-year-old girl walking home from a friend's house and leads her away.

Carlie Brucia's half-naked body turned up several days later outside a church.

Jurors concluded Thursday that a former mechanic was the man in those images, which were broadcast nationwide during the search for Carlie's killer. After deliberating five hours, they convicted Joseph Smith, 39, of kidnapping, raping and strangling the girl.

Prosecutors built their case on the footage, the testimony of Smith's friends and co-workers who said they recognized Smith in the video, DNA and hair-analysis evidence, and the word of the defendant's brother, who said Smith confessed.

Smith, who did not take the stand, showed no emotion when the verdict was read.

The jury will return for the sentencing phase on Nov. 28.

Carlie's mother, Susan Schorpen, wept softly with her head bowed when the verdict was read, and the girl's father, Joe Brucia, nodded when each of the three convictions was announced.

As he left court, he said only that he was happy with the verdict.

"I can never hold her again. Where's the closure?" Schorpen said outside the courthouse. "I've lost one of the most precious things to me in my life because of an animal, a disgusting, perverted animal."

When asked if she was satisfied with the verdict, Schorpen responded: "When he's dead. When he meets his maker."

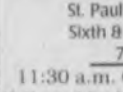

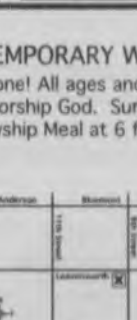

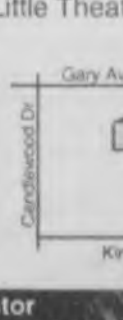

Carlie's killing spurred the introduction of federal and state legislation to crack down on probation violators.

At the time of the slaying, Smith was in violation of the terms of his probation on a cocaine charge because he failed to pay $411 in fines and court costs.

But a judge declined to put him in jail, saying Florida does not have a "debtor's prison."

Before Carlie's slaying, Smith had been arrested at least 13 times since 1993, mostly on drug offenses.

Religion Directory

Agape Family Church 121 S. 4th - Downtown An Affiliation of BIBLEA Bible Church (a Non-Denominational Ministry) Sunday 9:30 a.m. School of the Bible Sunday 10:30 a.m. Worship Sunday 7:00 p.m. Evening Worship Wednesday 7:30 p.m. Hour of Power Youth, Children's and Nursery Services STERLING HUGHES - PASTOR Office: 121 S. 4th Suite 205 www.agapefamily.org Monday Night Live 8:30 p.m. College Fellowship (785) 539-3570	First Presbyterian Church 9:15 a.m. Worship Service 9:15 a.m. Sunday School 10:30 a.m. Worship Service 5:00 p.m. Contemporary Service 6:00 p.m. Dinner for College Students  Rev. Anne Scheiber, Assoc. Pastor Rev. R.C. McConnell, Pastor 801 Leavenworth • 537-0518 www.firstpresmanhattan.com	 Journey Ministry University Christian Church 2800 Claflin • 776-5440 (across from Taco Hut) 9:45 Contemporary Service 11:00 Breakfast and Bible Study Chris Herrington • www.ucck.org	JOIN THE DIRECTORY Call 532-6560	St. Luke's Lutheran Church 330 Sunset Avenue Saturday - Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m. Sunday - Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m. College Bible Study 9:45 a.m. Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m. Email: stlukes@linthills.com (785) 539-2604	St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center MASS SCHEDULE Tuesday-Thursday 10:00 p.m. Friday 12:10 p.m. Saturday 5 p.m. Sunday 9:30 a.m., 11 a.m. Sun. 4:30 p.m., 6 p.m. Father Keith Weber, Chaplain 711 Denison 539-7496
Faith Evangelical Free Church • Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 10:40, 12:00 • Sunday School at 9:15 Steve Raloff, Senior Pastor Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor 1921 Barnes Rd. 1.6 Miles North of Kimball 776-2086	 NEW HOPE community church Pursuing relationships that change the world WORSHIP SERVICE 10:00 AM Small groups for men, women & married couples. College and Family Ministries. www.newhopeks.org Location: KSU Student Union 537-2389	Westview Community Church Serving God, reaching people Worship services 9:00 a.m. 10:45 a.m. Sunday school 9:00 a.m. Campus ministry director Carol Buchheister - cybuch@juno.com 3001 Fort Riley Boulevard www.westviewcommunity.com 785-537-7173	Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan 481 Zeandale Road. (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile) Program Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth. Day care for toddlers. A Welcoming Congregation. For information call (785) 537-2349 Rev. Michael Nelson www.uumf.net	Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church Established in 1879 401 Yuma Street (1 Bl. North of Ft. Riley Blvd. at 4th Street) Reverend Penny Pitchford Pastor (785) 539-5897 Church (913) 321-0974 Pastor Sunday School 9:30 AM Breakfast 10:30 AM Worship Service 11:00 AM  "Enter To Worship, Depart To Serve"	Grace Baptist Church 2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child ♦ Sunday Worship ♦ 8:15 & 10:45 a.m. Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m. Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m. 776-0424 www.gracebchurch.org
All Welcome to Worship! Sunday Evening 7 p.m. Danforth Chapel New on Thursday Oct. 20 6 p.m. Meal & Dialog at Luther House 1745 Anderson -SE Corner of Denison & Anderson- Nov. 5-Walk Konza Trails ELCA-IFL 313-3895  LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY	Come Worship With Us 1st Church of the Nazarene 3031 Kimball Ave. 9:30 Sunday School 10:40 Sunday Worship 7:00 Wed. Bible Study, Teens Youth & College ministry opportunities Senior Pastor: Pat Weyranch 539-6376	 St. Francis Episcopal Campus Ministry at Kansas State University Sunday worship at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Sixth & Poyntz, Manhattan 785-776-9427 11:30 a.m. Contemporary Service (followed by lunch for KSU students) Monday, 5:30 pm, Supper & Conversation at St. Francis/Canterbury House, 1823 Laramie St. Drew Vining, Program Coordinator, 341-3221	 CrossRoads 1021 Denison Avenue 539-4281 ecrc@ksu.edu www.ksu.edu/ecrc David Jones, Pastor Sundays 5:30pm Table Fellowship (free food!) Wednesdays 5:00pm Bible Study Thursdays 6:30pm Fantasy and Spirituality Explore • Discover • Belong • Serve	For College Students CHRISTIAN ALPHA www.ksuchialpha.com Wednesday 8:00 p.m. (KSU Little Theater) Pastor Bryan Elliott Sunday Services Sunday School 9:00 a.m. Morning Worship 10:15 a.m. Evening Worship 6:00 p.m. Nursery Provided for All Services	First United Methodist Church Worship at 8:30, 8:45 and 11:00 Come at 8:30 and 11:00 for more traditional worship with choirs and organ in our beautiful sanctuary. Come at 8:45 for a BLENDED worship in our auditorium. Free doughnuts. 45 minutes long. Great band. COME AS YOU ARE! Come at 9:45 for Sunday School in the auditorium. A special class for college students, relating the Bible to YOUR life. JUST COME. 612 Poyntz, Manhattan Kansas CAMPUS MINISTRY! Check out the website: KSU.edu/umcm
 CELEBRATION Service CONTEMPORARY WORSHIP SERVICE For Everyone! All ages and all people who want to worship God. Sundays at 5 p.m. Fellowship Meal at 6 for College Students First Presbyterian Church 801 Leavenworth Manhattan, KS 66502 785-537-0518 Pastor: R.C. McConnell Associate Pastor: Anne Scheiber Email: staff@firstpresmanhattan.com www.firstpresmanhattan.com	 "Sing to the Lord a new song, his praise from the ends of the earth..." Isaiah 42:10				 Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor 2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS 66503 (785) 537-7633 www.manhattanag.org

TO THE POINT Fans should respect Snyder's legacy

Bill Snyder never wanted a big, emotional news conference to draw the curtain on his career.

Even now, he prefers to remain unassuming. He was always one to toil quietly in his office in the corner of the Vanier Football Complex, rather than stand in the spotlight.

It is that demeanor that endeared him to countless K-State fans over the years.

Snyder's disposition and tenacious work ethic are what made him the architect of the single greatest turnaround in the history of college football — the Miracle in Manhattan, as some have called it.

A program that was once dubbed "Futility U" by Sports Illustrated and a university that was merely a dot on a map suddenly became a destination. K-State became synonymous with excellence.

The values of faith, leadership and determination that Snyder has instilled in a generation of student-athletes have spilled over into those not affiliated with K-State football.

His impact has been that far-reaching.

When Saturday's game comes to an end, respect the stadium that now bears his name. Stand and applaud Snyder, wherever you are, with the all respect that he deserves. Drink in a moment that you will remember forever.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

Boy crazy

Women want to be romanced

It was a couple of Mondays ago when it first happened to me. I was walking down Claflin Road, minding my own business, hands in my pockets and a smile on my lips. I was enjoying yet another gorgeous fall day in Manhattan as I made my way to my next class.

Upon admiring the foliage on the other side of the street, I happened to make eye contact with a boy dressed in red.

Being in the good mood that I was, I flashed this boy my best Crest-kid smile and was just about to let my eyes wander back to the fall scenery when he opened his mouth and a song floated out.

His melodic words came together in mid air and formed a song about a girl. At that moment I was in a state of confusion which soon turned to shock when I realized this boy was singing to me. I think my jaw actually dropped.

The boy and I happened to be walking in different directions on Claflin so the moment was quickly over, but the overwhelming feeling stayed with me all day.

Now let me clarify before anyone jumps to conclusions. No, just because this boy serenaded me doesn't mean that I want to date him. It doesn't mean that he is now a love interest and it doesn't even mean that I plan to try and look him up on Facebook.com.

It's not about that at all. It was about a man, with no hidden agenda, no sneaky intentions, being capable of making my day without any real effort. It was about the thrill of the surprise. It was about being in a good mood and having someone boost it to a stellar mood.

I had no idea that a man would sing to me on the street that day, or any day for that matter. It was a nice gesture, a voice like an angel's that kept a smile on my face for the rest of the day.

Men, just imagine, if a song on the street could put a girl on cloud nine, think of what a surprise picnic in the park could do. Imagine the feelings of happiness and joy you could make erupt in a woman just by making kind gestures.

Now I'm not saying the men of K-State aren't making an effort to woo the women. But I am saying the anecdote I'm sharing with you is a prime example of the simplicity behind making a woman melt.

Women like to be romanced, it's true. And men, you don't have to be romantically interested in a woman to romance her. No, I'm talking about taking your best female friend out for a night on the town, simply to make her feel special.

All this isn't about dating or falling in love, it's about men using their power of making girls weak in the knees just to brighten a day. It's about making a girl feel on top of the world without making her feel that a possible relationship is about to deploy. It's about a man using his talents (singing, cooking, dancing, whatever) to make a girl giddy, no strings attached.

If you have that ability, what's the harm in using it?

Alyssa Alexander is a freshmen in print journalism. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

ALYSSA
ALEXANDER

Girlfriends provide compassion, grace

One of my best friends and I love going to the movies and stocking up on junk food. We love strolling the Plaza in Kansas City, Mo.; we don't even need to have any money. We always call when something happens, good or bad.

Another friend of mine and I love to sit out on the front stoop with a beer on nice days. We love to play in the snow, and we can always pick out clothes for each other.

Surprisingly, both of these friends are guys. And while these friendships are irreplaceable and priceless to me, I have learned that in certain situations, even these guys are no replacement for a good girl friend.

I have wondered what it is about the relationships between girl friends that makes them so powerful. To me, they can turn a boring Sunday afternoon into one of your best memories with just a trip to the mall, or make you see that you will survive when your heart is broken.

Just the other day, I was watching an episode of "Sex and the City" — I realize it is not the most reliable source for information — but the women's friendship is a stream of truth that runs throughout the series.

When Carrie learns that her ex is marrying Natasha, she is devastated, but after she discusses her devastation with her friends, Samantha adds at the end, "What kind of name is Natasha anyway?" It may seem like nothing but a nasty comment, but what Samantha really meant is that she is on Carrie's side, and that whoever hurts Carrie is no friend of Samantha's.

A cliché example from an element of pop culture, maybe, but what it says about women's loyalty to their best friends is powerful.

Recently, I have experienced the meaning of a true girls' night out. There is plenty of fun to be had in a night of exchanging glances with the guy behind the bar, but there is genuine healing power in a night sans testosterone.

Last Saturday, I spent the night sharing laughs, drinks and the dance floor with three great friends. This has been one of my most overwhelming semesters, and I've found myself unfocused and dragging my feet.

But this week, I've been infinitely more organized and self-disciplined, and even landed myself a new job. Some may say it's just a coincidence, but I'll always believe that the cure for just about anything, including my apathy, is a few hours with the girls. There is something strengthening in being reminded that there will always be someone there for you.

I'll be the first to say guys can make great friends. They're great at making us laugh, scaring away the creepy guy who's eyeing us in the bar and for a playing our favorite song on the guitar.

It is OK that their faces turn white and they have no words when they see tears welling in our eyes, or that they have no understanding of our beauty rituals, because that is what our girls are for. So thanks girls, I love you.

Addie Laue is a junior in mass communications. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@spub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

To all the people who whine about the Collegian, what do you do in your local newspaper when there is no Fourum? Then what do you whine about? Oh, I know, then you become politicians.

Some eagle was chowing down on Butters in front of Anderson on Wednesday. It's the circle of life.

Phil Bennett is no "no name." If you knew anything about K-State football, you'd know he used to be one of Snyder's best assistants.

So, Sig Ep's cook is probably the best cook ever. Yesterday she took a match and a fork and made a chocolate cake out of it.

Solich for coach. Seriously, how funny would it be if we ganked Nebraska's old head coach?

That's right, if weren't for the soldiers who are giving their lives for you, then you wouldn't have the right to bitch. So be thankful, not critical.

If I were a shark, I would try not to bite my tongue!

I wish the story about George Bush and the Supreme Court were true. That would be awesome. I love W.

Hey, everyone. Check out hockersmith.net for the Bill Snyder tribute.

Kody Cooper, no one's holding a knife to your throat and making you celebrate Thanksgiving, you fatso. If you don't want to eat turkey, then don't. Just shut up.

Zach Eckels, good column. I don't blame the soldiers, but I still wish someone would assassinate a bad president for once.

Lola Shrimplin, you're right. God made everyone unique and gave them the freedom of choice.

Tearing down goalposts is Bush league. It is something that shoddy programs like KU do in the rare event of a win. It would be a disgrace to coach Snyder and all that he's achieved.

Everyone needs to check out tinyurl.com/b84yy. It is a tribute to Snyder, try not to cry.

Chuck Norris was the fourth wise man. He brought baby Jesus the gift of "beard."

Jesus wore it proudly to his dying day. The other wisemen, jealous of Jesus' obvious gift favoritism, used their combined influence to have Chuck omitted from the Bible. Shortly after, all three died from roundhouse kicks to the face.

I hate it when people talk about the Fourum in the Fourum. That's so lame.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Marching band deserves SGA funding

Editor,

I'm a member of "The Pride of Wildcat Land," K-State Marching Band, but I am also a member of the student body. It is somewhat obvious that I have a certain bias toward the band, but still I believe if I were not in the band my opinion would not be different.

I've been informed that recent focus groups have voiced an opinion which has been perceived to be in line with the majority opinion of the student body — that students prefer to hear music and commercials over the Jumbotron than the marching band's playing.

I find this awfully hard to believe, considering that every time I wear a K-State Band shirt, people stop to tell me how much they love the band and how we're doing the most amazing shows they've seen from the band in years.

Recently, SGA announced its plans to reduce funding for the band, if not do away with funding all together.

This would be a devastating blow to the band program and if I may say so, the entire atmosphere of K-State football as we know it.

Before the KU game this year, there was an article in a Lawrence newspaper that read: "During the football practice Kansas conducted Wednesday in Memorial Stadium, the Wabash Cannonball blared at times on the loudspeakers, a device used to get the Jayhawks accustomed to the next atmosphere they'll face on the road."

They weren't blaring the "Hey Song," nor were they preparing to hear the "UMB Bank Trivia." They were worried about making sure they could handle the atmosphere caused by the band.

We work hard to do what we do, and take great pride in what we accomplish. I would be no less than offended to see my hard work and dedication be pushed aside to make room for rock music and truck commercials.

I hope SGA would reconsider, because without "pride," what do we have?

Matthew Garcia
SOPHOMORE IN HOTEL RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT
ALTO SAXOPHONE

Collegian wrong for not informing community of Veteran's Day meaning

Editor,

I took a short, non-scientific poll to test the knowledge of those around me on Friday. I asked "what federal holiday is recognized today?" And then "what does 11, 11, 11 mean, in respect to this holiday?"

The power of the press is unlimited. It has helped to start and end wars, and when an editor has not been afraid to show graphic images of racial inequality, ethnic cleansing, starving children, genocide, murder and numerous other acts of evil, it has changed history.

Friday, from Bluemont Hall to Call Hall, veterans read your newspaper quietly. As they read, many began asking, "isn't today Veteran's Day?" And then "Why did the editor not assign a reporter to prepare even one sentence on some facet of this holiday to inform the students of K-State?"

Sadly, you missed a wonderful opportunity to showcase those around you who have sacrificed so much, and have asked for nothing in return, except a simple acknowledgment of their existence.

In life, you never forget how someone made you feel. How they showed their appreciation for your effort, sacrifice or commitment will stay with you long after their words of thanks or advice have been forgotten.

So to the Collegian staff and editorial board, the message that your decision not to notify the student body that last Friday was Veteran's Day, has been received and understood.

Today I had hoped people would remember those who have sacrificed their innocence selflessly, so that others wouldn't have to.

My only hope now is that when the mailbox is empty, someone passes the Manhattan Mercury along to explain why no mail was delivered last Friday.

Fred H. Shockey III
SERGEANT FIRST CLASS (RETIRED), US ARMY
SENIOR IN MATHEMATICS EDUCATION

Diversity showcases differences, not meant to mean cultural equality

Editor,

diversity — noun.

1. the quality or condition of being diverse; complete difference; unlikeness.

The goal of diversity is not to say cultures are equal. Rather, it is to learn about other people and cultures.

If a student is only exposed to people, ideas, religions and cultures that one is accustomed to, why leave home?

Diversity did not develop within western culture.

Throughout history there are examples of people integrating with other cultures. Take the Republic of Rome as an example.

One reason why they were able to grow so large and so powerful is because they were able to assimilate defeated foes into their republic and have them feel like they were part of the country.

In a diverse environment, individuals do not lose their equality, liberty or individuality. Rather, they are celebrated. Proponents of diversity believe that "thinking outside the box" is imperative, and that humans should choose to explore and evolve into educated members of the world.

Our culture is the basic assumptions about our world. But in order to build on that foundation, we must learn how to and welcome other ideas, viewpoints and opinions.

Diversity is not some vague, cheery ideal held by numerous students.

Diversity celebrates the infinite amount of difference on our campus, in Kansas, these United States and the world.

Diversity does not preach about equality; that is our Declaration of Independence.

It preaches that ideas from different backgrounds benefit not only the individual person but the body of the given populace, in this case K-State.

Thomas Botzler
SENIOR IN HISTORY

Theory of creationism is unprovable

Editor,

As much as he would like to, Jonas should see that there is very little that can be debated between science and theology. The major reason for this is that debating the two is like playing a game of "I Win." The science-based argument can present study after study and a multitude of evidence, but will quickly be trumped by the theologian's God card.

It's true that there is difficulty in establishing exactly what mechanism may have started life billions of years ago, but the moment you chalk it up to God, you eliminate any science from the equation. I worship God, but saying that something happened because he willed it is the ultimate cop-out when it comes to scientific reasoning.

The two sides are football and soccer, both trying to score, but playing by entirely different and exclusive rules.

Theology and science are apples and oranges with little in the way of common ground, and as such they should not be taught in the same class. Creationism could be readily taught in a social studies class as it addresses the beliefs of the peoples of the world.

However, there is no way to test any theory of creationism, so there is no way it should be taught in a class designed to instill the scientific method.

In the end, creationism is a theory of faith, and evolution is a theory of science.

Faith is based on beliefs which can't be proved or disproved, while science tries to prove things through physical examination.

Tari Vetter
GRADUATE STUDENT IN CHEMICAL ENGINEERING

Snip N' Clip
Hair cut stops

Student cuts $7.95

Highlite & color service available

3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410

M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

KSU Meat Sale
FRIDAY • Noon-5:45 p.m.
Rm. 166 • Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

LAMB
chops, roast, ground lamb

Paid for by Kansas State University. For information call 532-1279

KSU Theatre & Dance and the Department of Music Present

Pippin
the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.
November 20 at 3 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

book by Roger O. Hirson
music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50
Seniors: $11.50
Public: $13.50

McCain Box Office
532-6428 weekdays
11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
www.ksu.edu/sctd

by the creator of Godspell and Wicked

wildcats
2005-06 BASKETBALL

Friday November 18
vs. Georgia Southern
7pm
Bramlage Coliseum

Show your Missouri football ticket and purchase a G.A. ticket for only $10

GO STATE!

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

any size one low price!

now thru dec. 17th only!

PASSENGER Firestone FR380
excellent wet traction
$29.99
P155/80R13

*39"	*44"	*49"	*54"	*59"
P155/80R13	P165/80R14	P175/80R14	P185/80R14	P195/80R14
P155/80R13	P165/80R14	P175/80R14	P185/80R14	P195/80R14
P155/80R13	P165/80R14	P175/80R14	P185/80R14	P195/80R14

55,000 mile limited warranty*

PASSENGER Bridgestone INSIGNIA SE200
$39.99
P155/80R13

Whitewall	Price	Whitewall	Price
P195/70R14	$69.99	P215/70R15	$79.99
P185/65R14	74.99	P195/65R15	79.99
P205/70R15	79.99	P225/60R16	99.99

65,000 mile limited warranty*
*black letters, call for other sizes

standard oil change and filter

- install new oil filter • refill up to 5 quarts Kendall® Synthetic Blend motor oil
- lubricate chassis (if applicable)

$16.99

Most vehicles add $2.50 for oil disposal fee Expires 12/17/05

Complete Radiator System Service!

- inspect cooling system & pressure test for leaks
- Refill with correct amount of recycled coolant
- Add sealant / lubricant
- Flush system

Most vehicles help prevent the #1 cause of roadside breakdown

$49.99
Offer Ends 12/17/05

mon.-fri. 7:00 am-6:00 pm sat. 7:00 am-6:00 pm
(*) open sunday 8:00 am-5:00 pm

307 N. 3rd
Manhattan, KS
785-776-8311

90 DAYS INTEREST FREE
Minimum monthly payments required.

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

www.ExpertTire.com

Shop supply charges in the amount of 10% of labor charges will be added to invoices greater than $25. These charges will not exceed $25 and represent costs and profits. Shop supply charges not applicable in CA or NY. Non-authorized personnel charges, if any, are disclosed above. They also represent costs and profits. Specific product offerings and tread designs may vary. Prices, warranties, car service, credit plans and other offers available at ExpertTire are subject to change without notice. Prices listed are for new tires only. All warranties apply only to original owner on a newly installed vehicle. See retailer for details, restrictions and copy of each limited warranty. Finance charges applied on qualified Promotional Credit Plan purchases that are paid in full within 90 days. MINIMUM MONTHLY PAYMENTS REQUIRED. Regular Rate: 21.84% Annual Percentage Rate. Frequency Rate: 24.84% APR. Minimum finance charge $1.00. Credit First National Association reserves the right to change APR, fees and other terms without notice. See store for details.

To announce your milestone, visit Kedzie 103. To advertise, call 532-6560.

Royal Purple yearbook
we've got the stories you've got to read.

Buy your copy in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6555.

TO THE POINT Fans should respect Snyder's legacy

Bill Snyder never wanted a big, emotional news conference to draw the curtain on his career.

Even now, he prefers to remain unassuming. He was always one to toil quietly in his office in the corner of the Vanier Football Complex, rather than stand in the spotlight.

It is that demeanor that endeared him to countless K-State fans over the years.

Snyder's disposition and tenacious work ethic are what made him the architect of the single greatest turnaround in the history of college football — the Miracle in Manhattan, as some have called it.

A program that was once dubbed "Futility U" by Sports Illustrated and a university that was merely a dot on a map suddenly became a destination. K-State became synonymous with excellence.

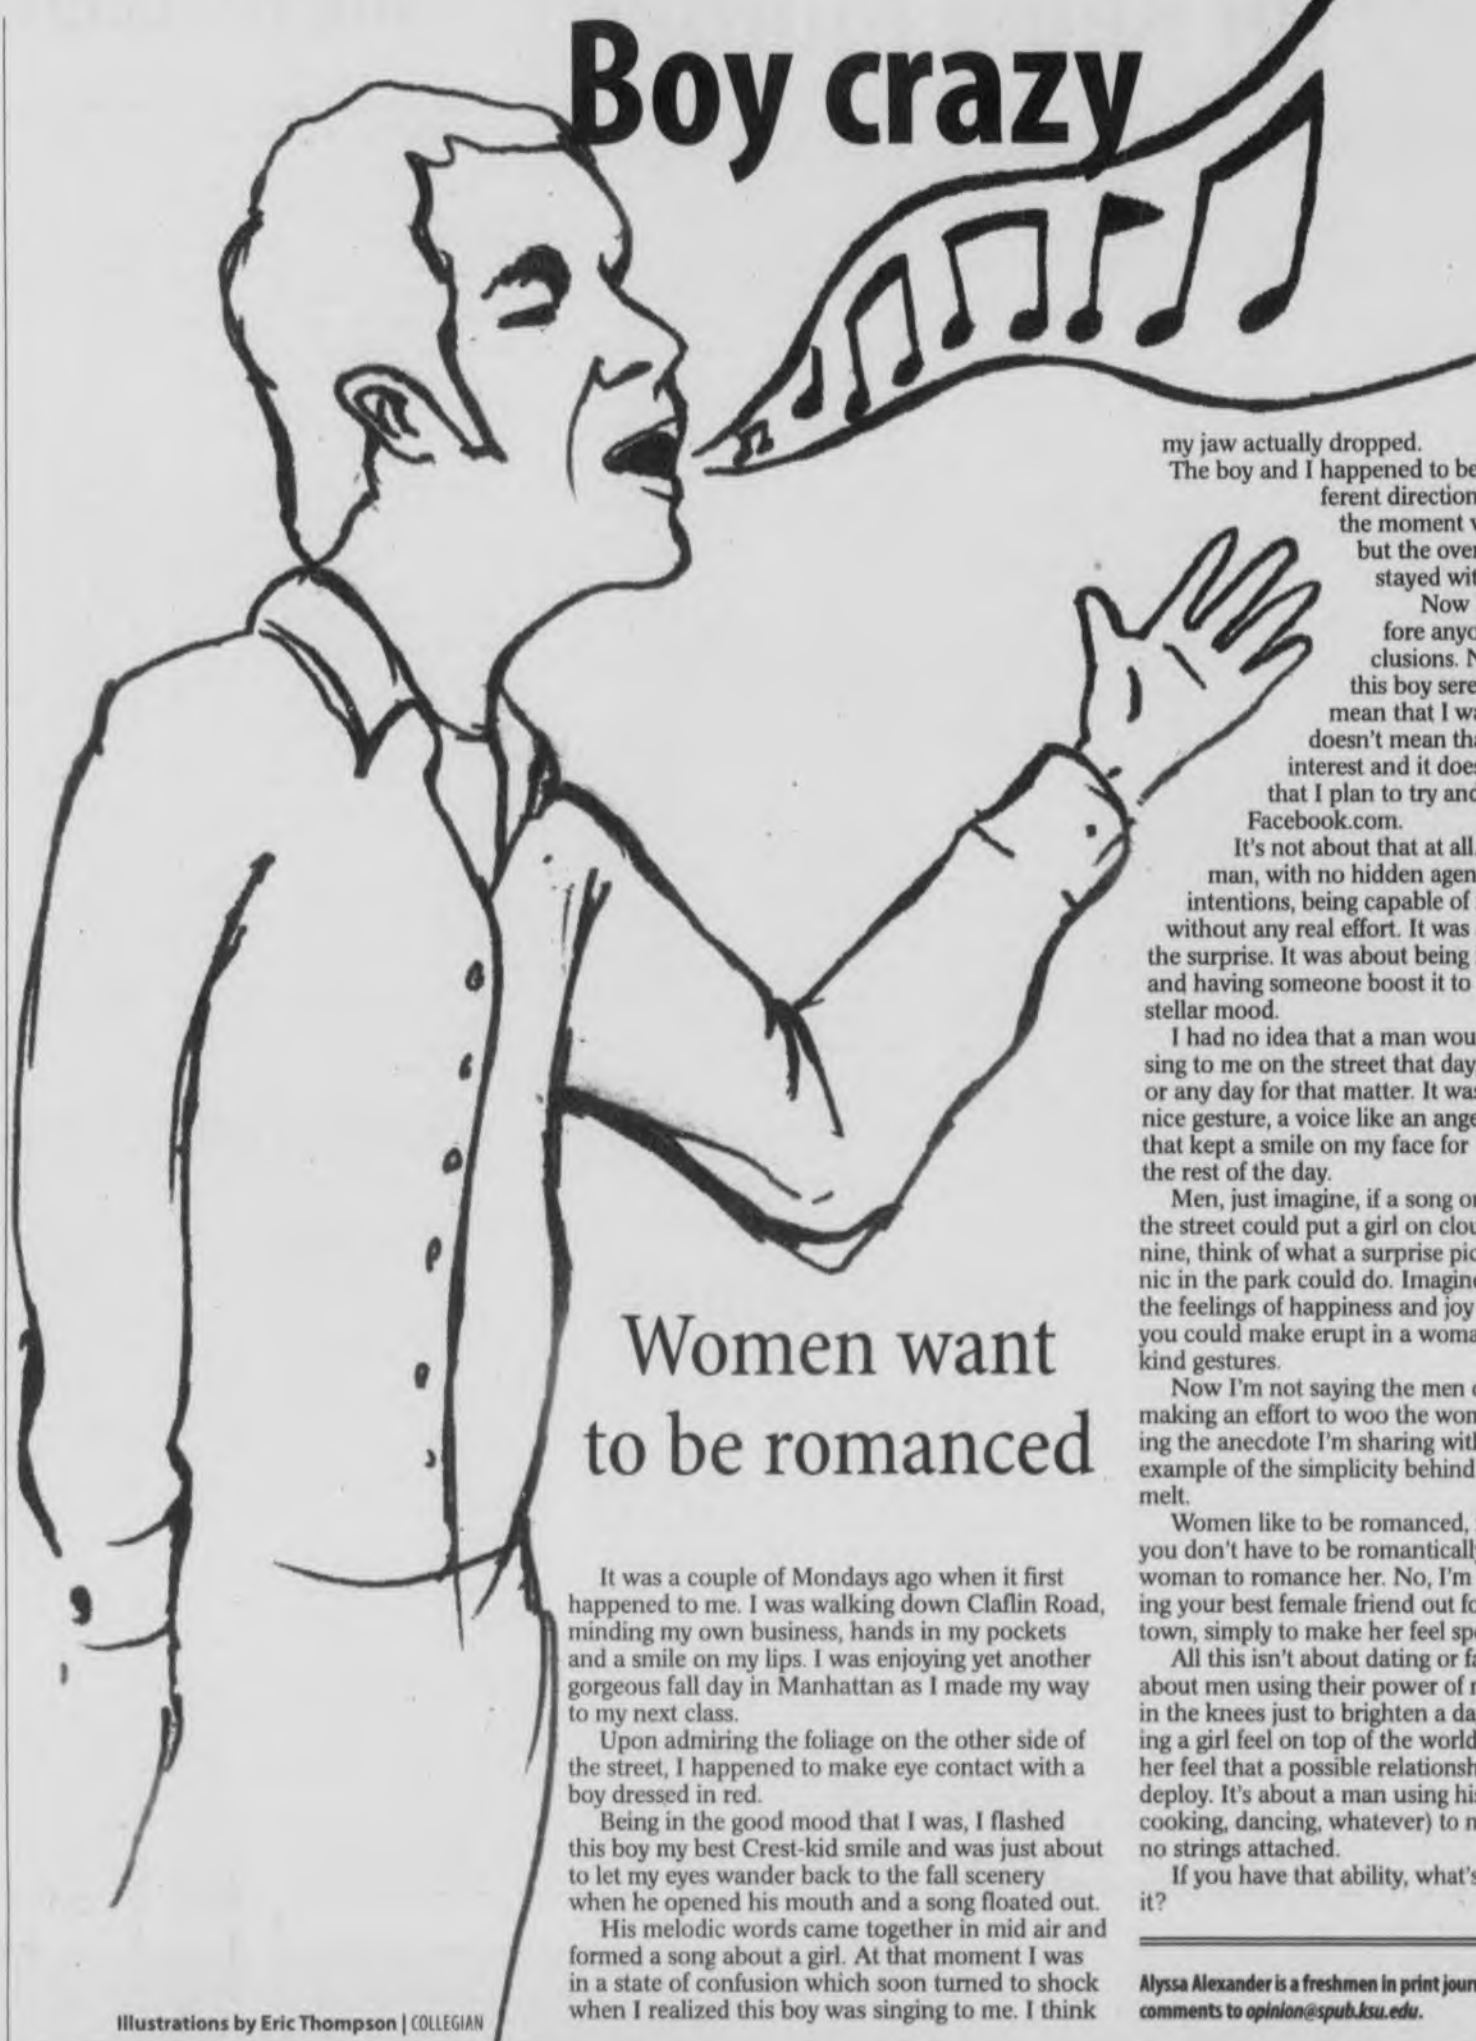

The values of faith, leadership and determination that Snyder has instilled in a generation of student-athletes have spilled over into those not affiliated with K-State football.

His impact has been that far-reaching.

When Saturday's game comes to an end, respect the stadium that now bears his name. Stand and applaud Snyder, wherever you are, with the all respect that he deserves. Drink in a moment that you will remember forever.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

Boy crazy

Women want to be romanced

It was a couple of Mondays ago when it first happened to me. I was walking down Claflin Road, minding my own business, hands in my pockets and a smile on my lips. I was enjoying yet another gorgeous fall day in Manhattan as I made my way to my next class.

Upon admiring the foliage on the other side of the street, I happened to make eye contact with a boy dressed in red.

Being in the good mood that I was, I flashed this boy my best Crest-kid smile and was just about to let my eyes wander back to the fall scenery when he opened his mouth and a song floated out.

His melodic words came together in mid air and formed a song about a girl. At that moment I was in a state of confusion which soon turned to shock when I realized this boy was singing to me. I think my jaw actually dropped.

The boy and I happened to be walking in different directions on Claflin so the moment was quickly over, but the overwhelming feeling stayed with me all day.

Now let me clarify before anyone jumps to conclusions. No, just because this boy serenaded me doesn't mean that I want to date him. It doesn't mean that he is now a love interest and it doesn't even mean that I plan to try and look him up on Facebook.com.

It's not about that at all. It was about a man, with no hidden agenda, no sneaky intentions, being capable of making my day without any real effort. It was about the thrill of the surprise. It was about being in a good mood and having someone boost it to a stellar mood.

I had no idea that a man would sing to me on the street that day, or any day for that matter. It was a nice gesture, a voice like an angel's that kept a smile on my face for the rest of the day.

Men, just imagine, if a song on the street could put a girl on cloud nine, think of what a surprise picnic in the park could do. Imagine the feelings of happiness and joy you could make erupt in a woman just by making kind gestures.

Now I'm not saying the men of K-State aren't making an effort to woo the women. But I am saying the anecdote I'm sharing with you is a prime example of the simplicity behind making a woman melt.

Women like to be romanced, it's true. And men, you don't have to be romantically interested in a woman to romance her. No, I'm talking about taking your best female friend out for a night on the town, simply to make her feel special.

All this isn't about dating or falling in love, it's about men using their power of making girls weak in the knees just to brighten a day. It's about making a girl feel on top of the world without making her feel that a possible relationship is about to deploy. It's about a man using his talents (singing, cooking, dancing, whatever) to make a girl giddy, no strings attached.

If you have that ability, what's the harm in using it?

Alyssa Alexander is a freshmen in print journalism. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

ALYSSA
ALEXANDER

Girlfriends provide compassion, grace

One of my best friends and I love going to the movies and stocking up on junk food. We love strolling the Plaza in Kansas City, Mo.; we don't even need to have any money. We always call when something happens, good or bad.

Another friend of mine and I love to sit out on the front stoop with a beer on nice days. We love to play in the snow, and we can always pick out clothes for each other.

Surprisingly, both of these friends are guys. And while these friendships are irreplaceable and priceless to me, I have learned that in certain situations, even these guys are no replacement for a good girl friend.

I have wondered what it is about the relationships between girl friends that makes them so powerful. To me, they can turn a boring Sunday afternoon into one of your best memories with just a trip to the mall, or make you see that you will survive when your heart is broken.

Just the other day, I was watching an episode of "Sex and the City" — I realize it is not the most reliable source for information — but the women's friendship is a stream of truth that runs throughout the series.

When Carrie learns that her ex is marrying Natasha, she is devastated, but after she discusses her devastation with her friends, Samantha adds at the end, "What kind of name is Natasha anyway?" It may seem like nothing but a nasty comment, but what Samantha really meant is that she is on Carrie's side, and that whoever hurts Carrie is no friend of Samantha's.

A cliché example from an element of pop culture, maybe, but what it says about women's loyalty to their best friends is powerful.

Recently, I have experienced the meaning of a true girls' night out. There is plenty of fun to be had in a night of exchanging glances with the guy behind the bar, but there is genuine healing power in a night sans testosterone.

Last Saturday, I spent the night sharing laughs, drinks and the dance floor with three great friends. This has been one of my most overwhelming semesters, and I've found myself unfocused and dragging my feet.

But this week, I've been infinitely more organized and self-disciplined, and even landed myself a new job. Some may say it's just a coincidence, but I'll always believe that the cure for just about anything, including my apathy, is a few hours with the girls. There is something strengthening in being reminded that there will always be someone there for you.

I'll be the first to say guys can make great friends. They're great at making us laugh, scaring away the creepy guy who's eyeing us in the bar and for a playing our favorite song on the guitar.

It is OK that their faces turn white and they have no words when they see tears welling in our eyes, or that they have no understanding of our beauty rituals, because that is what our girls are for. So thanks girls, I love you.

Addie Laue is a junior in mass communications. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@pub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

To all the people who whine about the Collegian, what do you do in your local newspaper when there is no Fourum? Then what do you whine about? Oh, I know, then you become politicians.

Some eagle was chowing down on But-

ters in front of Anderson on Wednesday. It's the circle of life.

Phil Bennett is no "no name." If you knew anything about K-State football, you'd know he used to be one of Snyder's best assistants.

So, Sig Ep's cook is probably the best cook ever. Yesterday she took a match and a fork and made a chocolate cake out of it.

Solich for coach. Seriously, how funny would it be if we ganked Nebraska's old head coach?

That's right, if weren't for the soldiers who are giving their lives for you, then you wouldn't have the right to bitch. So be thankful, not critical.

If I were a shark, I would try not to bite my tongue!

I wish the story about George Bush and the Supreme Court were true. That would be awesome. I love W.

Hey, everyone. Check out hockersmith.net for the Bill Snyder tribute.

Kody Cooper, no one's holding a knife to your throat and making you celebrate Thanksgiving, you fatso. If you don't want to eat turkey, then don't. Just shut up.

Zach Eckels, good column. I don't blame the soldiers, but I still wish someone would assassinate a bad president for once.

Lola Shrimplin, you're right. God made everyone unique and gave them the freedom of choice.

Tearing down goalposts is Bush league. It is something that shoddy programs like KU do in the rare event of a win. It would be a disgrace to coach Snyder and all that he's achieved.

Everyone needs to check out tinyurl.com/b84yy. It is a tribute to Snyder, try not to cry.

Chuck Norris was the fourth wise man. He brought baby Jesus the gift of "beard."

Jesus wore it proudly to his dying day. The other wisemen, jealous of Jesus' obvious gift favoritism, used their combined influence to have Chuck omitted from the Bible. Shortly after, all three died from roundhouse kicks to the face.

I hate it when people talk about the Fourum in the Fourum. That's so lame.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Marching band deserves SGA funding

Editor,

I'm a member of "The Pride of Wildcat Land," K-State Marching Band, but I am also a member of the student body. It is somewhat obvious that I have a certain bias toward the band, but still I believe if I were not in the band my opinion would not be different.

I've been informed that recent focus groups have voiced an opinion which has been perceived to be in line with the majority opinion of the student body — that students prefer to hear music and commercials over the Jumbotron than the marching band's playing.

I find this awfully hard to believe, considering that every time I wear a K-State Band shirt, people stop to tell me how much they love the band and how we're doing the most amazing shows they've seen from the band in years.

Recently, SGA announced its plans to reduce funding for the band, if not do away with funding all together.

This would be a devastating blow to the band program and if I may say so, the entire atmosphere of K-State football as we know it.

Before the KU game this year, there was an article in a Lawrence newspaper that read: "During the football practice Kansas conducted Wednesday in Memorial Stadium, the Wabash Cannonball blared at times on the loudspeakers, a device used to get the Jayhawks accustomed to the next atmosphere they'll face on the road."

They weren't blaring the "Hey Song," nor were they preparing to hear the "UMB Bank Trivia." They were worried about making sure they could handle the atmosphere caused by the band.

We work hard to do what we do, and take great pride in what we accomplish. I would be no less than offended to see my hard work and dedication be pushed aside to make room for rock music and truck commercials.

I hope SGA would reconsider, because without "pride," what do we have?

Matthew Garcia
SOPHOMORE IN HOTEL RESTAURANT MANAGEMENT
ALTO SAXOPHONE

Diversity showcases differences, not meant to mean cultural equality

Editor,

diversity — noun.

1. the quality or condition of being diverse; complete difference; unlikeness.

The goal of diversity is not to say cultures are equal. Rather, it is to learn about other people and cultures.

If a student is only exposed to people, ideas, religions and cultures that one is accustomed to, why leave home?

Diversity did not develop within western culture.

Throughout history there are examples of people integrating with other cultures. Take the Republic of Rome as an example.

One reason why they were able to grow so large and so powerful is because they were able to assimilate defeated foes into their republic and have them feel like they were part of the country.

In a diverse environment, individuals do not lose their equality, liberty or individuality. Rather, they are celebrated. Proponents of diversity believe that "thinking outside the box" is imperative, and that humans should choose to explore and evolve into educated members of the world.

Our culture is the basic assumptions about our world. But in order to build on that foundation, we must learn how to and welcome other ideas, viewpoints and opinions.

Diversity is not some vague, cheery ideal held by numerous students.

Diversity celebrates the infinite amount of difference on our campus, in Kansas, these United States and the world.

Diversity does not preach about equality; that is our Declaration of Independence.

It preaches that ideas from different backgrounds benefit not only the individual person but the body of the given populace, in this case K-State.

Thomas Botzler
SENIOR IN HISTORY

Collegian wrong for not informing community of Veteran's Day meaning

Editor,

I took a short, non-scientific poll to test the knowledge of those around me on Friday. I asked "what federal holiday is recognized today?" And then "what does 11, 11, 11 mean, in respect to this holiday?"

The power of the press is unlimited. It has helped to start and end wars, and when an editor has not been afraid to show graphic images of racial inequality, ethnic cleansing, starving children, genocide, murder and numerous other acts of evil, it has changed history.

Friday, from Bluemont Hall to Call Hall, veterans read your newspaper quietly. As they read, many began asking, "isn't today Veteran's Day?" And then "Why did the editor not assign a reporter to prepare even one sentence on some facet of this holiday to inform the students of K-State?"

Sadly, you missed a wonderful opportunity to showcase those around you who have sacrificed so much, and have asked for nothing in return, except a simple acknowledgment of their existence.

In life, you never forget how someone made you feel. How they showed their appreciation for your effort, sacrifice or commitment will stay with you long after their words of thanks or advice have been forgotten.

So to the Collegian staff and editorial board, the message that your decision not to notify the student body that last Friday was Veteran's Day, has been received and understood.

Today I had hoped people would remember those who have sacrificed their innocence selflessly, so that others wouldn't have to.

My only hope now is that when the mailbox is empty, someone passes the Manhattan Mercury along to explain why no mail was delivered last Friday.

Fred H. Shockey III
SERGEANT FIRST CLASS, (RETIRED), US ARMY
SENIOR IN MATHEMATICS EDUCATION

Theory of creationism is unprovable

Editor,

As much as he would like to, Jonas should see that there is very little that can be debated between science and theology. The major reason for this is that debating the two is like playing a game of "I Win." The science-based argument can present study after study and a multitude of evidence, but will quickly be trumped by the theologian's God card.

It's true that there is difficulty in establishing exactly what mechanism may have started life billions of years ago, but the moment you chalk it up to God, you eliminate any science from the equation. I worship God, but saying that something happened because he willed it is the ultimate cop-out when it comes to scientific reasoning.

The two sides are football and soccer, both trying to score, but playing by entirely different and exclusive rules.

Theology and science are apples and oranges with little in the way of common ground, and as such they should not be taught in the same class. Creationism can be readily taught in a social studies class as it addresses the beliefs of the peoples of the world.

However, there is no way to test any theory of creationism, so there is no way it should be taught in a class designed to instill the scientific method.

In the end, creationism is a theory of faith, and evolution is a theory of science.

Faith is based on beliefs which can't be proved or disproved, while science tries to prove things through physical examination.

Tari Vetter
GRADUATE STUDENT IN CHEMICAL ENGINEERING

Snip N' Clip
Hair cut stops

Student cuts $7.95

Highlite & color service available

3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410

M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

KSU Meat Sale
FRIDAY • Noon-5:45 p.m.
Rm. 166 • Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

LAMB
chops, roast, ground lamb

PRODUCT OF THE DEPT. OF ANIMAL SCIENCE AND HEALTH, KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, MANHATTAN, KS 66506

Paid for by Kansas State University. For information call 532-1279

KSU Theatre & Dance and the Department of Music Present

Pippin
the musical

November 17-19 at 8 p.m.
November 20 at 3 p.m.
McCain Auditorium

book by Roger O. Hirson
music and lyrics by Stephen Schwartz

Student: $9.50
Seniors: $11.50
Public: $13.50

McCain Box Office
532-6428 weekdays
11:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.
www.ksu.edu/sctd

by the creator of Godspell and Wicked

wildcats
2005-06 BASKETBALL

Friday November 18
vs. Georgia Southern
7pm
Bramlage Coliseum

Show your Missouri football ticket and purchase a G.A. ticket for only $10

Go Proud Go Proud
GO STATE!

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

any size one low price!

now thru dec. 17th only!

PASSENGER Firestone FR380
excellent wet traction
$29.99 P155/B0R13

PASSENGER Bridgestone INSIGNIA SE200
$39.99 P155/B0R13

Whitewall	Price	Whitewall	Price
P195/70R14	$69.99	P215/70R15	$79.99
P185/65R14	74.99	P195/65R15	79.99
P205/70R15	79.99	P225/60R16	99.99

65,000 mile limited warranty*
*black letters, call for other sizes

standard oil change and filter

- install new oil filter • refill up to 5 quarts Kendall®
- Synthetic Blend motor oil
- lubricate chassis (if applicable)

$16.99

Most vehicles add $2.50 for oil disposal fee
Expires 12/17/05

Complete Radiator System Service

- Inspect cooling system & pressure test for leaks
- Refill with correct amount of recycled coolant
- Add sealant / lubricant
- Flush system

Most vehicles help prevent the #1 cause of roadside breakdown

$49.99

Offer Ends 12/17/05

mon.-fri. 7:00 am-6:00 pm sat. 7:00 am-6:00 pm
(*) open sunday 8:00 am-5:00 pm

307 N. 3rd
Manhattan, KS
785-776-8311

90 DAYS INTEREST FREE
Minimum monthly payments required

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

www.ExpertTire.com

Shop Supply charges in the amount of 8% of labor charges will be added to invoices greater than $25. These charges will not exceed $25 and represent costs and profits. Shop supply charges not applicable in CA or NY. Non-qualified discounts, charges, if any are the, closed shown, may also represent costs and profits. Specific product offerings and tread designs may vary. Prices, warranties, car service, credit plans and other offers available at ExpertTire, see affiliated dealers listed for their complete offers and warranties. *If you do not achieve guaranteed mileage, your 90-day tire retailer will replace your tires on a pro-rated basis. Actual road life may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner on a newly installed vehicle. See retailer for details. Restrictions and copy of each limited warranty. Finance charges based on qualified Personal Credit Plan purchases that are paid in full within 90 days. MINIMUM MONTHLY PAYMENTS REQUIRED. Regular Rate: 21.84% Annual Percentage Rate. Delinquency Rate: 24.84% APR. Minimum finance charge $1.00. Credit First National Association reserves the right to change APR, fees and other terms without notice. See store for details.

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings

"My Mom cried."

Once in a Lifetime, in the Collegian the first Friday of the month.

To announce your milestone, visit Kedzie 103. To advertise, call 532-6560.

Royal Purple yearbook
we've got the stories you've got to read.

Buy your copy in Kedzie 103 or call 532-6555.

VOLLEYBALL

K-State looks for upset against No. 1 Nebraska

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State volleyball team will face its toughest test of the season when it squares off against No. 1 Nebraska Saturday in Lincoln, Neb.

Not only are the Cornhuskers (26-0, 17-0 Big 12) undefeated, but they have defeated opposing teams by a three-game sweep in nine of 11 matches at Nebraska Coliseum.

"It will be tough to play up in Lincoln because Nebraska is even tougher on their home court, but we are continuing to improve, so it should be a fun match," junior outside hitter Sandy Werner said.

Werner was one of four Wildcats to garner double-digit kills in K-State's 3-2 win over No. 24 Colorado Wednesday at Ahearn Field House.

Senior outside hitter Agata Rezende, who led K-State in kills with 19 against Colorado, said the Wildcats showed more heart and intensity on Wednesday.

"We want to keep this up and end the season with as much heart as we can," Rezende said.

With only three regular-season matches remaining, K-State

(18-9, 9-8) may need at least one more win to receive an invitation to the NCAA Tournament.

While it will be difficult to defeat Nebraska, Rezende said she has no doubt her team is capable of pulling off the upset.

"We can definitely upset them, and we are going to fight to beat them," Rezende said. "That's our goal for every match."

Nebraska, which received all 60 first-place votes in the Nov. 14 Division I Coaches Top 25 Poll, leads the Big 12 Conference in hitting percentage, kills per game and blocks.

"Unfortunately for us, they are probably one of the best collegiate volleyball teams I have seen in some time, and certainly the best Nebraska team in some time," coach Suzie Fritz said.

However, K-State holds an advantage over the Cornhuskers in one statistical category: service aces.

K-State averages 1.42 aces per game, good for fifth in the Big 12. The Wildcats have had at least one service ace in 220 consecutive matches, the second-longest streak in the nation.

"We knew going into the year that our serving could be one of our identities; one of the things we could be great at," Fritz said. "We have put a lot of time into it."

K-State volleyball players have also invested a lot of time into their studies. As reported earlier this week, eight Wildcats earned All-Big 12 Academic honors, which is the most in Fritz's five-year tenure.

"They make it a priority to be a student and an athlete, and they balance their time well," Fritz said. "I am very proud of the fact they were able to accomplish that."

Sacramento continues streak of bad ideas

Two weeks into the NBA season and the only surprise so far is the Los Angeles Clippers. The

ANTHONY MENDOZA

Kansas City Royals of the NBA are sitting atop the Pacific Division of the Western Conference. Kobe Bryant has reverted back to jacking up shots one after another. The New York Knicks are still a bad basketball team even with Larry Brown as their coach, and now that the hype of the dress code is over (which was a brilliant public relations move by commissioner David Stern to reveal his plan during the height of the World Series), all the sub-plots of the season are done until Kobe versus Shaq part two on Christmas day.

Thank goodness for the Sacramento Kings.

Without their cowbell-toting fans and Las Vegas casino hotel moguls as owners, there would be nothing to talk about besides the one-year anniversary of the brawl between the Indiana Pacers and Detroit Pistons fans that showed what would happen the moment a fan stepped on the court or player ran into the stands.

On Monday, the Kings franchise was fined $30,000 by the NBA for showing derogatory images of Detroit on video screens prior to its home opener against the Pistons on Nov. 8.

As the Pistons were being introduced, the Arco Arena scoreboard flashed pictures of abandoned buildings, burned-out cars, piles of rubble and other negative images.

It did not faze the Pistons, who went out and stomped the last-place Kings, 102-88.

Sacramento's owners, Joe and Gavin Maloof, apologized for the incident and bought full-page advertisements that ran in The Detroit Free Press and The Detroit News apologizing for the depiction Sacramento made of the Motor City.

If this is the first time the Kings' fans or organization had done something stupid, you would have to let it pass, but it's not.

Go back to the first round of the 2000 playoffs. The Kings organization thought it would be a good idea to take an oversized Lakers jersey and light it on fire before the game started. Good idea to get the crowd pumped up, but not so well planned out when you are playing indoors and the smoke does not have much room to escape.

The Lakers appear again with proud moments in Sacramento Kings history. Two years ago, Shaquille O'Neal set a career milestone, scoring his 20,000th point of his career. Unfortunately he did it in Sacramento, where Oakland Raiders fans hang out during the NFL offseason, which usually comes soon to those fans of the silver and black.

O'Neal was presented with the game ball. Unfortunately, it was autographed by a Kings fan with an expletive directed at O'Neal.

That's just a Kings fan being a Raiders fan, but without them, all you could talk about would be the San Antonio Spurs, who just shut their mouths and play, and we know that's no fun at all.

Anthony Mendoza is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

Wildcats open season against Georgia Southern

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Everything starts tonight.

Anticipation for the new season has been on the rise for a long time, and tonight, the K-State men's basketball team will take the first step toward proving it is for real.

After a near miss at a postseason appearance last season, both the players and the coaches realize every game will be important this season in reaching their goal of making a postseason tournament.

The process begins a 7 tonight at Bramlage Coliseum against Georgia Southern University. Georgia Southern enters the contest with a 1-1 record after competing in the 2K Sports Coaches vs. Cancer Classic.

Coach Jim Wooldridge said the Eagles will challenge the Wildcats in several areas, particularly around the perimeter.

"(Georgia Southern is) an explosive team," Wooldridge said. "They may have the quickest perimeter that we will face all year. They're very quick and fast, and they play a very aggressive offensive game. If they get it going offensively, they're tough to handle."

Georgia Southern is led by returning senior guard Elton Nesbitt. Standing only 5-foot-9, Nesbitt has led his team in scoring the past two seasons and is averaging 18.5 points per game so far this season.

After a defensive letdown in the second half of last week's exhibition game against Emporia State, the Wildcats have emphasized guarding the ball and contesting outside shots in the practices since last Thursday.

That work will need to pay off in order to stop Georgia Southern, junior forward Cartier Martin said.

"They have some good guard play," Martin said. "That's one of the things we're working on is to not let those players get loose. We've emphasized staying in front of the ball, contesting shots and

K-State's Clint Stewart dribbles around an Emporia State defender Nov. 10 at Bramlage Coliseum. The Wildcats play at 7 tonight against Georgia Southern.

K-State vs. Georgia Southern

When: 7 tonight
Where: Bramlage Coliseum
How much: For ticket info, call KSU Ticket Office at (800) 221-CATS.

getting the rebound."

To slow down Nesbitt, K-State plans to use several different players against him in hopes that Nesbitt will eventually get tired.

"We're going to throw a little bit of everyone at him," sophomore point guard Clint Stewart said. "He's their go-to guy. He comes off a lot of screens, so we're going to have three or four guys chasing him around during the course of the game."

The Eagles started the season with an

See MEN Page 12

Women's team focuses on building foundation for season

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After seven months of anticipation, game one is finally in sight.

The Wildcats couldn't be happier because now the hype and jitters are history, the team can focus on the beginning of its season, freshman guard Shalee Lehning said.

"The first game, you got to get it out of the way," Lehning said. "We had to build a foundation, and now that we have that, we're just going to keep going up from there."

The Detroit Titans are K-State's first regular season opponent, with whom the Wildcats will match up at 2 p.m., Sunday. Even though Detroit finished with a 9-20 record last season, the Wildcats can't take any team lightly this season, coach Deb Patterson said.

"We know this will be a very competitive team coming into this arena," Patterson said. "They've got some good outside shooters, so they're really going to test us with our defensive ability."

The Wildcats want to pass the defensive test, so they have paid close

K-State vs. Detroit

When: 2 p.m. Sunday
Where: Bramlage Coliseum
How much: Free with student ID attention in practice this past week, senior guard Claire Coggins said.

"We've been working together to be in the help (defense) and not just sticking to our man," Coggins said. "We're working on normal defensive concepts."

Their close win against Emporia State shed light on K-State's inability to set up a consistently effective offense, Lehning said.

"We need to execute more and be more productive each possession," Lehning said. "We have a lot of dry spells during games where we're not very productive, so we've kind of been focusing on that."

Against Emporia State, the K-State guards struggled to get the ball to the posts, and at the same time, the posts had a hard time getting open. For the Wildcats to be successful this season, they realize the importance of getting the ball down low.

"We're going to try and pack it in because if

See WOMEN Page 12

Shalee Lehning drives the lane during the second half of K-State's game against Emporia State. K-State will play Detroit at 2 p.m. Sunday at Bramlage Coliseum.

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

GLF | Men's golf inks 4 for 2006-07 season

K-State men's golf coach Tim Norris announced the signing of four high school golfers for the 2006-07 season. Joe Ida, Ross Geubelle, Brian Larson and Jason Schulte all have signed national letters of intent to join the Wildcat golf program.

"These guys are a great fit for our program," Norris said. "They came in and were really impressed with the facilities and the opportunity to further their game. All of them have their best golf in front of them. They have a strong work ethic and basic fundamentals of the game, and we will try to supply the rest."

The Associated Press

SPT | Kansas Sports Hall of Fame reopens in Wichita

WICHITA — More than three years after closing its doors in Abilene, the Kansas Sports Hall of Fame reopened Thursday at its new site in Wichita.

Memorabilia in the hall includes 52 Sports Illustrated covers with a Kansas team or person with Kansas ties on the first floor of the new 27,000 square foot facility in Wichita's Old Town entertainment district.

Ted Hayes, Kansas Sports Hall of Fame executive director, said the new two-story hall is much larger than its original home in Abilene, which closed in the summer of 2002. The reopening followed a $1.2 million fund-raising campaign.

The first Kansas Sports Hall of Fame was founded in 1961 during the Kansas Centennial Celebration. There are 141 inductees currently enshrined at the hall.

Regular admission is $7 for adults and $6 for students K-12, seniors and military. Children under 6 get in free.

MLB | Owners unanimously approve steroids agreement

MILWAUKEE — Baseball owners voted unanimously Thursday to approve the toughened steroids policy agreed to with the players' association earlier this week.

The union's executive board will decide when it meets Dec. 5-9 whether all players should vote to ratify the agreement or if board approval is sufficient.

Spurred by the threat of federal legislation, players and owners agreed Tuesday to a new deal that would start before spring training. Players would get a 50-game suspension for a first positive test, miss 100 games for a second offense and face a lifetime ban for a third.

The sport's current penalties are a 10-day suspension for a first offense, 30 days for a second offense and 60 days for a third. The earliest a player could be banned for life is a fifth offense.

NFL | Maddox to start; Randle El taking reps

PITTSBURGH — Tommy Maddox went from being the Pittsburgh Steelers' starting quarterback to No. 3 on the depth chart in barely a year's time.

Despite a steep slide that admittedly tested his confidence, he said he always felt he would start again.

What he didn't know was it would be this soon. With Ben Roethlisberger still not ready to return from a knee injury, Maddox will be the Steelers' quarterback Sunday in Baltimore — the third starter in a month for a team that has won its last four games.

CFB | Georgia Tech put on probation for 2 years

ATLANTA — The NCAA placed Georgia Tech on two years of probation Thursday for using 17 academically ineligible athletes in four sports, including 11 in football.

It is the first time Georgia Tech has been placed on probation. The school had proposed self-imposed sanctions, including one year on probation.

Georgia Tech, which argued the violations were not intentional, is considering an appeal of the penalties.

"We are disappointed by the ruling of the NCAA Committee on Infractions," Georgia Tech athletic director Dave Braine said.

The NCAA's Committee on Infractions accepted the school's proposed scholarship reductions in football and men's and women's track.

A violation also was found in the women's swimming program, but the swimmer involved was not on scholarship, so that program was not penalized with a scholarship reduction.

Maddox

THE EDGE

Friday, Nov. 18, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

The man in black

Born as J.R. in Arkansas in 1932, Cash was the son of poor Southern Baptist cotton farmers. By the time he was 12, Cash began writing his own songs. During high school, he began playing for KLCN, an Arkansas radio station.

During his Grand Ole Opry debut in 1957, Cash performed wearing all black instead of the usual decadent outfits most performers wore. He was dubbed "The Man in Black."

Disagreements with Sun Records because of royalties and Phillips' refusal to allow Cash to record a gospel record caused Cash to leave his contract and sign with Columbia Records.

In 1959, Cash began taking amphetamines. He moved to New York away from his family and the law. During one of his tours he met June Carter, wife of one of Cash's drinking buddies Carl Smith.

Carter helped Cash return to the charts with one of his most lasting songs, "Ring of Fire." The song illustrated the hell that Carter and Cash endured.

It was during this time that Cash had a number of run-ins with the law. One of the most infamous was Cash's arrest in El Paso, Texas, where he was caught smuggling amphetamines in his guitar case. During this time, his wife Vivian filed for divorce.

During this time, Cash was making a comeback. He began going into many prisons across the country and performing for the inmates because he deeply sympathized with them. He recorded and released his most popular album, "Johnny Cash at Folsom Prison." Cash also recorded on Bob Dylan's country-rock album, "Nashville Skyline." He began "The Johnny Cash Show" on ABC in 1969, which ran until 1971.

Cash's popularity peaked in the mid 1970s, but it declined into the 80s as country radio began to favor more contemporary artists. Cash also lost his contract with Columbia, forcing him to sign with Mercury Nashville. In 1980, Cash became the youngest inductee into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

However, Cash ran into label problems again and Mercury Nashville didn't renew his contract. In 1993, he signed with American Records. Rick Rubin produced "American Recordings," Cash's first record with American. It performed moderately well commercially, but it got Cash much critical acclaim as well as earning him a younger, more rock-oriented audience.

He released three more albums with American Records, but health problems began to plague his life. Cash's 2002 album, "American IV: The Man Comes Around," earned him much media attention, especially due to his cover of Nine Inch Nails song "Hurt." June Carter Cash died in May 2003 due to complications involving heart surgery. Four months later, Johnny Cash died of difficulties with diabetes. He was 71.

Nov. 18, 2005 marks the release of the James Mangold directed biopic, "Walk the Line", starring Joaquin Phoenix (Johnny Cash) and Reese Witherspoon (June Carter). Cash has left a lasting legacy that is perhaps best summed up by long-time friend Bob Dylan: "In plain terms, Johnny was and is the North Star; you could guide your ship by him — the greatest of the greats then and now." Here's hoping his star won't burn out any time soon.

Sources: www.allmusic.com and www.wikipedia.

By Mark Sibilla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Performing in an outfit of all black, including a long, black, knee-length coat, Johnny Cash is one of the most imposing yet iconic artists in music history, and rightfully so. He is one of the few musical artists with an influence that spans genres and generations. Combining the ragged honesty of folk, the rebellious nature of rock and roll, and the worldly experience of the country singer, Cash created his own musical style and image that has lasted long after his death in 2003.

Cash joined the Air Force during the outbreak of the Korean War. While in the Air Force, Cash bought a guitar and taught himself how to play.

He left the Air Force in 1954, moved to Memphis, Tenn., and married Vivian Lebert.

During this time, Cash landed an audition with Sam Phillips, head of Sun Records. Cash was initially rejected because he had a desire to be a gospel singer but was told by Phillips to "go home and sin, then come back with a song I can sell."

Cash returned with the single "Hey Porter." He was immediately signed, and "Cry Cry Cry/Hey Porter" became his debut single with Sun Records.

Cash moved to Nashville and became close friends with Carter, who had recently divorced Carl Smith. With Carter's help, Cash managed to shake his addictions. In 1968, Cash proposed to Carter during a concert; the two were married in spring of 1968.

Art Courtesy: 20th Century Fox

MOVIES

■ Times for today through Sunday.
■ All times are p.m. unless otherwise noted.
■ () denotes times that are playing Saturday and Sunday only.

"Walk the Line" PG-13
1:15, 4:10, 7:05, 10:00

"Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire" PG-13
12:30, 1:30, 3:45, 4:50, 7:00, 8:10, 10:15

"Get Rich or Die Tryin'" R
1:00, 4:00, 7:00, 9:50

"Chicken Little" G
12:50, 3:00, 5:00, 7:35, 9:35

"Jarhead" R
1:15, 4:10, 7:20, 10:05

"Saw 2" R
1:10, 3:20, 5:30, 7:40, 9:55

"The Legend of Zorro" PG
12:40, 4:00, 7:10, 10:05

"Prime" PG-13
1:50, 4:45, 7:30, 9:55

"Dreamer" PG
1:40, 4:20, 7:25, 9:50

"Elizabethtown" PG-13
1:20, 4:05, 7:15, 10:00

"Zathura" PG
1:00, 3:15, 5:30, 7:45, 10:00

MTV'S TRL
TOP 10

1. Kelly Clarkson "Because of You"
2. Fall Out Boy "Dance, Dance"
3. Mariah Carey "Don't Forget About Us"
4. Black Eyed Peas "My Humps"
5. Shakira "Don't Bother"
6. Madonna "Hung Up"
7. Green Day "Wake Me Up When September Ends"
8. Simple Plan "Crazy (Live)"
9. Lindsay Lohan "Confessions Of A Broken Heart (Daughter To Father)"
10. The Click Five "Catch Your Wave"

Source: MTV

Columnist thankful for readers, snow days, Chuck Norris

Ask the 5th year

Fifth Year, Thanksgiving is coming up. What are you thankful for?

I am thankful for my loyal readers. I know I've managed to piss off a few people, included but not limited to my editor-in-chief and all Republicans. But judging from feedback which I get on campus, a lot of you read and enjoy my weekly column and I am sincerely grateful that you do.

I am thankful for President Wefald canceling school due to snow on several occasions during my time here. My brother went here for seven years during the 1990s and he never had a snow day once.

President Wefald, I know the walk from your residence to Anderson Hall can be very treacherous with snow, so don't ever be reluctant in closing the campus. I'm only thinking of your safety.

I am thankful for the random Chuck Norris fact generator on the Internet. I've set this site as my homepage and I've never had a fact repeated yet. In fact, Chuck Norris is first on a short list of people to replace Bill Snyder as K-State's football coach.

I am thankful for condoms. Not that anyone has ever had sex with me or will ever have sex with me, it's just nice to know that there is protection out there. I take one with me wherever I go.

I am thankful for the compact disc "Yanni Live at the Acropolis." Modern-day classical composers are few and far between. Yanni's music is both easy to listen to and very uplifting. There's never a bad time to listen to Yanni, either, not even when you're trying to entertain a young woman at your place.

I am thankful for Classic Wine and Spirits out near Target.

A 30-pack of Miller High Life is only $10.85. At 36 cents per can, that's almost as cheap as Coke at 25 cents per can. Why drink soda at all? Just start drinking beer instead, assuming you're 21, of course. At this price, there's no reason to not have your fridge half-full of High Life all the time, just in case you want to get drunk on a Wednesday night and watch "High Fidelity."

And lastly, I am especially thankful for graduating in May. It has been a long five years, with many ups and down, many roommates, many C's that should have been D's and many B's that should have been A's.

All in all, I have been happy with my time here at K-State and am thankful for being able to spend time with some of my dearest friends.

Matt Peterworth is a fifth-year senior in architectural engineering. You can e-mail him at edge@pub.ksu.edu.

MATT
PETERWORTH

Looking to listen

Junior perseveres in spite of hearing impairment

By Adam Hanks
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When Miranda Carrell goes to class, she rarely pays attention to the instructor. She comes in, sits down and never listens to a word of the lecture.

That's because Carrell is deaf.

She spends most of her class time watching Natalie Beharry interpret the entire lecture.

As Carrell takes notes in Introduction to Moral Philosophy, Beharry, a certified sign language interpreter with Disability Support Services, deciphers the lecture into sign language — from sound to sight.

Although it may seem foreign to students who are not hearing-impaired, Carrell, junior in history, said communicating using her hands and lips instead of her voice is natural.

"I started learning not too long after I lost my hearing," said Carrell, who can speak despite not being able to hear. "I was learning sign language at the same time I was learning language, so it wasn't hard for me."

Carrell's hearing loss was caused by a case of meningitis when she was four years old.

"I don't have any clear memories of being able to hear normally," she said. "I was too young."

Carrell's first years in school in Wichita were spent in an environment where all the students were deaf. From there, she was able to make the transition into a traditional classroom.

"At first, I was in a special classroom where all the teachers knew sign language, and all the students were deaf," she said. "Then I moved to a class that was half and half. Finally, I went into a mainstream classroom."

After graduating from Wichita High School Southeast, Carrell said she did not have any second thoughts about going off to college.

"It wasn't a hard decision," she said. "I knew that they would provide an interpreter for me, and I always knew that going to college would be something I would do."

With the aid of a cochlear implant and her ability to read lips, Carrell can make it through a basic conversation with someone who does not know sign language. However, she said she still needs an interpreter for class.

"Even if I can understand the instructor, they may not be looking at me or they may be mumbling," she said. "Factor into that group discussions, and it gets hard. An interpreter allows me to understand what's being said at all times."

K-State's Disability Support Services provides three full-time interpreters for the seven hearing-impaired students on campus, said Gretchen Holden, director of Disability Support Services.

"We provide them with sign language interpreters for all of their classes and any activity on campus that's related," Holden said. "Any disability that impacts a student's ability to do well in school, we are going to provide an accommodation of some kind or another if we are requested to do so."

The service allows students to go to college who would have never had the chance 20 years ago, she said.

"Twenty years ago if you were blind, and you came up here, you had better bring your mother with you to read the books to you," Holden said. "But now, times have changed dramatically."

Beharry has been working for Disability Student Services for the past 20 years — 10 years as a freelancer and 10 years as a full-time employee.

"I'm a child of deaf adults, so I grew up with sign language," she said. "I would be considered bilingual, basically."

Miranda Carrell, junior in history, uses a telecommunication device for the deaf to talk on the phone. For class lectures, Carrell uses a sign language interpreter.

Steven Doll
COLLEGIAN

Even though Beharry grew up with sign language in her life, she said she still has to think about what she is doing.

"It's my brain that gets tired before my hands get tired," Beharry said. "When you are interpreting you have to pay attention to everything that's being said. It's definitely a process you have to go through. Changing one language to another is work."

Even though she has grown up deaf, Carrell said some everyday situations are still difficult. "Sometimes I feel left out," she said. "Sometimes I feel like all eyes are on me when I walk into a classroom with an interpreter. But I've got to move past that. I have to brush it off."

Despite the difficulties, Carrell said there are some advantages to being deaf.

"When the girls are screaming and being loud, I can just turn my implant off and not hear what they are saying," she said.

But Carrell's impairment doesn't stop her from enjoying life.

"I am absolutely obsessed with U2," she said. "I saw them in concert last semester. I can't describe it. No one gives a concert like U2."

Even though she has never paid attention to a professor in lecture, she continues to do well in school. Along with history and psychology classes, Carrell has taken two semesters of French.

"It's difficult," she said, "but it's do-able."

One of the reasons Carrell said she is successful is because of the support of her parents, who had to learn sign language when they found their daughter was deaf. Her parents have always been there for her, she said, and have always encouraged her.

"They still use it even though I can understand them very well," Carrell said. "I think that's a great part of why I am as successful as I am."

K-State to partner with school in Beijing

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State has formally agreed to an academic partnership with Beijing's Capital University of Economics and Business.

The agreement between the two universities will allow Capital University students to earn a K-State degree in interdisciplinary social science beginning in fall 2006.

The students will take about 90 credit hours at Capital University and transfer those credits to K-State. The students will finish their degrees with 30 K-State credit hours through distance education, said Betty Stevens, associate vice provost for information technology partnerships and associate dean of the Division of Continuing Education.

"In effect, they won't be any different from other students," Stevens said.

However, K-State faculty will review the Capital University classes to ensure they meet K-State transfer criteria, Stevens said. If necessary, Capital University faculty can adjust their classes to meet the criteria.

An interdisciplinary social science degree is offered both on campus and online to K-State students. It is one of the most popular majors in the College of Arts and Sciences, said Alison Wheatley, assistant dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

"A social science major will select courses that create a thematic emphasis," she said.

The degree requires at least 15 hours at the 500-level or above and at least three credits in four different disciplines, Wheatley said.

The agreement does not only benefit Capital University students, but also K-State students, Wheatley said.

"It will provide our students who are in distance education classes the opportunity to be in classes with international students," she said.

Elizabeth Unger, vice provost for academic services and technology, said she does not anticipate a large class for the program's first year. She said the program may have from 40 to 100 students.

"It's an international experience for our students and our faculty," Unger said.

When officials from the Chinese university visited K-State last week to tour the campus and meet with faculty, they also discussed offering a possible master's degree in engineering, said Richard Hayter, associate dean for external affairs for the College of Engineering.

K-State now has 163 students enrolled in six Web-based graduate degrees in engineering: civil, mechanical, software, electrical and chemical engineering and engineering management.

"We can deliver to China just as well as we can deliver to Topeka, electronically," Hayter said.

Austin Meek
Live Guitarist
will perform Saturday!
8-10 pm

Drink Specials

$1.50 Vodka Poppers
{ Flavored Italian Soda with Vodka }

$4.75 Snuggler
{ Hot Chocolate, Kahua, Peppermint Schnapps }

BLUESTEM bistro
1219 Moro • Manhattan

Ad It Up!
Talk with one of our advertising sales representatives by calling...

532-6560

We are honored to be the carrier of...

- A variety of cellphone accessories for a wide variety of phones
- Colorful face covers for your old and new phones, including flip phones
- Brand-name body oils for long-lasting fragrances
- Sunglasses to protect your eyes from pollens and sunlight
- Puzzle and stunt vehicles for the young and young at heart

776-5300

COOL GIFTS
CELL PHONE ACCESSORIES

ALL AT COMPETITIVE PRICES!
We also do special orders at no extra cost!

NO CONTRACTS
NO CREDIT CHECK
NO DEPOSIT

NO Age Limit

For the Best Prepay Plans on the Planet

Kansas Wireless

MANHATTAN
305 Fort Riley Blvd
785.565.9219

JUNCTION CITY
7th & Washington
785.238.4020

clip & save
FREE Faceplate
When you sign up for Prepaid Service Expires 12/31/05

Phones Start At $19.95

go one better CELLULARONE
Authorized Dealer

President
VP Chapter Relations and Standards
VP Finance
VP Fraternity Relations
VP Education
VP Intellectual Development
VP Communications
VP Membership Development
Panhellenic Delegate
VP Recruitment
VP Risk Management

Jessie Connell
Allison Crook
Lindsey Schullhof
Michelle Dean
Megan Thelen
Megan Reichmuth
Ally Brooks
Abbey Reinhardt
Lindsey Swoyer
Ali Leithaker
Katie Olivas

Congratulations new executive board!
Alpha Chi Omega

Fan Appreciation Sale!

30% OFF

All K-State Clothing
3 - Days Only

Friday, Nov. 18th - Sunday, Nov. 20th 2005

*Limited to in store, in stock purchases only.
Not valid with other coupons or discounts.*

At 3 Locations!

Varney's Book Store
623 N. Manhattan Ave.
(785) 539-0511

K-State Student Union Bookstore
820 Kansas State Union
(785) 532-6583

Varney's K-State Place
100 Manhattan Town Center
(785) 539-8798

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN
Nicholas Whitney, freshman in environmental design, lines up his shot while playing pool Thursday night in the K-State Student Union.

WIN sponsors Breadbasket with event

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students gathered at the K-State Student Union Thursday night for free bowling, free food and a chance to win door prizes.

These activities were part of Wildcat Information Network's first event.

WIN is a student organization that launched its Web site in January 2005.

"I know that on Thursday nights students like to be active, but some students don't go out, or can't get into the bars," Mandy Squib, junior in construction science and management, said. "This is kind of an alternative activity, and we thought it would be really fun."

Students were encouraged to bring canned goods to benefit the Flint Hills Breadbasket.

The number of chances a student had to win a door prize depended on how many canned goods the student donated. Students who did not bring a canned good could register only once.

"We needed a way to kind of promote our Web site, and I was down in the Union playing pool and saw an advertisement that you could rent the Union," Lauren Tice, sophomore in English, said. "I thought it would be really cool to do something like this. And since it's around Thanksgiving, I thought it would be really cool to ask for donations from students."

WIN, sponsored by Student Governing Association, has 12 paid employees and about 20 volunteer employees.

WIN recommends students who visit the Web site sign up as registered users, because they will have access to more information, Tice said.

Students interested in working for WIN can check the Web site for staff meeting dates.

Prescription drug ads raise awareness, use

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"Are you lonely? Do you often feel sad? Do you ever feel like you're on pause, while the world's still going on around you? If the answer is yes, then you might want to consult your doctor about depression."

It is increasingly common to see advertisements, such as this one for an anti-depressant, on television and on the radio, in magazines and newspapers and other forms of media.

The conventional use of medicinal advertisements, promoting disorders like depression, erectile dysfunction and bladder-control problems, has brought with it a debate about the advertising industry's ethical standards.

Sherry Benton, Lafene Health Center counselor, specializes in treating depression. She said she thinks prescription drug advertising can be beneficial for those unaware of possible treatments, but Benton also said pharmaceutical companies — which fund the majority of anti-depressant advertising — don't provide a wide range of solutions for patients.

"I think it's good for people to have information for all treatment options," Benton said. "But I think too much advertising focuses on drug solutions."

Benton, who had a study published by the American Psychological Association in 2003 that focused on college counseling center client problems, said other methods can be as effective as medication for those suffering from mild depression.

"There is very good research that hard aerobic exercise for 30 minutes a day, five days a week, works as well as Prozac for mild depression," Benton said. "There is also very good evidence that you prevent subsequent relapse if you do talk therapy."

Larry Moeller, Lafene physician, treats patients with depression and anxiety. He approaches prescription drug advertising differently than Benton. He said such advertisements serve as a red flag for those afflicted to go see a doctor.

"The general population is more aware, (doctors) are more aware, and that's a safe, effective combination," Moeller said. "I say, 'When in doubt, check it out.' People are realizing they're not crazy and not abnormal."

While it may seem there are more people who suffer from formerly taboo disorders like depression, anxiety and erectile dysfunction, in reality, numbers have not increased.

Advertisements are one mechanism that create a more comfortable environment for people to open up about previously unspoken issues, Moeller said.

"I think it's beneficial," he said of medicine and advertising. "Just as long as you buddy up to your professional to figure things out."

Occasionally, Moeller does meet individuals who are not suffering from any disorder but want medicine or are seeking medicine for recreational purposes.

"People are very clever, and there are some who don't have problems that can pass all the tests they get in their hands," Moeller said. "I feel safe because I have doctor-patient relationships and make my clients come back and see me weekly. Most of the people I see are honest."

Hyun Seung Jin, assistant professor of journalism, recently did a study examining the effects of direct-to-consumer (DTC) prescription drug advertising for erectile dysfunction. The results revealed that people who were frequently subjected to advertisements for erectile dysfunction medications like Viagra were more likely to show acceptance and sympathize with those who have ED.

"People with problems want to hide, but when they realize there are more people suffering from their illness, they see no shame in opening up," Jin said. "I'm not totally supporting DTC advertising, but the research shows itself. Advertising has informational value."

Scottish author visits Manhattan Public Library

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

More than 200 people crowded into the Manhattan Public Library to hear a visiting Scottish author Thursday evening.

The author, Debi Gliori, was at the library, 629 Poyntz Ave., to read her book, "No Matter What," a story about a pair of foxes and unconditional love. She came as a part of Kansas Reads to Preschoolers, a Library of Kansas project.

Glori will be reading her books in Kansas City, Kan., Lawrence and Hiawatha, Kan., today and tomorrow.

Gov. Kathleen Sebelius will be reading the book at local libraries as she tours the state, according to a release from the library.

Before the reading began, Gliori signed copies of her books while the audience filed into the room. Jennifer Adams, Youth Services manager for the library, used a fox puppet to give instructions to the audience before introducing Gliori.

"Can you remember to sit on your bottoms, so that everyone can see?" she said through the stuffed creature on her arm. The kids responded weakly that they would, but several got up and walked around during the reading.

Glori stood on stage and apologized for the sickness she brought with her, a cold she

From Gliori's "Where Did That Baby Come From?"

Where did this baby come from?
Did you fish it out of the sea?
It doesn't swim, it's got no fins.
Come on, let's set it free.

said she received from one of her five children before leaving Scotland.

"I'm going to..." she said, impersonating her daughter, and acted out a loud sneeze between words, "miss you, and here's a little thing to take with you!"

Glori started by drawing a picture of a fox on a large pad of paper on stage. Gliori illustrated as well as wrote "No Matter What," along with several other children's books.

The book is about a pair of foxes: Small, a child, and Large, the older caregiver. In the story, Large happens upon a "grim and grumpy" Small, who believes he might not be loved.

She said the names come from herself and one of her children, who call each other "Small" and "Large."

Glori stopped at every page and talked about the characters. She asked questions of the youngsters at the front.

"What do you do when you feel grim and grumpy?" she said. One child's answer surprised her.

"Hit people," she said, gasping and laughing. She remarked that the child's parent looked rather embarrassed.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Debi Gliori, a Scottish author, reads her book, "No Matter What," Thursday evening at the Manhattan Public Library. Gliori signed autographs and read to a crowd of 200.

As the story progresses, Large coaxes Small from his angry mood. The young fox asks if Large will still love him if he were to change into a bear, among other things. At the end, Large reinforces that Small will be loved "no matter what."

After the first book, Gliori had time for only one more. She chose "Where Did That Baby Come From?" which focuses on a young tiger coping with the existence of his new sibling, and wondering if his parents could "send it back."

After the reading, the families with young children were able to pick up free copies of "No Matter What" on their way out. They were paid for by the Manhattan Library Association, Adams said, which also gave copies to all the registered day care centers in town.

Glori then gave a session meant for older children and adults about writing and illustrating books.

"It was good," Michaela Grubb, 7, said. "It was really funny." Grubb came to the reading with her family.

Matthew Glasgow brought his family, including his daughters, Hannah, 6, and Julia, 4, from Junction City, to see Gliori.

"They behaved like stellar children," he said. "I enjoyed the kids and how much they enjoyed listening to her."

LOVE Advertising?

Work for the Spring 2006 Collegian

Advertising Staff Positions

• Account Representatives

Applications due
3 p.m. Nov. 22

Pick up an application & job description
in Kedzie 103.

We're looking for Reliable, Creative, and Enthusiastic
people to gain advertising experience and have a great time doing so.

REMINDER TO

K-STATE CONNECTION CELL PHONE SUBSCRIBERS

If you are on the K-State Local Plan ($37.95) and leave the Kansas area over Thanksgiving, your minutes do not apply. If you use your phone outside of the Kansas area, you will incur roaming charges.

Please call our office at 532-7001 if you need additional information.

Come and join us from 7 to 9 on Friday, November 18th to help celebrate 20 years of buying, selling, and exchanging books in Aggieville. Enjoy friends, food, music, and 20% off our entire inventory as a big thank you for your encouragement and support.

700 N. Manhattan
785 539 2839

The Dusty Bookshelf

ADVERTISE 532-6560 COLLEGIAN

Opening
Nate Bagby & Seasonal Labor

Dustin Evans
The Good Time Band
tonight!
9pm

Shiner back bottles

LAST CHANCE SALOON

CALL BACKS DEC. 5TH
FLINT HILLS ROOM
2ND FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION

CASTING CALL FOR
THE vagina monologues

AUDITIONS
7 P.M. DEC. 15TH
FLINT HILLS ROOM
2ND FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION

upc

50

Cost of toilet paper can add up quickly

Photo Illustration by Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

By Lacey D. Mackey
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Toilet paper is a vital commodity that gets used up quickly, at least at Katie Dudley's house.

"In a house of four girls, we go through a lot," Dudley, junior in pre-veterinary medicine and biology, said.

Dudley said she and her roommates use about 24 rolls every other week. But to them, toilet paper is helpful in more ways than one.

"It can be used for dusting, a back-up paper towel source, and we have dogs that get into the toilet paper and shred it," Dudley said. "There's endless possibilities."

Dudley does not like K-State's one-ply toilet paper.

"It would be saving more money to get two-ply," Dudley said. "Sometimes the dispenser is broken, so you have to get one square at a time. It's aggravating."

John Woods, director of facilities custodial services, said a lot of fraternities and sororities take rolls of toilet paper, especially during All-University Homecoming and Rush Week.

"That's the reason for the bar with the lock," Woods said. "The rolls disappear."

Woods said one sorority got toilet papered not long ago, and he asked the K-State Police to see if they could find the type of paper that was used.

"We found out who papered it, and we went to the fraternity, and they admitted to getting it on campus," Woods said. "We certainly charged them for it, but they paid for it."

While many complain about the type of toilet paper K-State uses, Woods said the thin sheets are economical and mean more can fit on a roll.

Kathy Azain, custodial manager of housing and dining services, said each building orders a certain number of 24-roll cases each week.

Azain said the number of cases varies for each hall. While West Hall usually orders 12 cases every two weeks, Goodnow Hall orders 10 cases each week.

Each dispenser in a stall holds two double rolls of toilet paper, which can take care of a floor for an entire weekend.

"When we had single rolls, we had to leave several rolls for the students over the weekend," Azain said.

For residence halls with suites, cases are kept on hand for students who want them, Azain said, but many students buy their own.

In the past, floors have had several rolls taken at a time, but Azain said lost toilet paper rolls don't disappear as often.

"We've had a whole floor's paper disappear at one time, but the dispensers lock now," she said. "We used to set the rolls out, but it doesn't happen near as much."

Student releases CD about time crunch

Mikey Needleman, junior in psychology, plays the guitar during one of his songs Thursday evening at Pat's Blue Rib'n Barbecue in Aggieville.

Christopher Hanewinkel
COLLEGIAN

By Megan Green
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Mikey Needleman can tell you what it's like to release a compact disc.

Needleman, senior in psychology, released his CD, "Ain't Got No Time."

"It's basically about running late, not having any time," Needleman said. "I think a lot of people can connect with it in a lot of ways."

His music has been compared to the acoustical versions of Vertical Horizon or Sister Hazel, with edgier rhythms, Incubus and John Mayer.

Needleman said his career began when his father gave him his first guitar in fifth grade.

"After that I started picking up other instruments, such as the drums, bass, keyboard and percussion and learning to play them," he said. "I have a problem — if there is an instrument in the room, I will try to learn how to play it."

Needleman said he played all the instruments on his CD.

He said it took him more than five years to complete the album because he kept adding to it, but now that it is complete, he is working on another CD.

"I have a lot more inspiration," he said. "I'm playing around more and getting a feel for what people like."

Needleman's a regular guest at Joe's Tap Room on Fridays. His friend, Spencer Holk, sophomore in hotel and restaurant management, said Needleman enjoys his performances.

"He gets the crowd really into it and he has a fun time up there," Holk said. "It's really fun to see him. He has a talent."

Since the release of Needleman's CD, he said he has been getting feedback from people and a better idea of what they like. He said he has gotten such a good response that he always carries CDs and flyers with him because people ask where they can get his CDs and where he plays next. He even has fans on Facebook.com.

"I always play his CDs for everybody," said Alissa Millard, sophomore in open option and founder of the Facebook.com group. "It's awesome and everyone should listen to it."

Needleman said he writes his songs about things that have happened to him or things he looks forward to experiencing.

"I might write a love song, but it's not about a person I know," he said. "It might be about a person I don't even know yet, but am looking forward to knowing."

Needleman said he enjoys playing for others.

"I love playing music for people," he said. "I think the coolest thing is when I am singing one of my songs on stage and people are singing with me."

Now Open

The Salty Rim
SALSA & MARGARITA BAR

Specializing in... Margaritas & Salsa

1204 Moro 539-8910

CALLING ALL FANS

Play the Wide Receiver Challenge

CHECK OUT THE HOTTEST TAILGATE PARTY ON CAMPUS!
• Free Samples • Sweepstakes • Prizes for your chance to win great prizes!

GET IN ON THE ACTION
Saturday 11/19, 9am - 1pm in Parking Lot 9

TAILGATE
CENTRAL

Visit WWW.TAILGATE411.COM • Your Tailgating Authority!

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Friday, Nov. 18, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 11

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7213.

LIVE ONLY half block from campus and walk to class. Huge one-bedroom basement apartment. $400 plus electric (all other utilities paid). Available now with short term lease. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex. Close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810. (785)537-2255.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$490. three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice, 515 Bluemont, available January, no pets, laundry included, $620 plus utilities, (785)313-0462, leave message.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX. Available now for short-term lease. Small pets okay. $550. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

120
For Rent-Houses

EVERYTHING NEW. Three-bedroom, two bath house with garage. West of campus. Available soon. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath duplex. One-half mile from campus. Washer/ dryer included. Single property owner. No pets. No smoking. 1410 Houston. Number Two. (785)776-9260.

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/ month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or malonerental@yahoo.com

HAVE YOUR own bath-room. Four-bedroom, four bath. Walk-in closets. BRAND NEW DUPLEX. Close to Aggieville and campus. Available now. Emerald Property Management. (785)556-6899.

THREE-BEDROOM. THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/ dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

145
Roommate Wanted

BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Beautiful three-bedroom, two bath house near Westloop. No deposit or lease. Furnished if needed. (785)587-9997.

JANUARY- AUGUST: Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Phillip (913)302-0402.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Available immediately. 1006 Laramie. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. (913)775-0327.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted: $230/ month. Four-bedroom house next to campus. Pets allowed. Washer/ dryer. Chelsea (314)660-1942.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (785)202-0678. Available December.

145
Roommate Wanted

FEMALE FOR January-May. Two-bedroom house, close to campus, $275/ month plus utilities. Washer/ dryer. Call Megan (785)906-0131.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. Available December 15. January to May. $290/ month. Pets allowed. 615 Thurston. Call (785)341-1073.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom apartment half block from campus. $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Call (785)342-1554.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: three-bedroom house for spring semester. Rent $320 plus utilities. Very nice house. (316)990-2046.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

LOOKING for a roommate for a four-bedroom duplex. Available as soon as possible. 1112 Vattier. Call Jason (785)443-3306.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED. four-bedroom house, block from campus, $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

SUBLEASER FOR one of four-bedrooms, University Crossing. Begins January. $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/ dryer furnished. (316)650-6563.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

$365/ MONTH. University Crossing. Cable, washer/ dryer, furnished. One bedroom open in two-bedroom apartment. Please call (913)909-5448.

1111 VATTIER. Two-bedroom, $550 a month. Close to campus. (913)645-6321.

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January- August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $330/ month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300 plus one-third utilities. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

ONE-BEDROOM APART-MENT. $325/ month, water and trash paid. Close to campus. Available January 1 (negotiable). Call (573)718-7321 or aj37333@ksu.edu

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available January. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM $395, cable/ water paid. Laundry/ pool/ hot tub on site. Small pets. Quiet. Available now. (785)375-3015.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: Two-bedroom apartment. Chase Manhattan apartments. Will pay January rent if signed by December. Call (785)871-0738, (785)871-1553.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER WANTED: Founders Hill, four-bedroom. $308.75 a month plus bills. Very Nice! Call (785)317-1875 or (785)317-5145.

SUBLEASING A two-bed-room close to campus. For more information call (620)276-4940.

150
Sublease

TWO-BEDROOM APART-MENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

160
Office Space

AGGIEVILLE RETAIL/ office space for lease. Handi-Corner Shopping Center. Off-street parking. (785)539-0350. (785)313-2976.

200 service directory

220
Weight Loss & Nutrition

I LOST 55 pounds in eight weeks! See pictures and read my story online www.loseweightfnast.com.

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

BARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

CATTS GYMNASICS in Wamego is seeking recreational and team coaches. Starting pay $8.00 plus/ hr depending on experience and availability. Call Angie at 785-456-8488 if interested.

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com.

ECONOMIC DEVELOP-MENT Coordinator. Full-time position available in Wabaunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansanet.net.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

PROGRAMMER, CIVIC-PLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

310
Help Wanted

LUNCHROOM/ PLAY-GROUND Supervisors- Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005- 2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half- two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROMO HELP needed this Saturday 4-6 hours before football game. Pay range $15- $17/ hour. Contact Josh or Verna (314)729-1565.

ROYAL PURPLE YEAR-BOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

STUDENT NEEDING ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS Inc. at Kansas State University is accepting applications for a part-time position for Macintosh technicians beginning the first week of January 2006. The tech support team maintains about 50 Macintosh workstations, providing software support as well as performing general hardware maintenance. Applicants should have experience with Mac OS X, OS X Server and its server administration software. Experience in any or all of the following is a plus: Radmin, Shell scripting and general troubleshooting ability along with knowledge of MySQL, PHP, and the Apache web server. Pay starts at $7.50 per hour with the opportunity to advance. Only students enrolling in spring semester 2006 for at least six hours at Kansas State University can be considered. Applications are available in 113 or 115 Kedzie or online at <http://spub.ksu.edu/tech/application.html>. Application deadline is 5 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18, 2005. Please include your spring 2006 class schedule. Return applications to 113 Kedzie.

SPRING BREAK! Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlessummersortouts.com.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

6X10 DOG-KENNEL. $45, 26" ladies bike, $15, Architect leather carrying case, table, miscellaneous supplies. $30 or best offer. Call (785)776-8901, evenings.

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email hacman72@hotmail.com.

420
Garage/Yard Sales

HUGE SALE! Saturday, November 19th, 8am- 12pm. 2151 Fort Riley Boulevard, Collectables, furniture, and household goods.

465
Tickets to Buy/Sell

NEED GENERAL Admis-sion ticket for Missouri football game. Call (402)230-0215.

NEED ICAT ticket to the MU game. (785)410-5384.

500
transportation

510
Automobiles

1998 DODGE Neon, white, two-door, five-speed, air-conditioning, dependable transportation. Great car for new driver or work vehicle. Very clean, in great shape, 75k asking $3000. (785)587-9242 for details.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

*1 SPRING Break Web-site! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.Let-sureTours.com or (800)838-8202.

SPRING BREAK- Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks- $50 Deposit- (800)234-7007 www.endlessummersortouts.com.

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

630
Business Opportunities

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.50
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.95
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.65
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.90
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103
(across from the
K-State Student Union).
Office hours are
Monday through Friday
from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
This office is open
except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account
with Student
Publications Inc.
Cash, check,
MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on
all returned checks.
We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in
your ad, please call us.
We accept responsibility
only for the first
wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item
before your ad has expired, we will refund
you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge,
we'll put a headline
above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin board

100 housing/ real estate

200 service directory

300 employment opportunities

400 open market

500 transportation

600 travel/ trips

032
Shout
Outs

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

I LOVE Twiggy M.!

ASHLEIGH & Ryan forever, you argue so much let's say, for today. Figure it out so I can get some sleep.

COACH SNYDER will be missed.

FACEBOOK HAS turned into a natural disaster!

FOUND: YESTERDAY by Eisenhower two squirrel nuts. Call Anderson Hall to claim.

HANG UP your cell and...DRIVE or pay attention.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY Kim B., have a great weekend!

HEY RICK, I'll take whatever is leftover of you. I think you are HOT!!

JUST QUIT smoking everybody and have a BBQ. Drinks go better with BBQ.

THE WEATHER turned so quickly, I don't think the squirrels got to gather enough nuts, but there are plenty still out there.

WHERE IS the party this weekend? I bet at coach's house.

THERE ARE enough inattentive drivers without adding a cell phone to the mix of things.

WALTERS, YOU know if you never look, you never find. Your secret admirer is right before your eyes. Clue number three.

WHEN WE miss coach, we can just go to the Snyder Family Stadium, you don't think the Wagoner's will mind.

1111 VATTIER. Two-bedroom, $550 a month. Close to campus. (913)645-6321.

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January- August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $330/ month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

In a study, the Big 12 Conference ranked third in basketball coliseum safety among the 32 Division I schools poled.

SECURITY | Oklahoma bombing causes officials to take more precautions

Continued from Page 1

everyone in charge of facilities had to take notice of," he said. "It will cause us to rethink security measures for years to come."

A study by the United States Sports Academy looked into security precautions that should be done during all phases of stadium operation, based on 21 concepts.

This includes the presence of bomb-sniffing dogs and 24-hour security, a formal evacuation plan, as well as pre-event training, security patrols in the parking lot and coordination with local and state police.

In basketball coliseums, the Big East Conference had the highest score. The Big 12 was third of 32 poled Division I schools.

Students who have previously attended games at Bramlage, however, said they believe the security is more than adequate.

Jonathan Stancek, sophomore in mathematics, said despite the Oklahoma incident, he isn't concerned about his safety.

"With the amount of effort security does searching bags and whatnot, I'm comfortable nothing severe is going to happen at a ballgame," he said.

SNYDER | National attention brings more students to Manhattan

Continued from Page 1

would tell you that home game weekends in Manhattan are like having six or seven extra holiday weekends, because the economic impact is that huge," Butler said.

One year after Snyder was hired, Manhattan's population was listed at 37,712. Since then, its population has soared to 47,842 — an increase of more than 10,000 residents. In addition, K-State student enrollment has increased from 18,120 to nearly 24,000.

Butler said he believes a large part of these increases directly result from Snyder's ability to win football games.

"The national media exposure that he has brought not only to K-State, but to Manhattan, has really helped put Manhattan on the map," he said. "It has brought a huge amount of attention to Manhattan, and that is something you cannot buy."

"As a chamber and as a city, we could not afford to purchase that kind of positive media coverage in our wildest dreams. That's worth hundreds of millions of dollars in the 17 years that he's been the coach."

Bob Krause, vice president for institutional advancement, said Snyder's contributions will never be replaced.

"Hundreds of thousands of lives, fans, players — that's his legacy," Krause said. "You don't replace that."

WOMEN | Patterson looks for forwards to step up in post

Continued from Page 6

you can get the inside game going, that will open up the outside shooters," Lehning said.

While pushing the ball to the posts does establish opportunities on the perimeter, Coggins said it will be crucial for the forwards to get the ball in the hoop once they get it.

"I think our posts are going to have to be huge for us this year," Coggins said.

With more than a week in between games, the Wildcats feel more comfortable entering Sunday's opener at Bramlage Coliseum.

"We've had a whole week-and-a-half of practice, and we're taking huge steps every time we step on the court," Coggins said.

MEN | Georgia Southern comes off loss to Texas Tech in 2K Sports Coaches vs. Cancer Classic in New York

Continued from Page 6

89-75 victory over the University of Portland, and then followed that with a 74-61 loss against Texas Tech.

Georgia Southern proved to be a tough test for the Red Raiders, battling to a 33-33 tie at halftime. However, Texas Tech shot 54.7 percent overall to pull away in the second half. K-State recently completed a 2-0 exhibition stint in which it defeated the EA Sports All-Stars and Emporia State.

The Wildcats have won 10 of their last 11 home openers, and Wooldridge is 4-1 in season openers.

Without a doubt, Georgia

Southern will provide the Wildcats with their toughest test of the young season, Stewart said.

Stewart added that starting the season off with a victory would help to boost the team's confidence level.

"It's very big," Stewart said. "You want to win every game. Starting the season, 1-0 looks a lot better than 0-1."

Wooldridge said he realized the importance of each game in the progression of the season.

"You build your season one game at a time," Wooldridge said. "This team we're playing is a good basketball team. We'll have to play well. There's a lot at stake, but there's a lot at stake with every game."

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

NEED CLASSES?

Classes run from January 12 - May 5, 2006

◆FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92300
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

◆FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96701
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-6:55 PM

FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health
CD-ROM/Internet
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92902
Fees: UG 2 hr $523

FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96702
Fees: UG 2 hr $390
1/12/06-5/4/06
U 5:30-6:55 PM

FSHS 300: Problems in FSHS:
Parenting in Contemporary Society
Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92905
Fees: UG 3 hr $772

FSHS 301: The Helping Relationship
On-Site
Robert Gellman
Ref# 96710
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 310: Early Childhood
On-Site
Katie Thompson-Laswell
Ref# 96714
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 343: Communication Sciences and Disorders
On-Site
Michele Hart
Ref# 96703
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
MW 5:30-6:45 PM

◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles
Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92911
Fees: UG 3 hr $772

◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles
On-Site
Katie Daniels
Ref# 96704
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96715
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 506: Middle Childhood and Adolescence
On-Site
John Murray
Ref# 96705
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 510: Human Development and Aging
On-Site
Gayle Doll
Ref# 96706
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
W 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 524: Professional Seminar in Early Childhood Education
On-Site
Anna Nippert
Ref# 96707
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
W 5:30-8:20 PM

FSHS 528: Exceptional Development in Early Childhood
On-Site
LuAnn Hoover
Ref# 96716
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
W 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 540: Curriculum for Cognitive and Language Development of Young Children
Internet
Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke
Ref# 92917
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

FSHS 541: Curriculum for Emotional, Social, and Physical Development of Young Children
Internet
Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke
Ref# 92918
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

FSHS 550: The Family
On-Site
Vera White
Ref# 96708
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 552: Families and Diversity
On-Site
Jahrael Burrell
Ref# 96711
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 579: Directed Field Experience Orientation
On-Site
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96709
Fees: UG 1 hr $218
1/12/06-5/4/06
U 5:30-6:20 PM

FSHS 580: Directed Field Experience
Guided Study
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96712
Fees: UG 8 hr $1419.60
1/18/06-5/3/06

FSHS 585: Professional Seminar in Family Life Education
On-Site
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96713
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 670: Working with Parents
CD-ROM/Internet
Mary DeLuccie
Ref# 92920
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 700: Fireworks-3: Anger Management in Adult-Child Relationships
Internet
Charles Smith
Ref# 92926
Fees: UG 3 hr $897; G 3 hr $1128

FSHS 700: Assessment and Observation for Early Childhood Educators
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92927
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 704: Foundations of Infant Mental Health
Internet
Bronwyn Fees
Ref# 92932
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 740: Play Facilitation
Internet
Bronwyn Fees
Ref# 92932
Fees: UG 3 hr $772; G 3 hr $1003

FSHS 810: Child Development
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92937
Fees: G 3 hr $1053

GERON 315: Introduction to Gerontology
Internet
Gayle Doll
Ref# 92941
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

GERON 620: Mental Health and Aging
Internet
Janice Dinkel
Ref# 92943
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

◆HN 132: Basic Nutrition
Internet
Sharon Moreos
Ref# 92946
Fees: UG 3 hr $872

HN 400: Human Nutrition
Internet/CD-ROM
Richard Baybutt
Ref# 92953
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HN 413: Science of Food
Internet
Delores Chambers
Ref# 92955
Fees: UG 4 hr $1071

HN 620: Nutrient Metabolism
Internet
Richard Chiang
Ref# 92960
Fees: UG 4 hr $1071; G 4 hr $1379

HN 630: Clinical Nutrition
Internet
Shandria Godwin
Ref# 92962
Fees: UG 5 hr $1320; G 5 hr $1705

HN 820: Functional Foods for Chronic Disease Prevention
Internet
George Wang
Ref# 92967
Fees: G 3 hr $978

HRIMD 130: Careers in Nutrition and Dietetics
Internet/CD-ROM
Deb Canter
Ref# 92971
Fees: UG 1 hr $324

HRIMD 220: Environmental Issues in Hospitality I
Internet
Lynn Riggins
Ref# 92973
Fees: UG 2 hr $573

HRIMD 342: Food Production Management
Internet
Melissa Schrader
Ref# 92978
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HRIMD 422: Cost in Controls in Hospital Operations
Internet
Hau Li-Tzang
Ref# 92979
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92346
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
1/16/06-3/13/06
M 6:30-9:00 PM

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92347
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
3/27/06-5/6/06
T 6:30-9:00 PM

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92348
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
1/17/06-3/14/06
T 6:30-9:00 PM

◆ Indicates the course has been approved for university general education requirement.

Register online at:
www.dce.ksu.edu

or in person at the Division of Continuing Education, College Court Building, Monday-Friday, 8 am to 6 pm.

For more information, Call 1-800-432-8232 or (785) 532-5568

1200 Minutes Two Lines Only $49⁹⁵

ALSO GET TWO FREE LG-3200 PHONES NO REBATE NO KIDDING

With 2-year agreement

- Free calling between Cellular One customers
- Free nationwide long distance
- Free nights and weekends

Now that's going one better.

Take advantage of these great deals by visiting your local Cellular One store or authorized dealer.

go one better. CELLULAR ONE

Cellular One Stores

Manhattan
1115 Westloop Place, 537-4646
100 Manhattan Town Center,
776-1414

Authorized Dealers

Manhattan
K-State Connection
Telecommunications Dept.
East Stadium, K-State Campus

For Business and Government Accounts call 877-566-3222

Promotional Offer: $9.95 additional fee offer is available for a limited time when added to 1-year calling plan $49.95 or higher, and is subject to change without notice. New activation and 2-year service agreement required. $14.95 additional line offer is available for a limited time when added to 1-year Home and National calling plan $49.95 or higher, and is subject to change without notice. New activation and 2-year service agreement required. Maximum 4 lines per account. Equipment available while supplies last. Mobile-to-mobile numbers apply to calls between Cellular One customers while on the 19-State network (i.e., Cellular One Coverage Area as designated on Calling Plan and Coverage Brochure). Night numbers apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 a.m. Monday through Friday. Weekend numbers apply to calls made from 8:00 p.m. to 5:59 a.m. Saturday, Sunday, and Weekends. Numbers apply only while on the Western Wireless Corp. 19-State network. Free nationwide long distance applies to calls made from the home calling area to anywhere within the United States. Ported numbers used are rounded up and charged at the full minute rate. Calls answered first when the network begins to process the call (before the phone rings or the call is answered) through an activation of the call. Credit approval, $35 account fee and standard 2-year service agreement and a mandatory activation provision apply to each phone. A $200 early cancellation fee applies. Not available in all areas. Taxes, surcharges, roaming, long distance or other add charges apply and may vary. Regulatory and Administrative surcharge of $1.79 is our charge and not tax. © 2005 Western Wireless LLC. Offer restrictions may apply; see brochures and store for complete details.

Enroll Now in Courses That Can Be Taken Anytime, Anywhere!

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

GAMEDAY

Friday, November 18, 2005

Photos Page 3 | Replacement Page 4 | Snyder's last game Page 5 | Seniors Page 6 | Baldwin and Smith Page 7 | Fans Page 8

"I will be as big a K-Stater as anybody and will continue to help and support this university in all the ways that I possibly can."

Bill Snyder
K-STATE COACH

K-State (4-6, 1-6) vs. Missouri (6-4, 4-3)

1:10 p.m., Saturday

History: Missouri leads 55-30-5

Radio: K-State Sports Network — 1350AM, 101.5FM

Bill Snyder will coach his final game at K-State after 17 years with the program. Snyder will retire as the school's winningest coach with a record of 135-68-1 prior to Saturday's game against Missouri.

What they are saying about Snyder

Sen. Pat Roberts, R-Kan. — "There are two kinds of coaches: those whose primary concern is their win-loss record and a select few who are teachers and by example, are leaders of young men. Bill Snyder has been highly successful at both. He has led us out of the Death Valley days of defeat to great and lasting victories."

Hayden Fry, former head coach, Iowa — "He did a wonderful job for me for 17 years as an assistant coach. He is fundamentally the best coach I have ever seen."

Joe Paterno, head coach, Penn State — "He is one of those people that other people don't quite appreciate because of the fact that he is not an outgoing guy. He is not a guy that promotes himself, but he is a great football coach."

Bob Stoops, head coach, Oklahoma — "I have tremendous respect for the work ethic, the determination and the thought that went into every practice and game plan by coach Snyder. It has been written about and talked about over a lot of years, but I don't know if anyone truly has a grasp on the turnaround that occurred at Kansas State and how far down the program was when he took over."

Brent Venables, associate head coach, Oklahoma — "Nobody is more respected in the coaching profession for the job he has done at Kansas State and the positive impact he has had on many young guys' lives. It's a sad day that he's leaving the profession."

Lloyd Carr, head coach, Michigan — "At Kansas State he accomplished what many might have thought was impossible, as he was able to build a program that consistently was of championship caliber. He was good for the game."

Jim Leavitt, head coach, South Florida — "Nobody has impacted a program in college football any more than coach Snyder has at Kansas State."

Senior linebacker Ted Sims — "He really taught life lessons, and I think that is the biggest thing I've learned. In a lot of programs, there is a lot of messing around and joking around, but here at K-State under coach Snyder, it's like a career."

Redshirt-freshman quarterback Allan Evridge — "I never saw it coming to be honest with you, just because of how meticulous he was and how hard he worked. In the recruiting process, other coaches used to say he might be gone, but I never could have fathomed that would happen."

Junior linebacker Maurice Mack — "(I learned) determination to keep working hard and how to keep fighting and never quit. You can determine how well you do in life and in football by how hard you work."

Senior offensive lineman Jeromey Clary — "The man is a legend. He opened up doors for many young kids in this world and gave us a chance to continue playing football and to continue making our dreams come true. I honor the guy and I cherish him, and I can't thank him enough for everything he has done for me and other players alike."

Senior fullback Victor Mann — "It really hits you deep when you really think about everything he's done for this program and for college football. If there is one thing he's done, it's making sure he's kept everything in line the way that he wanted. He was on top of his game at all times."

Senior defensive tackle Derek Marso — "I played for the toughest head coach ever. I got to spend five years with him, and the reason I'm where I am today is because of him."

Compiled by Michael Ashford and Mark Potter

VS.

OFFENSE

☐ So K-State can rush. The Wildcats racked up 248 rushing yards against Nebraska, the second time in Big 12 Conference play they have gained more than 100 yards on the ground. Redshirt-freshman quarterback Allan Evridge rushed for a career-high 134 yards and two touchdowns to lead K-State against the Huskers.

☒ Missouri's offense begins and ends with senior quarterback Brad Smith and rightfully so. Smith leads the Big 12 in rushing yards, averaging 108 yards on the season. However, in the Tigers' last two games on the road — losses at Kansas and Colorado — Smith has been held to an average of 22 yards rushing.

DEFENSE

☒ This season, K-State has lost three games by three points or less, and it has been the play of the defense that has given the Wildcats a chance to be competitive in those games. K-State's strong suit has been against the run, where the Wildcats are surrendering 124.0 yards per game and an allowing 3.4 yards per rush. K-State ranks No. 30 nationally against the run.

☐ Missouri's defense has given up an average of 367.0 yards per game this year to rank No. 55 in the nation, compared to K-State's No. 42 ranking. Junior linebacker David Overstreet is the leader of the Tiger defense and one of the better linebackers in the conference. Overstreet is averaging 7.7 tackles a game this season. Missouri gives up an average of 28.3 points per game.

SPECIAL TEAMS

☐ One word can describe K-State's special teams play against Nebraska: horrid. The Wildcats had an extra point and field goal blocked, fumbled the snap on another extra point attempt, and failed on a two-point conversion. This can not happen Saturday for K-State to win. The Wildcats are also the second worst punting team in the Big 12, averaging a paltry 32.1 yards per punt.

☒ The Tigers are the league's third best punt return team, averaging 13.5 yards per return. Considering the weakness of the Wildcats' punt unit, this could pose major problems for K-State. However, Missouri's kickoff coverage unit ranks last in the Big 12, giving up 38.6 yards per kick return. This is a potential weakness for the Tigers and an area K-State must try to exploit.

PREDICTION

This game is quite possibly the biggest must-win game in school history, even though it has no bearing on K-State's postseason future. Sending coach Bill Snyder out with a win is a must, and the team knows this. However, the players must remember they still have to play, and the Tigers have no plans to roll over. But K-State wins this game for Snyder.

— K-State - 30, Missouri - 14

Wohler's Used Furniture
Visit Wohler's for used:
Furniture, Antiques,
Appliances and
miscellaneous
items for all needs.
615 N. 3rd St.
539-3319 10-6 Mon.-Fri., 10-5 Sat.
Closed on Sun.

ONE HOUR MASSAGE $35
w/ KSU Student ID
BODY FIRST
2308 Anderson Ave. (785) 587-8300

Enrollment

- Financial Aid Offered to Students who Qualify
- Evening Course
- Manicuring Classes
- Call to Enroll Today!

Crum's
Beauty College
512 Poyntz Ave.
Manhattan, KS
785-776-4794

GO WILD CATS!
for the Wildcats
on the
Wildcats
776-2252 Aggieville

Featuring
NEW Fall FASHIONS
Gei Gei's
1201 Moro
537.0330
Located in Aggieville

2 nights of music
Nov. 18-19, 2005
Friday & Saturday
Blue River Band 9-1
RC McGraws
2317 TUTTLE CREEK BLVD.
BLUE HILLS SHOPPING CENTER
776-9588

FREE Activation & Case or cord
$36 value
$15 value
Limited time. See our store for details
Sprint
HOURS 537-1476
M-F 9am-8pm 614 Ft. Riley Blvd.
SAT 9am-7pm MANHATTAN
SUN 11am-6pm
RadioShack

Join us in Cheering on the Cats!
For Every Gift Giving Occasion
Lilacs
on the Prairie
327 Poyntz, Manhattan KS
565-0900

Images of the year

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGEIAN
K-State coach Bill Snyder talks into his headset during K-State's home loss to Colorado.

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGEIAN
Bill Snyder shakes hands with Texas A&M's Dennis Franchione after K-State's game against the Aggies at the newly-named Snyder Family Stadium, formerly KSU Stadium.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGEIAN
K-State coach Bill Snyder points to a fan before the Wildcats played Iowa State in Ames, Iowa, on Nov. 5. The Cats lost to the Cyclones 45-17.

"The deal is, K-State is far bigger than Bill Snyder. This is about a university that is very, very unique and very, very special, and I was just blessed with the opportunity to be a small part of it."

BILL SNYDER — COACH

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGEIAN
On the sidelines at the Nebraska game, coach Bill Snyder talks with quarterback Allan Evridge Nov. 12 in Lincoln, Neb. The Wildcats lost the game 27-25.

ROGER & MELODY, OWNERS INVITE YOU TO SHOP AT THE Grand Ol' Trunk

Thrift Shop & Bookstore
1/4 mile south of the viaduct on HWY 177
Hours: 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mon-Sat - Sun 12 to 5
Credit Cards Welcome 1304 Pillsbury Dr.
785-537-2273 Manhattan, KS 66502

Junior • Petite
Blue Jeans
Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch, and more!
$2.50 - $4.95
Clip this ad for 50%
off any one clothing item
QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used
CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL
The Apple's Heart
"Where Kansas Meets New York"
113 S. 5th • downtown.pawnee

New
Donors Can Earn $65 This Week!
EASY INCOME
TODAY!
zlbplasma.com
We make it easy for you to earn money today with your life-saving plasma donation.
ZLB Plasma Services
1130 Gardenway • Manhattan, KS 66502
(785)-776-9177
Fees and donation times may vary. New donors please bring a photo, ID, proof of address, and a Social Security card.
Good for You. Great for Life.

10% discount
with student ID
Now Delivering!
Largest Italian buffet in the state of Kansas!
Valentino's
Grand Italian Buffet
3003 Anderson • 539-6444

HUNAM
Chinese Restaurant and Mongolian BBQ
Fall Specials
$1 off All You Can Eat Buffet & Mongolian BBQ FREE
Enjoy the Best Chinese and Mongolian BBQ in Town
1304 Westloop • 539-0888 • 539-8888
Local Delivery with $9.00 min. purchase
1 coupon per customer • Can not be combined with any other offers

Find K-State Gifts and Jewelry Online
K Gifts
kgifts.com
Good Luck, Cats!

Happy Valley
CHINESE RESTAURANT
LUNCH SPECIALS $4.99
Includes: choice of 2 entrees, rice, soup, appetizer
DINNER SPECIALS
Includes: entree, appetizer, salad, rice, soup, kim chee, daily dessert
$6.95 & up
DINE IN & CARRY OUT
1120 Laramie
539-9888

Need-Money?
New Name... Same great deals!!
We pay top dollar for:
Tools, electronics, movies, CDs, guns, music equipment, jewelry, & sporting goods
Two Locations
501a Ft. Riley 3110 Anderson
537-1803 565-0046
AMERICAN CASH EXCHANGE
CASH ADVANCE & PAWN LOANS

Short Stop 2010 Tuttle Creek • 776-0767
3rd St. • 539-3510
NOVEMBER SPECIALS
$15.⁹⁴ Coors Light - 30 pack $13.³⁹ Keystone - 30 pack
$15.⁷⁹ Bud Light - 30 pack $13.³⁹ Busch Light - 30 pack
$14.⁹⁹ Miller Lite - 30 pack $11.⁸⁴ Natural Light - 30 pack
$6.79 Marlboro Cigarettes 2 pack $9.99 3 pack
2 reg. Snickers $1 All 7-UP 20 oz. Flavors 79c

Weiser's big decision

K-State Athletic Director Tim Weiser talks during a press conference after coach Bill Snyder announced his retirement Nov. 15, while Snyder looks on.

AD charged with task of finding replacement

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When coach Bill Snyder announced his retirement from coaching Tuesday, one reason he gave for leaving was that the program's recent struggles have "taken some of the glow off the program."

For 17 years, Snyder has been the constant for K-State football.

His retirement announcement left a cloud of doubt over the program, one that Athletics Director Tim Weiser said would not be addressed until after Saturday's game against Missouri.

"For this week we won't be having any comments about candidates or processes," Weiser said. "This week is to celebrate coach Snyder and what he's accomplished. I won't be having any comments until after the season about where we go or how to proceed with it."

Snyder's retirement in mid-November does not leave K-State in a recruiting bind, junior running back Thomas Clayton said, because national signing day is not until February, giving Weiser and his staff time to pick a successor.

"The fact that he announced his retirement right now, in early November, it gives whoever comes in plenty of time to get recruits in," Clayton said. "So often you hear a coach just getting in there in January and signing day is in February — you're not able to get recruits. Right now we still have ample to bring in whomever it is that we need to bring in. We'll be fine."

At his regular news conference last Sunday, Snyder said he is "not unhappy with where the recruiting stands right now, but for us it is still reasonably early."

He added that recruiting is often easier when teams have struggled because it gives potential recruits the opportunity to have an effect right away.

"I go back to the early '90s and we had a lot of young guys because all of a sudden they saw, 'Wow, if your program hasn't done well of recent then you probably stand a better chance to get on the field much quicker,'" Snyder said. "A lot of young guys make decisions for different reasons. One of the reasons a lot of youngsters make their decision on his how quickly can they get on the field."

"For every downside, there is an upside somewhere, but sure it has an impact on young guys who say, 'Is this a good place to be?'"

K-State will return 18 starters next year.

The majority of the offense will be back and the defense loses only defensive ends Tearriss George and Scott Edmonds.

Edmonds played in only one game this season, a 45-17 loss to Iowa State in Ames, Iowa.

Edmonds missed last week's game against Nebraska because of a virus.

Leading tackler Marcus Watts, who Snyder moved in the off-season from wide receiver to free safety, said he wants a new coach as soon as possible, but he is also willing to wait for a decision.

"We know it's something that's not going to happen overnight," Watts said. "It's going to be a process. If it doesn't happen before the end of the school year, then we're going to go home for Christmas break and just have to sit and wait."

"It's going to be a long next two months though, but it's not something we can think about right now though."

Potential candidates

"For this week, we won't be having any comments on candidates or processes. I'm not going to have any comment until after the season about where we go and how we proceed with it."

Tim Weiser
ATHLETICS DIRECTOR

Phil Bennett
Head Coach, SMU
Bennett worked under Snyder from 1999-2001 as defensive coordinator before taking over an embattled SMU program.

Dana Dimel
Grad. Assistant, K-State
Dimel coached at K-State from 1987-96, and served as head coach at Wyoming and Houston.

Jim Leavitt
Head Coach, South Florida
Leavitt coached at K-State from 1990-95. The Bulls are three victories away from earning a BCS bowl berth.

Gary Patterson
Head Coach, TCU
Patterson was born in Larned, Kan., and played at K-State from 1981-82. He has led TCU to a 10-1 record.

Darrell Dickey
Head Coach, North Texas
Dickey, a former K-State quarterback, led the Wildcats to the 1982 Independence Bowl. It was K-State's first bowl.

Bob Elliott
Def. Coordinator, K-State
Elliott served as an assistant at Iowa before joining Snyder at K-State in 2002 as defensive coordinator.

Chuck Long
Off. Coordinator, Oklahoma
Long played at Iowa from 1982-85, when Snyder served as the Hawkeyes' offensive coordinator.

Brent Venables
Assoc. Hd. Coach, Oklahoma
Venables played at K-State from 1991-92 and coached at K-State from 1993-98.

Thanks from our family to yours.

We're proud to be part of a select group of American Family insurance agencies to be recognized by J.D. Power and Associates for providing "An Outstanding Customer Experience" as a Distinguished American Family Insurance Agency. The best part is the recognition comes from you, our customers. Let us show you our commitment and dedication to providing you with outstanding customer service and in finding the right insurance to fit your needs.

C. Clay Taylor Agency
An Outstanding Customer Experience
J.D. Power and Associates certified
Distinguished Insurance Agency
(800) 289-6343 Toll Free
(785) 339-4949
ctaylor@amfam.com

Jim Feeney Agency, Inc.
An Outstanding Customer Experience
J.D. Power and Associates certified
Distinguished Insurance Agency
(800) 937-1064 Toll Free
(785) 776-4518
jfeeney@amfam.com

Jon Harper Agency
An Outstanding Customer Experience
J.D. Power and Associates certified
Distinguished Insurance Agency
(877) 776-1855 Toll Free
(785) 776-1855
jharper@amfam.com

American Family Mutual Insurance Company and its Subsidiaries Home Office - Madison, WI 53703
www.amfam.com

AMERICAN FAMILY
INSURANCE
All your protection under one roof™

EYECARE
OF MANHATTAN
Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jared M. Waite
Doctors of Optometry
(785) 776-9461 • 1-800-432-0036
• Most Insurances Accepted
• Walking Distance From Campus
• Outside Prescriptions Filled
• 98% Off Contact Lenses For Some Day
Proud Wisconsin supporter since 1938

EYECARE
OF MANHATTAN
Up To $30 OFF
On Disposable Contact Lens Programs
OR Complete Eyeglass Packages
Coupon must be presented at time of appointment.
Not valid with any other coupon or insurance discounts.
(785) 776-9461

CINCH REVERSIBLE JACKETS
10% OFF
for the upcoming cold weather!
Offer Expires: Nov. 20, 2005
(785) 776-6715
8426 E. Hwy 24
2 1/2 miles East of Manhattan
Mon.-Fri. 10 - 6 Sat. 10 - 5
Lee's Western Wear

We've got the stories you've got to read.
The Royal Purple yearbook is available in Kedzie 103. Stop by or call 532-6555.

25¢ pizza
Domino's Pizza
® call for details
776-7788
Please mention # when ordering.
we deliver free to you
www.campusfood.com

#1 One Large Cheese or 1-Topping Pizza $7.77	#2 One Medium 2-Topping Pizza & a 20 oz. Soda $7.77
#3 One Small 1-Topping Pizza & Your Choice of Bread Item $7.77	#4 10 pc. Buffalo Wings or kickers & Your Choice of Bread Item $7.77

EXPIRES 12/31/05
DEEP DISH $1 MORE • SM. HANDTOSSED ONLY • ADD. TOPPING EXTRA

Choose a window seat, not the driver's seat...
Manhattan to Kansas City
Low Fares Roundtrip
All Day • Every Day
Call 1.800.428.4322 for flight info or visit usairways.com
MANHATTAN REGIONAL AIRPORT
5500 Fort Riley Boulevard
3 Miles West of Manhattan on K-18 Highway
MANHATTAN REGIONAL AIRPORT
online at www.ci.manhattan.ks.us/Airport.asp
MANHATTAN KANSAS
MANHATTAN REGIONAL AIRPORT

Memorable moments

K-State vs. KU, Oct. 9

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

K-State vs. KU, Oct. 28, 1995

Collegian archive

K-State vs. North Texas State,
Sept. 9, 1989

Collegian archive

Snyder sendoff

Wildcats want to honor coach by defeating Missouri Tigers

By Michael Ashford
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Before Tuesday, K-State's game Saturday against Missouri seemed like a mere formality.

No matter the outcome against the Tigers, the Wildcats (4-6, 1-6) will not go to a bowl game, will finish the season with a losing record and will be left with many questions as to what went wrong for a second straight season.

But after Tuesday's announcement that coach Bill Snyder will retire following Saturday's game after 17 years as head coach, the matchup with Missouri could rank as one of the biggest and most memorable games in school history.

Coupled with the fact that 17 seniors will be playing their final game, and it makes for one giant concoction of memories.

But will it be so much that it becomes a distraction?

"If I don't take my phone off the hook, it'll be tremendously distracting," Snyder joked during his retirement press conference. "I think we can get through it. I have great confidence in our coaches and great confidence in our players, and I have confidence that I can put some things on the back burner and stay focused on what's out there for this preparation."

With so much emotion surrounding Saturday, the fact that the Wildcats still have a game to play is seemingly lost in the hype.

And it's not as if the Wildcats will be facing a gimme opponent.

Missouri (6-4, 4-3) will have plenty of motivation of its own. Should Missouri beat K-State, Iowa State beat Kansas next week and Colorado lose to Nebraska next week, the Tigers will capture their first-ever Big 12 Conference North title.

The Tigers have already wrapped up a bowl bid and boast the Big 12's leading rusher in senior quarterback Brad Smith. Smith is averaging 108 rushing yards per game and is third in the league in total offense at 285 yards a contest.

However, the Wildcats think they have what it takes to slow Smith, who is in danger of leaving Missouri having never beaten the Wildcats in three previous tries.

Smith's style is something the Wildcats are very familiar with, free safety Marcus Watts said, and that could help K-State's chances on Saturday to get a win for Snyder.

"You worry about Brad Smith, if you look at total yards and touchdowns and everything on their offense," Watts said. "As much as we see guys like that in our system with (quarterback) Allen Webb, and then playing (Texas A&M's) Reggie McNeal, it's good because you've seen it and you know what to be prepared for."

More than stopping Smith, the K-State players' goal for Saturday is simple: get Snyder his 136th win and provide a foundation for the future.

"We're going to win this game," junior running back Thomas Clayton said emphatically. "We have no choice. We've got to send him off the right way and also set the tone for the underclassmen coming back next season."

Despite the emotional circumstances surrounding Saturday's game, it is not yet a sellout.

A call to the KSU Ticket Office Wednesday afternoon revealed 6,000 tickets remained for Saturday's game, down from 7,000 at noon Tuesday.

Senior linebacker Ted Sims said he knows the Wildcats fans won't disappoint, and Sims said he is excited to see what the atmosphere is like at the newly-renamed Snyder Family Stadium for Snyder's last game as K-State's head coach.

"You know it's going to be a packed, loud house," Sims said. "I can't imagine what it's going to be like for the fans on the very last game of his career. It's going to be something else; something I'll always cherish and never forget. It's something you'll be able to tell your grandkids 10, 15, 20 years from now."

Should the game become a sellout, it would be K-State's first since Oct. 23, 2004, when K-State defeated Nebraska 45-21 in front of 52,234 fans.

One thing is for certain, Mack said, and that is that there is something to play for this Saturday.

"What more could you say about coach Snyder? He's had a great, great career, and there's probably no other coach that's a better coach than coach Snyder," Mack said. "No other team, even the Big 12 Championship team, can do what we can do this year, and that's give coach his last win. Everybody's got that extra motivation to go out and try to win this one for coach."

Sun Connection

DESIGNER SKIN

1125 Laramie
776-2426
Buy 1 Month Unlimited Tanning, get 2 weeks FREE
(w/ lotion purchase)

Royal Thai Cuisine

One of the best quality restaurants in town

Very beautiful & relaxing atmosphere

Variety of choices, including seafood & vegetarian

Large portions at affordable prices

Lots of seats available, even for large parties.

No reservations necessary.

Hours: 11am-10pm, 7 days a week

3003 Anderson Ave. (in plaza west, by Alco)

539-0399

Go State!

Win or lose, the difference in score is the amount you save!

If the difference is

10 Points

You get 10% Off

With Student ID

Valid M-F the week following home games

Grizzly's Grill

3003 Anderson Ave Suite 945

Mon-Thurs: 11-9
Fri-Sat: 11-10
Sunday: 11-2:30

7 TVs

Cold Beer

Good Friends

Before, During & After The Game

Finn's Pub

Manhattan's Favorite Irish Pub!

317 Poyntz-Downtown Manhattan

www.finnspub.com 785-776-2119

4.99 STEAK NIGHT
EVERY FRIDAY
4 to 9:30 p.m.

3.00 BAHAMA MAMAS

GOLDEN WOK BUFFET

All You Can Eat

Grill Table • Mongolian BBQ • Free Soda

Seafood Dinner Buffet Daily • Desserts • Large Salad Bar • Big Party Room

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

3003 Anderson Ave. in Manhattan (behind ALCO)

587-9111

Coupon Good for

$1.00 OFF

Golden Wok Buffet

(1 Coupon Per Person) or 10% off with a student I.D.

$1

SAVE $1

on your next purchase of a 16 oz. Blizzard® Flavor Treat

Two locations 1015 N. 3rd St. 3116 Anderson Ave

Offer good only 11/18, 19, 20

Consumer must pay any sales tax. Limit 1 per coupon and 1 coupon per customer. Redeemable only on items selling at regular price. Good only at Manhattan stores.

$1

$1

$1

Southside Auto Sales

2002 Ford Focus

4 cyl. Auto, Air

$5,895

1999 Honda Accord

4 cyl. Auto, Sunroof

$6,995

2000 Mazda Protege

4 cyl. Auto, Air

$4,995

1998 Ford Ranger

4.0L, V-6 Auto

$4,795

2000 Chevy S-10 Blazer LT

4.3 V-6, Leather

$6,495

'00 Olds Cutlass
4DR, Auto, 5BK	$4,995
'98 Chevrolet S-10 Blazer LT
4.3 L 4x4, Leather	$4,995
'00 Chevrolet S-10 P.U.
V-6, Auto, Air	$4,995
'00 Chevrolet Grand Voyager
3.3L, Loaded	$5,495
'98 Jeep Grand Cherokee Limited
6 cyl., Leather, Loaded 89K	$5,995
'97 Toyota Camry LE
V-6, Leather, 92K	$5,495
'96 Eagle Vision
4DR, Auto, Loaded	$2,650

425 Yuma, Manhattan, KS
785-776-2170 800-837-2170

Seniors' goal: win 1 more game

Final game an opportunity for 17 seniors to leave winners

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For five years, senior defensive lineman Derek Marso has poured his life into K-State football.

Saturday at Bill Snyder Family Football Stadium, Wildcat fans will have a chance to show their appreciation for Marso and the rest of K-State's senior class, along with coach Bill Snyder.

Marso said he wants to defeat Missouri, but not for himself or the other seniors — he wants to win for his coach.

"A win would be huge," Marso said. "There are going to be a lot of emotions out there, and hopefully we can get it done."

Of course, no one better understands what it means to pour his life into K-State football than Snyder, who will pace the west sideline one last time on Saturday. Much has been made of the 20-hour workdays Snyder has put in since being named K-State's head football coach on Nov. 30, 1988.

The 66-year-old Snyder called a private meeting Monday night to inform players and coaches of his decision to retire after 17 seasons at K-State.

After hearing the news, senior offensive tackle Jeromey Clary and other players stayed to discuss Snyder's decision.

"We said, 'Let's send him out the right way,'" Clary said. "Forget the seniors, he's been here for 17 years, and we need to get him a victory on his way out."

With last week's 27-25 loss to Nebraska in Lincoln, Neb., K-State has now dropped five consecutive games, its longest skid since Snyder's first season, in 1989.

Ironically enough, 1989 was also the year of Missouri's last win at then-KSU Stadium.

Despite this season's frustration, something could be salvaged with a win against Missouri, senior linebacker Ted Sims said.

"We want to win for coach Snyder, this being his last game," Sims said. "It's going to mean everything."

Senior fullback Victor Mann added that Saturday's game has a chance to mean something great in the history of the K-State football program.

"Knowing that we can put ourselves in history with one of the greatest coaches, and just to have the opportunity to be the class and the team to have his last win here at K-State, that means a lot to everybody," Mann said. "Even though we are not going to a bowl game, for us to get a win this weekend, that will put us at the top."

Fans will bid farewell to 17 seniors who possess a combined record of 40-19 (.612) over the last four seasons, including K-State's only Big 12 Conference Championship in 2003 with K-State 35-7 victory over then-No. 1 Oklahoma in Kansas City, Mo.

Sims, an integral part of the championship season, said he hopes these seniors will be remembered as winners.

"We've been through the biggest ups and downs," Sims said. "We are going to be remembered as winners, I think, especially if we go out this last game and play with the effort and enthusiasm we should."

While Mann admitted to losing sleep over Snyder's announcement, he said the Wildcats will be focused on game day.

"This will give us a little more focus, knowing what we are going into and what we have at stake," Mann said.

Tuesday, Snyder expressed confidence in his players' ability to lay distractions aside in preparing for Saturday's game.

In addition, he noted how special it will be to coach his last game on Senior Day.

"We have all these young people who are going to be here for the last time, I just happen to be fortunate enough to go out with them," Snyder said.

"We have all these young people who are going to be here for the last time, I just happen to be fortunate enough to go out with them."

Bill Snyder
COACH

Victor Mann stiff-arms a Nebraska defender while running into the endzone for a touchdown Nov. 12 at Lincoln, Neb.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

Right: Derek Marso celebrates to Marcus Watts during the Colorado game Oct. 29.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

Below: Senior offensive lineman Jeromey Clary fights off a defender during K-State's game against Marshall on Sept. 10. Clary will play his last game Saturday at the newly-named Snyder Family Stadium.

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Seniors

Name	Position	Martinez, Jesse	P/WR
Griffith, Tony	DB	Saba, Ayo	FB
Davis, Surrell	DB	Clary, Jeromey	OL
Sims, Ted	LB	Mann, Victor	FB
Edmonds, Scott	DE	George, Tearrius	DE
Evans, Justin	QB	Dennis, Davin	WR
Alsop, Carlos	RB	Porter, Maurice	DB
Butler, Matt	LB	Tetuan, Jesse	DB
Simmons, Marvin	LB	Marso, Derek	DT

sudoku
On the Classified
Page

So Many Numbers

83

FRIDAY {Dance & Country Party}
SATURDAY {Country Party}

$2.50 Miller
Lite Ponders
$2.00 Tequila
Shots

$2 Cover for 21 & up
$5 Cover for 18-20

LONGHORNS
SALOON

Adelphiville Manhattan

Krystallos

NOW CARRYING
Free People
AND Miss Me

MON-SAT: 10-6
SUN: 12-5

405 Poyntz - Downtown Manhattan

wildcats
2005-06 BASKETBALL

Sunday, Nov. 20
vs. Detroit
2pm
Bramlage Coliseum

Show your 11/18 men's basketball ticket or Missouri football ticket and get in for only $1

Performing at Half-Time:
THE MARCHING COBRAS!

GO STATE!

you can finally buy a book
WORTH ITS PRICE
Kansas CAMPUS PHONE BOOK
On sale in Kedzie 103
8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

SAY TEETH![®]
www.sagerdental.com

TEETH WHITENING AND CLEANING

SMILE ENHANCEMENTS
BY THE PROFESSIONALS

LAST MINUTE
APPOINTMENTS

CALL NOW
785.537.8823

Cornerback Baldwin K-State's silent leader

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Bryan Baldwin attempts to tackle Oklahoma's Travis Wilson during their game against Oklahoma on Oct. 1.

Sophomore producing in 1st year as starter

By Cedrique Flemming
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If you talk to the members of K-State's football team, some players on the defense are vocal when it comes to leadership.

But players like sophomore cornerback Bryan Baldwin are the kind who lead by example.

Baldwin's work ethic earns him the respect of his teammates, junior linebacker Maurice Mack said, and Mack also said Baldwin has impressed him with how determined he is to improve his game and how dedicated he is to the team.

"He is one of those guys that are pretty determined to come in and work hard," Mack said. "He is going to give you his best effort no matter what."

Baldwin, a 5-foot-11, 185-pound native of St. Louis, made his first career start in K-State's first game of the season against Florida International, and is one of just 11 Wildcats to have started every game this season.

He has 37 tackles this season, 26 solo and 11 assisted, which puts him seventh on the team to go along with one sack, an interception and six pass deflections.

Baldwin said he understands his role on the defense as a silent leader and said he gives everything he has day in and day out to help the defense.

"I definitely think that I have a lot of hard work and dedication," Baldwin said. "I'm not too much of a talk guy, but I try to lead by example."

Baldwin said he is confident at his position and holding his own on his assignments because he trusts his teammates to take care of their responsibilities, and he also knows they will be there for him in case he makes a mistake.

"I try to do all my assignments and do my job the right way," Baldwin said. "I have faith in everybody else around me that they will take care of their assignments too, which makes it easier for me to do my job."

Baldwin's sack this season was for 15 yards on Oct. 15 against Texas Tech, a game where he had a career-high three pass breakups and five tackles.

He has recorded six tackles in a single game twice in his career, both coming this season.

His first six-tackle game came Oct. 1 against the Oklahoma Sooners, where he also had a pass breakup, with the other coming Nov. 5 against the Iowa State Cyclones.

Last week against the Nebraska Cornhuskers, he recorded four tackles, a pass breakup and his lone interception, which he returned for 36 yards.

Senior defensive tackle Derek Marso said Baldwin has a quiet demeanor, but also possesses a world of talent.

"He's a silent dude and not very vocal, but he leads by example," Marso said. "He is going to be one of the best cornerbacks to come through here."

5 Games to watch

Collegian football picks

	Michael Ashford (19-5)	Matt Girard (15-9)	Anthony Mendoza (14-10)	Mark Potter (14-5)
K-State vs. Missouri	K-State 30-14	K-State 35-6	K-State 28-13	K-State 27-13
No. 21 Texas Tech vs. Oklahoma	Texas Tech 40-35	Texas Tech 31-21	Texas Tech 38-31	Oklahoma 28-24
Oklahoma State at Baylor	Baylor 14-10	Baylor 21-10	Baylor 17-3	Baylor 17-10
No. 9 Ohio State at No. 17 Michigan	Michigan 30-28	Ohio State 28-24	Ohio State 28-24	Michigan 21-17
No. 8 Alabama at No. 11 Auburn	Alabama 21-20	Auburn 6-3	Auburn 21-17	Auburn 30-13

AP Top 20

- | | | | |
|------------------|------------------|-------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Southern Cal. | 6. Notre Dame | 11. Auburn | 16. Fresno State |
| 2. Texas | 7. Virginia Tech | 12. UCLA | 17. Michigan |
| 3. Miami (Fla.) | 8. Alabama | 13. West Virginia | 18. Louisville |
| 4. LSU | 9. Ohio State | 14. Georgia | 19. South Carolina |
| 5. Penn State | 10. Oregon | 15. TCU | 20. Florida |

Cat defense focused on Smith

By Cedrique Flemming
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While K-State is mourning the retirement of coach Bill Snyder, the Missouri Tigers are still coming to town Saturday for the final game of the regular season.

"I still cannot believe he is not going to be coaching us next year," linebacker Maurice Mack said, "but at the same time, we still have a game to play this weekend, and we have to prepare for this game knowing that this is coach's last. We want to win it for him."

Missouri is coming off a 31-16 win last Saturday against Baylor, which gave the Tigers their sixth win of the year and made them bowl eligible.

But while Missouri running back Tony Temple had a career-high 100 yards rushing against Baylor, he is not the Tigers' most prolific threat.

That distinction goes to quarterback Brad Smith.

Smith is averaging a Big 12 Conference-leading 108 yards rushing per game and has 12 rushing touchdowns this season — not to mention his 177.4 yards per game through the air and nine passing TDs.

Safety Marcus Watts said the Wildcat defense has to be ready for everything Smith can do.

"He is 75 percent of their offense, so we have to worry about everything," Watts said. "You have to know where Brad Smith is at all times."

Last year, K-State defeated Missouri 35-24, as Smith finished the game 15-of-34 for 205 passing yards with two TDs. He also had 58 rushing yards.

But the story for Smith has been all about this season.

He became the first quarterback in Division I history to reach 8,000 yards passing and 4,000 yards rushing in a career, and his 4,068 rushing yards are a Division I quarterback record.

Smith also owns the Big 12 total offense record with 12,337 yards.

The Missouri senior threw for 234 yards and rushed for 246 against Nebraska on Oct. 22, and his 480 yards of total offense set the school record.

The key to shutting down Smith this weekend will be minimizing big plays, senior defensive tackle Derek Marso said.

"We just have to know that he is human and he can be stopped," Marso said.

The Joy of the Party

Enjoy tempting tastes like Beef with Broccoli. Crisp veggies. And everyone's favorite Orange Flavored Chicken, a Panda Express original. Our flavors are ready to go — hot, fresh and fast.

Panda Express.
Chinese for: Yummy.

Now Open until 8:00 PM

Located in your K-State Student Union pandaexpress.com

FREE ENTRÉE ITEM

Buy a tasty 2 or 3 -Entrée* Plate and get an extra entrée item FREE.

*Excludes shrimp entrées. One coupon per person per purchase. Not valid with any other coupons, discounts or promotions. No cash value. Offer valid at KSU Panda Express. Expires 6/1/06 Promo%Disc9

Mustang Gentleman's Club

Open 8 pm to 2 am • 7 days a week

HOME OF THE ULTIMATE GUYS NIGHT OUT

GROUPS OF 10 OR MORE
CALL AHEAD AND RESERVE A TABLE.

18 & Over

WEDNESDAY:
AMATEUR NIGHT
$50-$100 Cash Prize
You keep the tips!

THURSDAY:
DOLLAR NIGHT
$1 Wells
$1⁵⁰ Coors / Coors Lt. Bottles
$1.75 Pitchers 48 oz

ALWAYS HIRING NEW GIRLS

Small Hours Big Money

785-238-7571
1330 Grant, Junction City, KS

Bring this ad in for a
FREE sample
when tanning!

1122 Laramie539-3742

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Smooth-talking

5 Periodical, for short

8 Ashen

12 Right-hand person

13 Bobby of hockey lore

14 Notion

15 1994 Jodie Foster film

16 Unnecessary

18 Layered rock

20 Culpable

21 Tubular pasta

23 "CSI" evidence

24 Lax

28 Donate

31 Keatsian verse

32 Hackneyed

34 Newsmen

35 Piglet's papa

37 Clear, as the night sky

39 Lair

41 Old portico

42 Stand in the way of

45 Commanders

49 Eternal

51 Manner of walking

52 Seed cover

53 Shelter

54 Wilderness trek

55 Libretto

56 Indeed

57 Dispatched

DOWN

1 Bunch of cronies

2 Debt security

3 Between jobs

4 Central American nation

5 Horror-movie "stars"

6 Exist

7 Goller Norman

8 Accumulating, with "up"

9 Capital of South Australia

10 For fear that

11 Uncomplained

17 Flop

19 Sedimentary deposit

22 "Virtue — own reward"

24 Corn holder

25 Fuss

26 Kitchen shortcut

27 Rankings

29 Anatomical

30 Type units

33 Love god

36 Thaw further

38 Music to a comic's ears

40 Zero

42 Datum, for short

43 Exhaust

44 Silthery

46 Bar

47 Toll road

48 Leftovers recipe

50 Witness

Solution time: 24 mins.

SCAMPCHILIANG

COLLARHOLLER

BLAISEANKARA

SOYACARDCOR

STIRAMA

ICEINCHARIA

MASSACHUSETTS

PLOPTIMEESS

TAMVATS

BYEOVENHEMP

AERATEISRAEL

SAIGONSHERRY

ESCORTTOWNS

Saturday's answer 11-21

1234567891011

121314

151617

181920

212223

24252627282930

31323334

35363738

394041

42434445464748

495051

525354

555657

11-21CRYPTOQUIP

LJ YZPBQZFC GZGEHHC
W TXY ZTG ZJ QWBEGI
PLXGY. SZTHF CZT YEC
IB'Y TX-SBWG-LJLBF?
Yesterday's Cryptiquip: IF A HORDE OF PUBLIC AGITATORS WERE WORD GAME PLAYERS, MIGHT THEY BE SCRABBLE-ROUSERS?
Today's Cryptiquip Clue: J equals F

WEEK IN REVIEW
7 things you didn't know 7 days ago

West Virginia bans grain alcohol

Jeff Gentner | THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A customer shops near the remaining bottles of grain alcohol, Wednesday at Liquor Mart in Charleston, W.Va. The West Virginia Alcohol Beverage Control Administration has banned the sale of grain alcohol in the state, calling it a public health and safety hazard.

West Virginia banned grain alcohol on Wednesday because of concerns from college officials and others. The state's Alcohol Beverage Control Administration stopped stocking the 190-proof grain alcohol at its warehouse, which provides the state with all liquor. The ban was announced Wednesday, however, the state asked retailers to pull the product from the shelves. West Virginia University spokeswoman Becky Lofstead said she couldn't recall any specific incidents with students involving the product, but applauded the agency's efforts.

SENIOR ISLAMIC MILITANT KILLED
Israeli troops killed Amjad Hanawi, a senior Hamas Islamic group militant, on Monday. Troops arrived at Hanawi's home and ordered everyone out, according to Palestinian witnesses and the Israeli military. Several of Hanawi's assistants surrendered, but he came out shooting and troops returned fire. Palestinian witnesses said he was shot as he tried to climb a fence.

NEGOTIATIONS OPEN UP BORDER
Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice announced Tuesday that a deal was reached on the border crossings in Gaza. Rice said the deal was a "big step forward" in Israeli-Palestinian relations. She presided over the final round on talks. Under the deal, the Gaza-Egypt border will be opened tentatively Nov. 25 and construction of a Gaza seaport would begin. The deal will allow Palestinians to travel between the West Bank and Gaza in bus convoys through Israel.

TIPS TO AVOID FOOD POISONING
The government offered tips on Thursday on how to avoid food poisoning this Thanksgiving. At the top of the list was washing hands, keeping raw food separate from cooked food, using a thermometer and storing leftovers in small portions. Food poisoning makes 76 million people sick each year, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

ASTHMA MEDICATIONS UNSAFE
The Food and Drug Administration warned Friday that three asthma drugs, Advair, Serevent and Foradil, could increase the risk of severe asthma attacks and even death. The FDA said the drugs should be prescribed only if other medications do not control the asthma. GlaxoSmithKline PLC, which makes both Advair and Serevent, issued a statement disagreeing with the FDA's advisory. The company said it would "address the differences of opinion." Schering-Plough Corp., which markets Foradil in the United States, said it is working with the FDA to update the warning label.

TROOPS TO STAY UNTIL NECESSARY
President Bush said Saturday there would be no early withdrawal of troops from Iraq because "sober judgment" must prevail over emotional calls. This added to the debate in Congress over his Iraq policies and the timing of any U.S. withdrawal. Bush spoke at the end of a three-day stay in South Korea.

CAMPAIGN WORKER SHOT
Egypt's second round of voting was weakened by widespread violence on Sunday. Police said a campaign worker, Mohammed Khalil Ibrahim, was shot and killed in Alexandria and witnesses reported many injuries. The clashes were between supporters of the Muslim Brotherhood and the ruling party. There are 1,706 candidates competing in 72 constituencies in this round of elections and results are not expected until Monday. Khalil Ibrahim was reportedly a driver for an independent candidate.

Source: The Associated Press

The blotter
Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, Nov. 17

- Crystal Haven, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, Lot 165, was arrested at 9:57 a.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.
- Derek Braddock, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, Lot 374, was arrested at 10:20 a.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.
- Toni Reis, 2140 Sloan St., was arrested at 2:40 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $20,000.
- Brent Garrison, 716 Humboldt St., was arrested at 4:45 p.m. for two counts of failure to appear. Bond was set at $309.
- Gregory Foster II, Kansas City, Mo., was arrested at 9 p.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- LaJuan Pitt, 714 N. 8th St., was arrested at 11 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $139.

Friday, Nov. 18

- Melissa Drouhard, 1424 Beechwood Terrace, Apt. 3, was arrested at 2:05 a.m. for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $500.
- Lee Pace, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 4:05 a.m. for battery, criminal damage to property and witness intimidation. Bond was set at $1,500.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- An effective web searching class will be from 2:30 to 3:15 p.m. today in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ryan Rehmeier at 1 p.m. today in Ackert 324A.
- The Collegium Musicum will be performing selections from the Renaissance era at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.
- The KSU Jazz Bands will perform a free concert at 7:30 tonight in McCain Auditorium.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2005

Dr. Ryan J. Kueker

Optometrist

20% OFF

Includes: Eye Health Exam, Contact Lens Exam, One Year Supply of Contact Lenses, Six Months of Follow Up Visits, Solution and 15% Off Prescription Sunglasses and Glasses.

Contact Lens Programs

Call (785) 456-2236 for details

12 minutes from KSU Campus

Little Caesars

HOT-N-READY

pizza

$5.00

LARGE

WITH PEPPERONI

Carry Out Only

ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!

1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Travel Safely During Thanksgiving Break.

Clafin Books and Copies

My beer is gone, I bombed my test... but I just saved a bunch of money on my movie rentals.

Rent 1 Movie or Video Game at full price, Get 1 for 1/2 off!

Expires: 12-31-05

Digital Shelf

706 N. 11th

776-6959

Fat's

BAR & GRILL

Mondays

$2.00 bottles

$2.00 shots

$1.50 wells

12th & Laramie

Aggieville

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing

Totally confidential service

Same day results

Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

MEAL MANIA

Quiznos Sub

HHMM...TOASTY!

This coupon entitles you to:

FREE CHIP/DRINK WITH PURCHASE OF ANY SIZE SUB

Expires: 12-31-05

DELIVERY 539-9500

Not valid on the Big Deal or Cheese 2 name, limited time offers, or delivery orders. The original coupon must be presented when ordering. Limit one coupon per order. The sale is combined with any other offer or coupon. Taxes not included. No cash value unless provided by law. Fine print value is 1.00%. Value of promotional items varies by location. No substitutions. Valid in participating restaurants only. Copyright 2005 Quiznos LLC

Shakin' Up Turkey Day!

10% OFF WITH K-STATE ID

$1 OFF WITH THIS AD

Try our specialty coffees

Try our Pumpkin Custard Pie or Pumpkin Custard for Thanksgiving

104.7 special every Mon. & Tues. $1.04 cups and cones

Shake Cakes are here!

KANSAS STATE

2005 VOLLEYBALL

vs. Baylor

7pm - Wednesday, Nov. 23

Ahearn Field House

K-STATE STUDENTS, FREE ADMISSION WITH YOUR STUDENT I.D.

Ways to avoid holiday weight gain

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For some, eating healthy during the holidays is a difficult task. But by taking a few simple steps, party-goers can avoid gaining holiday pounds and enjoy the taste of the season.

1. PRACTICE HEALTHY COOKING, OFFER TO BRING A DISH

While some people may devote their holiday eating to their Aunt Martha's to-die-for fudge or pecan pie, the American Diabetes Association encourages party attendees to offer bringing a healthy dish to a party. This is a simple way to guarantee that non-glutinous foods will also be available for those watching their food intake.

Home & Garden Television food experts suggest these fat-fighting baking substitutions: Use three tablespoons of unsweetened cocoa powder to replace one ounce of unsweetened chocolate in desserts; crushed graham crackers are a healthier alternative to pie crusts; replace one egg with two egg whites or one-fourth cup of egg substitute; replace half of the oil in dessert recipes with an equal amount of unsweetened applesauce; and use reduced- or non-fat frozen yogurt instead of ice cream on pies.

2. NEVER ARRIVE TO HOLIDAY PARTIES HUNGRY

When attending a holiday party, don't forget to snack beforehand, said Nissa Simon, health expert at Women Day's magazine. A little pre-party snack will help prevent partygoers from overeating, a common cause of weight gain during the holidays.

Courtesy art

"Eating about 100 to 200 calories an hour or so before a party will prevent you from showing up hungry and eating everything in sight," she said. "Eating regularly keeps your blood sugar levels from spiking and falling, which can make you feel tired and hungry - and vulnerable to overindulging later."

3. USE A SMALLER PLATE

Don't treat holiday meals like an all-you-can-eat buffet. Use of a smaller plate can help people conserve on their plate-packing, and in turn, their stomach-packing, said Hilary Klover, junior in dietetics.

"Sometimes it helps with taking smaller portions," Klover said. "Most foods are often loaded with extra fats for flavor, so make sure to have vegetables."

4. SIT DOWN AND EAT

While it may be tempting to stand, nibble and socialize, sitting down forces eaters to pay attention to what and how much they eat, Simon said. Ignoring food intake leads to drastic results. The American Dietetic Association states in a typical holiday meal setting, people can eat more than 2,000 calories, the average person's daily calorie intake.

"If you overeat at one meal go light on the next," said Greta Macaire, registered dietician at the California Pacific Medical Center. "It takes 500 calories per day (or 3,500 calories per week) above your normal consumption to gain one pound."

5. LIMIT ALCOHOL INTAKE

Take it easy on the adult beverages. While people don't have to swear off alcohol entirely, moderation is definitely important, Simon said.

"Not only are alcoholic drinks calorie-heavy, they also increase your appetite," she said. "Plus, as anyone whose had a few too many can attest to, they lower your self-control."

To avoid a huge calorie intake, Simon said to choose a wine spritzer or light beer as opposed to hard liquor.

Breadbasket offers Thanksgiving meal

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Community

Thanksgiving Day dinner

When: Noon to 2 p.m., Nov. 24
Where: Manhattan High School East Campus, 901 Poyntz Ave.
Cost: Free

Natascha Phillip is preparing a meal for more than 1,000 this Thursday.

She, along with other members of the Flint Hills Breadbasket, will facilitate the annual community Thanksgiving Dinner from noon to 2 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day.

As executive director for the Flint Hills Breadbasket, Phillip said she has encouraged students who are unable to go home for Thanksgiving to participate in the event. The traditional meal is offered free of charge to anyone who wants to attend.

Through events like this, "Manhattan has traditionally opened up its arms and its pocketbooks to help those people who may be down on their luck," said Lyle Butler, president of Manhattan Chamber of Commerce and Flint Hills Breadbasket board member. "The Thanksgiving dinner has been very successful. It's very meaningful for people in the community to have something to do for folks."

In the past few years, the community Thanksgiving Day dinner has fed more than 1,200 people in the community. The group also delivers meals to local groups, including the Riley County Police Department and Manhattan Fire Department.

"It's so fabulous to see the city unite together at this time of year, especially when we might not share religious beliefs and things like that," Manhattan resident Brandon Baker said. "I think it'll finally give me a shot to meet people from a variety of backgrounds in this community - college students, the rich and poor and others."

Throughout the year, the Flint Hills Breadbasket aims "to minimize hunger and poverty through the distribution of available food and to nurture projects that help alleviate hunger and poverty," their mission statements states.

In 2004, the Flint Hills Breadbasket distributed 1.8 million pounds of food that served more than 31,000 families.

While the group aims to reach out to the 20.6 percent of Riley County residents that live at or below the poverty level, Butler said one of its largest goals is to serve all parts of the community.

"It's incredible for the response we get year in and year out," Butler said. "There are a lot of people, for one reason or another, who cannot be with family. It shows, as a community, that we are a family and are concerned about each other."

78% of our readers
Clip Coupons!
532-6560 COLLEGIANS

ADVERTISING 532-6560
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Gift for Parents:

Ks. Gift Box $22.99

- 8 oz. Sunflower Brittle
- 8 oz. Alma Cheddar
- 8 oz. Summer Sausage
- 8 oz. Louisburg Apple Butter
- 8 oz. Kansas Honey
- 8 oz. Schlaegel's Popcorn

We ship UPS! Add $10

Call us 776-8111

Eastside Market
E. Hwy. 24 by Super 8

Myers Insurance Agency
FARMERS INSURANCE GROUP
AUTO • HOME • LIFE • BUSINESS
• HEALTH • SHORT-TERM HEALTH 776-7199
555 Poyntz Ave.
COLONY SQUARE
SUITE 227
Manhattan
Don & Molly Myers
www.farmers.com
1-888-575-9543

Looking for the perfect gift?
www.injeaniuscreations.com
New locally owned online store.
Order online, no credit card necessary.
Free delivery on local orders.

HUNAN EXPRESS
Chinese Food Lover's Choice
BUFFET
Lunch 11:00-2:30 $3.99
Dinner 5:30-9:00 $4.99
Free Delivery: 537-0886
Fax: 539-9111
Hours: Sun. - Wed. 11 a.m. - Midnight; Th. - Sat. 11 a.m. - 2:30 a.m.
1116 Moro St. Aggieville (only a few blocks south of KSU)
SPEND OVER $25 AND GET A FREE T-SHIRT!!

Junior • Petite
Blue Jeans
Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch, and more!
$2.50 - $4.95
Bring in Student ID for 25% off any one clothing item
QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL
BUY & SELL
The Apple's Heart
Boutique Atmosphere... Thriftstore Prices
Where Kansas Meets New York
113 S. 5th • downtown poyntz • 317-5475

49th Annual Swedish Supper
Olsburg Lutheran Church
Saturday, December 3, 2005
4:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Adults: $12.50
Call 785-468-3341 or 785-565-8806 for tickets
serving:
lutefisk, potatis korv, bruna boner, sill, sill sallat, bondost, ragbrod, ost kaka, frukt soppa, lingon, kram, and much more!

Snip N' Clip
Hair cut stops
Student cuts $7.95
Highlite & color service available
3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410
M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

EYECARE
OF MANHATTAN
Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jarad M. Waite
Doctors of Optometry
(785) 776-9461 • 1-800-432-0036
Anderson Village • 1441 Anderson
Manhattan, KS 66502
• Most Insurance Accepted
• Walking Distance From Campus
• Outside Prescriptions Filled
• 98% Of Contact Lenses Fit Same Day
Royal Winkles supporter since 1958

EYECARE
OF MANHATTAN
Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jarad M. Waite
Doctors of Optometry
Up To $30 OFF
On Disposable Contact Lens Programs
OR Complete Eyeglass Packages
Coupon must be presented at time of appointment.
Not valid with any other coupon or insurance discounts.
(785) 776-9461

$1 OFF ALL DRINKS
SHOTS
PREMIUMS
WELLS
BOTTLES
IMPORTS
Porter's
706 N. Manhattan
537-7151

$2 Boulevard
$1.50 Wells
O'Malley's ALLEY
1210 Moro
537-0775

Monday: $2 BIG Beers
20¢ Wings
Tuesday: $2.50 Domestic Pitchers
Featuring: DJ O
1127 Moro
776-3593

Monday Night Football Vikings vs Packers @ Green Bay

Lilacs on the Prairie
327 Poyntz Ave. • 565-0900
Mon-Sat. 10-6, Thurs. 10-7, Sun. 12-5
For the most unique gifts on the Prairie...
Carkspur Lane

Wishing you a Happy Thanksgiving from Shear Dynamics
A FULL SERVICE SALON FOR MEN & WOMEN
Haircuts • Colors • Perms
Manicures • Pedicures
Skincare • Body Treatments
Massage • Waxing
1125 Laramie Plaza Aggieville
shear dynamics
salon and day spa
785.776.9100
Visit us online at:
sheardynamics.net

TO THE POINT Teachers should turn in lists by deadline

Textbooks are college students' achilles heels.

It is often a hassle to crowd into a bookstore at the end and beginning of each semester and attempt to purchase textbooks for class.

Adding to the difficulty of getting through bookstores during peak times is the ability to find the correct books because instructors have not submitted lists to the stores.

It is irresponsible for instructors to not make the deadline for submitting required textbook lists. There is as much reason to miss that deadline as there is for students to not turn in term papers.

Not having lists in on time hurts students who want to sell textbooks. If the stores do not know which books are being reused, they are at a loss in knowing what to buy back.

The problem is compounded when other students want to purchase books. They are unable to find the required texts on the seemingly-endless shelves of learning material.

In the future, it is the responsibility of all instructors to meet their deadlines for submitting books.

There is no reason for the expectations of students and instructors to be different.

Having instructors make one deadline each semester is easy compared with the many students are expected to meet.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

Giving thanks

Production, consumption make holiday possible

One of the great thinkers of the 20th century once espoused, "Thanksgiving is a typically American holiday... The lavish meal is a symbol of the fact that abundant consumption is the result and reward of production."

Ayn Rand, the Russian-born American writer and philosopher understood with her foreign perspective what many American natives fail to grasp.

Obnoxious anecdotes about Native Americans, pilgrims and turkeys aside, few grasp the importance of this American tradition.

"Americans consume more than anyone else" is what the apologist wail. But consumable goods do not materialize.

The turkey, the wine, cranberry-sauce, stuffing, pumpkin pie, the jets that bring loved ones from around the country to our doorstep — all have been produced for the consumer.

We enrich ourselves with good food, and good company, while we enrich the farmer, the shipper, the store.

They, in turn, find better and cheaper ways to provide for consumer goods. The result — an Autumnal feast, celebrated by rich and poor nationwide.

The Thanksgiving tradition birthed by America owes its allegiance not to the Puritans of Plymouth Rock, but to all who sought out the shores of the new world in hopes of being able to live, produce and consume without interference from others.

The riches that cover our tables are not gifts from above, as some would argue, nor are they results of the "American greed" that is the whipping boy of others. What is presented to us is grown from an American tradition of plant and harvest, design and market, produce and consume.

Empires of the past thrived on pillage and robbery — the deprivation of the majority, for the benefit of the minority. No one, for instance, invited the Conquistadors of Spain to visit their country.

But the empire of goods that flows from America and the productive world enrich all that touch it. Has there ever been a McDonald's established under force of arms?

Countries and communities strive for McDonald's, and the fact remains that no two countries with McDonald's have ever gone to war, for they have no reason to. War is, and always will be a competition for resources. But, countries with McDonald's need not murder and bludgeon for resources — for the productive, resources are produced with what is at hand.

It is indisputable that where there is a McDonald's being built there is growth, consumption and wealth created through production.

The values that draw McDonald's are the same values that have driven our nation since its inception. But as the sissification of the modern times continues we find ourselves increasingly isolated from the ideals of consumption and production that make our November ritual possible.

Labor, toil and the values of being self-made seems to be on the wane. Under the guise of social safety nets we take from those who do produce and give to those who do not, thus perpetuating generations who depend on the state for succor rather than their own resourcefulness.

We find that, as Americans, produce less as the mechanism of government grows. Rather than enriching one another we create bureaucracies and bureaucrats to maneuver the ever extending nose of government interference into places where it has never been before and has no business being now.

We must clarify that Thanksgiving is the holiday of the producer, the day of thanks for the achievements of those that came before us that provide us levels of comfort unimaginable by even the most pampered royalty of times past.

So celebrate the American heritage of Thanksgiving! Consume greatly, produce more so. Such is the motor which drives the civilization of the world.

Jonas Hogg is a junior in sociology, international studies and Russian. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

JONAS HOGG

Illustrations by Christina Forsberg | COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@pub.ksu.edu Display ads.....532-6560 Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

Pheasant season boosts economy

Breathe that crisp autumn air. Hear the whisper of the wind, creaking limbs and rattling the rigid remains of a vibrant sorghum crop. Close your eyes and pause, thankful for the magnanimous nature that, uh, naturally occurs ... in nature.

Your best friend speaks. His voice travels fast, very fast, why, it travels at the speed of sound through the crisp autumn air into your ear canal.

The waves do a tap dance on your hammer, anvil, and stirrup "rat-a-tat-tat, rat-tat ta-tat." In milliseconds, an electrical impulse fires through the auditory nerve to the brain, and the word your mind perceives is no longer taboo. From the 12th of November until January's last day, the public accepts it.

"Cock." With that melodic voice of warn, your sinewy muscles leap into action. In a flash, a trusty surface-to-air Browning unleashes a killer bee barrage of six-shot missiles.

Clipped him — a broken wing. Quickly losing altitude, the offended pheasant dwells a return to cover in hopes that a two-legged escape may prove more successful.

Rapidly descending, the ring-necked fugitive is mere feet above the dense stalks of harvested milo.

An eager cartridge replaces the spent round.

A heavenly safe haven of brush, wounded game's black hole of hope, lies just 20 feet ahead.

Blaaam. Projectiles mow a noticeable swath through the milo; the vector ends precisely at the point of our unfortunate adversary's neck.

T-shot. The pacifier. You grin and fetch tonight's meal, still in the original container.

Though South Dakota is now the undisputed pheasant harvest state, don't you know, Kansas is rarely lower than 3rd. Iowa and Nebraska ack-acksa (sorry, something in my throat) also rank high.

More than 150,000 lead slingers annually stomp the prairie, gunning grouse, quelling quail, defeating dove and knocking more than a few pheasants out of the sky. Pheasant season is traditionally a proverbial cash, or credit, chicken for western Kansas.

Nearly a third of those who come to boost the roost are non-Kansan. The economy boost is for hotels and restaurants, though body shops and hospitals also gain business.

The early reports from the foliage say it will be a good year for ammo sales, as moderate rainfall and decent cover has given the pheasant population a steady food source and happy habitat.

Hopefully, by my triumphant Christmas return, the opening-day diehards will have drifted away and left me something to shoot at. Perhaps a few words of grace are in order. Lord, I pray the weather's cold so the pheasants hold. Provideth me accuracy and no runners. I pray for one-shot headshot kills, not for style or flair or frills, but to keep my teeth when I eat my take, lest not my molars by a BB break.

Bless me as I walk this draw, may the landowner not care at all. And if, by the warden should I be caught... take me now. Amen.

Lucas Maddy is a senior in agriculture technology management. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Props to the Riley County PD in telling 50 drunks to drive home. Real smart guys.

Kelsey Childress, your article Wednesday really rang true. You're a great writer and also very pretty. Hope this makes your day.

Chuck Norris' tears cure cancer. Too bad he has never cried.

Chuck Norris is currently suing NBC, claiming Law and Order are trademarked names for his left and right legs.

So, like, will you, like, hire me, like, for the job, like today.

What was the reason for my all nighter one might ask, studying, stress, love? No, I just saw the midnight showing of Harry Potter in Olathe at the IMAX.

Does anybody know what happened to Seal's face?

Lola Shrimplin has no idea what she is talking about, in one case she quotes Jesus out of context but in the same article she says she doesn't understand the Bible so she is writing her own, which is it?

God didn't create homosexuality, God created sexuality between a man and a woman in wedlock. Saying God created homosexuality is like saying God created cigarettes. God created the tobacco plant and humans perverted it into what it is today.

No Christmas music until after Thanksgiving.

Zachary T. Eckels, your article made me smile. It's hard being a liberal in such a conservative town. Boo.

Mmmm, diversions.

Fourum, threum, twoum, oneum. Ba-Bam.

Facebook caused an honor code violation? What next, Facebook? What next?

Yoda, I want.

If one good thing can come from not going to a bowl game on Snyder's last year is that he got to coach his last game at home and we all were there to see it.

A K-State football ticket: $50, hot dog and a coke at the game: $5, seeing grown men cry during Snyder's farewell speech: priceless.

It would have been quicker to land a LifeWatch helicopter in the stadium than to wait on the paramedics.

I hope I never get seriously injured in Riley County because as long as it takes the EMT's to do anything I probably could've crawled to the emergency room.

Oh really?

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Church cannot rewrite beliefs to suit society

Editor,

After reading Lola Shrimplin's recent article, "Catholics shut doors to homosexuals," I couldn't help but feel a bit represented as a Christian.

The article is one of many articles written lately that accuse and criticize the church for refusing to allow homosexuals to become priests or pastors.

It is true the church has struggled to accept homosexuals into their worship and to deal with the growing issue of outwardly homosexual believers: we are human and stubborn, that's why we need the love of God.

However, it is the belief of orthodox faith that homosexuality is a perversion of God's natural plan of love and sexuality.

Thus, it would be inconsistent with the church's beliefs to install an unrepentant homosexual into a place of authority and leadership.

Lola is correct in saying that religion should not be "a fraternity/sorority-type thing," but the issue here isn't whether the church accepts homosexuals at all, but if they should allow them to become teachers of God's Word.

It is not at all my intention to persuade Lola that homosexuality is a sin or that the church is always right in its actions, but simply that if you were to change the "rules" of Christianity, it would no longer be Christianity.

So, if you're going to criticize the church, do it on the basis of the hypocrisy of a few, but don't fault the church for refusing to rewrite its own belief system to conform to the changing moral face of society.

Joel Adell
SENIOR IN MATHEMATICS EDUCATION

Textbook options exist

Editor,

I am writing in regard to the decreasing satisfaction of the textbook system that K-State uses.

Students are becoming frustrated with spending lots of money on textbooks and not getting much back in return. The newly enforced return policy of Varney's is also another frustration of the students. Twelve days is just not enough time for a student to make a final decision on which classes to drop and to keep.

However, there is a solution to this problem that many students might not be aware of. Several universities around the nation use a library lending system to distribute textbooks. A student can check out their textbooks at the beginning of a semester and return them at the end.

The only cost associated with this system would be a small textbook usage fee. Northwest Missouri State University has this system and they only charge $5 per credit hour for a textbook usage fee.

If this sounds like a system that should be implemented here at K-State, then I urge the students to make their voice known.

The best way to go about implementing this plan would be to bring it to Student Senate's attention.

Speak your thoughts to your representatives on this subject and let's help K-State improve our textbook system.

Kristin Wagner
JUNIOR IN MANAGEMENT

Holiday tied to all religions

Editor,

In Wednesday's column, Kody Cooper suggests that the Christian roots of Thanksgiving will make it the next target of diversity-happy liberals aiming to impose their vision of political correctness on society. While he's right to point out how our efforts at cultural sensitivity often go overboard, his insinuation that Thanksgiving is meaningless or insulting to non-Christians is misplaced.

Our American Thanksgiving is tied to a long tradition of English harvest festivals stretching back to pagan times. For centuries, people have gathered at this time of the year to celebrate harvest, family and country.

Modern atheists, agnostics, Wiccans, Kemetics, polytheists, Unitarian Universalists, and even pantheists are no exception. We have much to be thankful for, since we have the good fortune to live in a country where religious freedom is respected.

Gods bless America.

Sarah Lawver
SENIOR IN PHILOSOPHY, PRESIDENT

Clen Conner
SOPHOMORE IN MUSIC EDUCATION, VICE PRESIDENT ALLIANCE FOR UNDERSTANDING OF RELIGIOUS ALTERNATIVES

In Honor of Thanksgiving

$25 Month Unlimited!

Must bring coupon • Expires: 12-1-05

Check salon
for specials

Thank You for Your Business
Throughout the Year!

1122 Laramie-Aggieville
539-3742

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

NEED CLASSES?

Classes run from January 12 - May 5, 2006

◆FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development
Audiotape/Conference/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92900
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

◆FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96701
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-6:55 PM

FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health
CD-ROM/Internet
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92902
Fees: UG 2 hr $523

FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96702
Fees: UG 2 hr $390
1/12/06-5/4/06
U 5:30-6:55 PM

FSHS 300: Problems in FSHS:
Parenting in Contemporary Society
Audiotape/Conference/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92905
Fees: UG 3 hr $772

FSHS 301: The Helping Relationship
On-Site
Robert Gellman
Ref# 96710
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 310: Early Childhood
On-Site
Katie Thompson-Laswell
Ref# 96714
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 343: Communication
Sciences and Disorders
On-Site
Michele Hart
Ref# 96703
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
MW 5:30-6:45 PM

◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships
and Gender Roles
Audiotape/Conference/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92911
Fees: UG 3 hr $772

◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships
and Gender Roles
On-Site
Katie Daniels
Ref# 96704
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships
and Gender Roles
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96715
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 506: Middle Childhood and Adolescence
On-Site
John Murray
Ref# 96705
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 510: Human Development and Aging
On-Site
Gayle Doll
Ref# 96706
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
W 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 524: Professional Seminar in Early Childhood Education
On-Site
Anna Nippert
Ref# 96707
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
W 5:30-8:20 PM

FSHS 528: Exceptional Development in Early Childhood
On-Site
LuAnn Hoover
Ref# 96716
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
W 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 540: Curriculum for Cognitive and Language Development of Young Children
Internet
Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke
Ref# 92917
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

FSHS 541: Curriculum for Emotional,
Social, and Physical Development of Young Children
Internet
Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke
Ref# 92918
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

FSHS 550: The Family
On-Site
Vera White
Ref# 96708
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 552: Families and Diversity
On-Site
Jahrael Burrell
Ref# 96711
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 579: Directed Field Experience
Orientation
On-Site
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96709
Fees: UG 1 hr $218
1/12/06-5/4/06
U 5:30-6:20 PM

FSHS 580: Directed Field Experience
Guided Study
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96712
Fees: UG 8 hr $1419.60
1/18/06-5/3/06

FSHS 585: Professional Seminar in Family Life Education
On-Site
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96713
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 670: Working with Parents
CD-ROM/Internet
Mary DeLuccie
Ref# 92920
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 700: Fireworks 3: Anger
Management in Adult-Child Relationships
Internet
Charles Smith
Ref# 92926
Fees: UG 3 hr $897; G 3 hr $1128

FSHS 700: Assessment and Observation for Early Childhood Educators
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92927
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 704: Foundations of Infant
Mental Health
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92928
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 740: Play Facilitation
Internet
Bronwyn Fees
Ref# 92932
Fees: UG 3 hr $772; G 3 hr $1003

FSHS 810: Child Development
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92937
Fees: G 3 hr $1053

GERON 315: Introduction to Gerontology
Internet
Gayle Doll
Ref# 92941
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

GERON 620: Mental Health and Aging
Internet
Janice Dinkel
Ref# 92943
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

◆HN 132: Basic Nutrition
Internet
Sharon Morcos
Ref# 92946
Fees: UG 3 hr $872

HN 400: Human Nutrition
Internet/CD-ROM
Richard Baybutt
Ref# 92953
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HN 413: Science of Food
Internet
Delores Chambers
Ref# 92955
Fees: UG 4 hr $1071

HN 620: Nutrient Metabolism
Internet
Richard Chiang
Ref# 92960
Fees: UG 4 hr $1071; G 4 hr $1379

HN 630: Clinical Nutrition
Internet
Shandria Godwin
Ref# 92962
Fees: UG 5 hr $1320; G 5 hr $1705

HN 820: Functional Foods for Chronic Disease Prevention
Internet
George Wang
Ref# 92967
Fees: G 3 hr $978

HRIMD 130: Careers in Nutrition and Dietetics
Internet/CD-ROM
Deb Cantor
Ref# 92971
Fees: UG 1 hr $324

HRIMD 220: Environmental Issues in Hospitality I
Internet
Lynn Riggins
Ref# 92973
Fees: UG 2 hr $573

HRIMD 342: Food Production
Management
Internet
Melissa Schrader
Ref# 92976
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HRIMD 422: Cost in Controls in Hospital Operations
Internet
Hau Li-Tsang
Ref# 92979
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92346
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
1/18/06-3/13/06
M 6:30-9:00 PM

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92347
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
3/27/06-5/8/06
M 6:30-9:00 PM

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92348
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
1/17/06-3/14/06
T 6:30-9:00 PM

◆ Indicates the course has been approved for university general education requirement.

Register online at:
www.dce.ksu.edu

or in person at the Division of Continuing Education, College
Court Building, Monday-Friday, 8
am to 6 pm.

For more information, Call 1-800-
432-6222 or (765) 532-5566.

Enroll Now in Courses That Can Be Taken Anytime, Anywhere!

Page 5 in Kansas State Collegian, Monday, Nov. 21, 2005

wildcats
2005-06 BASKETBALL

Wednesday
November 23

vs.
New Mexico

7pm

Bramlage Coliseum

Open the door...
to a superior education at Dodge City Community College.

Coming back to DCCC is a smart move for many reasons. Smart...

- because DCCC's low tuition and fees make it an excellent educational value.
- because DCCC's faculty and staff cares about you and your success.

Maybe you've decided the big-college atmosphere isn't right for you just yet. Come back to DCCC...get some of the basics out of the way...then give the university another try.

Whether you're laying the groundwork for a four-year degree, or training for a job right now, DCCC is the place to make it happen.

Make the smart decision. Open the door to a superior education at Dodge City Community College. For more information, call the Admissions Office at 1-800-367-3222, email admit@dc3.edu, or check out the spring semester schedule online at www.dc3.edu.

GREAT GIFTS FOR EVERYONE

GET YOUR SHOPPING DONE EARLY!

ROCK STAR & ROGERS

- Jewelry
- Lingerie
- Xmas Costume Rentals
- Imports
- Men's & Women's Clothing
- Posters
- Stocking Stuffers
- Purses
- Vintage

587-1819 715 N. 12TH STREET • Organic Botanicals

cleanyourcloset for CASH!

We now buy name brand used clothing!

Any other day Missouri's Smith would have beat the Wildcats

Was it Bill Snyder magic that helped K-State beat the Missouri Tigers Saturday?

Sure it was. There's really no other explanation for it.

All season long, K-State lost games like the one on Saturday. A loss to

MICHAEL ASHFORD

Texas A&M came on a game-winning drive by the Aggies, led by quarterback Reggie McNeal, whom the Wildcats couldn't stop.

A heartbreaking loss to Colorado ended in the game's final seconds on a field goal from Mason Crosby, thanks to a horrible fielding error on a punt by return man Jermaine Moreira that nearly got him killed.

Texas Tech simply passed over, around and in between the Wildcats in its 59-20 win, and as for Iowa State, the Cyclones didn't do much of anything wrong in their 45-17 triumph.

But Saturday against the Brad Smith-led Tigers, something different was in the air.

Maybe it was the emotions of 18 seniors playing their final game as Wildcats. Maybe it was the K-State players refusing to end the 2005 season with a loss.

But the best explanation would simply be: Snyder magic.

Smith had a field day against the Wildcats. He passed for 248 yards and three touchdowns. He ran for another 71 yards and a fourth touchdown.

Any other game this season, Missouri would have left the field winners.

But Saturday was different. Snyder Family Stadium was rocking like it hadn't in more than two years, and the Wildcats played with more emotion and heart and resiliency than they have in the last two years combined.

But more than that, the Wildcats won because they had to send Snyder out the right way.

As junior linebacker Brandon Archer streaked down the sideline toward the end zone after intercepting a Smith pass, the atmosphere inside Snyder Family Stadium was electric and, in Archer's terms, "surreal" at the same time.

See COLUMN Page 8

Full circle

"When it was needed, he stepped up and did what we all know that he is very capable of doing."

Bill Snyder
HEAD COACH

'The Chosen One' leads K-State comeback against Missouri

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The tattoo on Allen Webb's right arm — his throwing arm — says "The Chosen One."

Saturday, he was the one who ignited a stagnant offense to lead K-State back from a 14-point deficit to beat Missouri 36-28 at Bill Snyder Family Stadium.

Tabbed the starter at the beginning of the season by coach Bill Snyder, Webb found himself on the sidelines for a large part of Big 12 Conference play.

After a poor start in the second game of conference play against Kansas, redshirt-freshman Allan Evridge took over in the first quarter.

Webb may have lost his spot to the freshman that played a vital role in the Wildcats win over the Jayhawks, but said he never lost his confidence.

"The funny thing is I hear a lot of people say that (he lost his confidence), but that's not the case at all," Webb said. "There's always going to be hard critics when things aren't going that well, but I don't pay attention to it and I'm always going to have confidence in myself regardless if nobody else does. That's just the type of person that I am."

This time around it was Evridge who struggled, and Webb who came in as the substitute.

Midway through the third quarter, the Wildcats trailed 28-14. Webb came off the bench and completed 10-of-14 passes for 93 yards and a touchdown and also rushed 14 times for 91 yards.

"It was great to see that," said wide receiver Jordy Nelson, who pulled in Webb's lone touchdown pass that put the Wildcats ahead for good, 29-28. "Evridge came in when Webb was struggling earlier in the year — came in and did some things for us. Evridge, I don't know what happened, but Webb was able to come in and it must have been his day, and I'm glad he did well when he came in.

"I like to see that because he's been a little down, I think, since losing his starting spot, and it was great to see him come up and contribute to the win."

In last year's game at Missouri, Webb came off the bench in the third quarter and led the Wildcats to victory, as K-State outscored the Tigers 28-3 in the second half on the way to a 35-21 win.

"When it was needed, he stepped up and did what we all know that he is very capable of doing," Snyder said. "I appreciate that because it took an awful lot of focus on his part to stay attune to what was going on in the ballgame."

Photos by Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

TOP: K-State's Jordy Nelson celebrates with quarterback Allen Webb following a touchdown late in the fourth quarter. Webb came off the bench to complete 10 of 14 passes for 93 yards.

ABOVE: Allen Webb rushes for a few of his 91 yards Saturday against Missouri. K-State scored two late touchdowns to beat Missouri in its final game of the season.

Freshman scores 24 in regular season debut

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State junior Claire Coggins did not score her first point Sunday against Detroit until less than five minutes remained in the game with K-State up by 29 points.

But the Wildcats did not need the honorable mention Big 12 Conference selection, as freshman JoAnn Hamlin scored the first 12 points of the game for K-State, making her first five field goal attempts and finishing with a game high 24 points to pace the Wildcats to a 91-55 win over the Titans at Bramlage Coliseum.

"I didn't need to score today, which is an awesome thing," Coggins said. "JoAnn came out hot, and we wanted to feed her. She did a great job, she's a big post and that's awesome for us."

Tied at 17 with 10 minutes to play in the first half, K-State went on an 8-0 run and followed it up with another 8-0 run before the half to extend its lead to nine points before the break.

"We re-gained our focus," freshman Shalee Lehning said. "For a little bit there, we kind of lost our focus and lost our intensity. When we finally calmed down, and did things that we know how to do and the things we've done in practice."

Unlike the start of the game, K-State jumped out in the second half and outscored Detroit 12-4 in the first five minutes, led by Hamlin, who scored half the points during the Wildcats' run.

K-State finished off the Titans with 12 minutes to play, outscoring Detroit 24-11 to finish the game.

Coach Deb Patterson said she does not expect her team to blow anyone out this season like they did last year.

"I think quite frankly, I'm expecting games to be a challenge possession by possession," Patterson said. "I don't look at it as a team that is going to take the floor and wipe people out. We're going to be in a lot of close games."

K-State 91 Detroit 55

	K-State	Detroit
Field goals	31-64	20-53
3-point	5-17	8-22
Free throws	24-35	7-17
Rebounds	46	31
Assists	19	15
Turnovers	17	22

Leading scorer	Hamlin, 24	Pasquino, 22
Leading rebounder	Wheeler, 12	Evans, Davis, 5
Leading assists	Coggins, 5	Goddard, 6

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Freshman JoAnn Hamlin drives to the basket during the second half Sunday against Detroit. Hamlin led the Wildcats in scoring with 24 points to help K-State to a 91-55 win.

SPORTS ONLINE

The K-State volleyball team was able to steal a game from No. 1-ranked Nebraska, but couldn't pull off the upset Saturday. Read more about the game at www.kstatecollegian.com

NFL Scores

Tampa Bay	30	Miami	0
Atlanta	27	Cleveland	22
Carolina	3	Detroit	7
Chicago	13	Dallas	20
Jacksonville	31	Arizona	38
Tennessee	28	St. Louis	28
New Orleans	17	Philadelphia	17
New England	24	NY Giants	27
Oakland	16	Pittsburgh	13
Washington	13	Baltimore	16
Seattle	27	Indianapolis	45
San Francisco	25	Cincinnati	37
NY Jets	0	Buffalo	10
Denver	27	San Diego	48
Kansas City	45
Houston	17

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

CFB | Public invited to 2005 football awards ceremony

The K-State football team and retired coach Bill Snyder invite fans of Wildcat football to K-State's annual awards ceremony at 1:30 p.m., on Dec. 3 in McCain Auditorium.

The program will include a formal introduction of each team member, an announcement of team awards for the 2005 season as well as a special recognition for those players who earn all-conference honors.

Presentations will be made by President Jon Wefald, Athletics Director Tim Weiser and the K-State coaching staff, among others. A video presentation will also be shown.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $1 for students with ID. Tickets may be purchased in advance through the McCain Auditorium Box Office or at the door.

For more information, contact the K-State football office at 532-5876.

TRK | Rovelto inks

3 for 2007 season

K-State track and field announced on Friday the signing of three student-athletes for the 2007 season. The Wildcats will welcome Eric Thomas, Josh Mathaismeier and Cassie Styers to the K-State campus next fall.

Thomas, a native of Hays, Kan., is a two-time Kansas State 3A champion in the shot put and discus.

Mathaismeier is a native of Overland Park, Kan., and is the reigning Kansas State 6A champion in the discus.

Styers comes to the Wildcats from Omaha, Neb., as a two-time Class A Nebraska state champion in the high jump.

K-State will begin the 2006 track and field season on Dec. 9-10 with the Carol Robinson Winter Pentathlon and the KSU All-Corners.

The Associated Press

NFL | Johnson breaks team rushing record in win

HOUSTON — Larry Johnson is doing his very best to ease any concerns the Kansas City Chiefs have about losing Priest Holmes.

Johnson broke the Chiefs' rushing record with 211 yards and scored two touchdowns to lead Kansas City to a 45-17 win over the hapless Houston Texans on Sunday night.

The record was 200 yards, which Barry Word set in 1990.

The 211 yards were the most allowed to a single player in Texans history and the seventh time this season an opponent has gained more than 100 yards against the Texans' league-worst run defense.

Tony Gonzalez became the first tight end to top 50 catches in eight consecutive seasons. Gonzalez was tied with Shannon Sharpe, who accomplished the feat with Denver between 1992-98.

College Football AP Top 10

1. Southern Cal	11-0
2. Texas	10-0
3. LSU	9-1
4. Penn State	10-1
5. Virginia Tech	9-1
6. Notre Dame	8-2
7. Ohio State	9-2
8. Oregon	10-1
9. Auburn	9-2
10. Miami (Fla.)	8-2

Other Big 12 teams:
18. Texas Tech 9-2

THE EDGE

Monday, Nov. 21, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

Picture perfect

Photos by Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

WRONG: Don't shoot the obvious shot. Your photos may look posed.

RIGHT: Look for new angles from which to shoot. It adds more variety to your photos.

Avoid poses, explore new locations to spice up photos

By Christina Hansen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The holiday season is just around the corner. With all of the gift-giving, parties and family get-togethers, plenty of photographs can capture the memories.

Instead of taking the usual stiffly posed portraits that fill the family album, students can consider following a few of the tips from two K-State students with a passion for photography.

TIP 1: ZOOM IN ON THE SUBJECT

"A lot of people like to keep their distance when taking pictures," said Audrey Young, senior in agricultural communication and journalism. Young's photos are currently part of a display on the second floor of Kedzie Hall. "But close-ups have better quality."

Focusing in on a specific person or object not only portrays more detail, it eliminates background elements that can distract from the photo's subject, Young said.

TIP 2: DON'T TAKE THE OBVIOUS SHOT

Do not ask friends and family to stand next to the Christmas tree for every single photograph.

Katie Pavlish, junior in art, is currently photographing her experiences and travels as she studies abroad this semester in London. She said budding photographers should not be afraid to experiment with a photo's setting.

"Try to find interesting pictures that aren't in obvious spots - obvious meaning someplace that everyone has seen," Pavlish said. "I would recommend taking photos at all times in all places."

TIP 3: DON'T SAY CHEESE

"Avoid posed pictures - look for the unique moment," Young said.

Instead of asking people to stop what they're doing to take a picture, capture their activities and expressions without intruding. The photos will look more natural, and each picture will be distinct from the next.

TIP 4: STICK WITH COLOR PHOTOS

Pavlish said that while black and white photos can carry a nostalgic quality, she would recommend color film to amateur photographers.

"You can always use Photoshop to scan photos and change them to black and white later on," she said. "This proves to be much more difficult if you want to change a black and white photograph to color. It's virtually impossible."

TIP 5: FIND THE CAMERA THAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU

There is not a single camera out there that is right for every single person.

"It really is a personal preference," Pavlish said. "I definitely recommend doing your research before taking the plunge and buying a very expensive piece of equipment. Don't be scared to use different cameras and see which one you like the best."

If people are still not ready to invest in a camera just yet, Young said that one-time-use cameras are also a viable option.

"You can get reasonable pictures from a one-time-use camera," she said. "They're obviously not professional quality, but they're fine for taking pictures of family and friends."

TIP 6: TAKE PLENTY OF PICTURES

"Lots of times, getting the good pictures, the perfect pictures, is just a matter of luck," said Young. "Taking a lot of them increases your chances of finding that picture."

Pavlish said that even experienced photographers aren't satisfied to quit after taking one or two shots of a desired subject.

"Being in Photo 1 at K-State, I remember having to take at least three rolls of film in order to get one great photo," she said. "It's not about just taking photos, it's about learning from them."

WRONG: Don't pose your shots, they look fake.

RIGHT: Shoot people actually doing something, it looks real and adds emotion.

WRONG: Don't stand far away to take a photo, you lose important details.

RIGHT: Zoom in on your subject. You capture vivid details.

FAMOUS QUOTES

"Well, we're living in a material world, and I'm a material girl ... or boy."
— Adam Sandler

"I think my whole generation's mission is to kill the cliché."
— Beck

"You can't be greater than Elvis, change things as much as the Beatles or be as original as Led Zeppelin. All you can do is rip them off."
— Billy Corgan

"One good thing about music, when it hits, you feel no pain."
— Bob Marley

"If a woman tells you she's 20 and looks 16, she's 12. If she tells you she's 26 and looks 26, she's damn near 40."
— Chris Rock

"I'm only two years older than Brad Pitt, but I look a lot older, which used to greatly frustrate me. It doesn't anymore. I don't have to fit into that category and get trounced by Tom Cruise and Brad."
— George Clooney

Clooney

"We're in the dark ages if J-Lo can have a music career because of her ass. And let's face it, that's it."
— Jack Black

"Maybe there is no actual place called hell. Maybe hell is just having to listen to our grandparents breathe through their noses when they're eating sandwiches."
— Jim Carrey

"My hat was pulled down and this girl said 'Are you really him?' I whispered 'Yeah, I'm really him.' She screamed, 'Mom! Dad! It's Heath Ledger!'"
— Josh Hartnett

Hartnett

"I brought you a tuna sandwich. They say it's brain food. I guess because there's so much dolphin in it, and you know how smart they are."
— Marge Simpson

"I don't really trust men who claim they are not interested in porn."
— Moby

"Britney would make a better prostitute than Christina. She's thicker."
— Snoop Dogg

"My boyfriend calls me 'princess,' but I think of myself more along the lines of 'monkey' and 'retard'."
— Alicia Silverstone

"If everyone really knew what a jerk I am in real life, I wouldn't be so adored in the slightest."
— Christian Bale

"God made a very obvious choice when he made me voluptuous; why would I go against what he decided for me? My limbs work, so I'm not going to complain about the way my body is shaped."
— Drew Barrymore

Barrymore

"I ask people why they have deer heads on their walls. They always say because it's such a beautiful animal. There you go. I think my mother is attractive, but I have photographs of her."
— Ellen DeGeneres

"I don't particularly like babies. I don't mind them for about four minutes. That's my max. After that I can't quite see what everyone's fussing about."
— Hugh Grant

Grant

"Poverty is a lot like childbirth — you know it is going to hurt before it happens, but you'll never know how much until you experience it."
— J. K. Rowling

"I tell you what really turns my toes up: love scenes with 68-year-old men and actresses young enough to be their granddaughter."
— Mel Gibson

Source: www.saidwhat.co.uk

Latest 'Harry Potter' film good holiday entertainment

"Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire"

★★★★★

Movie review by Johanna Barnes

As a Harry Potter purist, I was curious to see how Warner Brothers planned to condense a 700-plus page book into a two-and-a-half hour movie.

Keeping this in mind, I was impressed with the way director Mike Newell and screenwriter Steve Kloves managed to summarize such a huge novel into something manageable for the average movie-going audience.

The most obvious difference between this movie and the previous three is the darker tone the film immediately takes.

In the opening scene, Harry Potter, played by Daniel Radcliffe, dreams about an abandoned house where his nemesis, the evil Lord Voldemort, played by Ralph Finnes, is plotting his restoration to power.

From there the audience is taken to the Quidditch World Cup, where we see the extent of the wizarding world's love of Quidditch, the sport played on broomsticks.

This could have been an amazing scene, but rather than showing us even part of the game, it cuts away to the post-game celebration, which turns into a riot caused by Voldemort's followers, the Death Eaters.

As always, a new Defense Against the Dark Arts professor arrives at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, as well as students from two other magical academies, Beauxbatons and Durmstrang, who have come to Hogwarts to participate in the Tri-Wizard Tournament, which will pit a student from each school against the others in a series of tasks to test the magical skill and resourcefulness of each. The winner of the Tournament will receive "eternal glory," in the words of Albus Dumbledore, played by Michael Gambon.

The plot thickens when instead of three students, the Goblet of Fire names four who will participate in the Tournament — the extra being Harry himself.

The climax of the film is beautifully rendered, with amazing special effects showing the reincarnation of Lord Voldemort and an incredible performance from Finnes.

Harry and his friends have begun to grow up in this fourth installment of author J.K. Rowling's series, obvious not only by the aging of the actors, but also the subject matter. Harry has his first crush, Hermione goes on her first date and Ron begins to show signs of jealousy.

Overall, I enjoyed the film. My main complaint was the rushed quality it seemed to have. Scenes were very brief and seemed choppy.

Occasionally, events were poorly explained and hurried. So much happens so quickly that sometimes it's hard to keep it all straight.

Although I have read the book, I occasionally had a hard time following the storyline, due to the massive amount of information that had to be cut or rearranged to make the storyline make sense.

True Harry Potter fans may have a problem with how much was cut and how much was changed, but overall I think "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire" is a good representation of the novel as well as a generally entertaining film, even if you haven't read the book.

Martin scores career-high 24 points in season opener

K-State's Cartier Martin puts up a shot against a Georgia Southern opponent Friday evening at Bramlage Coliseum. The Wildcats won 83-58.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With seven new players, a new offense and the departure of its two leading scorers and rebounders, the K-State men's basketball team began the 2005-06 season against Georgia Southern Friday night with a number of unknowns.

Online
K-State's defense hits on all cylinders in win. Read more at www.kstatecollegian.com.

Junior forward Cartier Martin provided an answer as to who would lead the Wildcats in scoring in their home opener, pouring in a career-high and game-high 24 points on 8-of-15 shooting.

Martin also paced K-State with 11 rebounds and six assists. Martin's performance helped K-State (1-0) cruise past Georgia Southern (1-2) 83-58.

K-State led 9-7 in the first half before compiling a 21-5 run on the strength of three fast-break dunks by juniors Tyler Hughes, Lance Harris and transfer Serge Afeli.

By halftime, K-State led 43-21 and scored 16 points on fast breaks compared to two fast-break points for Georgia Southern.

Martin said coach Jim Wooldridge stressed the importance of transition baskets in practice, which paid off on both ends of the court.

"We made an emphasis on getting down the court as fast as we could, stopping the ball and making them play half court," Martin said.

Georgia Southern inched its way back after halftime, closing to within 14 points at 67-53 with five minutes remaining.

K-State responded with an 8-2 run to put the game away.

Georgia Southern, a team that was tied with Texas Tech at halftime in Lubbock, Texas, last week, was led in scoring by 5-foot-9 senior guard Elton Nesbitt.

Nesbitt scored 16 points, but Stewart and 6-foot-6 junior Akeem Wright held him to 4-17 shooting.

Wright, a junior college transfer from Philadelphia, Pa., played a team-high 36 minutes.

"I did not expect to play that many minutes, but I played good defense on Nesbitt, so I guess that's why (Wooldridge) kept me out there longer," Wright said.

Wooldridge said despite a few lapses, his team gave a great effort.

"I thought we did what we wanted to do or needed to do to put together a good game, and take their strength and defend it," Wooldridge said.

The Wildcats are 5-1 in opening games under Wooldridge.

K-State's next game is at home Nov. 23 against New Mexico.

K-State 83 Geo South 58

	K-State	Geo South
Field goals	26-52	17-64
3-point	1-9	19-22
Free throws	30-38	7-17
Rebounds	42	31
Assists	19	12
Turnovers	16	14

Leading scorer	Martin, 24	Nesbitt, 16
Leading rebounder	Martin, 11	Nesbitt, 6
Leading assists	Martin, 6	Nesbitt, 4

Claflin
Books and Copies

Happy Thanksgiving

Shop where the books have been selected, not just stocked.

1814 Claflin Road
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-3771

EQUESTRIAN

Team ends season with win

By Jessica Barnard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State equestrian team was nearly perfect this weekend at the Black Hawk Western Show.

The Western team traveled to Kewanee, Ill., to compete against nine other teams from their region on Saturday and Sunday.

After beating host team Black Hawk by 13 points in the first show on Saturday, the Cats came back on Sunday to gain an even larger lead in the region.

K-State finished the show on Sunday with perfect scores in five out of six classes, ending the day just four points short of an overall perfect team score.

Coach Teresa Slough said she was pleased with the team's performance on Saturday.

"On Saturday, we did a good job," she said. "We were solid and we were consistent."

Along with winning both shows, two K-State riders, Lindsey Salsbury and Lindsey Hicks, earned High Point and High Point Reserve Rider Honors on both days of competition.

On Saturday, Salsbury was named High Point Rider, while Hicks was Reserve High Point Rider. But on Sunday, Hicks earned the High Point Rider honor and Salsbury was named the Reserve High Point Rider.

Hicks said she was glad to help the team by earning the High Point honor.

"It's wonderful to have that honor, and to help contribute those points to our team," Hicks said.

Along with the excitement of winning High Point Honors, Salsbury said she was happy to end the fall season with a win over Black Hawk.

"I'm pretty glad we ended on a very good note," Salsbury said. "We are leading the region by a lot. It's a good thing. It feels good to end with this show just because we came out on top."

By winning both days of competition at the Black Hawk Western Show, the K-State team increased its lead in the region to 55 points.

Slough said she was pleased to end the fall season with such a large lead in the region.

"I think it was a great way to end the fall season," Slough said. "It takes some pressure off for the spring, we can start looking ahead a little more and start thinking about post season competition."

COLUMN | 'Snyder magic' helps team win coach's final game

Continued from Page 6

It was the beginning of the end. The Wildcats led 36-28, and Snyder's time at K-State was coming to an unbelievable close.

Win No. 136 was quite possibly the most memorable game in Snyder's 17-year tenure. It certainly rivaled wins No. 1 against North Texas State, No. 27 against Wyoming in the Copper Bowl, No. 76 in 1998 against Nebraska and No. 127 against No. 1-ranked Oklahoma to win the Big 12 Conference Championship.

Ask any K-State fan and they will tell you what Snyder did for K-State — the university and the football team — was magical. All 136 wins, quite frankly, were magical considering where K-State had come from, where even one win was cause for celebration.

Was it Snyder magic that helped K-State defeat Missouri?

Was there ever any doubt?

Michael Ashford is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

OLSON'S
Thanks you for your continued support.
Have a wonderful Holiday Season!

1214 B Moro
Manhattan, KS 66502
phone: 785-539-8571
fax: 785-539-0570
email: olsonskansas.net

Get shopping done early!
Open day after Thanksgiving at 10am!
Great deals! Unique gifts for everyone on your list

on the Wild Side
1128 Moro

CAN YOU BELIEVE IT?
2 GREAT SPECIALS
1 GREAT PRICE
$60 COLOR AND HAIRCUT OR STYLING

*call for details
*with Jess, Heather, & Nichole

*additional costs may be included on additional colors

Relieve stress with a MASSAGE from Tresh!

$40 reg. $50
1 HOUR MASSAGE

CALL TODAY FOR AN APPOINTMENT WITH TRISH
776-5632
GALLERY
Glenn Theodore
FOR HAIR

Candlewood Shopping Center
326C Kimball Ave.

MY SANDWICHES ARE ONE OF THE BEST REASONS YET TO STAY OUT OF PRISON.

Jimmy John's

1212 MORO ST.
785.539.7454

WE DELIVER! JIMMY JOHN'S JIMMYJOHNS.COM

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

any size one low price!
now thru dec. 17th only!

PASSENGER Firestone FR380
excellent wet traction
$29.99 P155/80R13

39	44	49	54	59
P155/80R13	P165/80R14	P175/80R15	P185/80R16	P195/80R17
P155/80R13	P165/80R14	P175/80R15	P185/80R16	P195/80R17
P155/80R13	P165/80R14	P175/80R15	P185/80R16	P195/80R17

*Blackwall

55,000 mile limited warranty*

PASSENGER Bridgestone INSIGNIA SE200
$39.99 P155/80R13

Whitewall	Price	Whitewall	Price
P195/70R14	$69.99	P215/70R15	$79.99
P185/65R14	74.99	P195/65R15	79.99
P205/70R15	79.99	P225/60R16	99.99

65,000 mile limited warranty*
*black letters, call for other sizes.

standard oil change and filter
• install new oil filter • refill up to 5 quarts Kendall®
Synthetic Blend motor oil
• lubricate chassis
(if applicable)
$16.99
Most vehicles add $2.50 for oil disposal fee
Expires 12/17/05

Complete Radiator System Service
• Inspect cooling system & pressure test for leaks
• Refill with correct amount of recycled coolant
• Add sealant / lubricant
• Flush system
$49.99!
Offer Ends 12/17/05

help prevent the #1 cause of roadside breakdown

mon.-fri. 7:00 am-6:00 pm sat. 7:00 am-6:00 pm
(*) open sunday 8:00 am-5:00 pm

307 N. 3rd Manhattan, KS
785-776-8311

90 DAYS INTEREST FREE
Minimum monthly payments required.

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

www.ExpertTire.com

Shop supply charges in the amount of 6% of labor charges will be added to customers greater than $25. These charges will not exceed $25 and represent costs and profits. Shop supply charges not applicable in CA or HI. Non-resident disposal charges, if any, will be added above, may also represent costs and profits. Specific product offerings and brand designations may vary. Prices, warranties, services, credit plans and other offers available at ExpertTire, see affiliated dealers listed for their complete offers and restrictions. You do not achieve guaranteed savings, your ExpertTire retailer will replace your tires on a pro-rata basis. Actual tread life may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner. No warranty on used tires. See retailer for details, restrictions, and copy of each limited warranty. Finance charges subject to qualifying Personal Credit Plan purchase that are paid in full within 90 days, otherwise MONTHLY PAYMENTS REQUIRED. Regular Rate: 21.99% Annual Percentage Rate. Delinquency Rate: 24.49% APR. Minimum finance charge $1.00. Credit First National Association reserves the right to change APR, fees and other terms without notice. See store for details.

Boy receives football-themed room

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Luke Simmer's jaw dropped open when he stepped through the doorway of his newly re-furnished bedroom, which was decorated in a football-theme. Family members, carpenters and designers crowded in behind him to celebrate the occasion.

"It's awesome," were the only words the 12-year-old boy could manage.

Everything in the bedroom was new, from the floors and the freshly painted walls to the football stadium-themed bed, which was designed to represent wooden bleachers, with a pull-out full-sized bed underneath.

A new television set, subwoofers and surround sound, rested on the new entertainment center and storage unit, which was composed of refurbished lockers from Wamego High School.

Everything in the room was personalized, from the window draperies, and it was better than expected, Luke said.

Make-A-Wish Foundation, a national organization with the mission of granting the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions, had sent two Kansas representatives to the Simmers' Wamego, Kan., home to make Luke's wish come true.

After being diagnosed with cancer last spring, Simmer was hospitalized in The Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City, Mo. While hospitalized, he was interviewed by Wish Grantors.

The Wish Grantors asked him questions about places he'd like to travel, what he wants to be, people he'd like to meet and things he'd like to have.

Luke also filled out a questionnaire so the foundation could learn about his favorite things and personal information. From this introductory interview, the Wish Grantors determined how to make Simmer's wish a reality.

Luke Simmer adores football and was played for the Wamego Middle School team for the first time this year. His dream is to play for K-State, he said.

"He's doing really well," Sandy Simmer, Luke's mother, said. "It was amazing to see him get through this. Luke's determina-

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

After seeing his newly renovated room, Luke Simmer, 12, who was diagnosed with cancer last spring, hugs one of his Wish Grantors, Darcy Hale, of Make-a-Wish Foundation of Kansas, who helped re-decorate Luke's room with a football theme for him. Simmer is a football fan and wanted to have his room renovated with a football theme.

tion was what got him through. He was determined to play football, and he got to play football."

Wish Grantors Dawn DeBord of Wamego, and Darcy Hale of Kansas City, Kan., transformed the room into a football haven.

"I kind of am just artistic, and when I got the heads up that he was so into football, his favorite color is red, he played football for the Wamego Red Raiders, the whole thing just came together," DeBord, room designer, said.

Catbacker clubs enjoy K-State sports

By Lacey D. Mackey
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Watching games and following K-State athletics is more than just a pastime for a group of alumni — it's a passion.

Lon Floyd, assistant athletic director and director of Catbacker Clubs, said a Catbacker is "a dedicated, enthusiastic, devoted, adorned in purple, fun-loving, loyal, spirited, tailgate-loving purple person dedicated to helping the athletes of Kansas State attain their fullest potential."

With the recent retirement of coach Bill Snyder, Floyd said the Catbackers have been touched with the time and talks the Snyder provided for the group.

"He spoke to every club meeting multiple times," Floyd said. "Coach Snyder comes to the little towns. He said, 'Wherever there are K-Staters, I'll go.' He never said no to me."

Beginning in 1956 with a small group of Manhattan men, the club now includes 28 groups in Kansas and one in Nebraska.

The Catbackers keep busy with tailgates and weekly meetings, and also work to raise money for the Ahearn Scholarship Fund, adding about $200,000 to athletic scholarships each year.

"I tell the groups, 'I want you to have fun, but I also want you to raise some funds,'" Floyd said.

Bryan Stenfors, vice president of the Kansas City area Catbackers, said he is a football fan, but the club gives him a perspective on K-State athletics.

"The Catbackers do a really good job of giving you a look at the athletic department as a whole," Stenfors said. "We have the tennis coaches, the rowing coaches come in. It's interesting to hear what all else goes on. They give a pretty good in-depth look."

MEN'S BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Wamego Recreation is seeking entries for our Men's Basketball League. Registration began Monday, October 31 and will continue until Friday, November 25. Registration is $200 per team. Games will be played on Sunday afternoon/evenings starting Sunday, December 4 and running through the beginning of March. Team representatives meeting will be on Monday, November 28 at 6:30 pm in the Wamego City Offices.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Recreation office is seeking OFFICIALS (prefer High School certifies) for our Men's Basketball League. Officials will be paid $20/game (certified) and $15/game (non-certified).

If you are interested in these employment opportunities, please contact the Wamego Recreation Office at 785.456.8810 or recreation@wamego.org

Wamego Recreation - "Come Grow With Us"

WILDCAT WEEKEND KANSAS STATE SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 26

vs. OKLAHOMA
2pm
Ahearn Field House
SENIOR NIGHT
SHOW YOUR STEPHEN F. AUSTIN BASKETBALL TICKET AND GET IN FOR ONLY $1

vs. STEPHEN F. AUSTIN
7pm
Bramlage Coliseum

Holidays at the Manhattan Arts Center

Wrap It Up Art Exhibit & Sale

Open Nov 25 - 10-5
Unique gifts for the holidays
New items on display daily!
M-F 10-5, Sat 10-4, Sun 12-4

Calendar of Events

- Dec 2 • 8 pm
Swing City Jazz: KSU Student Combos
- Dec 3 • 3 pm Children's Show • 8 pm Evening Show
BirdHouse Acoustic Music: Zoë Lewis
- Dec 4 • 7 pm
Hear and Now: Staged readings of "Couples" Directed by Maggie Jackson
- Dec 10 • 7 pm
Merry HanukwanzMas Multicultural Celebration
- Dec 16 & 17 • 7 pm
Family Christmas Show—Starring Manhattan youth!
- Dec 31 • 8 pm - 1 am
Captain's Ball: New Year's Celebration with dancing, food, and fun!

Manhattan Arts Center

1520 Poyntz Ave. • 785-537-4420 • boxoffice@manhattanarts.org
Smoke-free • Wheelchair Accessible • www.manhattanarts.org

UPC presents...
former SNL Comedian
Friday, Dec 2, 2005
7:30pm
K-State Student Union Ballroom 2nd Floor
Tracy Morgan

IN ADVANCE:
TicketMaster Tickets:
-Students w/KSU student ID $8.50 plus service fees
-Non-student $13.50 plus service fees

DAY OF:
-For students w/KSU student ID: $10 plus service fees
-Non-students $15 plus service fees

TICKETS AVAILABLE ONLINE AT TICKETMASTER.COM. AT ALL TICKETMASTER OUTLETS INCLUDING ALL MEN HOUSE MARKET LOCATIONS, SELECT JONES STORES, AND STREETSIDE RECORD STORES. TO CHARGE TICKETS BY PHONE, CALL (816) 931-3330.

UPC 50% OFF TICKETS
ticketmaster

LANIDON LECTURE SERIES

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

Ted Turner
Media Visionary,
Philanthropist,
Statesman

Monday,
November 28, 2005
10:30 a.m.
McCain Auditorium

Engineers compete for charity

By Hannah Crippen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tau Beta Pi, the engineering honor society, and the College of Engineering collected 2,500 pounds of food and $497 for the Flint Hills Breadbasket Friday afternoon.

Filling up two truckloads of donated food, each of the eight departments in the College of Engineering competed to see who could collect the most cans. The winners were the departments of Biological and Agricultural Engineering and Architectural Engineering and Construction Science.

Ryan White, senior in mechanical engineering and vice president-elect of Tau Beta Pi, participated in Friday's event in Seaton Hall. He said the engineers have been doing this for years right before Thanksgiving.

Depending on what type of food item the organization receives, it will go toward a Thanksgiving or holiday food basket or stored for the winter months and distributed. About 2,000 baskets are given out each year.

Natascha Phillip, executive director of the Flint Hills Breadbasket, said the food baskets contain everything a family would need for an entire holiday meal. The size of the basket is based on the number of people in the family.

Phillip said the organization relies greatly on community volunteers because its staff consists of only four people.

She said K-State student organizations are among the many donors in Manhattan.

"The college students are struggling themselves," Phillip said. "To donate to the less fortunate, we find that amazing. That's what makes Manhattan such a special community. The volunteer-community donors are what makes us work."

White said this event should continue in the future, and he hopes the College of Engineering is setting an example for the K-State community.

"We want to show that we are community aware," White said.

Emily Frey, junior in civil engineering, said it is thoughtful of the students to donate their time and money to the hungry in Manhattan.

"It's great that the College of Engineering is doing this for the community, and it's fun for us because we get to compete against the other departments," Frey said.

In 2004, the Flint Hills Breadbasket collected about 1.8 million pounds of food and fed 31,147 families, according to the organization's Web site at breadbasket.manhattankans.org.

"The food collected in Manhattan stays in Manhattan," Phillip said.

About 20 percent of Riley County citizens live at or below the poverty level.

"I know the holidays can be especially hard for people, so this is a great time for people to be donating," Frey said.

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN
Taking a box from Dan Wright, senior in electrical engineering, Matt Edwards, fifth-year senior in architectural engineering, finds a place for a box of canned goods while loading up a truck to deliver the food Friday afternoon outside Seaton Hall for the Flint Hills Breadbasket. Tau Beta Pi and the College of Engineering collected food for a week to donate.

Students share in praise, worship

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN
Pastor Larry Jones gives a message about the power of unity Saturday night during the Praise, Power and Prayer in the K-State Student Union Little Theatre.

By Chuck Armstrong
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The power of unity was the message Larry Jones spread at Praise, Power and Prayer Saturday night in the K-State Student Union Little Theatre. "You know who people are by what's coming out from the inside," Jones said. "All you hear about college is drugs and drinking, you don't hear about this."

The interdenominational worship service included Jones, the campus ministry Workers of Wisdom, Emporia State University's Harmonious Voices of Praise, jazz band Sounds N Progress and a Praise Dance team.

Byron Williams, president of WOW, said the group distributed more than 1,400 flyers for the event.

"The Word of God was just great," he said. "We're going in the right direction to unite the campus in prayer."

The evening began with worship led by four students from Emporia State's Harmonious Voices of Praise.

A Praise Dance team made up of three WOW members performed an interpretive dance to a song that thanked God.

The final event of the night was a group prayer that involved the audience joining hands in a circle and praying with Jones for K-State ministries and students.

Jones said he enjoyed the youth fellowship at the event.

"It was a blessing to see everyone come together and praise God," he said.

Shots fired inside shopping mall; hostages taken

By Rachel La Corte
ASSOCIATED PRESS

TACOMA, Wash. — A gunman opened fire inside a busy shopping mall Sunday, wounding several people in the halls and taking three people hostage in a music store before police arrested him, authorities said.

Witnesses described hearing a noise and then seeing a man walking backward through the mall, firing.

At least six people were injured, one critically, as shoppers and store clerks scrambled for cover.

Tacoma Police spokesman Mark Fulghum said the suspect, arrested about four hours after the shooting began, was a young man but Fulghum had no other details about him or his possible motives.

Police were interviewing the victims and hostages, he said.

While the suspect was still inside the Sam Goody music store, employee Joe Hudson was able to pick up the phone and say he and others had been taken hostage.

Authorities got the call about 12:15 p.m. that shots had been fired inside the Tacoma Mall. The caller said there was a gunman, "He was in the mall, walking along, firing," Fulghum said.

Inside the mall, Stacy Wilson, 29, of Bonney Lake, heard a popping noise and turned around.

"I saw the gunman randomly shooting. I ran with a group of women to Victoria's Secret," Wilson said. She said they crouched behind a wall in the store, and when the shooting stopped, an employee ran out and closed a security gate at the front.

"He was walking backward and shooting. I couldn't see his face," she said. "Everyone was running and screaming."

Betz Dejarnatt, who works at the J.C. Penney store, said workers were herded into dressing rooms and offices, then police took them outside to a parking lot.

Six people were taken to hospitals, most with minor injuries, according to Tacoma Fire Department Deputy Chief John Lendosky. One person was in critical condition at Tacoma General Hospital, spokesman Todd Kelley said.

Crossing your fingers won't help...

Emergency contraception can prevent pregnancy if taken within 72 hours of unprotected sex

A prescription is required - contact Lafene, your health care provider or local health department

AND

call the National EC Hotline 1-888-668-2528

www.not-2-late.com

Paid for by the Peggy Bowman Second Chance Fund Emergency Contraception Fund

$7 haircut with 1 canned good.

Expires Dec. 23

$15 salt glow.

Gift Certificates Available!

Crum's

Beauty College 785-776-4798
512 Poyntz • Manhattan

$1 SCOOPS

(2 Scoops for $2 and 3 Scoops for $3)

Tuesday Nights

6-10 pm Only

Baskin Robbins

537-3136
319 Southwind Pl.

Where Wonders Never Cease.™

LOVE Advertising?

Work for the Spring 2006 Collegian

Advertising Staff Positions

- Account Representatives

Applications due 3 p.m. Nov. 22

Pick up an application & job description in Kedzie 103.

We're looking for Reliable, Creative, and Enthusiastic people to gain advertising experience and have a great time doing so.

CRIMPERS

$65 Foil Hilite (add another color and haircut for $25)

$30 Men's Hilite (add a haircut for $12)

$27 Full Set of Nails

$18 Lip/Brow Wax Combo

$40 Massage or Spa Pedicure

$47 Brazilian Wax

"Best Deal in the Ville" 717 N 11th St. • 539-7621

November Specials

Since 1975

$60 Foil Hilite (add another color and cut for $20)

$27 Full Set of Nails

$15 Lip and Brow Combo

$35 Men's Hilite and Cut (cut and brow wax)

CRIMPERS TOO

K-State Student Union Lower Level
Call for Appt. 532-5972

Monday Night Football

25¢ JUMBO WINGS

$2 BIG BEERS

Rusty's LAST CHANCE SALOON

Chance to win a Budweiser tool box refrigerator and other prizes!

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Monday, Nov. 21, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 11

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820--COLORADO. Basement efficiency, 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

LIVE ONLY half block from campus and walk to class. Huge one-bedroom basement apartment. $400 plus electric (all other utilities paid). Available now with short term lease. Emerald Property Management (785)556-6899.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975, (785)313-8296.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255.

ONE-BEDROOMS $370-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825 (785)537-7701.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM ground floor apartment in older home, meets all codes, new appliances including dishwasher, very nice, 515 Bluemont, available January, no pets, laundry included, $620 plus utilities, (785)313-0462, leave message.

TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX. Available now for short-term lease. Small pets okay. $550. Emerald Property Management, (785)556-6899.

120
For Rent-
Houses

EVERYTHING NEW. Three-bedroom, two bath house with garage. West of campus. Available soon. Emerald Property Management, (785)556-6899.

FOUR-BEDROOM, THREE bath with study. Nice condition. Ready to move in. All appliances. No pets. $1000. Emerald Property Management (785)556-6899.

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage, Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/dryer, rent/lease/pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house, $1400/ month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or malonerental@yahoo.com

HAVE YOUR own bathroom. Walk-in closets. BRAND NEW DUPLEX. Close to Aggieville and campus. Available now. Emerald Property Management, (785)556-6899.

THREE-BEDROOM. THREE blocks south of Aggieville. Spacious, washer/ dryer, stove, refrigerator, central air. $675. (785)537-9425 or (785)532-4424.

145
Roommate
Wanted

BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Beautiful three-bedroom, two bath house near Westloop. No deposit or lease. Furnished if needed. (785)587-9997.

JANUARY- AUGUST: Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Philip (913)302-0402.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Available immediately. 1006 Laramie. $300/ month plus one-third utilities. (913)775-0327.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. $230/ month. Four-bedroom house next to campus. Pets allowed. Washer/ dryer. Chelsea (314)660-1942.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (785)202-0678. Available December.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

NICE TWO-BEDROOM, walking distance from campus. Water and trash paid. Lease starts January first or possibly sooner. (785)672-2317.

ONE AND two-bedrooms: close to campus, central-air, parking, laundry. (785)539-5800, (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS, available now and in January. Offering some-term leases, call MDI at (785)776-3804.

THREE AND four-bedroom duplexes. Walk to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866.

120
For Rent-
Houses

CLOSE TO campus. Three-bedroom, bathroom, kitchen, dinette, den, attached garage. (785)463-5014.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO baths, two kitchens, very close to campus. (785)776-8628, (785)341-4073.

HOUSES FOR rent. Close to campus. Three, four or five-bedroom. (877)439-4038.

ONE-BEDROOM WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM DUPLEX, 2303 Anderson. $800, available December 17. (785)537-7138.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE FOR January-May. Two-bedroom house, close to campus, $275/ month plus utilities. Washer/ dryer. Call Megan (785)906-0131.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. Available December 15. January to May. $290/ month. Pets allowed. 615 Thurston. Call (785)341-1073.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted to share two-bedroom apartment. $280/ month, split electric and cable bill. Call Megan at (402)750-0570.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom apartment half block from campus. $250/ month plus one-third utilities. Call (785)342-1554.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, outgoing, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

LOOKING FOR a roommate for a four-bedroom duplex. Available as soon as possible. 1112 Vattier. Call Jason (785)443-3306.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for large two-bedroom, one bath, apartment in Westchester Park; tennis, fitness center, available now. Tyler, (785)539-8773.

ROOMMATE WANTED: $350, one-half utilities. Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED: four-bedroom house, block from campus, $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

SUBLEASER FOR one of four-bedrooms, University Crossing. Begins January. $275 monthly. Cable, trash, washer/ dryer furnished. (316)650-6563.

145
Roommate
Wanted

WALK TO class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

AGGIEVILLE LOFT. Lease from January- August 2006. Four-bedroom, two bathroom, new carpet. $350/ month. Moore Property Management. (785)537-0205.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, $325/ month, water and trash paid. Close to campus. Available January 1 (negotiable). Call (573)718-7321 or ajs7333@ksu.edu

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available January. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED two-bedroom apartment, Chase Manhattan apartments. Will pay January rent if signed by December. Call (785)871-0738, (785)871-1553.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASING A two-bedroom close to campus. For more information call (620)276-4940.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-8658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPA-CIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

200 service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

BARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

310
Help Wanted

CATTS GYMNASIICS in Wamego is needing recreational and team coaches. Starting pay $8.00 plus/ hr depending on experience and availability. Call Angie at 785-456-8488 if interested.

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com

330
Business
Opportunities

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator. Full-time position available in Wabaunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcdec@kansas.net.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800-$3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

HOSPITAL MANAGEMENT Consulting a management company that has been doing business with Geary Community Hospital is announcing that they have a position open in the Senior Health Center and Bramlage Inpatient Rehab for an Assistant Director. The qualified applicant must have a minimum of a bachelor's degree in Business and/or Marketing with a healthcare background being preferred but not required. The hours are Monday through Friday with alternating call every other weekend. Interested and qualified applicant should apply in writing to Geary Community Hospital, Attn: Melanie Griffin, Senior Health Center, 1102 St. Mary's Rd. Junction City, KS 66441 or fax to (785)238-2681 or email to mgriffin@gchks.org. Equal Opportunity Employer.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day 11:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PROGRAMMER, CIVICPLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

SPRING BREAK- Early Booking Specials- FREE meals and drinks. $50 Deposit. (800)234-7007. www.endlesssummerdays.com.

Quiznos Sub
MMMM...TOASTY!

su/doku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

1		4	8	9		6
7	3				4
				1	2	9
		7	1	2		6
5			7	3		8
	6		9	5	7
9	1	4	6
	2					3
8		5	1	2		4

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

310
Help Wanted

ROYAL PURPLE YEAR-BOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

STUDENT NEEDING ride home occasionally to Parsons, KS on weekends. Will share expenses. (620)421-3069.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

410
Items for Sale

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email hacman72@hotmail.com

500 transportation

600 travel
trips

630
Spring
Break

"#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LeisureTours.com or (800)838-8202.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. Call 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.50
each word over 20
20c per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.95
each word over 20
25c per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.65
each word over 20
30c per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.90
each word over 20
35c per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40c per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

shout outs

032
Shout
Outs

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

ATTENTION: THE City of Manhattan is condemning 909 Kearney due to unsanitary conditions.

CAN WE count on Woolridge to retire at the end of his season too?

CLINT S. - My lips would like to meet yours, but lets wait until the season is over.

GET A clue! Hang up your cell phone and move on.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY Aaron, even though it's a little late. Kristen

HAPPY THANKSGIVING, Pam, Ruth, Matt, Scott, Deb, Carol

I LOVE a clean cut ag guy with tight jeans, and a big belt buckle. Makes me feel like Rodeo season.

I LOVE fumes; paint, gasoline, polish remover, marker but can't do smoke fumes.

IF IT'S not ok to smoke within 30 feet of an entrance, how can you get away with smoking inside Fairchild?

STEWART- HOT on the court and off the court.

KODY KOOPER, your articles are absolutely terrible but I love them anyway.

PAYSON, MICKELSON, Courtney and Erin are the hottest ad reps to ever be seen!

STOP BY 1011 for boxer hour.

THANKS COACH! Great party the last 17 years, party on!

WAY TO go Wildcats, great win at the end of the season.

000 bulletin
board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/ksfc www.bobbyts.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/
real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

WILDCAT PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
537-2332

Anderson Village
1 BD-1BA
$460 for January

1507 Poyntz #1
2 BD @ $600
NEW carpet & paint
Gas & water paid

1509 Poyntz
1 LG BD @ $525
Washer & Dryer
ALL Utilities PAID

MONTH- MONTH Leases.
Two-bedroom, $520. Three-bedroom, $620. 1510 College Ave. (785)537-2096.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances. $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)341-1389.

GREAT DEAL! Studio apartment available January 1. Five or seven month lease $340, all utilities paid. (785)410-6361 or (785)341-4754.

JANUARY LEASE. Two-bedroom, two bath apartment. Brand new, great location. Two blocks from campus. One block from Aggieville. All appliances including washer/ dryer. (785)317-5326 or (316)640-1885.

Sick of your Roommates?
FIND A SUBLEASER BY ADVERTISING IN THE COLLEGIAN
CLASSIFIEDS

532-6555
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

NOW LEASING

• Large 2 Bedroom Apts •
Cambridge Square •
Sandstone • Pebblebrook

Available for Jan-2006 College Heights
Close to campus

537-9064
www.hillcountrylandrental.com

Campus Phone Book
Get it
in Kedzie 103.
Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

<

SNYDER | K-State coach honored with video tributes, chants from fans

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

K-State coach Bill Snyder becomes overwhelmed with emotion as seniors made their way onto the field prior to K-State's game against Missouri. Seniors, some of whom were members of the Big 12 Championship team in 2003, played their final game as Wildcats Saturday.

Continued from Page 1

Bill Snyder Family Stadium, on senior day.

"It was kind of surreal at first," he said. "It was just an amazing feeling, and then it hit me like, 'We did this. We finally got the win, and it was the perfect time.'"

It was a day filled with emotional goodbyes to Snyder, who ended his career with 136 victories, and nearly everyone was caught up in it.

from former players Terence Newman and Darren Sproles, to Sen. Pat Roberts, to current Oklahoma coaches Bob Stoops, Kansas City Chiefs' Dick Vermeil and Iowa State's Dan McCarney, among many others.

Snyder said in the time from his Tuesday press conference to announce his retirement to Saturday's game, he had become emotionally overwhelmed.

"I'm spent. I'm spent," he said. "It's been a far different week than I anticipated since last Tuesday. It's been a hard week, it's been a very emotional time and I've probably experienced every emotion that an individual can experience."

As for the game itself, the Wildcats rallied from a 28-14 deficit behind the legs and arm of former starting quarterback Allen Webb.

Webb came off the bench in the third quarter to spark the Wildcat comeback by completing 10-of-14 passes for 93 yards and a touchdown, in addition to 91 yards rushing.

Webb said the game was special to the players, who wanted to win their last game under Snyder.

"We wanted him to leave on top," Webb said. "He's been a wonderful coach. I think his past speaks for itself. You really can't be coached by any coach better than him."

Following K-State's win, the 13th consecutive victory over Missouri, Snyder addressed the crowd from a platform set up near the 10-yard line at the north end of the field.

"This was a very hard decision to make," Snyder said.

"I like to think I made it for the right reasons, but as I look out here today, I realize how really difficult this is going to be."

"They're going to name this stadium the Bill Snyder Family Stadium, and I hope that you understand that you are my family as well."

After he spoke, Snyder was carried off the field on the shoulders of senior offensive lineman Jerome Clary and sophomore wide receiver Jordy Nelson, a fitting end to Snyder's 17-year run as one of the most successful college football coaches in the game's history.

"We just feel really great to have him leave on top," Webb said.

GENERAL | Military science room named after K-State graduate

Erik Rogers, junior in sociology, listens to Ron Keys, Air Force General, talk about his military career Saturday in the Military Science Building.

Katie Lester
COLLEGIAN

Continued from Page 1

have fun with their job and to enjoy the benefits of military life.

Keys, a K-State graduate, is one of only 14 four-star generals in the U.S. Air Force, said Capt. Shane Kinkaid. Another four-star general, Gen. Richard B. Myers is also a K-State graduate. Myers received similar honors from the university in 1999.

"It's a pretty big accomplishment for one university," Kinkaid said.

Keys has been in the Air Force for 38 years.

He has 300 hours of combat time in southeastern Asia and has served as an assistant to both the Air Force Chief of Staff and the Secretary of Defense.

Currently General Keys is the Commander of Air Combat Command which oversees the bulk of U.S. Air Force operations.

He is also the Air Component Commander for U.S. Joint Forces Command and U.S. Northern Command.

"I would never have thought I'd make it this far," Keys said.

NO CONTRACTS
NO CREDIT CHECK
NO DEPOSIT

For the Best Prepay Plans on the Planet

Kansas Wireless

MANHATTAN
305 Fort Riley Blvd
785.565.9219

JUNCTION CITY
7th & Washington
785.238.4020

clip & save
FREE
Faceplate
When you sign up for Prepaid Service
Expires 12/31/05

go one better
CELLULARONE
national cell dealer

SANTA SUGGESTS...

Women's Styles In Stock...

Spice Exotic	Spice Smooth	Tetra Peak	Prime Blue
Samurai	Prime	Jungle Blue	Forward High
Prime Old	Chameleon Varsity	Prime Old	Prime Old

Men's Styles In Stock...

Jungle Moc	World Leader	Concourse	World Place
Downforce	Paradise Shield	Chameleon Stretch	Prime Low

Buy 1 pair get second pair half off on all brands Nov. 25 & 26.

Brown's SHOE Fit Co.

311 Poyntz • Manhattan • 776-6612
Hours: Monday-Saturday 9am - 6pm
More Shoes. More Service. More Friendly.

Pick Up Special
XL 16" 2-Topping Pizza
Only $7.99
or Large 14" 2-Topping Pizza
Only $6.99
Valid Carry Out Only, Limited Time Only

GUMBY'S
Pizza

770-3333

K-States Favorite Pizza Joint
#1 in Late Night Delivery!

Load Up On These Coupons

Gumby Value Menu

Choose any of the Following for $5.99 +tax

1. 14" Value Cheese Pizza
2. 14" Value Pokey Stix
3. 10 Buffalo Wings
4. 10" Pokey Stix & 5 Buffalo Wings
5. 10" Cheese Pizza & 5 Wings
6. 10" Cheese Pizza & 2 Rolls
7. 5 Pepperoni Rolls
8. Value 1-Item Calzone
9. 12" 1-item Value Pizza
10. 10" 2-item Value Pizza

XL Pizza Deal

XL 16" 2-Topping Pizza
$9.99
or 2 for $16.99

Monday Mania

14" Cheese Pizza
for $3.99
Toppings Extra
Dine in or Carry out
Limited Time Only

Campus Special

1-Topping Pizza
or Pokey Stix
Med (12") for 4.99
Lg (14") for 5.99
XL (16") for 6.99
Campus Only

Stick It to Me Tuesday

Buy One Pokey Stix
and Receive Equal or Lesser Value
Free
Tuesday Only

Gumby Combo

Lg (14") 1-Topping Pizza
+
10 Wings
+
1 free Pepsi 2-liter
for $13.99

Rock N Roll Wednesday

Pepperoni Rolls
Only 50¢
Delivery Order $6.99 minimum
Pizza Sauce & Ranch Extra
Wednesday Only

Big Ass Pizza

20" 1-Topping Pizza
$10.99
or
Two for $21.99
Toppings Extra
Limited Time Only

Weekday Madness

Lg 1-Topping Pizza
or
Lg Pokey Stix
$5.99 +tax
Monday-Thursday only

Thank You Coach Snyder for the Memories

Tornado warnings add to confusion at shopping center

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Confusion reigned at Manhattan Town Center Sunday when a tornado warning left employees and shoppers unsure of what to do to protect themselves.

Amie Frye, receptionist at the customer service desk, said there is a handbook for employees of the mall, describing what procedures to follow in an emergency, but even the employees didn't know what to do.

Allen Raynor, mall manager, wasn't working during the tornado siren.

"(People) can't leave the mall unless the mall manager says they can," Frye said. "And the mall manager wasn't here."

Some patrons believed they had to stay at the mall during the tornado warning, Frye said.

Raynor said despite the confusion, everything went as planned. "We had a plan. We followed it," Raynor said.

Nikki Smith, cosmetologist at Regis Hair Stylists in Manhattan Town Center, said since they aren't allowed to stay in the salon, she took her client with her to a hallway.

Both Smith and Frye said the store gates at the mall are lowered during a tornado warning. Patrons and employees are able to stay in the back of the stores.

"All the gates go down. Then they're in there. Then they have to stay in there," Frye said.

Patrons of the mall were required to remain in the mall, Smith said.

"They lock all the doors," she said. "If they try to leave the mall, security will stop them."

But security guard James Younkin said for security reasons, the doors couldn't be locked. Rescue workers need to be able to enter the mall in an emergency.

People who are seeking refuge need to be able to access the mall, and those who wish to leave need to be able to leave, Younkin said.

"We sure can't force anybody out of a safe haven," Younkin

said.

Normal procedures in a tornado warning include announcing the warning over the public address system. However, no announcement was made during the warning on Sunday.

"I don't think the PA system was working," Frye said.

The tornado warnings were only a segment of weather conditions around Kansas on Sunday.

Interstate 70 was closed from U.S. Highway 24 in Colby to Goodland and the Colorado border, because of icepacked and snowy conditions.

Eastbound, I-70 was wet from Topeka to Kansas City.

"We can have tornadoes any time of the year," Mary Knapp, state climatologist, said. "We've even had thundersnow a couple of times."

Beauty queen K-State student represents Blue Valley in competition for title of Miss Kansas 2006

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Alexandra Ross, freshman in pre-journalism and mass communications, traveled to Overland Park, Kan., over the long weekend — and not for a holiday feast.

Ross was one of 31 females aged 18-27 who was chosen to compete in the 2006 Miss Kansas USA pageant. Ross, who represented Blue Valley in the event, was informed of her acceptance in early October.

"I'm really nervous," Ross said. "I'm excited, but then it gets closer and closer and I get really nervous. It will be fun, I think."

She made the decision to enter the pageant last summer. In July she completed the required personal questionnaire and submitted her headshots. Her encouragement to apply for the pageant came from her mother's friend, who has been on pageant judging committees, she said.

"He told me I really should do it," Ross said. "Mom got me an application and I filled it out."

As this is the first pageant Ross has participated in, she turned to her residence hall neighbor, Jessica Villa, who has been in about 10 pageants, for guidance.

"I think a lot of people judge pageants without ever giving them a shot," Villa, freshman in theater, said. "When you go through the preparation and pageant weekend, it gets crazy, and a lot of people don't understand how hard of work it is and all the preparation that goes into it. It's a really good experience."

The pageant took place from Nov. 25-27 at Johnson County Community College of Overland Park. A 900-dollar entry fee was required, for which funding the contestants solicited various sponsors. This fee covered lodging and dining expenses for the three-day event.

On Friday, the first day of the pageant, the contestants enjoyed a little rest and relaxation. The evening, which consisted of a banquet dinner, allowed the contestants to become acquainted with each other, the pageant staff, city officials and other special guests.

On Saturday, the contestants began work with numerous choreography rehearsals. They were required to learn choreography for the opening song, which was presented at the final pageant Sunday evening.

The presentation show was also Saturday, during which time the girls were presented to the judges and competed in the swimwear and evening gown categories. A live audience was also present for this portion of the pageant.

See PAGEANT Page 8

Along with several other contestants, Alexandra Ross comes back on stage in her swimsuit. The Miss Kansas and the Miss Teen Kansas pageants were held at the same time.

Miss Kansas USA pageant contestant Alexandra Ross, freshman in pre-journalism and mass communications and the current Miss Blue Valley, makes her way onto the stage along with the other contestants one last time for the presentation part of the pageant Saturday night at Johnson County Community College. The pageant was a three-day event that ended with the crowning of a new Miss Kansas.

Photos by Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

CNN creator to lecture in McCain Auditorium

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A capacity crowd is not expected at Ted Turner's Landon Lecture today, said Charles Reagan, chair of the Landon Lecture series.

"We're hoping for a good crowd, but we do not think it will exceed capacity seating," Reagan said.

On June 1, 1980, Turner initiated Cable News Network, the world's first live, 24-hour news television network.

He also began Headline News, CNN International and Turner Classic Movies.

In 1998, Turner created the United Nations Foundation with a commitment of $1 billion to promote a peaceful world through the support of the United Nations. Turner also owns about 2 million acres of land in seven states, including Kansas, and raises bison on the land.

"He's someone who has been at the very top in three different areas," Reagan said.

"He's also virtually the inventor of cable television."

In addition to giving a Landon Lecture, Turner will also visit the Konza Prairie Research Natural Area, Reagan said.

"We thought he would be interested in seeing the research being done at Konza Prairie and how we raise our bison," Reagan said.

Turner introduced 24-hour news coverage, which did not exist before CNN, said Barb Smith, instructor of journalism and mass communications.

"Turner can give a broader perspective on how he views journalism and where he sees it heading," said Smith, who worked for commercial radio stations in Michigan.

Chris Olsen, senior in mass communications, said Turner is one of the most influential people in television because he took it from a local to a national level.

"He knows what globalization and media convergence are," Olsen said. "He has a view of the way the future of media looks."

Turner

141st Landon Lecture

When:
10:30 a.m. today
Where:
McCain Auditorium
How much: Free

Inside, Page 3

Bringing people to speak as Landon Lecturers is not easy. It takes time and a little luck.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Credit Card awareness

Bob Nugent, the chief U.S. bankruptcy judge for Kansas, is trying to educate people about the dangers of credit cards by starting a local version of Credit Abuse Resistance Education, which puts credit card abuse on a par with abusing alcohol and drugs.

Story, Page 3

Greyhound crash

Faro Jahani, 50, and Martha Contreras, 23, were killed when a greyhound bus ran off a freeway, overturned and slid about 100 yards before hitting a tree Sunday. Authorities said driver fatigue may have contributed to the crash. Dozens of the 44 people aboard the San Francisco-bound bus were hurt.

Iraq abuse

Ayad Allawi, Iraq's former interim prime minister, told the London newspaper, The Observer, Sunday that human rights abuses by some in the new government are as bad now as they were under Saddam Hussein. He said Shiites are responsible for death squads and secret torture centers.

DON'T FORGET

Ted Turner will speak at 10:30 this morning in McCain Auditorium as part of the Landon Lecture Series.

Today is the last day for graduate students to confirm online December commencement attendance.

The Metalsmithing Society's Holiday Sale is from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. today in the K-State Student Union.

Today

High 37
Low 24

Tuesday

High 40
Low 20

Clafin Books and Copies

1814 Clafin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.clafinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Periods of time
5 Distant
8 Oafish one
12 First State
14 Staffer
15 Listless despondency
16 Broadway flasher
17 Caco-phony
18 Extreme frugality
20 Work in a refinery
23 Roll-call reply
24 Put on the payroll
25 Mrs. Bob Hope
28 Chang's brother
29 Succeeds in business
30 Anonymous John
32 Wheeled platforms
34 Be worthy of

DOWN

1 Do something?
2 Earth (Pref.)
3 Building wing
4 Tack-shop item
5 Satyrlike figure
6 Get ready to rumble
7 Edits a letter?
8 Vegetable worker, maybe
9 Stead
10 Stench
11 Say it isn't so
13 Formal document
19 Piccadilly statue
20 That girl
21 Behave
22 Therefore 31 Conclusion
33 Camels' kin
34 Septuagenarian's next milestone
36 Dog-food brand
37 Parlor piece
38 Declare openly
39 Dangle a carrot
40 Shakespeare title start
43 Bullring bravo
44 Call — day
45 Fresh
46 Campus protest grp.

Solution time: 21 mins.

GLIB MAG PALE
AIDE ORR IDEA
NELL NEEDLESS GNEISS GUILTY
ZITI DRA CARELESS GIVE ODE TRITE DAN
BOAR STARLESS
DEN STOA
STYMTIE USURPS
TIMELESS GAIT
ARTIL LEE HINE
TEXT YES SLEW

11-28 CRYPTOQUIP

SE WGN TLUI YG ZICQ

WGNX QGA GX MLY YG L

QSEEIXICY UIY. ZGHI HSATY

MLKK SY L XI-ENXXLK.

Yesterday's Cryptokuip: IF SOMEBODY TOTALLY RUNS OUT OF BREATH MINTS, COULD YOU SAY HE'S UN-CERT-IFIED?

Today's Cryptokuip Clue: K equals L

WEEK IN REVIEW

7 things you didn't know 7 days ago

Father, daughter fall through ice

Mark Was | ASSOCIATED PRESS
Divers search an icy pond near Cedar Grove, Wis., Friday, where a 44-year-old man and his 9-year-old daughter fell through the ice while ice skating. They both died in the accident.

A father and daughter died in Cedar Grove, Wis., Friday after a tragic ice-skating trip. Megan Obbink, 9, and her 6-year-old sister were ice-skating Friday morning when Megan fell through the ice. Her father, Brian, 44, tried to save her, but he also fell in. The sister ran and called 911 but it was too late. Both bodies were recovered later that day.

NIKE JET LANDS SAFELY

A Nike corporate jet carrying president and CEO William D. Perez and six other people developed landing gear problems on Monday shortly after takeoff, but made a safe emergency landing. The Gulfstream jet touched down at 12:11 p.m. in Hillsboro, Oregon, the same place the plane left. Perez, 58, was thankful to the pilots for getting the plane down safely.

MANHATTAN STUDENT ARRESTED

A 15-year-old Manhattan High School student was arrested Tuesday after a homemade chemical bomb he brought to school exploded. The student reportedly showed the bomb to friends on the district's west campus around noon, Principal Terry McCarty said. Police said the student was released to a parent. The student faces a charge of criminal use of an explosive. McCarty said the student could face disciplinary action ranging from a one-week suspension to a one-year expulsion. No one was injured, and damage to the school was minor, police said in a press release.

CITY CLOSES WATER SUPPLY

The city of Harbin, China, closed schools on Wednesday and was trucking drinking water into the city after the water supply had to be shut down at midnight Tuesday. The shutdown was a result of a chemical explosion on Nov. 13 in nearby Jilin that officials said polluted a nearby river with the toxic chemical benzene. However, an employee for the Harbin Environmental Bureau said there is no sign the chemical actually got into the water.

ACTOR DIES AT 73

Actor Pat Morita, famous for roles in "Happy Days" and "The Karate Kid," died Thursday with conflicting reports of the cause of death. His daughter, Aly, said he died of heart failure, but his manager said he died of kidney failure. He was 73 years old. His wife, Evelyn, said her husband "dedicated his entire life to acting and comedy." His role as Mr. Miyagi in "The Karate Kid" was a career defining role as he taught "Daniel-san" to "wax on, wax off." He is survived by his wife of 12 years and three daughters from a previous marriage.

GAY ARAB MEN FACE CHARGES

More than two dozen gay Arab men could face government-ordered hormone treatments, five years in jail and a lashing, authorities said Saturday. The Interior Ministry said police raided a hotel chalet earlier this month and arrested 22 men from the Emirates as they celebrated a wedding ceremony. This is one of a string of recent group arrests of homosexuals. Interior ministry spokesman Issam Azouri said the men are likely to be tried under Muslim law under charges related to adultery and prostitution. Outward homosexual behavior is banned in the United Arab Emirates.

JAPANESE RESIDENTS EVACUATE

About 3,900 residents were evacuated in Tokyo on Sunday while authorities dug up an unexploded 500-pound bomb. The bomb is believed to have been dropped by the United States during World War II. Tokyo's Katsushika ward spokesman Takamori Kato said the bomb was about 14 inches in diameter and 47 inches long. A diver found 59 unexploded shells in waters near Tokyo on Friday.

Source: Associated Press

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Nov. 22

- Javil Hansen, 917 Laramie St., Apt. 1, was arrested at 12:35 a.m. for reckless driving. Bond was set at $1,500.
- James Woodyard, 730 Allen Road, was arrested at 11 a.m. for two counts of lewd and lascivious behavior and sexual battery. Bond was set at $1,000.
- Tlanesha Robinson, Wichita, was arrested at 3:42 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $3,000.
- Kevin Outhet, 812 El Paso Lane, was arrested at 4:17 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.
- Gregory Young, Arkansas City, Kan., was arrested at 10:40 p.m. for worthless check. Bond was set at $400.
- Steven Phillips, 728 Rannells Road, was arrested at 11:05 p.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.

Wednesday, Nov. 23

- Joseph Fabre, 812 El Paso Lane, was arrested at 1:10 a.m. for four counts of theft. Bond was set at $2,500.
- Jessica Laster, Junction City, was arrested at 1:45 a.m. for attempting to flee. Bond was set at $750.
- Uriel Ramirez-Medina, 1536 Campus Road, was arrested at 2:51 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

— For a complete record of arrests, see www.kstatecollegian.com.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A topic research class will be from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. today at Hale 408.

- Students can receive HIV information and free HIV testing from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. today and Tuesday in the K-State Student Union. Students should stop by the SHAPE table near the Union food court.

- Tenor Seth Jones will give a free recital at 7:30 tonight in All Faiths Chapel.

- The Rotaract Club will have a resumé critique at 8 tonight in Union 213.

- The People Speak Forum will be at 5:30 tonight in the International Student Center.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2005

Looking for the perfect gift?
www.injeaniuscreations.com
New locally owned online store.
Order online, no credit card necessary.
Free delivery on local orders.

49th Annual Swedish Supper
Olsburg Lutheran Church
Saturday, December 3, 2005
4:30 - 7:30 p.m.
Adults: $12.50
Call 785-468-3341 or 785-565-8806 for tickets
serving:
lutisk, potatis korv, bruna boner, sill, sill sallat, bondost, ragbrod, ost kaka, frukt soppa, lingon, kram, and much more!

CRIMPERS
$65 Foil Hilite
(add another color and haircut for $25)
$30 Men's Hilite
(add a haircut for $12)
$27 Full Set of Nails
$18 Lip/Brow Wax Combo
$40 Massage or Spa Pedicure
$47 Brazilian Wax
"Best Deal in the Ville" 717 N 11th St. • 539-7621

December Specials
Since 1975
$60 Foil Hilite
(add another color and cut for $20)
$27 Full Set of Nails
$15 Lip and Brow Combo
$35 Men's Hilite and Cut
(cut and brow wax)
CRIMPERS TOO
K-State Student Union Lower Level
Call for Appt. 532-5972

Check out shout outs Get your own shout out for just $2 (20 words or less)
Come to 103 Kedzie or call 532-6555

MEAL MANIA

Quiznos Sub
WWW...TOASTY!
This coupon entitles you to:
FREE CHIP/DRINK WITH PURCHASE OF ANY SIZE SUB
Expires: 12-31-05
DELIVERY 539-9500
900 Haystack Drive
Manhattan, KS 66502
Phone: 785-655-8888 Fax: 785-655-8881
3818 Anderson Road
Manhattan, KS 66502
Phone: 785-774-6888 Fax: 785-774-6400
©2005 Quiznos Inc. Coupon valid at this location only.

$1 off
Build your own Sundae
When you clip this coupon!
5th & Fort Riley Blvd. • 537-9553

Monday Night Football
25¢ JUMBO WINGS
$2 BIG BEERS
Chance to win a Budweiser toolbox refrigerator and other prizes!
LAST CHANCE SALOON

Arranging Landon Lectures often takes time, flexibility, patience

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It takes plenty of work and a bit of luck to make a Landon Lecture happen, but the results aren't always perfect.

This became clear a month ago when Mikhail Gorbachev's Landon Lecture drew a far larger crowd than organizers expected and thousands of people were turned away at the doors of McCain Auditorium.

The lecture ended a long series of events and efforts to bring Gorbachev to Kansas.

Charles Reagan, chairman of the Landon Lecture Series, said it started when a professor at Bethany College in Lindsborg, Kan., tried to arrange for the former Russian leader to come for a special chess event in the city. The professor discovered the price was much higher than he could afford, but Gorbachev's agent told him to find a few other American venues for Gorbachev to appear at and the price would be lowered.

This, Reagan said, is where K-State and other locations across the country came in.

"He's going to come over for 10 or 12 days, and they want to cram in a bunch of events, and he picks up a wad of money, and he flies home," Reagan said. "It's kind of like a rock tour."

Even with the other venues, Gorbachev's price was too much for the Landon Lecture Series, Reagan said. To make it possible, he said one local businessman arranged a $1,000-a-couple dinner that Gorbachev attended, which paid for two-thirds of the cost.

All expenses of the lecture are paid for by the series' patrons, who pay $300 a year for reserved seating, tickets to each lecture's luncheon and other amenities. Reagan said the patrons number about 225, up from the about 175 patrons the series had two years ago before a campaign boosted patronage.

Reagan said the fee depends on the speaker. He said Ted Turner, who will lecture today, is speaking for free and is flying himself here. Brian Williams, an NBC news anchor who spoke in spring 2005, had the series make a contribution to a fund for a friend's crippled daughter.

Reagan said lawmakers like

Possible Bramlage Coliseum arrangements

■ 3,000-5,500 people: Stage is where basketball court stands, facing west with curtain behind it. Audience sits in 3,000 chairback seats and folding chairs on Bramlage's floor. Number varies because placement of stage determines number of chairs that can be placed on the floor.

■ 7,500 people: Stage is at half-court, facing north with curtain behind it. Audience sits in stands and in chairs on the floor. Meal for speaker and patrons is on south side of curtain.

■ 9,500 people: Stage is at south end of floor, facing north with curtain behind it. Audience sits in stands and in chairs placed on the floor.

Source: Charlie Thomas, director of Bramlage Coliseum

Sens. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., and Tom Daschle, D-S.D., spoke for free but were transported here and back by the Landon Lecture Series. However, Gale Norton, Secretary of the Interior, had to pay for all her expenses because she works for the government's executive branch.

The costs weren't the end of it. Reagan said dates were shifted time and time again, and Gorbachev was supposed to be at K-State on Oct. 27 and at the University of Kansas Oct. 28.

Then KU dropped out, Reagan said, because Gorbachev would be at K-State first. He said K-State was asked to move the lecture back one day, which it did, and Gorbachev scheduled two more events for the open day.

The plan was for the speaker and his entourage to arrive the morning of Oct. 28 before the lecture, but changes continued to come right up to the end, Reagan said. Gorbachev and those traveling with him were coming to Manhattan in a chartered plane, but wanted to be rid of it the evening of Oct. 27 instead of the next day to save on the cost of the plane.

Reagan said he agreed to pay for Gorbachev's party's lodging the night before and for the ride to Chicago from Kansas in the university's jet.

"They said 'how many people does your jet hold?' and I said 'five' and they said 'No, no, no, no. We have eight people and 25 suitcases.'"

To accommodate the number of people, Reagan said he had to use both the university's plane and rent the larger plane used by the state of Kansas. He said he never knew what were in the suitcases, just that they were large and heavy.

Reagan said there were three reasons he was surprised by the former Russian leader's popularity.

First, Gorbachev spoke close to the time of the All-University Homecoming parade, late on a Friday afternoon, a time when campus is sparsely populated.

"I've been here for 39 years," Reagan said. "You look at a parking lot around here on a Friday afternoon, it's empty. A lot of students go home, they go off to drink beer, whatever."

Second, he said he didn't think students really knew who Gorbachev was, and noted when he was in power, most K-State students were in kindergarten.

Finally, Reagan said there has been a poor turnout for Landon Lectures in the past three years, and no one said this lecture would be any different.

"I didn't get any clues from the Collegian or from student government or anywhere else that there was going to be an overflow," he said.

Reagan said the lecture's location could not have been changed the week of the lecture because press releases, tickets and letters had been sent out. He said changing it would have caused confusion for all who had already been told to come to McCain.

"You can imagine the people arriving at McCain to be told they've got to get back in their cars and drive out to Bramlage," Reagan said.

Also, he said it isn't so easy to change the venue because other places have schedules of their own. Reagan said he had been told by Bramlage Coliseum's management there were three available setups for lectures there: 5,500 people, 7,500 and 9,500.

Reagan said far fewer people would have turned out if the lecture had been at Bramlage because everyone would have had to drive instead of going to the lecture from a class.

"We didn't think it would come close to 5,500, and nothing looks worse than having a half-empty auditorium," he said. "It makes you look stupid."

However, Charlie Thomas, director of Bramlage, said the smallest option can be flexible. He said the smallest set-up can be altered to allow Bramlage to hold between 3,000 and 5,500 people, depending on where the stage is placed.

Setting up a lecture in Bramlage is another problem. Thomas said it takes one to two days to switch out the basketball court — which was in place the week of Gorbachev's lecture — put the stage together and set out chairs.

"You could do it in less if you got a heck of a lot more people (working) in there," he said.

Reagan said it also can cost up to $8,000 in labor and other costs to transform Bramlage. Thomas confirmed this, and he said former Attorney General Janet Reno's lecture cost $7,200 in work at Bramlage because it required additional rooms to be set up for things related to the event, including a press conference.

President Jon Wefald said it is often difficult to get distinguished people to speak in the series because of the state's location and political arrangement.

"Republicans look at Kansas and say 'we've got it. Why do I need to go to Kansas?' Democrats look at it and say 'it's a Republican state. We'll never get it,'" he said. "If we were Iowa, we'd have more speakers than we could shake a stick at."

Reagan said the Landon Lecture Series has made other universities want to know the tricks K-State uses to get its speakers.

"One of the greatest secrets of the Landon Lectures is how we get people here," he said. "It's like my mother's secret chili recipe."

Reagan said six students from Oklahoma attended Jim Lehrer's lecture this spring, and Reagan has advised the University of Nebraska on how to start its own series. However, he said, their attempt didn't do so well when they ignored his most important piece of advice.

"You have to begin with a blockbuster, somebody that other people want to follow, and they didn't," he said. "They went out and got some third-rate, retired politician."

17th annual holiday music festival showcases local talent

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Meghan Newman, junior in English, taps on a wooden board Saturday afternoon at the Manhattan Town Center. Newman and other K-State dance students performed for a crowd with acts from their upcoming performance, WinterDance 2005.

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

hopes to attend the group's annual performance later this week.

Toddlers, teens, churches and college groups will be showcasing their talents in the Holiday Music Festival events during the next few weeks at Manhattan Town Center.

The 17th annual Holiday Music Festival began Saturday, featuring the K-State Dance program's WinterDance performers.

"Soon, local schools, churches and our greater community will come to share their spirit and talents in song, instrumental and dance performances on the Santa Stage in the food court," said Sara Van Allen, marketing manager at Manhattan Town Center. "All the elements of the festival are quite a site to see. It's something you don't want to miss out on."

From Nov. 26 to Dec. 17, local groups will have an opportunity to give the community a taste of their organizations, and in turn, gain great advertisement for upcoming events, Van Allen said.

After watching the mix of modern, jazz, ballet and international dance features from WinterDance, Manhattan resident Shelly Wilson said she

The Wamego Jazz Singers will perform on Nov. 29, and K-State Clarinet Choir will perform on Dec. 7. Other groups are also scheduled to perform, but Van Allen said those dates are not confirmed.

"It's a great opportunity for people to see their kids perform and listen to songs of the holiday music season," Van Allen said. "The Manhattan community has so much to offer in terms of entertainment and local churches and schools will give us all an opportunity to witness that this holiday season."

For more details on specific performances or for groups interested in becoming a part of the Holiday Music Festival, Van Allen said they should contact the Manhattan Town Center customer service desk at 539-9207.

Dean of Graduate school makes appearance on ABC

By Chuck Armstrong
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A plaque near Washington, D.C.'s Vietnam Wall honors veterans who died during the Vietnam War. A 1982 Air Force study that lasted 20 years and cost $140 million attempted to find out why those veterans died.

The Air Force Research Hand Study of 1,200 Vietnam veterans monitored the health effects of Agent Orange, one of which is cancer, said Ronald Trewyn, vice provost for research and dean of The Graduate School.

Trewyn did not actually do any of the research for the study, but he was on the advisory committee that reviewed the study. Trewyn, who works in cancer research, reviewed the cancer chapter of the study, and said he did not like what he read.

In an advisory committee meeting in June, an independent producer for ABC was intrigued by what Trewyn had to say on the issue. Trewyn said the producer asked him several questions and thought this was a subject Americans should know about.

Accompanied by Dr. Arnold Schechter of the University of Texas School of Public Health, Trewyn spoke to Ted Koppel on ABC's Nightline on Nov. 17 about the study. Trewyn said he and Schechter agreed that Agent Orange causes cancer, but the Ranch Hand study failed to show it.

"The study shows that [Agent Orange] has no cancer effect," Trewyn said. "That's not correct."

There are problems with the report, Trewyn said, but the report can be corrected.

"(The study) is irrational, scientifically unsound and potentially unethical to what this report is doing for Vietnam veterans and their families," Trewyn said.

To view Trewyn's discussion on Nightline, visit www.jredwards.com/ron.htm.

dependable, quality service
Let us put the final touches on your final projects
Elafin Books and Copies

Judge wants more credit card education

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WICHITA — A federal bankruptcy judge is trying to set up a local program to educate people, particularly young people, about the dangers of credit cards.

Every day, Bob Nugent, the chief U.S. bankruptcy judge for Kansas, deals with cases involving people who can't pay their credit card bills.

"I could pull five files at random and you would see people with two, three, four and five credit cards, each with balances of $2,000, $3,000, $5,000 or $6,000," Nugent said.

Nugent said he hopes to establish a local version of Credit Abuse Resistance Education, which puts credit card abuse on a par with abusing alcohol and drugs. The program started with a bankruptcy judge in Buffalo, N.Y., and is in place in some other states. Similar programs are gaining momentum in Kansas City and Topeka.

Nugent has already spoken to groups of high school students and given a presentation to potential business majors at Wichita State University.

"Too many people in our society are financially illiterate," Nugent said. "Kids get these credit cards, and they don't know what to do with it. Well, they know what to do with it, but they don't understand that if you only pay the minimum payment every month, the result is crushing."

Trewyn
VICE PROVOST FOR RESEARCH, DEAN OF
THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
PIZZA
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

$1 OFF
ALL DRINKS
SHOTS
PREMIUMS
WELLS
BOTTLES
IMPORTS
Porter's
706 N. Manhattan
537-7151

$2 Boulevard
$1.50 Wells
Alley
1210 Moro
537-0775

Monday:
$2 BIG Beers
20c Wings
Tuesday:
$2.50 Domestic Pitchers
Featuring:
DJ O
1127 Moro
776-3593
Steelers vs Colts @ Indianapolis

Monday Night Football

ROYAL PURPLE
yearbook
We've got the stories • you've got to read.
Get your Royal Purple yearbook
in Kedzie 103, or call 532-6555.

CASTING CALL FOR THE vagina monologues
FLINT HILLS ROOM
2ND FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION
AUDITIONS
7 P.M. DEC. 15T
FLINT HILLS ROOM
2ND FLOOR • K-STATE STUDENT UNION
upc

TO THE POINT

Emergency plans should be made public

Tornadoes in November? Seems like something more apt to be in a cheaply made Lifetime movie.

But that's exactly what happened in Manhattan and surrounding areas Sunday, when several twisters touched down just three days shy of December. The forecast for later that evening? Snow.

Too bad the weather was not the most ridiculous thing to happen this gloomy afternoon.

People doing holiday shopping at Manhattan Town Center said they were confined to the mall when the city was issued a tornado warning at about 3:30 p.m. Patrons reported mall officials refusing to allow them to leave while sirens sounded.

Amie Frye, customer service, said the mall manager has to tell patrons whether it's okay to leave the mall. The manager was not there, which led to confusion for patrons and employees alike.

Employees at the mall should be given instructions on what to do in emergency situations prior to employment. There should also be an emergency preparedness plan for patrons posted throughout the mall.

This simple planning would lead to less confusion for employees and patrons.

In the case of a real emergency, preparedness could save a few lives.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian	Classified ads..... 532-6555
Kedzie 103	Newsroom..... 532-6556
Manhattan, KS 66502	news@pub.ksu.edu
Display ads..... 532-6560	Delivery problems..... 532-6555

CLASH OF THE COLUMNISTS

Best western

Though long, 'Lonesome Dove' gives viewers sense of purpose

Lonesome Dove is six hours long. Sitting down to revel in the exploits of Captains Augustus McRae and Woodrow F. Call of the Texas Rangers is something that must be planned for, like Friday night at the races or a Saturday evening on the plaza. Don't start it after 7 p.m., after a big meal, before a big test or on a first date.

Technically, it's not a movie. Lonesome Dove was an award-winning miniseries filmed in 1989, with stars Robert Duvall, Tommy Lee Jones, Diane Lane, Angelica Huston and Danny Glover. The story is a big-screen rendition of western author Larry McMurtry's first book in the Lonesome Dove series.

The majestic tale of retired Texas Rangers who conquered everything the Wild West dared to send their way has more themes than Old Maids at the bottom of your popcorn bucket.

Between Duvall and Huston, true love is lost to Duvall's character, McRae's, restlessness and devotion to his riding partner.

Jones' character, Woodrow Call, is the driven accomplice whose sole shortcoming lack of emotion.

For the MTV-age, McRae is quite Stifler-esque in his mannerisms. The only differences are his boots and hats, and that his motivations come not only from what rests between his legs, but also that which is flanked by his ears and beneath his chest.

Duvall sets the standard for the romantic cowboy Hollywood never found again. His character shines like the stars on a moonlit prairie night. Without his timing and wit, Lonesome Dove would be two cowboys pushing cattle while their friends die around them. Pretty boring.

In all fairness, we should be comparing Lonesome Dove to a compilation of three or four other great westerns, but the outcome would remain the same. No character is superhuman, unbelievable or perfect — resulting in a perfectly believable yet astounding account of hardship, devotion, undying love and Irish mule-manship.

Hope you don't blame me for being vague. Picking a high point out of any epic is near impossible. Should I discuss the torn hearts of Captains Call and McRae as their rope hangs Jake Spoon, a friend and fellow Ranger who fell in with a gang of horse thieves and murderers?

Or would it be more fitting to relate Call's bedside goodbye to a stubborn McRae who would rather die than lose his pride? If you're a bawler, you'd best bring a hearty supply of tissues for the numerous deaths and tragedies throughout the film, but I've never felt anything but a longing for an adventure of the same sort when my stiff legs lift me off the couch.

When it's over, even if you're emotionally unaffected, you'll have purpose. It'll be time to shave again.

Lucas Maddy is a senior in agriculture technology management. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

LUCAS MADDY

Butch Cassidy, Sundance Kid rule wild west with hope, possibility

"Use enough dynamite there, Butch?"

This has to be one of the best lines ever to exist in movies — which is why "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" rules the western movie genre.

After all, Paul Newman and Robert Redford are two of the best actors to grace the silver screen. Put them together and you have an instant classic.

Any movie that has the tagline, "Most of what follows is true" has the option to go down in the annals of history.

The movie opens with a sepia-toned "film within a film" of the Hole in the Wall Gang holding up a train. This scene has been said to have influenced "The Great Train Robbery," which was one of the earliest classic films.

Paul Newman, as Butch Cassidy, is not even introduced as such until later in the film. Neither is his partner, Sundance, played by Robert Redford.

The chemistry between these two characters is outstanding; they play off each other, creating a model for actors in every other movie to aspire to.

While Cassidy and Sundance are the main draw, the supporting cast are unforgettable as well. The Hole in the Wall Gang is full of memorable characters.

That is the best feature of this movie. It is character driven, not action driven. And every character in the movie is a memorable one. One of my favorites is Woodcock — the guard for E.H. Harriman and the Union Pacific Railroad.

After robbing the train several times, Butch and Woodcock become friends of sorts. At one point, Butch and Sundance blow a hole in the side of the train and injure Woodcock. The next train robbery, Butch hears the familiar voice of Woodcock and asks his friend if he is all right. After robbing the train over and over, Harriman hires the Pinkerton Posse to track Butch and Sundance down. This leads to the pair running for their lives. Every time they think they're safe, the posse shows up. At one point, the pair doubles up on a horse, to throw off and divide the posse, but only wind up with a single horse and the entire posse following them with lanterns.

The relentless chase leads the pair to react with increasing desperation, and eventually they flee to Bolivia. This is one of Butch's ideas, and it ends up going wrong as most of his plans seem to.

They rob a payroll mule train, unable to stop their old ways, and while eating at a restaurant, a boy sees the mark of the mine the payroll came from. Wounded by gunfire, they flee to the protection of an empty stucco building and are immediately surrounded by the Bolivian calvary.

The end of the movie is tragic, yet the pair go out as they lived. Frozen in time, all we see is the two outlaws with guns drawn, going to their inevitable end.

And this is what makes the movie great. The pair continue to fight for survival even when there is no possible way out. When all looks lost, and no hope remains, the two characters are still discussing where they are going to go next. Giving up isn't an option. In their minds, anything is possible. That's how life should be.

Lola Shrimplin is a senior in pre-journalism. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

LOLA SHRIMPLIN

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

If your name was William Williams, and you went by Bill Williams, that's still really Bill and William.

The body of a small squirrel was found dead off Peticot Lane Sunday morning. Although it is believed to be a homicide, no suspects are in custody. Two cats are being held for questioning.

What happened to Seal's face? Chuck Norris happened to Seal's face.

So... hungry... my arm looks so good right now.

Couch Snyder, thank you so much for a wonderful 17 years. We will not be able to survive without you on this campus. God bless you, your family, the coaches and the players.

I got to congratulate the K-State football team for defeating two opponents on Saturday's game. They defeated both Missouri and the referees. It's amazing. Good job boys.

Did anyone else notice that the Missouri Tigers mascot has an hourglass figure?

I have like five pounds of change, and I don't even have a quarter in it. Is that OK?

Butters the Squirrel is nothing more than a rat with a tail. That's why I shot him dead.

I was watching the movie House of Wax, and it was horrible. But, then it got to the scene where Paris Hilton got killed, brutally, and I was satisfied.

To the person who stole the laptop from 1530 Jarvis — If you return it I promise I won't hunt you down and hurt you.

My roommate told me that a terrorist bombed the telecommunications center, and that's why AI keeps going down.

Get well soon Marcus Watts, you had an amazing season.

Suckers.

I know what happened to Seal's face — he was mauled by a seal, that's how he got his name. Duh.

Once again the gospel choir gets no coverage in the Collegian, and even if they did do something it would have to be workers of wisdom on the very back page. Thanks again Collegian, we love you.

Hey, Lucas Maddy, take a chill pill alright? I saw a semi take out one of the little pillars on the 17th St. entrance to campus this morning.

Note passing, giggling and telling secrets passed with the 1980s. Please tell this to the four Kappa's in microbiology.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

THE EDGE

Monday, Nov. 28, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 5

Relieving stress

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

While exercising at the Peters Recreation Complex, Jamison Strahm, senior in mechanical engineering, bench presses Sunday evening. Exercising, listening to music and looking at art are ways students can reduce stress.

Music, exercise offer students alternatives for relaxation as semester closes

Photo illustration by Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Eight ways to beat stress

1. Spend time in silence every day. In the high-tech world, people are surrounded by and immersed in information — streaming via television, e-mail, voice mail, fax machines and pagers. Information overload can become a detriment to your health.
2. Reconnecting with stillness is an important component of health. Every day, people should devote a little time to take themselves out of the "busyness" game. First, eliminate all the forms of intrusion. Then close your eyes, breathe deeply and let your thoughts float.
3. Don't buy into the cultural definition of "news." Andrew Weil, M.D., recommends taking a voluntary "news blackout" on a regular basis — stop reading the newspaper and watching television for one day, a week or longer.

4. Pursue a passion. Activities that absorb a person completely will slow brain waves and put one into that "zone" in which internal chatter is stilled. Physical movement opens the chest, lifts one's mood, curbs food cravings and lowers blood pressure.
5. Practice the "Relaxation Response." Herbert Benson, M.D., Harvard researcher and author of The Relaxation Response and Timeless Healing, says, "Faith quiets the mind like no other form of belief." Here's the technique: Repeat a simple, neutral word such as "one" for several minutes. Then close the eyes, breathe in through the nose and out through the mouth, saying a word or phrase silently while exhaling.

6. Treat yourself to a massage or other type of bodywork. Doing so on a regular basis can help to lower your heart rate and blood pressure and promote muscle relaxation and emotional release.
7. Let the tears flow. Crying can be very therapeutic. Deep sobs open the chest and diaphragm, releasing bound-up energy.
8. Laugh. Rent a classic comedy film or tune into "Nick at Nite" or the Comedy Channel. Rent a tape of your favorite comedian.

He said music has the ability to change a person's mood, make them relax and take them to another place. "Music is one of the few vehicles that has that capability," Goins said. "It creates the widest range of moods."

Source: Discovery Health

By Amy Bolton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While some students deal with stress by going to the bars, some have other ways to relieve stress.

Jessica Coen, sophomore in general agriculture, said there are several ways she tries to deal with her stress.

"Exercise is always a good stress relief," Coen said, "going on really long walks by yourself."

She said other good ways to deal with stress are taking long showers, going somewhere she can be alone and clear her thoughts, and listening to music.

Wayne Goins, associate professor of music and director of jazz, said listening to music is a smart way to deal with stress.

"It activates the brainwaves that causes physical changes in the body and in the mind and in the spirit," he said.

He said music has the ability to change a person's mood, make them relax and take them to another place.

"Music is one of the few vehicles that has that capability," Goins said. "It creates the widest range of moods."

"It stimulates the brain in ways quite unlike any other stimulus."

"When people want to alter their mood, they listen to music specifically in that way, to relax themselves, to release emotions and to relieve stress when nothing else will do."

He said music crosses borders and unites people, because people of all nationalities and all cultures listen to music.

For those who have the ability to make music, Goins said it's also beneficial to create and perform it.

"Listening to music is the most obvious way, but the act of performing music can also be a stress reliever," he said.

Goins said people play jazz music for that very reason.

"One of the greatest reasons why musicians play jazz is because of its healing qualities," Goins said.

Exercise is also a very good way to release stress, said Amber Long, coordinator of fitness and wellness at the Peters Recreation Complex.

"It allows people to take time for themselves and do a good thing for their body," Long said. "It relieves their tension."

Exercise not only helps one's health but it also helps improve their mood, Long said.

"Exercise releases 'feel-good' endorphins," she said. As people exercise, their body releases these endorphins, which makes people feel better, Long said.

Kasey Schmidt, freshman in nutrition and exercise, said she likes exercising when she's stressed because it clears her mind.

"You think about a lot of things and it makes you feel better after you're done running and exercising," Schmidt said.

FAMOUS QUOTES

"Ya gots to work with what you gots to work with."

— Stevie Wonder

"I'm an excellent housekeeper. Every time I get a divorce, I keep the house."

— Zsa Zsa Gabor

"For those who understand no explanation is needed ... For those who don't none will do."

— Jerry Lewis

"Every relationship I've been in, I've overwhelmed the girl. They just can't handle all the love."

— Justin Timberlake

"An eye for an eye makes the whole world blind."

— Gandhi

"Try not to become a man of success, but rather, try to become a man of value."

— Albert Einstein

"Clothes make the man. Naked people have little or no influence on society."

— Mark Twain

"Woman are meant to be loved, not to be understood."

— Oscar Wilde

"Love is the only force capable of transforming an enemy into a friend."

— Martin Luther King, Jr.

"I don't know anything about music. In my line you don't have to."

— Elvis Presley

"My one regret in life is that I'm not somebody else."

— Woody Allen

"A hippie is someone who looks like Tarzan, walks like Jane and smells like Cheeta."

— Ronald Reagan

"When you are down and out, something always turns up — usually the noses of your friends."

— Orson Welles

"TV has brought murder back into the home where it belongs."

— Alfred Hitchcock

"I have to remind my dad, 'Journalists — no matter how many cigars they smoke with you — are not your friends, so don't talk to them.'"

— Cameron Diaz

"Being a celebrity is probably the closest to being a beautiful woman as you can get."

— Kevin Costner

"Some people say that I must be a terrible person, but it's not true. I have the heart of a young boy in a jar on my desk."

— Stephen King

"You're not drunk if you can lie on the floor without holding on."

— Dean Martin

"That's the trouble with being me. At this point, nobody gives a damn what my problem is. I could literally have a tumor on the side of my head and they'd be like, 'Yeah, big deal. I'd eat a tumor every morning for the kind of money you're pulling down.'"

— Jim Carrey

"Run for office? No. I've slept with too many women, I've done too many drugs, and I've been to too many parties."

— George Clooney

"I could take Sean Connery in a fight ... I could definitely take him."

— Harrison Ford

"Charlie Brown is the one person I identify with. C.B. is such a loser. He wasn't even the star of his own Halloween special."

— Chris Rock

Source: www.goodquotes.com

'Walk the Line' brings Cash to life for music lovers, movie-goers

"Walk the Line"

★★★★★

Movie review by Christina Hansen

The man, the myth and the legend that is Johnny Cash has been brought to life in the compelling new film "Walk the Line."

Director James Mangold has crafted an extraordinary film that is glowingly fond, yet brutally honest in its portrayal of Cash. It is the unapologetic portrait of a man as he travels through life's soaring highs and devastating lows.

The film begins with Cash as a young boy growing up on a cotton farm where his family is scraping to get by.

Cash escapes from life's harsh reality by learning and singing every song in his mother's hymnal.

Then a terrible accident claims the life of his beloved older brother. His father's anger and a nagging sense of responsibility leave Cash with an enduring sense of pain and guilt he cannot shake even decades down the road.

The filmmakers also touch on his time in the U.S. Air Force and first marriage, but the bulk of the film focuses on Cash's rise to stardom and his evolving relationship with the love of his life, June Carter.

The two meet while on tour, and the late night drives and long weeks away from home soon forge a bond between Cash and Carter. They develop a close yet conflicted friendship: Cash harbors deeper feelings for Carter, feelings that she can never quite admit to reciprocating.

He is there for her through the pain and criticism of a very public divorce, and she helps to pull him out of a downward spiral into drugs and self destruction. As the two are drawn closer, they try to deny the inevitable fact that they are meant to be together.

Music lovers will be delighted with the quality and quantity of the music throughout the film. The audience is treated to a behind the scenes look at how Cash discovers his trademark sound and tags along on his first tour with fellow up-and-coming talents Jerry Lee Lewis and Elvis Presley.

Many of Cash's most memorable songs are performed, including "Ring of Fire," and the film's titular track. When Cash strums the first strains of "Folsom Prison Blues" in an airplane hangar thousands of miles from home, it will send chills down his fans' spines that will persist until the credits begin to roll.

Stars Joaquin Phoenix and Reese Witherspoon deliver career defining performances in the roles of Johnny Cash and June Carter.

Phoenix, whose intensity and nuanced style has been underused in his past films "Gladiator" and "The Village," captures the essence of Johnny Cash without resorting to caricature. He takes the black suit, cloud of smoke and world of pain hidden beneath a cool exterior, and makes them all believable.

And Witherspoon's spunky performance as Carter is the film's secret weapon. She gracefully portrays her character's delicate balance of vulnerability and strength and lights up every scene in which she appears.

Courtesy Art

"Walk the Line" is easily one of the best films to come out this year and is already generating awards show buzz. Don't miss this poignant exploration of one of the music world's most fascinating figures, and the woman who helped him realize his potential for greatness.

Wildcats improve to 3-0 behind Martin

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Carter Martin is on a roll, and the K-State men's basketball team can only hope he keeps rolling through the competition.

Martin posted his third straight 20-point performance, helping the Wildcats stay perfect to start the season. K-State defeated Stephen F. Austin 71-54 Saturday night in Bramlage Coliseum to move to 3-0.

Coach Jim Wooldridge, who notched his 300th career win, said he didn't have enough nice words to say about Martin, his developing star.

"He's playing awfully well," Wooldridge said of Martin. "He's making all the big shots for us. He's making all the big free throws. He's getting all the big rebounds. He's playing a ton of minutes, so that's good to see out of him."

Martin again was the main offensive threat for the Wildcats, finishing the game with 24 points on 7-of-11 shooting. With seven rebounds, he was just shy of his third straight double-double.

"I'm just going out and trying to produce, trying to help my team win," Martin said. "That's all I can say about that."

In addition to Martin's strong night, senior forward Dramane Diarra emerged to produce his first complete game of the season. Diarra tied a school record with six blocks and also chipped in with six points and four rebounds.

Diarra was a force on the defensive end, holding Antuane Miller, the Lumberjacks' leading scorer entering the game, to just eight points on 4-of-11 shooting.

"(Dramane) was everywhere, he played great," sophomore forward David Hoskins said. "I told him we need him to play like that every night. He was flying everywhere, making blocks, helping out scoring, rebounding. He was doing everything."

Wooldridge said he was pleased with

K-State 71 Stephen F. Austin 54

	K-State	SFA
Field goals	23-56	25-63
3-point	3-8	4-15
Free throws	22-28	0-5
Rebounds	44	33
Assists	21	18
Turnovers	18	17

Leading scorer	Martin, 24	Paez, 13
Leading rebounder	Hoskins, 8	Clark, 7
Leading assists	Taybron, 6	Clark, 12

the way his big man came to play.

"(Dramane) was great," Wooldridge said. "He was active. He got off his feet quick, got to the ball quick. He played with energy, and he played athletic."

It was Diarra who anchored a strong defensive showing from the Wildcats, particularly in the first half.

See MEN Page 8

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN
Going to the basket, K-State's Carter Martin attempts to shoot over Stephen F. Austin defenders Saturday evening.

Sunday NFL Scores

New Orleans	21	Carolina	13
NY Jets	19	Buffalo	9
Baltimore	29	San Fran.	22
Cincinnati	42	Tennessee	33
New England	16	Cleveland	12
Kansas City	26	Minnesota	24
Chicago	13	San Diego	23
Tampa Bay	10	Washington	17
St. Louis	33	Miami	33
Houston	27	Oakland	21
Jacksonville	24	Green Bay	14
Arizona	17	Philadelphia	19
NY Giants	21
Seattle	24

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NFL | Chiefs down Patriots behind Wesley's 3 INTs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — It's time for people to start taking notice when Greg Wesley makes bold predictions.

Right before a game against Miami in 2002, Kansas City's free safety said he would get three interceptions, and did. Then Sunday he picked off three of Tom Brady's passes after telling teammates he would, and Sammy Knight grabbed a fourth in a 26-16 victory over the injury-tattered New England Patriots.

Larry Johnson, with his fourth straight outstanding game, ran for 119 yards and a touchdown as the Chiefs (7-4) stayed within two games of Denver in the AFC West. The Patriots (6-5) remained two games ahead of Buffalo in the less-competitive AFC East.

NFL | Former Cowboys receiver Irvin arrested

PLANO, Texas — Former Dallas Cowboys receiver Michael Irvin was charged with misdemeanor possession of drug paraphernalia after police searched his vehicle during a traffic stop, Plano police said Sunday.

Irvin, a semifinalist for the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was arrested on an outstanding warrant for speeding in Irving after being pulled over Friday afternoon for speeding in Plano, the Plano Police Department said. Police spokesman Mike Johnson said he didn't know what kind of paraphernalia was found.

Irvin paid a fine on the speeding ticket and posted bond on the drug paraphernalia possession charge. He was released about an hour after he was pulled over.

GLF | Sans skirt, Funk wins Skins Game with $925,000

LA QUINTA, Calif. — What a Skins Game it was for Fred Funk, who went from wearing a pink skirt on the third hole to walking away with nearly all the money.

"Wow," Funk said in disbelief Sunday on the 18th green, where he'd just won the final $550,000 and six skins, for a total of $925,000 and 15 skins in his first try.

Funk had a two-putt birdie on the par-5 18th, then clinched the record-setting victory when Tiger Woods missed an 8-foot birdie putt.

The 49-year-old Funk became the oldest Skins Game winner and took all $700,000 available on Sunday.

CFB | Tennessee's Fulmer fires 2 assistants

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Tennessee coach Phillip Fulmer fired offensive assistants Jimmy Ray Stephens and Pat Washington on Sunday, following the Volunteers' first losing season since 1988.

Stephens, 51, was the offensive line coach and had been at Tennessee for three years. Washington, 42, was wide receivers coach and had been with the program for 10 years.

"I appreciate everything Jimmy Ray and Pat have done for Tennessee over the years," Fulmer said in a statement.

College Football AP Top 10

1. Southern Cal	11-0
2. Texas	11-0
3. LSU	10-1
4. Penn State	10-1
5. Virginia Tech	10-1
6. Ohio State	9-2
7. Notre Dame	9-2
8. Oregon	9-2
9. Auburn	9-2
10. Miami (Fla.)	9-2

Other Big 12 teams:
18. Texas Tech 9-2

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Dietz leads K-State past Santa Clara

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State women's basketball team didn't have much time to let its turkey dinners settle over the Thanksgiving break.

On Saturday, the Wildcats grabbed their second victory of the season in a 100-71 victory over the Santa Clara Broncos in Santa Clara, Calif.

Tonight, they head north to complete their two-game road swing, as they take on the Wyoming Cowgirls at home in Laramie, Wyo.

The Wildcats lead the series against the Cowgirls 2-1, but this is their first-ever appearance in Laramie — home of the nation's highest home-court elevation at 7,220 feet inside Arena Auditorium.

Last year, the Cowgirls (2-0) were the Wildcats' first opponents of the 2004-05 season, and the Cats breezed by Wyoming, 85-42. K-State (2-0) will face a similar squad this year, as the Cowgirls return 11 letter-winners and three starters.

The Cats enter tonight's match up feeling comfortable after handling of the Broncos (0-3), a team that won its West Coast Conference Championship last year and lost this season at No. 11 Georgia by one point, 92-91.

In Saturday's game, K-State's veterans led the Wildcats, with sophomore Kimberly Dietz collecting a team- and career-high 23 points. Junior Twiggy McIntyre stepped up with 17 points, and junior Claire Coggins followed suit with 13. The guards combined for a school record 15 3-pointers. In addition, all 11 Wildcats made the scoreboard, the second time this season every player has contributed.

Coach Deb Patterson said she was happy with what she saw.

"For where we're at, it was a good win for our basketball team," Patterson said. "We've got a lot of respect for Santa Clara, so that was a significant win on the road."

Because the Broncos put

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN
Senior outside hitter, Agata Rezende, thanks fans following the Oklahoma game.

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State volleyball team concluded its regular season on a positive note Saturday, reaching the 20-win plateau for the seventh consecutive year.

"It was one of our goals in the beginning of the year to try and get at least 20 wins, so I feel good about the fact that we were able to accomplish that," coach Suzie Fritz said.

No. 25 K-State (20-10, 11-9 Big 12) swept past Oklahoma (7-22, 2-18), 3-0 (30-17, 30-25, 30-28).

With the win, K-State wrapped up sole possession of fourth place in the Big 12 Conference.

"We were picked sixth or seventh in the preseason, and the three teams ahead of us are ranked in the top 10 in the country, so I think (fourth place) is pretty good for a young team," Fritz said.

Sophomore Rita Liliom, who played the entire match against Oklahoma, led K-State with 13 kills on 26 attempts.

"I was so excited when I saw the stats," Liliom said. "I am thankful to my team and my coaches because they helped me. It just feels good to be on a good team."

Outside hitter Sandy Werner added 11 kills on 25 attempts, while middle blocker Joy Hamlin notched a match-high eight block assists.

After K-State won the first game with relative ease, Oklahoma proved to be more of a challenge in games two and three.

Liliom and Werner each had seven kills in game two, which helped K-State take a 2-0 lead in the match.

The Wildcats and Sooners traded points in game three, forcing 14 ties.

Oklahoma built a 22-18 lead, but K-State quickly tied the game at 22-22.

The Wildcats recaptured the lead and held on to win, 30-28.

K-State hit .292 for the match, while Oklahoma managed a .126 hitting percentage.

After the match, President Jon Wefald, director of athletics Tim Weiser, Fritz and 667 fans thanked four Wildcats who played their last home match: Hamlin, outside hitters

"I am happy because I have these great Wildcat fans and staff players, but I will miss them a lot, and that is a sad feeling."

Agata Rezende
OUTSIDE HITTER

Senior sendoff

K-State ends season with 20 wins for 7th consecutive year

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN
K-State's middle blocker Rita Liliom attempts to hit over Oklahoma's Julie Chester Saturday afternoon at Ahearn Field House.

Colorado fans add to reputation as worst fans in Big 12 Conference

As if the University of Colorado needed to taint its image any further, the Buffalo fans go and one-up their football team.

Colorado fans have long had the reputation of being the worst fans in the Big 12 Conference.

In Friday's 30-3 loss to Nebraska, the Colorado students did little to refute that claim.

During the fourth quarter, with the Buffaloes trailing 27-3, many Colorado students began throwing debris and trash onto the field.

The officials stopped the game for about five minutes while Folsom Field security cleared sections 116 and 117, and many students were escorted out of the stadium entirely.

Play eventually resumed, but the damage had been done.

Colorado is already under enough heat because of coach Gary Barnett and the alleged recruiting sex scandals of the last few years.

Now the Colorado faithful go and prove to the nation how classless they really are out there in the mountain air.

It's no secret Colorado is a liberal university.

But how funny is it that the students who claim to be peace-loving, carefree and tolerant of others feel the need to trash their stadium's field in a display of sheer intolerance?

Colorado's liberal students are tolerant of others as long as they are the ones benefiting. Once the tables are turned though, all thoughts of tolerance and acceptance are thrown out the window.

If Colorado fans want something to be upset about, they should turn their anger on Barnett and his program filled with thugs, cheaters and liars.

Sure, Barnett has won some games at Colorado, and for the second straight season, has backed into the Big 12 Conference Championship Game by virtue of an Iowa State loss, but at what cost?

The man does not know the meaning of the word "humble," and is as paranoid as they come. He has publicly announced his disdain for former K-State coach Bill Snyder, who exudes class and dignity.

Barnett has run a dirty program at Colorado and somehow has escaped major NCAA penalties.

But in the end, Barnett is simply a reflection of the kind of environment a liberal university such as Colorado fosters, and the Colorado students' actions Friday do little to prove otherwise.

Michael Ashford is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

MICHAEL ASHFORD

PAGEANT | Ross represents Blue Valley in annual competition

Continued from Page 1

The judges interviewed the contestants Sunday morning, followed by yet more rehearsal time. The weekend's activities culminated with the public coronation show on Sunday evening.

"You have to have a certain walk, and posture and things like that," Ross said. "I tried to practice that every day for like an hour."

During the coronation show, the 31 Miss Kansas USA contestants were narrowed down to 15 finalists. These 15 finalists competed once again in the swimwear and evening gown competitions.

These finalists were then narrowed down to five, who completed another series of interviews with the judges. After deliberating the results from these competitions, the judges then announced a Miss Kansas USA and a runner-up candidate.

Awards are also distributed for special achievement in swimsuit, special achievement in evening gown and special achievement in interview. People's choice awards and honorable mentions are also distributed.

"It was a lot of fun—a lot different than I thought it would be," Ross said.

Even though she didn't make it into the final 15, Ross said she enjoyed the experience and would like to do it again. The title of Miss Kansas USA 2006 went to Ashley Aull, Miss Leavenworth County USA.

"All of these girls are completely different from my hometown," she said. "It's really neat to meet people who are doing this, but are complete opposites. I met a lot of great people."

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN
While competing to become the new Miss Kansas, Alexandra Ross makes her way across the stage in front of the judges while participating in the swimsuit portion of the pageant.

MEN | Wildcats hold Lumberjacks to 54 points in Wooldridge's 300th win

Continued from Page 6

K-State held Stephen F. Austin (2-1) to 10-of-32 shooting — 31.3 percent — in the first half, helping to create a comfortable 34-21 halftime advantage.

The Lumberjacks shot better in the second half, closing the deficit to eight points. However, K-State put together a 16-3 run to pull away and never looked back.

The Wildcats out-rebounded the Lumberjacks 44-33, and were able to force 17 turnovers. It all added up to just 54 points out of the Lumberjacks, who came in averaging 82 points per game.

"When you play good defense, you force bad shots, and it's easier to get out on the break and get easy transition buckets," Hoskins said.

As for Wooldridge and his milestone victory, he wanted no attention to be placed on his personal accolades.

"I'm just glad we won tonight," Wooldridge said. "We did some things that we can build on, and we'll just move forward."

WOMEN | Wyoming offense could cause problems for K-State

Continued from Page 6

the majority of their pressure on K-State's posts, it opened up the guards for offensive opportunities, Patterson said.

"We really did a nice job of taking advantage of what the Santa Clara defense was giving us," Patterson said. "I think their game plan was to place a high priority on our post game after watching our Detroit film."

The guards and posts worked together to compensate for the Bucks' defensive execution, and that is a good sign for her team. Still, it is only November, and it's too early to identify what the 2005-06 team can really do, Patterson said.

"It's too early to make any qualification on what we're capable of," Patterson said. "We're off to a good solid start, but there's no test like conference play."

The Cowgirls will be another test for K-State. Their motion offense creates an unpredictable situation for the Wildcat defense, Patterson said.

All her team can do is take each game as it comes and not look too far into the future, the coach said.

"I like what I'm seeing," Patterson said. "But we're living in the moment, especially with young and inexperienced team."

VOLLEYBALL | Hamlin, Perkins forego final year of eligibility

Continued from Page 6

Agata Rezende and Katie Stanzel and defensive specialist Jamie Perkins.

Hamlin and Perkins decided to forego their final year despite having one more season of eligibility.

Rezende said she felt mixed emotions in her final match at

Ahearn Field House.

"I am happy because I have these great Wildcat fans and staff and players, but I will miss them a lot, and that is a sad feeling," Rezende said.

The weekend got better on Sunday, as the Wildcats were one of seven Big 12 teams selected to the 2005 NCAA Volleyball Tournament, marking K-State's 10th consecutive tournament appearance.

The Big 12 showcases the No. 1 overall seed, Nebraska, and more teams than any other conference in the tournament.

"I am happy with the fact that the Big 12 got seven teams," Fritz said. "That is just a testament to the strength of our conference."

In the first round, K-State will play at 4 p.m., Thursday in Gainesville, Fla., against Florida A&M (22-5), which has won 20 of its last 21 matches.

If the Wildcats can get past Florida A&M, they would likely play SEC Champion Florida (30-2) on its home court.

"That is a very difficult first and second round draw for us," Fritz said.

Crossing your fingers won't help...

Emergency contraception can prevent pregnancy if taken within 72 hours of unprotected sex

A prescription is required - contact Lafene, your health care provider or local health department AND call the National EC Hotline 1-888-668-2528

www.not-2-late.com

Paid for by the Peggy Bowman Second Chance Fund Emergency Contraception Fund

Got a NewsTip or Story Idea?
Call 532-6556 or e-mail: collegian@spub.ksu.edu

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

So Many Numbers
4 8 3
sudoku
On the classified
Page

Snip N' Clip
Hair cut stops

Student cuts $7.95

Highlite & color service available

3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410

M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

$1 Order Of Buffalo Wings With Purchase Of Any Medium or Large Pizza at Menu Price

Aggieville
1121 Moro 539-7666

Westloop 2931 Claflin 539-7447 3rd & Moro 231 Moro 776-4334

* Not good in combination with any other special offer • 1/20 cent cash redemption value • Pizza Huts of Manhattan, Inc. 11/05 • Expires: Dec. 15, 2005

Pizza Hut
KSU Basketball & Pizza Hut

LANZADON LECTURE SERIES

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

Ted Turner
Media Visionary,
Philanthropist,
Statesman

Monday,
November 28, 2005
10:30 a.m.
McCain Auditorium

GIFT GUIDE

Monday, November 28, 2005

This holiday, find the perfect gift for everyone on your list

Holiday gift ideas for loved ones

TO:	Grandparents	Mom	Dad	Brother	Sister	Boyfriend	Girlfriend	Friend
$ 26 +	Restaurant Gift Certificate	Silk Pajamas	Tools	Madden NFL 2006	Pilates Kit (includes mat & video)	DVD Box Set	Cashmere Sweater	K-State Hoodie
$ 25	Coffee Maker *	Spa Facial	Leather Gloves	Utility/Pocket Knife	Manicure/Pedicure	Sports Watch	Rosie the Riveter Night Light	Double CD Set
$20	Throw Blanket	Massaging Foot Spa	Wallet	Poker Set	Gourmet Cookbook	Sports Jersey	Scrapbooking Supplies	iTunes Music Card
$ 15	Photo Album	Book	Flannel Pajama Pants	"Sin City" DVD	Movie Passes	CD or DVD Rack	Favorite Salon Shampoo	Coldstone Gift Certificate
$ 10	2006 Wall Calendar	Stationary	2006 Day Planner	7-Piece Ratchet Set	Fleece Slippers	Stocking Cap	Lotion or Bubble Bath	One Time Use Digital Camera
$ 5	Coffee Mug	Votive Candle	Gourmet Coffee	Video Rental Coupons	Hair barrettes & clips	Boxer Shorts	Framed Picture of the two of you	Silly Putty

STREET TALK

What do you want for Christmas this year?

Holloman

"Rims for my car."
Nani Holloman
SOPHOMORE IN CHEMISTRY

Sullivan

"Travel gear because I am studying abroad."
Amanda Sullivan
SENIOR IN ARCHITECTURE

Collings

"A copy of Perry's Handbook for Chemical Engineers, which is like a $200 book, and movies."
Kyle Collings
SOPHOMORE IN CHEMICAL ENGINEERING

Franklin

"More money because then I can just get what I want."
Janelle Franklin
SOPHOMORE IN ANIMAL SCIENCES AND INDUSTRY

Odongo

"For my dad to pay off my car insurance."
Erastus Odongo
FRESHMAN IN ENVIRONMENTAL DESIGN

Strouts

"A ski trip so I can be with my family."
Rachel Strouts
JUNIOR IN BAKERY SCIENCE AND MANAGEMENT

Devine

"An iPod ... and clothes."
Montreal Devine
JUNIOR IN SOCIAL SCIENCE

Butler

"Snow boots because of that snowy day a few weeks ago."
Meghan Butler
FRESHMAN IN PROFESSIONAL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Gearhart

"Some cowboy boots."
Cody Gearhart
JUNIOR IN PARK MANAGEMENT AND CONSERVATION

Wilcox

"An iPod."
Andy Wilcox
SENIOR IN MILLING SCIENCE AND MANAGEMENT

GLASS
EXPERIMENTALS

Our Exclusive Etched
K-STATE GLASS
Many Choices • Purple Too

Glass Impressions • 329 Poyntz Ave
Mon - Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5 • Sun 1-5

Give the gift of MASSAGE
Body First
2005 ANDERSON
587-8300
www.bodyfirst.com
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE

Looking for the perfect gift?
www.injeaniuscreations.com

New locally owned online store.
Order online, no credit card necessary.
Free delivery on local orders.

Gift Certificates available
$5 & ↑
Order unique DVD's
Deadline to order Dec. 21

Digital Shelf

Gift Ideas From Claflin
Books make great gifts!
Friends, Lovers, Chocolate
by Alexander McCall Smith Strong Women Stay Slim
by Miriam E. Nelson, Ph.D.
Plus-check out our line of teas

Claflin 1814 Claflin Road
Books and Copies (785) 776-3771

Holiday Hairdos!

Call now for your Christmas appointments!
$5 off
for new clients
Bark Avenue
CANINE DESIGNS
607 N. 11th
Located at the Handl Corner in Aggieville
785-565-0612

$60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60

CAN YOU BELIEVE IT?
2 GREAT SPECIALS
1 GREAT PRICE
$60 COLOR AND HAIRCUT OR STYLING
*with Jess, Heather, & Nichole
*additional costs may be included on additional colors
*call for details
GALLERY
Glen Theodore FOR HAIR
3266 Kimball • Candlewood • 776-5632

$60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60 $60

SANTA SUGGESTS...

Women's Styles In Stock...

Have Extra, Spira Stretch, Force Flex, Plus Size, Bumble, Puka, Jungle Men, Forester High, Puka 1300, Chameleon Stretch, Puka 1300, Puka 1300

Men's Styles In Stock...

Jungle Men, World Leader, Concave, World Piece, Powerforce, Pursuit Shield, Chameleon Stretch, Puka Low

Buy 1 pair get second pair half off on all brands Dec. 2 & 3.

Brown's SHOE Sit Co.
311 Poyntz • Manhattan • 776-6612
Hours: Monday-Saturday 9am - 6pm
More Shoes. More Service. More Friendly.

Shakin' Up The Holidays

Know someone who loves ice cream?
Get em' a Shakes Gift Card-they make great stocking stuffers!

Now serving Holly Jolly Peppermint Concretes

Try our speciality coffees .99 on Dec. 3

Shake Cakes available

10% OFF WITH K-STATE ID | $1 OFF WITH THIS AD |

Shakes

Homemade gifts make holidays fun

Hand-crafted gifts a thrifty way to spruce up holiday presents

By Emily Lawrence
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

College students are known for having nearly empty wallets most of the time.

However, when the holidays are near, money can be even more scarce.

Here are some hand-crafted items that can fit into college students' budgets.

Five minute fleece scarf

Supplies:
-1/8 yard fleece
-Fabric Ribbon
-Thread or Fabric Glue

Directions:
Sew or glue ribbon about three inches from each of the short edges of the piece of fleece. Then, make cuts up to the ribbon about 1/2 inch apart. Roll up the scarf and tie with leftover ribbon. This is great with a matching beanie or gloves.

T-shirt travel pillow

Supplies:
-T-shirt
-Fabric glue
-Stuffing
-5 inch strip of Velcro
-Paint pens or fabric paint

Directions:
Glue bottom of shirt together. Then, do the same to the sleeves of the T-shirt. Glue the Velcro to the front of one sleeve and the back of the other. While the glue is drying you can decorate the front of the shirt with paint pens or fabric paints. When glue has dried, stuff shirt through the collar trying to distribute the stuffing evenly. Then, glue the collar together (if it won't stick together it helps to pin it while it dries). Don't forget to include directions with the gift explaining that the sleeves can be fastened with Velcro around the shoulder strap of a seat belt while driving. This is great for kids who have to endure the long drive to grandma's for the holidays.

Book Plates

Supplies:
-Avery #6464 Labels
-Small Velum or plastic envelope
-Scissors
-Computer with Microsoft Word

Directions:

Before you design the bookplate, go online and find a fun quote about reading and a picture of the recipient's favorite literary character. Then, go to www.avery.com and download the 6464 ID label template that has "From the Desk of:" at the top. Open the template in Microsoft Word and change desk to library and insert the name of the person the gift is for. Then, at the bottom, add the quote and replace the template picture with your own. Now you can print the labels, cut them apart and place them in the small envelope. Tie them to a good book and you'll be ready to give the gift of reading.

Coffee Liqueur

Supplies:
-5 cups of sugar
-8 cups of water
-1 cup of instant coffee
-5 Tbsp. vanilla extract (no imitation vanilla)
-1/2 Bottle (750 ml) of vodka (the cheapest vodka will work great, just look for it on the bottom shelf)
-Small bottles
-Labels

Directions:

Heat sugar and water until it boils and sugar is completely dissolved. Remove from heat and let it cool to room temperature. Mix all ingredients together. Bottle and let it sit at least a month. Label the bottles and put them in gift baskets with a few glasses from the dollar store or a recipe for a white Russian. Other liqueur recipes can be found on the Internet but this is an easy starter drink that will warm the season.

Photos by Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Electronics top list of must-have gifts

Illustration by Emily Lawrence | COLLEGIAN

By Eileen Laux
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Many technological gifts are popular this holiday season. And if a person is thinking about giving one, there are places around Manhattan to look for it.

Frank Beer, owner of Modern Electronics Inc., 614 Fort Riley Blvd., said there are three gifts that are the "hottest" right now.

Mp3 players, satellite radio and digital imaging products are the three gifts most in demand.

He said the most popular type of mp3 player is the iPod, but there are other types out that are cheaper. The iPod usually costs anywhere from $200 to $350.

He said the satellite radios are priced from $50 to $90. Sirius and XM are among the most popular brands, and there is usually a service that people sign up for included in the price.

Digital imaging products are anything related to photography and printers. The cameras and printers usually run from $100 to $200, but

Modern Electronics Inc., sells bundles of the camera and printer for $200.

Beer said consumers want other places around Manhattan to sell the same things.

"Competitors will drive the price down to get people to buy the product from them," he said.

He said buying from online Web sites is not the best choice when considering electronics. He said his store - which is a franchise of Radio Shack - will help people spend more money by fixing electronics sold to them off eBay.

"Our goal is to get you the right thing when you walk out the door," he said. "I had a guy the other day and I didn't sell him a phone because I didn't think it was the right choice for him."

He said the rush to buy on the Internet has its drawbacks, and Modern Electronics Inc. has the customer service the Internet lacks.

Chris Loehr, manager of the K-State Student Union Computer Store, said they have previous generation iBooks for $699, $799 and $899.

Loehr said this would be a good gift for parents to give their college daughters and sons at Christmas time. Also available are various models of iPods for prices ranging from $99 to $369. The Computer Store also sells software, which requires an academic identification card.

He said even though students generally go home for the holidays, some students, faculty and community members frequent the store. Faculty and staff come in because they may have been too busy during the semester.

"I would say that due to the news and amount of questions we have gotten, iPods will be a hot gift again this year," he said.

Loehr said the store does fairly well during the break, which can be surprising to most people.

"Technology has changed, it's not the same that it has been in the past," he said. "People are beginning to see the benefit of new technology and want more of it."

aroma lamps
all natural bath & body
jewelry
hoodies, mittens, & scarves
chimes & candle hangers candles & incense
on the Wild Side
1128 Moro

Give the gift of Beauty & relaxation
shear dynamics
1125 Laramie 776-9100
Visit us online at sheardynamics.net
HOLIDAY PACKAGES
Mini Retreat $50
Winter Retreat $80
The Mistletoe $100
Winterberry Pedicure & Manicure $65
• Gift Certificates Available

Great Holiday Gifts
Aggieville Bucks
• Redeem at any Aggieville business
Aggieville Merchandise
• New T-shirts and Hats only $15
Aggieville Advantage Card
• Save every time at your favorite participating Aggieville businesses.
Aggieville Cookbook
• The Great tastes of Aggieville for $15
AGGIEVILLE SINCE 1889
785-776-8050 www.aggieville.org P.O. Box 1804

For the most unique gifts on the Prairie...
Lilacs on the Prairie
327 Poyntz Ave. • 565-0900
Mon-Sat. 10-6, Thurs. 10-7, Sun. 12-5
Clarkspur Lane

HAPPY HOLIDAYS
FROM...
Sisters of Sound
• CDs • Vinyl • New • Used
for your Holiday Music & Gifts!
1214-C Moro 770-9767

Need A Great Gift Idea?
Send A KSU Cheese and Meat Box This Year!
KSU Dairy Bar offers custom built cheese and meat boxes or try the new K-State Select Boxes featuring the
NEW K-STATE SELECT CHEESE
Only Available at the KSU Dairy Bar
Call us at 532-1292 to have a brochure sent to you or stop by 144 Call Hall to place your order.

Movies allow break from holiday stress

By Kristen Roderick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

For those who want to give families and friends a break from work and school during the holiday season, movies could be the perfect gift.

Brandon Nelson, junior in engineering, said this Christmas he wants a lot of movies, "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" and "Batman Begins" to name a few. He said he has about a dozen movies currently.

Nelson said one of his favorite Christmas gifts was the complete "Lord of the Rings" trilogy.

"I asked for it, but I was very happy to get it," he said.

Travis Hudson, junior in mass communications, said already has the movies he wants, but he would buy "Office Space" or the "Family Guy Presents: Stewie Griffin - The Untold Story" for others.

"Both are really funny and good to watch for a good laugh with family and friends," he said. "Both are also fairly cheap."

"Sex in the City" would also be at the top of his giving list, if it weren't so much money, Hudson said.

"It's a good gift although it's about $300 for the entire six seasons," he said.

While new movies can be a relaxing gift for students, friends and family, sometimes old Christmas classics can put people in the holiday mood.

Hudson said "A Christmas Story" has been a part of his Christmas tradition for a while.

"It was simply a classic," he said. "It kind of reminded me of my childhood, but it was super Nintendo instead of a Red Rider BB gun."

However, Hudson said since TBS began airing it so often on Christmas day, he was burnt out of the movie.

Nelson said his favorite Christmas classic is the "National Lampoon's Vacation" with Chevy Chase.

"It's milk-out-of-my-nose funny," he said.

Rachel Riedel, junior in elementary education, said her favorite movie is the animated version of "How the Grinch Stole Christmas."

"I like it because I remember my dad singing 'you're a mean one, Mr. Grinch' after the movie would stop and then he'd put us to bed," she said.

She said she also liked "Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer" in claymation.

"It's so cute," Riedel said.

Music albums make fun, easy gifts for Christmas

By Holly Kramer
KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

When looking for that perfect gift, remember to check the latest music releases.

For the dance music enthusiast, Madonna's new compact disc, "Confessions of a Dance Floor," received 3 1/2 stars out of five in Rolling Stone.

In the first week of his release, Kenny Chesney's album, "The Road and The Radio," debuted at no. 1 on Billboard's chart. 50 Cent also made the Top Ten list with the soundtrack from his movie, "Get Rich or Die Tryin'."

Adam Atavichitchang, Hastings' employee, said more rap albums are being purchased than any other type of music right now. On Hastings' top 40 list, five out of the 10 top sellers are rap artists. Even so, Atavichitchang said sales are lower than last year.

"I hear most people come in here saying that they might as well just burn a CD they want," Atavichitchang said. "We've been selling more music accessories, like mp3 players than albums."

Hastings top 40 list had Nickelback's "All the Right Reasons" as the best seller, with Kanye West's "Late Registration" album as the sixth top seller.

Levi Teeter, Sam Goody employee, said people have been buying the "Walk the Line" soundtrack and also the "Get Rich or Die Tryin'" soundtrack.

"We're waiting for the 'System of a Down' album to come out and we know that will be really popular," Teeter said. "Also, the Chamillionaire CD is supposed to sell very well."

Teeter said some people would be surprised to hear the Regis Philbin Christmas CD is a quite popular album around the holidays.

"The older customers seem to like that album a lot," Teeter said.

Hillary Unrein, senior in sociology, said she wants several albums for Christmas this year.

"I really want the new Fiona Apple CD," Unrein said. "I heard it's amazing. I also would buy the newest Kelly Clarkson album for me and maybe a Rascal Flatts CD for my mom."

Other people said they choose albums because of the artist.

"I'd buy the new Kenny Chesney CD," said Maeredit Morris, sophomore pre-health professions program, because I've seen him in concert twice and he's hot."

Some students said they prefer downloading music.

"If you don't want to buy a CD, you could buy someone a gift certificate to iTunes," Clark Griffiths, senior in political science, said. "That way, people can download the music that they want."

Top music lacks merit, creativity

Columnist's top 10 albums of the year

By Mark Sibilla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

effort yet.

Bells are ringing, snow is falling, and evenings are spent with a case of beer, a favorite blanket and a comfy chair pulled close to the fireplace. It's the most wonderful time of the year — of course I am talking about the music world's annual listing of the top 10 albums of the year.

I must warn you the majority of these albums are ones that many people in the general population have not heard.

Major label releases are becoming more homogenous, profit-driven and focus-group-tested; in order to create a product that sells to the largest audience possible, things like artistic merit and creativity are lost. Now, I present my top ten albums for 2005:

10. LCD Soundsystem, "LCD Soundsystem": James Murphy — half of production duo The DFA — fulfills the promise of his early singles and creates a debut album full of hip-shaking beats and a hipster's list of musical influences. A second disc of singles makes this essential.

9. M.I.A., "Arular": This London-based, Sri Lanka refugee artist's debut album was preceded by an almost insurmountable level of hype. Amazingly, she manages to live up to it by delivering an assorted mess of genres, beats, and raps.

8. Spoon, "Gimme Fiction": Britt Daniel's Texas-based band Spoon is quite possibly one of the best America has to offer. This eclectic fifth effort finds bass-driven funk next to piano driven dirges next to spry, guitar-driven songs. The amazing aspect is Daniel's ability to meld these different styles into an arresting full-length.

7. Kanye West, "Late Registration": Hip-hop had a pretty poor showing this year; the genre that used to rule the world seemed to be endlessly spinning its wheels with new artists and albums. West's sophomore effort takes hip-hop back to school and marries clever samples with a unique world view creating the best album the genre has had all year.

6. The New Pornographers, "Twin Cinema": Pop-music is not dead; it has just disguised itself as a Canadian indie-rock supergroup. Featuring punchy-guitars, unbelievably catchy melodies, and wonderful harmonies, "Twin Cinema" is undeniably the band's most consistent and enjoyable

5. Antony and The Johnsons, "I Am a Bird Now": This sexually-ambiguous singer/songwriter has a heavenly, ethereal voice that brings tales of abuse and longing an extra emotional heft. Along with his piano, a sparse backing band and a bevy of vocal guests, such as Lou Reed and Devendra Banhart, this album is one of delicate and sorrowful beauty.

4. The Decemberists, "Picaresque": Colin Meloy spins his usual diverse literary tales of love, death, failure and revenge. This time, the backing musical arrangements are as varied as ever and perfectly complement his storybook yarns. His narratives are made more effective by creating characters with whom we can empathize and relate. Their best effort.

3. Sufjan Stevens, "Illinois": This competent singer/songwriter ambitiously wants to create an album that represents all 50 states in the USA. This is only number two (after 2003's beautifully serene "Michigan"), but after going 2-for-2 creating albums full of the sights, sounds and histories of the state compacted into lush-orchestral arrangements — one is eager to see Stevens succeed at his impressive goal.

2. My Morning Jacket, "Z": After gaining a new keyboardist and guitarist, teaming up with a new producer and shaving nearly thirty minutes off of their usual album lengths, Kentucky-based My Morning Jacket have created a masterpiece by expanding their Southern-rock-influenced sound to new heights. Front man Jim James' otherworldly voice floats over the band's ambitious arrangements, and the album builds to the powerful, nearly ten-minute closing track, "Dondante," a song that slowly builds, explodes and then descends into silence.

1. Wolf Parade, "Apologies to the Queen Mary": Modest Mouse's Isaac Brock discovered this band, got them signed to label, Sub Pop, and then produced their debut album. No album this year is as satisfying and exciting to listen to as this group's wild first album. With catchy songs about loss, ghosts and anxiety towards the world, this album can be listened to and examined on headphones or danced to and blared over speakers at a party with an equal amount of ease. Lyrics can mean as much or as little as you want, and the band's influences are easy to spot but they never sound derivative. I don't think it is a coincidence that for two years in a row, the best album of the year has come from Montreal (Arcade Fire's "Funeral"). I can't wait to hear what these boys will have.

Illustration by Leann Sulzen | COLLEGE

Courtesy images

Honorable Mentions:

The Game, "The Documentary"

Deerhoof, "The Runners Four"

Okkervil River, "Black Sheep Boy"

Caribou, "The Milk of Human Kindness"

Animal Collective, "Feels"

The gift you give her privately

Now at 110 S. 4th

Patricia's
UNDERCOVER
Lingerie

Tues - Fri 10 - 6
Thursday 10 - 7
Sat 10 - 5 Sun 1 - 5

We Offer the Full Set!

- Tennis Racquets
- Tennis Bags
- Racquet Ball Racquets
- Court Shoes
- Lessons
- Stringing

Gifts Certificates
& Semester
Memberships
Available

Cottonwood Racquet Club
3615 Claflin Rd • 776-6060

December Specials

Haircuts $7 with one canned good
Salt Glow $15
2-Color Foil $25 short $30 long
Chemistry System Reconstructor $8 short $10 long (Free Scalp Massage)
Services performed by supervised students
512 Poyntz
785-776-4794
Crum's Beauty College

HOLIDAY OPEN HOUSE

Saturday,
December 3rd
Stop by for lots of unique gifts!

ONE DAY ONLY SPECIALS:

- FREE 4" poinsettia with any Christmas tree purchase
- FREE cider & other goodies
- FREE 5 lbs. of sunflower seeds with any bird feeder purchase
- Bow Making Clinic @ 9:30 a.m. & 2:00 p.m. ($4.00/person for materials)
- Other in-house specials

BLUEVILLE NURSERY, INC.
4539 Anderson - At the corner of Anderson & Scenic Dr.
539-2671 Hours: Mon.-Fri. 8-5:30 Sat. 8-6 www.bluevillenursery.com

wildcats
KANSAS STATE BASKETBALL

doubleheader
Wednesday, Nov. 30

5:30pm vs. Delaware State
8pm vs. Cal-State Fullerton

Bramlage Coliseum
2 games for the price of 1

GO STATE!

It's a wrap

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Creativity provides substitute to traditional paper

By Emily Lawrence
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Presents are not the only gifts to give, they serve as holiday decorations and don't have to be stored in an attic or basement for 11 months out of the year. This season, students can ditch the traditional boxes with bows and add some pizzazz to pre-holiday décor.

1. Peppermint pretty

Supplies:
- Two paper plates
- Red marker
- Cellophane
- Ribbon
- Tape

Directions:
1. Draw three swirling sections on the raised side of one of the paper plates and color the sections with a red marker.

2. Place gift inside the two paper plates and tape the edges together to securely hide the gift.

3. Roll cellophane around the plates and secure with tape. Twist ends and secure them with ribbons.

2. Brown bagging it

Supplies:
- Paper lunch bag
- Hole punch
- Craft edge scissors
- Ribbon
- Shred or tissue paper (optional)

Directions:
1. Cut the top of the bag with craft edge scissors.

2. Fold top 2 inches of bag over.

3. Punch two holes in the center 1 to 2 inches apart.

4. Put present in bag fill with tissue or shred to stuff the bag and refold top string ribbon through holes and tie shut.

3. Sock 'em

Supplies:
- 2 pieces of construction paper (can be replaced with craft foam for strength)
- Hole punch
- Ribbon
- Shred or tissue paper

Directions:
1. Place two pieces of paper together and trace the shape of a stocking on them.

2. Cut out the shape.

3. Punch holes around the outside approximately 1/2 inch apart.

4. Fold top of stocking down and punch holes in the center about an inch apart.

5. String ribbon through the holes starting at the top left of the stocking, ending at the top right.

6. Fill stocking with present and shredded filler if needed.

7. Fold top of stocking back down and string ribbon from the back through the two holes and tie.

Photos make creative gifts

By Amy Bolton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Gift-givers looking for a creative spin on the home-made gift have started looking to photo gifts.

Pictures can be put on everything from stamps to coffee mugs and can be personalized for the recipient.

"It's a little more personal and creative of a gift," said Brandi Allen, photo lab associate at Wal-Mart, 101 Blue-mont Ave. and 2005 K-State graduate in animal science.

Allen said Wal-Mart puts pictures on calendars, coffee mugs, ornaments, travel mugs, mouse pads, playing cards and more.

Depending on the product, Wal-Mart does some of the photo gifts in their photo lab, and others are done through its send out service.

Although Allen said the most popular photo item is greeting cards, she's seen a lot of pictures put on ceramic mugs.

"It's something you use a lot anyway so you'll see the picture a lot," Allen said.

Matie Grubhan, production supervisor in the copy center at the Topeka Office Max, said it does a lot of 12-month calendars, year-in-a-view calendars, mouse pads, student planners and teacher planners.

"Around back-to-school season we get a lot of the planners," Grubhan said.

A year-in-a-view calendar has a picture in the middle and the months around it. For a 12-month calendar, they use 13 photos: one for each month, and a 13th for the cover.

"It's a good gift idea," Grubhan said.

Another photo gift option is to put a personal picture on a stamp.

At www.photostamps.com, users upload a digital picture to put on a stamp, and within minutes the stamps are on their way.

The stamps are legal postage and are approved by the U.S. Postal Service.

Suggested photo ideas at www.photostamps.com are pictures of children, newborn babies, animals and pets, special occasions such as weddings, family vacations and parties or family fun.

A sheet of 20, 37-cent stamps costs $16.99. Two to nine sheets cost $14.99 each, and additional sheets are available at discounted rates. Stamps are available in many different postage values.

The pictures can be zoomed in on, flipped or rotated, and bordered by different colors.

Although any of these gifts can be given year round, both Allen and Grubhan said they see an increase in photo gifts around the holiday season.

"It helps to get a lot more personal than just giving them a CD or something," Allen said.

Local businesses expect rush

By Eileen Laux
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With the Christmas shopping season just around the corner, many Manhattan businesses are buckling down for what may be a very busy shopping season.

Sara Strothman, owner of Zotcis Attire, 1203 Moro St., said the shopping right now is generally moderate, but she is expecting it to pick up in the first few weeks of December. The third week is the largest since students are on their way out of town and picking up last-minute presents.

Strothman said students can buy clothing for relatives and friends as they go to school.

She said two big items this year are coats and party tops which are usually worn for New Year's Eve.

Zotcis only carries six pieces of each item in order to keep up their unique look, Strothman said.

"As a girl, you don't want to show up to a party wearing the same thing as another person," she said.

She said the coats are usually priced from $65 to $85 and there is a broad price range for shirts. The store also sometimes hands out 10-percent-off coupons to preferred customers and others so they can get a reduction on merchandise in the store, she said.

Strothman said gift certificates are available and online shopping is also a new feature.

"Someone can get a family member a gift certificate and they can use that as they shop online," she said.

Jill Sherman, assistant manager at Coach House Gifts in Manhattan Town Center and K-State graduate, said, as of Thanksgiving break, that it has not experienced the rush yet.

She said candles, ornaments and small Christmas decorative items are very popular among consumers.

Sherman said since the store is a franchise of Hallmark, there will be promotions such as "buy three cards and get a discount on another item", and promotions will run off and on from the day after Thanksgiving until Christmas.

Becky Ballard, owner of Ballard's Sporting Goods, 1218 Moro St., said Ballard's is traditionally a last minute store. Business will speed up around the last week of school, she said.

"We generally have a large rush when college kids finish their finals," Ballard said. "You can generally tell when the last day usually is because of the kids who may not be able to get K-State gear near their home as presents."

New for the Holidays!

Spotlight Gifts

Merle Norman makes gift giving easy with sets that everybody wants (at prices everybody likes).

Gifts for Every Woman on Your List!
(And Don't Forget to Treat Yourself!)

Manhattan Town Center Mall
785-539-4400

MERLE NORMAN

Give the Gift of Creativity!

Varney's Art Department has Great Gift Ideas for the Artist in Your Life

- D. Robert Ware Studio Tote $49.95
- Aunt Sadie's Premium Tin Can Candles $13.99
- Winsor & Newton Trio Wood Box Sets $59.95
- Art Alternatives Marker Sets
 - Clip 'n Go Mini Marker Set $2.19
 - 100-Color Mini Marker Fan Set $9.49
 - 100-Color Marker Fan Set $13.95
- Kolo Newbury Tied Photo Albums $26.95
- Creativity for Kids Comly Chic- Flip Flop Kit $14.95

Varney's Book Store
623 N. Manhattan Ave.
(785) 539-0511

Giving the gift of greed

Tools, video games best choice for hoarding Christmas loot

JONAS HOGG

For the terminally greedy, the lingering Christmas question presents the impossible challenge.

"How can I maximize loot this year?"

Those of us who know it is better to receive than give face the unenviable burden of having to spend our hard earned cheese on someone other than the most deserving of our presents, ourselves. But, enough relatives left giftless will revoke future Christmas invitations, and stifling your significant other will lead to a road deprived of much more than Christmas presents.

Fear not, for there is a way to make everyone slightly less unhappy without depriving yourself of fun new toys. With a little bit of creative thought, you can cleverly disguise gifts for yourself as gifts for others.

Ask most guys, and they will concede the point that their sister/mom/neighbor-with-no-arms could do with a good tool set — a 117-piece Mechanics Tool Set from Craftsman should do the trick.

Eighty clams is no mean feat for the college student, but it's worth it to shower your loved ones or barely known neighbors with pricey, but useful tool sets.

Wrap said tool set with froofy wrapping paper — something pink, with angels and a baby Jesus, and deploy under the tree with a gigantic bow. (For armless neighbor improvisation is necessary; wrapping paper that can be chewed off is difficult but not impossible.)

Low and behold, later on in the day you just happen to have a project that requires a 117-piece Mechanics Tool Set from Craftsman. Perhaps someone you know has one that you could borrow?

For the guy shopping for the girlfriend/wife/boyfriend (hey, we're a diverse campus) the double whammy of appearing thoughtful while getting a gift for yourself is a difficult challenge to overcome.

Thankfully, there exists, deep in the bowels of the Manhattan Town Center, a den of joy and hope that is known as Victoria's Secret. Within, lies the best of both worlds. Buying rosy-scented lotions and underwear with less fabric than your average shoestring is the best way to show your loved one what's really important to you — skin.

"But, baby, I buy these things for you because you are SO sexy, and if you wear this Wonderbra and thong around all day just think how comfortable you'll be without all those other clothes. Now you should bring that rosy smelling lotion over here and give me a back rub so I smell good for you."

It's showing this level of love and caring for your significant other that illustrates the depth of your caring and devotion.

But there is no reason to stop with lingerie. Perhaps your one true love would enjoy a nice new video game console to play while sporting her gifted undergarments — an Xbox 360 Core System, starting at $450 would be just the thing to complement lacy undies.

After all, what girl doesn't want the new cutting edge gaming system? To ice the cake, include that pinnacle of feminine enjoyment, the war-simulator. Imagine the joy on your girlfriend's face when she unwraps "Steaming Pile of Guts 3D," and better yet, she'll gladly share her love, and her gift with you!

Take heart, ye of the hoarded gifts. Christmas-time does not have to be all about giving. Imagination is all that you need. Plan accordingly, spend wildly and watch all the gifts you give come boomeranging back into your loving and waiting arms.

Jonas Hogg is junior in sociology, international studies and Russian. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

Ballet tickets, pedicures best ways to wrangle guys' gifts

When it comes to buying Christmas gifts for others, some have one thing in mind: How can I reap the benefits of this exchange? For amateurs, it can be tricky to pull off generosity and self-indulgence at the same time.

I learned this gluttonous maneuver from my father, who is notorious for buying me toolkits and Carhart apparel (in his size, of course) for Christmas. My favorite gift from my dad came last year when he gave me the book "The Universe in a Nutshell" by Steven Hawking.

Before I finished unwrapping the present, my dad had already snatched the book from me and scampered into the other room only to spend the rest of the day reading it. Needless to say, I haven't seen the book since.

His gift-giving episodes have been going on for most of my life. At age three, I received a designer stapler. It wasn't until years later that I was allowed to "play" with my present and even then I was rationed staples for most of my childhood.

At age 13, I was given a matching plier and wrench set as a stocking stuffer. Last time I checked, they were residing in my dad's toolbox.

My dad uses the facade that his gifts will make me more cultured and well-rounded. While his attempts to cultivate and enlighten me may have failed, the real results are much more productive for me. I have now figured out how to appear to buy gifts for others while really buying for myself. This technique can be especially helpful when "buying" for the opposite sex, i.e. boyfriends, fathers, brothers, friends, etc.

Amateurs should start small with this method, by giving simpler, less obvious gifts. Gifts for fathers could include household items like pastel hand towels (to match the elegant coloring in your bathroom) or floral coffee cups. For boyfriends, gifts could range from chick flicks to tickets for a local musical or opera.

In the beginning, be careful not to give presents that might come off as too girly or anything that is too personal or to your liking. For example, it's probably not a good idea to give your boyfriend a pink Hello Kitty robe, he might catch on to your devious scheming.

However, if things go as planned, the men in your life will smirk and grimace in confusion and possible disgust at the pretty presents you have bequeathed to them. Most likely, they will thank you for the gift and toss it aside. Once it has left their fingers, it's up for the grabbing and you've just earned another item in your Christmas loot pile.

After some experience and a few Christmases under your belt, you can begin sneaking in much larger items. These could range from season tickets to the ballet or a year's membership to a yoga studio.

A forewarning though: be sure to pick up a few goods truly intended for the receiver. For instance, alongside the manicure and pedicure gift certificate, slide in some video games and other electronic booty.

Don't ever abuse or take advantage of your new dexterity. If someone discovers your sneaky efficiency, your true colors will shine through and you'll forever be regarded as lewd and hedonistic.

ALEX PEAK

Alex Peak is junior in print journalism. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

Great Gifts for the Holidays for Colleagues, Fans, & Grads.

KSU letter opener, mag lites, mugs & jewelry.

KGifts
kgifts.com

www.kgifts.com

Shop Online!
Free Local Delivery

Manhattan Shoe Repair

House Slippers

List Price $39.99 List Price $29.99

Now $29.99 Now $22.99

Womens House Shoes

Tan Suede/Pink Suede

List Price $29.99

Now $22.49

216 S. 4th St. • VFW Plaza Plaza • 776-1193

NEED GIFTS?

...forget the mall, paint them all!

1344 Westloop Place
(in Westloop Shopping Center)
770-8851

Great Gifts for the Hunting Season

Come in and check out our gun and hunting gear

We pay top dollar for:
Tools, electronics, movies, CDs, guns, music equipment, jewelry,
& sporting goods

Two Locations

501a Ft. Riley 3110 Anderson

537-1803

565-0046

AMERICAN CASH EXCHANGE

CASH ADVANCE & PAWN LOANS

Get in the Holiday Spirit!
15% off all
gift certificates*

AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS

offer good thru December 15 *good on services only
Phone: 776-3600 Address: 1220 Moro

Wondering how to tell Mom and Dad about that Chemistry grade?

A gift of food...that always helps.
(Get 10% off with your student ID, too.)

1222 Moro Street Open Mon.-Sat., 10AM - 6PM
www.mercado-gourmet.com

Don't let it be a WHITE X-Mas

Gift Certificates Available

Stocking Stuffer Specials on Lotions & Packages

Don't forget your friends & family this Holiday Season

Make-your-own gift bags!

1122 Laramie • 539-3742

Happy Holidays!

FINE LINE INC.

PERMANENT COSMETICS AND BODY PIERCING

GIVE A GIFT THAT THEY WILL REMEMBER FOR A LIFETIME!

Gift Certificates Available.

• Brilliant Colors! • Personal Service! • 35 Years Experience
• Single Use needles! • Autoclave Sterilizations!

finelinetattooinc.com

TOPEKA
785-233-8288
Mon. - Sat. 12pm - 8pm
1915 SW Olive Blvd.

JUNCTION CITY
785-238-8238
Thurs. - Sat. 12pm - 8pm
1028 W. 6th

MANHATTAN
785-537-0964
Tues. - Sat. 12pm-8pm
622 N. Manhattan

Let us
stuff your stockings with gift certificates

537-3995

Sun: 11am-11pm • Mon-Wed: 11am-3am • Thurs-Sat: 11am-4am

$1 off any pita
with the purchase of a combo
expires: 12-31-05

10 for 10

10 gifts less than $10

1 Margarita mix gift set

Set includes: one liter of margarita mix, bag of rimming salt and two margarita glasses. Sold at Wal-Mart for $9.94. (Tequila sold separately.)

2 TAG "Player Pack" gift set

Set includes: two TAG body sprays, 25 professional quality poker chips and one professional deck of cards. Sold at Wal-Mart for $6.84.

3 The Color Workshop "Modern Beauty" gift set

Set includes: several shades of blush, eye-shadow, lipstick, lip liner and lip gloss, nail polish, pencil sharpener, eye liner, pocket mirror, mascara and blush brush. Sold at Wal-Mart for $8.87.

4 "Hot Rock" lava lamp by Multi Media Electronics

Sold in colors of green and blue or pink and purple. Sold at Wal-Mart for $9.82.

5 Memory Foam neck cushion

Neck vibration for pressure point relief and the cushion forms to the contours of the neck. Sold at Wal-Mart for $9.94.

6 Perfect Christmas Small Scented Candle

In frosted cranberry, spice and tree. Sold at Bath & Body Works for $10 each.

7 Anthony Logistics for Men

Glycerin hand and body lotion. Sold at Bath & Body Works for $10.

8 Fragrant Body Care Body Lotion in several different scents

Sold at Bath & Body Works, $9 for an eight-ounce bottle.

9 Cartoons from the New Yorker, Sudoku Classic and Bad Cat day to day 2006 calendars Cartoons from the New Yorker and Sudoku Classic both $9.59 and Bad Cat for $8.76. All three sold at amazon.com.

10 Pass the Pigs Deluxe Edition

A portable game of chance; the position the hogs land in determines your score. Sold at amazon.com for $9.99.

* Prices do not include tax
Compiled by Eileen Laux
Kansas State Collegian

Boring gifts can cause holiday woes

By Sheila Ellis
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The holiday season is right around the corner, and for many people there is a familiar nostalgia that comes to mind when people think of the word Christmas: decorated trees, family, egg nog and Santa Claus.

But, each year, many people have complained about losing the excitement built up all year on Christmas morning by opening the same routine crappy present every year.

The friend or family member who every year gives you the same thing might be suffering from a fictitious disease called the, "common gift syndrome." The symptoms of this disease are laziness and lack of creativity.

People seem to want to give others things they need or what they think is needed. For example, those lovely red-striped tube socks that aunt Sally gives you every year.

"Every year I get a stocking that always has money, socks and a CD in it," said Tommy Smith, freshman in pre-professional business administration.

Sometimes it can be hard for people to tell a loved one that their choice of gifts are something you already have enough of or something that they plain out just don't like.

"I always get a makeup kit for Christmas. I don't know why. I guess my mom just thinks I need new makeup kit every year but all I wear is eye shadow any way," Priscilla Cano, freshman in pre-medicine, said.

Then there are the people who buy everyone on the list the exact same item, because it is just convenient.

"I get everyone on my list a magazine subscription to their favorite magazine," said Lori Wilkerson, freshman in pre-professional business administration. "It's something they can have and enjoy all year."

Some people are just easier to shop for because they have a fetish for a certain item or have specific interests.

"I am a big movie fan," said Caleb Bigsby, senior in secondary education. "I get movie passes and I get gift certificates from the Digital Shelf."

Bigsby said he gets a new Pez dispenser every year so it has become a tradition for the past eight years and he now has a collection.

Due to this "common gift syndrome" retail stores usually carry the same items every year during the holiday season. For example a common gift for women is perfume, lotions and body sprays, so many stores have sales on these items.

"Most popular items for the season is our Victoria's Secret scents and also our Pink Collection sweats and robes," said Amanda Ringel, sales lead at Victoria's Secret.

Another common gift for the season are cold winter items like heavy winter coats, scarves, mittens, gloves, sweaters and pajamas.

These items can be found at stores such as American Eagle and Aeropostale and many other stores.

"Every year, me, my brother and sister always get new pajamas. We get to open our Christmas pajamas on Christmas Eve so we can wear them Christmas morning," Erin Klein, freshman in pre-nursing, said.

College budgets afford good taste

By Kelly Schmitt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Meatballs

Ingredients:

(meatballs)
-1 pound of hamburger, uncooked
-1 egg
-1/2 tsp. salt
-1/4 tsp. pepper
-1 slice of bread finely chopped (this works better if the bread is dry)

(sauce)

-1 can of tomato soup
-1 package of instant onion soup mix
-2 Tablespoons of brown sugar
-1 teaspoon of worcestershire sauce
-1 Tablespoon of vinegar

Mix together Ingredients for meat balls. Shape into balls and place in a 9 x 13 pan. Mix together sauce and pour over the meatballs. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes.

Crock Pot Corn

Ingredients:

-1 pound of frozen corn
-4 ounces of cream cheese
-1/2 cup of whipping cream or half and half
-2 Tablespoons of sugar
-1/2 cup of sour cream

-1 teaspoon of salt
-1/4 teaspoon of pepper

Combine ingredients in crock-pot. Cook on low for four hours, or high for two hours. Check and stir periodically.

Fruit Salad

Ingredients:

-1 can of fruit cocktail, drained
-1 small package of vanilla instant pudding
-1 small can of Mandarin oranges, drained
-1 banana

-1 cup of miniature marshmallows
-2 cups of whipped topping

Mix fruit cocktail, oranges and instant pudding until thickened. Add the marshmallows. Slice the banana and mix in. Fold in the whipped topping. Refrigerate mixture until ready to serve.

Kansas Dirt Cake

Ingredients:

1 1-pound package of Oreo Cookies
8 ounces of cream cheese
1/2 cup of margarine
1 cup of powdered sugar

1 medium container of whipped topping
2 small boxes of vanilla instant pudding
3 cups of milk
1 teaspoon of vanilla

Crush the cookies. This can be done quickly in a blender or food processor. Spread half of the crumbs in the bottom of a 9 x 13 pan. Mix the cream cheese and margarine together until smooth. Add the powdered sugar. Blend in the whipped topping. In a separate bowl, mix the pudding, milk and vanilla together until thickened. Stir both mixtures together and pour over the crumbs. Spread the remaining crumbs on top. Add gummy worms to the top, if desired. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Cranberry Tea

Ingredients:

-1 cup of sugar
-3 cinnamon sticks
-2 quarts of water
-1 quart of cranberry juice
-3 tablespoons of lemon juice
-6 ounces of frozen orange juice

Heat ingredients together in a large pan on a burner. Allow to simmer, but do not boil. Serve hot. Leftovers should be refrigerated and can be reheated.

Manhattan shops available for gift giving

By Eileen Laux
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Christmas shopping can be a difficult task, but local businesses are trying to help by offering different gifts for consumers.

Sophomore in mass communications Tim Schuler, sales associate at Acme Gift, 612 N. 12th St., said Acme sells a wide variety of gifts.

"We sell just about anything that you wouldn't normally get for Christmas," he said. "Our gifts are very unique and suits anyone you are shopping for with any budget you have."

He said the general price range is very broad. They sell cards for 25 cents, but also have bean bags for $200.

Schuler said the store will have more promotions at a later date as it gets closer to Christmas time, but business is still just beginning to pick up.

"We are getting the store as packed and stocked as possible, so we can be ready when it starts to get crazy," he said.

Jeff Levin, owner of Varney's Book Store, 623 N. Manhattan Ave., said there are a number of sales in the technical supply area and children's sections.

"These are not just the run-of-the-mill toys," he said. "They are designed to stimulate a child's mind and are great for students that have younger siblings or cousins."

He said since K-State will not go to a bowl game, Varney's is running deals on K-State gear. The shop is expecting a large rush because the economy is getting stronger, gas prices are stabilizing and no bowl games will create a larger disposable income.

"We have covered the full spectrum of the rainbow," he said. "Pink is the new black. The colors will fit their K-State identity no matter what the situation is."

Aimee Montoya, manager of Krystallos, said the store specializes in jewelry, sterling silver and wood.

She said they have many clothing brands and an exclusive handbag line from Boulder, Colo. People can find several lines of body care products and other little gifts at this store.

Krystallos sells several lines of designer jeans, soaps in holiday scents, holiday clothes and has a large ring selection.

"Our price range is very broad," Montoya said. "We have many of the things that people liked in the old store, but we just have much more in both clothing and jewelry."

Montoya said there will be no special sales for right now and she is hoping to experience a large shopping rush.

"I have a few holiday shoppers, but more holiday lookers than anything else," she said. "We are expecting it to pick up after Thanksgiving."

Need something to do?
Try SuDoku
Located on the sudoku classified page

Alvarez • Boss • Jackson
Fender • Epiphone
Crate • Ibanez
Guitar Repair
Guitar Lessons
Rick's
Music Shop
314 Little Creek Blvd. • 785.539.5900 (Fax 4th ring)

Life is STRESSAW
Relax with a massage!
Gift certificates available
Tao Massage
Therapy
341-9928

Holidazzle
Give yourself a little Glitz
$5 Off Men's Haircut, Pedicure
$10 Off Women's Cut & Style, Full Set
$15 Off Hi-Lite Color Perm
GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE!
1140 Westloop Pl. Present Ad expires 1/31/06
537-1332
IMPRESSIONS
HAIR DESIGN AND NAIL STUDIO

GREAT GIFTS FOR EVERYONE
• Jewelry
• Lingerie
• Imports
• Posters
• Stocking Stuffers
• Men's & Women's Clothing
715 N. 12TH STREET
587-1819

Krystallos
-STERLING SILVER AND GEMSTONE JEWELRY
-CLOTHING
-ACCESSORIES
Free People • Minnie • Urban Outfitters
405 Poyntz - Downtown Manhattan
MON-SAT: 10-6
SUN: 12-5

Save 20-50% OFF
a huge selection of KSU merchandise!
Your source for Nike, Under Armour, Columbia and Adidas.
MANY ITEMS ON SALE AS WELL!
Ballard's
1218 Moro • Aggieville
539-2441

Shopping in the E-age

Online holiday shopping makes gift-giving easy, convenient

Illustration by Emily Lawrence | COLLEGAN

By Amy Bolton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Instead of driving to the mall, fighting traffic in the stores and waiting in line to pay, many people are choosing to do their holiday shopping online.

Web sites such as Amazon.com, eBay.com, Overstock.com and individual stores' Web sites offer many options from the convenience of a personal computer.

Jenny Collins, senior in marketing, said she shops online for both gifts for others and things for herself.

"I bought something for my boyfriend on eBay," Collins said.

She also said she likes to shop early for Christmas gifts when shopping online.

"If you start looking now, you can probably save money instead of waiting until the last minute," Collins said.

In addition to eBay, Collins said she shops at Overstock.com, Amazon.com and clothing stores such as Forever21.com.

Lindsey Hunt, assistant manager at The Gap in the Manhattan Town Center and senior in marketing, said online shopping at Gap.com is very common among customers.

"It's pretty popular," Hunt said. "We do a lot of online orders in the store."

She said online shopping has decreased the foot traffic in the store.

"Probably because customers are starting to order online from their homes because it's more convenient," she said.

There are many advantages to shopping online at gap.com, Hunt said, including more variety and the purchase being shipped directly to the customer's front door. Items bought online can also be returned to any Gap store for a hassle-free return.

However, there are some things to watch for when shopping online.

Hunt said sometimes they send the wrong item, customers have to pay for shipping or the clothing won't fit.

Customers also don't get to experience the in-store customer service when shopping online.

The Gap does offer some perks to buying online. Hunt said Gap.com offers free shipping with a $50 or more purchase for customers with a Gap credit card, and free shipping for anyone with a purchase totaling $100 or more.

Kristen Lueck, junior in human resource management, said she shops online but usually not for gifts.

"I buy things online sometimes, but I don't think I've ever bought a gift online," she said.

Lueck has shopped at online stores such as Gap.com when the store didn't have the right size in stock.

She also shops at Overstock.com for things for her house, such as silverware and a comforter.

"I buy a lot of home décor stuff," Lueck said. "A lot of times you can find stuff for cheaper."

Lueck said she would buy gifts online if it was cheaper, but it's not a priority.

Local service organizations seek holiday donations

Several organizations in Manhattan offer ways for students and residents to donate this holiday season. People can make monetary donations or can give contributions of clothing, toys, appliances, furniture and more.

Flint Hills Breadbasket 537-0730

Mayor's Holiday Food and Fund Drive
— During the holidays, the breadbasket distributes thousands of food baskets to Manhattan families, at a cost of about $38 each — Monetary or food contributions are welcome; checks can be made payable to The Mayor's Holiday Tree, 905 Yuma St.
— A list of desired food items is available at www.breadbasket.manhattanks.org

Adopt-a-Family Program 537-0730

— Collects gifts for children, warm clothing, and household items for local families
— Program has room for all levels of participation, from university affiliates and organizations to business groups, families or individuals

Manhattan Habitat for Humanity 537-7545

Cookbook sale
— Habitat is selling 106-page cookbooks for $10 each — Proceeds from the cookbooks help create housing for people in need

Salvation Army 770-3171

— Collects donated items:
All kinds of clothing (men, women & children) for all ages.
Furniture that is not torn, broken or badly stained.
Large appliances: freezers and refrigerators (must be plugged in and working at time of pick up). No electric ranges or built-ins.
Small appliances: can openers, toasters, phones, etc.
Miscellaneous: usable dishes, knick-knacks, kitchen utensils, toys, working computers and accessories, etc.
Running vehicles: cars, trucks, boats, motorcycles, trailers, etc.
— Items can be dropped off at 210 Poyntz Ave.
— Bell-ringers are located in front of many businesses, collecting monetary donations

— Compiled by Alex Peak and Christina Hansen

Gift sets are in at THE LIBRARY

Shop early for best selection

PATRON SILVER 750ML WITH 4 SHOT GLASSES
CROWN ROYAL 1.75L WITH CRADLE/POURER
JIM BEAM BLACK 750ML WITH FLASK/CIGAR HOLDER
JACK DANIELS 1.75'S AND 750'S WITH GLASSES
TEQUILA ROSE 750'S WITH 2 SHOT GLASSES
JAGER 750ML WITH 2 SHOT GLASSES
ABSENTE IN GIFT BOX WITH SPOON and many more...
WE DO SPECIAL ORDERS!

LIBRARY
<http://www.librarydiscount.com>
Corner of 10th & Lawrence
Appointments

Give them something they'll really use! Our gift certificates!

Southern Sun Great Gift Ideas

Holiday Special

$25

1 month unlimited tanning

- Gift Certificates
- 30% OFF All Lotions
- Discounts on all packages

3230 Kimball Ave. (next to Bobby T's) 776-8060

Expires 1/1/06

GLASS IMPRESSIONS

GLASS IMPRESSIONS

HOLIDAY HOURS:

Mon-Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5
Sundays in December

Imaginative & Well Designed

HANDMADE GIFTS

Very Affordable to Splurge

NEW GLASS STUDIOS

- Dakota Ward (Colorado)
- Venetian Style Ornaments
- Hammerlane Glass (Kansas)
- Wall Vases & Paperweights

PLUS

- More Very Unusual Clocks & New Bulova Frank Lloyd Wright Designs
- Cool Jewels Crystal & Sterling Jewelry
- Boxes • Prisms • Glass Candles • Etc...

329 Poyntz Ave. • Downtown Manhattan • 785-539-4610

A CU+ ABOVE Hair and Nail Salon

1800 Claflin Road, Suite 110

(785) 537-3200

10% off any Gift Certificate

FREE CUT with any color or highlight service
expires 12.31.05

1/2 PRICE certificate for pre-booked fill with full set of acrylic nails.
expires 12.31.05

$5.00 BROW WAX with any shampoo, cut & style
expires 12.31.05

FREE mini manicure with spa pedicure.
expires 12.31.05

CLAIRE & HARLEY'S

a dog bath & boutique

Don't forget about your 4-legged friends!

Come see our new fall fashions and great gift ideas.

108 N. 3rd Street (1/2 block North of Poyntz)

785-537-4805

NOT YOUR ORDINARY PET STORE

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Create hairstyles
at home
Edge, Page 5

www.kstatecollegian.com

Tuesday, November 29, 2005

Vol. 110, No. 68

2 dead in accidents caused by ice, winter weather

Staff reports
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Two local people were killed in separate accidents Tuesday morning after losing control of their vehicles on icy roads in Riley County.

Brianna Reed, Manhattan resident and University of Nebraska student, was killed and two Waterville, Kan., residents were injured when their vehicles collided at about 7 a.m. Monday in northern Riley County.

Reed, 18, was traveling north on U.S. Highway 77 near the Riley/Marshall county line when she lost control on a patch of ice, crossed the center line and was struck on the passenger side by another vehicle, according to the Kansas Highway Patrol. Reed's 1998 Ford Escort came to rest in the west ditch while the other vehicle, driven by 41-year-old Angela Weeks, Waterville, Kan., remained on the highway.

Reed was pronounced dead at the scene. It is unknown whether she was wearing a seat belt.

Weeks' condition could not be released Monday and her passenger, 31-year-old Melanie Bachura, also of Waterville, Kan., was listed in fair condition at Mercy Health Center, said the hospital staff.

In a separate accident, Rose Mix, Junction City, was killed and Steven Scott, Munford, Tenn., was injured after their vehicles collided shortly after 8 a.m. in southern Riley County.

The Kansas Highway Patrol said Mix was traveling north on Kansas Highway 18 when she lost control of her 1994 Ford van and struck a 2000 Dodge van, driven by Steven Scott near the Riley/Geary County line.

Mix was pronounced dead at Mercy Regional Hospital. She was not wearing a safety restraint, according to the highway patrol.

Scott was sent to Geary Community Hospital Monday morning, but was released, hospital staff said.

Global concern

Media mogul Ted Turner speaks as the 141st Landon Lecture Monday morning at McCain Auditorium. Turner spoke about weapons of mass destruction being a problem facing today's world.

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

CNN founder discusses weapons of mass destruction, family planning, poverty

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Today's world needs basic changes in human behavior, media mogul Ted Turner said at the 141st Landon Lecture.

In Monday's lecture in McCain Auditorium, Turner said the number one problem facing today's world is weapons of mass destruction. Between the United States and Russia, there are about 10,000 nuclear weapons still in existence, he said.

"Nobody is talking about nuclear disarmament," he said. "We need to do something about it and put it on the agenda."

In 1980, Turner started CNN, the world's first live, 24-hour news television network. Turner created the United Nations Foundation in 1998, and he owns about 2 million acres of land in seven states.

In addition to giving a Landon Lecture, Turner also toured the Konza Prairie Research Natural Area.

"He enjoyed his tour, and I was pleased to get to know him and pleased that he came to K-State," said Charles Reagan, chair of the Landon Lecture series.

Turner said another problem

"We cannot keep piling people on the planet. Family planning is the only responsible thing we can do if we want to stay on this planet and live in a decent way."

Ted Turner
CNN FOUNDER

in the world's future is family planning.

"We cannot keep piling people on the planet," he said. "Family planning is the only responsible thing we can do if we want to stay on this planet and live in a decent way."

A major cause of terrorism in the world is poverty, Turner said. He also said the resources necessary to solve poverty exist in military budgets.

"Military budgets are a big waste of time, and that is where the money is locked up," Turner said. "The superpowers of tomorrow are not going to be the military powers of today."

Future superpower countries will use education, health care, science and technology to get ahead, Turner said.

"In order for our country and our world to be successful, we need business, and we need education, and we need to work and pull together for the betterment of our society," he said.

Turner said he is disappointed with the trivialization in today's media.

"I'd like to see more stories about what we are doing about nuclear weapons and the environment instead of the pervert-of-the-week," he said.

President Jon Wefald presented Turner with K-State's highest honor, the Medal of Excellence, at the end of the lecture.

Wendi Fose, senior in mass communications, had mixed emotions about Turner's lecture.

"He has a point - to an extent - in that there are a lot of evils in the world that need to be taken care of," Fose said. "But I disagree with him in that war isn't the solution because we have done some good things in Iraq."

Pizza delivery driver fights off robber

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A Domino's Pizza delivery driver fought off a robber after making a delivery Saturday night, said Capt. John Doebling with the Riley County Police Department.

The driver, Erik Prohaska, 20, 926 Bluemont Ave., walked to his car after making a delivery to 426 Colorado St. at about 9 p.m., Doebling said. He said as Prohaska approached his vehicle he heard a voice behind him ask for his money.

Doebling said the suspect was described as a black male about 5 feet 8 inches, 150 pounds and wearing a black hooded sweatshirt and dark carpenter jeans and carrying a three-quarter inch folding knife.

Prohaska punched the suspect in the face and the suspect dropped the knife, Doebling said. He said the suspect tried to reach for the knife and Prohaska kneed the suspect in the groin.

The suspect ran away heading east, Doebling said. No money was taken and the case is still under investigation as an attempted aggravated robbery.

K-State groups to collect for children's toy drive; local Toys for Tots organization receives $2,300

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The annual Toys for Tots drive will put holiday toys in the hands of 1,500 to 2,500 children who don't have many presents.

Kappa Delta, Delta Tau Delta and the National Organization for Women of Manhattan are sponsoring the drive.

"Riley County is one of the poorest counties in Kansas," said Shannon Babcock, senior in social work and Manhattan NOW chairperson. "But Toys for Tots is nationwide so they do this all over Kansas."

Donations of toys are accepted at Kappa Delta and Delta Tau Delta until Dec. 2 and at drop-off locations around Manhattan until Dec. 15. Toys must be new, unwrapped and suitable for children of all ages. Monetary donations can be made at First Baptist Church.

In addition to donations, the Manhattan Toys for Tots was awarded a $2,300 grant from the national Toys for Tots to purchase new toys in Topeka. This year's grant doubles the funds available last year, said Cherish Wood, Kappa Delta philanthropy chair.

Every child who signs up as part of the program will receive two gifts and one stocking stuffer for Christmas.

"We give the toys that we collect to agencies in Manhattan, and they distribute the toys to clients," Babcock said.

Wood, junior in family studies and human services, said general toy gifts, like basketballs, are suggested as well as more gender-specific items like dolls and trucks.

"A lot of families here are going to be in need at Christmas, and I've seen a lot of them," she said. "Christmas can be stressful, and we try to help as many families as we can."

Michael Hudson, Delta Tau

Delta community service and philanthropy chair and junior in psychology, said there may also be a booth in the K-State Student Union to accept monetary donations.

"It's good to help needy kids experience the joys of Christmas," Hudson said.

Toys for Tots drop-offs:

- Faith Furniture
- Rod's Hallmark Shop
- Kmart
- First Baptist Church
- Wal-Mart
- Manhattan Arts Center

Today

High 39
Low 21

Wednesday

High 48
Low 19

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Rape reported

A 21-year-old woman reported a rape Saturday morning in the northeast part of Manhattan, said Capt. John Doebling with the Riley County Police Department. The victim reported she was raped by two males who were known to her. Doebling said the case is still under investigation.

Canadian corruption

A corruption scandal forced a vote of no-confidence Monday that toppled Prime Minister Paul Martin's minority government, triggering an election campaign during the holidays. Canada's three opposition parties, which control a majority in Parliament, voted against Martin's government.
Page 8

Illegal immigrants

President Bush said Monday he wants to crack down on those who enter the country illegally but also give out more visas to foreigners with jobs. He hopes the dual plan will appease the social conservatives and business leaders who are his core supporters.

DON'T FORGET

Tao Luo from Georgetown University will give a speech titled "Qualitative Behavior of Solutions for Several Nonlinear PDEs Arising from Fluid Dynamics" at 2:30 p.m. today in Cardwell 122.

Mickey Needleman, acoustic guitarist, will play at 7 tonight in Union Station.

Sexual Violence Awareness will meet at 7 tonight in the Union Stateroom 3.

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Festive
5 "Jabberwocky" start
9 Height of fashion?
12 Satan's forte
13 "— We Got Fun?"
14 Altar affirmative
15 Preacher's directive
17 Up to 18 Ponder
19 Starbucks order
21 Sawyer or Keaton
24 Affluent
25 Earthenware pot
26 Bar supply
30 Lubricate
31 Combusted
32 With it
33 Counted
35 Actress Turner
36 Stockings

DOWN

1 Solidify
4 Vassar grad, probably
5 Reville's opposite
6 Telegram
7 Literary collection
8 Salon employee
9 Retire
10 Tend texts
11 Double agent
16 Seek restitution
20 Performer
21 Catastrophic late
22 Pelvic bones
23 Sinatra hit
24 McNally's partner
26 Medical-lab dream
27 Tramcar contents
28 Orange coat
29 Bridge
31 Scatter about
34 Pirouette pivot
35 Rio Grande city
37 "That's a laugh!"
38 Thick chunk
39 Head light?
40 "— of the D'Urbervilles"
41 Dance lesson
44 Dos Passos trilogy
45 Nebulous
46 "All the Things You —"
47 Japanese money

Solution time: 21 mins.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER 11-29

AGES FAR CLOD
DELAWARE AIDE
DOLDRUMS NEON
DIN PENURY
SMELT HERE
HIRE DOLORES
ENG BELLS DOL
DOLLIES EARN LUCKY AIMED
SALAMI ALG
OVUM DOLPHINS
FORA ALLOTTED
AWES LES YAWS

11-29 CRYPTOQUIP

I Q C M F M C U C B E Y R B R F M
L C E D E C M D C F M O Q R L Q
D E Y T M L R D T A A V D C X V T
B V T U O D F X Q C D I R Y C O

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF YOU HAVE TO SEND YOUR DOG OR CAT TO A DIFFERENT VET, SOME MIGHT CALL IT A RE-FURRAL.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: Q equals H

STREET TALK

What are you doing to prepare for winter?

Trambly

"I just got my coats out."

Maggie Trambly
GRADUATE STUDENT IN ACCOUNTING

Greene

"I'm going to buy jackets, more long sleeve clothing and have more layers."

Daniel Greene
FRESHMAN IN COMPUTER SCIENCE

Murphy

"Buy more winter clothes and start wearing a scarf everyday from now on."

Rima Murphy
FRESHMAN IN MUSIC EDUCATION

Duncan

"I'm weather-proofing my house and storing lots of booze."

Amos Duncan
SOPHOMORE IN PRE-JOURNALISM AND MASS COMMUNICATION

Sutton

"Getting all my Christmas shopping done."

Dustin Sutton
JUNIOR IN SOCIOLOGY

Taylor

"Wearing warmer clothes and having cocoa and oatmeal in the morning."

Krystle Taylor
JUNIOR IN APPAREL AND TEXTILES

Smith

"Making sure I have long socks, hats that go over my ears, wool and furry stuff so that I can have more insulation."

Kiana Smith
SOPHOMORE IN PRE-PROFESSIONAL SECONDARY EDUCATION

Johnson

"Bought a bottle of booze."

Chris Johnson
FIFTH YEAR UNDERGRADUATE IN LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

Iffrig

"Bought this scarf."

John Iffrig
FIFTH YEAR UNDERGRADUATE IN LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

Frazier

"I have an electric blanket. I already have my heater on."

Shawna Frazier
GRADUATE STUDENT IN BIOCHEMISTRY

The planner Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at bulletins@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A RefWorks class will be from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. today in Hale 408.
- A library basics for science and technology class will be from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. today at Hale Library's reception desk.

- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ning Zhang at 8 a.m. today in Rathbone 3053.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Ali Serener at 11 a.m. today in Rathbone 2064.
- Allen W. Archer will speak of hyper-tidal systems in Patagonia, Nunavut, Alaska and the Amazon at 4 p.m. today in Thompson 213.
- The Powercat Toastmasters will meet at 5:30 tonight in Durland 1029.
- Sexual Violence Awareness will meet at 7 tonight in Union Stateroom 3.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Nov. 23

- Rosslain Williams, 1704 Fair Lane, Lot 25, was arrested at 11:20 a.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $750.
- Adrian Miller, Highland, Kan., was arrested at 4:26 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Andre Payne, 2225 Browning Ave., was arrested at 6:40 p.m. for aggravated assault, aggravated battery and theft. Bond was not set.

Thursday, Nov. 24

- Gerald King Jr., 244 1/2 Westwood Road, was arrested at 11:10 a.m. for criminal damage to property. Bond was set at $750.
- Corey Callahan, 140 College Ave., Apt. F204, was arrested at 12:18 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $133.

Friday, Nov. 25

- Stephen Fox, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 1:30 a.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- Amanda Neef, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 9 a.m. for failure to appear. Bond was not set.

Saturday, Nov. 26

- Jason Bloomdahl, Clay Center, Kan., was arrested at 1:20 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $300.
- Amy Samsel, Riley, Kan., was arrested at 9:10 p.m. for endangering a child and possession of methamphetamine, drug paraphernalia and marijuana. Bond was set at $6,500.
- Matthew Merrill, 411 N. 11th St., was arrested at 10:30 p.m. for lewd and lascivious behavior, criminal trespass and failure to appear. Bond was set at $907.85.

Sunday, Nov. 27

- Richard Jackson, Junction City, was arrested at 3:30 a.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $750.
- Christina Pena, 5724 Elbo Ridge, was arrested at 10:45 p.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

Monday, Nov. 28

- Byron Baker IV, 162 Fairchild Ave, No. 11, was arrested at 2:10 a.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $3,000.
- Thomas Richie, 1412 Hartford Road, was arrested at 2:10 a.m. for worthless check, DUI and possession of marijuana. Bond was set at $2,000.

ONE HOUR MASSAGE
$35*
Body First
2308 Anderson Ave
(785) 587-8300

Claflin Books and Copies
1814 Claflin Rd.
(785) 776-3771
Fax: (785) 776-1009
Mon-Fri 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm
Sun 1pm-5pm
The Best Quality Copying and Printing in Town!

EYECARE
Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jarad M. Waite
Doctors of Optometry
(785) 776-9461 • 1-800-432-0036

EYECARE
Up To $30 OFF
On Disposable Contact Lens Programs
OR Complete Eyeglass Packages
Coupon must be presented at time of appointment.
Not valid with any other coupon or insurance discounts.
(785) 776-9461

Check Out
sudoku
in the
Classifieds

1/2 Price Everything
Karaoke Night
HONK HORNS SALOON
1115 Moro Aggieville

Service • Auto • Car • Eye Care
• Clothing • Oil Change
SERVICE DIRECTORY
• Beauty • Refill • Planning
• Heating • Plumbing

Oil CHANGE
$14.95
WHEN YOU BRING IN THIS AD
EKART
Automotive Services
776-5110 411 S. 5th St. • 1 Blk. North of Ft. Riley Blvd.

LASIK...

"I cannot imagine a better experience than what I had at Heartland LASIK Center. Everyone was very professional and considerate...after the procedure, I could not believe how well I could see...I feel more confident about doing things I wouldn't have been comfortable with when I had glasses or contacts." --K.G.

...A Life Changing Experience

CustomVue™ LASIK can give you the opportunity to eliminate or reduce your need for glasses or contacts with a customized, unique treatment. Dr. Kansal completed a fellowship in refractive surgery with specialty training in LASIK. For your scheduling convenience, we offer an on-site, state-of-the-art laser.

Call today for a FREE consultation!
785-263-6678

Heartland LASIK Center
511 NE 10th, Abilene, KS 67410
An affiliate of Memorial Health System and in partnership with Dr. Suresh Kansal

Today's University Distinguished Lecture:

Dr. Laurence Meyer
A TERM AT THE FED
1:00, Little Theatre (K-State Union)

the provost's lecture series 2005-2006

Sponsored by The Provost's University Distinguished Lecture Series & Depts. of Economics, Ag Economics, and Political Science

* Dr. Meyer recently served for six years on The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the world's most powerful institution. He is an award-winning forecaster of the U.S. economy who has advised three presidents and appeared frequently on national television. His talk is based on a highly acclaimed book that chronicles his experience at the Fed.

Smoking ban possible

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Smokers might want to savor their last cigarette puffs around Manhattan as the City Commission will review a smoking ban request tonight.

Representatives from the organizations Clean Air Manhattan and Tobacco Free Kansas Coalition have proposed the idea to the City Commission, aiming to eliminate smoking in public restaurants and workplaces.

"The science is now indisputable — tobacco smoke pollution can injure and even kill people who are exposed to it," said Jon Hauxwell, president of the Tobacco Free Kansas Coalition. "Breathing this toxic mixture of irritants and carcinogens can cause irreversible injury with as little as 30 minutes exposure."

Approval from the city is the first step to providing significant progress toward eliminating public smoke in restaurants and workplaces, Hauxwell said.

Recently, Mercy Health Center practitioners voted on the latest Manhattan workplace smoking ban, which will eliminate smoking on the area health center campuses by January 2006.

According to the American Nonsmokers' Rights Founda-

City commission meeting

When: 5 tonight
Where: City Commission Room in City Hall, 1101 Poyntz Ave. This session is also televised on Cox Cable, channel 3.

tion, this will add Mercy Health Center to the 300 workplaces that completely ban smoking.

As of June, Lawrence is the only city in Kansas to adopt a 100 percent smoke-free law.

Dr. Joe Philipp, chief medical officer at Mercy Health Center, said the vote boiled down toward promoting a healthier campus life.

"Some of our medical staff was concerned about our medical emergency rooms, where people with health problems were walking through hospital (areas) that permitted smoking," Philipp said. "Our plan is to try to be tobacco free."

Workplaces aren't the only areas in need of a smoke police review, said Danielle Butler, sophomore in pre-professional business administration and president of Students for Clean Air Manhattan.

She said above all things, smoking in restaurants is merely inconsiderate to other consumers.

"It's all really about public health, and people being able to make the choice to affect their own health, instead of when they are going out to dinner and being forced to breathe in all the toxins and everything," Butler said.

While some may interpret the hospital and SCAM campaigns as anti-smoking, Butler said she personally believes forcing smoke upon others is wrong, not the act of smoking alone.

"I just don't understand why I cannot smoke where I please," said Manhattan resident Mark Smith. "It's rather ridiculous that the city would consider imposing upon my rights."

Though Hauxwell said he respects people's individual smoking choices, he said many people are unaware of the long-term effects of smoking.

"Since 80 percent of the population does not smoke, smoke-free hospitality venues often attract many customers who previously would not have entered," Hauxwell said. "Heart and lung diseases are salient examples of tobacco smoke pollution effects, but the list is a long one, including aggravation of allergies, fetal damage in pregnant women and ear infections and pneumonia in exposed children. Regardless of a given business' response to going smoke-free, no one has a right to base their profit margin on maintaining the ability to injure their employees and customers."

Shoppers find bargains through 'Cyber Monday' Internet sales

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Although last Friday was considered one of the biggest days for retailers and shoppers, online businesses gave local merchants a run for their money with a major Internet sales day: "Cyber Monday."

Last Friday, commonly termed "Black Friday," is derived from the heavy business that follows the day after Thanksgiving, typically bringing retailers out of loss and into profit for the year. Cyber Monday was what the National Retail Federation terms as an equivalent of Black Friday, only on the Internet.

Nearly 80 percent of online retailers experienced a substantial increase in sales the Monday after Thanksgiving last year, according to the National Retail Federation.

Sales experts from Jupiter Research predict Cyber Monday profits will surge to $26 billion this year, an 18 percent increase from last year.

"You know, there are just so many things that I missed out on Friday," said Manhattan resident Melisa Beach. "On the Web, I can compare sales with all the data right next to each other, instead of waiting in line for hours on Friday."

Web sites including CircuitCity.com offered five-hour specials comparable to sale specials offered in stores on Friday.

Beach said after sifting through the Circuit City Web site, she ended up purchasing a $1.79 atomic alarm clock and a $2.99 camera bag, among other items on her shopping list. "I just couldn't resist," she said. "I mean, look, between here and other sites, I saved hundreds."

The National Retail Federation predicts consumers will convert to online shopping, especially with competitive discounts and free shipping alongside the sales.

According to a 2005 U.S. Census Bureau report, the estimate of U.S. retail e-commerce sales for the second quarter of 2005 totaled $19.8 billion, a 3.5 percent increase from first quarter.

Although Internet shopping has received mixed reviews, retailers predicted that Monday's sales would be the best sales of the year.

Peter Cobb, co-founder of eBags.com, predicted it "to be a fairly strong day."

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
pizza
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 339-3333

TUESDAY	BOBBY TS	WEDNESDAY
60¢ Tacos	3240 Kimball Ave 537-8383 www.bobbyts.com	$7.99 Steak Night
$2.00 Margaritas		$2.00 Bottles
Trivia Night

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

Students' Attorney:
SARAH BARR
785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours
Monday - Friday
9:00 - 11:00 am & 1:00 - 3:00 pm
Other appointments available upon request

for more information visit the website at <http://www.ksu.edu/osas/legal.htm>

UPC presents.....

Tracy Morgan

former SNL Comedian

7:30pm

K-State Student Union Ballroom 2nd Floor

IN ADVANCE:

TicketMaster Tickets:

- Students w/KSU student ID $8.50 plus service fees
- Non-student $13.50 plus service fees

DAY OF:

- For students w/KSU student ID: $10 plus service fees
- Non-students $15 plus service fees

TICKETS AVAILABLE ONLINE AT TICKETMASTER.COM, AT ALL TICKETMASTER OUTLETS INCLUDING ALL HEN HOUSE MARKET LOCATIONS, SELECT JONES STORES, AND STREETSIDE RECORD STORES. TO CHARGE TICKETS BY PHONE, CALL (816) 931-3330.

Wise Up. Wear it. Where's Yours?

World AIDS Day 2005

FREE HIV testing - www.k-state.edu/lafene/SHAPE/AIDSday05.htm

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

NEED CLASSES?

Classes run from January 12 - May 5, 2006

◆FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM Kelly Welch Ref# 92900 Fees: UG 3 hr $822 ◆FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development On-Site Kelly Welch Ref# 96701 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/17/06-5/2/06 T 5:30-6:55 PM FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health CD-ROM/Internet Kelly Welch Ref# 92902 Fees: UG 2 hr $523 FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health On-Site Kelly Welch Ref# 96702 Fees: UG 2 hr $390 1/12/06-5/4/06 U 5:30-6:55 PM FSHS 300: Problems in FSHS: Parenting in Contemporary Society Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM Kelly Welch Ref# 92905 Fees: UG 3 hr $772 FSHS 301: The Helping Relationship On-Site Robert Gellman Ref# 96710 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/23/06-5/1/06 M 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 310: Early Childhood On-Site Katie Thompson-Laswell Ref# 96714 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/23/06-5/1/06 M 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 343: Communication Sciences and Disorders On-Site Michele Hart Ref# 96703 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/18/06-5/3/06 MW 5:30-6:45 PM ◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM Kelly Welch Ref# 92911 Fees: UG 3 hr $772 ◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles On-Site Katie Daniels Ref# 96704 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/17/06-5/2/06 T 5:30-7:55 PM ◆FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles On-Site Kelly Welch Ref# 96715 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/23/06-5/1/06 M 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 506: Middle Childhood and Adolescence On-Site John Murray Ref# 96705 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/17/06-5/2/06 T 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 510: Human Development and Aging On-Site Gayle Doll Ref# 96706 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/18/06-5/3/06 W 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 524: Professional Seminar in Early Childhood Education On-Site Anna Nippert Ref# 96707 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/18/06-5/3/06 W 5:30-8:20 PM	FSHS 528: Exceptional Development in Early Childhood On-Site LuAnn Hoover Ref# 96716 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/17/06-5/2/06 W 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 540: Curriculum for Cognitive and Language Development of Young Children Internet Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke Ref# 92917 Fees: UG 3 hr $822 FSHS 541: Curriculum for Emotional, Social, and Physical Development of Young Children Internet Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke Ref# 92918 Fees: UG 3 hr $822 FSHS 550: The Family On-Site Vera White Ref# 96703 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/17/06-5/2/06 T 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 552: Families and Diversity On-Site Jahrael Burrell Ref# 96711 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/23/06-5/1/06 M 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 579: Directed Field Experience Orientation On-Site David E. Thompson Ref# 96709 Fees: UG 1 hr $218 1/12/06-5/4/06 U 5:30-6:20 PM FSHS 580: Directed Field Experience Guided Study David E. Thompson Ref# 96712 Fees: UG 8 hr $1419.60 1/18/06-5/3/06 FSHS 585: Professional Seminar in Family Life Education On-Site David E. Thompson Ref# 96713 Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60 1/23/06-5/1/06 M 5:30-7:55 PM FSHS 670: Working with Parents CD-ROM/Internet Mary DeLuccie Ref# 92920 Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053 FSHS 700: Fireworks-3: Anger Management in Adult-Child Relationships Internet Charles Smith Ref# 92926 Fees: UG 3 hr $897; G 3 hr $1128 FSHS 700: Assessment and Observation for Early Childhood Educators Internet Ann Murray Ref# 92927 Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053 FSHS 704: Foundations of Infant Mental Health Internet Ann Murray Ref# 92929 Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053 FSHS 740: Play Facilitation Internet Bronwyn Fees Ref# 92932 Fees: UG 3 hr $772; G 3 hr $1003 FSHS 810: Child Development Internet Ann Murray Ref# 92937 Fees: G 3 hr $1053 GERON 315: Introduction to Gerontology Internet Gayle Doll Ref# 92941 Fees: UG 3 hr $822	GERON 620: Mental Health and Aging Internet Janice Dinkel Ref# 92943 Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053 ◆HN 132: Basic Nutrition Internet Sharon Morcos Ref# 92946 Fees: UG 3 hr $872 HN 400: Human Nutrition Internet/CD-ROM Richard Baybutt Ref# 92953 Fees: UG 3 hr $822 HN 413: Science of Food Internet DeLores Chambers Ref# 92955 Fees: UG 4 hr $1071 HN 620: Nutrient Metabolism Internet Richard Chiang Ref# 92960 Fees: UG 4 hr $1071; G 4 hr $1379 HN 630: Clinical Nutrition Internet Shandria Godwin Ref# 92962 Fees: UG 5 hr $1320; G 5 hr $1705 HN 820: Functional Foods for Chronic Disease Prevention Internet George Wang Ref# 92967 Fees: G 3 hr $978 HRIMD 130: Careers in Nutrition and Dietetics Internet/CD-ROM Deb Canter Ref# 92971 Fees: UG 1 hr $324 HRIMD 220: Environmental Issues in Hospitality I Internet Lynn Riggins Ref# 92973 Fees: UG 2 hr $573 HRIMD 342: Food Production Management Internet Melissa Schrader Ref# 92976 Fees: UG 3 hr $822 HRIMD 422: Cost in Controls in Hospital Operations Internet Hui Li-Tzang Ref# 92979 Fees: UG 3 hr $822 HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines On-Site Betsy Barrett Ref# 92347 Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40 1/16/06-3/13/06 M 6:30-9:00 PM HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines On-Site Betsy Barrett Ref# 92348 Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40 1/17/06-3/14/06 T 6:30-9:00 PM ◆Indicates the course has been approved for university general education requirement.
--	---	---

Register online at:
www.dce.ksu.edu

or in person at the Division of Continuing Education, College Court Building, Monday-Friday, 8 am to 6 pm.

For more information, Call 1-800-432-8222 or (785) 532-5566

Published by Kansas State University and Logos, Inc.

TO THE POINT Businesses should allow smoking or not

People should know by now that smoking can cause lung cancer, heart disease and an assortment of other health problems.

The creation of a legislation enforcing a ban smoking in bars and restaurants is fit for a city such as Lawrence, but not Manhattan.

It is not the responsibility of the city to step in and regulate where people are allowed to exercise their smoking vice. Business owners should retain the right to individually make decisions regarding smokers in their establishment.

As for restaurants, some have the traditional smoking and non-smoking sections while others have opted to become smoke-free. The important part is that it was each business' decision and not a mandate from the city.

Government legislation forcing smokers to sit outside bars and restaurants is ridiculous.

Too often is the government looked to as the great equalizer, making everything we see, hear and experience as similar as possible to avoid being under fire when someone doesn't like something.

People choose to either to smoke or not — it is as simple as that. Since elimination of smokers is obviously not an option, people seem to believe the next best solution is the elimination of places smoking is allowed.

Allowing the government to decide where people can and cannot smoke only increases Big Brother's grip unnecessarily.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Dave Skretta

Bugs Bunny, Porky Pig, Daffy Duck still reign supreme

Saturday morning comes with the smell of scrambled eggs and sausage. Pajamas are donned, breakfast is consumed, a wee umbrella cast skyward seconds before a five-ton rock flattens a coyote against the desert floor.

Lost in a Looney Tunes world, children of both stature and heart pass many a blissful hour in front of the glowing tube.

Immersing yourself in a land of falling anvils, speeding Mexican mice, stuttering cats and quick-witted rabbits has as much draw today as it did in 1935 when Porky Pig, the first big name Looney Tune, made his appearance.

The pinnacle of cartoon entertainment remains popular more than 70 years after its inception. Besieged by knock-offs, shoddy recreations and corporate ineptitude, the Saturday morning superstars remain the best in their game.

Inspired by a group of comic geniuses, the Looney Tunes group created an empire that has outlived almost all of its creators. No one, and I mean no one, can compare.

Walt Disney and his stupid mouse take a far distant second. After that, the competition comes from ... who, exactly?

The reason for Bugs', Daffy's and Porky's success stems from many sources.

First, the undeniable human instinct to see things flattened. Deep within us all lies the urge to see anvils plunge from the sky onto bumbling roosters, to see the cat smashed under the piano or see the duck hit by the train. Smashing stuff appeals to our inner 4-year-old, and watching our favorite flattened animals stumble around afterwards accompanied by a trombone solo only heightens the magic.

Next, a deep and abiding longing to root for the underdog. Although for one quarter of the year we had to endure Uncle

Cletus pulling into the driveway with a truck bed full of dead rabbits, ducks, armadillos and something that looks suspiciously like the neighbors' children, we still had the rest of the year to celebrate as Bugs tied Elmer Fudd's gun barrels in knots.

In addition, it gives us what we all need. A good excuse to hurt ourselves. Certainly, if Wile E. Coyote can fall off a cliff and be OK, then it should be no big deal for me to ski off the top of the house onto the trampoline. Hospitals the world over owe their productivity to Looney Tune inspired pratfalls, gags and blowing up of random animals.

Finally, and most importantly, the schemes of Wile E. Coyote, Sylvester, Elmer and Yosemite Sam fuel the belief that our own lame-brained ideas just might work. What self-respecting college student hasn't tried to build an essay-writing supercomputer out of a mouse, some cheese, a cannon, a cheese grater and some string?

When our schemes backfire and we shoot the neighbor with the cannon, while the rabid mouse bites our roommate sending them on a murderous rampage, we just grin and remember those fond Looney Tunes moments.

In the realm of modern mediocrity, remember there is just no comparison to the antics of Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Marvin the Martian, Porky, Sylvester, Elmer, Speedy, Foghorn Leghorn and a slew of other characters that are being ripped off to this day.

The Looney Tunes weren't politically correct, they didn't have some higher moral, they didn't preach. They just made us laugh more, then and now, than anything else that has come in their wake.

Jonas Hogg is a junior in sociology, international studies and Russian. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

JONAS HOGG

KELSEY CHILDRESS

Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles nurture children's imagination

Children's cartoons are only fun if they contain some element of imagination in them. Children like to pretend and believe the out-of-the-ordinary can come alive. This is why Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles is obviously the best children's cartoon.

Since the creation of these characters in 1984, the turtles have had comic books, comic strips, television shows, Web sites, video games and movies made about them. Even a newly discovered species of prehistoric turtle was named after this comic book series. It is called the Ninjemy — which literally means "ninja turtle."

They have enjoyed success all around the world, because, let's face it, what is better than watching four teenage turtles fight crime with the help of their rat martial arts teacher?

Even though the series started as a comic book about 21 years ago, the world is still clamoring for more of the adventures of Donatello, Michelangelo, Leonardo and Raphael. A computer animated full-length movie will hit theaters in 2007.

There are many reasons besides it's overwhelming success that clearly make Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles the sweetest cartoon series ever to land on the Saturday and Sunday TV cartoon blocks. First, the turtles are fighting the Shredder, who is the ninja master of "The Foot," a fighting clan from Japan that have made it their personal vendetta to rid the world of the turtles and their allies.

Is there anything cooler than ninjas battling each other? What about human and turtle ninjas fighting each other? I think not.

Secondly, the zenith of awesomeness was reached when the creators decided to make a live-action adaptation as a movie in 1990. Many cartoons have been created into feature-length films; however, few have been made into live-action, using human actors instead of drawing it as a cartoon.

The intricate costumes for the actors were made by the same studio that created the Muppets. According to www.Wikipedia.org, the first movie was also the highest grossing independent film of all time when it was released — it earned $133 million at the box office. Two sequels followed.

The motto and slang are also one of the best reasons why the show is so splendid. From "cowabunga!" to "heroes in a half shell," Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles have many valuable treasures that other cartoons are just unable to produce.

They are so above par, it is unbelievable to imagine any other cartoon can even begin to try to measure up.

However, the most glorious component of the entire Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles empire was their concert tour.

Yes — this cartoon was magnificent enough to actually have a concert tour in 1990, which was titled, "Comin' Out of Their Shells." It had a 10 song set and a pay-per-view version was also offered on television.

So if one is ever confused as to which cartoon to watch, there is only one place to turn — a sewer in New York City that contains a mutagen which made baby turtles into crime-fighting machines with an all-knowing rat as their ninjitsu master.

Kelsey Childress is a sophomore in English literature and Spanish. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian	Classified ads.....532-6555
Kedzie 103	Newsroom.....532-6556
Manhattan, KS 66502	news@spub.ksu.edu
Display ads.....532-6560	Delivery problems.....532-6555

Illustrations by Jordan Mizell | COLLEGIAN

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Mr. T once punched Chuck Norris at the exact moment that he roundhouse kicked Mr. T in the chest. The result was the '80s.

I just want to say congratulations to the K-State Crop Judging Team for placing first in Kansas City.

You know you live in Kansas when you have tornados on Sunday and snow on Monday.

To whomever tried killing Butters the Squirrel — you didn't succeed, he's too cool and invincible for you.

To all the guys who bought or are buying the Xbox 360, say good-bye to your girlfriends.

Seriously, why wasn't there a paper last Tuesday? We had class still. It wasn't break

yet. I was sad.

Enough with Chuck Norris already.

So was there enough room for people in McCain for Ted?

To the girl jogging at the rec with the white shirt and yellow shorts, you're pretty cute. From the guy with the sweat band and orange shirt.

Michael Ashford, don't use Colorado's classless fans to push your conservative agenda. Other "liberal" schools would be embarrassed by such behavior.

Ted Turner, you say that it is necessary to decrease the population, yet you have five kids. Interesting.

Man, I hate tornados. They're stupid. It's just wind and it sucks.

Isn't there something better to write about other than a beauty pageant? Why not write about someone who has real talent? Although, I guess learning how to walk right is challenging.

I just saw a girl with a license plate on her car that said "ILOVEME." Can you say single?

We were just wondering — is it a moose or a horse?

Condos are being erected on Manhattan Avenue.

I found Jesus in Narnia.

I could have sworn I saw Jesus at Pizza Shuttle.

I just got delivery from Mr. Goodcents to the front bar of Rusty's Last Chance and the wait is 35-45 minutes. What the deuce indeed.

It's too November outside.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Custom coiffure

Photos by Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Self-styling holiday hair can save students money

By Eileen Laux
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With money being used for Christmas presents and other things, many college students are decreasing luxuries that cannot be afforded. Winter formals, interviews and holiday dinners are coming up and many people can't afford to get their hair done professionally.

Bethany Sterrett, senior in kinesiology, said she does other people's hair in her sorority, Chi Omega. Sterrett said she learned to do hair when she was young.

"People used to do my hair for me when I was little," she said. "When I got to high school, I never liked paying people to do my hair, so I just started experimenting."

Sterrett does her sorority sisters' hair for formals, which include updos and haircuts. She said bobby pins are the safest because they allow the person to add or remove hair from the style.

She said to start with sections, twisting the hair and pinning it up. She generally doesn't use hair products until after the style is done, but she recommends a wax or pomade for hair that is harder to work with. Using hairspray to set the style is a good idea to prevent it from falling.

Putting the "bubble on top of the head" or "faux hawk", as it is sometimes called, is a very popular style this season, Sterrett said.

She said she recommends grabbing a section of hair, pulling it back, pushing it forward so it "poufs" up and using bobby pins to secure it. If the hair separates because of a part, the person can bring it forward, hairspray it and then try again.

"I always say the more simple the style, the more elegant it looks," she said.

Wida Egan, clinic floor supervisor for Crum's Beauty College, said product is key when styling hair.

"Product, product, product," she said. "Without product we couldn't do the things we do."

Most people should use some sort of finishing product, such as a quick dry hairspray, she said. Brands like Redken, Matrix and Graham Webb are well researched and will be well worth spending a little extra money.

"You will be saving money," she said. "Over-the-counter products tend to make you use more. For example, an over-the-counter shampoo may cause you to use one or two applications where as with a professional product will only need to use a quarter size, depending on length and thickness of the hair."

She said things to keep in mind when styling hair is if volume is the goal, then blow-drying hair upside down, using mousse on the roots and a cold shot at the end is important.

Most blow-dryers come with a cold shot feature that shoots cold air that helps create a longer lasting style and may make hair shinier.

Egan said men should use pomade, cream or a paste to style their hair. The longer, shaggier look is still in this season, so running a little pomade or cream through dry hair and spraying some shine spray will create a nice style, she said.

She said when women are considering doing an up-do, hesitate piling on product. Egan recommends starting with a leave-in conditioner, mousse near the scalp, using a product that might be heat activated and a hairspray that lightly volumizes.

"People need to remember that you might want to investigate different products that will help these different looks look even better."

Mandy Colston, master designer at Salon Essentials, said product is a big part of styling hair. A flat iron is also a step in keeping hair sleek and natural at the same time.

"Product is a must for men, but they should only use a dime to nickel size of it," she said.

Women can do a simple up-do by using hot rollers and twisting the curled pieces and pinning them up, she said. Also, washing hair the night before the hair is to be styled, putting gel in and blow-drying is a good idea. The next day, using a thermal setting spray on each section allows the curls to be locked in as they interact with the heat.

She said women can also achieve the wave look worn by Kate Hudson and Jennifer Aniston. Start with a hot curling iron, with the top open, then wrap a small section of hair around it and don't close the iron. Continue all the way around the hair to create soft waves, she said.

Colston said to make sure the condition of hair is maintained. Using shine sprays and thermal protects can help the hair look and be healthy. Hair spray or finishing spray is a good idea, with a range on hold, depending on the occasion.

NEW RELEASES

Music

Shakira, "Oral Fixation vol. 2"
INXS, "Switch"
Il Divo, "Ancora"
Paul McCartney, "Jenny Wren"
Dave Matthews Band, "Weekend On The Rocks [Live]"
Kate Bush, "King of the Mountain"
The Darkness, "One Way Ticket to Hell...And Back" Chris Brown, "Chris Brown"
a-ha, "Analogue"
Anastacia, "Pieces of a Dream: Best Of"
Enya, "Amarantine"
The Human League, "Original Remixes & Rarities"
Richard Manuel, "Whispering Pines: Live at the Getaway [Live]" Buckcherry, "Fifteen"
Rammstein, "Benzin"
Rick Danko, "Cryin' Heart Blues" Nightwish, "Highest Hopes: The Best of" t.A.T.u., "Dangerous and Moving"
The Mob, "The Mob"

Source: Amazon.com

Movies in theatres Friday

"Aeon Flux" PG-13

Four hundred years from now, disease has wiped out the majority of Earth's population, save for the residents of Bregna, a city-state protected by a giant wall and ruled by scientists. Aeon Flux (Charlize Theron) is an operative for the Monican Rebellion, an underground group led by the Handler (Frances McDormand) who wants Aeon to kill the government's leader.

"First Descent" NR

This documentary follows a crew of groundbreaking snowboarders as they bring the sport into the mainstream.

Source: www.movies.go.com

DVDs

"Mr. & Mrs. Smith"
"March of the Penguins"
"C.S.I. Crime Scene Investigation - The Complete Fifth Season"
"World Series 2005 - Chicago White Sox"
"Mr. & Mrs. Smith"
"The Muppet Christmas Carol - Kermit's 50th Anniversary Edition"
"Sky High"
"The Muppet Movie - Kermit's 50th Anniversary Edition"
"Havoc"
"Family Guy, Vol. 3"
"Jurassic Park Adventure Pack" (Jurassic Park/ The Lost World: Jurassic Park/ Jurassic Park III)
"Murderball"
"Deuce Bigalow - European Gigolo"
"The Great Muppet Caper - Kermit's 50th Anniversary Edition"
"The Firefighters"
"King Kong Vs Godzilla/King Kong Escapes"
"Tremors Attack Pack" (Tremors/ Tremors 2 - Aftershocks/ Tremors 3 - Back to Perfection/ Tremors 4 - The Legend Begins)

Source: Amazon.com

Art: Courtesy photos

Good relationships include honesty, arguments

If there's one complaint I hear over and over again, it's girls complaining that their boyfriends just don't get "it." This, of course, comes right before the guys say that girls are so complicated and confusing. In a world filled with quick romances, fast breakups and the perilous road to the altar, what really makes a relationship a good one?

HOLLY KRAMER

1. YOU CAN HAVE HEALTHY FIGHTS

Whether it's about his wandering eyes or her binge drinking problem, a good fight can help clear the air and reduce stress within the relationship. You can let your feelings out, reach some sort of compromise and have make-up sex. Everybody wins.

2. YOU GIVE EACH OTHER ROOM TO BREATHE

Dr. Drew, the world's sexiest doctor, said there are usually two kinds of relationships in college - attached at the hip or people who just hook up with each other. Dr. Drew said both kinds are unhealthy and doomed to fail. Everyone needs time by themselves to do all those weird things people do when no one's watching. Also, time apart can make you appreciate the time you do spend together and even try the ancient, almost obsolete concept of romance.

3. EATING, ARGUING AND BURPING IN FRONT OF ONE ANOTHER

Some girls are uncomfortable with showing their true selves to the guys they date. If they still order the side salad with fat-free ranch, let their guys tell off-color jokes about women and hold their burps in, they aren't fully allowing someone to see them. Being intimate means having a close bond, and that usually means not holding back on how gross you really are.

4. YOU CAN GET ALONG WITH FRIENDS, FAMILY

He doesn't have to watch eight consecutive hours of "Sex and the City" with your girlfriends, but a good guy should be able to know who your close friends are and be able to talk to them with ease at a bar or party.

Also, girls should try to get to know their guy's friends and maybe get some clues to help solve the mystery of the Halo 2 obsession. If you can manage to do this without losing your taste for the entire male gender in general, my hat's off to you.

Treading the unpredictable waters of family gatherings isn't easy but as long as you try to make conversation and stifle your opinions about the president, the war, premarital sex, poverty, education and Rush Limbaugh, it can be tolerable.

5. YOU GENUINELY LIKE THE PERSON

My mom always said the most important part of relationships isn't how much you love the person, it's how much you like them. This seems simple, but if you and your main squeeze have very different personal beliefs, hobbies, interests and goals, you might find out you are headed for separate lives. If you can stand to be around them at their worst and still truly like them, then it's probably meant to be.

6. YOU NEED TO HAVE THE SAME PLAN

If you're dreaming about your wedding, future children and golden anniversary, while the other person is dreaming about the next potential lover, the relationship might be headed for trouble. If you are in for the long haul, make sure that person wants similar things for the future, whether it be a wedding, a master's degree or an alternative life in a nudist's colony.

Hopefully, you can evaluate what you want in your relationship and talk freely about it. Love can be a complicated thing, whether you want to shout about it from the rooftops, or push their Xbox off a rooftop. But, as the old saying goes: better to love and lose, than to have never loved at all. While you may lose your appetite, self-respect and coveted time for yourself, there's someone out there who's waiting with open arms to make it all worthwhile.

Holly Kramer is a senior in human ecology and mass communications. You can e-mail her at edge@pub.ksu.edu.

K-State may prove people wrong

After coach Jim Wooldridge signed 6-foot-9 inch forward Serge Afeli, The Kansas City Star sports columnist Jason Whitlock wrote about the K-State men's basketball team.

Whitlock made the outlandish claim that K-State, despite the departure of its two leading scorers and rebounders from a year ago, would not only beat Kansas for the first time since Jan. 17, 1994, but also win at least 20 games.

Even the most optimistic K-State fan must have doubted Whitlock's wishful words. I, for one, discounted them as another of Whitlock's ploys to get a rise out of Kansas fans.

After all, Kansas, while unranked, is loaded with talent once again.

Plus, the Big 12 Conference coaches picked K-State to finish 11th in the conference, and last season, only six teams from the Big 12 Conference won 20 or more games.

But after some thought and three Wildcat victories, I admit Whitlock may be onto something.

Though it's hardly a safe bet, K-State does have a fairly good chance to win 20 games this season.

By Division I standards, K-State's pre-conference schedule is ridiculously easy.

The Wildcats should start 10-1 or 11-0, depending on whether they can fend off a mediocre-at-best Washington State squad on the road.

Slip-ups to teams like Longwood, Belmont, Bethune-Cookman and North Dakota State seem unlikely.

Of course, even if K-State sails through its non-conference schedule, Wooldridge's team could still collapse in Big 12 play and finish 11th.

But I doubt it. Wooldridge and the Wildcats have more to prove this season than perhaps any other in Wooldridge's tenure.

Aside from the addition of David "reverse alley-oop" Hoskins, getting snubbed from last season's post-season NIT Tournament may have been the biggest blessing for this year's squad.

I can only assume Wooldridge's job security is shaky at best, which should provide motivation to win games.

The Wildcats will play this season with a chip on their shoulders, and the scary thing is, they are a talented group.

K-State has two legitimate Big 12-caliber point guards in Clint Stewart and Mario Taybron, and at least four other guards who can create shots off the dribble.

K-State also has three or four guys who would probably be competitive in any Big 12 dunk contest.

And while K-State lacks size, the Wildcats are having little problem rebounding the basketball and blocking shots.

K-State has blocked 13 shots and out-rebounded its opponents 119-84 through its first three games.

Need I mention Cartier Martin's improved game? He's averaging 23.3 points and, more impressively, shooting 61.5 percent from the field.

Are the Wildcats as talented as Kansas? Probably not. Are they more experienced than the Jayhawks, and just as athletic? Certainly.

If K-State runs the table before conference play begins — which it should — it has a realistic chance at 20 wins.

Keep in mind K-State's two toughest challenges, Oklahoma and Texas, are in the Big 12 South, which means K-State only plays them once each.

Who knows, there may be some truth in Whitlock's bold predictions. If so, you may want to pinch yourself, because K-State could be headed for its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1996.

Mark Potter is a senior in public relations. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

2005 Football Awards

PRESENTED BY THE COLLEGIAN SPORTS STAFF

FILE PHOTOS

Player of the Year: Jordy Nelson, Wide Receiver

Nelson not only made the switch from defense to offense, but he also gave K-State its only big play threat. His eight TD catches and 669 yards receiving makes one wonder what he can do now that he has a year of experience.

Nelson
WIDE RECEIVER

Honorable mention: Allan Evridge, Quarterback

The redshirt freshman came in and looked like a veteran. He threw for more than 1,300 yards and brought a spark to the offense with his hard-nosed play and leadership. The Nebraska native took hit after hit, but he kept coming back and proved he is the future quarterback of the Wildcats.

Evridge
QUARTERBACK

Offensive MVP: Jordy Nelson, Wide Receiver

The sophomore defensive back-turned-wide-out led the team in scoring and receptions. He scored at least one touchdown in seven straight games and was a reliable target for Evridge.

Figs
WIDE RECEIVER

Echols
DEFENSIVE TACKLE

Diles
LINEBACKER

Watts
FREE SAFETY

Archer
LINEBACKER

Special Teams MVP: Yamon Figs, Wide Receiver

While Figs did not live up to his preseason billing on offense, his contributions on special teams, mainly as a gunner on punt coverage, was invaluable. He used his sub-4.3 speed to consistently make the initial tackle on punts, which helped K-State in the field position battle.

Most-Improved Player: Quintin Echols, Defensive Tackle

Echols stepped up into a leadership role and led all defensive linemen with 45 tackles, 11 more than the next lineman. He also deflected the pass that was intercepted by Justin McKinney to seal the victory over Marshall.

Newcomer of the Year: Zach Diles, Linebacker

A transfer from Fresno State (Calif.) College, Diles immediately made a dent in a veteran linebacking unit and finished fourth on the team in total tackles with 50. He also forced a team-leading three fumbles.

Defensive MVP: Marcus Watts, Free Safety

The sophomore was all over the place. In his first year as a defensive starter, Watts tallied 71 total tackles and cemented himself as a leader on the defense with his all-out play.

Honorable Mention: Brandon Archer, Linebacker

Archer not only provided the play of the season with his 45-yard interception for a touchdown against Missouri in coach Bill Snyder's final game, he also was a stalwart for the Wildcat defense. Archer racked up a team-leading 72 tackles and 9.5 tackles-for-loss and added three sacks.

Big 12

Player of the Year: Vince Young, Quarterback, Texas

Offensive Player of the Year: Vince Young

Defensive Player of the Year: Rufus Alexander, Linebacker, Oklahoma

Special Teams Player of the Year: Mason Crosby, Placekicker, Colorado

Newcomer of the Year: Jamaal Charles, Running Back, Texas

Game of the Year: K-State-36, Missouri-28

Could there be any other? In a dramatic comeback, K-State sent coach Bill Snyder out a winner. As if Snyder's story of resurrecting the Wildcat program could be finished any other way.

Memorable Moment: Coach Bill Snyder carried off the field.

Snyder was carried off the field by Jeromey Clay and Jordy Nelson at Bill Snyder Family Stadium in his final game of his coaching career. The stadium was not sold out, but it was the loudest that it had been all year.

Turning Point: Oct. 22, 30-28 home loss to Texas A&M.

This game was the first home loss of the season and set the tone for the rest of the season. It was the first close game the Wildcats lost and was a glimpse into the future of the team's inability to finish games.

Wildcats down Cowgirls to stay unbeaten

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State did not start great or finish any better, but they fended off Wyoming 65-55 to complete a two-game road sweep, after knocking off Santa Clara on Saturday.

Leading by as many as 19 points, the Cowgirls pulled to within five points with a minute remaining in the game.

Senior Jessica McFarland gave K-State a seven-point cushion scoring on a lay up with a second remaining on the shot clock to score her career high 10th point, sealing the win for the Wildcats. "It definitely kept our momentum, I'm just happy I made it," McFarland said. "Claire gave me a good pass, and it just worked out."

Trailing by as many as six points to start the game, the Wildcats went on a 10-0 run to take a four point lead with less than six minutes remaining in the first half. K-State pushed its lead to seven on Kimberly Dietz's 3-pointer, but the Cowgirls scored the final four points of

K-State 65 Wyoming 55

	K-State	Wyoming
Field goals	26-51	20-55
3-point	4-15	3-9
Free throws	9-13	12-23
Rebounds	45	25
Assists	14	12
Turnovers	21	9
Leading scorer	Coggins, 23	Zavecz, 22
Leading rebounder	Hamlin, 10	McGuffey, 6
Leading assists	Lehning, 5	Zavecz, 6

NFL Scores

Pittsburgh 7
Indianapolis 26

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

CVB | Rezende selected to All-Big 12 first team

K-State senior Agata Rezende earned her first career All-Big 12 honor on Monday, as she was named to the All-Big 12 First Team. Rezende is the 27th Wildcat to earn an All-Big 12 citation.

Rezende, an outside hitter from Franca, Brazil, leads the Wildcats with 415 kills this season and 3.71 kills per game. She set a career-high earlier this season with 23 kills against Utah State on Sept. 2. She registered six 20-kill matches this season to tie for eighth on the K-State single season list for 20-kill matches in a season.

For her career, Rezende has 624 kills, 191 digs and 173 total blocks. She has totaled 26 matches in which she has hit .300 or better.

Rezende

MBB | Hoskins tabbed

Big 12 Rookie of the Week

K-State sophomore forward David Hoskins was named the Phillips 66 Big 12 Conference Rookie of the Week on Monday after averaging 16.5 points and 6.0 rebounds in the Wildcats' victories over New Mexico and Stephen F. Austin last week.

This is the first such award for Hoskins in his career. He is the first Wildcat to win the award since Fred Peete won it twice last season.

A native of Canton, Mich., Hoskins averaged 16.5 points on 61.1 percent shooting (11-of-18) with 6.0 rebounds and 2.5 assists in 25.5 minutes of action in wins over New Mexico and Stephen F. Austin last week. He also connected on 78.6 percent of his free throw attempts (11-of-14) in the two wins.

Hoskins

The Associated Press

NFL | Lions fire Mariucci, promote Jauron

ALLEN PARK, Mich. — The Detroit Lions fired coach Steve Mariucci on Monday and promoted defensive coordinator Dick Jauron to succeed him on an interim basis.

Mariucci's record with the Lions was 15-28. His 2003 hiring was hailed by fans and media alike, but he was not able to turn around a team that has won one playoff game since 1957.

After Detroit lost 27-7 to the Atlanta Falcons on Thanksgiving to fall to 4-7, reports swirled that the team was considering firing Mariucci. When Mariucci was not let go over the weekend, some thought his job was safe for the final five games of the regular season.

MLB | Athletics agree

to 3-year deal with Loaiza

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Oakland Athletics and free-agent right-hander Esteban Loaiza agreed Monday to a three-year contract worth more than $21 million, adding an experienced pitcher to a starting rotation that already includes Barry Zito and Rich Harden.

The deal includes a 2009 club option on Loaiza, a 12-game winner with the Washington Nationals last season. His victories total was the second-best in the 33-year-old Loaiza's 11-year major league career — he won 21 games for the Chicago White Sox in 2003.

Loaiza joins a team that has almost its entire roster returning from last season, when the A's failed to reach the playoffs for the second straight year. Oakland had a 91-win season in 2004 and 88 victories this year.

CFB | Ohio's Solich convicted of drunken driving

ATHENS, Ohio — Ohio coach Frank Solich was convicted of drunken driving Monday, two days after police spotted him slumped over the wheel of his vehicle.

Solich, in his first season with the Bobcats, pleaded no contest and was ordered to complete a three-day driver intervention program. He also had his license suspended for 180 days and was fined $250.

The university, in a statement released before his court appearance, said Solich would remain in charge of the Bobcats as it monitored the case.

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Tuesday, Nov. 29, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

DUPLEX, CLOSE to campus. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st. (785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

STUDIO, CLOSE to campus. No pets. $300. (785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810. (785)537-2255.

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE. Central air. Pets ok. Large fenced yard. Available December. (785)317-7713.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/ month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or malone.ental@yahoo.com

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

145
Roommate
Wanted

BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Beautiful three-bedroom, two bath house near Westloop. No deposit or lease. Furnished if needed. (785)587-9997.

JANUARY- AUGUST: Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Philip (913)302-0402.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for two-bedroom apartment. Very clean, nice, quiet, great landlords, available now. Call Nicole (913)220-5854.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (785)202-0678. Available December.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED! Two-bedroom apartment with washer and dryer. One block from campus! Water and trash paid. Cheap rent for location! Call (316)288-9629.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ONE-BEDROOM. WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM DUPLEX, 2303 Anderson, $800, available December 17. (785)537-7138.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. Available December 15. January to May, $290/ month. Pets allowed. 615 Thurston. Call (785)341-1073.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment close to campus. $237.50/ month plus utilities. (913)980-4585.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, outgoing, no pets. Two-bedrooms available, $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

LOOKING FOR a roommate for a four-bedroom duplex. Available as soon as possible. 1112 Vathier. Call Jason (785)443-3306.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for large two-bedroom, one bath, apartment in Westchester Park. Tennis, fitness center, available now, Tyler, (785)539-8773.

ROOMMATE NEEDED: Male or female. Nice house with backyard adjacent to campus. Available January 1. Call Andrea (785)341-2181.

ROOMMATE WANTED, $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED: four-bedroom house, block from campus, $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for two-bedroom, two bathroom brand new apartment, close to campus. Available mid-December to June or August. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher and garbage disposal. Call Jamie at (316)250-2780.

FEMALES NEEDED for four-bedroom, two bath, close to campus. Washer/ dryer. Lease from January to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

NEAT FEMALE roommate wanted mid-December- July. Close to campus. $245 monthly plus one-fourth bills. Call Joan (316)640-5080 or Jannessa (316)204-4910.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available January. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline. (785)564-1284.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Female roommate wanted for spring semester. Nice house with washer/ dryer. Flexible on rent and dates. Call (316)304-2201.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT, close to Aggieville and campus. Available January. (785)537-9644.

TWO-BEDROOM SPA-CIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

CLOSE to campus. Three-bedroom, bathroom, kitchen, dinette, den, attached garage. (765)463-5014.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO baths, two kitchens, very close to campus. (785)776-8628, (785)341-4073.

300
employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

IBARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

AUCTION HELP: Successful candidate will move, organize, and process merchandise. Responsibilities will include making merchandise pickups, customer interaction, cleaning, and physical tasks. Applicants must be professional, have positive attitude, and valid drivers license. Digital camera experience very beneficial, though not required. Full and part-time positions available. Apply in person at Purple Wave Auction Co., 701 Enoch Lane, Manhattan. Ask for Traffas, Equal Opportunity Employer.

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com.

COACHES: USD 378, Riley County is accepting applications for Middle School Boys Basketball coaches (one or two). Please contact Becky Pultz at bpultz@usd378.org with mailing address or (785)485-4000 as soon as possible.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator. Full-time position available in Wabaunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansas.net.

FULL-TIME SUMMER work. Open to all majors. I will take five more students to help me run my own business. Average earns $800/ week. Contact (785)317-0455.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

GRADUATE RESEARCH Assistant (GRA) to serve as a UNIX Technical Support Programmer in the K-State Information Systems office. Assist lead applications developer with UNIX programming tasks. A high level understanding of Sun Solaris (UNIX) Operating Systems and thorough understanding of UNIX and/or Perl scripts are required. This is a year around student opportunity. Contact John Streeter at (785)532-4758 or jas@k-state.edu, or come by 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 215 to apply. Application deadline is Friday, December 2, 2005. Equal Opportunity Employer.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

310
Help Wanted

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY, Information Systems Office Associate Director, Database Management Services. Kansas State University is seeking a senior technical manager in its Information Systems Office to be responsible for visioning, planning and managing all facets of database management services for the university. Minimum requirements include: (1) a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Information Systems, Software Engineering, Computer Engineering, or other appropriately related technical field; (2) seven years experience in progressively responsible positions in a major information systems organization, to include 5 years in a highly technical hands-on role in enterprise computing environments involving the administration of enterprise database and applications servers; (3) two years technical leadership and/or direct supervision experience involving responsibility for evaluating technical staff performance is required; and (4) in-depth technical knowledge of Oracle 9i and 10g database management and applications server software. A detailed position description is available at www.ksu.edu/iso/employment. Salary is negotiable based upon qualifications and experience. A letter of application describing qualifications for and expressing interest in the position, a professional resume, and a list of three professional references with complete contact information should be sent to: Search Committee: Associate Director of Database Management Services; Information Systems Office; 2323 Anderson Avenue, Suite 215; Manhattan, KS 66502-2912 or submitted electronically to iso@ksu.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2005 with applications continuing to be considered until the position is filled. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer. K-State actively seeks diversity among its employees. Paid for by Kansas State University.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME/ FULL-TIME laborers needed. Farm background preferred. Call (785)410-2918.

PROGAMMER, CIVICPLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email hacman72@hotmail.com.

435
Computers

FAST COMPUTER repair. Walk-in's welcome. Lair Gauche, (785)776-3302.

NEW P4-3 GB computer that a short ad can't describe in loving detail. If you want the best, come talk. Lair Gauche, (785)776-3302.

MOVING SALE. VHS movies and CD's. $2. Lair Gauche, in Westloop.

500
transportation

510
Automobiles

1997 JEEP Grand Cherokee Laredo, Black, 4x4, air conditioning, CD, recently inspected, dealer maintained, excellent condition. 80,500 miles, $5700. (847)452-0958.

600 travel/ trips

630
Spring Break

#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LesTours.com or (800)838-8202.

Quiznos Sub
MMMM...TOASTY!

su|do|ku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

8 5 1 4
1 6 4 8 3
4 7
8 3 7 4 2
2 9 5 6 1
1 8 4 1 2 9
2 3 7 6

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.
(with purchase of any size sub)

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

405
Wanted to Buy

DON'T PITCH it. Sell your old Windows XP computer. Lair Gauche, (785)776-3302.

410
Items for Sale

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.50
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.95
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.65
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.90
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

5 DAYS</

K-State may prove people wrong

After coach Jim Wooldridge signed 6-foot-9 inch forward Serge Afeli, The Kansas City Star sports columnist Jason Whitlock wrote about the K-State men's basketball team.

Whitlock made the outlandish claim that K-State, despite the departure of its two leading scorers and rebounders from a year ago, would not only beat Kansas for the first time since Jan. 17, 1994, but also win at least 20 games.

Even the most optimistic K-State fan must have doubted Whitlock's wishful words. I, for one, discounted them as another of Whitlock's ploys to get a rise out of Kansas fans.

After all, Kansas, while unranked, is loaded with talent once again.

Plus, the Big 12 Conference coaches picked K-State to finish 11th in the conference, and last season, only six teams from the Big 12 Conference won 20 or more games.

But after some thought and three Wildcat victories, I admit Whitlock may be onto something.

Though it's hardly a safe bet, K-State does have a fairly good chance to win 20 games this season.

By Division I standards, K-State's pre-conference schedule is ridiculously easy.

The Wildcats should start 10-1 or 11-0, depending on whether they can fend off a mediocre-at-best Washington State squad on the road.

Slip-ups to teams like Longwood, Belmont, Bethune-Cookman and North Dakota State seem unlikely.

Of course, even if K-State sails through its non-conference schedule, Wooldridge's team could still collapse in Big 12 play and finish 11th.

But I doubt it. Wooldridge and the Wildcats have more to prove this season than perhaps any other in Wooldridge's tenure.

Aside from the addition of David "reverse alley-oop" Hoskins, getting snubbed from last season's post-season NIT Tournament may have been the biggest blessing for this year's squad.

I can only assume Wooldridge's job security is shaky at best, which should provide motivation to win games.

The Wildcats will play this season with a chip on their shoulders, and the scary thing is, they are a talented group.

K-State has two legitimate Big 12-caliber point guards in Clint Stewart and Mario Taybron, and at least four other guards who can create shots off the dribble.

K-State also has three or four guys who would probably be competitive in any Big 12 dunk contest.

And while K-State lacks size, the Wildcats are having little problem rebounding the basketball and blocking shots.

K-State has blocked 13 shots and out-rebounded its opponents 119-84 through its first three games.

Need I mention Cartier Martin's improved game? He's averaging 23.3 points and, more impressively, shooting 61.5 percent from the field.

Are the Wildcats as talented as Kansas? Probably not. Are they more experienced than the Jayhawks, and just as athletic? Certainly.

If K-State runs the table before conference play begins — which it should — it has a realistic chance at 20 wins.

Keep in mind K-State's two toughest challenges, Oklahoma and Texas, are in the Big 12 South, which means K-State only plays them once each.

Who knows, there may be some truth in Whitlock's bold predictions. If so, you may want to pinch yourself, because K-State could be headed for its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1996.

Mark Potter is a senior in public relations. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

2005 Football Awards

PRESENTED BY THE COLLEGIAN SPORTS STAFF

FILE PHOTOS

Player of the Year: Jordy Nelson, Wide Receiver

Nelson not only made the switch from defense to offense, but he also gave K-State its only big play threat. His eight TD catches and 669 yards receiving makes one wonder what he can do now that he has a year of experience.

Nelson
WIDE RECEIVER

Honorable mention: Allan Evridge, Quarterback

The redshirt freshman came in and looked like a veteran. He threw for more than 1,300 yards and brought a spark to the offense with his hard-nosed play and leadership. The Nebraska native took hit after hit, but he kept coming back and proved he is the future quarterback of the Wildcats.

Evridge
QUARTERBACK

Offensive MVP: Jordy Nelson, Wide Receiver

The sophomore defensive back-turned-wide-out led the team in scoring and receptions. He scored at least one touchdown in seven straight games and was a reliable target for Evridge.

Figs
WIDE RECEIVER

Echols
DEFENSIVE TACKLE

Diles
LINEBACKER

Watts
FREE SAFETY

Archer
LINEBACKER

Special Teams MVP: Yamon Figs, Wide Receiver

While Figs did not live up to his preseason billing on offense, his contributions on special teams, mainly as a gunner on punt coverage, was invaluable. He used his sub-4.3 speed to consistently make the initial tackle on punts, which helped K-State in the field position battle.

Most-Improved Player: Quintin Echols, Defensive Tackle

Echols stepped up into a leadership role and led all defensive linemen with 45 tackles, 11 more than the next linemen. He also deflected the pass that was intercepted by Justin McKinney to seal the victory over Marshall.

Newcomer of the Year: Zach Diles, Linebacker

A transfer from Fresno State (Calif.) College, Diles immediately made a dent in a veteran linebacking unit and finished fourth on the team in total tackles with 50. He also forced a team-leading three fumbles.

Defensive MVP: Marcus Watts, Free Safety

The sophomore was all over the place. In his first year as a defensive starter, Watts tallied 71 total tackles and cemented himself as a leader on the defense with his all-out play.

Honorable Mention: Brandon Archer, Linebacker

Archer not only provided the play of the season with his 45-yard interception for a touchdown against Missouri in coach Bill Snyder's final game, he also was a stalwart for the Wildcat defense. Archer racked up a team-leading 72 tackles and 9.5 tackles-for-loss and added three sacks.

Big 12

Player of the Year: Vince Young, Quarterback, Texas

Offensive Player of the Year: Vince Young

Defensive Player of the Year: Rufus Alexander, Linebacker, Oklahoma

Special Teams Player of the Year: Mason Crosby, Placekicker, Colorado

Newcomer of the Year: Jamaal Charles, Running Back, Texas

Game of the Year: K-State-36, Missouri-28

Could there be any other? In a dramatic comeback, K-State sent coach Bill Snyder out a winner. As if Snyder's story of resurrecting the Wildcat program could be finished any other way.

Memorable Moment: Coach Bill Snyder carried off the field.

Snyder was carried off the field by Jeromey Clary and Jordy Nelson at Bill Snyder Family Stadium in his final game of his coaching career. The stadium was not sold out, but it was the loudest that it had been all year.

Turning Point: Oct. 22, 30-28 home loss to Texas A&M.

This game was the first home loss of the season and set the tone for the rest of the season. It was the first close game the Wildcats lost and was a glimpse into the future of the team's inability to finish games.

Wildcats down Cowgirls to stay unbeaten

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State did not start great or finish any better, but they fended off Wyoming 65-55 to complete a two-game road sweep, after knocking off Santa Clara on Saturday.

Leading by as many as 19 points, the Cowgirls pulled to within five points with a minute remaining in the game.

Senior Jessica McFarland gave K-State a seven-point cushion scoring on a lay up with a second remaining on the shot clock to score her career high 10th point, sealing the win for the Wildcats. "It definitely kept our momentum, I'm just happy I made it," McFarland said. "Claire gave me a good pass, and it just worked out."

Trailing by as many as six points to start the game, the Wildcats went on a 10-0 run to take a four point lead with less than six minutes remaining in the first half. K-State pushed its lead to seven on Kimberly Dietz's 3-pointer, but the Cowgirls scored the final four points of

K-State 65 Wyoming 55

	K-State	Wyoming
Field goals	26-51	20-55
3-point	4-15	3-9
Free throws	9-13	12-23
Rebounds	45	25
Assists	14	12
Turnovers	21	9
Leading scorer	Coggins, 23	Zavec, 22
Leading rebounder	Hamlin, 10	McGuffey, 6
Leading assists	Lehning, 5	Zavec, 6

NFL Scores

Pittsburgh 7
Indianapolis 26

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

CVB | Rezende selected to All-Big 12 first team

K-State senior Agata Rezende earned her first career All-Big 12 honor on Monday, as she was named to the All-Big 12 First Team. Rezende is the 27th Wildcat to earn an All-Big 12 citation.

Rezende, an outside hitter from Franca, Brazil, leads the Wildcats with 415 kills this season and 3.71 kills per game. She set a career-high earlier this season with 23 kills against Utah State on Sept. 2. She registered six 20-kill matches this season to tie for eighth on the K-State single season list for 20-kill matches in a season.

For her career, Rezende has 624 kills, 191 digs and 173 total blocks. She has totaled 26 matches in which she has hit .300 or better.

Rezende

MBB | Hoskins tabbed Big 12 Rookie of the Week

K-State sophomore forward David Hoskins was named the Phillips 66 Big 12 Conference Rookie of the Week on Monday after averaging 16.5 points and 6.0 rebounds in the Wildcats' victories over New Mexico and Stephen F. Austin last week.

This is the first such award for Hoskins in his career. He is the first Wildcat to win the award since Fred Peete won it twice last season.

A native of Canton, Mich., Hoskins averaged 16.5 points on 61.1 percent shooting (11-of-18) with 6.0 rebounds and 2.5 assists in 25.5 minutes of action in wins over New Mexico and Stephen F. Austin last week. He also connected on 78.6 percent of his free throw attempts (11-of-14) in the two wins.

Hoskins

The Associated Press

NFL | Lions fire Mariucci, promote Jauron

ALLEN PARK, Mich. — The Detroit Lions fired coach Steve Mariucci on Monday and promoted defensive coordinator Dick Jauron to succeed him on an interim basis.

Mariucci's record with the Lions was 15-28. His 2003 hiring was hailed by fans and media alike, but he was not able to turn around a team that has won one playoff game since 1957.

After Detroit lost 27-7 to the Atlanta Falcons on Thanksgiving to fall to 4-7, reports swirled that the team was considering firing Mariucci. When Mariucci was not let go over the weekend, some thought his job was safe for the final five games of the regular season.

MLB | Athletics agree

to 3-year deal with Loaiza

OAKLAND, Calif. — The Oakland Athletics and free-agent right-hander Esteban Loaiza agreed Monday to a three-year contract worth more than $21 million, adding an experienced pitcher to a starting rotation that already includes Barry Zito and Rich Harden.

The deal includes a 2009 club option on Loaiza, a 12-game winner with the Washington Nationals last season. His victories total was the second-best in the 33-year-old Loaiza's 11-year major league career — he won 21 games for the Chicago White Sox in 2003.

Loaiza joins a team that has almost its entire roster returning from last season, when the A's failed to reach the playoffs for the second straight year. Oakland had a 91-win season in 2004 and 88 victories this year.

CFB | Ohio's Solich convicted of drunken driving

ATHENS, Ohio — Ohio coach Frank Solich was convicted of drunken driving Monday, two days after police spotted him slumped over the wheel of his vehicle.

Solich, in his first season with the Bobcats, pleaded no contest and was ordered to complete a three-day driver intervention program. He also had his license suspended for 180 days and was fined $250.

The university, in a statement released before his court appearance, said Solich would remain in charge of the Bobcats as it monitored the case.

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Tuesday, Nov. 29, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. - Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. - NO PETS. January lease $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/ dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

DUPLEX, CLOSE to campus. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st. (785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex. close to campus. all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

STUDIO. CLOSE to campus. No pets. $300. (785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810. (785)537-2255.

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE. Central air. Pets ok. Large fenced yard. Available December. (785)317-7713.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath, two blocks from campus. Washer/ dryer hook-ups. Deck with grill. Quiet neighborhood, nice yard, nice house. $1400/ month. Available immediately. Call (620)792-1933 or maloneental@yahoo.com

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

145
Roommate
Wanted

BEDROOM AVAILABLE January 1. Beautiful three-bedroom, two bath house near Westloop. No deposit or lease. Furnished if needed. (785)587-9997.

JANUARY- AUGUST: Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Philip (913)302-0402.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for two-bedroom apartment. Very clean, nice, quiet. great landlords, available now. Call Nicole (913)220-5854.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Rent negotiable. Please contact (785)556-0169.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female. pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SPRING SEMESTER sub-leaser(s) needed. Nice, clean apartment. Close to campus and Aggieville. Cheap bills. No deposit. Discounted rent: $225/ month. Call (785)202-0678. Available December.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED! Two-bedroom apartment with washer and dryer. One block from campus! Water and trash paid. Cheap rent for location! Call (316)288-9629.

120
For Rent-
Houses

ONE-BEDROOM. WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM DUPLEX, 2303 Anderson. $800, available December 17. (785)537-7138.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. Available December 15. January to May. $290/ month. Pets allowed. 615 Thurston. Call (785)341-1073.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment close to campus. $237.50/ month plus utilities. (913)980-4585.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

LOOKING FOR a roommate for a four-bedroom duplex. Available as soon as possible. 1112 Vattier. Call Jason (785)443-3306.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for large two-bedroom, one bath, apartment in Westchester Park. Tennis, fitness center, available now, Tyler, (785)539-8773.

ROOMMATE NEEDED: Male or female. Nice house with backyard adjacent to campus. Available January 1. Call Andrea (785)341-2181.

ROOMMATE WANTED: $350 one-half utilities. Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED: four-bedroom house, block from campus, $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for two-bedroom, two bathroom brand new apartment, close to campus. Available mid-December to June or August. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher and garbage disposal. Call Jamie at (316)250-2780.

FEMALES NEEDED for four-bedroom, two bath, close to campus. Washer/ dryer. Lease from January to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

NEAT FEMALE roommate wanted mid-December. July. Close to campus. $245 monthly plus one-fourth bills. Call Joan (316)640-5080 or Jannessa (316)204-4910.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available January. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline (785)564-1284.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: Female roommate wanted for spring semester. Nice house with washer/ dryer. Flexible on rent and dates. Call (316)304-2201.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPA-CIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

200 service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

IBARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

AUCTION HELP: Successful candidate will move, organize, and process merchandise. Responsibilities will include making merchandise pickups, customer interaction, cleaning, and physical tasks. Applicants must be professional, have positive attitude, and valid drivers license. Digital camera experience very beneficial, though not required. Full and part-time positions available. Apply in person at Purple Wave Auction Co. 701 Enoch Lane, Manhattan. Ask for Triffas. Equal Opportunity Employer.

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com.

COACHES: USD 378, Riley County is accepting applications for Middle School Boys Basketball coaches (one or two). Please contact Becky Pultz at bpultz@usd378.org with mailing address or (785)485-4000 as soon as possible.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT Coordinator. Full-time position available in Wabunsee County. Salary based upon experience. For complete position description please contact WCED at (785)765-4655. Application deadline postmarked by November 21. Please send cover letter and resume to WCED, PO Box 5, Alma, KS 66401 or email to wcedc@kansas.net.

FULL-TIME SUMMER WORK. Open to all majors. I will take five more students to help me run my own business. Average earns $800/ work. Contact (785)317-0455.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

GRADUATE RESEARCH Assistant (GRA) to serve as a UNIX Technical Support Programmer in the K-State Information Systems office. Assist lead applications developer with UNIX programming tasks. A high level understanding of Sun Solaris (UNIX) Operating Systems and thorough understanding of UNIX and/or Perl scripts are required. This is a year around student opportunity. Contact John Streeter at (785)532-4758 or as jws@k-state.edu, or come by 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 215 to apply. Application deadline is Friday, December 2, 2005. Equal Opportunity Employer.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one day and one-half- two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

310
Help Wanted

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY. Information Systems Office Associate Director, Database Management Services. Kansas State University is seeking a senior technical manager in its Information Systems Office to be responsible for visioning, planning and managing all facets of database management services for the university. Minimum requirements include: (1) a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Information Systems, Software Engineering, Computer Engineering, or other appropriately related technical field; (2) seven years experience in progressively responsible positions in a major information systems organization, to include 5 years in a highly technical hands-on role in enterprise computing environments involving the administration of enterprise database and applications servers; (3) two years technical leadership and/or direct supervision experience involving responsibility for evaluating technical staff performance is required; and (4) in-depth technical knowledge of Oracle 9i and 10g database management and applications server software. A detailed position description is available at www.ksu.edu/iso/employment. Salary is negotiable based upon qualifications and experience. A letter of application describing qualifications for and expressing interest in the position, a professional resume, and a list of three professional references with complete contact information should be sent to: Search Committee: Associate Director of Database Management Services; Information Systems Office; 2323 Anderson Avenue, Suite 215; Manhattan, KS 66502-2912 or submitted electronically to iso@ksu.edu. Review of applications continuing to be considered until the position is filled. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer. K-State actively seeks diversity among its employees. Paid for by Kansas State University.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME/ FULL-TIME laborers needed. Farm background preferred. Call (785)410-2918.

PROGRAMMER. CIVICPLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

ROYAL PURPLE YEARBOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

405
Wanted to Buy

DON'T PITCH IT. Sell us your old Windows XP computer. Laitr Gauche, (785)776-3302.

410
Items for Sale

MOVING SALE. VHS movies and CDs: $2. Laitr Gauche, (785)776-3302.

NEW P4-3 GB computer that a short ad can't describe in loving detail. If you want the best, come talk. Laitr Gauche, (785)776-3302.

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email hacman72@hotmail.com.

435
Computers

FAST COMPUTER repair. Walk-in's welcome. Laitr Gauche, (785)776-3302.

500
transportation

510
Automobiles

1997 JEEP Grand Cherokee Laredo. Black, 4x4, air conditioning, CD, recently inspected, dealer maintained, excellent condition. 80,500 miles, $5700. (847)452-0958.

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

*#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LetSureTours.com or (800)838-8202.

Quiznos Sub
MMMM...TOASTY!

su|do|ku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

8 5 1 4
1 6 4 8 3
4 7
8 3 7 4 2
2 9 5 6 1
1 5
8 4 1 2 9
2 3 7 6

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.
(with purchase of any size sub)

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.50
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.95
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.65
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.90
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103
(across from the
K-State Student Union).
Office hours are
Monday through Friday
from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
The office is open
except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be
paid in advance unless you have an account
with Student
Publications Inc.
Cash, check,
MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on
all returned checks.
We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly
classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we
run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in
your ad, please call us.
We accept responsibility
only for the first
wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item
before your ad has expired, we will refund
you for the remaining days. You must call us
before noon the day
before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge,
we'll put a headline
above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin
board

100 housing/
real estate

200 service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

400 open market

500 transportation

600 travel/
trips

000 bulletin
board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY!" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/kstc

LAN GAME where everyone can hear you scream: $10 for all day. Parties by appointment. Twenty-four stations. Our computers or yours. Laitr Gauche in Westloop.

www.bobby's.com. CHECK OUT- Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST COLORADO license plate, 2P-1813. Green background, white mountains, white letters/ numbers, sentimental value. Yellow 1979 sticker. $125 finders fee. (913)685-4240 or (816)274-8919.

LOST: BLUE Aeropostale hoodie with Audiovox cell phone, keys, and black and orange prescription glasses. If found call (785)313-1781 or (785)313-7053.

LOST: EASY up portable shade, and folding camp table, at Griffith and Tuttle Creek Blvd. Reward. (785)539-1008.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/
real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

1000 SQUARE foot plus, basement apartment. Windows, washer/ dryer share. Two-bedroom, one bath. Private parking. Quiet. Near campus. Available January. No smoking. Call (785)341-0829.

JANUARY LEASE. Two-bedroom, two bath apartment. Brand new, great location. Two blocks from campus. One block from Aggieville. All appliances including washer/ dryer. (785)317-5326 or (316)640-1885.

AVAILABLE SOON. 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances, $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)341-1389.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

WILDCAT PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
537-2332

Anderson Village
1 BD-1BA
$460 for January

1507 Poyntz #1
2 BD @ $600
NEW carpet & paint
Gas & water paid

1509 Poyntz
1 LG BD @ $525
Washer & Dryer
ALL Utilities PAID

ONE AND two-bedrooms: close to campus, central-air, parking, laundry. (785)539-5800. (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM, QUIET: two blocks south of campus. Deck, garage, laundry. Water/ trash paid. $425. January 1. Five-seven month lease. No smoking/ pets. (785)537-7431.

SUBLEASE JANUARY 1: July 31. 350 N 16th, two blocks from campus, $275/ month. (785)317-1840.

THREE AND four-bedroom duplexes. Walk to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. close to Aggieville and campus. Available January. (785)537-9644.

FIVE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for rent, close to campus, washer and dryer. Available immediately. Call (785)587-0876 or (785)776-9288.

GREAT DEAL! Studio apartment available January 1. Five or seven month lease. $340, all utilities paid. (785)410-6381 or (785)341-4754.

110
For Rent-
Apt. Unfurnished

JANUARY 1. ONE-BEDROOM $335. Two-bedroom, $420. Close to KSU. (785)587-0399.

MONTH- MONTH Leases. Two-bedroom, $520. Three-bedroom, $620. 1510 College Ave. (785)537-2096.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM, walking distance from campus. Water and trash paid. Lease starts January first or possibly sooner. (785)672-2317.

ONE AND two-bedrooms: close to campus, central-air, parking, laundry. (785)539-5800. (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM, QUIET:

Canadian government forces vote of no-confidence

By Rob Gillies
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TORONTO — A corruption scandal forced a vote of no-confidence Monday that toppled Prime Minister Paul Martin's minority government, triggering an unusual election campaign during the Christmas holidays.

Canada's three opposition parties, which control a majority in Parliament, voted against Martin's government, claiming his Liberal Party no longer has the moral authority to lead the nation.

The loss means an election for all 308 seats in the lower House of Commons, likely on Jan. 23. Martin and his Cabinet would continue to govern until then.

Opposition leaders last week called for the no-confidence vote after Martin rejected their demands to dissolve Parliament in January and hold early elections in February. Monday's vote follows a flurry of spending announcements in Ottawa last week, with the government trying to advance its agenda ahead of its demise.

Martin is expected to dissolve the House of Commons on Tuesday and set a firm date for the elections. Under Canadian law, elections must be held on a Monday — unless it falls on a holiday — and the campaign period is sharply restricted.

"The vote in the House of Commons did not go our way," Martin said. "But the decision of the future of our government will be made by Canadians. They will judge us."

The Conservative Party leader Stephen Harper joined with the New Democratic and Bloc Quebecois parties to bring down the government — prompting the first Christmas and winter campaign in mostly Christian Canada in 26 years. Recent polls have given the Liberals a slight lead over the Conservatives, with the New Democrats in third place.

The same surveys suggest the Bloc Quebecois would sweep the French-speaking province of Quebec, making a majority government unlikely no matter which party wins the most seats.

Harper would become prime minister if the Conservatives receive the most seats in Parliament. He favors tax cuts and opposed Martin's successful bill to legalize same-sex marriage throughout Canada.

Martin has had frosty relations with the White House, standing by the Liberal Party decision not to support the U.S. invasion of Iraq. He also declined to join in Washington's continental ballistic missile shield, infuriating the Bush administration, has been called weak on terrorism, and was vocal in his opposition of high U.S. tariffs on Canadian lumber.

His push to legalize gay marriage throughout Canada also raised the hackles of Republicans south of the 49th parallel, but Martin is widely respected worldwide for Canada's neutrality and open arms toward immigrants and minorities.

Canada's Conservatives, by contrast, are seen as much more receptive to improving relations with Washington, though a majority of Canadians opposed the war in Iraq and the policies of President Bush.

"This is not just the end of a tired, directionless, scandal-plagued government," Harper said after Monday's vote. "It's the start of a bright new future for this country."

The opposition is banking on the public's disgust with a corruption scandal involving the misuse of funds targeted for a national unity program in Quebec.

An initial investigation absolved Martin of wrongdoing, but accused senior Liberal members of taking kickbacks and mispending tens of millions of dollars in public funds.

The government ran into peril this month when it lost the support of the New Democratic Party, whose backing earlier this year helped Martin escape a previous no-confidence motion by a single vote.

BASKETBALL | Coggins scores 23 in K-State win

Continued from Page 6

the half to pull within three points.

The Wildcats (3-0) jumped out to a quick second half start, outscoring Wyoming (2-1) 11-1 to extend their lead to 13 points, the first double-digit lead of the game. K-State would push its lead to 19 points, led by Claire Coggins game and season high 23 points.

"It's never fun when you get up 19 points to get it down to five," Coggins said. "There's always a little bit of concern, but we all knew we were going to have to work this game and execute what we needed to do to win this game."

Wyoming cut into the K-State lead, going on a 7-0 run before McFarland and freshman Joann Hamlin scored back-to-back baskets to extend the lead back to 16 points.

Hamlin finished with a double-double, scoring 10 points and pulling down a career high 10 rebounds.

McFarland said the two game road trip was good for the inexperienced Wildcats.

"Going on the road and getting these two wins was big for us," McFarland said.

"This was an ugly game, and that's what happens when you play two-to-three games a week like you do in Big 12 Conference play."

K-State's Claire Coggins fights to put up a shot during the second half against Detroit last week. In Monday night's game against the Wyoming Cowboys, Coggins led K-State in scoring with 23 points to help the Wildcats to a 65-55 win.

Christopher Hanewinkel
COLLEGIAN

2-4-10

2 lunch buffets for $10

Valid M-F during lunch only 11:00-2:30
(Coupon required)

Largest Italian buffet
in the state of Kansas!

3003 Anderson • 539-6444

ExpertTire

EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

any size onelow price!

now thru dec. 17th
only!

PASSENGER Firestone FR380
excellent wet traction

$29.99

P155/60R13

'39"	'44"	'49"	'54"	'59"
P120/60R13	P120/60R14	P120/60R15	P120/60R16	P120/60R17
P135/60R13	P135/60R14	P135/60R15	P135/60R16	P135/60R17
P150/60R13	P150/60R14	P150/60R15	P150/60R16	P150/60R17
P165/60R13	P165/60R14	P165/60R15	P165/60R16	P165/60R17

*Blackwall

55,000 mile limited warranty*

PASSENGER Bridgestone INSIGNIA
SE200

$39.99

P155/60R13

Whitewall	Price	Whitewall	Price
P195/70R14	$69.99	P215/70R15	$79.99
P185/65R14	74.99	P195/65R15	79.99
P205/70R15	79.99	P225/60R16	99.99

65,000 mile limited warranty*

*black letters, call for other sizes

standard oil change and filter

- install new oil filter • refill up to 5 quarts Kendall® Synthetic Blend motor oil
- lubricate chassis (if applicable)

$16.99

Most vehicles add $2.50 for oil disposal fee
Expires 12/17/05

Complete Radiator System Service

- Inspect cooling system & pressure test for leaks
- Refill with correct amount of recycled coolant
- Add sealant / lubricant
- Flush system

$49.99!

Most vehicles

ExpertCare
Our Service

help prevent the #1 cause of roadside breakdown

Offer Ends
12/17/05

mon.-fri. 7:00 am-6:00 pm sat. 7:00 am-6:00 pm
(*) open sunday 8:00 am-5:00 pm

307 N. 3rd
Manhattan, KS

785-776-8311

90 DAYS
INTEREST
FREE

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

www.ExpertTire.com

Shiny Supply charges in the amount of 6% of value charges will be added to invoices greater than $25. These charges will not exceed $25 and represent credit and profit. Shiny Supply charges not applicable in CA or NY. Non-monetary charges, if any, are also shown above. May also represent credit and profit. Specific product offerings and tread designs may vary. Prices, warranties, call service, credit plans and other offers available at ExpertTire.com. All offers subject to change without notice. Actual tread life may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner on originally installed vehicle. See retailer for details, restrictions and copy of card. Limited warranty. 11 months or 10,000 miles, whichever comes first. Excludes commercial vehicles. Excludes tires with tread depth less than 4/32 inch. MONITORING PROGRAM: 25,000 miles, 21.4% Annual Percentage Rate. Delinquency: 24.9% APR. Minimum finance charge $1.00. Credit from National Association reserves the right to change APR, fees and other terms without notice. See store for details.

KMAN 1350AM K-ROCK 101.5 104.7 96.3

Receptionist

Northeast Kansas' most respected Broadcast Company is looking for that unique individual to become a part of our outstanding team. Manhattan Broadcasting is seeking a qualified person to fill the position of Receptionist. Responsibilities include answering multi-line telephone system, greeting customers, handling prizes, and assisting with sales proposals. Candidates should be computer literate and able to meet deadlines. Send your resume to:

Business Manager
Manhattan Broadcasting Company
2414 Casement Road
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-1350

Manhattan Broadcasting Company is an Equal Opportunity Employer

KSU Metalsmithing Society

jewelry SALE

in the KSU Student Union
8 a.m. - 6 p.m.

O'Malley's ALLEY

1208 Moro • 537-0775

$2.00

shots wells imports draws premiums
bottles

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Check out

in the Classifieds

Get your own shout out for just
(20 words or less)

Come to 103 Kedzie or call 532-6555

UPC

UPCOMING EVENTS

Union Program Council

World AIDS Day - December 1

Tuesday, November 29

All UPC Meeting: 5:30 pm, Union Station, free food!
Tuesday Night Buzz: Mikey Needleman, acoustic artist
7 pm, Union Station, Ground Floor, free coffee and treats!
Ali Kemp Bandstand: featuring Calico and EWB
8 pm, Union Courtyard, Ground Floor
Donations accepted for The Ali Kemp Educational Foundation
Co-sponsored by Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Tau Omega.

Wednesday, November 30

AIDS Panel Discussion: Noon - 1 pm, Union Courtyard, Ground Floor

Thursday, December 1

The Vagina Monologues Casting Call: Tryout for the 2006 production of The Vagina Monologues! 7 pm, Flint Hills Room, Second Floor

Friday, December 2

Tracy Morgan: former SNL comedian, 7:30 pm, Union Ballroom ticketmaster
Tickets on sale now through Ticketmaster. For mature audiences only Advance tickets: $8.50 + fees for KSU students with ID, $13.50 + fees for non-students
Day of show: $10 + fees for KSU students with ID, $15 + fees for non-students.
TICKETS AVAILABLE ONLINE AT WWW.TICKETMASTER.COM, AT ALL TICKETMASTER OUTLETS INCLUDING HEN HOUSE MARKET LOCATIONS, SELECT JONES STORES, AND STREETSIDE RECORDS STORES. TO CHARGE BY PHONE, CALL (816) 931-3330.
After Hours: Massage and Yoga, 9 - 11 pm, Union Courtyard, Ground Floor

Saturday, December 3

Film: "Philadelphia," 7 & 9:30 pm, Little Theatre, First Floor, $1. Also showing 8 pm on Sunday, December 4.

William T. Kemper Gallery

AIDS Quilt: November 21-December 19

www.k-state.edu/upc
UPC hotline: 532-6572
UPC phone: 532-6571

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Wednesday, November 30, 2005

Vol. 110, No. 69

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Gr improve public speaking ability

Page 3

FCC order may affect K-State e-mail

By Adrianne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A recent Federal Communications Commission order may allow university e-mails to be monitored.

It is unknown at this time whether an FCC order to monitor university e-mails could affect K-State, said Elizabeth Unger, vice provost for academic services and technology.

The order will require universities providing Internet access to comply with the law by spring 2007.

According to a New York Times report, the order extends provisions of a 1994 wiretap law to universities, libraries, airports and commercial Internet access providers.

The order was issued by the FCC in August and first published in the Federal Register in October. The Department of Justice requested the order last year with reasoning that communications over the Internet were endangering the department's ability to fight criminals, spies and terrorists.

Unger said EDUCAUSE, an organization of institutions of higher education that deals with information technology, is currently working with the FCC to determine if the order will apply to all forms of communication via the Internet and how the order will be interpreted.

"Until we know the answers to these questions, we don't know how the order will affect K-State," she said.

K-State's current e-mail policy states "the University encourages the use of electronic mail and respects the privacy of users."

However, e-mail and data stored on

See MONITOR Page 10

RCPD arrests 3 for stealing license plates

By Kristen Roderick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Three K-State students were arrested Monday in connection with stolen license plates in the Manhattan area.

Andrew Speese, freshman in music; Kenneth Pierce, freshman in biology; and Gregory Blackwell, sophomore in English, were arrested Monday on 27 counts of misdemeanor theft. They were each released on a $500 bond, according to a Riley County Police Department release.

"Greg and Kenneth came up to me on a Sunday and told me they wanted to tell me something," Speese said. "They pulled out a bunch of license plates from the cars. The next day, a Monday, we went and stole a few more."

The men said they did consider returning the plates.

"I really wanted to give them back, but I didn't want to get in trouble for it," Blackwell said. "We put them away and we were figuring out what we wanted to do; whether we were going to give them back or not."

After receiving a search warrant, the RCPD searched the homes of Blackwell and Speese on Monday and found 32 license tags from various states. Twenty seven of the tags were confirmed as stolen recently in the Manhattan area, according to the release.

Speese said he was surprised when he saw the police waiting for him at his apartment.

"It was a little weird. I don't know what was going on," he said. "They picked them up first and came to my apartment. I was taking out my trash and they were waiting for me. I didn't even know why."

See ARRESTS Page 10

Dangerous blend

Mixing alcohol with energy drinks unhealthy combination

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Drinkers beware.

One popular drinking trend has been under serious international investigation to the point where governments have issued warnings against certain products.

The trend: mixing energy drinks with alcohol.

The problem: severe risks to heart and liver, said Bill Arck, K-State director of Alcohol and Other Drug Education Services.

"Research shows that faster heart rates and higher adrenaline levels are results of mixing the two substances," Arck said. "There's also a real danger linked to severe dehydration and a danger of masking intoxication level."

Mixing the two substances is abusive to the system, and when people are intoxicated, their judgment isn't already at its best, Arck said.

This can lead people to drinking too many mixes of energy drinks and alcohol.

Dozens of people have reportedly died by abuse of mixing energy drinks and alcohol. This has led to other countries to placing large disclaimers against use of these drinks.

Ever since the United States release of Red Bull in 1997, bars and liquor stores have taken advantage of the blue-canned beverage, selling it along with popular alcoholic beverages.

Nearly 10 percent of energy drink sales are through dance clubs and bars, according to research by the British Broadcast Company.

In Manhattan, the most popular mix is Red Bull and vodka, said Bri Swisher, manager of Porter's Bar, 706 N. Manhattan Ave.

"Especially on Thursdays, we have $3 Red Bull and vodka, and those are our most popular nights," Swisher said.

On sports weekends, she said patrons will order several Red Bull and vodka mixes so they can reenergize after an exhausting game.

Swisher said she also drinks energy drinks and alcohol regularly, but rarely thinks about the health risks.

"I've read some things, but haven't thought about it too much," Swisher said. "It's the same with coffee, and I don't think there's much risk associated with that."

Though the Red Bull company compares the drink to having the same amount of caffeine as a cup of coffee, health experts say the long-term effects of the drink are too dangerous, especially when mixing it with liquor.

"The over stimulation of the heart can lead to cardiac arrhythmia," Arck said. "And if a student has a health risk they are unaware of, such as high blood pressure, then drinking these can uncover that."

It's not like people go out drinking some coffee with liquor, said Manhattan resident Sarah Carter.

"This all boils down to responsibility of the drinker," Carter said. "I don't think you should put the blame of Red Bull misuses on the company or bars."

And as more companies release energy drinks, Arck said he expects to see more problems with alcohol abuse.

"Even the alcohol industry is coming out with new drinks to cater to this," Arck said. "It's a fairly dangerous situation."

Red Bull company sells approximately 75 percent of energy drinks in the market, with Pepsi company's SoBe Adrenaline Rush selling only 13 percent. Red Bull profits with more than $1 billion in sales every year.

As these companies continue to sell more products, Arck said drinkers should use the substance wisely, being aware about the effects of the drink on their body.

"If a healthy student consumes a fairly low dose, and on rare occasions, there will probably not be an emergency," he said. "Although I wouldn't recommend taking them."

Photo illustration by Carina Ransom | COLLEGIAN

City commission prepared to finalize redevelopment agreement

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Manhattan City Commission and Dial Realty will soon finalize an agreement regarding downtown redevelopment.

After several months of negotiations, commissioners began to close up on the $80 million responsibility for the northern part of the project on Tuesday night.

WHAT IS DOWNTOWN REDEVELOPMENT?

For several years, Manhattan has been working on a downtown redevelopment project — a project to bring in big city features to the small-town Manhattan, said Assistant City Manager Jason Hilgers in recent presentations.

WHERE IS THE NORTHERN PART OF THE PROJECT?

The northern part of the project includes everything between Third and Fourth Street, north of Leavenworth Street to Blument Avenue.

The north project includes nearly 250,000 square feet of retail space, which might be split into 235,000 square feet of residential space and 15,000 square feet of office space.

WHAT CAN RESIDENTS EXPECT TO SEE?

According to the Chamber of Commerce, project hopefuls are looking at bringing in larger retailers, including Best Buy, Bed Bath & Beyond, Dress Barn, World Market and numerous other companies.

City commissioners applied for a $3 million grant last month, and if the money pulls through, the city will construct a bicycle and pedestrian trail near the Manhattan Town Center, just east of the redevelopment.

The grant will help fund additional benches, roadway features and landscaping in the downtown area.

"It's an area where we've been challenged," Phillips said. "It's one of the major reasons to having downtown redevelopment ... I'm confident with the design and the final design will achieve this."

See REDEVELOPMENT Page 10

Today

High 44
Low 21

Thursday

High 41
Low 24

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Owner indicted

A grand jury returned an indictment Tuesday against the store Priscilla's and its owner, Robert Floyd, each with one misdemeanor count of promoting obscenity. The indictment alleges that on Sept. 9, the defendants had an obscene DVD that they intended to lend, sell or deliver. The court accepted a petition of 6,500 signatures against the selling of obscene products.

Execution suspended

Virginia Gov. Mark Warner spared the life of convicted killer, Robin Lovitt, Tuesday. Lovitt would have been the 1,000th person executed in the United States since 1976. Lovitt's sentence was commuted to life in prison without parole a little more than 24 hours before he was to be executed by injection Wednesday night for fatally stabbing a man in 1998.

No Iraq pullout

The U.S. military will not leave Iraq any time soon. A U.S. military pullout from Iraq would be a terrible mistake, President Bush said Tuesday. The administration is under pressure to convince increasing skeptical Americans that the president's strategy for Iraq is headed in the right direction.

DON'T FORGET

An AIDS panel discussion will be from noon to 1 p.m. today in the Union Courtyard.

A percussion ensemble performance will be at 7:30 tonight in McCain Auditorium.

Students must update Symantec AntiVirus programs on their computers by today. Do so by visiting antivirus.ksu.edu.

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Mountain of Crete
4 Poel Teasdale
8 Show-room sample
12 Bush league?
13 Harvard-ers' foes
14 Eastern bigwig
15 Roast recitation
16 Idea, symbolically
18 "Chicago" role
20 Nevertheless
21 Wound reminder
24 Day at the movies?
28 Pronto
32 Source
33 "A Chorus Line" song
34 Malt-shop orders
36 Seesaw quorum
37 Flight component

DOWN

39 Second game in a double-header
41 Hayseed
43 —do-well
44 Meadow
46 Adversary
50 1999
51 Brad Pitt movie
55 Past
56 Vicinity
57 Rent
58 Replace-ment
59 Consider
60 Skewer
61 Prop for Rich Beem

DOWN

1 Marty Feldman role
2 Simpleton sculptor

Solution time: 21 mins.

YESTERDAY'S ANSWER 11-30

1 GALA 2 TWAS 3 HEM 4 EVIL 5 AINT 6 IDO 7 LETUS 8 SPRAY 9 TIL 10 MUSE 11 LATTE 12 DIANE 13 RICH 14 OLLA 15 COASTERS 16 OTIL 17 BURNT 18 HIP 19 WATTERED 20 LANA 21 BOY 22 WASP 23 WOMEN

11-30 CRYPTOQUIP

BVHO XRJXWPJVC N UNP
RB CPNGW UIVXW AGVHHVIC
RJ AROWRJW'A ADVPZ:

"ZDW XRHHNP GIPGHW."
Yesterday's Cryptoquip: WHEN AN ELECTRICIAN GETS TENSE AND HIGH-STRUNG, I SUPPOSE YOU COULD SAY HE'S WIRED.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: D equals H

CAMPUS CHRONICLES

Headlines from the nation's universities

Former football players arrested for throwing rocks at passing cars

Illustration by Bennie Green | COLLEGIAN

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Two Sacramento State students, both with ties to the football program, have been arrested after a rock-throwing incident on Highway 16, also known as Jackson Highway.

Bo DeLapp and Westy Guill turned themselves in to police Monday after a Nov. 18 incident that involved two individuals throwing rocks at moving vehicles, according to KCRA's Web site. More than a dozen cars were struck by rocks along the highway; one man was sent to the hospital with a shattered jaw.

Sac State head coach Steve Mooshagian was unaware of the incident, as both players haven't been involved with the football program for some time.

DeLapp was a freshman offensive lineman but voluntarily withdrew from the football program in September for personal reasons. Guill, also a freshman, was taking a medical redshirt this season; he was suspended from the team in late October for missing classes and being late a variety of team functions.

Mooshagian said that since Guill was a redshirt and rehabbing from injury, he wasn't around the football team that often.

The coach said both players did not cause a lot of trouble when they were with the team. They were involved in a few minor problems, which Mooshagian said were things typical freshmen would do.

Guill and DeLapp each face 18 charges, 14 of which are felonies, according to KCRA. Both players graduated from high school in the Fresno area.

NYU CONSIDERS COKE BAN

NEW YORK — If Coca-Cola does not agree to independently investigate alleged labor violations at its Colombian bottling plant before the Dec. 8 deadline given by the University Senate, Coke isn't the only product New York University is prepared to ban. About 12 different products will be banned from campus, including Powerade, Nestea and Minute Maid, in addition to Coke and Sprite soft drinks, Hi-C, Odwalla, Fanta, Barq's Root Beer, Seagrams Ginger Ale and Dasani water.

Student activists in the Campaign to Stop Killer Coke have called on the university to ban Coca-Cola products for nearly two years — an effort that culminated last month when the University Senate voted 28-10 for a ban if the company does not agree to a third-party investigation of its alleged role in the killings of union organizers in Colombia.

Some students said as long as NYU replaces the products it removes with comparable brands, they will be satisfied.

"I think as long as the variety is still there, it won't be a problem," freshman John Robischau said. "If the university isn't asking my opinion if I want Coke or not, they better offer adequate replacements ... I'm paying the university to supply the essentials, not to be an activist."

Ray Rogers, the director of the national Campaign to Stop Killer Coke, said the importance of showing the Coca-Cola company that it must be held accountable for its actions outweighs personal preferences for Coca-Cola products.

"Coca-Cola should've been kicked off campus this time last year, if not last spring," Rogers said. "I wholeheartedly applaud the people at NYU who have been pushing the issue and making sure it remains in the public eye."

Coca-Cola spokesperson Kari Bjorhus said the company wants NYU to trust its business practices.

"Regardless of whether or not we have a contract with NYU, we find it important to emphasize to the student body that the allegations are false and provide them with the information to prove so," Bjorhus said. "NYU is a trendsetting university, and that could greatly harm our reputation."

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, Nov. 28

- Jay Goolidy, Junction City, was arrested at 9:25 a.m. for theft. Bond was set at $500.
- Louis Kim, 1430 Claflin Ave., No. 19, was arrested at 12:40 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $10,000.
- Fredi Rios, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, No. 3, was arrested at 2:40 p.m. for criminal trespass. Bond was set at $500.
- Jerry France Jr., Fountain, Colo., was arrested at 4 p.m. for aggravated burglary. Bond was set at $6,000.
- Gregory Scott, 2215 College Ave., was arrested at 8 p.m. for 27 counts of theft. Bond was set at $500.
- Kenneth Pierce Jr., 2215 College Ave., was arrested at 8 p.m. for 27 counts of theft. Bond was set at $500.
- Andrew Speese, 1214 Vattier St., was arrested at 8 p.m. for 27 counts of theft. Bond was set at $500.
- Brenna McConaughy, 1420 Beechwood Terrace, Apt. 14, was arrested at 10:40 p.m. for theft. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Jeffrey Currie, 2306 Willow Lane, was arrested at 11:12 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Shannon Chebultz, 225 Ridge Drive, was arrested at 11:20 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A class on how to find a journal article will be from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. today in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Patricia Dozier at 10 a.m. today in Bluemont 339.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Susan Peterson Thomas at 9 a.m. today in Bluemont 106.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2005

ONE HOUR MASSAGE
$35+
w/ KSU Student ID
BODY FIRST
2308 Anderson Ave.
(785) 587-8300

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

dependable, quality service
Take advantage of our large paper selection.
Claflin Books and Copies

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza
$5.00 LARGE WITH PEPPERONI Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

For more information visit the website at:
<http://www.ksu.edu/oss/legal.htm>

Students' Attorney:

SARAH BARR
785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours

Monday - Friday
9:00 - 11:00 am & 1:00 - 3:00 pm

Other appointments available upon request.

Bake Sale
Every Wednesday
Variety of cookies & breads
Shellenberger bottom floor 3-5 p.m.
For questions or orders call 532-4065
Visit www.oznet.ksu.edu/bakeclub
e-mail: bakeryclub@hotmail.com

Discover the Difference

It's easy to give the perfect gift!

Gift Cards
Treat the special person on your list.

Save on Redken and Aquage gift packs!

One month unlimited tanning only $35!

Hair Experts Salon & Spa
Serving the Aggieville area for 25 years
785-776-4455 • 800-540-6995
1323 Anderson Ave • Manhattan, KS
hairexpertsalonandspa.com

Porter's

20¢ Wings 4-9pm
(Hot, BBQ, Honey Mustard)
$1.50 Cosmopolitans
$2.50 Frozen Drinks
$2.00 Domestic Big Beers

706 N. Manhattan
537-7151

JOE'S TAP ROOM

1.00 → Cheese Burger & Fries
1.50 → Domestic Draws
1.50 → Wells

1127 Moro
776-3593

Alley

1.50 wells domestic pints
1.50 Highlives

1210 Moro
537-0775

AGGIE LOUNGE

$2 WELLS
$2 SCHOONERS
$2 SHOTS

Now taking applications for door staff

712 N. 12th Street
537-8585

The Salty Rim
BACARÍ MARGARITA BAR

Bacardi Girls
$3 Bahama Mamas
$3 Hurricanes

FREE beads, shirts, and other giveaways!

1204 Moro
539-8910

Toastmasters improve public speaking skills

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The word of the day was "prodigious," meaning "marvelous, enormous."

Powercat Masters Toastmasters Club meetings always begin with a joke and a word of the day, followed by prepared speeches, evaluations and table talk.

The club, part of Toastmasters International, promotes communication and public speaking in its Tuesday night meetings, Jason Terry, club president, said.

"Our club allows people to prepare themselves for the skills needed when you graduate and employment skills," Terry, senior in architectural engineering, said. "It's not only skills you'd need in college."

The club's about 20 members pay $33 per semester to participate and learn to "lose the nervousness and gain confidence," Terry said.

Beginning members receive a booklet of speech tips and lessons. Included are 10 speeches, each focused on one aspect of public speaking like hand gestures or vocal variety, that the toastmaster must give.

After giving the 10 speeches, the member earns a competent toastmaster award. Higher levels are the able toastmaster and the distinguished toastmaster.

Kristin Copeland, senior in public relations, gave her 10th speech, an inspirational one, on Tuesday.

She told the group about health problems she has struggled with since coming to K-State. Copeland had hip replacement surgery in October after years of suffering what doctors had diagnosed as arthritis. She encouraged her listeners to remember that times will get better and to lean on others for support.

"What gets me through is friends," Copeland said. "It's one of those things you find out who really cares about you."

Following her speech, Terry gave his evaluation.

"Your confidence really showed through," he said.

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

During a Powercat Masters Toastmasters Club meeting, Greg Corbin, junior in philosophy, tells a joke to other club member Tuesday evening in Durland hall. The group focuses on speech communication.

"Your personality also showed through. I think that was one of your strong points."

But Terry suggested that Copeland needed to give a more firm introduction and to elaborate on her conclusion.

Table talk followed Terry's evaluation. The members gave impromptu 30- to 90-second answers to questions like "Who do you think was the best opponent in the 'Rocky' movies and why?" and "What color should this room be painted and why?"

At the end of each meeting, the "Ah" Counter gives a tally of the number of "ahs" uttered by each speaker and of the number of times the word of the day was used. The winner of the latter is recognized with a round of applause.

Nathan Winkley, sophomore in civil engineering, said Toastmasters has built on the foundation of his public speaking class. He said he has learned to develop other skills, like evaluating and speaking without preparation.

"I'm a lot better at doing things on the fly now," he said.

Kansas vineyards on the rise

By Adam Hanks
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Kansas has always been known for its amber waves of grain, but lately, its plains have become a bit more fruited.

Vineyards, once a common sight in Kansas, are starting to regain popularity in the state, Janna Dunbar, with the Kansas Department of Commerce, said.

To help promote this specialty crop, K-State, along with the Kansas Department of Commerce, hosted the first Kansas Grape Growing Seminar this week, with lectures Tuesday and today. The lectures are intended to educate potential and beginning grape-growers and to promote the crop in Kansas.

"We are holding this seminar because we have the need for at least 100 more acres of grapes in Kansas," Dunbar said.

The number of wineries in Kansas has increased from seven in 2004 to 13 in 2005, with two more on the way, Dunbar said. Since Kansas wineries are required by law to use 60 percent

Kansas grapes in their wines, there has been an increase in demand for Kansas grapes.

Though it isn't the most popular crop in Kansas, Sorkel Kadir, an assistant professor of horticulture, said Kansas is the perfect place to grow grapes.

"In Kansas, we have the soil, we have the sun and we have enough water, so we have the best environment for growing grapes," she said.

Though there is a great potential for grape growers in Kansas, Kadir said that she does not believe it will become Kansas' new major cash crop.

Though grapes may seem like a new crop in the breadbasket state, they were once a major product in Kansas. In the early 1900s, Kansas had about 6,000 acres of grapes, compared to the 170 acres today, Dunbar said. In 1901, Kansas was one of the top 10 grape-growing states in the United States and produced 227,000 gallons of wine.

However, Prohibition and Carrie Nation, a Kansas prohibitionist, put a stop to these While attending the grape growing seminar, Wayne Berry, Hoyt, Kan., farmer, listens to Patty Clark's speech on traffic and zoning. The seminar was a two day event covering topics from vineyard site preparation and pruning to financial resources.

Joslyn Brown
COLLEGIAN

wineries, and most wine grapes were replaced with table grapes, Kadir said.

Now Kansas is seeing a resurgence of vineyards, and K-State is helping to promote the industry. In 2002, K-State started a one-acre research vineyard in Haysville, Kan., that has 24 varieties of grapes.

Kadir came to K-State from Washington State University, where she had been working with grapes for eight years. She now works with the Division of Cooperative Extension, helping educate Kansas growers.

"I get calls about growing grapes every day from people wanting information," Kadir said.

Mike Shields, from Tecumseh, Kan., said he came to the seminar to learn the basics of starting a vineyard. Shields' interest in vineyards started at a young age, he said.

"It takes awhile, and I figure by the time I'm 75, I'll have a good bottle of wine," he said. "Besides, it's too cold to grow cocktail olives in Kansas."

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

Free Consumer & Tenant Advice

For more information visit the website at <http://www.ksu.edu/osa/cta.htm>

The Consumer and Tenant Affairs Office provides information on landlord/tenant rights and responsibilities and aids in the resolution of consumer complaints regarding products and/or services. Brochures regarding landlord/tenant and consumer issues are also available.

Consumer and Tenant Affairs Office
Appointments Available Daily
Call 532-6541 to make an appointment.

Phi Kappa Phi

An Honor Society Across All Academic Areas
Kansas State University Chapter

Established Nov. 15, 1915

Congratulations To Our New Initiates

AGRICULTURE

Amy Fousek
Robert Paul Hess
Emilie C. Miller
Shawn David Peterson
Elizabeth Virginia Schrum
Justin O. Wallace
Alyssa Erin Warneke
Matthew Anthony Zabel

Laura Lynn Snyder
Jessica Marie Straffuss
Brian Tadtman
Lauren J. Takemoto
Inger Leslie Talbot
Keith E. Teeter
Lacey Diane Thompson
Anna M. Wenzel
Maria D. Wittman
Stephanie Jay Yeager
Joshua H. York

Laura Elizabeth Hammes
Sarah J. Kuhn
Lauren E. Luhrs
Lindsey Marie Stanbrough
Emiko Taki

ARCHITECTURE

Troy Michael Carlson
Lois Mae Prochaska
Adrienne Nicole Stolwyk
Michael D. Verseman

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Michael T. Barnes
Amber Joy Duncan
Whitney Galle
Vanessa Kathleen Gower
Benjamin Monroe Hake
Sarah Rachelle Huber
Kara J. Kopper
Dana Diane McCarthy
Ashley Nicole Phipps

TECHNOLOGY & AVIATION
Lance Michael Benson
Nathan C. Gorrell

VETERINARY MEDICINE
Karen Patton

ARTS & SCIENCES

Sarah E. Adams
Matthew T. Basel
Christine Beasir
Jessica Renae Beemer
Kody Cooper
Gregory Nicholas Corbin
Alicia Diane Davignon
Jessica Diane Edwards
Jeffrey Eugene Elkins
Trisha R. Gayer
Debra Elizabeth Greenwood
Erin C. Gustafson
Tiffany Lynne Hurtt
Kyle P. Jansson
Anna Kristina Daez Jurey
Matthew D. King
DaLene Krehbiel
Rachel Anne Lawn
Sarah Lawver
Erin Elizabeth Learned
Jacob Levi Lohmeyer
Ashley Noelle Martin
Jenna Corrine McGovern
Bridget L. McGuire
Kelsey Moncrief
Danielle Lafleur Ngaba
Erin Renee Owen
Amanda Petrik
Grant M. Reichert
Jennifer Rzeszut
Bradley Benedict Scheu
Michelle R. Schmitz
Ashley Elizabeth Smit

EDUCATION

Nicholas P. Dunn
Katie Hammersmith
Jessica Kueker
Amy Julia Lundine
Lindsey Pfizenmaier
Sarah Kathleen Pierce
Tiffany Kay Pralle
Janeal Dawn Schmidt

ENGINEERING

Jay Thomas Aber
Philip Brandon Baker
Matthew Cholic
Christopher Warren Dawson
Allen C. Egly
Gerald Alan Hart
Jonathan King
Kuo-Chun Liu
Daniel P. Mahoney
Nathan Samuel McCormick
Amy Lynn Phares
Lane D. Roney
Ben Willey
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Elizabeth Anne Greig
Melanie Diane Hammeke

GRADUATE SCHOOL
Susan Alberg Affolter
Elise Kimberly Barker
Jessica Jo Bigger
Lendi Lea Grimsley Bland
Benjamin C. Bolender
Brandon Michael Braley
Anne Marie Donovan
Philip Benjamin Edelman
Darren Lee Epping
Sasha Brooke Erwin
Abbie M. Farrens
Angie M. Foster
Emily Beth Hermesesch
Karen E. Horton
Melissa Ann Hull
Jonathan Hullman
Liudmila Inozemtseva
Lydia Page Buckley Johnson
Kellie L. Johnston
Karen M. King
Jennifer Lynne Labrie
Tatiana Yevgenyevna Lin
Ryan Robert McKay
Kimberly Jo Muhlenkamp
Rim Nayal
Dominika Ornatowska
Rajkumar Pinnamaraju
Jennifer Jo Reiff
Ekaterina Romanova
Allison Shoop Rothwell
Corey Todd Rozenboom
Cyndi McNeil Sallman
Mitchel James Stimers
Joshua K. Westmoreland
Amber Willard
Brad Alan Williamson

UPC presents.....

Tracy Morgan

former SNL Comedian
7:30pm Friday, Dec 2, 2005

K-State Student Union Ballroom
2nd Floor

IN ADVANCE:

TicketMaster Tickets:

-Students w/KSU student ID $8.50 plus service fees
-Non-student $13.50 plus service fees

DAY OF:

-For students w/KSU student ID: $10 plus service fees
-Non-students $15 plus service fees

TICKETS AVAILABLE ONLINE AT TICKETMASTER.COM, AT ALL TICKETMASTER OUTLETS INCLUDING ALL HEN HOUSE MARKET LOCATIONS, SELECT JONES STORES, AND STREETSIDE RECORD STORES. TO CHARGE TICKETS BY PHONE, CALL (816) 931-3330.

ticketmaster

Phi Kappa Phi

TO THE POINT Students' e-mail privacy must remain intact

Attending a university is not like living in a police state.

There is no mandate that everyone must go to college, class attendance is a choice and nobody screens the mail.

Well, two out of three isn't bad.

According to a Federal Communications Commission order, universities will be required to begin monitoring e-mails by spring 2007.

It is nice that the authorities are taking an interest in students' daily concerns — how classes are going and what parties are scheduled for the weekend.

Maybe these authorities want to do a keg stand at the house party on Bertrand Street.

There is no reason anybody other than the sender and receiver should view students' e-mails. It is an utter abomination of a system intended to be the electronic version of the regular mail system.

People are not legally allowed to open paper mail not addressed to them and the same law should apply to electronic mail.

Government officials would never attempt to pass a law allowing college officials to open and screen all the paper mail sent to students.

The attempt to enact such a gross violation of basic privacy rights should be met with staunch opposition.

That same opposition must now be used to protect students' e-mail privacy from a government looking for potential terror threats every place possible.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

CLASH OF THE COLUMNISTS

Fantasy feud

Harry Potter movies provide more than just special effects

By now you're probably well-acquainted with the Harry Potter movies. Indeed, the Harry Potter series has left us with something to be savored - besides the widely marketed Chocolate Frogs and Bertie Bott's Every Flavor Beans in our "muggle" stores. The buzz about Harry Potter remains strong with the newest release of the movie series, "Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire."

After all, the incredible financial successes of sophisticated fantasy movies like Harry Potter and the Lord of the Rings trilogy have prompted many movie producers to follow their cloning instincts and make new movies of the same fantasy and magic genre, such as the upcoming release of "The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe."

Although The Chronicles of Narnia possess the powerful prose of C.S. Lewis and have classic literary renown, the challenge to produce that same effect in a movie leaves Disney with big shoes to fill.

Harry Potter, with proof of popularity in its stunningly successful fourth movie release of the series, has crossed the line that separates a movie from a mere unspecialized compilation of special effects and a quality movie with a powerful message. This new version of the Chronicles of Narnia has yet to pass that test in front of an expectant audience as Harry Potter overwhelmingly has.

According to About.com, the 50-year-old Chronicles of Narnia are the second best-selling series of children's books ever. Who's the first? Harry Potter. Perhaps this could be a possible indication of their future comparative successes in theaters too.

True, the Harry Potter and Narnia series share many similarities. Directed with both kids and adults in mind, both movies deal with magical worlds, begin in England, contain witches, lions, all sorts of other magical creatures, child heroes and ultimately an increasingly intense battle between good and evil and both have seven stories in each series.

But does Narnia have Quiditch, the greatest broomstick game ever created? Harry Potter not only has this marvelous invention, but Rowling made Harry rather good at it — so good that he somehow indirectly manages to use his talent with a broomstick to win a contest against a dragon in the newly released fourth movie.

Additionally, Hale Library brings the magic of Harry Potter to a local level. After all, the likeness of Hale to Hogwarts is so close that Hale is more or less a miniature Hogwarts.

What a wonderful opportunity for Harry Potter fans attending or working at K-State to better relate to our hero Harry's study environs.

Unlike Harry Potter, The Chronicles of Narnia has been cinematically produced before, multiple times without much success. On the other hand, considering the sheer complexity of a book turned into film, Harry Potter has been produced quite nicely, following the main plot with as much detail as can possibly be packed in two or three hours.

Although Harry Potter has a head start on the silver screen, the story of Harry Potter, however, has yet to complete its course. Even if you've read every single book J.K. Rowling has written thus far, the reading and viewing audience remains in suspense — the excitement of the most recent movie leaves a cliffhanger and a powerful element of surprise.

If anything, the competitively timed releases of these movies allow for substantial holiday entertainment and satisfaction worthy of today's ticket prices.

Christina Forsberg is a sophomore in English and Economics. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

CHRISTINA FORSBERG

KODY COOPER

Lewis' Narnia offers Christian allegory disguised as fantasy

Warning: The following content is souped-up with spoilers. Spoilers shouldn't deter you from reading, though. After all, you did watch that crappy Fast and Furious sequel.

I grow weary of the very mention of "Potter" within the same breath as "Narnia." These Harry obscurities don't even deserve a passing utterance in juxtaposition with the timeless C.S. Lewis classic.

Let's be honest about Harry Potter. This dorky wanker is merely the latest Luke Skywalker wannabe. We've seen this Greek Oedipus archetype before.

A boy separated from his parents at birth to be raised by common folk until such a time that he finds out his true identity and embarks upon the path of destiny.

Skywalker becomes Potter, Vader becomes Voldemort, friends Leia and Han become Hermione and Ron, the light-saber becomes the magic wand, force powers become magic powers.

Sorry J.K. Your tricky sorceress ways may have spellbound millions worldwide into spending billions at the bookstore and the box office, but not this muggle.

J.K.'s prose is a joke in comparison with that of C.S. His seven-book Narnia series is proof that authors with initialed first names didn't always suck (see also some guy called J.R.R.).

"The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe" introduces four children sent to live with an eccentric elderly professor in WWII Britain. When the children stumble upon a mysterious wooden wardrobe, they find it's a gateway into the wondrous winter world of Narnia.

A land aplenty with centaurs, satyrs, minotaurs and griffins, Lewis draws upon Greek mythology as well.

Yet, Lewis' masterful prose cunningly weaves Christian theology into an epic that intrigues youngsters and adults alike. Child-fantasy combines with quasi-allegory in a story simple enough for a 6-year-old to grasp and deep enough to captivate a 60-year-old.

Its movie adaptation should be momentous. Weta Workshop, which brought Tolkien's Middle Earth to life in the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy, has created the land of Narnia. The expected eye candy makes the mouth water.

I suggest putting down Potter and endeavoring upon the "Chronicles of Narnia." In service to Aslan, I'll spare you the trouble of reading the final Potter book and reveal the top-secret plot. Spoiler alert!

Rowling's last installment is titled "Harry Potter and the Nerds' Disillusionment."

In this grand finale, Harry Skypotter uncovers the real truth after an epic wand-saber battle with Darth Voldemort, who consequently has taken the form of a black-masked cyborg with a robotic voice.

The final discourse between Darth Voldemort and Harry Skypotter:

"Hagrid never told you what happened to your father?"

"He told me enough. He told me you killed him!"

"No Harry — I am your father."

"No!"

With screaming denial, Harry wand-sabers Darth Voldemort through the heart. Finally, he can freely wed his dream girl — Lily Skypotter.

Surprise — Harry's mother never died, either. The series closes with the Skypotters' wizard wedding scene in southern Arkansas.

Sure, you could partake of Rowling's Freudian glorification of the Oedipus complex.

Then again, you could indulge a much more captivating premise with undeniable parallel relevance to your own life.

What if an entire world was enslaved by a deceptive, frigid evil? What if it could only be defeated through the faith and courage that only the childlike can possess? What if this faith and courage depended upon the love of one majestic messianic Lion?

"The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe" on Dec. 9th, enter the Wardrobe. I promise you won't look back.

Kody Cooper is a senior in political science and Spanish. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

Illustration by Christina Forsberg | COLLEGIAN

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

To the so-called "men" of FarmHouse, you and your movie nights suck.

You know you must suck when even the Fourum doesn't listen to you.

If you slip on the ice right onto your back

In the quad, and no one's around to see it, are people still laughing at you?

Chuck Norris owns you. Get used to it.

Since you're ripping off the Chuck Norris and Mr. T fact generators, you might as well start calling in Vin Diesel comments as your own.

To all the bastards who keep talking about killing Butters, I am far too stealthy for you to ever catch me. I will prevail.

How do I politely tell my roommate that she is a psycho, annoying, messy, rude and driving me crazy and I want her to move out ASAP and never see her again because I might lose it and freak out on her? Any suggestions?

A girl once called into the Fourum and proclaimed, "Enough with Chuck Norris already." As she hung up the phone and turned around, she stepped right into a bear trap planted by Chuck Norris. He then came out of a cloud of smoke and gave her a right jab so hard to the face that her head flew off and exploded against the wall. He stood over her body and said, "Had enough of Chuck yet?"

Polo.

To the guy in the parking lot who asked me for jumper cables, I'm really sorry I didn't have any. Hope you got help.

How many people had car trouble Monday? I did. I did.

Three-hour-long wait to get an oil change at Wal-Mart. Ugh.

Guys aren't the only perverts. The aluminum recycling bins ask people to take their tops off.

Oh crap. I just put my cream eyeshadow on my lips.

Here's a heart breaker, the girl you really like tells you no boys for a while just to go and start a relationship with someone else. Women are such liars.

It's wintergeddon.

You've got to love the Manhattan snow plow with the Christmas lights all over it.

I like the beauty pageant contestants on the front page. It's about time you put something in there worth looking at. Thanks guys.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatellegian.com for the full version.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Death penalty needs examined

Editor,

As the United States draws closer to its 1,000th execution, we might want to examine the social injustices and economic burden that the death penalty has placed on common Americans.

Since 1973, the United States has released 121 people from death row due to evidence of their wrongful conviction. This suggests that many innocent people could still be behind bars awaiting execution.

Recent disturbing evidence also indicates that among those 999 executed thus far, some might have been innocent. Missouri officials believe they might have executed an innocent person, Larry Griffin, in 1995, and are investigating the case. The more people we put to death, the greater the risks of killing the innocent.

To take the lives of 999 people since 1977, conservative estimates indicate more than $2 billion has been spent. A large portion of these funds could have been better spent on social programs like improving education, strengthening law enforcement and providing services to the victims.

Instead of spending money to exact vengeance, it is better to use funds on those in need.

Americans should consider the unnecessary costs of the death penalty and make sure that the money is spent to improve life, not destroy it.

Jeffrey Wicks

DEATH PENALTY COMMITTEE CHAIR, KANSAS ASSOCIATION OF CRIMINAL DEFENSE LAWYERS

Residents appreciate work of greek community members

Editor,

Imagine my surprise on Sunday afternoon, as I began raking my front yard out from under its blanket of leaves, when suddenly, college students, rakes and tarps appeared as if by magic.

As I watched in complete surprise, the leaves were raked, piled on tarps and whisked away in a truck.

Suddenly my several hour, back-breaking job had been accomplished in just less than half an hour.

Many thanks to the Acacia Fraternity.

We are fortunate to have these wonderful students in our community. It was my lucky day.

Donna Keyser
MANHATTAN RESIDENT

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center

Walk-in Flu Vaccine Clinic

Thursday, Dec. 1st

8:30—11:30 am

1:30—4:30 pm

Cost:
$13 shot
$22 intranasal

For All Students!

All students are eligible to receive the injectable vaccine.

The nasal spray vaccine is also available.

For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/lafene

Receptionist

Northeast Kansas' most respected Broadcast Company is looking for that unique individual to become a part of our outstanding team. Manhattan Broadcasting is seeking a qualified person to fill the position of Receptionist. Responsibilities include answering multi-line telephone system, greeting customers, handling prizes, and assisting with sales proposals. Candidates should be computer literate and able to meet deadlines. Send your resume to:

Business Manager
Manhattan Broadcasting Company
2414 Casement Road
Manhattan, KS 66502
(785) 776-1350

Manhattan Broadcasting Company is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Snip N' Clip Hair cut stops

Student cuts $7.95

Highlite & color service available

3035 Anderson & 431 E. Poyntz
539-4043 776-6410

M-F 9am-7pm
Sat 9am-5pm

Ladies' Night
$2 wells $2 bottles

ROYAL PURPLE
yearbook

we've got the stories you've got to read.

Get your Royal Purple yearbook
in Redzie 103, or call 532-6555

Faculty, students study hurricane aftermath

Lisa Harrington, professor of geography, interviews a Hurricane Katrina victim at Wal-Mart in the New Orleans area.

Courtesy photo

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

On Oct. 15, two K-State faculty members and three graduate students traveled to storm-ravaged southeastern Louisiana, where they completed five days of research and interviews.

The group, which traveled and lodged in a recreational vehicle, conducted about 345 interviews with Louisiana residents whose lives were impacted by Hurricane Katrina, which shook the gulf coast in late August.

"You don't have a good feel of the destruction until you see it," Lisa Harrington, professor of geography, said. "And I think that's often the case with natural disasters. You don't get a good sense of how big it was until you actually visit a place."

The degree of devastation varied from place to place, she said.

The area where the most destruction was still apparent was the New Orleans region that had been further devastated by the breaking of levees. In other areas of the state, a return to normalcy is already progressing.

"We took a half a day and drove around some of the really damaged neighborhoods. To be down there and see the damage ... it just goes on and on as far as the eye can see," said Will Breikreutz, graduate student in geography. "You hate to see it, but it's really awe-inspiring when you get down there. There's a huge difference between the neighborhoods that have been cleaned and those that haven't."

The interviews were conducted with people from seven Louisiana parishes, all received mandatory evacuation orders in the wake of Katrina's wrath.

The goal of the interviews was to better understand how people decided whether or not to leave and how much trust they now put in various government levels and forms of information media.

"We were just glad to lend an ear and to be able to talk to those people," said Shannon Krueger, graduate student in journalism and mass communications. "It was painful for a lot of them, but they just wanted someone to hear what they had gone through. TV and newspapers and all the media just don't even do it justice once you go down there and experience it firsthand."

The opinions of the interviewees, in terms of satisfaction with the information and aid they received, varied considerably. However, the one organization the group never heard criticized was the American Red Cross, Harrington said.

The research collected from the experience will be submitted soon for publication, though the exact outlets have not yet been determined. The data will likely also be used for professional presentations.

"People are in total desperation, and yet little girls were running around singing," Krueger said. "There was one lady who said she and her mother had gone to a shelter after her mother had had a heart attack, and she just thanked God that she was alive and had a place to stay."

"Just that people could be so upbeat after such a tragedy was just really inspiring. It's amazing what the people went through. They take such great pride in their city and in that state that no storm could make them leave."

ESTABLISHED IN CHARLESTON, IL
IN 1983 TO ADD TO STUDENTS GPA
AND GENERAL DATING ABILITY.

JIMMY JOHN'S

Since 1983

$3.99

8" SUB SANDWICHES

All of my tasty sub sandwiches are a full 8 inches of homemade French bread, fresh veggies and the finest meats & cheese I can buy! And if it matters to you, we slice everything fresh everyday in this store, right here where you can see it. (No mystery meat here!)

#1 PEPE®

Real applewood smoked ham and provolone cheese garnished with lettuce, tomato, and mayo. (Awesome!)

#2 BIG JOHN®

Medium rare shaved roast beef, topped with yummy mayo, lettuce, and tomato. (Can't beat this one!)

#3 SORRY CHARLIE

California baby tuna, mixed with celery, onions, and our tasty sauce, then topped with alfalfa sprouts, cucumber, lettuce, and tomato. (My tuna rocks!)

#4 TURKEY TOM®

Fresh sliced turkey breast, topped with lettuce, tomato, alfalfa sprouts, and mayo. (The original)

#5 VITO™

The original Italian sub with genoa salami, provolone, capicola, onion, lettuce, tomato, & a real tasty Italian vinaigrette. (Order it with hot peppers, trust me!)

#6 VEGETARIAN

Several layers of provolone cheese separated by real avocado spread, alfalfa sprouts, sliced cucumber, lettuce, tomato, and mayo. (Truly a gourmet sub not for vegetarians only ... peace dude!)

J.J.B.L.T.™

Bacon, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (The only better BLT is mama's BLT, this one rules!)

★ SIDE ITEMS ★

- ★ Soda Pop $1.29/$1.49
- ★ Giant chocolate chip or oatmeal raisin cookie ... $1.50
- ★ Real potato chips or jumbo kosher dill pickle ... $0.90
- ★ Extra load of meat $1.25
- ★ Extra cheese or extra avocado spread $0.75
- ★ Hot Peppers $0.25

FREEBIES (SUBS & CLUBS ONLY)

Onion, lettuce, alfalfa sprouts, tomato, mayo, sliced cucumber, Dijon mustard, oil & vinegar, and oregano.

WORLD'S GREATEST GOURMET SANDWICHES

$2.99

PLAIN SLIMS™

Any Sub minus the veggies and sauce

- SLIM 1 Ham & cheese
- SLIM 2 Roast Beef
- SLIM 3 Tuna salad
- SLIM 4 Turkey breast
- SLIM 5 Salami, capicola, cheese
- SLIM 6 Double provolone

Low Carb Lettuce Wrap

JJ UNWICH™

Same ingredients and price of the sub or club without the bread.

YOUR CATERING SOLUTION!!!

BOX LUNCHES, PLATTERS, PARTIES!
DELIVERY ORDERS will include a delivery charge of 49c per item (+/- 10c).

 JIMMYJOHNS.COM ***

$6.99

THE J.J. GARGANTUAN™

This sandwich was invented by Jimmy John's brother Huey. It's huge enough to feed the hungriest of all humans! Tons of genoa salami, sliced smoked ham, capicola, roast beef, turkey & provolone, jammed into one of our homemade French buns then smothered with onions, mayo, lettuce, tomato, & our homemade Italian dressing.

OK, SO MY SUBS REALLY AREN'T GOURMET AND WE'RE NOT FRENCH EITHER. MY SUBS JUST TASTE A LITTLE BETTER. THAT'S ALL I WANTED TO CALL IT JIMMY JOHN'S TASTY SANDWICHES. BUT MY MOM TOLD ME TO STICK WITH GOURMET. SHE THINKS WHATEVER I DO IS GOURMET, BUT I DON'T THINK EITHER OF US KNOWS WHAT IT MEANS. SO LET'S STICK WITH TASTY!

Jimmy John

$4.99

GIANT CLUB SANDWICHES

My club sandwiches have twice the meat and cheese, try it on my fresh baked thick sliced 7 grain bread or my famous homemade french bread!

#7 GOURMET SMOKED HAM CLUB

A full 1/4 pound of real applewood smoked ham, provolone cheese, lettuce, tomato, & real mayo! (A real stack)

#8 BILLY CLUB®

Roast beef, ham, provolone, Dijon mustard, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (Here's to my old pal Billy who invented this great combo.)

#9 ITALIAN NIGHT CLUB®

Real genoa salami, Italian capicola, smoked ham, and provolone cheese all topped with lettuce, tomato, onion, mayo, and our homemade Italian vinaigrette. (You hav'ta order hot peppers, just ask!)

#10 HUNTER'S CLUB®

A full 1/4 pound of fresh sliced medium rare roast beef, provolone, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (It rocks!!!)

#11 COUNTRY CLUB®

Fresh sliced turkey breast, applewood smoked ham, provolone, and tons of lettuce, tomato, and mayo! (A very traditional, yet always exceptional classic!)

#12 BEACH CLUB®

Fresh baked turkey breast, provolone cheese, avocado spread, sliced cucumber, sprouts, lettuce, tomato, and mayo! (It's the real deal folks, and it ain't even California.)

#13 GOURMET VEGGIE CLUB®

Double provolone, real avocado spread, sliced cucumber, alfalfa sprouts, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (Try it on my 7-grain whole wheat bread. This veggie sandwich is world class!)

#14 BOOTLEGGER CLUB®

Roast beef, turkey breast, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. An American classic, certainly not invented by J.J. but definitely tweaked and fine-tuned to perfection!

#15 CLUB TUNA®

The same as our #3 Sorry Charlie except this one has a lot more. Homemade tuna salad, provolone, sprouts, cucumber, lettuce, & tomato. (I guarantee it's awesome!)

#16 CLUB LULU™

Fresh sliced turkey breast, bacon, lettuce, tomato, & mayo. (JJ's original turkey & bacon club)

WE DELIVER! 7 DAYS A WEEK

MANHATTAN 1212 MORO ST. 785.539.7454

"YOUR MOM WANTS YOU TO EAT AT JIMMY JOHN'S!"

©2005 JIMMY JOHN'S FRANCHISE INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED. We Reserve The Right To Make Any Menu Changes.

Wildcats return home after road sweep

By Staff Reports
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The women's basketball team returns home after a two-game road sweep as they match up at 5:30 tonight against Delaware State at Bramlage Coliseum.

On paper, the Cats and Lady Hornets enter this evening's game with noticeable similarities. Both teams boast spotless records at 3-0.

Delaware State recently won the Florida Atlantic Tip-Off Classic tournament, despite a youthful squad, that is similar in make up to that of K-State.

The Cats have reason to be optimistic early on, though. All 11 Wildcats have either set, tied or reset individual career highs in their last three outings.

For example, sophomore Kimberly Dietz set new career highs in points (23), assists (7), field goals made (8), field goals attempted (14), 3-point field goals made (5) and 3-point field goals attempted (14) at Santa Clara on Nov. 26.

Freshman Marlies Gipson also grabbed a career-high 16 boards against Santa Clara, nearing the school and freshman single-game record of 20 rebounds, held by former stand out Kendra Wecker.

Delaware State has also experienced some explosive offense lately. In their game against Columbia on Nov. 23, the Lady Hornets had four players in double digits and have been consistently fueled by sophomore Raquel Collier, who is averaging 11.7 points per game.

The Cats begin a five-game homestretch tonight, which will wrap up on Dec. 6 against Louisiana Tech.

Dribbling around a Detroit defender, junior guard Twiggy McIntyre drives to the basket Nov. 20 at Bramlage Coliseum. The Wildcats face Delaware State at 5:30 tonight.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NFL | Johnson's assault case continued again

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — For the second time, the assault case against Kansas City Chiefs running back Larry Johnson has been delayed.

Johnson

Kansas City Municipal Court Judge Leonard Hughes III on Tuesday continued the case to Feb. 7 over the objections of Johnson's attorneys, who said they were ready to try the case.

The assault charge stems from a Sept. 10 altercation with an Overland Park, Kan., woman in a Kansas City bar. The woman, who says she had been involved with Johnson for more than two years, told police he shoved her.

NFL | Arrested fan dumped mother's ashes on field

PHILADELPHIA — A man arrested for running onto the field during the Philadelphia Eagles' game against the Green Bay Packers on Sunday told police he was spreading his late mother's ashes.

Christopher Noteboom, of Tempe, Ariz., ran onto the field holding a plastic bag, leaving a cloud of fine powder behind.

As he reached the 30-yard line, he dropped to his knees, made the sign of the cross and laid down on his stomach. Security personnel reached him moments later and he offered no resistance as he was escorted from the field.

The 44-year-old Noteboom, a native of Doylestown, said his mother died of emphysema in January 2005, shortly before the Eagles' Super Bowl appearance.

TEN | Hingis to return to pro tennis in 2006

LONDON — Martina Hingis is returning to professional tennis — again.

The former top-ranked player, who retired from the WTA Tour three years ago because of an ankle injury, won five Grand Slam singles titles in her career and was the youngest player to be ranked No. 1.

Hingis

The Swiss player made a brief comeback in February, losing in the first round of the Volvo Women's Open in Thailand. Her previous match was at Filderstadt in October 2002, but she believed she prematurely returned to competition following left ankle surgery, and withdrew from all remaining tournaments.

CFB | Solich apologizes, will remain Ohio coach

ATHENS, Ohio — A day after he was convicted of drunken driving, Frank Solich agreed Tuesday to three conditions that will keep him as Ohio's head football coach.

Solich has agreed to publicly address his arrest and conviction, will be put on probation for the remainder of his contract and must become actively involved in alcohol education initiatives on the Athens campus.

Solich apologized in the courtroom on Monday, then apologized several times during a news conference Tuesday.

School president Rodrick McDavis, who came to the institution one year ago, had made alcohol abuse on campus for students one of his biggest platforms.

Athletic director Kirby Hocutt said all options were considered for Solich, but that this is an opportunity to be a teachable moment for him and the school.

CFB | Fulmer e-mails regret to Vols fans

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — Tennessee football coach Phillip Fulmer's acknowledgment that the 2005 season was "unacceptable" has been put in writing to the fans.

Fulmer wrote a 300-word letter that was e-mailed Tuesday to about 38,000 season ticket holders and other fans signed up to receive periodic newsletters from the athletic department through its Web site.

The letter was gleaned from 10 pages of notes from a speech Fulmer gave Monday to the Knoxville Quarterback Club.

That speech also expressed his concern over finishing 5-6, the first losing record and lack of a bowl bid since 1988.

Fulmer wrote that he is taking an audit of the program.

Early test

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Sophomore guard Clint Stewart dribbles up court during the second half of K-State's game against Georgia Southern last week at Bramlage Coliseum. K-State will play Cal State Fullerton tonight at Bramlage.

K-State to take on Big West Conference favorite

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State men's basketball team will look to continue its winning ways when it takes the court at 8 tonight against Cal State Fullerton in Bramlage Coliseum.

The Wildcats, sporting a perfect 3-0 record, have won by an average margin of 18 points through the first three games of the season.

Sophomore point guard Clint Stewart said the team is feeling confident after starting the season so well.

"Our confidence is pretty (high)," Stewart said. "We beat three good teams. We're definitely feeling pretty good about ourselves right now."

Even though K-State has been playing solid basketball, there are several areas it has been trying to improve. Most notably, Stewart said the team realizes the importance of playing consistently throughout the entire game.

"Against New Mexico, we let them come in and get a lot of confidence early in the game," he said. "We can't allow teams to do that. A big thing for us is to come out of the gate fired up and ready to play."

Cal State Fullerton, the preseason favorite to win the Big West Conference, enters tonight's matchup with an undefeated record as well. The Titans defeated South Dakota State University, 82-70, Monday night to move to 3-0.

The Titans' fast-paced offense is averaging 85 points per game, led by 6-foot-7 senior forward Jamaal Brown, who is averaging 19 points. Junior guard Bobby Brown also contributes to the scoring charge with 17.3 points per game.

Coach Jim Wooldridge described the Titans as a team much like his Wildcats.

"The dimensions of the teams are very similar," Wooldridge said. "We're probably very similar in terms of athleticism. We both want to get up and down the floor as quick as we can."

To slow down Cal State Fullerton, Wooldridge said good shot selection and taking care of the ball will be important in preventing the Titans from getting out on fast breaks.

Cal State Fullerton is a bit undersized, but junior forward Cartier Martin said it will be hard to keep the Titans off the offensive glass. In fact, they rank third in the nation with 50.7 rebounds per game, with 21.3 of those being offensive.

"They can rebound the ball well," Martin said. "They also like to get down in offensive transition and get easy buckets. Rebounding and getting back on defense is going to be important to winning this game."

For K-State, no one has been able to stop Martin lately. The junior is averaging 23.3 points and 9.7 rebounds. On Saturday in a 71-54 defeat of Stephen F. Austin, Martin became the first Wildcat since Willie Murrell in 1963-64 to score at least 20 points in the first three games of the season.

On the other side of the ball, K-State's defense has been particularly impressive. The team has held each of its opponents to less than 59 points. That has not happened in the first three games since the 1984-85 season.

When asked what would be the most important component to winning tonight's game, Wooldridge's answer was fairly simple.

"We have to get back down the floor and we have to rebound the ball," he said. "(The Titans) are beating teams by getting lay-ups in transition, and they are offensive rebounding better than anybody in the country."

EQUESTRIAN

Riders finish season with lead over Black Hawk

By Jessica Barnard
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The saddles have been retired to the barn for the winter, as the K-State equestrian team has finished competition for the fall season.

On the Western side of the saddle, K-State faced tough competition from Black Hawk College throughout the season.

In the final Western show, the Cats traveled to Kewanee, Ill., to compete in the Black Hawk Western Show. K-State won the show, increasing its lead over Black Hawk in the region to 55 points.

"On the western side, we were neck in neck with Black Hawk all year," coach Teresa Slough said. "I didn't anticipate our lead being quite so large."

The 55-point Wildcat lead in the region is larger than the leads the team has had in previous seasons.

Sophomore Lindsey Salsbury summed up the fall season by saying the team accomplished some of its goals.

"We did a very good job of keeping our lead over Black Hawk," Salsbury said. "I was a little apprehensive of how Black Hawk would be this year, but it ended up in our favor."

In addition to leading the region in the Western division, the Cats were dominant on the English side of competition, too.

K-State will enter the spring atop the English division of the region by 45 points over Southern Illinois University.

Senior Casey Finnell said the team will build on the success of the fall season for the spring.

"I thought the fall season went quite swimmingly," Finnell said. "It was an outstanding start to what's hopefully going to be a better semester in the spring."

Slough said leading the region by such a large margin in the fall on both the Western and English sides helps alleviate pressure for the spring season and qualifying for nationals.

In order to be eligible to compete in the National Championships, both the English and Western teams must win the region.

Slough said the Wildcats are beginning to practice with post-season competition in mind.

"We are going to work a lot on fine-tuning and on learning how to deal with pressure," Slough said. "Both squads know they're not invincible. They know they've got to keep working."

'Til death do us part' does not apply to Nick Lachey on Thanksgiving Day

ANTHONY MENDOZA

The day after Thanksgiving allows you to reflect on the things truly important in life such as family, friends and the memories of yet another festive day passing.

Somewhere along the line, football, or "America's passion," as former Oakland Raiders defensive lineman Howie Long put it, became the focus of the day for giving thanks.

You eat during the Detroit Lions game — because no one really wants to see the Lions play — and you sit down and watch the Dallas Cowboys.

Apparently Nick Lachey enjoys watching both games, as was reported by Hollywood gossip columnist Sam Rubin last Friday as the breaking point in Lachey's marriage to singer, actress and co-star in the reality television show, "Newlyweds," Jessica Simpson.

The story goes that Simpson had it with her husband of three years after he refused to make the trip to his wife's home state of Texas for Thanksgiving at the Simpson house. Lachey wanted to stay home in the Hollywood Hills and enjoy a day of nothingness surrounded by five hours of quality time with his couch, a remote control and TV.

Lachey chose football over his wife.

Not that there is anything wrong with that, but there is.

I have chosen sports over many things this past year, mostly studying, reading and homework; all items related to school that could be made up at another time when there is not such an important life-changing event taking place such as a top-25 college basketball or football game.

You don't have to look very deeply into the decision Lachey made other than that he knew the relationship was over. Why try to save it?

First of all, unlike most college students who can't throw down money at the drop of hat and pay for a flight to anywhere in the United States, Lachey can. Secondly, why couldn't he watch the games on another couch or television?

The last time I checked, those games are nationally televised. Even the troops overseas can get their football fix from thousands of miles away.

Third and most important, the biggest game on Thanksgiving Day is in Dallas, which is located in a state called Texas. Put together the money, the star power and the wife, and I can guarantee there would be a ticket awaiting Lachey, like there will be a pink slip awaiting Lions quarterback Joey Harrington at the end of his horrible season.

Since you are already in the state, why not cap it off with dinner at the in-laws? It's not that hard of a concept to follow. There is really not a legitimate excuse.

Lachey just bit on the cruelest ultimatum: your wife or sports?

It's one that I'm sure most men are hoping never happens to them, because depending on the game, you never know what decision you might have to make.

Anthony Mendoza is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@spub.ksu.edu.

THE EDGE

Wednesday, Nov. 30, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

Face2Face

Facebook.com offers opportunity for love, friendship

Facebook

Matt Peterworth's Guide to dating research

- Relationship Status: The ever-important relationship status. You can find the cutest boys or girls on here after browsing for hours, but it won't matter if they are currently in a relationship.
- Political Views: In today's polarized political environment, this info can mean a bright future with the new person or no potential at all. I gave my e-mail address to a cute girl in the library one day. When she e-mailed me back, I looked her up and she was very conservative. Don't get me wrong, I have a few conservative friends, but I don't think I could pursue someone with different political views than me, no matter how cute she is.
- Favorite Music: I know that personally, music means a great deal to me. I've listed mainstream artists like Ben Folds and the Flaming Lips, along-side up-and-coming indie artists like the Decemberists and Sufjan Stevens. I'm looking for someone who shares my musical taste and does not listen to country, because I can't stand country music.
- Favorite TV Shows: This isn't as important to me, but it can still be insightful. If a girl still lists "Friends" on her favorite TV shows, that is cause for concern. Since I quote "Aqua Teen Hunger Force" constantly, it would definitely be a plus if she watched and liked the show as well.
- Favorite Movies: I was once seeing someone who refused to watch either of the "Kill Bill" movies. Even more, she refused to watch 90 percent of the movies I owned. You don't realize how important this can be until you can't watch any of your favorite movies with someone.
- Favorite Books: Nothing too exciting here. Maybe if you're pursuing someone, you could look up one of their favorite books and read it so you have something to talk about. But that requires time. I'm spending too much time browsing the Facebook to make that kind of commitment.
- Groups: I made a group called I Could Never Date Anyone Who Listens to Country Music, and it has come back to bite me. I actually went out last Halloween with a great girl who met the first two categories: she was single and liberal. After she saw that I was in this group, and I found out she likes country and sings it in the car, that was the only time we went out.
- Courses: Who is that cute person in the front row of your chemistry class? Message them and maybe you can set up a study date.
- The Wall: Find out what their friends say about them on their Wall. Apparently I make good muffins.

By Matt Peterworth
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Facebook.com, a Web site for college students to create public profiles of themselves, was launched in February 2004.

Facebook has proven to be a useful tool in looking up new acquaintances and finding people with similar interests, Jessie Dean, junior in marketing, said. "If I meet someone, I'll look them up on the Facebook to find out what dirt I can get on them," she said.

The "dirt" Dean looks for on someone's profile includes what kind of music they listen to and what their interests are.

"That's usually a conversation starter for guys toward me, like, 'Oh, I see you like this musical artist. Me, too,'" she said.

Dean also looks at three categories of quotes to see what people are about. "The first is very serious like Theodore Roosevelt and Buddha," she said. "The second is funny stuff like quotes from movies or comedians. The third is from your friends. Which of these they are using tells a lot about a person."

Rachael Herzog, senior in elementary education, said she pays close attention to what people write about themselves in the "About Me" section. "This section is normally something that the person has put thought into, allowing you to gain insight on a person," she said.

Other areas in the profile include political views and relationship status, making it easy to know right away if someone is single and what political party they align themselves with.

Eric Anderson, a sophomore in pre-professional architectural engineering, said Facebook gives people an option to provide information about themselves that they wouldn't share otherwise.

Anderson said it offers a level of comfort because everybody is generally the same age and it's limited to college students.

"It's not like an online chat-room where anybody can post," he said.

While the Facebook does offer an initial glance into a person's interests, many are still skeptical about using it for dating and getting to know someone.

"There are just little things about online communication — it doesn't display emotions, facial expressions or tones of voice," Elizabeth Debusk, freshman in kinesiology, said. "I would highly doubt that I'd even attempt a relationship with someone based solely on online communication," she said. "Hanging out, maybe. But dating after a few Facebook conversations, no."

Herzog echoed Debusk's concern. Sending someone a Facebook message does not replace actually calling them, Herzog said.

"Messaging shows no emotion," she said, and it cannot help develop that interpersonal relationship as much as actually talking can.

While students' Facebook profiles can provide a lot of personal information, including political views, music and movie preferences, e-mail address and Web site links, members said that it might not be the best resource for dating or finding friends.

THIS DAY
IN HISTORY

1835 - Mark Twain is born

Samuel Clemens, later known as Mark Twain, is born in Florida, Mo., on this day in 1835.

1864 - Battle of Franklin, Tennessee

The once-proud Confederate Army of Tennessee suffers a devastating defeat when its commander, Gen. John Bell Hood, orders a frontal assault on strong Union positions around Franklin, Tenn. The loss cost Hood six of his finest generals and nearly a third of his force.

1866 - America's First Underwater Highway Tunnel

Work on the first underwater highway tunnel in the United States began on this day in Chicago. Over a three-year period, workers and engineers tunneled underneath the Chicago River, finally completing the 1,500-foot tunnel at a cost of more than $500,000. The tunnel had two roadways, each 11 feet tall and 13 feet wide, and a separate footway 10 feet wide and 10 feet tall. In 1907, the tunnel was lowered to provide better air circulation, and for the first time it began to allow regular automobile traffic.

1902 - Harvey "Kid Curry" Logan sentenced

Harvey "Kid Curry" Logan, the second in command in Butch Cassidy's Wild Bunch crew, is sentenced to 20 years hard labor in a Tennessee prison. Though the famous Hollywood movie, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," portrayed Harry Longabaugh as Cassidy's main partner, Logan was his true sidekick and right-hand man.

1939 - USSR attacks Finland

On this day in 1939, the Red Army crosses the Soviet-Finnish border with 465,000 men and 1,000 aircraft. Helsinki was bombed, and 61 Finns were killed in an air raid that steered the Finns for resistance, not capitulation.

1959 - "Psycho" production begins

Production begins on Alfred Hitchcock's classic thriller "Psycho," starring Anthony Perkins as murderous hotelier Norman Bates. The film, released in June 1960, is considered one of Hitchcock's most frightening, and the terrifying shower scene is still referenced today.

1960 - The First International Harvester Scout

On this day, the first Scout all-terrain vehicle rolled off the assembly line at International Harvester's Fort Wayne plant. The history of International Harvester dates back to the early 1800s, when the company sold Cyrus McCormick's mechanical reaper. Around the turn of the century, the company took the name of International Harvester, and in 1907, produced the Auto Buggy, an early motorized truck marketed to farmers.

1965 - McNamara warns Johnson that communists are gaining strength in South Vietnam

Following a visit to South Vietnam, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara reports in a memorandum to President Lyndon B. Johnson that the South Vietnamese government of Nguyen Cao Ky is surviving, but not acquiring wide support or generating actions.

1967 - McCarthy to enter Democratic presidential primary

Liberal Democratic Senator Eugene J. McCarthy from Minnesota, an advocate of a negotiated end to the war in Vietnam, declares that he intends to enter several Democratic Presidential primaries in 1968.

1981 - The United States, USSR open talks to reduce intermediate-range nuclear forces

Representatives from the United States and the Soviet Union open talks to reduce their intermediate-range nuclear forces in Europe. The talks lasted until Dec. 17, but ended inconclusively.

1989 - "America's First Female Serial Killer" strikes

Richard Mallory, a storeowner in Palm Harbor, Florida, is last seen taking a ride with Aileen Wuornos. The following day, his car — containing his wallet, some condoms and an empty vodka bottle — was found abandoned in a remote area of Ormond Beach. Nearly two weeks later, his body turned up in a Daytona Beach junkyard with three bullets in his chest. Mallory's murder was the first of seven committed by — Wuornos over the next year.

1996 - Tiny Tim dies

Singer Tiny Tim dies of congestive heart failure. Born Herbert Khaury in New York in 1925, Tiny Tim became known for his humorous falsetto singing and ukulele strumming, most famously demonstrated in his trademark song "Tiptoe Through the Tulips."

Source: The History Channel

Rogue Wave's 2nd album energetic, introspective, solid

"Descended Like Vultures"

★★★★☆

Album review by Mark Sibilla

I consider myself a fan of all genres of music. Most people claim that they listen to anything or say they are a fan of all genres (except for music's ugly step-children: country, jazz and occasionally blues or rap).

I highly doubt that many who make such a claim are aware of the vast expanses the musical world has to offer. I know many people who claim "I like everything" or "Everything is worth listening to once." I have found that these statements actually translate into "I like anything that is on the radio (except, of course, country)."

I would challenge those with such a musically 'open mind' to listen to a third of my record collection without turning the stereo off in disgust ten seconds into the album. This statement may sound highly pretentious (and it is), but I truly enjoy the extremes that music has to offer.

I will gladly shake my hips to the Afro world beats of Fela Kuti or allow my eardrums to be pummeled with the discordant noise of Wolf Eyes; I love to plumb the dark depths of the human psyche along with Joy Division or joyfully immerse myself into the psychedelic art-rock noodling of Frank Zappa or Captain Beefheart and His Magic Band. Frolicking through different genres and sounds is just part of being a musical enthusiast.

But even I need some down time; times when I need an aural palate cleanser: albums where I can just sit back, relax and hum along. Just such an album has recently graced my doorstep: the sophomore effort from Oakland, Calif., pop quartet Rogue Wave. "Descended Like Vultures" was released weeks ago by Sub Pop. Rogue Wave's debut album, "Out of the Shadow," was performed and recorded mostly by creator Zach Rogue. "Descended Like Vultures" finds Rogue forming and recording the album alongside his touring, multi-instrumentalist band mates, Pat Spurgeon (drums), Gram LeBron (guitar), and Evan Farrell (bass).

Courtesy Art

The album, according to Rogue, is "the sound of four people's ideas colliding." This makes for a much more ambitious and much larger-sounding affair.

"Descended Like Vultures" opens with the lilting, waltz-like "Bird on a Wire." Already evidence of an expanding sound is apparent, especially with the powerful chorus and the psychedelic backwards guitar that jumps out during the bridge.

The beautiful "Publish My Love" follows. The wistful, cheery melodies and swirling guitar lines would make Brian Wilson blush. "Love's Lost Guarantee" rolls along on an urgently plucked acoustic guitar before absolutely exploding during the choruses and bridge section. The quiet restraint mixed with unbridled exuberance adds extra character to this emotive song.

The album highlight is, first single, "10:1." It is a bouncy romp full of filtered, synthesized vocals and rollicking synth lines. At the two-minute mark, the song crashes under a sea of cymbals and processed instrumentation. It is the perfect song to dance and jump around your room naked, with your junk unself-consciously flailing about; as soon as it's over, you can't wait to race to the stereo and hit "repeat."

These energetic tunes are tempered with more introspective ballads. The acoustic "California" is the perfect distillation of Rogue's skilled guitar-work and affecting falsetto. He morosely sings about turbulent personal experiences in his home state, but his voice is inflected with an undying sense of hope.

"Descended Like Vultures" is solid, if not spectacular, set of indie-pop gems. Like the Beach Boys before them, Rogue Wave has created an album full of sunny tunes that is able to brighten anyone's rainy day.

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Riley County Police Department officer and Emergency Response Unit's Tactical Team member Greg Steere passes a handgun to Justin Hackett, freshman in sociology, during a Citizen's Police Academy class about the Tactical Team on Nov. 3. The Academy gave attendees a view at several areas of law enforcement.

Police academy provides insight to law enforcement procedures

By Jonas Hogg
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Serve. Protect. Teach?

The Riley County Police Department operates a Citizen's Police Academy for those in the community interested in the workings of law enforcement. Several K-State students have taken the opportunity to learn from Manhattan's men and women in blue.

Justin Hackett, freshman in sociology, said he took the class through K-State's criminal justice course.

Hackett said the academy provided a broad view across all levels and divisions of the RCPD.

"They cover everything from narcotics, things that most people wouldn't know about law enforcement or policing in general," he said.

Hackett, who spent nine years in the military, said he is interested in law enforcement as a career, and that the academy provided him different views of law enforcement than what is normally shown on the evening news.

Claire Markey, freshman in sociology and criminology, also attended the class.

She said a member of the RCPD spoke at her criminal justice class and that captured her curiosity.

"It sounded really interesting," Markey said.

Markey said she hopes to work as a detective or work for the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the future.

The academy runs every Thursday for eight to 12 weeks, said officer Karen Franklin, coordinator for the Drug Abuse Resistance Education at RCPD. The course is offered twice a year, once in the spring and once in the fall, and is provided to the public free of charge.

Officer Brian London is in charge of the program, which he says has been going for more than 10 years.

He said the class addresses "a wide spectrum of topics," covering everything from police department history, overviews of divisions, training, the accreditation process, drug trends, internal affairs investigations, traffic enforcement, use of force policy and emergency response.

London taught traffic enforcement during a recent class, and said that citizen academies are offered in many police jurisdictions throughout the country.

"It's a way to offer a friendly environment for citizens to understand police department," London said.

Officer Greg Steere, who also contributed to the academy, is a member of the Emergency Response Unit's Tactical Team. The team is similar to a SWAT team.

Steere said the people generally enjoy the segment of the class that involves the Tactical Team.

"We put on a demonstration. We explain ourselves what we do, what our capabilities are," he said.

For the academy students, like Hackett, the program provides a hands-on opportunity to learn how police departments work.

"It should probably get more publicity," Hackett said. "It's amazing. It really is."

Panel discusses Islamic faith

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Several Muslim students attempted to dispel common misconceptions through a panel discussion Tuesday in Union Courtyard.

Samer Hijazi, graduate student in electrical engineering, Abdennour Bourane, research associate in chemical engineering; and Hamed Fumilayo, senior in electrical engineering, spoke to about 20 people about the Islamic faith and being Muslim.

Hijazi said the media's portrayal of the Islamic belief that martyrs are rewarded with a multitude of virgins when they get to heaven are wrong.

"The people who came up with the figure have more knowledge about my faith than me," he said.

Hijazi said while Muslim men can have more than one wife, the perception that women are treated badly is false.

"Men tend to abuse women,"

Hijazi said. "That happens anywhere."

When the questions turned to issues of women and the Muslim wearing of the headscarf, Nema Alhabib, graduate student in multimedia, approached the podium and spoke to panelists.

"The woman is like a crystal," she said. "It's like protecting a diamond."

Alhabib said she was unable to speak English well enough to communicate the importance of her attire to the panelists, but she said the practice of polygamy by men is necessary to protect both women and men.

"Men have more energy than women," she said.

If the wife falls ill, cannot have sexual relations or cannot have children, she can remain married to her husband while he finds another wife to perform those duties, Alhabib said.

"This is a good point for the woman, not a bad point," Aghsan Ahmad, graduate student in computer science, said.

Panelists also discussed Muslim views on homosexuality.

"God promised that any nation where adultery became popular would have new diseases which didn't exist," Hijazi said.

Dating and premarital sex lead to problems such as sexual diseases, and sexual diseases also have an economic impact, Bourane said.

Another misconception is that every Muslim is a terrorist, and every terrorist is a Muslim, the panelists said.

"The IRA (Irish Republican Army), Basque and mafia... I don't think any of these are Muslim," Hijazi said.

One subject that was not addressed was the lack of an available place to pray for Muslim students, Latefa Alsanie, graduate student in computer science, said.

"We pray five times a day, and we don't have a place," she said. "I have to pray in a clean place. We just ask if they can give us a place."

Katie Lester | KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Samer L. Hijazi, graduate student in electrical engineering, discusses different aspects of the Muslim faith as part of a panel sponsored by Sigma Lambda Beta, an international fraternity. The panel covered topics ranging from head coverings to teachings regarding dating and premarital sex.

See a photo opportunity?

Call 532-6556

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

ROYAL PURPLE
yearbook
We've got the stories • you've got to read.

Get your Royal Purple yearbook
in Kedzie 103, or call 532-6555.

Got a NewsTip
or Story Idea?

Call 532-6556
or e-mail:
collegian@pub.ksu.edu

Hungry?
check out
the Menu Guide
in the back of
the
Campus Phone Book
Available in Kedzie 103
Mon. - Fri. 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Spring 2006 — On-line Courses

Kansas City Kansas Community College • 7250 State Avenue • Kansas City, KS 66112 • 913-334-1100

<http://www.kckcc.edu/schedule/index.psp>

Course Name
ACCOUNTING I
ACCOUNTING II
ADDICTION COUNSELING WITH SPECIAL POPULATIONS
ADVANCED SYSTEM MANAGER
ADVANCED VISUAL BASIC
ADVANCED WAN INTERNETWORKING
AMERICAN GOVERNMENT
ARCHAEOLOGY
ART HISTORY II
BANKRUPTCY
BASIC KEYBOARDING
BIOCHEMISTRY
BIOCHEMISTRY LAB
BLACK HISTORY
BUILDING CONSTRUCTION FIRE SERVICE
BUILDING FIRE CODES
BUSINESS COMMUNICATIONS
BUSINESS ETIQUETTE
BUSINESS LAW I
BUSINESS LAW II
BUSINESS MATH
C++ PROGRAMMING
CAMPING AND OUTDOOR EDUCATION
CARE OF CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES
CGI PERL
CHILD DEVELOPMENT
CLIENT MANAGEMENT PROCEDURES
COLLEGE CHEM II + LAB
COLLEGE ALGEBRA
COLLEGE CHEMISTRY I AND LAB
COMPOSITION I
COMPOSITION II
COMPUTER AIDED DRAFTING
COMPUTER CONCEPTS AND APPLICATIONS
COST ACCOUNTING
COUNSELING THE ALCOHOLIC AND DRUG ABUSER I
CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION II
CRIMINAL LAW FOR THE PARALEGAL
CRIMINOLOGY
CURRENT TOPICS AND ISSUES IN EXERCISE SCIENCE
CURRENT TOPICS AND TECHNOLOGY IN FIRE SCIENCE
CUSTOMER SERVICE
DOCUMENT FORMATTING I
DRAFTING FIELD PROJECT I
EARLY WORLD LITERATURE
ELEMENTARY ALGEBRA
ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE
ETHICS
EXERCISE PHYSIOLOGY
EXERCISE TESTING AND PRESCRIPTION
FIRE ADMINISTRATION I
FIRST AID
FORENSIC SCIENCE ANALYTICAL TECHNIQUES
FORENSIC SCIENCE ANALYTICAL TECHNIQUE LAB
FUNDAMENTALS OF EARLY CARE EDUCATION
FUNDAMENTALS OF RESPIRATORY CARE
FUNERAL SERVICE COUNSELING
GENERAL BIOLOGY
GENERAL CHEMISTRY
GENERAL PHARMACOLOGY
GROUP DYNAMICS AND ADDICTIONS I

Course Name
HTML WEB PAGE DEVELOPMENT
HUMAN ANATOMY AND PHYSIOLOGY
HUMAN DEVELOPMENT
HUMAN RELATIONS IN BUSINESS
HUMAN RESOURCE MANAGEMENT
HUMAN SEXUALITY
HUMANITIES II
INCOME TAX PROCEDURES
INCOME TAX PROCEDURES
INDUSTRIAL INTERNSHIP (COMPUTER)
INFANTS AND TODDLERS I
INFANTS AND TODDLERS II
INTRODUCTION TO CULTURAL ANTHROPOLOGY
INTERMEDIATE ALGEBRA
INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS CULTURES
INTRODUCTION TO HOMELESS AND SECURITY
AND WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION
INTRODUCTION TO MASS COMMUNICATIONS
INTRODUCTION TO SOCIAL WELFARE
INTRODUCTION TO TEACHING: CAREER AWARENESS
INTRODUCTION TO ENTREPRENEURSHIP
INTRODUCTION TO FICTION
INTRODUCTION TO ADDICTIONS
INTRODUCTION TO BUSINESS
INTRODUCTION TO CULTURAL GEOGRAPHY
INTRODUCTION TO HUMANITIES
INTRODUCTION TO INTERNETWORKING AND ROUTERS
INTRODUCTION TO LAW
INTRODUCTION TO PHILOSOPHY
INTRODUCTION TO PHYSICAL EDUCATION
INTRODUCTION TO PHYSICAL SCIENCE
INTRODUCTION TO PHYSICAL THERAPY
INTRODUCTION TO THE INTERNET
INTRODUCTORY PHYSICS LABORATORY
INTRODUCTORY PHYSICS
JAVASCRIPT
KINESIOLOGY
LEGAL POLICY IN VICTIM SERVICES
LEGAL RESEARCH I
LEGAL WRITING
LIFETIME FITNESS
LITIGATION I
LOCAL AREA NETWORKING
MAJOR ENGLISH WRITERS II
MANAGERIAL ACCOUNTING
MARKETING
MATH ESSENTIALS
MEDICAL TERMINOLOGY
MICROBIOLOGY
MICROCOMPUTER APPLICATIONS I (SPREADSHEETS)
MICROCOMPUTER BUSINESS SOFTWARE
MODERN AMERICAN LITERATURE
MUSIC APPRECIATION
NUTRITION
OS FEATURES REVIEW
OCCUPATIONAL INTERNSHIP I
OFFICE PRACTICUM
OFFICE SIMULATIONS
ORGANIC CHEMISTRY II
ORIENTATION TO FUNERAL SERVICE

Course Name
PATHOLOGY
PERSONAL FINANCE
PERSONAL SCHOOL COMMUNITY HEALTH
PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR THE ELEMENTARY TEACHER
PHYSIOLOGY LABORATORY
PHYSIOLOGY
PICTORIAL DRAWING
POLICE ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION I
PRE-CALCULUS MATHEMATICS
PRE-COMPOSITION
PRESCHOOLERS II
PRINCIPLES OF MACROECONOMICS
PRINCIPLES OF MANAGEMENT
PRINCIPLES OF MICROECONOMICS
PRINT READING
PSYCHOLOGY
PUBLIC SPEAKING
REAL ESTATE LAW
SMALL BUSINESS MGMT
SOCIAL PROBLEMS
SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
SOCIOLOGY OF THE FAMILY
SOCIOLOGY
SPECIAL TOPICS IN ADDICTION: PHARMACOLOGY, HYMEDIICAL HIGH RISK, ETHICS
SPEEDBUILDING I
SPEEDBUILDING II
SPORTS OFFICATING
STATISTICS
Strategies FOR ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE/LIFELONG LEARNING
SUPERVISION TECHNIQUES
SYSTEM MANAGER
TECHNICAL INTERVENTIONS I
TECHNICAL WRITING
TECHNIQUES IN STRENGTH TRAINING
THE BIBLE AS HISTORY
THE GRIEVING PROCESS
THE LIVING BODY
TRAFFIC ADMINISTRATION AND CONTROL
TRANSITION CONCEPTS
UNITED STATES SINCE 1877
UNITED STATES TO 1877
VISUAL BASIC
WEB GRAPHICS AND MULTIMEDIA
WELLNESS, HEALTH AND SAFETY FOR THE YOUNG CHILD
WOMEN'S HEALTH: A TEAM APPROACH
WORLD CIVILIZATION II

"Making Life Better"

"An Equal Opportunity Educational Institution"

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Wednesday, Nov. 30, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7743.

DUPLEX, CLOSE to campus. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st. (785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex. Close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-$490. Three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

STUDIO, CLOSE to campus. No pets. $300. (785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810. (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM AT 1209 Claflin Road. One block from campus. $600/ month. January 1st lease. Washer/ dryer. Off-street parking. (785)341-6972.

For Rent-Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE. Central air. Pets ok. Large fenced yard. Available December. (785)317-7713.

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage, Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

RENT NEGOTIABLE: Three-bedroom, two bath, one-half duplex. Immaculate and spacious. All appliances included. Walk to Aggieville. (785)565-2432.

Roommate Wanted

JANUARY- AUGUST: Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Phillip (913)302-0402.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for two-bedroom apartment. Very clean, nice, quiet, great landlords, available now. Call Nicole (913)220-5854.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

Sublease

ROOMMATES: MALE or female. Pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED: Two-bedroom apartment with washer and dryer. One block from campus! Water and trash paid. Cheap rent for location! Call (316)288-9629.

LET'S HELP OUR LOCAL CHARITIES.

Please consider a contribution to support our local charities.

THINK GLOBALLY. ACT LOCALLY.

032
Shout Outs

TWIGGY, YOU'RE hot. keep rocking girl.

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

BIG STEVE, you can come live me if you no longer have a job next season.

IN TWO weeks I'll be using my degree to do absolutely nothing.

IT IS still cold outside. Just because it is not snowing doesn't mean bring out the flip flops.

SHOUT OUT to my girl C. Toy because she's awesome.

WAY TO go Marlies. Keep up the hops, you played a good game.

WAY TO go Volleyball Team. Hope you all kick butt on Thursday.

000 bulletin board

010

Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/kscf

LAN GAME where everyone can hear you scream: $10 for all day. Parties by appointment. Twenty-four stations. Our computers or yours. Lair Gauche in West-loop.

www.bobbyts.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

020

Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

LOST COLORADO license plate, 2P-1813. Green background, white mountains, white letters/ numbers, sentimental value. Yellow 1979 sticker. $125 finders fee. (913)685-4240 or (816)274-8919.

LOST BLUE Aeropostale hoodie with Audiotex cell phone, keys, and black and orange prescription glasses. If found call (785)313-1781 or (785)313-7053.

LOST EASY up portable shade, and folding camp table, at Griffith and Tuttle Creek Blvd. Reward. (785)539-1008.

030

Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/
real estate

105

For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

WILDCAT PROPERTY MANAGEMENT
537-2332

Anderson Village
1BD-1BA
$460 for January

1507 Poyntz #1
2BD @ $600
NEW carpet & paint
Gas & water paid

1509 Poyntz
1 LG BD @ $525
Washer & Dryer
ALL UTILITIES PAID

AVAILABLE SOON 1019 Houston, # 2. Three-bedroom duplex plus day room. Screened back porch. Kitchen appliances, $695. Close to downtown City Park and Aggieville. (785)341-1389.

NOW LEASING

Large 2 Bedroom Apts. Cambridge Square • Sandstone • Pebblebrook

Open Saturday 10-2
537-9064
www.billiavestrandrental.com

FIVE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for rent, close to campus, washer and dryer. Available immediately. Call (785)587-0876 or (785)776-9288.

GREAT DEAL! Studio apartment available January 1. Five or seven month lease. $340, all utilities paid. (785)410-6361 or (785)341-4764.

JANUARY 1. ONE-BEDROOM. $335. Two-bedroom, $420. Close to KSU. (785)587-0399.

JANUARY LEASE. Two-bedroom, two bath apartment. Brand new, great location. Two blocks from campus. One block from Aggieville. All appliances including washer/ dryer. (785)317-5326 or (316)640-1885.

MONTH- MONTH Leases. Two-bedroom, $520. Three-bedroom, $620. 1520 College Ave. (785)537-2096.

NEWLY REMODELED two-bedroom apartments. All utilities paid! Available in December and January, offering semester leases. Call MDI at (785)776-3804.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM, walking distance from campus. Water and trash paid. Lease starts January first or possibly sooner. (785)672-2317.

ONE AND two-bedrooms: close to campus, central-air, parking, laundry. (785)539-5800. (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENTS, available now and in January. Offering semester leases, call MDI at (785)776-3804.

ONE-BEDROOM, QUIET, two blocks south of campus. Deck, garage, laundry. Water/ trash paid. $425. January 1. Five-seven month lease. No smoking/ pets. (785)537-7431.

SUBLEASE JANUARY 1: July 31. 350 N 16th, two blocks from campus, $275/ month. (785)317-1840.

THREE AND four-bedroom duplexes. Walk to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

TWO OR three-bedroom close to campus. Spacious, central air, dishwasher, laundry facility. Water and trash paid. (785)539-0866.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT, close to Aggieville and campus. Available January. (785)537-9644.

120

For Rent-Houses

CLOSE to campus. Three-bedroom, bathroom, kitchen, dinette, den, attached garage. (785)463-5014.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO baths, two kitchens, very close to campus. (785)776-8628. (785)341-4073.

ONE-BEDROOM, WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

THREE-BEDROOM DUPLEX. 2303 Anderson, $800, available December 17. (785)537-7138.

145

Roommate Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. Available December 15. January to May. $290/ month. Pets allowed. 615 Thurston. Call (785)341-1073.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom house. Very nice and newly remodeled. $320 without utilities. (316)990-2046.

FEMALE ROOMMATE. Two-bedroom apartment close to campus. $237.50/ month plus utilities. (913)980-4585.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available, $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

LOOKING FOR a roommate for a four-bedroom duplex. Available as soon as possible. 1112 Vattier. Call Jason (785)443-3306.

MALE ROOMMATE needed for large two-bedroom, one bath, apartment in Westchester Park; tennis, fitness center, available now, Tyler. (785)539-8773.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for one-bedroom in a two-bedroom apartment. $250/ per month with utilities included. (913)980-9881.

ROOMMATE NEEDED! Nice apartment, great location, roommates. Call Michelle at (785)456-5040 for more information.

ROOMMATE NEEDED: Male or female. Nice house with backyard adjacent to campus. Available January 1. Call Andrea (785)341-2181.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities, Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED: four-bedroom house, block from campus, $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150

Sublease

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for two-bedroom, two bathroom brand new apartment, close to campus. Available mid-December to June or August. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher and garbage disposal. Call Jamie at (316)250-2780.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7768.

FEMALES NEEDED for four-bedroom, two bath, close to campus. Washer/ dryer. Lease from January to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted. One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $200/ month or best offer plus utilities. Available after finals. (913)636-6886.

NEAT FEMALE roommate wanted mid-December- July. Close to campus. $245 monthly plus one-fourth bills. Call Joan (316)640-5080 or Jannessa (316)204-4910.

150
Sublease

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline. (785)564-1284.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: Female roommate wanted for spring semester. Nice house with washer/ dryer. Flexible on rent and dates. Call (316)304-2201.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPA-CIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

200 service directory

300 employment opportunities

310

Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

BARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

AUCTION HELP: Successful candidate will move, organize, and process merchandise. Responsibilities will include making merchandise pickups, customer interaction, cleaning, and physical tasks. Applicants must be professional, have positive attitude, and valid drivers license. Digital camera experience very beneficial, though not required. Full and part-time positions available. Apply in person at Purple Wave Auction Co., 701 Enoch Lane, Manhattan. Ask for Traffas. Equal Opportunity Employer.

CHRISTMAS BREAK special. Not going home for the holidays? Earn some money & have fun from mid-December to Jan. 3rd at the C Lazy U Guest Ranch in the Rockies. When work is finished spend a week with free room and board to pursue your favorite winter activities in Grand County Colorado. Contact Phil Dwyer at (970) 887-3344 or Email pdwyer@clazyu.com.

COACHES: USD 378, Riley County is accepting applications for Middle School Boys Basketball coaches (one or two). Please contact Becky Pultz at bpultz@usd378.org with mailing address or (785)485-4000 as soon as possible.

FULL-TIME SUMMER work. Open to all majors. I will take five more students to help me run my own business. Average earns $800/ work. Contact (785)317-0455.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

PART-TIME HELP wanted, laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant, 5107 Murray Rd., (785)776-5081.

310
Help Wanted

GRADUATE RESEARCH Assistant (GRA) to serve as a UNIX Technical Support Programmer in the K-State Information Systems office. Assist lead applications developer with UNIX programming tasks. A high level understanding of Sun Solaris (UNIX) Operating Systems and thorough understanding of UNIX and/or Perl scripts are required. This is a year around student opportunity. Contact John Streeter at (785)532-4758 or as jws@k-state.edu, or come by 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 215 to apply. Application deadline is Friday, December 2, 2005. Equal Opportunity Employer.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY. Information Systems Office Associate Director, Database Management Services. Kansas State University is seeking a senior technical manager in its Information Systems Office to be responsible for visioning, planning and managing all facets of database management services for the university. Minimum requirements include: (1) a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Information Systems, Software Engineering, Computer Engineering, or other appropriately related technical field; (2) seven years experience in progressively responsible positions in a major information systems organization, to include 5 years in a highly technical hands-on role in enterprise computing environments involving the administration of enterprise database and applications servers; (3) two years technical leadership and/or direct supervision experience involving responsibility for evaluating technical staff performance is required; and (4) in-depth technical knowledge of Oracle 9i and 10g database management and applications server software. A detailed position description is available at www.ksu.edu/info/employment. Salary is negotiable based upon qualifications and experience. A letter of application describing qualifications for and expressing interest in the position, a professional resume, and a list of three professional references with complete contact information should be sent to: Search Committee, Associate Director of Database Management Services, Information Systems Office, 2323 Anderson Avenue, Suite 215, Manhattan, KS 66502-2912 or submitted electronically to iso@ksu.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2005 with applications continuing to be considered until the position is filled. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer. K-State actively seeks diversity among its employees. Paid for by Kansas State University.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors: Hall Monitors needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.-1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES: CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME/ FULL-TIME laborers needed. Farm background preferred. Call (785)410-2918.

PITA PIT delivery drivers needed. Shifts available 5 pm-11 pm and 11pm-4 am. Duties include greeting customers, making pitas, general cleaning, food preparation and delivering pitas. Must be a team player and willing to work in a fast-paced fun environment. Pick up application at The Pita Pit, 1131 Moro.

PROGRAMMER, CIVICPLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

ROYAL PURPLE YEAR-BOOK staff is looking for a marketing assistant to help design promotional material, assist with yearbook sales and participate in marketing activities. Work on salary to help promote K-State's award-winning yearbook. Ten hours/ week. Start immediately. Call Lindsay Porter at (785)532-6557 for more information.

we kick ads.

ASSISTED • 532-6555

330
Business Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/ Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400
open market

405

Wanted to Buy

DON'T PITCH it. Sell us your old Windows XP computer. Lair Gauche, (785)776-3302.

410

Items for Sale

MOVING SALE: VHS movies and CD's. $2. Lair Gauche, in Westloop.

NEW P4-3 GB computer that a short ad can't describe in loving detail. If you want the best, come talk. Lair Gauche, (785)776-3302.

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper sprayers on sale half price. Call (785)341-5294 or email haccman72@hotmail.com.

435

Computers

FAST COMPUTER repair. Walk-in's welcome. Lair Gauche. (785)776-3302.

450
Pets and Supplies

30 GALLON fish tank with glass/ wood stand. $200. Almost brand new. (785)547-6531.

500 transportation

510

Automobiles

1994 BUICK Skylark, 160K over 30 MPG. $950 or best offer. Runs good, dependable. (785)547-6531.

1997 JEEP Grand Cherokee Laredo. Black, 4x4, air conditioning, CD, recently inspected, dealer maintained, excellent condition. 80,500 miles. $5700. (847)452-0958.

2003 FORD Mustang GT convertible. Leather, loaded. 35,000 miles. $15,000 or best offer. (785)632-5346.

600 travel/ trips

630

Spring Break

*#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus.

www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com

REDEVELOPMENT | Tax increment financing to help with $140 million downtown redevelopment

Continued from Page 1

HOW MUCH WILL THIS COST RESIDENTS?

Within the past month, the city approved tax increment financing, which would allocate a percentage of those taxes toward projects like the $140 million downtown redevelopment, Hilgers said.

TIF, as Hilgers explained through city commission meetings, provides the process necessary to give private and public partnership in the downtown redevelopment project.

The city is now obligated to establish tax increment financing districts and issue $25 million in special obligation bonds.

"Tax increment financing is an incremental tool to allow the city to participate in the redevelopment project," Hilgers said. "Currently, each entity receives $80,000-$120,000 annually in property taxes. The TIF fund will capture the incremental increase of property taxes ... the TIF fund will also capture the local sales tax at 1.3 percent."

With the $3 million grant the commission applied in October, the city will have to pay for 20 percent of the $3 million, if approved. The state then will pay for the remaining 80 percent. The state will announce these grants, among others, as of spring 2006.

Until officials finalize the grants, Dial Realty expects to spend about $50 million on the project with the city covering the remaining $30 million.

ARRESTS | Students say plate theft was a prank

Continued from Page 1

He said he thought people had forgotten about it after a Nov. 17 Collegian article stated license plates were being stolen in the Manhattan area.

"It was just two weeks ago. I thought it was over and done with," he said. "But they interviewed us, put us in handcuffs, took us to jail, we had to fill out some paperwork and all of that. That's pretty much it. Until we go to court."

The court date is set for Dec. 12.

Speese said they weren't meaning to cause harm by stealing the license plates.

"It was a stupid college prank," he said. "Everybody does it."

Pierce said he regrets what the men did.

"We're sorry for all of the inconvenience we caused and ruining some Thanksgivings," he said.

While there was speculation that the suspects were using the license plates on their own cars, Speese said it wasn't true.

"We weren't using them for anything," he said. "Like the first article said, we weren't hanging them on our cars."

Along with being charged with stolen license plates, Speese was also charged with possession of a fake ID card.

"I don't know if that's a felony, but I never use it," he said. "They just found it in my wallet."

The 27 license plates have been returned to the owners and the police are attempting to locate the owners of the 5 tags that haven't been reported missing.

To report a crime, call Crimestoppers at 339-7777.

MONITOR | Administrators need written approval

Continued from Page 1

university's network of computers may be accessed for the purposes of retrieving university business-related information, investigating reports of alleged violation of university policy or local, state or federal laws and complying with legal requests for information.

The policy states the system administrators of campus electronic mailing lists will need written approval, including e-mail, indicating the extent of access that has been authorized from the vice provost for academic services and technology or the vice provost's designee, to access specific e-mail and data for these purposes.

Scott Jones, director of Greek Affairs, said Greek Affairs owns the fraternity and sorority e-mail lists through Computing and Networking Services.

"We don't specifically go back and review everyone's e-mail traffic," he said. "But if something catches our attention, we'll go back and review the e-mail."

Jones said violations under CNS, Interfraternity Council or Panhellenic Council's e-mail policy are handled through the appropriate organization, and Greek Affairs does not adjudicate the violations.

K-State is not the only Kansas university with an e-mail monitoring policy.

The University of Kansas's e-mail policy states that "the University supports a climate of trust and respect and does not ordinarily read, monitor or screen electronic mail, but complete confidentiality cannot be guaranteed because of the nature of the medium and the University's accountability as a public institution."

Paul Mirecki, chairman of KU's Department of Religious Studies, recently posted a message on a Yahoo! e-mail list that described his upcoming course "Special Topics in Religion: Intelligent Design, Cre-ationisms and Other Religious Mythologies."

According to the Lawrence Journal-World, Mirecki's e-mail read "the fundies want it all taught in a science class, but this will be a nice slap in their big fat face by teaching it as a religious studies class under the category 'mythology'."

Mirecki issued a public apology Monday for the content in his e-mail, which was sent to a small group of his students and friends.

While K-State has an approval process before reading e-mails, students and faculty should be cautious of information shared via e-mail, said Rebecca Gould, director of the Information Technology Assistance Center.

"You should never e-mail anything negative because you run the risk of having it shared or forwarded," Gould said. "Anything you send could be used as public record, so you have to be very careful about what you share."

Wind chill

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN
Andrew DeCock, graduate student in history, fights cold winds and snow while walking through the Bosco Student Plaza Monday afternoon.

Mayor approves seasonal lights, 30-foot tree for Little Apple

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For those who have not been to New York City, Manhattan Mayor Ed Klimek approved taking a step to bring a taste of the Big Apple to the Little Apple.

In a city proclamation Tuesday night, Klimek declared the location of Third Street and Poyntz Avenue as "Rockefeller Center" similar to the one located in New York City.

The local Rockefeller Center will feature seasonal lights and a 30-foot tree, said Lisa Rockley, executive director for Downtown Manhattan, Inc. Volunteers will place the tree at the Third Street and Poyntz Avenue location by today.

"You know, I've never been to New York before," Afton Smith, sophomore in sociology, said. "True, it's kind of cheesy for the city to do it, but it makes me feel like I'm living somewhere larger, more important."

Poyntz Avenue businesses including Steve's Floral and Capitol Federal Savings Bank have sponsored the tree set up.

By Friday, numerous volunteers, including those involved with Special Olympics, will place lights and bows on the tree, Rockley said.

And on Sunday, groups involved with host Lights on Downtown at 5:30 p.m. at Rockefeller Center, where sponsors from Capitol Federal Savings Bank will officially plug in the 30-foot tree's lights.

"The first annual Lights on Downtown will feature ... carolers, carriage rides, sweets, treats and holiday cheer," Klimek said.

Entertainment will include "the real Santa Claus" and singers of Wamego's Dutch Sweet Adelines," Rockley said.

"It sounds like a great event," Klimek said.

Highland Community College Wamego Center

Accessible

Only 14 miles east of Manhattan on Highway 24.

The HCC Wamego Center is in the Wamego Industrial Park on the east side of Wamego.

Affordable

Tuition & Fees (TEXTBOOK RENTAL INCLUDED)

Kansas Resident - $84

Class Size

Average of 20 students per class.
2 chemistry labs and 4 biology labs

To View Course Listings Go To:

1. www.highlandcc.edu
2. Prospective Students
3. Course Section Finder
4. Choose Wamego in drop-down, select year/term and
5. Press Search

Highland Community College Wamego Center
500 Miller Drive • Wamego, KS • 785-456-6006 • www.highlandcc.edu

you can finally buy a book
WORTH ITS PRICE

KANSAS CAMPUS PHONE BOOK

On sale in Kedzie 103
8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

GLASS
IMPRESSIONS

Our Exclusive Etched
K-STATE GLASS
Many Choices • Purple Too

Glass Impressions • 329 Poyntz Ave.
Mon - Fri 10:30 - 6:30 • Sat 10 - 5 • Sun 1 - 5

Optometrists
Dr. Mark Bettencourt &
Dr. Russell Hart

539-2020

$20 off Next
Contact Lens Exam

930 Hayes Drive Suite D
Across from Wal-Mart Tire Center

Mr. Goodcents
Subs & Pastas

We Deliver! 539-1900
1317 Anderson

Limited Time Offer -
Buy any regular price 1/2 Sub Sandwich and get the second 1/2 Sub Sandwich for only

99¢

Mr. Goodcents
Subs & Pastas

Valid on subs of equal or lesser value. Offer valid at participating Topeka, Manhattan, and Salina Mr. Goodcents locations. Not valid in conjunction with any other offers. Offer expires 12-31-05.

Now Available!
HOT ONES!
Served on Multi-Grain Bread... Goodcents Gold

Roast Beef 'N' Cheddar
With Marbled Sauce

Pastrami 'N' Swiss
With Spicy Mustard

Philly Jack Cheese Steak

Get 'Em While They're Hot!

Mr. Goodcents
Subs & Pastas

We Deliver! 539-1900
1317 Anderson

Limited Time Offer -
Buy any regular price 1/2 Sub Sandwich and get the second 1/2 Sub Sandwich
for only

99¢

Mr. Goodcents
Subs & Pastas

Valid on subs of equal or lesser value. Offer valid at participating Topeka, Manhattan, and Salina Mr. Goodcents locations. Not valid in conjunction with any other offers. Offer expires 12-31-05.

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings

"She was a beautiful bride."

Once in a Lifetime,
in the Collegian the first
Friday of the month.

To announce your milestone, visit Kedzie 103.
To advertise, call 532-8580.

Hungry?
check out
the Menu Guide
in the back of
the
Campus Phone Book
Available in Kedzie 103
Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Home HIV test waits for approval from FDA

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

An at-home HIV test is being considered by the Food and Drug Administration for sale over-the-counter.

According to a CNN report, the test OraQuick Advance is already available in some health clinics and doctor's offices.

One drawback to the at-home test is the possible underdevelopment of HIV antibodies and then testing negative for the virus, said Carol Kennedy, director of health education and promotion for Lafene Health Center.

There is a window period of several weeks to several months for the HIV antibodies to develop, she said.

Kennedy said if someone tests positive for HIV with the at-home test, he or she may deny the results as inaccurate and not seek treatment.

"The person may do something to harm him or herself, and that is the concern," she said.

According to the FDA, the OraQuick Rapid HIV Antibody Test was

HIV/AIDS fast facts

■ At the end of 2003, an estimated 1,185,000 persons in the United States were living with HIV or AIDS.

■ Approximately 27 percent of those infected with HIV are undiagnosed or unaware of their infection.

Source: Centers for Disease Control

See AT-HOME TESTS Page 10

SHAPE sponsors free HIV testing

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

In honor of World AIDS Day, students can get free oral HIV tests today.

Sexual Health Awareness Peer Educators and the Riley County-Manhattan Health Department are jointly sponsoring the testing and an awareness booth outside the Union Food Court.

"It's important to raise awareness," said Kaitlin O'Connor, junior in management and SHAPE member. "It's free, so why not get tested?"

Pheasant Weber, junior in psychology, said it is important for students to be tested for HIV because half of all people with the disease do not know they have it and half of those infected with HIV/AIDS are younger than 25 years old.

"We're at a greater risk," Weber, SHAPE president, said. "I don't think people realize how easily it can be transmitted."

She said people are at a moderate to high risk of having HIV even if they have only had sex once.

Donna Hart, registered nurse with the health department, will administer the two-minute OraSure tests confidentially. She said OraSure tests for the presence of the HIV antibody, and if the test comes back positive, the health

See SHAPE Page 10

HIV Testing

When: 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. today

Where: Union 204

How much: Free

An AIDS exhibit is currently displayed at the art gallery in the K-State Student Union until Dec. 19, sponsored by Union Program Council.

COLLEGIAN INVESTIGATION

CLOSE PROXIMITY

16 of 17 registered child sex offenders in Manhattan area live within a 2,500-foot radius of schools, licensed daycares

By JP Wilson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Child sex offenders living in Manhattan could be forced to relocate if new legislation pre-filled by Kansas Speaker of the House Doug Mays is passed when the legislature reconvenes in January.

The bill creates safety zones around schools and licensed and registered daycares, requiring child sex offenders living within 2,500 feet of schools and daycares to move.

"No other group is as vulnerable and deserves more protection than our children," Mays said. "For the sake of our children, it is our duty to remove child molesters from within the radius of temptation and accessibility."

Mays predicted the bill would leave offenders with almost no place to live in Manhattan. If a 2,500 foot radius is drawn around all schools and licensed and registered daycares, all of the 17 child sex offenders living in Manhattan would be required to move with the exception of one offender living on the outskirts of town.

How this will affect offenders is not something Mays is concerned about. He said when asked "What are these poor people going to do if they can't live in the city," he said he doesn't care.

"They have to go someplace and get away from the kids," Mays said. "I don't feel sorry for them."

But Cheryl Rathbun, a licensed specialist clinical social worker who has worked with offenders for more than 20 years, said separating offenders from the rest of the community may not make the community any safer.

"That loneliness and isolation is part of the problem," Rathbun said. "They don't have any social skills, and they end up reaching out to children because they don't feel comfortable with adults."

Sex offenders are statistically more likely to be someone whom a victim or their family knows. Rathbun said, 98 percent of the time it is someone who has established a level of comfort and trust with the victim or family.

The legislation does not forbid offenders from visiting schools, daycares or playgrounds. Relationships between offenders and children or their families can still be established.

"Kansans are absolutely repulsed and appalled that anyone would take advantage of a child," Mays said. "We have to do everything we can to protect our children from sexual offenders."

Moving the offenders is the only option, Mays said, because pedophiles can never be cured. But using the word "cure" is something Rathbun said she cautions against in describing the treatment of offenders.

The blue stars and circles represent the 2,500 foot radius around Manhattan schools, licensed daycares and registered daycares. The areas not in blue would become the only available places for registered child sex offenders to live if new legislation pre-filled by Kansas Speaker of the House Doug Mays passes when the legislature reconvenes in January.

"The word cure is not in the vocabulary," Rathbun said. "It's like curing cancer or curing alcoholism. Cure is not the word you're looking for, but they can be helped." Although 13 states have enacted

See OFFENDERS Page 10

House, Senate approve $24 billion loan cut

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

College students, university officials and two U.S. Representatives gathered at the University of Missouri-Kansas City on Tuesday to discuss recent pieces of legislation Congress passed, which will slash billions of dollars from federal student loan programs.

The two bills, one authored by the Senate and the other by the House of Representatives, will place an approximate $24 billion cut in federal student loan programs, as part of an effort to reduce the national deficit.

Based on a 217-215 vote made in mid-November, the House deficit reduction bill will reduce federal student loan budget by $14.3 billion within the next five years. With a 52-47 vote the Senate bill will reduce loans by $9.7 billion.

"If there is a time in the history of America where we can't afford to cut student aid, that would be now," said Rep. Emanuel Cleaver, D-Mo., in a report by the Associated Press.

He, along with Rep. Dennis Moore, D-Kan., put together the panel due to concerns about the future of higher education. Opponents argue that the $24 billion loan cuts could amount to the largest cut in loan history, forcing student borrowers to pay an additional $5,800 on those loans.

Other legislators that support the bill, mostly from the GOP, say that it will eliminate government subsidies to private loan companies, which will narrow existing programs so the companies can offer more loans in the future.

"The bill would lower fees and increase loan limits for students," said Alexa Marrero, spokeswoman for the House Education and the Workforce Committee. "Right now, you've got students who are paying differing amounts of fees on their loans, and we want to make sure we have a fair and consistent policy."

The bills won't become law until a congressional committee can match the House and Senate's separate bills. Until then, several legislatures and student groups plan to use this window of opportunity to rally against the proposals.

"This will put college out of reach for the people who need it most," Cleaver said.

Though the K-State Office of Student Financial Assistance has not planned anything specifically in response to the congressional bills, officials say students should have limited concern.

"The actual amount students will be able to borrow will not be cut," said Larry Moeder, assistant vice-president of student financial assistance. "In fact, they will probably be increased. The potential costs to students will not be from reduced loans, but possible higher loan fees."

Today

High 37
Low 21

Friday

High 47
Low 26

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Train delayed

An Amtrak train was delayed Wednesday outside Dodge City, Kan., when a cattle truck plowed into the railroad tracks, damaging the tracks and shorting out their current. The train was delayed for five hours. The injured truck driver was sent to West Plains Regional Hospital in Dodge City.

Partial face transplant

A 38-year-old woman is in "excellent condition" Wednesday after she received the world's first partial face transplant Sunday, a French hospital said. The woman had a nose, lips and chin grafted onto her face from a brain-dead donor whose family gave consent.

Court discussion

Under new Chief Justice John G. Roberts Jr., the Supreme Court discussed a New Hampshire law Wednesday that requires a parent to be told before a daughter ends her pregnancy. The current law requires that a parent be informed 48 hours before a minor child has an abortion.

DON'T FORGET

Casting Call for the Vagina Monologues is at 7 tonight in the Union Flint Hills Room.

WinterDance begins at 8 tonight in Nichols Theatre.

Diego Maldonado, instructor at the University of Maryland, will speak at 2:30 p.m. today in Cardwell 122 as a part of the Mathematics Colloquium.

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Fabric border
4 Large quantity
8 Lactern locale
12 Some time back
13 Ethereal
14 Part of the foot?
15 Nat "King" Cole hit
17 Old portico
18 Afternoon hour
19 Art made with lasers
21 Progenitor
24 Gregory Hines' specialty
25 Pub request
26 Final answer?
28 Circus employee
32 Bound
34 Go up and down
36 Iditarod terminus
37 Showy display

DOWN

1 Scenery chewer
2 "I" strain
3 Home of McGill University
4 Beauty shops
5 XIII quadrupled
6 Gaelic
7 An Earp brother
8 Vessel for washing
9 Oppositenist
10 Pedestal occupant
11 Carpet style
16 Shock's partner
20 Grimalkin
21 Wan
22 Kim's ex
23 Seagoing jalopy
27 Cattle call?
29 Disney-land transport
30 Send forth
31 Agents, for short
33 Employees' due
35 Disgusting
38 Highland chapeau
40 Learners' break
43 Interoffice e-mails
45 Deposit
46 Peregrinates
47 Hydrox rival
48 Tangelo
49 Bustle
53 Just out
54 Kanga's kid
55 "Uh-huh"

Solution time: 25 mins.

Yesterdays answer 12-1

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11
12 13 14 15 16 17 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35 36 37 38 39 40 41 42 43 44 45 46 47 48 49 50 51 52 53 54 55 56 57 58 59 60 61

DW Q RQK OJILILX ZLQC
IBOLZEBRQK IVZLKNVE
XJ TJB IBOOJIL EL RDNEV
VZT IEJO CDWVDKN?

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: FILM CONCERNING A JAR OF GRAPE JUICE SPILLING ON SOMEONE'S SHIRT: "THE COLLAR PURPLE."

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: O equals P

DIVERSIONS

A waste of time, but hey, it's better than lecture

Can you match the slogans?

- "Don't leave home without it."
- "Think different."
- "Reach out and touch someone."
- "The quilted, quicker picker-upper."
- "Have it your way."
- "Just do it."
- "Finger-lickin' good."
- "Because I'm worth it."
- "Let your fingers do the walking."
- "It's everywhere you want to be."
- "Drivers wanted."
- "Melts in your mouth, not in your hand."
- "Good to the last drop."
- "It takes a licking and keeps on ticking."
- "All the news that's fit to print."

Source: www.adslogans.com

The New York Times

Answers: 1. American Express, 2. Apple, 3. AT&T, 4. Bounty, 5. Burger King, 6. Nike, 7. KFC, 8. L'Oreal, 9. Maxwell House, 10. Visa, 11. Volkswagen, 12. M&M's, 13. Maxwell House, 14. Timex, 15. New York Times

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Nov. 29

■ Gary Christenson, Topeka, was arrested at 4:50 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,500.

Wednesday, Nov. 30

■ Andrew Speese, 1214 Vattier St., Apt. 4, was arrested at 2:27 a.m. for criminal threat. Bond was set at $1,000.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Prayong Udomvarapant at 10 a.m. today in Call 206.

■ The K-State Choir and Chorale, Collegiate Rhapsody Rings and the KSU Brass Ensemble will perform a free Holiday Festival of Music at 7 tonight at the First United Methodist Church, 612 Poyntz Ave.

■ The KSU Symphony and Concert Bands will perform a free concert at 8 tonight in McCain Auditorium.

■ Stop by the SHAPE table between 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. today near the Union Food Court for information about free HIV testing.

■ Students may receive a flu shot from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. today at Lafene Heath Center. Flu shots are $13 and nasal spray flu vaccines are also available for $22.

■ The Pre-Law Club will meet from 7 to 9 tonight in Union 213.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

GLASS IMPRESSIONS

HOLIDAY HOURS:

Mon-Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5
Sundays in December

Imaginative & Well Designed HANDMADE GIFTS

Very Affordable to Splurge

NEW GLASS STUDIOS

- Dakota Ward (Colorado)
- Venetian Style Ornaments
- Hammerlane Glass (Kansas)
- Wall Vases & Paperweights

PLUS

- More Very Unusual Clocks & New Bulova Frank Lloyd Wright Designs
- Cool Jewels Crystal & Sterling Jewelry
- Boxes • Prisms • Glass Candles • Etc...

329 Poyntz Ave • Downtown Manhattan • 785-539-4610

Friday Saturday

$4.50 $4.50

Hurricanes Long Islands

Both Nights

$4.00

Pitchers

Open till 2am

Hibachi Hut
Manhattan, KS
608 N. 12th
Aggieville

TSC
TRUCK STOP CAFE

The Women of Kappa Delta would like to CONGRATULATE their new council

Jana Broadbent

Lori Elliot

Jessica Helms

Jennifer Kreikermeier

Allison Voris

Becky White

Carly Wagner

Bryna Long

Darcy Ball

Bluemont Holiday Buffet

Thursday, Dec. 8, 2005 • 11am-1:30pm

Salads
Festive Salad w/ Assorted Dressings
Tasty Bean Salad
Cranberry Port Beef Medall
Roasted Vegetable Pasta Salad

Vegetables
Winter Blend Vegetables
Gauguin Carrots

Meats
Caramel Ham w/ Honey Glaze
Roasted Beef w/ Au Jus

Starches
Ricciary Roasted Red Skin Potatoes
Harvest Rice Pilaf

Breads
Braided Herb Bread
White Dinner Rolls

Dessert
Assorted Gourmet Desserts

$7.95 (includes tax)
Cash, credit cards, and charge cards

For Reservations call 535-6068
Union Halligan • 2nd Floor • K State Student Union

WinterDance provides variety of dance styles, music, costumes

By Lacey D. Mackey
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The lights dim, the music begins and a new world is created with the fluidity of movement and emotion of dance. But tights and tutus aren't all that are offered by these song and dance numbers.

WinterDance 2005 will provide an assortment of dance styles, including ballet, jazz, tap and modern.

Carl Power, junior in kinesiology, performs in a jazz piece called "Force," choreographed by Julie Pentz, assistant professor in speech communication, theater and dance.

"It's sort of dark," Power said. "Julie kept telling us our bodies are like weapons — very sharp and forceful. It's different. The lighting's very different."

Of the three pieces she has choreographed for WinterDance this year, Pentz said "Force" is one that requires extra strength by the dancers to portray the music's emotion.

"It's very strong, weapon-like movement and very athletic," she said.

Pentz collaborated with Neil Dunn, instructor in speech communication, theater and dance, and Kurt Gartner, associate professor in music, to reconstruct a famous modern piece called "Witch Dance," by Mary Wigman, by incorporating live music to make for a different performance.

Pentz said the choreography had to be taken strictly from Wigman's writings and musical score.

"What makes it so unique is that there is no visual documentation of her work," Pentz said. "It's for a solo dancer, which has been a real challenge because there's minimal movement."

Five student-choreographed pieces will also be performed

WinterDance

When: 8 p.m. today-Saturday; 2 p.m. Sunday

Where: Nichols Theater

How much: $7.50 for students, $11.50 for the public and $9.50 for senior citizens at WinterDance, which Pentz said is a good indication that students are learning firsthand how dance creation works.

"It's important to me to have students choreographing so they can learn from their mistakes," Pentz said. "Each time is an opportunity to create something better. They need to wear all the hats of a dancer, choreographer and teacher."

Dunn, production coordinator for WinterDance, said the performance is a collection of choreography from a variety of dancers that culminates in a night of highlights.

"We have all of the different varieties of dance present with the four schools of dance form," Dunn said.

Along with coordinating the production, Dunn said he enjoyed collaborating on "Witch Dance" with Gartner and Pentz. He said he thought the combination of dance and music will help entice attendees.

"The live music — that's definitely one thing to get me to come," Dunn said.

While the evening has no specific theme because of the variety of pieces, Dunn said several pieces could fit in two opposing categories.

"It just turns out with the combination of pieces. Half are happy and upbeat, and half are kind of dark," Dunn said. "We haven't intentionally done that, and there is no direct theme, but they are contrasting."

WinterDance also includes feature guest artist Mary Chase.

"(She) has provided us with a great, modern, funny piece," Pentz said.

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN
Sarah Kellner, junior in pre-nursing, performs a dance titled "Witch Dance" by Julie L. Pentz, assistant professor in speech communications, theater and dance, during a dress rehearsal Monday evening in Nichols Theatre.

As dancers and choreographers have been preparing for tonight's opening night, Pentz said it has been difficult to keep attitudes and spirits positive.

"It's always a challenge for the dancers late in the semester," Pentz said.

"It's always a challenge to keep morale up, and with dance, it's so physical. They have to sleep and eat well, and then we have the cold weather, and their bodies react."

Power said the variety of dances will be enjoyable for the audience.

"It's a great show," she said. "It has something for everyone."

Professor uncovers lost illustrations for book

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While researching for a biography about children's author Crockett Johnson, Philip Nel, associated professor of English, came across some unusual art.

He realized the artwork in his book "Castles in the Sand," did not match the story line.

"The illustrations in that version distracted from the story," Nel said. "They were really busy and didn't work well with the story and so I wondered what happened."

Nel said he found his answer in the Smithsonian Institution, where he found sketches Johnson had begun for the book.

"The papers weren't where you would think they would be," Nel said. "They were in the mathematical division, and no one knew they were there."

Nel said he wondered if he could put the rough sketches with the story in a version closer to how Johnson would have wanted the book published.

"The sketches are not finished, but are very precise," Nel said. "You can see the man at work."

Nel said he thinks the drawings give more insight into the author.

"You get a sense of looking over his shoulder, and it gives the book an intimate feel," he said. "You don't get this sense of (Johnson) in his other books."

Nel said the original "Castles in the Sand" was not accepted by editors at first, and only published after some time. Publishers said the book was not a children's book, though Johnson himself considered it one of his best works.

"The story is about two children talking, and they begin drawing objects in the sand," Nel said. "The objects come to life, but when the tide comes in they disappear."

The book's ending isn't entirely conclusive. Nel said this is why the book was rejected several times, as its abstractness was not common at the time.

"The open-endedness is more common today than 40 years ago," he said. "What this book does is offer a profound exploration of the boundary between real and imaginative worlds."

Nel said he recommends the book for children in grade school, but not much younger.

"It's a philosophical book with sketches that aren't bright," he said. "Even the language is more difficult."

"Magic Beach," now available in stores, is the title of the new collaboration of sketches with Johnson's story. It also features an appreciation by Maurice Sendak, described by Nel as the most influential and acclaimed writer of children's books today. Sendak, creator of "Where the Wild Things Are," agreed to write the appreciation because of a personal connection to Johnson.

"I hope people notice the book," said Nel.

Anne K. Phillips, associate professor of English, described the book as very much like "Harold and the Purple Crayon." She said an exact age group could not be named for the story.

"It's hard to make judgment on what works for all kids because all children are different," she said. "Kids like to be able to imagine things and not be told what to think."

Reviews have been good, Nel said, but it was interesting that some people described the book as good for all ages, while others said it is purely for adult lovers of children's books.

Phillips was happy that Nel was able to publish the original drawings with the story.

"I'm really happy this came out and appreciate the work that Phil did to get this to come out," she said.

Museum to add gallery space

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A $6 million renovation and expansion of the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art will add 17,000 square feet of gallery and storage space.

Construction on the museum began Nov. 16 and is expected to be completed by fall 2007, Martha Scott, administrative officer at the museum, said.

The additional space will create two indoor galleries, one exterior sculpture gallery and storage space in the lower level, Scott said.

"It will allow us to continue to collect art related to the region," she said.

The museum currently has about 26,000 square feet, but Scott said the expansion is necessary because the museum's collection has increased by more than 4,000 pieces since it opened nine years ago.

The new wing will allow the museum to bring in more traveling exhibits.

"The museum collection has grown at a relatively fast rate," Lorne Render, museum director, said. "It will allow us to provide more educational programs."

Kristy Carter, gallery attendant, said one wing will display traveling exhibits, and the other

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Wildcat Construction employee Bruce Fund carries a ladder while working on construction of a new wing for the Marianna Kistler Beach Museum of Art on Wednesday afternoon.

will house the museum's permanent collection.

"The museum has a lot of artwork for just being open nine years," Carter, senior in English education, said.

She said the amount of artwork collected by the museum demonstrates university and community support.

Funds for the expansion were given by private donors through the KSU Foundation's $500 million Changing Lives Campaign, including another "significant gift" from Ross and Marianna Beach, Scott said.

Through the campaign, the museum's goal was $9 million, with the balance of funds left over from construction costs going into an endowment fund.

The interest from the endowment will be used for general operating costs and educational programs.

During construction, the museum will be open, except from Dec. 24 to Jan. 9, most of April 2006 and for about three weeks in summer 2006.

For cats who bleed purple.

TO THE POINT Sex offender legislation good for community

The Kansas House of Representatives is discussing new legislation on sex offenders. If passed, child sex offenders across Kansas will be required to live more than 2,500 feet away from schools and daycares.

If the legislation is passed, this would leave the outskirts of Manhattan for child sex offenders, because nearly the entire city is within 2,500 feet of schools and daycares.

Granted, some people are registered sex offenders because they had a moment of passion with their 17-year-old girlfriend while they were 18. However, the legislation on sex offenders would be a good idea for Manhattan.

While some are charged with statutory rape, there are those who have actually molested adolescents. They are people who should not be around children.

The registered child sex offenders could still visit areas around daycares and schools, but this is the first step to protecting Kansas children. Children should be able to live in an environment where they don't have to be afraid of being molested near their daycare or school.

If passed, legislation would make it harder for the child sex offenders to nab a child in front of their residence, throw them in the house, and perform vulgar sexual acts.

Thirteen states have already enacted laws on child sex offenders; Kansas should follow suit to protect the children.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian	Classified ads.....532-6555
Kedzie 103	Newsroom.....532-6556
Manhattan, KS 66502	news@spub.ksu.edu
Display ads.....532-6560	Delivery problems.....532-6555

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Hail to the king, baby.

Kody Cooper, you are the dorky wanker, not Harry Potter.

Chuck Norris needs to take a class in conflict resolution. The world would be a much happier place if he would learn to express his feelings and become more open to getting along. He has had a tough guy barrier up for way too long. On the inside, he is probably crying.

If you rearrange the letters in Vin Diesel's name it spells out his life credo — "I end lives." Think about it.

Don't. It's a trick. Get an axe.

To whoever keeps making the Chuck Norris comments — you make my day.

We should start a campaign to bring Chartreuse Caboose to Manhattan.

So, my roommate and I were just sitting in our room again, and all of the sudden we realized that we're even more awesome now than we were before.

The only thing that makes Chuck Norris uneasy is needles, so when he donates blood, all he asks for is a handgun and a bucket.

So today I decided that I am the best I know of and no girl is good enough for me.

Give me some sugar baby.

It's true that every time you hear a bell, an angel gets its wings. But what they don't tell you is that every time you hear a mouse trap snap, an angel gets set on fire.

K-State English Department — where they teach you to do their jobs for them.

A man once asked Chuck Norris if his real name is "Charles." Chuck Norris did not respond, he simply stared at him until he exploded.

So I hear the Colorado AD is going to try a "pay to send a student" plan to their bowl game because of their lack of fan travel. Oh, good, pay the kids so they can go throw trash on the field at another venue. Great idea, CU. Just make your problems more well known.

To the guy with the Air Force uniform that says York — thanks for opening the door for me — you're a real gentleman and not to mention pretty cute.

December: Sizzler.

To all who saw me crying my eyes out while walking across campus today, don't worry, I'm OK.

I have officially waited at Lafene for an hour and a half over the past two days so that the doctor could look at me for three minutes and write me a prescription. There's got to be an easier way.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

CLASH OF THE COLUMNISTS

Cinematic catastrophes

Cool, smart, creative people fooled by 'Moulin Rouge' hype

Mix the plotlines of three 19th-century operas, a handful of 20th-century pop culture references and a score of top 40 hits, and what comes out of the Hollywood idea machine?

A steaming pile of Academy Award-winning poo.

In the weeks after "Moulin Rouge!" premiered in 2001, I noticed all the cool, smart, creative people I knew couldn't stop raving about it. So, wanting to be cool, smart and creative myself, I bought a movie ticket and a bucket of popcorn and prepared to be dazzled.

Two hours later, I walked out of the theater nauseous.

I can't remember if it was during Ewan McGregor's many blank stares and idiotic smiles, Nicole Kidman's obnoxiously fake orgasms or the defiling of Nirvana's "Smells Like Teen Spirit," but someone several rows behind me actually stood up and yelled, "this is the worst damn movie ever made."

I agreed wholeheartedly. The movie continually bounced back and forth between being an earnest defense of "la vie bohème" and a satirical circus of sights and sounds. Every part was overacted, every scene overdone and every song over-sung. It stunk.

Although that was my reaction leaving the theater, I kept thinking about all those cool, smart, creative people and their intense love of this train wreck of a movie. Why were so many intelligent people enthralled by cheesy rip-offs of 80s love songs? Why were respectable women titillated by a dopey-looking leading man with a scratchy voice? And why on earth did the film get a "Best Picture" nod?

Obviously, I was missing something. I decided to shelve my disdain for this smorgasbord of suck for a while and revisit the film when I was older.

So, a year ago, still wanting to be cool, smart and creative, I gave "Moulin Rouge!" another shot. I watched it alone, so as not to be influenced by the comments of others. I listened intently to all the music and even managed to avoid wincing at the tacky, let-me-sing-right-in-your-face-so-you-know-I-had-tuna-fish-for-lunch rendition of the supposed show-stopper, "Come What May."

And, despite my best efforts, I arrived at the same, inevitable conclusion: it sucked. Although I found certain scenes mildly entertaining and a couple of songs were worth a repeat listen or two, nothing in this film warranted the mass fan base it received.

I suppose it's about what one can expect from director Baz Luhrmann, who is apparently terrified of original thoughts and ideas. He turned Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" into "Romeo + Juliet," he stole word-for-word a Chicago Tribune opinion column to create the 1999 song, "Everybody's Free (To Wear Sunscreen)," and he bastardized classic operas and pop tunes to poop out "Moulin Rouge!"

After two solid attempts to enjoy, appreciate and possibly even love "Moulin Rouge!," I've given up. And if that means I'm not cool, smart or creative, so be it.

I've been called worse.

Jaci Boydston is a senior in mass communications. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

JACI
BOYDSTON

Bad acting, cheesy songs put 'Grease' at bottom of barrel

There are many horrible movies that have been filmed and released throughout the history of movies. Those movies that are made to wrench several more minutes from someone's 15-minutes of fame, or the badly-made sequels that try to pull more money out of the public's pocket.

But one of the worst movies ever would have to be "Grease" with John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John. And apparently "Grease 2" is even worse, but that is to be expected considering what it is following.

In a movie about a cocky bunch of "cool" kids, high school cliques and fights, it seems that the main point of this movie was to showcase John Travolta singing and dancing. So, the lack of a good story is covered up by the classic movie trick of people bumping into one another and breaking out into elaborate, perfectly choreographed dances with matching cheesy songs.

It is like dance moves are a highly contagious disease. And those catchy songs get stuck in your head but are still annoying.

Petty gang fights, love triangles, rectangles and random relationship tangles, misunderstandings and the overwhelming need for the unique characters to change to fit the mold makes a coming-of-age mess. Any display of truth that is not socially acceptable causes the person to run for the cover of "coolness."

Another movie play of casting people well out of high school and maybe even out of their twenties as awkward teenage high school students, is somewhat revolting and completely misleading.

The total disregard for Sandy and the way that she changes into a leather-clad, cigarette-smoking girl so she is an acceptable date for Danny is a maddening disregard for her own worth and uniqueness. Sure, there is a montage as Danny tries to change into a "good boy" but in the end reverts back to his cool, bad boy façade, which, as seen during the summer, is totally untrue.

I like musicals in general, but I don't like movies that are made to exhibit some stars' singing ability. There are many movies like that such as "Glitter" with Mariah Carey, "Crossroads" with Britney Spears, and "Justin to Kelly" because of American Idol.

"Grease" has a bad storyline, annoying characters, while one of its redeeming qualities is that you can learn the songs easily because they will get into your head and stay like superglue.

Superglue songs and contagious dancing, the entire point of this horrible, inane movie.

Rachel Thompson is a sophomore in anthropology and international studies. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

RACHEL
THOMPSON

Illustration by Jordan Mizell | COLLEGIAN

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

Holiday specialty stores offer hard-to-find items

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When Jamon Evans read the "employment classifieds" a few months ago, he was intrigued by an advertisement for a job that offered him time to play with games.

Recently, Evans, a Junction City resident, was hired and started his job at Go! The Game Store.

"I used to sell tins of pretzels to people in Topeka, but this job is a lot better," Evans said. "Older people come here searching for classics, younger people come here looking for stocking stuffers."

Throughout the holidays,

Evans new job will have him selling "fun board games and stuff you won't find at Target," said Manhattan Town Center marketing manager Sara Van Allen.

Games at this stand range from the "Desperate Housewives" Trivia Game to Pictionary.

"You know, I have been hunting for this game forever," said Manhattan resident Michelle Conklin as she pointed toward a special edition game of Trivial Pursuit.

"Quite the contrary, you'd be surprised what you can find in the stores as opposed to the Internet."

When the holidays begin, new stores and kiosks start popping up at Manhattan Town Center.

Additional holiday stores specialize in handbags, calendars, lotion, toys, jewelry and ornaments.

As these stores become more available during the holiday season, customers including Junction City resident Josh Rawlings, said they find the specialty stores handy when looking for a "cool, unique gift for friends."

"Sometimes when I'm shopping for friends and family, it's way hard to find the perfect gift," Rawlings said.

"But when you hop into one of these temporary stores, sometimes you can't find something special — some odd thing that might, just might make someone's holiday."

For those wanting to catch a glimpse of these stores, Evans said he encourages people looking for presents to head over to any mall to find the perfect gift from a place people won't usually shop.

"I love it here because it offers things that I'd want to buy, not some tin can thing," Evans said.

"I used to play pick up sticks with my grandma, dominos and Monopoly. And almost every day, I get to see these things that brought me many good times in my past," he said.

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN
Christine Jimerson, Manhattan resident, and Jared McLaughlin, Jr., junior in finance, shop at Go! The Game Store in Manhattan Town Center.

Students turn gaming into a profession

By Matt Peterworth
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Breaking into the video game industry can be tough, but with enough hard work, K-State students can still make it, said Yancy Young, a May 2005 graduate in illustration.

Young now lives in Los Angeles working for Insomniac Games. Their latest game, which Young worked on over the summer, is Ratchet: Deadlocked for the PlayStation 2 platform.

Young said he began video game design during his senior studio.

"Truth be told, I don't play games a lot now," he said. "But modeling seemed to really grab me and I learned fast."

For his senior thesis, Young said he designed a game called "Project: Archangel" based off the character in the X-Men comic books.

"I conceptualized every room, nearly every prop and Archangel himself," he said. "I completed the fly-throughs and turn-arounds and even put together packaging."

For the final presentation, he rented a 60-inch flat panel television to show videos from his game.

After graduation, Young said he applied for an internship at Insomniac Games. Young was accepted for the internship and two months later was offered a full-time position.

Young took the graphical, artistic approach to video game design. He said along with the artistic video games also need coding and programming. The computer and information sciences department offers a topics course in the spring called Intro to Gaming.

Virgil Wallentine, department head and instructor, said the course is not just about programming games but also virtual environments, which have many other applications.

Matthew Carlson, senior in computer science, is enrolled for the Intro to Gaming course next semester.

"Right now, I'm in the graphics class, and it seems like something I'll be able to use in the professional world. I want to get into more advanced concepts and the gaming course does that," he said.

The teaching assistant for the course, Nathan Bean, graduate student in computer science, said this is the first semester the course is being offered. In addition to learning game theory, students will be designing their own video game.

Popular game system sold at midnight openings

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A gift in high demand this holiday season is the new Xbox 360 game system. This popular hardware arrived in stores nationwide on Nov. 21 at 12:01 a.m.

About 1,600 GameStop stores across the United States had midnight openings so customers, who signed up on waiting lists, could get this anticipated new technology.

Many stores that were unable to open at midnight opened at 8 the following morning.

The two Manhattan GameStop locations, 100 Bluemont

Ave. and in Manhattan Town Center, were among the stores that had midnight openings.

"It's not just the hard-core gamer, it's also the general consumer who is interested in getting their hands on this technology," said Chris Olivera, public relations director for GameStop Corporation.

Waiting lists for the new system were posted in GameStop stores months before the first shipment of Xbox 360s arrived. Customers with their name on a waiting list before May 24 were among those who received systems in the first shipment.

The new gaming systems have a starting price of $299.99 and offer many features. For example, it allows gamers to compete with other players online, as well as send and receive voice and chat messages.

The high definition graphics are more intense and realistic, which provides a more realistic experience, Levi Teeter, freshman in fine arts, said.

"The graphics are definitely improved," Teeter, who purchased an Xbox 360 at GameStop's midnight release, said. "I haven't played it too much yet, but it's not as impressive so far as I thought it would be, or at least some of the games aren't. But it looks good and plays good."

The new system offers 23 different accessories, which allow gamers to personalize their equipment, Olivera said.

Among the accessories are a wireless controller, a 64MB memory unit, a headset and three different colored faceplates.

"The controller feels a little bit better," Teeter said. "It's smaller and fits in your hands better."

While Teeter said it is improved, the system has had glitches.

According to the Associated Press, Microsoft Corp. reported on Nov. 23 that it had received isolated reports of technical problems with the new system. Problems reported included systems crashing during game play.

However, GameStop stores have not heard of any such glitches at this time, Olivera said.

Program provides medical care for donated animals, pets

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With almost $4 million, the Perpetual Pet Care Program helps 18 families with 65 pets, Chris Gruber, development assistant of the KSU Foundation, said.

The program, through the College of Veterinary Medicine, provides for the care of animal companions in the event the pet's owner can no longer care for them. Most of the animals in the program are cats, dogs and horses, Gruber said.

Deanna Tressin, a program donor from Manhattan, made a commitment of $50,000 to the KSU Foundation. This will provide medical care and treatment for her two dogs, Annie and Bitsy, through the Perpetual Pet Care Program.

The donation to the program does not take effect until Tressin is no longer able to care for her pets. After that point, the college will find homes for her pets and will provide for them until they no longer need care. Then the fund's annual earnings will go toward scholarships in the College of Veterinary Medicine.

Tressin said she has used the services at the College of Veterinary Medicine when Bitsy needed emergency surgery.

"They took her in and performed the operation, and they did a good job," Tressin said.

Robin and Becky Roeckers, two program donors from Berwyn, Kan., gave $500,000 to establish two funds to benefit their six dogs, two cats and two miniature horses.

"We go to the vet center for emergencies and if our vet here can't handle it," Becky Roeckers said.

Becky Roeckers said in the instance of both her and her husband's deaths, their assets will be liquidated, and the funds will be donated to the College of Veterinary Medicine.

She said she was not told exactly how the remaining money would be used, except that it would be used for special needs of the college, as determined by the dean.

She said money donated for pet care is distributed to a program of the donor's choice after the pet no longer requires care. This includes scholarships, research or the new Animal Compassion Home and Education Center, Gruber said.

The Compassion Home is in the planning stages, but it will be a separate building where pets live while transitioning into a new home, Gruber said.

He said many of the donations go toward research, but some donors are giving money to the Compassion Home.

Courtesy art

Sick of your Roommates?

Find a sublesser by advertising in the classifieds.
Call 532-6555.

HC McGraws
Manhattan's #1 Premier Country Night Club

Best Tacos in Town:
59¢ (hard or soft)

$1.50 Coors Light Pints

Thursday is $1.99 Margaritas

Karaoke Night!
Prizes for ALL Singers!

2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd. • 776-9588
In the Blue Hills Shopping Center

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
PIZZA
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

BOOK SIGNING
A BIOGRAPHY OF CHARLIE CHRISTIAN,
JAZZ GUITAR'S KING OF SWING
BY WAYNE E. GOINS
AND CRAIG R. MCKINNEY
DECEMBER 2, 2005, 7:00 - 8:00 p.m.
MANHATTAN ARTS CENTER
Light refreshments will be served.

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center
Walk-in Flu Vaccine Clinic
Thursday, Dec. 1st
8:30—11:30 am
1:30—4:30 pm
Cost: $13 shot
$22 intranasal
For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/lafene

Antiques & Collectibles
Junior & Petite Blue Jeans
Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch,
and more!
Clip this ad for 20% off
—limit one per visit
QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used
CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL
The Apple's Heart
Where Kansas Meets New York
13 S. 5th • downtown poynst

Wise Up.
Wear it.
Where's Yours?
World AIDS Day 2005
FREE HIV testing - www.k-state.edu/lafene/SHAPE/AIDSDay05.htm

Blow out

Harris scores 19 points, leads Wildcat charge against Titans

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The game was supposed to be a challenge for the K-State men's basketball team, but it was far from that.

The Wildcats played perhaps their best all-around game of the season, dominating Cal State Fullerton (3-1) 84-59 Wednesday night in Bramlage Coliseum. K-State won by double digits for the fourth consecutive game to move to 4-0 to start the season.

Coach Jim Wooldridge said the team's performance satisfied him.

"We did a lot of good things," Wooldridge said. "We guarded well, we rebounded the ball well, we took care of (the ball), we got good shots, we played good defense. We did what we had to do to make it the kind of game that it was."

The Titans did attempt to run early, jumping out to an 8-4 lead. However, K-State responded, going on a 14-0 run to move ahead 18-8 with 12 minutes 43 seconds remaining in the first half.

Junior guard Lance Harris said the early run was important in establishing the game's tempo.

"It was very key," Harris said. "Our guys off the bench set the tone and were able to keep the pace. It was a big part of the game that we really needed."

Harris provided plenty of offense for the Wildcats. After struggling through the first three games of the season, Harris tallied 19 points on 8-of-15 shooting, including 2-of-5 on 3-pointers, to lead all scorers.

Junior forward Cartier Martin also continued his steady offensive production, scoring 17 points on just eight field-goal attempts. Junior guard Akeem Wright was the only other player to score in double figures for K-State, totaling 11 points.

Martin said he was pleased to see Harris step up his game.

"I have all the confidence in the world in Lance," Martin said. "He's going to be a big part of our offense and defense. He was getting a little frustrated with himself, but Lance is a good player and he's fighting through it."

Wooldridge said it was good to see Harris finally come out of his shooting slump.

"I think he can play even better," Wooldridge said. "He's going to play better. He took a step in the right direction to get him going, but he's got some big games ahead of him."

Overall, the Wildcats' offense continued to come together. The team shot 51 percent from the field and committed only nine turnovers. Coming into the game, players said they knew rebounding would be an important factor in winning. The Titans were averaging 50.7 rebounds per game, which ranked third in the nation.

K-State won the rebounding battle 42-31, and Wooldridge said that was a factor in the win.

"If you get in front of the ball, then it's (about) rebounding," he said. "The three keys were good shot selection, good defensive transition and defensive rebounding, and we were able to get those things done."

K-State 84 Cal State Fullerton 59

	K-State	CSF
Field goals	32-63	21-58
3-point	8-18	6-27
Free throws	12-22	11-15
Rebounds	42	31
Assists	20	12
Turnovers	9	14

Leading scorer	Harris, 19	Cottrell, 15
Leading rebounder	Martin, 6	J. Brown, 11
Leading assists	Stewart, 4	B. Brown, 5

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Junior guard Lance Harris goes up for two of his 19 points during the second half against Cal State Fullerton Wednesday night at Bramlage Coliseum. Harris led all scorers and helped K-State to a 84-59 win.

NIT or bust for men's basketball

Does anybody else remember back in the day when K-State brought home three Big 12 Conference championships in the same year?

That year, 2003, seems like a decade ago, but that was the year when the Wildcats were conference champions in football, volleyball and women's basketball.

The men's basketball team has never won the Big 12 title and has not been to a postseason tournament since 1996.

Even though winning the conference would set the bar pretty high for this year's young team, the expectations need to be set higher than in recent years.

The Wildcats were snubbed from last year's National Invitational Tournament after posting a 17-12 record in the regular season, and this year, there should be no question about this team going to, at least, the NIT.

The team lost arguably its best players from last year's squad in Jeremiah Massey and Fred Peete, but the Wildcats are playing better than last year's team.

Cartier Martin is playing like a beast this season, averaging 23.3 points and 9.7 rebounds per game. He is beginning to emerge as the leader of this team in his junior year.

Other starters like Lance Harris, Clint Stewart and Akeem Wright are solidifying themselves as valuable role players behind Martin's dominance.

Sixth-man David Hoskins was named the Big 12 Conference Rookie of the Week on

CEDRIQUE FLEMMING

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Twiggy McIntyre throws up a shot during the second half against Delaware State. McIntyre scored 11 points and added two assists in 20 minutes of action to help K-State to a 78-30 win.

K-State hands Delaware State 1st loss

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State 78 Delaware State 30

	K-State	Del. State
Field goals	29-57	11-48
3-point	6-18	0-6
Free throws	14-17	8-14
Rebounds	44	24
Assists	19	5
Turnovers	16	21

Leading scorer	Dietz, 18	Burbage, 10
Leading rebounder	Gipson, 5	Burbage, 7
Leading assists	Coggins, 4	Morgan, 4

K-State shared a 3-0 record with Delaware State heading into Wednesday night's game, but the similarities stopped there.

The Wildcats were too much for the Lady Hornets throughout the game, handing Delaware State its first loss of the season, 78-30.

Delaware State (3-1) struggled to make it to 30 points, seemingly never capable of handling K-State's 11-player rotation. Every player, except for junior Naytandra Smith, scored in the Cats' blow out in front of a crowd of nearly 7,000.

Junior guard Twiggy McIntyre said her team's ability to interchange 10 players at any given moment makes K-State (4-0) a difficult team for others to prepare for.

"We're the epitome of what a team is this year; I love it," McIntyre said. "Coach (Deb Patterson) is subbing five in and five out. I don't really know how teams scout us out or try to guard us because we have so many weapons."

The Lady Hornets obviously had a hard time adjusting to the Wildcat system, as K-State held Delaware State to 4-of-25 shooting, or 16 percent, from the field in the first half. The Lady Hornets scored the first bucket, but the Cats took over instantly, outscoring the Lady Hornets 22-2 to take a 24-10 lead, with offensive assistance from seven Wildcats — including two 3 pointers from sophomore Kimberly Dietz, who had a game-high 18 points.

Delaware State brought its score to

See WOMEN Page 8

VOLLEYBALL

K-State meets Florida A&M in NCAA 1st round

By Wendy Haun
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

As with most postseason tournaments, the K-State's volleyball team will face an unknown foe, this time in the form of Florida A&M.

K-State (20-10), appearing in its 10th consecutive NCAA Tournament, will face the Lady Rattlers (22-5) at 4 p.m. today in Gainesville, Fla.

"We know a little bit," coach Suzie Fritz said of Florida A&M. "I think the primary thing about Florida A&M is that they're very international. I think they only have one American on their roster, so they're very international."

Florida A&M claimed the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference Championship, and is coming off of an upset win against No. 24 Long Beach State (25-6) in California.

The Lady Rattlers have won 20 of their last 21 matches.

The winner of today's match will face the winner of the Florida vs. Florida-Atlantic game on Friday.

Fritz said the matchup will not be easy.

"It's a very difficult draw," she said. "I think fourth place in the Big 12 should have gotten us, I don't want to say an easier seed, but I think we deserve a little better opportunity."

Junior outside hitter Sandy Werner, who logged 363 kills and 10 aces this season, said the team's morale is high going into the game.

"Our team is excited to go down there," she said. "Florida A&M is a great team, and they've won a lot of games. We're ready to play."

Sophomore setter Stacey Spiegelberg,

who had 202 digs and 128 kills this season, said she's looking forward to facing the Rattlers.

"We're really looking forward to getting a chance to go to Florida and play," she said. "They are a great team with a great record. We're going to go in there and do the best we can. We're on a mission."

Last year in postseason play, the Wildcats beat Cal State Northridge 3-0 before being swept by No. 8 Southern California.

Fritz said, this year, she is just looking forward to having a good experience in Florida.

"I think we have a lot of confidence right now because we are starting to play our best volleyball," she said. "I think we like the fact that we get an opportunity. I don't know if it's a good opportunity or a bad opportunity; that's yet to be seen."

1-MINUTE DRILL

Staff Reports

CFB | Leavitt agrees

to contract extension at USF

Jim Leavitt, an assumed candidate for the vacant coaching position at K-State and the only coach in the 10-year history of South Florida football, agreed to a contract extension through 2012, South Florida Director of intercollegiate Athletics Doug Woolard announced Wednesday.

The new terms begin Jan. 1, 2006, replacing Leavitt's current contract that ran through 2009.

The base salary plus compensation for radio, television and appearances will average $1 million per year over the length of the contract. The annual salary in 2006 will be $600,000 with an escalation each year thereafter.

Leavitt

The Associated Press

MLB | White Sox, Konerko agree to $60 million deal

CHICAGO — Paul Konerko decided to stay with the World Series champion Chicago White Sox, agreeing Wednesday to a $60 million, five-year contract.

The first baseman led the White Sox with 40 homers and 100 RBIs last season, hitting .283. He was MVP of the AL championship series win over the Los Angeles Angels after hitting two homers and seven RBIs. He had a go-ahead grand slam in Game 2 of the World Series sweep over Houston, the first Series title for the White Sox since 1917.

Konerko

MLB | Bonds to play

for U.S. in world classic

Barry Bonds plans to play for the U.S. team in the World Baseball Classic in March.

The San Francisco Giants slugger has told the players' association he'll play. The Oakland Tribune reported Wednesday.

"It's not official," agent Jeff Borris told the paper.

It's a promising sign for the Giants and Bonds, given that he played in only 14 games because of knee problems this season.

Bonds, a seven-time NL MVP, batted .286 (12-for-42) with five home runs and 10 RBI, drawing nine walks and striking out six times in 2005.

Bonds

HSF | Coach suspended

for cheating caught on tape

LOS ANGELES — An assistant high school football coach was suspended for at least a year after he was caught on videotape moving a field marker to help his team win, school officials said.

The videotape shows the coach, Paul Bryan, improperly moving the marker to help San Pedro High School gain a first down on a critical play late in an Oct. 28 game. San Pedro scored on the drive and won the game against Gardena High School, 13-12.

"That was a pretty blatant act," San Pedro High Principal Diana Gelb said Tuesday. "In order to set an example and not be looking over our shoulders next season, it was important to send out a clear message that San Pedro is a place of academic excellence, sportsmanship and ethics."

Bryan, who has coached at the school for 23 years, declined to comment on the disciplinary action. He said last week that he expected a two-game suspension.

CFB | Commander-In-Chief's trophy stolen from Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Before Navy can retain the Commander-In-Chief's Trophy by beating Army on Saturday, the Midshipmen will first have to find it.

The trophy, awarded annually to the winner of the football competition between the three major service academies, was stolen Monday night from the team locker room, Navy spokesman Scott Strassemeier said Wednesday.

Left in its place was a note that read: "Before we win the football game on Saturday, we thought we would take the trophy. By the time you read this, it will be halfway to West Point," home of the U.S. Military Academy.

THE EDGE

Thursday, Dec. 1, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

Artistic intensity

Teresa Johnson, graduate student in fine arts, wipes excess ink off a copper plate before making an intaglio print Wednesday night in Willard Hall. Johnson taught Photography in Art 1 for three hours and then worked on her own projects. Photos by Katie Lester | COLLEGIAN

Time-consuming projects keep art majors busy

By Brigitte Burandt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

While some think of majors like engineering and architecture as time-consuming, art students said their work takes a lot of time and effort as well.

Shay Dodson, senior in fine arts, said she spends between eight and 10 hours per week on her paintings and drawings, and sometimes another three to five hours at home.

"It varies depending on how large or time-consuming the projects are and obviously paintings take much longer to work on than drawings," Dodson said. "Individual pieces can take years to work on and sometimes they still aren't finished."

Including brainstorming, sketching and reading, Teresa Johnson, graduate student in fine arts, said she spends about 40 hours per week on her work. Lately, she said she's been spending as many as 60 hours per week.

Both graduate and undergraduate art students are required to display their work prior to graduation. In addition, graduate students are required to write a 10- to 20-page thesis paper on their work, as well as a final oral examination.

"As a grad student I tell people to plan on not sleeping and to forget about a life," Johnson said.

Johnson said she tries to enter two or three art shows a month, which can be expensive. She said there's usually about a $30 fee for entering an art show, but she has spent from nothing to $60.

"If you want to teach, it's important to enter shows," Johnson said.

Dodson, however, said she doesn't sell her work.

"I don't want to sell my work yet because I want to keep them for my portfolio and my BFA (bachelor of fine arts) show during my graduating semester," Dodson said.

Johnson usually trades one piece of artwork for another, she said.

"My work isn't really couch work. It's not usually something people want to buy," Johnson said.

The bachelor of fine arts degree requires students to take at least 75 credit hours in art, which includes five art history classes, 24 hours of core classes, major concentration classes and 15 hours of art electives.

The master of fine arts degree is a 60-hour program that takes about three years to complete.

Concentrations for the degree include art education, art history, ceramics, drawing, painting, sculpture and pre-art therapy.

Photography is also an option for the master of fine arts degree.

The art department at K-State also has several study abroad programs in various countries, including Italy, Great Britain and Scotland.

The program in Faenza, Italy, is a three-week summer program led by K-State instructor Anna Calluori Holcombe. The program takes place at the Istituto Statale d'Arte per la Ceramica, an internationally-known ceramics school.

The Norwich, England, program is an exchange program between K-State and the Norwich School of Art and Design, one of the top art colleges in Great Britain.

"Individual pieces can take years to work on and sometimes they still aren't finished"

Shay Dodson
STUDENT

Top: Teresa Johnson runs her copper plate through the printing press to create a finished piece. Johnson said she sometimes gets so busy that she forgets to eat. Bottom: Johnson peels her paper from the copper plate after printing to reveal an etching of a cross section of a seedless watermelon.

HOROSCOPES

Aquarius (Jan. 21 - Feb. 18)

Today you should sit down (someplace comfy) and ask yourself if you even care. You shouldn't. It's not your fault; you've been trying as hard as you can, so you shouldn't care. Not if they're going to act like that.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

You will be accosted today by several of those people who think only of themselves and who believe that "sharing" is something that little kids have to do. Despite this, I recommend against turning them over your knee and spanking them — unless you think you can get away with it.

Aries (March 21 - April 19)

A good time to learn to laugh at yourself. Or develop multiple personalities. That way you won't be laughing at you, you'll be laughing with you.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)

You will invent a cool machine that will automatically make more than 800 different varieties of coffee drinks. Unfortunately, everyone will go back to drinking just plain coffee.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

Your manager will be a twit, today. That's OK, though — it's what he's paid for.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22)

Today you will notice yet another large freshly-dug mound of dirt in your neighbor's back yard. It's probably nothing — he probably just digs at night if he can't get to sleep. I know I do.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Today you will begin a new hobby: collecting spores, molds and fungus. You will find it richly rewarding in a spiritual sense.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

You will tell a total stranger that you're "sick and tired of salad" today. The stranger will recoil in shock and horror.

Libra (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22)

Beware of midget bookies today. It's OK to get one of those tiny little poetry books though, if you feel you really must.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

You will sneak out tonight with a box of navel oranges under your arm and grinning an evil toothy grin. When you wake up tomorrow, you will remember nothing about it. That's just the way these things work.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

Relationships are a lot like tables. One leg is love, one is trust, one is shared pleasures, and one is shared dreams. Lasting relationships need all four legs for balance, to hold up the burden of your troubles. In your case, though, you'll never get rid of that irritating wobble.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20)

It's about time you became better acquainted with mustard. Get yourself seven different kinds of mustard, and try them with oven baked home fried potatoes, or in sandwiches with good bread and fresh vegetables and some excellent Swiss cheese. My granddaddy Stonebender always used to say, "Take a big enough bite of strong mustard, and your other problems will seem insignificant."

Source: Humorscope

BILLBOARD CHARTS

Top 20 singles:

1. Chris Brown, "Run It!"
2. Kanye West, "Gold Digger"
3. Black Eyed Peas, "My Humps"
4. Young Jeezy, "Soul Survivor"
5. Nickelback, "Photograph"
6. D4L, "Laffy Taffy"
7. Madonna, "Hung Up"
8. Sean Paul, "We Be Burnin'"
9. Kelly Clarkson, "Because of You"
10. The Pussycat Dolls, "Stickwitu"
11. Mariah Carey, "Don't Forget About Us"
12. T. PAIN, "I'm Sprung"
13. Three 6 Mafia, "Stay Fly"
14. Fall Out Boy, "Sugar, We're Goin Down"
15. Dem Franchise Boyz, "Jermaine Dupri, 'I Think They Like Me (Remix)'"
16. Ray J, "One Wish"
17. Trina Kelly Rowland, "Here We Go"
18. Mariah Carey, "Shake It Off"
19. Juelz Santana, "There It Go (The Whistle Song)"
20. 50 Cent "Get Rich Or Die Tryin'" Soundtrack, "Window Shopper"

Clarkson

Source: MTV.com

Homemade treats make thoughtful, fun gifts

By Kelly Schmitt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Candy and cookies are always welcome gifts from friends, especially the homemade variety. Peanut butter bars and glazed cinnamon bars are tasty treats that are also easy to prepare.

If making these delicious treats to give as gifts, slice into small, bite-sized squares.

Two options for "wrapping" are decorative plates with colorful plastic wrap, or a small colored box with tissue paper.

The peanut butter bars and the glazed cinnamon bars go well with coffee, hot tea or homemade eggnog.

Quick and easy homemade holiday gift recipes

Peanut butter bars

1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg
1 cup peanut butter
1 cup flour
1 cup oatmeal

Mix shortening, sugars, baking soda, salt and vanilla. Add remaining ingredients. Spread in a 9-inch by 13-inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes.

Glazed cinnamon bars

1 cup (2 sticks) margarine
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg (separate the yolk from the white)
1 3/4 cups flour
3 teaspoons cinnamon
1/2 cup powdered sugar

Combine margarine, sugar, egg yolk and salt. Beat until creamy. Stir in flour and cinnamon, mixing well. Batter will be thick. Spread in lightly greased 9-inch by 9-inch pan. Beat the egg white until foamy; stir in powdered sugar. Brush the sugar mixture over the batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Cut into bars while hot.

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Sophomore forward Serge Afeli dives for a loose ball during the first half Wednesday night against Cal State Fullerton. K-State outscored the Titans 46-31 in the second half to win and improve their record to 4-0.

K-State's defense holds Cal State Fullerton in check

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For the fourth consecutive game, the K-State men's basketball team came away victorious.

In each game, the Wildcats' suffocating defense was a decisive factor.

With Wednesday's 84-59 win over Cal State Fullerton, K-State (4-0) has kept its opponents to 59 points or less in all four games this season.

Entering the game, Cal State Fullerton (3-1) was averaging 85 points per game, but the Wildcats held the Titans to 33 points with 15 minutes remaining in the second half.

Coach Jim Wooldridge said he did not expect to keep the Titans under 60 points.

"I thought we had to play very well to keep this team in the low 60s," Wooldridge said. "The high 50s, I certainly didn't anticipate that."

The Titans, who led the Big

West Conference in scoring a year ago, were 21-of-58 from the field for a 36.2 shooting percentage.

Cal State Fullerton's two leading scorers, Jamaal Brown and Bobby Brown — who each averaged more than 17 points per game entering Saturday — were held in check for most of the night.

Bobby Brown shot 6-for-21 and scored 14 points, while Jamaal Brown scored his first basket with 17:12 remaining in the second half.

"We didn't let the two Brown guys get going early, and I thought that was key to the game," Wooldridge said. "(Jamaal Brown) wasn't able to get loose on some cross screens that they like to do."

"(Bobby) Brown is one of the fastest guards I've seen. At times, you saw a little bit of that out here, but for the most part, we kind of had him corralled."

Another priority for K-State, Wooldridge said, was rebounding, particularly on the defensive end.

Cal State Fullerton was ranked third in the nation entering Wednesday's game with an average of 50.7 rebounds per game.

K-State kept Cal State Fullerton off the glass, however, as the Titans could only manage 10 offensive rebounds and 31 total.

"We made an emphasis of out-rebounding them," junior guard Cartier Martin said. "They send four guys for the offensive rebounds, and they like to try and get put backs."

K-State's defense also forced 14 turnovers and scored 14 points off those turnovers.

By contrast, K-State gave up no points off the nine turnovers it committed.

"We just played solid," junior guard Lance Harris said. "They scored a lot of points in other games in transition, but we wanted to get down the floor and make sure they take tough shots."

COLUMN | Wooldridge needs to get to postseason

Continued from Page 6

Monday after he averaged 16.5 points and 6.0 rebounds in the Wildcats' victories over New Mexico and Stephen F. Austin last week.

The more time this team spends on the court together in games, the better it will become. K-State is already 4-0 this season.

If the Wildcats do not make it to a postseason tournament this year, then the powers-that-be need to start looking for a new coach.

They are searching for a new football coach as it is, so they might as well grab a basketball coach while they are at it and kill two birds with one stone.

Jim Wooldridge is currently in his sixth season as coach of the K-State men's basketball team.

He is ninth on the all-time winningest coaches list at K-State with his 51-65 record.

All eight coaches ahead of him except for one had one thing in common; they all had winning records.

Last season was the first team Wooldridge has coached at K-State that ended the season with a winning record, and the team has improved its overall record every year since he has been here.

If that holds true, then this year's team will be better than its 17-12 mark from a year ago.

Frankly, K-State should be better.

This team actually has a legitimate shot of making the NCAA tournament and making a run for the Big 12 championship.

How sweet would it be if K-State beat Kansas in the championship game of the Big 12 Tournament?

I miss those days when this school was celebrating Big 12 championships, and hopefully the men's basketball team can bring back some of the aura that K-State once had.

If K-State cannot at least make it to the NIT — well, it was nice knowing you, Jim.

Cedrique Flemming is a junior in print journalism and business. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

Dietz leads way for Wildcats

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It didn't take much scoring for K-State to push its record to 4-0 overall with its 78-30 home win over Delaware State Wednesday night.

The Lady Hornets finished with 12 points in the first half, shooting 16 percent from the field.

Sophomore guard Kimberly Dietz finished with eight points, knocked in two 3-pointers and served up two assists for the Wildcats.

Dietz led the way for the Wildcats, scoring a game-high 18 points, the same number the Lady Hornets scored in the second half. Dietz finished the night 3-of-9 from behind the 3-point arc.

Dietz, along with fellow returners Claire Coggins and Twigg McIntyre, and freshman JoAnn Hamlin, are the only players to score in double figures in at least two games this season.

"I try to go out there every day and do my best, but you can expect this from everyone on our team. We have great depth," Dietz said.

Relegated to the bench a majority of her freshman year, Dietz is the Wildcats' third leading scorer this season, averaging more than 12 points a game.

She is second in the Big 12 Conference in assist-to-turnover ratio, tied for first in made 3-pointers and fifth in the conference in 3-point shooting percentage, knocking down 45 percent of her shots from behind

Sophomore guard Kimberly Dietz dribbles around Delaware State's Tyrone Lushy Wednesday evening at Bramlage Coliseum. Dietz scored 18 points to help the Wildcats to a 78-30 victory over the Lady Hornets.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

the arc this season.

"She's going to be a huge player for our team this year, and she knows that she has to step up and she is doing what she does best," Coggins said about Dietz's play this year.

In a 100-71 win over Wyoming last week, Dietz led the Wildcats with a career-high 23 points on 8-of-14 shooting from the field, and knocked down a career-high five 3-pointers.

Coach Deb Patterson said the Wildcats expected Dietz to be productive coming into the season after Dietz spent most her first year on the sideline.

"We were really hopeful and felt real positive about Kimberly headed into the fall," Patterson said. "We told her that she was capable of playing a major role and being a major contributor, and she really stepped up to the plate and has really answered that challenge, so to speak, and expectations."

WOMEN | Delaware State held to just 30 percent shooting

Continued from Page 6

12, and K-State answered with an 11-0 run, fueled by five players, to finish the first half at 35-12. At the end of the first 20 minutes, 10 Wildcats had scored.

"Everybody's getting in and contributing," said McIntyre, who finished with 11 points. "I feel so good about this team. We've got so many combinations, I don't even know who's out there with me."

The second half started out sluggish, but K-State slowly gained momentum and with 14 minutes left, went on a 34-9 run, ignited by nine players. Delaware State shot just 30.4 percent from the field.

Solid defense, consistent offense and a few fast breaks allowed the Cats to keep a comfortable distance over the Lady Hornets, Patterson said.

"We did a better job of containing penetration tonight than we have at any point during the season," Patterson said. "Offensively, I thought we did a nice job of getting our transition game to the next level and converting on most of our transition opportunities — that's another sign of improvement."

Freshman Marlies Gipson, who has traditionally been a defensive threat for the Wildcats, showed her ability to play on both sides of the ball for the Cats, scoring a career-high 11 points and team-high five rebounds.

The game put a smile on her face, she said.

"It was an exciting win," Gipson said. In the second half we went on that run and that was a lot of fun — dishing to everyone, making the extra pass."

Over the last three games,

K-State has combined for 51 percent shooting from the field, a feat never accomplished last year.

"Personally, I am not surprised, but I think other people around us are surprised," McIntyre said. "Our opponents, our fans, the media didn't have us picked to do as well as we've been doing. I think we're going to surprise a lot of people."

$150

In Concert Dec. 7th
David Boland
Tickets on sale now

LONGHORNS

SALOON

1115 Moro Aggieville 776-8770 Manhattan

Check out these

BIG ASS SAVINGS

20" 1-topping
770-3333 $10.99
or 2 for $21.99
GUMBY'S Pizza •Fast Late Night Delivery•

Part-time job. Full-time college.

We'll help you get your college degree. The Army National Guard offers you the Montgomery GI Bill, Tuition Assistance as well as extra state benefits. Most Guard members serve one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Go to college and still have time for a life. In the Army National Guard, YOU CAN!

1-800-GO-GUARD • www.1-800-GO-GUARD.com

RAMBLERS

Every Thursday night is Steak Night

$8.95

12oz USDA Top Sirloin with all the trimmings

$17.45

Couples Dinner-2 complete dinners

$17.95

All Domestic Bottles

8711 E Hwy 24 (785) 539-4989

More Shoes, More Service, More Friendly

A steady throb of versatility, adaptability & performance. Delivers instinctive reaction to hard use and varying, multi-sport demands.

Brown's SHOE

New Business Hours • Mon.-Sat. 9 AM - 6 PM
311 Poyntz Ave. • 776-6612 • Downtown Manhattan

GTM SPORTSWEAR

Associate Sales Representative

Additional growth has propelled GTM Sportswear to seek out four additional associate sales reps. As an associate rep, you spend approx. 30 hours per week in customer service and the balance of the week learning how to become inside sales rep. Our goal is for you to grow into the inside rep ($30,000+) position within 6-9 mos. Starting associate wage is $9/hr plus benefits and profit sharing. Candidates need a college degree and/or have two years sales or customer service experience. You need to be organized and enjoy developing relationships. A background in education or coaching is also a plus, as you are selling our customized apparel to teams and groups all across the U.S.A. For more info contact GTM, Sportswear, 520 McCall Rd. Manhattan, KS. 66502 or e-mail klindsay@igtm.com.

Crossing your fingers won't help...

Emergency contraception can prevent pregnancy if taken within 72 hours of unprotected sex

A prescription is required. Contact your healthcare provider or local health department.

Call the National Hotline 1-800-452-4624

www.not2late.com

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Thursday, Dec. 1, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGEIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

826 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square
feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities.
NO PETS. January
lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom.
Available January 1. Close
to campus. Washer/dryer.
1704 Fairview. (785)317-
7713.

DUPLEX, CLOSE to campus.
Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st.
(785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-
1975, (785)313-8296.

ONE AND two-bedroom
apartment. Next to campus.
Very nice. Clean, quiet. Washer/dryer. No pets. (785)537-7099.

ONE-BEDROOM APART-
MENT. Close to campus.
Water/ trash/ gas paid. No pets, no smoking. Off-street parking. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-
$490, three-bedrooms
$700-$825. (785)537-7701.

STUDIO, CLOSE to campus. No pets. $300.
(785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOMS
AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid.
Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810,
(785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM AT 1209
Clafin Road. One block
from campus. $600/ month.
January 1st lease. Washer/
dryer. Off-street parking.
(785)341-6972.

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE.
Central air. Pets ok. Large fenced yard. Available December. (785)317-7713.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath duplex. One-half mile from campus. Washer/ dryer included. Single property owner. No pets. No smoking. 1410 Houston Number
Two. (785)776-9260.

LOOK BRAND New
House 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

RENT NEGOTIABLE:
Three-bedroom, two bath,
one-half duplex. Immaculate and spacious. All appliances included. Walk to Aggieville. (785)565-2432.

145
Roommate
Wanted

JANUARY- AUGUST:
Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Philip (913)302-0402.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets.
(785)537-7050.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for
two-bedroom apartment.
Very clean, nice, quiet.
great landlords, available
now. Call Nicole (913)220-5854.

ROOMMATE WANTED for
two-bedroom apartment.
$245/ month. Available early- mid December. Water, trash, and cable paid. Call (316)288-6346.

150
Sublease

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer,
large yard, one-third utilities.
Call James (785)317-5006.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED:
Two-bedroom apartment
with washer and dryer. One block from campus/ Water and trash paid. Cheap rent for location! Call (316)288-9629.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No
smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking.
Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATES
needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

MALE ROOMMATE needed
for large two-bedroom, one bath, apartment in Westchester Park, tennis, fitness center, available now, Tyler,
(785)539-8773.

ONE ROOMMATE needed
for four-bedroom house.
1811 Elaine Drive. Close to campus. Starting January.
(316)209-1084.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for one-bedroom in a two-bedroom apartment. $250/ per month with utilities included.
(913)980-9881.

ROOMMATE NEEDED!
Nice apartment, great location, fun roommates. Call Michelle at (785)456-5040
for more information.

ROOMMATE NEEDED:
Male or female. Nice house
with backyard adjacent to campus. Available January
1. Call Andrea (785)341-
2181.

WALK to class. No smoking,
no drinking, no pets.
(785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

FEMALE ROOMMATE
wanted. Two-bedroom apartment. January to June lease. $235 a month. Contact LeAnne (316)734-0846
or Erin (785)737-3144.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
needed for two-bedroom,
two bathroom brand new apartment, close to campus.
Available mid-December to June or August. Washer/
dryer, dishwasher and garbage disposal. Call Jamie at (316)250-2780.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
wanted. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath, one-half utilities. Available mid-December. Rent negotiable.
Call Tawny (316)706-7787.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300 plus one-third utilities. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

FEMALES NEEDED for four-bedroom, two bath,
close to campus. Washer/dryer. Lease from January to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

MALE SUBLEASER January-
May. $250/ month, nice house close to campus. Call (785)302-0098.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted.
One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $200/month or best offer plus utilities. Available after finals.
(913)636-6686.

NEAT FEMALE roommate
wanted mid-December- July.
Close to campus. $245
monthly plus one-fourth bills. Call Joan (316)640-
5080 or Janessa (316)204-4910.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/furnished. January 1, at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE
Manhattan Apartments
available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath
apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. $450/month. Call Caroline,
(785)564-1284.

SUBLEASER NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Valtier.
$250/ month, water, trash,
cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore
Lane. Available at end of
December until end of July.
Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Female roommate wanted for spring semester. Nice house with washer/ dryer. Flexible on rent and dates. Call (316)304-2201.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. One-bedroom apartment.
Available December 12-
May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-
MENT. $400/ month at 1026
Bertrand, upper apartment.
From January through May.
If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

ROOMMATE WANTED.
$350, one-half utilities, Scott
(785)341-5153.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASER NEEDED:
Two-bedroom apartment
Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/month. Call (316)210-1164
or (316)993-0214.

TWO-BEDROOM SPA-
CIOUS apartment sublease
January 1- May 31. $285/
person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

200
service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson,
Topeka, KS 66607-1190.
(785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance
4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City
Hall, (785)587-2441.

BARTENDING! $300 a day
potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext.
144.

BOWINKLES: NOW hiring
for wait staff and bartenders.
Come to 3043 Anderson to apply.

COACHES: USD 378, Riley
County is accepting applications for Middle School Boys Basketball coaches (one or two). Please contact Becky
Pultz at bpultz@usd378.org
with mailing address or (785)485-4000 as soon as possible.

FULL-TIME SUMMER work.
Open to all majors. I will take five more students to help me run my own business. Average earns $800/work. Contact (785)317-0455.

GET PAID to drive a brand
new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month.
Pick up your free car key to-
day.
www.freecarkey.com

GRADUATE RESEARCH
Assistant (GRA) to serve as
a UNIX Technical Support
Programmer in the K-State
Information Systems office.
Assist lead applications developer with UNIX programming tasks. A high level understanding of Sun Solaris
(UNIX) Operating Systems
and thorough understanding of UNIX and/or Perl scripts
are required. This is a year around student opportunity.
Contact John Streeter at (785)532-4758 or as jws@k-state.edu, or come by 2323
Anderson Ave., Suite 215 to apply. Application deadline is Friday, December 2,
2005. Equal Opportunity
Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. Civic-
Plus is the nation's leader
in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills.
Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format.
Equal Opportunity Employer.

PITA PIT delivery drivers needed. Shifts available 5 pm- 11 pm and 11pm- 4
am. Duties include greeting customers, making pitas,
general cleaning, food preparation and delivering pitas.
Must be a team player and willing to work in a fast-paced fun environment. Pick up application at The Pita
Pit, 1131 Moro.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAY-GROUND Supervisors-
Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005- 2006 school year.
$6.50 per hour, one and one-half- two hours per day.
11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply
to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz
Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502.
(785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

310
Help Wanted

KANSAS STATE UNIVER-SITY Information Systems
Office Associate Director,
Database Management
Services. Kansas State University is seeking a senior technical manager in its Information Systems Office to be responsible for visioning,
planning and managing all facets of database management services for the university. Minimum requirements include: (1) a Bachelor's degree in Computer
Science, Information Systems, Software Engineering,
Computer Engineering, or other appropriately related technical field; (2) seven years experience in progressively responsible positions
in a major information systems organization, to include 5 years in a highly technical hands-on role in enterprise computing environments involving the administration of enterprise
database and applications servers; (3) two years technical leadership and/or direct supervision experience involving responsibility for evaluating technical staff
performance is required; and (4) in-depth technical knowledge of Oracle 9i and 10g database management
and applications server
software. A detailed position description is available at www.ksu.edu/isso/employment. Salary is negotiable based upon qualifications and experience. A letter of application describing qualifications for and expressing interest in the position, a professional resume, and a list of three professional references with complete contact information should be sent to: Search Committee-
Associate Director of Database Management Services,
Information Systems Office,
2323 Anderson Avenue,
Suite 215, Manhattan, KS
66502-2912 or submitted
electronically to iso@ksu.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2005 with applications continuing to be considered until the position is filled. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer. K-State actively seeks diversity among its employees. Paid for by
Kansas State University.

FAST COMPUTER repair.
Walk-in welcome. Lair
Gauche, (785)776-3302.

435 Computers

450
Pets and Supplies

30 GALLON fish tank with glass/ wood stand. $200. Almost brand new. (785)547-6531.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1994 BUICK Skylark, 160K
over 30 MPG. $950 or best offer. Runs good, dependable. (785)547-6531.

1997 JEEP Grand Cherokee
Laredo. Black, 4x4, air conditioning, CD, recently inspected, dealer maintained,
excellent condition. 80,500
miles. $5700. (847)452-0958.

2003 FORD Mustang GT
convertible. Leather, loaded.
35,000 miles. $15,000 or best offer. (785)632-5346.

PROGRAMMER CIVIC-
PLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites.
Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/
hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format
to jobs@civicplus.com.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges
our readers to contact the
Better Business Bureau,
501 SE Jefferson, Topeka,
KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Quiznos SUB
MMMM...TOASTY!

su|do|ku

Fill in the grid so that every row,
every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9
with no repeats.

4	6	2						5
3	7				9			2
2			7	3
3			4	1	7
			8	2		5
1	5					2	6
7					9	5		1

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.
(with purchase of any size sub)

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.
CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.50
each word over 20
20c per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.95
each word over 20
25c per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.65
each word over 20
30c per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.90
each word over 20
35c per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40c per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103
(across from the
K-State Student Union).
Office hours are
Monday through Friday
from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
The office is open
except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be
paid in advance unless you have an account
with Student
Publications Inc.
Cash, check,
MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on
all returned checks.
We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly
classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we
run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in
your ad, please call us.
We accept responsibility only for the first
wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item
before your ad has expired, we will refund
you for the remaining days. You must call us
before noon the day
before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge,
we'll put a headline
above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

000 bulletin
board

100 housing/
real estate

200 service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

400 open market

500 transportation

600 travel/
trips

032
Shout
Outs

KATIE, SHUT your mouth!
You just shut your mouth!

HAVE A holly jolly Christmas it's the best time of the
year.....

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Ked-zie Hall, $2 for up to 20
words.

LETS ALL have another red bull and vodka!

DEFINITION of dead
week- a week for students to study for finals without the interruption of assignments due to professors.

I FOUND my wife on www.facebook.com. Thank you facebook! The world is a better place with you in it!

RYAN, CAN I please have your babies? Please?

I'M 100% in love with my chemistry professor and can't find him on facebook.
all hope is now lost.

NEED AN assasin? A date?
Maybe just a friend? Looking for a relative? Check out facebook.com for all your needs.

SNOW! SNOW! I love the snow!!

000 bulletin
board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State
Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates.
Call (785)776-1744.
www.ksu.edu/ksfc

LAN GAME where everyone can hear you scream. $10 for all day Parties by appointment. Twenty-four stations. Our computers or yours. Lair Gauche in Westboop.

www.bobbys.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website.
Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND. CAR keys in front of Bob Dole Hall Saturday.
Call (785)532-7041 or stop by Bob Dole Hall to claim.

LOST: EASY up portable shade, and folding camp table, at Griffith and Tuttle Creek Blvd. Reward.
(785)539-1008.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's

OFFENDERS | Legislation would require relocation

Continued from Page 1

similar laws, Mays said he is not aware if child sex offenders' recidivism rates are reduced when offenders are moved out of safety zones. He said he assumes the legislation works or it would not continue to be adopted by other states.

During the drafting of the legislation, Mays never met with professionals who work with sex offenders, although he did meet with victims and victims' groups.

Many questions about the legislation remain, including how long offenders will have to relocate and how offenders will be notified when a new school or daycare opens. But Mays said these questions will be answered when the legislation reaches committee.

"I think the legislation is fine," said Andrew Latham, junior in art, whose wife is expecting their first child. "But why couldn't they add something to the legislation that after 15 to 20 years an offender who hasn't reoffended can remain in their home?"

Offenders required to sell their homes or break a lease would not have the costs subsidized by the state; the entire financial burden of moving offenders from their homes would fall solely on the offenders. Offenders who cannot afford to move will be charged with a felony and sentenced to 22 to 46 months in prison.

"There should be some compensation offenders that are required to move," Latham said. "It cost me and my wife over $600 when we moved, and we don't have that much to move."

In Kansas, sex offenders are required to register with the sheriff's office where they live.

The Kansas Bureau of Investigation receives this information and posts information on all sex offenders committing offenses after April 14, 1994, on its Web site.

The Kansas Supreme Court ruled that offenders who committed offenses prior to 1994 cannot be listed on the Web site, but Mays said he is looking into legislation that would require offenders that committed sex offenses in the 1980s also be listed.

Offenders who fail to register would also face stiffer penalties. The current penalty for failing to register is five to 13 months, but the penalty would increase to up to 46 months and require jail time.

Requiring sex offenders to renew their driving licenses annually is another part of Mays' legislation, which he hopes will aid the KBI with offender registry.

"You can't rehabilitate pedophiles. It doesn't work," Mays said. "You separate them from the children or you confine them."

But Rathbun said messages from society that offenders can't be helped would be dispiriting to them.

"If I did tell them that and they heard from society that they can't be helped, you can't ever change and learn to manage your lifestyle, then what would be the motivation to work hard at it?" Rathbun said. "The message would be 'I will always have this; I will never be able to manage this.'"

AT-HOME TESTS | Testing, counseling available

Continued from Page 1

approved for use with oral fluid samples in detecting antibodies to HIV-1 in March 2004. HIV-1 is the most common form of the virus in the United States.

OraSure Technologies Inc., of Bethlehem, Pa., sells the test kit for about $17 to clinics and doctors. Results are available in 20 minutes, and the company claims results are 99 percent accurate, according to CNN.

Lafayette Health Center offers HIV testing and follow-up counseling for $27. If a person tests HIV positive with a saliva test, a blood test is then used to confirm the results, Kennedy said.

"A major thing in counseling is telling the person how he or she can prevent passing the virus on to others," she said.

Bradley Matlack, junior in mechanical engineering, said he would want a friend to be tested in a doctor's office.

"It would be better to be around doctors and nurses," Matlack said. "That way he or she could get help instead of hiding it if he or she tested positive."

SHAPE | Free HIV screening offers results in 1 week

Continued from Page 1

department will perform a confirmatory test in the laboratory.

Blood tests are more accurate, Hart said, and only give a false negative to one to two people out of every 100 who are tested. OraSure gives a false negative to two to three people out of every 100 tested.

This margin of error is due to a three-month window after infection in which HIV antibodies will not show up in a test, but can be transmitted, Hart said.

Results of the tests are available in about a week, but are only given in person at the health department.

Hart said behaviors that put a person at high risk for contracting HIV include sexual intercourse, oral sex, breast feeding, pregnancy and intravenous drug use.

"Anytime you have sex, you're at risk," she said. "Oral sex also."

Hart said she discusses the risk factors and ways to avoid them with students who come in for tests.

"Anyone having sexual intercourse should be using condoms unless it's that one partner and they're trying for a pregnancy," she said.

dependable, quality service
We deliver A+ service with a smile.
Claflin Books and Copies

Get your own SHOUT OUT for just $2!

(20 words or less)

Come to 103 Kedzie or call 532-6555

"Can I Have It Like That?"

Bling your ring with the HOTTEST gear for your phone.

Do Your Thing at www.your-thing.com

Ringtones Text code to 386

Title	Text Code
My Humps - Black Eyed Peas	181001
Hustler's Ambition - 50 Cent	181002
Stay Fly - Fall Out Boy	181003
Run It! - Chris Brown	181004
Here We Go Again (feat. Kelly Rowland) - Trina	181005
We Be Burnin' (Legalize It) - Sean Paul	181006
I'm Sprung - T-Pain	181007
Girl Tonite (feat. Trey Songz) - Twista	181008
Don't Cha - Pussycat Dolls	181009
Play - David Banner	181010
I'm a King (feat. T.I. and Lil' Scrappy) - P$C	181011
Reggaeton Latino - Don Omar	181011
Sugar, We're Going Down - Fall Out Boy	181012
Soul Survivor - Young Jeezy	181013
Gold Digger - Kanye West	181014
Presidential - Youngbloodz	181015
Hung Up (I Can't Keep Waiting For You) - Madonna	181016
Welcome to Jamrock - Damian Marley	181017
Jesus of Suburbia - Green Day	181018
Lighters Up - Lil' Kim	181019
Back Then - Mike Jones	181020
Back in Black - AC/DC	181021
Shake It Off - Mariah Carey	181022
Stewie's Sexy Party - Family Guy	181023
Slow Wind - R. Kelly	181024
I'm N Luv (Wit a Stripper) - T-Pain	181025
My Hood - Young Jeezy	181027
Feel Good Inc. - Gorillaz	181028
Bad B*tch - Webbie	181029
Because I Got High - Afroman	181030

Order Now, Right From Your Phone!

Type in the 6-digit code and text it to 386. A link to your purchase will be sent to your msg inbox! Supported carriers: Cingular.

Save 20% with the Ringtone 3 PACK HOOKUP
Sometimes One Just Isn't Enough!

Get 3 new real music ringtones every month for just $5.99. Text HOOKUP to 7225 to SUBSCRIBE NOW

Games & Apps Text code to 386

 181040	 181041	 181042	 181043	 181044	 181045
 181047	 181048	 181050	 181051	 181052	 181053
 181054	 181055	 181056	 181057	 181058	 181059
 181060	 181061	 181062	 181063	 181065	 181066

Graphics Text code to 386

 181083	 181084	 181085	 181086	 181087
 181088	 181089	 181095

© 2005 Cingular Wireless LLC. All rights reserved. Cingular Wireless LLC is a trademark of Cingular Wireless LLC. All other trademarks are the property of their respective owners. Ringtone codes are 6-digit numbers. Text code to 386. A link to your purchase will be sent to your msg inbox. Supported carriers: Cingular. Games & Apps starting at $5.99. Graphics starting at $1.99.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Friday, December 2, 2005

INSIDE

Hobbies allow students to relieve stress

Sub. Exp. Date: 12/10/05
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Venables, Leavitt drop out of K-State coaching search

Staff Reports
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Two of the men mentioned prominently in speculation about a successor to K-State former football coach Bill Snyder have decided to stay put in their present jobs, while what many considered a dark horse has emerged as a leading candidate.

South Florida coach Jim Leavitt agreed Wednesday to an extension of his contract there, and former K-State assistant Brent Venables announced he wanted to remain Oklahoma's defensive coordinator. Venables had initially indicated interest in the job, but he told The Daily Oklahoman that he had not been contacted by K-State and would not consider the opening.

"I enjoy what I'm doing," Venables said. "Right now for me, it's not something that I want to pursue. I enjoy too much what we're doing, and I think the future is good here."

Considered front-runners by many to succeed Snyder, Leavitt and Venables gave way Thursday to Virginia assistant coach Ron Prince, who reportedly met athletics director Tim Weiser and President Jon Wefald at a Topeka hotel.

Prince, the offensive coordinator at Virginia, grew up in Junction City and attended Dodge City Community College from 1988-89. He went on to play at Appalachian State before returning to Dodge City Community College as a volunteer assistant coach in 1992.

He has no head coaching experience and has

Prince

Leavitt

Venables

never worked under Snyder, two qualities Weiser had indicated were important in potential candidates. His only Division I experience is at Virginia, where he has been since 2001.

While attending K-State's men's and women's basketball games on Wednesday, Weiser said more than 100 people had contacted him about the coaching vacancy, but that no offers have been made. He didn't anticipate offering the job to someone in the immediate future, but said a timetable could be clear by early next week.

"Visiting with candidates is a central part of the process," he said. "We'll get into that at the appropriate stage."

The Kansas City Star said Thursday that two sources had indicated Phil Bennett, a former K-State assistant who is now head coach at SMU, also remains among the leading candidates. Assistant coaches Del Miller and Dana Dimel have also

See FOOTBALL Page 10

SGA opposes Tax Payer Bill of Rights

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Student Senate approved a resolution Thursday night that opposed the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights, an amendment to the state constitution that will be considered by the Kansas legislature.

The resolution was coauthored by 58 senators but passed by a vote of 50-1-0 due to absences.

The one dissenting vote belonged to arts and sciences senator Josh Hersh, sophomore in speech. Hersh had expressed concern before the vote that the resolution focused too much of its reasoning on the effect of similar legislation passed in Colorado in 1992.

Student body president Michael Burns said Colorado has had its TABOR in effect since 1993. He said it caps the state's ability to gain revenue by way of a formula based on population growth and the consumer price index.

When certain parameters of the population and the CPI are met, the amount of funds the state can get from taxes are limited. Burns said the CPI is based on consumer products that are an unfair comparison to school funding.

"The inflation we're exposed to in a higher education system or a social service system is much higher," he said.

The legislation included information Burns said came from a study by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities that researched what would have happened in Kansas had it adopted TABOR at the same time as Colorado. It said higher education spending would have dropped by $76 million in the first year.

The resolution said that to compensate for the change, all the state universities in Kansas would have to fire a combined 1,200 faculty, charge each student an additional $1,400 in tuition or cut out half of the budget for K-State Research and Extension. Burns added that another possible option would be to eliminate Wichita State University.

The senate also approved Tanner Banion, junior in political science, as elections commissioner and allotted $4,725 in funds for campus organizations for the 2006 fiscal year.

A gamble?

3 Kansas counties compete to have first commercial casino

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sin City might be one step closer to Kansas, as three counties brawl over rights to the first Kansas commercial casino.

Within the next few weeks, people in these counties — Harvey, Marion and Sumner — will ask their city officials and residents to vote on the proposal, which was introduced by Foxwoods Resort Company more than a year ago.

The project was initially tailored for Park City, Kan., but immediately after Sedgwick County Commissioners denied the Park City casino, Sumner County officials jumped at the business opportunity.

Officials say Foxwoods Resort Company plans to select the $300 million casino location soon.

Harvey County Clerk and Election Officer Joyce Trussett warns that even if there is area overwhelming support of a casino, there are several steps that must happen before a casino can be brought to the state.

"Some people seem to feel like if they vote 'yes,' we will get the casino," Trussett said. "This is simply a way to garner support for the issue, and our commissioners gave us the right to have a voice in that. But, ultimately that decision lies with the legislature and the promoters of this casino project."

Project hopefuls aim to get legislatures to add commercial casino legislation to this spring's agenda.

Different features of the site include a 300-room 12-story hotel, water park, an event center and parking garage, said Dennis Smith, of Law/Kingdon Inc., the architecture firm for the project. The site is designed to take 60 to 100 acres and will allow access from the parking garage to the event center, allowing people to avoid the casino area.

If approved, a Foxwoods Resort Company casino would bring in nearly 1,500 to 2,500 jobs that pay $12 to $15 an hour, said Bob Knight, representing the Iowa Tribe of Kansas and Nebraska last week. Foxwoods Resort Company runs "the largest most successful casino in the United States in Connecticut," said Shelly Hansel, Wellington chamber of commerce executive director.

"We just think with the (Sumner County) location on the south central border, we are by far the best location, even better than Wichita," Hansel said. "We believe in the old real estate motto: location, location, location."

See CASINO Page 10

Doctoral student inspires racial profiling class at Wichita State University

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A K-State doctoral student helped with the recent publication of a book, a dozen scholarly articles and inspired a course on racial profiling at Wichita State University.

Henry Jackson's personal encounter with racial profiling got him interested in the topic.

When Jackson played football at Fort Hays State University in the mid-1990s, he said he was twice pulled over by police and let go without a citation. He said he did not know if racial profiling, because he is black, was illegal or to whom to address his concerns.

"It is a phenomenon that I have personally experienced and it intrigued my interest," said Jackson, graduate student in sociology.

In 1999, Jackson approached Brian Withrow, associate professor of criminal justice at Wichita State, and asked him to act as his mentor in the university's Shadow a Scholar program. Jackson wanted to study racial profiling and eventually wrote a paper with Withrow on the topic. It was one of about 24 chosen out of thousands to appear in the "National McNair Journal."

"No one had heard of the topic at WSU, and he got faculty members thinking about the topic," Withrow said. "He really was instrumental in helping us understand the dynamics of the issue of racial profiling."

Withrow said the term "racial profiling" was unknown in the United States until the height of the war on drugs in the mid-1990s. It was then that minorities began to question the use of drug courier profiles in police decision-making.

Jackson said his contributions to the research that sparked Withrow's book, "Racial Profiling," were indirect. He gained a better sense of the personal experiences minorities have with racial profiling through a focus group he and Withrow facilitated at Wichita State.

The two obtained a list of all minority students at Wichita State and mailed information about the focus group to about 300 students. Only seven people showed up for the group, and they were all black men, Jackson said.

See JACKSON Page 10

Today

High 43
Low 24

Saturday

High 36
Low 18

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Class canceled

A spring class on creationism and intelligent design at the University of Kansas has been canceled and a professor won't teach it if it's offered again, the university said Thursday. One recent e-mail from professor Paul Mirecki sent to members of a student organization referred to religious conservatives as "fundies."

Hollinger trial

Former media baron Conrad Black pleaded not guilty to federal fraud charges Thursday in Chicago in connection with the alleged looting of more than $80 million from the Hollinger International Inc. newspaper empire he once controlled.

Voting violence

At least one person was killed and 60 were wounded after violence racked the final round of Egypt's troubled parliamentary elections Thursday. Although voting proceeded without violence or intimidation in some areas, voters were met at the polls by lines of police in towns where ruling party candidates faced stiff competition from the opposition.

DON'T FORGET

Virginia Naibo from the Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology will speak at 4:30 tonight in Cardwell 129 about estimates of solutions to the Schrodinger equation as a part of the Mathematics colloquium.

Comedian Tracy Morgan will perform at 7:30 tonight in the Union Ballroom. Tickets are $10 for students and $15 for non-students at the door. The performance is for mature audiences only.

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

- ACROSS
- 1 Tie up the phone
 - 4 Support system?
 - 7 Ovine remark
 - 12 Pussy-cat's partner
 - 13 Boat-house item
 - 14 Busybody
 - 15 E.T.'s craft
 - 16 Play
 - 18 Pair
 - 19 Put on a show
 - 20 Charitable donation
 - 22 Caustic solution
 - 23 Pumps up the volume
 - 27 West of Hollywood
 - 29 Canoe type
 - 31 Lucy's pal
 - 34 Oversentimental
 - 35 Affluence
 - 37 Feedbag morsel
 - 38 Bridge position
 - 39 Early hrs.
- DOWN
- 1 Edam alternative
 - 2 Very
 - 3 Flourish
 - 4 Employer
 - 5 Nursery toy
 - 6 Splendid setup
 - 7 Computer info unit
 - 8 Meadow
 - 9 H.S. subject
 - 10 Packed away
 - 11 Lid for a lad
 - 17 On in years
 - 21 Troullike fish
 - 23 Type size
 - 24 Swab the decks
 - 25 Litter member
 - 26 Pigs' digs
 - 28 Model Carol
 - 30 "Home of the brave"
 - 31 Ram's mate
 - 32 Afternoon social
 - 33 Is in control of
 - 36 Fair share, maybe
 - 37 Fish-eating hawk
 - 40 007 portrayer
 - 42 TV, newspapers, etc.
 - 43 O. Henry's specialty
 - 44 Nervous
 - 45 Cohort of Meredith and Joy
 - 46 Advantage
 - 48 Turf
 - 49 Word indexes ignore
 - 50 Snitch
 - 51 Beati-tudes verb

Solution time: 25 mins.

HEM SLEW DOTS
AGO AIRY INCH
MONALISA STOA
TWO ETCHING
PARENT TAP
ALE SUM TAMER
LEAP BOB NOME
ECLAT OAH NIP
YAM DEPOSITS
GOURMET CUR
ARGO MONETARY
DELL ODES IOU
SOIT SOWS LOP

Yesterday's answer 12-2

12-2 CRYPTOQUIP

UBZRZ GXBTXG TJ FNTDN
DWLG GSWL PZDSWBTXG
PBWR AXJXBZSTJA PWMV
GRXVVG: "VZF ZIU WUWB."
Yesterday's Cryptokuip: IF A MAN POSSESSED
REAL SUPERHUMAN STRENGTH, DO YOU
SUPPOSE HE MIGHT TRY SHOP LIFTING?
Today's Cryptokuip Clue: U equals D

BEST BETS

Your guide to the weekend's entertainment

1 | SNL Comedian

Comedian Tracy Morgan will perform at 7:30 tonight in the Union Ballroom. Advance tickets are available through Ticketmaster and are $8.50 plus service fees for students with K-State ID and $13.50 plus service fees for non-students. Tickets can also be purchased at the door for $10 with a student ID and $15 for non-students, plus service fees.

2 | Holiday Music Festival

Individuals from local schools, churches and the community will perform this weekend at Manhattan Town Center on the Santa Stage in the food court. Cadence a capella will perform at 2 p.m. Saturday, Manda Deegan's violin students at 6 p.m. and Chapman High School at 2 p.m. Sunday. Calendars of all performances until Dec. 17 are available at the stage or customer service. Mall hours are Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. Call 539-3500 or e-mail vanalles@urbanretail.com for more information.

3 | WinterDance

KSU dance students will perform at 8 tonight and 2 and 8 p.m. Saturday in Nichols Theatre. A professional guest artist will also perform. Tickets are $7.50 for students, $11.50 for the public and $9.50 for seniors. Call 532-6428 or visit www.ksu.edu/sctd.

4 | Rock Shows

Abileen and Two Cow Garage will be performing at 10 tonight at Auntie Mae's Parlor. Cover charge is $3 for ages 21 and over. Audio Spaghetti with Stuck on Broadway will perform at P.J.'s Bar, 1129 Laramie St., at 10 p.m. The Sound and the Fury with Sidewise, Stillborn will perform at 10 p.m. Saturday. Cover charge is $3 for ages 18 to 21 and $5 for 21 and over. Call Auntie Mae's Parlor, 614 N. 12th St., at 539-8508 or P.J.'s at 539-7055 for more information.

5 | Zoe Lewis

Award-winning songwriter Zoe Lewis will be playing at 3 and 8 p.m. Saturday at the Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave. There will be a kids show at 3 p.m. and a regular show at 8. Lewis plays a variety of instruments, including piano, guitar, ukulele and harmonica. Tickets are $12 for students and $15 for adults. Call 537-4420 or visit www.manhattanarts.org for more information.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Nov. 30

- Steven Mays, Junction City, was arrested at 9 a.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $500.
- Hope Rathke, 4620 Eureka Drive, was arrested at 4 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $270.
- Tyree Wells, Junction City, was arrested at 4:50 p.m. for theft, forgery and failure to appear. Bond was set at $6,500.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ The K-State Singers, Men's and Women's Glee Clubs and Cadence will perform their annual Sounds for the Season Holiday concert at 2 p.m. Sunday in All Faiths Chapel. Tickets are $4 for students and $6 for the general public. Tickets may be purchased beginning at 1:15 p.m. and doors open at 1:30 p.m.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.

© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

BOOK SIGNING

A BIOGRAPHY OF CHARLIE CHRISTIAN,
JAZZ GUITAR'S KING OF SWING

BY WAYNE E. GOINS
AND CRAIG R. MCKINNEY

DECEMBER 2, 2005, 7:00 - 8:00 p.m.
MANHATTAN ARTS CENTER

Light refreshments will be served.

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
pizza
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting &
adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

GLASS

QUALITY ETCHED
GLASS
Including New Choices!

KSU Paperweights, Boxes, Clocks
Bookends, Nameplates, Decanters
Glassware & Pendants $6 - $67

PUBLIC HOURS

Mon-Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5 • Sun 1-5
Glass Impressions • 329 Poyntz

Friday:
$1 CHEESEBURGER
& FRIES
DJ@10
Saturday:
CHILI COOK-OFF
starts at 2
FREE CHILI
Donations go to Flintheads Bread Basket
1127 Moro • 776-3593

PAT'S PAWN & GUN SHOP, INC.
WE BUY, SELL, AND TRADE
MON-FRI 9 a.m.- 6 p.m.
SAT 9 a.m.- 5 p.m.

GUNS
SMITH & WESSON
HANDGUNS • RIFLES
KIMBER RUGER
SHOTGUNS
506 Riley St • Ogden • 539-0151

Every Weekend!
Thursday, Friday, and
Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.

We Drive. You Ride. Every Weekend.
Call:

539-0480

A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association

Friday
$4.50
Hurricanes
Saturday
$4.50
Long Islands
Both Nights
$4.00
Pitchers
Open till 2am

Manhattan, KS
608 N. 12th
Aggieville

TSC
UPPER STAY DATE

Christmas
open house
1:00-5:30
❄️ Chocolate Fountain
1:00-3:00
❄️ 5:30 Drawing for Prizes
& Gifts to Downtown
Manhattan
Celebrate the Season!
STEVE'S FLORAL
302 Poyntz • Downtown Manhattan

Classroom experience prepares students for future careers

Rebecca Jones, senior in elementary education, helps seventh grader Kyle Speer at Eisenhower Middle School during a life science class. Jones has been a student teacher at the school since Aug. 18.

Catrina Rawson
COLLEGIAN

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Most of the more than 1,000 seniors rapidly approaching the end of their careers at K-State are preparing to begin careers in the real world.

For Jolene Goodheart, who received a career head-start through the student teaching program offered by the College of Education, commencement means it is time to prepare for her own classroom.

"I think that the education department has provided us a lot of fantastic tools and a lot of educational experience," said Goodheart, senior in mathematics education. "This has emphasized to me more that this is something that I want to do and am very excited to do."

Goodheart has been student teaching about 75 integrated algebra students at Wamego High School since Aug. 22. She has been teaching under the supervision of Sherrie Martini, with whom she requested to work after observing several teachers.

She has already been contracted to begin teaching seventh-grade math courses at Junction City Middle School next semester, and said Dec. 9, her last day of student teaching, will be sentimental.

"It will be hard to leave because I've worked really hard to build relationships with those students, and they're a great bunch of students," Goodheart said. "But I know I'll do the same thing at the next school and be very successful with those students also."

Rebecca Jones, who has been student teaching at Eisenhower Middle School since Aug. 18, said she shares these feelings.

"Just recently I had some students tell me that they were going to be sad that I was leaving, so that's sad," Jones, senior in elementary education, said. "And it's kind of scary to be starting over again with new kids."

Jones has been teaching life science to seventh-graders at Eisenhower Middle School, and will begin teaching biology to sophomores at Junction City High School next semester.

She has been teaching under Kathleen Jones and was placed at EMS by her adviser because the school is about the same size as the one she attended in her hometown, she said.

Student teaching is not a small commitment. Both Rebecca Jones and Goodheart work full school days, from about 7:30 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Student teachers work for about 17 weeks and are not paid, in accordance with state standards.

"It's definitely made me prepared," Goodheart said. "I didn't honestly realize there would be so much extra time put into student teaching."

Both Goodheart and Rebecca Jones exceed basic student teaching requirements by sponsoring various extracurricular activities and attending school functions.

In order to qualify for a student teacher position, students must have completed 90 hours with a minimum 2.5 grade point average. An additional series of 30 hours of course work is also required.

"All of the teaching field requirements in the arts and sciences major have to be pretty much completed," said Michael Perl, assistant dean of the College of Education.

The teachers with whom the students are stationed must have three years of teaching experience and be approved both by their school principal and the university.

Goodheart said that while the experience was sometimes challenging, she never doubted her career decision.

"The student teaching really just helped strengthen the skills that I have and better prepare," she said.

Award-winning acoustics performer to play in Manhattan Saturday for series

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

An award-winning acoustic artist will play in Manhattan Saturday.

Zoe Lewis, a singer and songwriter who plays several instruments, will play in two performances at the Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave.

Her concert will be a part of the Birdhouse Acoustic Music series, which has been bringing acoustic musicians to the arts center for the past 11 years.

Kamerer said Lewis plays eight instruments and performs music from just about every genre under the sun.

Lewis has won multiple awards for her work, including the Colorado Rocky Mountain Folks Festival Troubadour Award, Kamerer said.

Manhattan Arts Center Director Penny Senften said Lewis' music was "very uplifting."

Lewis performs with "The Rubber Band," composed of musicians Roxanne Layton, Kate Wolf and Sylvie Richard. Her Web site said the band plays with multiple unusual instruments, and that Layton is able to play the theme from "Titanic" through one of her nostrils.

Lewis will be performing a

Zoe Lewis

When: 3 and 8 p.m. Saturday

Where: Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave.

How Much: $5-$10 for afternoon show, $12-$15 for evening show children's show at 3 p.m. and a regular show at 8 p.m.

Tickets for the children's show are $5 for kids, $8 for students and $10 for adults.

Tickets for the evening show are $15 for adults and $12 for students.

Kamerer said the arts center is fortunate to get Lewis because she is about to go on tour with fellow musicians Judy Collins and Nanci Griffith.

He said her performance is appropriate for all ages and the wide range of music will be very pleasing to the audience.

"She moves effortlessly through style and genre throughout the night," Kamerer said.

The series was started in 1994.

It was established by David Kamerer, then a professor in journalism but now in the private sector; Steve Martini, associate director of Peters Recreation Complex; and Gretchen Holden, director of Disability Support Services for the Office of Student Life.

EYECARE ASSOCIATES OF MANHATTAN

Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jarrod M. Waite
Doctors of Optometry

• Most Insurance Accepted
• Walking Distance From Campus
• Outside Prescriptions Filled
• 98% Of Contact Lenses Fit Some Day

Proud Wichita supporter since 1958

(785) 776-9461 • 1-800-432-0036

Anderson Village • 1841 Anderson • Manhattan, KS 66502

EYECARE ASSOCIATES OF MANHATTAN

Dr. Paul E. Bullock
Dr. Jarrod M. Waite
Doctors of Optometry

Up To $30 OFF

On Disposable Contact Lens Programs
OR Complete Eyeglass Packages

Coupon must be presented at time of appointment.
Not valid with any other coupon or insurance discounts.

(785) 776-9461

Anderson Village • 1841 Anderson • Manhattan, KS 66502

GTM SPORTSWEAR

Associate Sales Representative

Additional growth has propelled GTM Sportswear to seek out four additional associate sales reps. As an associate rep, you spend approx. 30 hours per week in customer service and the balance of the week learning how to become inside sales rep. Our goal is for you to grow into the inside rep ($30,000+) position within 6-9 mos. Starting associate wage is $9/hr plus benefits and profit sharing. Candidates need a college degree and/or have two years sales or customer service experience. You need to be organized and enjoy developing relationships. A background in education or coaching is also a plus, as you are selling our customized apparel to teams and groups all across the U.S.A. For more info contact GTM, Sportswear, 520 McCall Rd. Manhattan, KS. 66502 or e-mail klindsay@gtm.com.

GUMBYS Pizza

702 N. 11th St. Aggieville
770-3333

We love BIG pie orders!

We can cater your party!

[The more you order, the more you save]

20" 1-topping as low as 75¢ a slice!

Let our pizza truck handle your big pie order!

*Must place order in Advance *Call & Ask for a manager!

Religion Directory

NEW HOPE community church

Pursuing relationships that change the world

WORSHIP SERVICE
9:00 & 10:45 AM

Small groups for men, women & married couples. College and Family Ministries. www.newhopeks.org

Location:
3905 Green Valley Rd.

First Presbyterian Church

9:15 a.m. Worship Service
9:15 a.m. Sunday School
10:30 a.m. Worship Service
5:00 p.m. Contemporary Service
6:00 p.m. Dinner for College Students

Rev. Anne Scheiber, Assoc. Pastor
Rev. R.C. McConnell, Pastor
801 Leavenworth • 537-0518
www.firstpresmanhattan.com

Journey Ministry

University Christian Church
2800 Claflin • 776-5440
(across from Taco Hut)
9:45 Contemporary Service
11:00 Breakfast and Bible Study
Chris Herrington • www.ucck.org

ADVERTISE YOUR CHURCH HERE
532-6560

Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Manhattan

481 Zeandale Road (South on K-177 across viaduct, left on K-18 1/2 mile)
Program Sunday at 10:45 a.m. Religious education classes for youth. Day care for toddlers. A Welcoming Congregation. For information call (785) 537-2349. Rev. Michael Nelson www.uufm.net

St. Luke's Lutheran Church

330 Sunset Avenue

Saturday-
Traditional Worship 6:00 p.m.

Sunday-
Traditional Worship 8:30 a.m.
College Bible Study 9:45 a.m.
Contemporary Worship 11:00 a.m.
Email: stlukes@linthills.com
(785) 539-2604

Grace Baptist Church

2901 Dickens - 2 blks. E. of Seth Child

♦ Sunday Worship ♦
8:15 & 10:45 a.m.

Bible Classes For All Ages 9:30 a.m.
Evening Service or Care Cells 6 p.m.
776-0424
www.gracechurch.org

Faith Evangelical Free Church

• Worship at 8:00, 10:30, 10:40, 12:00
• Sunday School at 9:15

Steve Kallif, Senior Pastor
Brian Anderson, Assoc. Pastor

1921 Barnes Rd
1.6 Miles North of Kimball

776-2086

Westview Community Church

Serving Christ, reaching people

Worship services 9:00 a.m. 10:45 a.m.
Sunday school 9:00 a.m.

Campus ministry director
Carol Buchheister - cbuch@juno.com

3001 Fort Riley Boulevard
www.westviewcommunity.com
785-537-7173

Neil Engle Pastor
776-8790

5th and Humboldt Courthouse Square

fccmanhattan.org

CrossRoads

1021 Denison Avenue
539-4281
ccm@ksu.edu
www.ksu.edu/ccm
David Jones, Pastor

Sundays 5:30pm
Table Fellowship (free food!)

Wednesdays 5:00pm
Bible Study

Thursdays 6:30pm
Fantasy and Spirituality

Explore • Discover • Belong • Serve

Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church

Established in 1879

401 Yuma Street
(1 BL North of Ft. Riley Blvd. at 4th Street)

Reverend Penny Pitchford
Pastor

(785) 539-5897 Church (785) 531-0973 Pastor
Sunday School 9:30 AM
Breakfast 10:30 AM
Worship Service 11:00 AM

"Enter To Worship, Depart To Serve"

All Welcome to Worship!
Sunday Evening 7pm. Danforth Chapel

New on Thursday Oct. 20
6pm. Meal & Dialog at Luther House
1745 Anderson
-SE Corner of Denison & Anderson-

Nov. 5-Walk Konza Trails

ELCA-If 1
313-3895

LUTHERAN CAMPUS MINISTRY

Come Worship With Us

1st Church of the Nazarene
3031 Kimball Ave.

9:30 Sunday School
10:40 Sunday Worship
7:00 Wed. Bible Study, Teens

Youth & College ministry opportunities
Senior Pastor: Pat Weyrauch
539-6376

Christian Science Society

Sunday 10:30 a.m.
Danforth Chapel
KSU Campus

Wed. 7:30 in Reading Room
Reading Room open Tues. Thurs. 11-1
105 N. 4th St.

St. Francis Episcopal Campus Ministry

at Kansas State University

Sunday worship at
St. Paul's Episcopal Church,
Sixth & Poyntz, Manhattan
785-776-9427

11:30 a.m. Contemporary Service
(followed by lunch for KSU students)

Monday, 5:30 pm. Supper & Conversation at St. Francis/Canterbury House,
1823 Laramie St.
Drew Vining, Program Coordinator 341-3221

First United Methodist Church

Worship at 8:30, 8:45 and 11:00

Come at 8:30 and 11:00 for more traditional worship with choirs and organ in our beautiful sanctuary.

Come at 8:45 for a BLENDED worship in our auditorium. Free doughnuts. 45 minutes long. Great band. COME AS YOU ARE!

Come at 9:45 for Sunday School in the auditorium. A special class for college students, relating the Bible to YOUR life.

JUST COME.

612 Poyntz, Manhattan Kansas
CAMPUS MINISTRY! Check out the website: ksu.edu/umcm

Christian Alpha

www.ksuchialpha.com

Wednesday 8:00 p.m. (KSU Little Theater)
Pastor Bryan Elliott

Sunday Services

Sunday School 9:00 a.m.
Morning Worship 10:15 a.m.
Evening Worship 6:00 p.m.

Nursery Provided for All Services

Rev. Todd Weston, Pastor
2310 Candlewood Dr. Manhattan, KS 66503
(785) 537-7633 www.manhattanag.org

Celebration Service

For Everyone! All ages and all people who want to worship God. Sundays at 5 p.m. Fellowship Meal at 6 for College Students

First Presbyterian Church
801 Leavenworth
Manhattan, KS 66502
785-537-0518

Pastor: R.C. McConnell
Associate Pastor: Anne Scheiber
Email: sta@firstpresmanhattan.com
www.firstpresmanhattan.com

"Sing to the Lord a new song, his praise from the ends of the earth..."
Baptist 12:10

TO THE POINT Casinos could bring income to small towns

For small towns in rural Kansas, growth can be difficult to come by. Thus, it is simply good economics to permit the building of casinos in these poorer areas.

Casinos would bring in hundreds, if not thousands, of jobs that, at worst, pay substantially more than minimum wage and, at best, offer more chances for promotion than the local Wal-Mart.

While small communities compete for the boon that casinos would bring, bureaucrats in Topeka imagine the woes that casinos would conjure. It seems local government is something to be avoided.

The blessing brought by casinos can be seen around the country. Once destitute Native American reservations now bicker about how to spend their financial surpluses. Where casinos lead, other restaurants, hotels and business have followed, bringing in jobs and money to the local communities. Finally, through the magic of casinos a dusty ditch a few miles into Nevada became the world-renowned tourist destination known as Las Vegas.

Casinos contribute money to local development, construction and education (which is more than can be said of our state legislators). They promote self-sufficiency in small communities.

If the people of Sumner, Harvey or Marion counties decide that casinos are something to be pursued, then Topeka should not move to hinder the communities' growth.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian
Kedzie 103
Manhattan, KS 66502
Display ads.....532-6560
Classified ads.....532-6555
Newsroom.....532-6556
news@pub.ksu.edu
Delivery problems.....532-6555

CLASH OF THE COLUMNISTS

Must see she TV

'Sex and the City' shows reality of modern single women's lives

When I think of the word "single," I associate it with going out and having a good time. But I wonder if in 10 or even five years I will still carry the same associations. Whether we recognize it or not, there is a split happening with young women my age.

By the time I have finished school, a good portion of my girlfriends will have paired off with the person they believe to be "the one." After that divide, will the word "single" still have its positive associations? Or will it resort to the more common associations like pathetic and alone?

The best television show of all time is the show that changed the way many of us view single today. "Sex and the City," based on the novel by Candace Bushnell, featured a completely different woman than television had ever shown.

In most all series television, the high point for every female character's storyline has had something to do with getting married, getting a boyfriend or having a baby. In the "Sex and the City" world, the high point of a character's story arc could be finding the perfect pair of shoes, having amazing sex or discovering the wonders of Tivo.

What I love most about the stories on "Sex in the City" is how they take a traditional story that we have all seen (like the TV wedding) and do it from a single woman's perspective. For example, when Charlotte was married in Season 3, we saw all the usual grandeur of a TV wedding. But, because this is "Sex and the City," we also saw the whole ceremony being put on hold so Charlotte could confide to Carrie that her husband-to-be couldn't get it up. I love that they showed marriage from a real perspective and didn't let the audience think for a moment that marriage was the "happy ever after" every other television show makes it out to be.

Another great thing about "Sex and the City" is that it originally aired on HBO, so it was able to go places that cable shows simply can't. In real life, people drink, swear and have sex. On "Sex and the City" we see and experience all of that without feeling like it's completely fake.

Carrie Bradshaw, the show's central character (and my personal heroine), gave the world a taste of what a single woman should be. The character of Carrie de-constructed a stereotype that had been around longer than most of our lives in six short seasons. Carrie was able to have it all. She had a great career, a stimulating social life, and fabulous friends. Most importantly, she was able to have it all without needing a man by her side until she was ready.

LAUREN ROHRER

"Sex and the City" shows us that it is possible for women to live life on their own terms as opposed to following the path that seems appropriate. "Sex and the City" is the reason I believe being single is a choice, not a consolation prize.

Lauren Rohrer is junior in music theater. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

'Gilmore Girls' offers meaningful, humorous perspective on life

"If you're out on your own, feeling lonely and so cold, all you have to do is call my name and I'll be there on the next train."

I listen to this song at least every Tuesday night when I feed my weekly hunger for the "Gilmore Girls" TV show. Just before 7 p.m. I head over to Goodnow Hall, snuggle up with a steamy bag of popcorn and my best friends to catch the latest episode.

In case you have been so misfortunate as to have never seen the show, let me bring you up to speed. Lorelai Gilmore, a single mother who has raised her daughter from birth has just opened her very own inn and snagged the rugged town coffee shop owner, Luke as her new boy. Her studious daughter, Rory, is attending Yale and struggling to date her current boyfriend Logan, all the while the mother and daughter duo are working on their latest project: reuniting Rory's grandparents after their recent separation.

ALYSSA ALEXANDER

Amongst all the silly comedic mishaps that deploy at the Inn and the confrontations with best friends and neighbors, are adorable and meaningful scenes that makes Gilmore Girls the dramatic and lovable show that it is.

Now, I realize that a single mother's situation isn't exactly a life that you would like to pattern your own after, but the fact that show displays a broken home as the setting is one of the many reasons that makes it so meaningful.

If everything was perfect and Brady Bunch, then it wouldn't be realistic or interesting. Sometimes the problems in your life are what makes things interesting and unique. Not everyone is lucky enough to lead a perfect life and that is reality at its finest.

And although Lorelai has her own problems, her character still had ambitions and puts forth the effort to achieve them. In previous episodes Lorelai is shown struggling to find a location, staff and all the miniscule things that go along with opening a business.

Not only does Lorelai later achieve her goals of opening the Inn but it also proves to be a huge success amongst the town and visitors.

College student Rory is also rising above the broken home issue by scholastically achieving at the prestigious Yale and adding to the show's moral value.

Why wouldn't a teenage girl like myself religiously watch a show that depicts a single mother and her daughter humorously overcoming all their trials and tribulations to achieve bigger and better things and snag cuter and cuter guys?

Alyssa Alexander is a freshman in pre-journalism and mass communications. Send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Camps Fourum the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene, and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial Staff.

Holy crap, what happened to the old phone answering guy?

To the girls that live above me, if you value your lives or good health, you will stop the jumping already.

I heard Regina George's hair is insured for $10,000?

I like dating the crazy girls. They keep stuff interesting.

Scott Jones has and will look through your e-mails. Isn't being greek great?

Hey IFC, last year when you hired Scott Jones did you ask him if he was going to be a snake and look through all of our e-mails?

To the guy around Cardwell at 3:15 today, the least you could do is apologize for almost running me over.

We should rename the Bosco Plaza the Snyder Plaza. Wouldn't that be cool? And the Alumni Center we should call that the Snyder Alumni Center. We should rename every building on K-State to Snyder. That would be cool, and a good tribute to a great man. What has Pat Bosco done for K-State? Zero, zero. So we should rename Bosco Plaza to Snyder Plaza and I think that would be great.

It's funny because the people that are driving their fancy crotch rockets now are the people that don't have another car.

I'm having a Red Bull and vodka right now. It's delicious.

On this energy drink thing — does it matter whether I use the regular Red Bull or will my chances be decreased if I use the sugar free?

I found Jesus, but I still can't find my remote.

Whoa, a new voice for the Fourum? That's scary.

K-State considered having Chuck Norris as the next speaker of the Landon Lecture but decided against it when they decided he would start giving roundhouse kicks to everyone at the lecture with a popped collar.

This message is for Kody Cooper. I just wanted to know if you've ever considered proofreading your columns before you publish them, and also, you might want to know what you're talking about before you put yourself in the paper because you made yourself look really stupid.

The phone saw.

That's one baller leaf-blower.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

ONCE IN A LIFETIME

Compromise a part of holidays

The fantasy that marriage is a union of soul mates who always want the same things, always know what the other is thinking and never disagree because they see the world through the same eyes is just that: a fantasy.

I don't wish to burst anyone's bubble, but I've found that the reality is, that marriage requires a lot of open, verbal communication. It is a relationship with periods of adjustment and, yes, even compromise.

Together, my husband and I have eight siblings. We're from large, close families, and a significant point of compromise comes with each holiday. We have to decide where we will go, whether for Christmas or the Fourth of July.

Some siblings have worked out a compromise because they live within 30 miles of both families. One year they are at one house for lunch and the other for supper. The next year, they flip it the other way.

We tried that for Thanksgiv-

KELLY SCHMITT

ing — once. We found that it wasn't much of a holiday driving three hours to Omaha, Neb., for lunch, then another three and a half hours to Downs, Kan., for supper. We compromise by spending the holiday with one family and celebrating with the other on a different day.

With the holidays comes another adjustment: the blending of traditions. My dad is a Swede, and every Christmas we break out the pickled herring. My husband is Catholic, so you would think he could appreciate this since he's used to eating fish anyway. His sense of adventure is limited, though, because we can't get him to try it for anything.

Christmas at the Schmitt house required some minor adjustments on my part. We are welcomed in and offered refreshments, with or without alcohol. This surprised my Lutheran sensibilities a bit because growing up we didn't have alcohol at Christmas or Thanksgiving. That was saved for Easter on Mom's side of the family, whose Irish and German grandfathers produced some of the most abundant whiskey in Mitchell County, Kan., during Prohibition.

My husband's family's Christmas always has an abundance of homemade candies, cookies and desserts. One year I thought there might be a revolt because one of the desserts was not the liquor cake that had become tradition. The liquor cooks out, but what is left is a mint cake with a fudge frosting.

Whether our tradition is reading about the birth of Jesus in the Bible, as my dad does each year, or spending a week or two preparing every imaginable Christmas candy, like my mother-in-law, my husband and I can appreciate the holidays with good cheer. After all, for us, the holiday isn't about what we do to celebrate. It's about celebrating with those whom we love the most.

Kelly Schmitt is a junior in anthropology. Send comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

Ring styles change through the decades

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Although some styles may be more popular than others, finding the perfect engagement and wedding rings is about satisfying personal tastes.

"It's all about the person and the personality," said Charles Elliott, owner of Reed and Elliott Jewelers, 402 Poyntz Ave.

Elliott has spent 64 years in the jewelry business in Manhattan and said he has seen styles come and go.

"Since the 50s, platinum and white gold went out of style," he said.

"Then the platinum industry spent $16.5 million in '99 promoting platinum. It was almost an instantaneous turnaround."

White gold became popular as a cheaper alternative to platinum, Elliott said.

Currently, the most popular engagement ring is the princess cut diamond with a white gold or platinum band, said Bobbi French, co-manager of G. Thomas Jewelers.

"Today it's about clean-cut, streamlined, simple elegance," she said.

However, both French and Elliott said yellow gold is starting to be more popular.

"Two-toned rings with white and yellow gold are coming back big," Elliott said.

Ring trends come in a cycle, so what is popular now may not retain its popularity, Elliott said.

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder," he said.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Perryman - Schwartz

Hallie Perryman, senior in mass communications, and Saul Schwartz announce their engagement.

Hallie is the daughter of Doug and Edie Hicken, Belle Plaine, Kan., and Robert Perryman, Wichita, and Saul is the son of Paul and Barbara Schwartz, Topeka.

They plan a May 20 wedding in Wichita.

Smith - Crane

Sonder Smith, K-State graduate, and Todd Crane, senior in kinesiology, announce their engagement.

Sonder is the daughter of Michael and Rita Smith, Manhattan, and Todd is the son of Randy and Mary Crane, Ackley, Iowa.

They plan a June 17 wedding in Manhattan.

Holmes - Lacanlale

Joanna Holmes, junior in architecture, and Capt. Joseph Lacanlale announce their engagement.

Joanna is the daughter of Joe and Carol Holmes, Halstead, Kan., and Joseph is the son of Elmore and Regina Lacanlale, Fremont, Calif.

They plan a Jan. 7 wedding in Wichita.

Carver - Bortnick

Julie Carver, senior in management, and Daniel Bortnick announce their engagement.

Julie is the daughter of Diane Carver, El Dorado, Kan., and Gregory Carver, Fulmer, Texas, and Daniel is the son of James and Mary Bortnick, Wichita.

They plan an April 29 wedding in El Dorado, Kan.

Cronn - Jantz

Liz Cronn, senior in kinesiology, and Aaron Jantz, K-State graduate, announce their engagement.

Liz is the daughter of Amanda and Harry Cronn, WaKeeney, Kan., and Aaron is the son of Max Jantz and Cami Jantz, Montezuma, Kan.

They plan an April 22 wedding in Dodge City, Kan.

Williams - Sayers

Shea Williams, senior in modern languages, and Aaron Sayers, senior in mathematics education, announce their engagement.

Shea is the daughter of Gary Williams and Jorine Williams, Olathe, Kan., and Aaron is the son of Sam and Julie Sayers, Hutchinson, Kan.

They plan a July 1 wedding in Olathe, Kan.

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings

in the Collegian,
the first friday of the month.

STUDIO
32 PRODUCTIONS
Wedding
Videography

The Vows. The Music.
The Speeches. The Mood.
Experience it Again.

Andy Liebsch
785-341-1831
studio32productions.com

Custom sterling and gemstone jewelry for the wedding party.

KGifts
kgifts.com

Schedule a meeting info@kgifts.com
1-888-568-8595

A. Jaffe
CREATED WITH PASSION SINCE 1892

SOME JEWELRY SPEAKS LOUDER THAN WORDS.

BRIDAL JEWELRY FROM A. JAFFE.
CREATED WITH UNRIVALED CRAFTSMANSHIP AND A PASSION FOR PERFECTION.
DESIGNED TO BE WORN EVERY DAY. FOREVER.

REED & ELLIOTT
Jewelers

CERTIFIED GEMOLOGIST
AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

Monday 12 pm-5:30 pm
Tues. Sat. 10 am-5:30 pm
Closed Sunday

770-4000
402 Poyntz
Manhattan

Celebrations of the Heart

401 Poyntz Avenue
Manhattan, KS 66502
785-587-1830

Congratulations to all our
November brides and grooms!

Join us for the Downtown
Holiday Open House
Sunday Dec. 4th from 1-5 pm.

Great gift ideas with refreshments provided by Three Sisters Desserts!

For the Special Occasions in Life

♡Bridal ♡Formal Wear ♡Tuxedo Rental

Bridal Packages

Body Treatments

Manicures/Pedicures

Services performed by supervised students

Crum's
Beauty College

512 Poyntz 770-4794

You know how great food smells when you don't have to make it yourself?

We can get that for you.

Check out the MENU GUIDE
in back of the
Campus Phone Book

Available in Kedzie 103
Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

2006 Bridal Showcase

Sunday, January 8, 2006

Public
Welcome

1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Salina

Bridal Spectacular, Inc.

Fashion Show - Salina Holidome
Over $2500 in prizes

To be eligible for $1000 Grand Prize you must pick up registration form from any of the sponsoring businesses prior to show.
One registration per attendee. MUST BE PRESENT TO WIN.

www.salinabridal.com

Prenuptuials can protect assets

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Money isn't always easy to discuss, but 32 percent of respondents in a USA Today survey said finances are important to discuss before marriage.

For some couples, part of discussing premarital finances can be writing a prenuptial agreement.

Brenda Bell, a general practice lawyer, said a prenuptial agreement is a contract between two people about to marry that defines the terms of settlement in case of divorce or separation.

Prenuptial agreements are signed prior to the wedding. Each party must disclose all assets and then discuss how pre-existing assets and property accumulated during the marriage will be divided, Bell said.

Most prenuptial agreements are written for people going into their second marriage, Bell said, because they protect heirs in the event of a divorce.

Ian Taylor, a civil litigation lawyer, said prenuptial agreements are more common in second marriages because one or both parties often have accumulated wealth and had children. The agreements are also more common in wealthy families, he said.

"You'll see them with wealthy families where they want to keep control of the wealth within the family," Taylor said.

Taylor said Kansas is a community property state, which means that once a couple weds, certain property of each becomes jointly owned. Under the principle of spousal election, one party can take up to one-half of the other's net worth upon the other's death, he said. Prenuptial agreements can change that.

"It takes it out of the hands of the state," Taylor said. "It keeps control among the two parties and it takes it away from the courts."

Both Bell and Taylor said prenuptial agreements can prevent people from marrying for money.

"It's sort of used to prevent people from marrying for the wrong reasons, which would be to go after another person's wealth," Bell said.

In the 18 years she has practiced law, Bell said she has seen an increase in the number of prenuptial agreements she has written. Now she writes between 15 and 20 annually, and few of those are for college-age couples, she said.

Liz Cronn, senior in kinesiology, said she and fiancé Aaron Jantz, K-State graduate, discussed signing a prenuptial agreement because Jantz owns part of a company. However, Cronn said she would not sign an agreement, so the couple does not have one.

"I feel like a prenuptial agreement is like basically saying you think the marriage isn't going to work," Cronn said. "If you have faith in the marriage you shouldn't have a need to have a prenuptial agreement."

Cronn said she does not think prenuptial agreements are necessary.

"If they need to be necessary, you shouldn't be getting married," she said.

Both lawyers said the cost of writing a prenuptial agreement varies widely. In Manhattan, Bell said the hourly fees incurred amount to $500-$1,000. In upstate New York, where Taylor used to work, couples pay a few thousand dollars, he said.

Like any other contract, prenuptial agreements can be challenged and defeated, Taylor said. If one party did not disclose all assets, if there was fraud or if there is significant inequity, a judge may overrule the contract.

Though sometimes necessary, prenuptial agreements can be difficult to bring up during an engagement, both Bell and Taylor said.

"It sucks the romance out of the situation," Taylor said.

Consider a prenuptial agreement if one or both parties:

- Have assets like a home, stock or retirement funds.
- Own all or part of a business.
- May receive an inheritance.
- Have children from a previous marriage.
- Are pursuing a degree in a potentially lucrative field.
- Have relatives who need to be cared for.
- Could see a substantial income increase.

Source: Bankrate.com

Brides lean toward 'fun' cakes for weddings

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Brides, especially younger brides, are turning away from tradition and following the latest trends in wedding cakes, cake creator Kay White said.

White, owner of Kay's Cakes and Creations, has been in the wedding cake business for 17 years. She said most brides now want a stacked cake with smooth, buttercream icing and flowers.

White said younger brides often gather elaborate ideas online and bring them to her. One non-traditional option is the Mad Hatter cake, a cake that looks like it is going to tip over, she said.

"Younger brides tend to do more of the newest trends," White said. "They're not so practical."

Older brides, however, are more practical, she said. They tend to order small tiered cakes, sheet cakes or pillared cakes.

Patti Raber, Wal-Mart wedding cake decorator, said most brides she works with request roses, sometimes in an off-color, as decoration.

White bakes and decorates about eight wedding cakes per month, each generally with three or four tiers. She said even brides having smaller weddings order tiered cakes. Raber said most Wal-Mart cakes have two or three tiers.

Brides also choose a cake based on flavor. White bakes chocolate, white, lemon, spice, strawberry and marble cakes. She also offers fillings, which she said are popular. Raber said Wal-Mart only offers white wedding cakes, but some brides opt instead to purchase flavored sheet cakes.

When ordering a wedding cake, both White and Raber said brides and grooms can look through books of possible options and then the decorator will work with the couple to customize the cake.

Joanna Holmes, junior in architecture, looked through bridal magazines and combined several ideas to create her three-tiered, three-flavored cake.

Holmes said she chose a strawberry, vanilla and chocolate cake because her favorite flavor is strawberry and vanilla cake is stable enough to anchor the cake.

A woman she knows from her church will bake Holmes' cake for $1 per slice.

White said she charges $1.75-$3 per serving. Raber said Wal-Mart cakes run $65-$140 for a three-tiered cake with fillings.

Couples often purchase a groom's cake in addition to the main cake. White said grooms are beginning to order cakes

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

Using a 104 tip, Janice Hill, wedding consultant and decorator of special occasion cakes, creates an American rose out of icing. Hill owns Vern's Wedding Cake Shop, 408 South Sixth St. and has been decorating cakes for more than 33 years.

decorated according to their hobbies, their schools or their favorite sports.

"The grooms' cakes have gotten kind of fun now," she said.

Raber said she has decorated a lot of all-chocolate or Harley-

Davidson grooms' cakes. And since the cake is the focus of reception photographs, it is important to couples.

"You can really ruin a reception with a bad wedding cake," Raber said.

Weisners
BRIDAL BOUTIQUE

Just Engaged and on a Budget?

Let our bridal gown consultants help!

One of a kind Bridal Gowns starting at only $99

Complete line of tuxedos and accessories
Special orders welcome

314 Poyntz 776-6100

Your wedding dress is the only thing that is supposed to be white

Xtreme tanning

1122 Laramie
539-3742

It's time to POP the question...

Have you considered

Borck Brothers for YOUR Formalwear?

$50.00
Our most affordable package

100 Styles to Choose Professional Clothiers
Formal Accessories

Visit our NEW location
Seth Child Commons
Across from Panera Bread
537-8636 or 888-642-7848
Mon - Thurs 9:30am - 7:00 pm
Thurs & Fri til 6pm Sun 1-5pm www.borck-bros.com

Ask about our Complimentary Honeymoon travel Certificates!

Borck Brothers
FINE MEN'S & WOMEN'S APPAREL
Manhattan • Salina

Got a NewsTip for Story Idea?

Call 532-6556
or e-mail: collegian@spub.ksu.edu

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings

in the Collegian, the first Friday of the month.

LIGHT IT UP
PROFESSIONAL VIDEO JOCKEY

- receptions
- ceremonies

www.kansasdiscjockey.com

- video projection
- free travel

785-565-8054

We believe...

your wedding reception is as special as the wedding service. The creativity, quality and attention to detail separate us from the rest of the industry.

Servicing KSU Alumni Center, Wareham Opera House, Houston Street & Houston Ballroom
See our website for our extensive line of wedding options.

Bockers II Catering
1108 Laramie • 539-9431
www.bockers2catering.com

Strapless corsets. Several styles. Many sizes-Yes we have your size!

Patricia's UNDERCOVER Lingerie

NOW on 4th St!

Poyntz
110 S. 4th
S. 4th

Join us at the Manhattan Bridal Show at the K-State Student Union. Pre-register with us for an extra chance to win prizes.

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings

Everyone's doing it.

To announce your milestone, visit Kedzie 103. To advertise, call 532-6560.

Heirloom Portraits

MANHATTAN'S PREMIER WEDDING PHOTOGRAPHER

776-1175

36th ANNUAL MANHATTAN BRIDAL SHOW
SUNDAY, JANUARY 15, 2006

$250 Gift Certificate towards purchase of wedding dress

Win a TUXEDO PACKAGE for Wedding Party

Must be present to win

Thousands of Dollars in Prizes:

- $1,000 towards your wedding
- FREE Wedding Band
- 5.2 megapixel Digital Camera
- Much, much more

KANSAS STATE STUDENT UNION
Grand Ballroom on 2nd Floor, Manhattan
Doors open 12 noon
Fashion Show at 2:30 p.m.
Admission is FREE www.manhattanbridalshow.com

THE EDGE

Friday, Dec. 2, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

Relaxing with Crafty activities

While relaxing on his couch, Todd Askren, sophomore in animal science and industry, stretches a rubber band to add to his rubber band ball Thursday afternoon at his apartment. Askren has been making the rubber band ball as a hobby, which he picked up from his roommate.

Photos by Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Unusual hobbies can keep students sane

By Sheila Ellis
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sometimes the hobbies students take part in can reduce stress, Barbara Pearson, psychologist at Counseling Services, said.

Sarah Anderson, freshman in pre-professional elementary education, said she agrees.

"I think hobbies are important because all of the things you have to do as a college student you can get stressed out and hobbies are something you can do to take your mind off of it," Anderson said.

Some students at K-State have more free time than others but many agree that most students like to do something relaxing or fun in their spare time. Some students have found more unusual hobbies than others.

DaNesha McNeely, freshman in animal science and industry, crochets plastic bags together for a hobby.

"I was at a craft party for SEA, Students for Environmental Action, and my friend taught me," McNeely said.

McNeely said many different items can be made with plastic bag – just about anything that can be made with yarn.

"Sometimes I make time in my day just to crochet," McNeely said.

For students, taking time out of their days to do something they love may be a stress reliever.

"In SEA we make a lot of craft items, such as notebooks made out of cereal boxes," she said.

McNeely said she has been interested in crafts since she was a child and has continued to do crafts in college. She takes pride in her work because it takes time and she puts a lot of care into her work, she said.

"I'd rather give it as a gift than sell these items," she said. "If given as a gift, the receiver would appreciate it more."

Todd Askren, sophomore in animal science and industry, makes rubber band balls in his spare time. It can be interesting to see how big the rubber band ball can get, he said.

"I started this year when my roommate introduced me to it," Askren said. "Now I have a ball the size of a baseball."

It is very easy to make your own rubber band ball, he said.

Start by folding a rubber band into fourths then keep adding rubber bands around it.

Askren said making rubber band balls serves as something fun to do during his spare time.

"When I get bored, I try to see how big I can get the ball. When you first start it doesn't take as long, but once it gets bigger it takes longer. It takes longer than you think," he said.

Repetitive motions such as knitting can help relieve stress, Pearson said.

It occupies the left side of the brain, so the right side, which is more creative, is distracted, which gives the mind a break, Pearson said.

For some students, hobbies serve as a way to meet new people.

"Hobbies can help you meet friends, make you a more interesting person and serves as a good conversational piece," Jill Grisso, freshman in pre-health professions program,

said.

DaNesha McNeely, freshman in animal science and industry, crochets plastic bags together into a purse for a Christmas gift on Thursday afternoon in her room.

Attraction more than physical; know what you want

Ask the 5th year

MATT
PETERWORTH

Lately, the dating field has been pretty stale. Do you have any suggestions on finding and meeting someone to date, other than on Facebook.com?

First, know what kind of person you are attracted to. Be careful here. Initially, there is a difference between the kind of person you are attracted to and the kind of person who is attracted to you. I have dated several women who liked me, but I wasn't really attracted to them. In fact, the only reason I was attracted to them was because they were attracted to me. As a result, a few weeks into the relationship, I opened my eyes and realized that I no longer wanted to be with her.

The goal of all of this dating should be to find someone you are really attracted to and who is really attracted to you. What's great is that you are in college and there are literally thousands of single co-eds on campus. Never again will you be in such close proximity to this number of single people your age.

Also, attraction is not universal for everyone. And it is not just a physical attraction. Know what characteristics you are generally attracted to, what they believe, about anything and everything, what they look like, their outward appearance, their life goals, their dreams and their likes and dislikes about everything, i.e. music, food, lifestyle (see also her beliefs).

Now, there may not be someone who satisfies everything you are looking for. But at least get a rough idea of the kind of person you are attracted to, so that when you see someone, you can tell immediately whether or not you might be attracted to her by her physical traits: her body type, the clothes she wears, how she acts.

Once you know what kind of person you are attracted to, actively look for someone. Now this topic has been hotly debated. I say that once you know what kind of person you really want, then change yourself so that kind of person is attracted to you. My friends tell me though, that you shouldn't change for anyone. My answer to this has always been the quote by Walter Tubbs, "I do not find you by chance; I find you by an active life of reaching out. Rather than passively letting things happen to me, I can act intentionally to make them happen."

When I say that you should change yourself, I mean that you should stop being in all of those dead-end relationships you know won't work out and start being someone who attracts people with whom you really want to be.

When you see someone that you think you might like, wait until she looks at you and smile at her just as you two make eye contact. That way, she knows you are smiling at her. Now she will automatically smile back because that is what everyone is conditioned to do.

However, after you make that first eye contact and hopefully, a shared smile experience, she will almost immediately look away. Do not be sad because of this.

Again, this is what everyone is conditioned to do. Keep your attention focused on her and if she looks back at you within 45 seconds, that means she likes you. Or at least she found you intriguing enough in that first glance to risk another look at you. Of course, you'll smile, as will she.

Now it is time for the first conversation ... To be continued next week.

Matt Peterworth is a fifth-year senior in architectural engineering. You can e-mail him at edge@pub.ksu.edu.

MOVIES

- Times for today through Sunday.
- All times are p.m. unless otherwise noted.
- () denotes times that are playing Saturday and Sunday only.

Courtesy art

"Aeon Flux" PG-13
(1:00), (3:15), 5:30, 7:45, 10:00

"In the Mix" PG-13
(1:00), (3:15), 5:30, 7:45, 10:00

"Just Friends" PG-13
(1:05), (3:20), 5:35, 7:50, 10:05

"Rent" PG-13
(1:20), 4:15, 7:10, 10:00

"Yours, Mine and Ours" PG
(1:00), (3:10), 5:20, 7:30, 9:40

Courtesy art

"Walk the Line" PG-13
(1:15), 4:10, 7:05, 10:00

"Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire" PG-13
(12:30), (1:30), (3:45), 4:50, 7:00, 8:10

"Derailed" R
(1:25), 4:30, 7:15, 9:45

"Chicken Little" G
(12:30), (3:00), 5:00, 7:35, 9:35

"Jarhead" R
(1:15), 4:10, 7:20, 10:05

"Saw 2" R
(1:10), (3:20), 5:30, 7:40, 9:55

TOP 10 BEST SELLERS

1. "Mary, Mary" by James Patterson
F.B.I. agent Alex Cross tracks a Hollywood killer who announces the crimes via e-mail.
2. "Predator" by Patricia Cornwell
On the trail of a possible serial killer, Dr. Kay Scarpetta turns to a jailed psychopath for advice.
3. "Light from Heaven" by Jan Karon
Father Tim's bishop asks him to revive a long-closed mountain church; the final novel in the Mitford series.
4. "At First Sight" by Nicholas Sparks
The young couple from "True Believer," who are now expecting a child, receive a disturbing message.
5. "The Camel Club" by David Baldacci
A group of eccentric conspiracy theorists stumbles across an actual plot reaching to the highest levels of government.
6. "The Regime: Evil Advances" by Tim LaHaye and Jerry B. Jenkins
The second prequel to the "Left Behind" series continues the story of the rise of the Antichrist and follows the series' other major characters.
7. "A Feast for Crows" by George R.R. Martin
In the aftermath of war, a motley collection of outlaws and renegades plots to seize control of the Seven Kingdoms; Book 4 of a fantasy series.
8. "Christ the Lord: Out of Egypt" by Anne Rice
What happened in Bethlehem; a story narrated by a 7-year-old who discovers that he is the Prince of Peace.
9. "Toxic Bachelors" by Danielle Steel
On a Mediterranean vacation, three resolutely single friends meet three impressive women.
10. "The Da Vinci Code" by Dan Brown
A murder at the Louvre leads to a trail of clues found in the work of Leonardo Da Vinci and to the discovery of a secret society.

Source: The New York Times

SPORTS

Page 8

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Friday, Dec. 2, 2005

Volleyball

Wildcats advance to 2nd round of NCAA Tournament

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Wildcats beat Florida A&M 3-1 (27-30, 30-14, 30-27, 30-28) in the first round of the NCAA Tournament on Thursday afternoon. They will play the winner of the Florida Atlantic vs. Florida match in the second round at 7 tonight.

"I'm so excited," said sophomore middle blocker Rita Lilliom, who paced the Wildcats with 23 kills on a .321 hitting percentage. "This is more exciting than last year — we have more of a chance."

For Lilliom, this year is different. She said she thinks this K-State team is more talented than the 2004-05 squad.

"We are better than last year," Lilliom said. "We can win this second round."

Indeed, the Wildcats combined for a .331 hitting percentage as a team in their 10th straight tourney appearance. Junior middle blocker Joy Hamlin had 20 kills, and junior outside hitter Sandy Werner posted 17 kills. Sophomore setter Stacey Spiegelberg had 63 assists, and sophomore libero Angie Lastra tallied 23 defensive digs.

"Rita played spectacular, Angie played tremendous defense, both our middle blockers played well, Sandy played well," coach Suzie Fritz said.

It took one game for the Cats to heat up against Florida A&M. They struggled in game one's loss, mainly because Florida A&M's predominantly European squad presented the Cats with an unfamiliar style of play, Fritz said.

"We started out a little bit flat — I don't think we were quite ready," Fritz said. "They were doing some unorthodox things that we haven't seen this year, and then we adjusted and caught up a little bit."

Once the Cats forced A&M to switch to their tempo, the tide changed. K-State came back to win three straight games and, in game two, notched a particularly impressive .545 hitting percentage.

"They weren't very organized, and we were more consistent," Lilliom said. "We played harder, and we are a

See VOLLEYBALL Page 10

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Undefeated Wildcats hit the road

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Before the 2005-06 season, coach Jim Wooldridge decided to incorporate a new offense into the K-State men's basketball team — one that would compliment his players' athleticism and shortage of post players.

So far, Wooldridge's decision has paid off, as the undefeated Wildcats (4-0) have posted an average margin of victory of 19.75 points.

In its four games, K-State has averaged 76.5 points per game for a .491 shooting percentage, and the Wildcats' defense has held opponents to less than 60 points in each victory.

"This is a great shooting team," junior forward Cartier Martin said. "We have a lot of guys who can score the ball. (The offense) is not just designed for me to get shots or Lance (Harris) to get shots — it's designed for the open man to take the shot."

Saturday will present a new challenge for Wooldridge's squad, as the Wildcats are traveling for the first time this season to face Washington State (3-1) at 4 p.m. in Pullman, Wash.

Washington State, picked to finish ninth in the preseason Pacific-10 Conference media poll, concluded with a 12-16 record last season.

The two teams last met Nov. 27, 2004 in Manhattan, when the Wildcats defeated the Cougars 62-53.

Martin said he's looking forward to playing Washington State because it gives the Wildcats a chance to play somewhere other than Bramlage Coliseum.

"I'm ready to get on the road," Martin said. "I think the away team's crowd pumps me up a little bit."

Martin, from Houston, Texas, leads K-State in scoring with an average of 21.8 points per game. Sophomore forward David Hoskins (13.3) and junior guard Lance Harris (10.8) are also averaging double-digits in scoring for the Wildcats.

K-State's most recent victory was an 84-59 win over Cal State Fullerton on Wednesday.

"I feel like we are gaining more confidence with each game," Martin said. "Our confidence level got a little higher after our win (against Cal State Fullerton)."

"If we keep winning, then

See BASKETBALL Page 10

Age defying

Photo courtesy Mary Ann Owen | BOXINGINLASVEGAS.COM
Tyson Schwieger fights against Don Orr Oct. 13, 2005 at the Stardust Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas. Orr won in the third round by technical knockout. Schwieger played football for K-State as a wide receiver in the early 90s.

Former football player uncovers boxing talent

By Jonathan Garten
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Tyson Schwieger, a former K-State wide receiver and graduate assistant coach, is used to taking big hits.

Now, 10 years after he finished playing, Schwieger is getting the opportunity to fight back, as he begins a career as a professional boxer.

But at the same time, Schwieger, 32, is already considered old by boxing standards, said Schwieger's trainer, Jeff Mayweather.

"He's got to cram all this knowledge I'm trying to pass on to him and apply it fast, because he's starting out around the same time that I was retiring," said Mayweather, a former fighter and the uncle of WBC light-welterweight champion, Floyd Mayweather.

Schwieger's age wasn't enough to keep the former Wildcat walk-on from scheduling a fight against Don Orr, a 2000 Canadian Olympic boxer, on Oct. 13. Orr won the fight by TKO in the third round, but it was a good experience, Schwieger said.

"I learned a lot from that fight. I definitely know I can compete at this level. I just have a lot of improvement to make," he said.

Schwieger is currently training at Top Rank Gym in Las Vegas, and while Mayweather said boxing and football have few parallels, both require mental toughness to survive.

"The mechanics of the two are completely different," Mayweather said. "But you must have a 'never say die' attitude in both if you want to succeed."

Schwieger isn't entirely new to boxing. He was 8-0 as an amateur when he was 12 years old. After his mother requested he quit, Schwieger went on to be a high school standout in football, basketball and baseball. He walked onto the K-State football team and led the Big 8 Conference in catches, yardage and touchdowns in 1994.

Legislation for a Kansas Boxing Commission was passed July 1, 2004, opening the door for bigger fights in Kansas. Gov. Kathleen Sebelius appointed Aaron Davis the new commissioner.

Kansas Rep. Tom Burroughs, who helped push the legislation for the Kansas Boxing Commission, said Davis is a good choice for commissioner because of his athletic background and connections with the boxing world. Davis' mission is not only to make Kansas a safe place for fights, but to give homegrown prospects like Schwieger a chance to showcase their talent.

"Right now, we want to create a safe and entertaining place to compete," Burroughs said. "Boxing has a black eye, and

See BOXING Page 10

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NFL | Irvin will not appear on ESPN this weekend

Michael Irvin will not make his scheduled appearances on the Sunday and Monday Night NFL Countdown shows on Dec. 4 and 5, ESPN announced Thursday.

The former Cowboys wide receiver, who is in his third year as an analyst for the network, will resume his regular role on Sunday, Dec. 11.

Irvin was stopped for speeding on Friday, Nov. 25, in Plano, Texas, and arrested on an outstanding warrant for a previous speeding violation. His car was searched, revealing a pipe and plastic bags with marijuana residue. He was then charged with possession of drug paraphernalia. He was taken into custody by the Plano police, and released later that evening.

Irvin

MLB | Giles re-signs with Padres for 3 years

SAN DIEGO — Brian Giles seemed all but gone late last week when the San Diego Padres rejected a proposal from his agent.

That's what made it so surprising when the right fielder agreed Thursday to re-sign with his hometown Padres for $30 million over three years.

"We're extremely excited that Brian Giles will be wearing a Padres uniform for the next several seasons," general manager Kevin Towers said. "He is a tremendous everyday player who is an offensive force and a solid defender. One of the top outfielders on the free-agent market, Giles batted .301 with 15 homers and 83 RBI last season, leading the NL West-champion Padres in several offensive categories."

He drew a major league-best 119 walks and had a stellar .423 on-base percentage.

Giles

MLB | Farnsworth reported to sign with Yankees

ATLANTA — While there was no announcement from New York, the representative for free agent relief pitcher Kyle Farnsworth informed Atlanta Braves officials Wednesday night that his client will sign with the Yankees.

"That is accurate, that's what we were told," Braves general manager John Schuerholz told The Associated Press. "We received a call yesterday and, cut and dried, that's what was said. That's all I'll say about it."

NHL | Bruins captain traded to San Jose for 3 players

The San Jose Sharks acquired star center Joe Thornton from the Boston Bruins for three players Wednesday night in a trade between two last-place franchises desperate to shake up their dismal seasons.

San Jose sent forwards Marco Sturm and Wayne Primeau and defenseman Brad Stuart to the Bruins, sacrificing three members of their young core for Thornton, a probable 2006 Canadian Olympian and three-time All-Star considered one of the NHL's top power forwards.

Thornton was stunned when general manager Mike O'Connell called his cell phone after Thornton had just finished dining with his parents in Boston. The 26-year-old signed a three-year, $20 million contract in August with Boston, where he was the club's captain for the last three seasons.

Thornton

RAC | Preakness winner

Afleet Alex retires

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Afleet Alex's gritty recovery to win the Preakness after nearly crumpling to the dirt was a dazzling highlight in the colt's career. The colossus also may have played a role in the horse's early retirement.

Afleet Alex was retired Thursday because of a new injury discovered before the horse was shipped to Gulfstream Park in Florida this week. Another ankle injury had already sidelined Afleet Alex since his June 11 victory in the Belmont.

"This injury probably started with that Preakness and, unfortunately, it's been something we haven't seen," trainer Tim Ritchey said. "It's going to take too long to heal and he has to go on to another career where he'll be safe and happy."

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Junior guard Claire Coggins drives to the basket Wednesday evening against Delaware State.

K-State looks to avenge last year's Liberty loss

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

If there was ever a moment last season that the women's basketball team would like to forget, it would be less than five minutes into the opening game of the Commerce Bank Wildcat Classic.

Up by double digits, senior All-American Kendra Wecker went up for a jump shot and came down awkwardly on her left foot.

The silence in the building confirmed how serious it was, the result of the following game in the championship round showed its affect as the Wildcats lost to Liberty 77-56.

"Losing to Liberty is what I remember the most. It was awful with Kendra hurting herself — pretty much just bad memories," junior Claire Coggins said.

It was only the second time in the history of the tournament that the Wildcats had lost, also being defeated by Utah eight years ago.

"That's probably the main thing I remember about the Commerce Classic," coach Deb Patterson said. "Kendra going down, and the next game against Liberty, they played lights out. We really struggled, and it was a real disappointment for us."

"It's still motivation this year to want to grab a hold of this tournament opportunity and really compete and play well at home."

K-State will look to get back on the winning track, with a first round game against Texas-Pan American at 5 tonight at Bramlage Coliseum.

The Wildcats are coming off a 78-30 win over Delaware State led by Kimberly Dietz's team-high 18 points.

It was the Wildcats' largest margin of victory this season and opponent's lowest point total, as the Lady Hornets were held to just 12 points in the first half and 22.9 percent shooting from the field.

Their first opponent, the Lady Broncos, enter Friday night's game with a 1-2 record, their lone win coming against Prairie View A&M.

Senior Jessica McFarland said it is important they win their own tournament, and it also prepares them for Big 12 Conference play and tournament time.

"In the Big 12 Tournament, you play two days in a row," McFarland said. "It prepares you for Big 12 because you don't have that much time to prepare for your opponent, and you have to be ready every game."

If the Wildcats win tonight, they will either play University of Houston or St. Joseph's University in the championship round at 5 p.m. on Saturday.

"I think the Commerce Bank Classic is our tournament, it's something that we take pride in and something we want to win for our community and the people that set it up," Coggins said.

Student admission to the tournament is free with a K-State ID.

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Friday, Dec. 2, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1704 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

DUPLEX, CLOSE to campus. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st. (785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex close to campus. All appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Close to campus. Water/ trash/ gas paid. No pets, no smoking. Off-street parking. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-$490. three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701

STUDIO, CLOSE to campus. No pets. $300. (785)587-9460.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM AT 1209 Claflin Road. One block from campus. $600/ month. January 1st lease. Washer/ dryer. Off-street parking. (785)341-8972.

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE. Central air. Pets ok. Large fenced yard. Available December. (785)317-7713.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath duplex. One-half mile from campus. Washer/ dryer included. Single property owner. No pets. No smoking. 1410 Houston. Number Two. (785)776-9260.

LOOK BRAND New House 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

RENT NEGOTIABLE: Three-bedroom, two bath, one-half duplex. Immaculate and spacious. All appliances included. Walk to Aggieville. (785)565-2432.

145
Roommate Wanted

JANUARY- AUGUST: Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Phillip (913)302-0402.

ROOMMATES NEEDED for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for two-bedroom apartment. Very clean, nice, quiet. great landlords, available now. Call Nicole (913)220-5854.

ROOMMATE WANTED for two-bedroom apartment. $245/ month. Available early- mid December. Water, trash, and cable paid. Call (316)288-6346.

150
Sublease

ROOMMATES: MALE or female. pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED: Two-bedroom apartment with washer and dryer. One block from campus! Water and trash paid. Cheap rent for location! Call (316)288-9629.

SUBLEASER WANTED: nice large room available January 1. $300/month. Call (785)871-1626.

150
Sublease

NICE TWO-BEDROOM. Close to City Park. Washer/ Dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887. Call for details.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location, one block to campus. January sublease. $365 a month. Call (785)554-4424.

MALE SUBLEASER needed immediately. 1026 Ratione. Two blocks from campus. Share house with three males. Sublease January to May. (620)200-0977.

SUBLEASE BEGINS January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/trash/water/laundry. Call (785)341-7376 or (316)655-7479.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for January through July. Walking distance to campus. First month's rent paid. Rent negotiable. Call (785)332-6011.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Two-bedroom apartment. January to June lease. $235 a month. Contact LeAnne (316)734-0846 or Erin (785)737-3144.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for two-bedroom, two bathroom brand new apartment, close to campus. Available mid-December to June or August. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher and garbage disposal. Call Jamie at (316)250-2780.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath, one-half utilities. Available mid-December. Rent negotiable! Call Tawny (316)706-7767.

COACHES: USD 378, Riley County is accepting applications for Middle School Boys Basketball coaches (one or two). Please contact Becky Pultz at bultz@usd378.org with mailing address or (785)485-4000 as soon as possible.

FULL-TIME SUMMER work. Open to all majors. I will take five more students to help me run my own business. Average earns $800/ work. Contact (785)317-0555.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

GRADUATE RESEARCH Assistant (GRA) to serve as a UNIX Technical Support Programmer in the K-State Information Systems office. Assist lead applications developer with UNIX programming tasks. A high level understanding of Sun Solaris (UNIX) Operating Systems and thorough understanding of UNIX and/or Perl scripts are required. This is a year around student opportunity. Contact John Streeter at (785)532-4758 or jas@k-state.edu, or come by 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 215 to apply. Application deadline is Friday, December 2, 2005. Equal Opportunity Employer.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY. Information Systems Office Associate Director, Database Management Services. Kansas State University is seeking a senior technical manager in its Information Systems Office to be responsible for visioning, planning and managing all facets of database management services for the university. Minimum requirements include: (1) a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Information Systems, Software Engineering, or other appropriately related technical field; (2) seven years experience in progressively responsible positions in a major information systems organization, to include 5 years in a highly technical hands-on role in enterprise computing environments involving the administration of enterprise database and applications servers; (3) two years technical leadership and/or direct supervision experience involving responsibility for evaluating technical staff performance is required; and (4) in-depth technical knowledge of Oracle 9i and 10g database management and applications server software. A detailed position description is available at www.ksu.edu/isoc/employment. Salary is negotiable based upon qualifications and experience. A letter of application describing qualifications for and expressing interest in the position, a professional resume, and a list of three professional references with complete contact information should be sent to: Search Committee; Associate Director of Database Management Services; Information Systems Office; 2323 Anderson Avenue, Suite 215; Manhattan, KS 66502-2912 or submitted electronically to iso@ksu.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2005 with applications continuing to be considered until the position is filled. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer. K-State actively seeks diversity among its employees. Paid for by Kansas State University.

NEAT FEMALE roommate wanted mid-December- July. Close to campus. $245 monthly plus one-fourth bills. Call Joan (316)640-5080 or Jannessa (316)204-4910.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished January 1, at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline. (785)564-1284.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Female roommate wanted for spring semester. Nice house with washer/ dryer. Flexible on rent and dates. Call (316)304-2201.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPACIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

LET'S HELP OUR LOCAL CHARITIES.

Please consider a contribution to support our local charities.

THINK GLOBALLY. ACT LOCALLY.

200 service directory

300 employment opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

BARTENDING! $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

BOWINKLES: NOW hiring for wait staff and bartenders. Come to 3043 Anderson to apply.

COACHES: USD 378, Riley County is accepting applications for Middle School Boys Basketball coaches (one or two). Please contact Becky Pultz at bultz@usd378.org with mailing address or (785)485-4000 as soon as possible.

FULL-TIME SUMMER work. Open to all majors. I will take five more students to help me run my own business. Average earns $800/ work. Contact (785)317-0555.

GRADUATE RESEARCH Assistant (GRA) to serve as a UNIX Technical Support Programmer in the K-State Information Systems office. Assist lead applications developer with UNIX programming tasks. A high level understanding of Sun Solaris (UNIX) Operating Systems and thorough understanding of UNIX and/or Perl scripts are required. This is a year around student opportunity. Contact John Streeter at (785)532-4758 or jas@k-state.edu, or come by 2323 Anderson Ave., Suite 215 to apply. Application deadline is Friday, December 2, 2005. Equal Opportunity Employer.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY. Information Systems Office Associate Director, Database Management Services. Kansas State University is seeking a senior technical manager in its Information Systems Office to be responsible for visioning, planning and managing all facets of database management services for the university. Minimum requirements include: (1) a Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, Information Systems, Software Engineering, or other appropriately related technical field; (2) seven years experience in progressively responsible positions in a major information systems organization, to include 5 years in a highly technical hands-on role in enterprise computing environments involving the administration of enterprise database and applications servers; (3) two years technical leadership and/or direct supervision experience involving responsibility for evaluating technical staff performance is required; and (4) in-depth technical knowledge of Oracle 9i and 10g database management and applications server software. A detailed position description is available at www.ksu.edu/isoc/employment. Salary is negotiable based upon qualifications and experience. A letter of application describing qualifications for and expressing interest in the position, a professional resume, and a list of three professional references with complete contact information should be sent to: Search Committee; Associate Director of Database Management Services; Information Systems Office; 2323 Anderson Avenue, Suite 215; Manhattan, KS 66502-2912 or submitted electronically to iso@ksu.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2005 with applications continuing to be considered until the position is filled. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer. K-State actively seeks diversity among its employees. Paid for by Kansas State University.

NEAT FEMALE roommate wanted mid-December- July. Close to campus. $245 monthly plus one-fourth bills. Call Joan (316)640-5080 or Jannessa (316)204-4910.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished January 1, at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline. (785)564-1284.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore Lane. Available at end of December until end of July. Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Female roommate wanted for spring semester. Nice house with washer/ dryer. Flexible on rent and dates. Call (316)304-2201.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT $400/ month at 1026 Bertrand, upper apartment. From January through May. If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPACIOUS apartment sublease January 1- May 31. $285/ person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk to union. (785)537-6880.

LET'S HELP OUR LOCAL CHARITIES.

Please consider a contribution to support our local charities.

THINK GLOBALLY. ACT LOCALLY.

310
Help Wanted

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors. Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half two hours per day 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME HELP wanted. laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant, 5107 Murray Rd. (785)776-5081.

PART-TIME/ FULL-TIME laborers needed. Farm background preferred. Call (785)410-2918.

PITA PIT delivery drivers needed. Shifts available 5 pm- 11 pm and 11pm- 4 am. Duties include greeting customers, making pizzas, general cleaning, food preparation and delivering pizzas. Must be a team player and willing to work in a fast-paced fun environment. Pick up application at The Pita Pit, 1131 Moro.

PROGRAMMER CIVICPLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

30 GALLON fish tank with Walk-in's welcome. Lair Gauche, (785)776-3302.

500
transportation

510
Automobiles

1994 BUICK Skylark. 160K over 30 MPG. $950 or best offer. Runs good, dependable. (785)547-6531.

1997 JEEP Grand Cherokee Laredo. Black, 4x4, air conditioning. CD, recently inspected, dealer maintained, excellent condition. 80,500 miles. $5,700. (847)452-0958.

2003 FORD Mustang GT convertible. Leather, loaded. 35,000 miles. $15,000 or best offer. (785)632-5346.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

ADVERTISE. KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS • 322-6555

Quiznos Sub HMMM...TOASTY!

su/du/ku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

000 bulletin board

100 housing/ real estate

200 service directory

300 employment opportunities

400 open market

500 transportation

600 travel/ trips

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run. CALL 532-6555

Classified RATES

1 DAY
20 words or less $8.50
each word over 20 20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less $9.95
each word over 20 25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less $11.65
each word over 20 30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less $12.90
each word over 20 35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20 40¢ per word (consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD Go to Kedzie 103 (across from the K-State Student Union). Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office is open except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

032
Shout Outs

KATIE. SHUT your mouth! You just shut your mouth!

HAVE A Holly jolly Christmas it's the best time of the year.....

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

BOY GEORGE is staring at me, and I kind of like it.

THE ELECTRIC guitar and Christmas music are the greatest! thing since Snyder!

FOR HANUKKAH I'm giving my girl a spin on my dreidel.

FOR CHRISTMAS I'm giving my honey myself wrapped in cellophane.

EAT the yellow snow, it's magical!

ORBITING THE Giant Hairball is my favorite passtime.

/ male/ red hair/ hazel eyes looking for fellow ginger. Call 785-395-4827. Ask for Andy.

000 bulletin board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five airplanes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/ksc

LAN GAME where everyone can hear you scream: $10 for all day. Parties by appointment. Twenty-four stations. Our computers or yours. Lair Gauche in West-loo.

www.bobbyts.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, 1-shirts, and gift certificates.

NANCY'S BOUTIQUE at 501 N. 3rd. The finest selection of pre-owned clothes and furniture available. Home decor. Some vintage clothing, bar accessories, neon and other beer signs. Accepting donations. (785)776-4405.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

FOUND: CAR keys in front of Bob Dole Hall Saturday. Call (785)532-7041 or stop by Bob Dole Hall to claim.

LOST: EASY up portable shade, and folding camp table, at Griffith and Tuttle Creek Blvd. Reward. (785)539-1008.

LOST KEYS: lost on Monday. Serenity keychain. Please call (785)539-4301 if found.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/ real estate

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

1000 SQUARE foot plus, basement apartment. Windows, washer/ dryer share. Two-bedroom, one bath. Private parking. Quiet. Near campus. Available January. No smoking. Call (785)341-8929.

901 MORO, exceptional, new building, two-bedroom with all amenities, ready for January occupancy. $780. (785)539-4283. (785)539-8401.

LAN GAME where everyone can hear you scream: $10 for all day. Parties by appointment. Twenty-four stations. Our computers or yours. Lair Gauche in West-loo.

www.bobbyts.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, 1-shirts, and gift certificates.

NANCY'S BOUTIQUE at 501 N. 3rd. The finest selection of pre-owned clothes and furniture available. Home decor. Some vintage clothing, bar accessories, neon and other beer signs. Accepting donations. (785)776-4405.

FOOTBALL | Weiser: 'We have no leading candidate, no offer'

Continued from Page 1

expressed interest in the job. "We have no leading candidate, no offer," Weiser said Wednesday night. "That's all I can tell you. I'm not going to confirm or deny anything."

Snyder, credited with one of the greatest turnarounds in college football history, announced his retirement after 17 seasons on Nov. 15.

He has continued to run day-to-day operations while the search for his replacement continues.

"Each search has its own personality and twists and turns," Weiser said. "We had a pool of candidates we believe had some merit on the front end. I'm very happy with how things are going and I'm happy with how they are progressing."

- The Associated Press contributed to this report.

BOXING | Promoter could bring fight to Manhattan for Schwieger

Continued from Page 8

we need to change that. We also want to let people know we have some local talent."

Mayweather believes Kansas could get more exposure for its boxing scene if it can find the talent and develop them into contenders.

"You got to start with a local kid who can fight and build their record up," Mayweather said. "Then you have to create enough buzz to bring in someone like ESPN or Fox Sports to showcase the event on national television."

Damon Reed, who runs a gym in Topeka, agrees with Mayweather's strategy of developing young talent.

But he doesn't agree with Schwieger fighting Olympic athletes this early in his career.

Schwieger could potentially generate a following in Kansas among K-State fans, and Reed said he wouldn't mind promoting a fight for the former Wildcat in Manhattan if the opportunity ever presented itself.

"I would like to see him start out slower to build up his record," Reed said. "Then he can fight some bigger names. Right now he needs to develop."

All Schwieger knows is that he must be patient with boxing and remember a lesson he learned from his former football coach, Bill Snyder.

"I'm just going to try to make myself better everyday," Schwieger said.

BASKETBALL | Wildcats will play 4 games in 8-day span

Continued from Page 8

that will build confidence going into the Big 12 (Conference)," Harris said. "Everyone will have a chip on their shoulders knowing that we are one of the upper-echelon teams in this league."

Wooldridge said his team's confidence should help the Wildcats in their game against Washington State on Saturday, but the Cougars will provide a tough test.

"We are going to play a well-drilled team," Wooldridge said. "All the little things are going to count going into this one."

This will be K-State's second of four games in an eight-day span.

"We've got a lot of basketball ahead of us in a short period of time," Wooldridge said. "We have got to seize each opportunity."

JACKSON | Research focuses on racial profiling, traffic stops

Continued from Page 1

Jackson said low minority attendance at the university was one reason the number was low. He said it is also common for people to not participate in research.

"You have to wonder if people even knew what racial profiling meant," he said.

Jackson and Withrow gave the focus group their definition of racial profiling and asked them about their experiences in Wichita and other cities. They were only interested in the traffic stops participants considered illegal or inappropriate because they were based on race.

Jackson said the focus group did not yield solid information, but it told Withrow where to look for future research. The first draft of Jackson and Withrow's research was based on content analysis of media accounts of quantitative numbers, variables and patterns.

Jackson said an overall finding was that race is not used by police to initially pull someone over. However, if a person is pulled over, police are then more likely to conduct searches based on one's race.

"The situation is not getting any better because there is still the stereotype that black men sell drugs, especially on the interstate and highways," Jackson said.

Withrow analyzed the data of 35,000 traffic stops in Wichita and Sedgewick County, Kan., for "Racial Profiling." Withrow said the overall finding was that blacks are over-represented in traffic stops.

Withrow said in his book that statute attempts to control racial profiling at the federal, state and local levels have not been successful. But critics of racial profiling claim there are obstacles in measuring race accurately and consistently. There is also fear among police officers that the research will be used to their disadvantage.

Jackson said critics claim minorities are involved in more crimes, therefore justifying that they are pulled over more.

In his book, Withrow said police departments should pay attention to how their resources are allocated and actively recruit a diverse workforce to reduce racial profiling in society.

Jackson said immigrant racial profiling has become a trend since Sept. 11, 2001, and the beginning of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

"Hopefully through education, we can train police officers to critically think and question what they are doing before they racially profile someone," he said. "I've run into a lot of people who have never met an African-American, and there are a lot of stereotypes out there I'd like to breakdown."

VOLLEYBALL | K-State to take on Atlantic Sun Champs in 2nd round

Continued from Page 8

faster team. They are more highball."

Now the Cats look to their next opponent, who will be either No. 4 Florida or Florida Atlantic.

Florida is 30-2 on the season and the South Eastern Conference champions. K-State is 0-3 against the Gators. Florida Atlantic is 29-2 overall and are also champions of the Atlantic Sun Conference. The Wildcats are 1-0 against Atlantic.

Fritz said they will scout their unknown opponents and then treat tonight's match like any other.

"We'll just get the girls rested and then prepare like we always do," Fritz said.

CASINO | Gambling raises debate in Sumner, Marion counties

Continued from Page 1

In a non-scientific survey, the Sumner County Police Department researched the number of people traveling through the area. With a Kansas Turnpike exit leading to Wellington, Hansel said nearly 18,000 motorists pass through the city each day. Almost 80 percent of those cars were coming back into Kansas from Oklahoma Casino sites, she said.

"I just feel like right now we are exporting our money in Oklahoma," Hansel said. "The benefit, though, is that the casino development will go back into the city to pay for the upgrades and infrastructure."

Foxwoods Resort Company economists predict that the casino will draw in 1.5 million to the location, with nearly 2 percent of sales going directly to the area government.

Wichita resident Mark Hatfield said while location important to each county, it is also a concern for opponents of the casino proposal.

"Look at Sumner and Harvey County — they both are within a half hour's drive to dozens of young college students," Hatfield said. "Youth are vulnerable to temptations of peer pressure, whether it be drinking or sex. Should gambling be added to the list?"

Other demographics, however, might also struggle with having a casino within arm's reach.

"We have studies that show for every dollar you bring in gambling revenue, you'll lose $1.90 in costs to the taxpayer," said Tom Grey, president of National Coalition Against Legalized Gambling. "It's as simple as ABC — the addiction, the bankruptcy, the crime and corruption that you already have will just multiply with this expansion."

Areas like Sumner and Marion counties already rank at the lower end of the poverty rate in the state.

A U.S. News & World Report analysis found crime rates in casino communities to be 84 percent higher than the national average.

Though communities continue to suffer from poverty, that problem can be alleviated with solid gambling education, said Gary Armentrout, chief development officer for Foxwoods Development Company.

"If you build these things in Kansas, you'll have all these addictions," Armentrout said. "People are already gambling, bringing their money to other cities. Let's address the problem at the source and keep it in the hands of the people who can help them most."

you can finally buy a book WORTH ITS PRICE
KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY
CAMPUS PHONE BOOK
On sale in K&D 103
8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

dependable, quality service
We can print from your Zip, CD-Rom, or USB flash drive.
Elafin Books and Copies

Relax for the Holidays!
American Academy of Cosmetology & Massage Therapy
1130 Westloop Place Manhattan, KS 66502

Holiday Gift Cards Available 10% off, It's the perfect Gift!

Call 785.539.1837 to order today
Stressed with exams? Massage Special
$20.00 for 1 Hour Massage!
Relax in our Beautiful Spa for only $20.00

FRIDAY * DANCE & COUNTRY PARTY
$2.50 MILLER LITE POUNDERS

SATURDAY * COUNTRY PARTY
$2.00 TEQUILA SHOTS

HONK HORNS SALOON
$2 Cover for 21 & up
$5 Cover for 18-20

The Collegian is available at 112 locations near you. COLLEGIAN

KSU Meat Sale
FRIDAY • Noon-5:45 p.m.
Rm. 166 • Weber Hall

BEEF
roast, steak, ground beef, bratwurst

PORK
pork chops, pork steaks, sausage, ground pork, bacon

LAMB
chops, roast, ground lamb

Paid for by Kansas State University. For information call 532-1279

GTM Sportswear is looking for a full-time product specialist with degree in Apparel Design/Product Development.

- December graduates are welcome.
- Responsibilities include technical development of sports apparel including design, fit, and construction aspects of a garment. Applicant must be willing to travel 5-6 times per year within the U.S. and possibly 2-3 times overseas.
- Starting wage is negotiable depending upon experience and qualifications. We offer paid time off, health & dental benefits, profit sharing and 401K.

Stop by 520 McCall Road Manhattan KS and fill out and application, or e-mail klindsay@igtm.com

GTM SPORTSWEAR

Need a Shirt?
Door Prizes
Free T-shirts from 6-9 pm

Rustys LAST CHANCE SALOON

KANSAS STATE FOOTBALL

ANNUAL AWARDS CEREMONY
Saturday, Dec. 3
1:30pm
McCain Auditorium on the KSU Campus

TICKETS: $3 for the public, $1 for students with valid K-State I.D.
For more info, call 785.532.6428

GO STATE!

wildcats
2005-2006 BASKETBALL

Commerce Bank Classic
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2
3pm - Saint Joseph's vs. Houston
5pm - K-State vs. Texas-PanAm

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3
3pm - Consolation
5pm - Championship

Bramlage Coliseum
GO STATE!
Commerce Bank

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

VISITS K... for performance

Edge, Page 7

www.kstatecollegian.com

Monday, December 5, 2005

Vol 110, No. 72

K-State to announce Prince as new football coach today

By Michael Ashford
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State will announce Virginia offensive coordinator Ron Prince as the Wildcat coach at 4 p.m. today.

A players' meeting has been called for 2:45 p.m. today to introduce Prince to the team, and late Sunday night, the university and the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics announced Prince will be named K-State's 33rd head football coach today.

"The most important thing for Kansas State was to find the right fit," Athletics Director Tim Weiser said in a release. "And though that could be defined in a lot of different ways we believe that included someone who had familiarity with Kansas State football, the state of Kansas and the unique culture and tradition of the university."

"In our minds, coach Prince clearly meets all of those criteria, among many others, and we are extremely excited to be announcing him as our head coach (today)."

As late as Saturday prior to the 2005 Football Awards Ceremony, junior defensive tackle Quintin Echols said the players were still unsure of what the players' meeting today would entail.

Prince

"Hopefully, it tells us who our coach is," Echols said. "Right now, I have no idea. But I'm hoping that's what it is."

Prince, a native of Junction City, attended Dodge City Community College from 1988-89, where he played offensive tackle.

From Dodge City, Prince went to Appalachian State before returning to Dodge City Community College to serve as a volunteer assistant coach in 1992.

Prince began his full-time career coaching offensive line/tight ends and strength and conditioning at Alabama A&M in 1993. Prince made stops at South Carolina State in 1994, James Madison University from 1995-97 and Cornell from 1998-2000 as an offensive line coach.

In 2001, Virginia coach Al Groh hired Prince as the Cavaliers' offensive line coach, and in February 2003, Groh elevated Prince to offensive coordinator.

However, Gallagher said he could not assess Prince's role in the Cavalier offense because of Groh's coaching style.

"I have heard Al Groh takes much of the control of the program and the offense," Gallagher said. "That could make for an interesting switch for coach Prince, because I'm not sure how large his role was at UVA. It's really hard to tell."

Echols added that the last few weeks since Snyder announced his retirement have been hard for the players and the program.

"It's been difficult," Echols said. "We don't know how we're going to recruit or who we're going to recruit. It's pretty difficult right now."

Movie rating system less reliable

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Violence and sexual references are sinking more into cartoon G-rated movies, causing parents to research movies beyond their rating, according to a November CNN report.

The report states that Harvard studies confirm an increase in violence during the history of animated G-rated movies.

A study by researchers at the Harvard School of Public Health found that violence, sex and profanity increased in movies between 1992 and 2003.

The increase of violence in entertainment tends to increase violent behavior in youth, said John Murray, professor of family studies and human services.

Murray, whose teaching interests include media and children, and violence in childhood and adolescence, said the Motion Picture Association of America is more concerned with the sexual content of movies.

"It has always been an issue for the MPAA to pay more attention to sex than violence in films because they don't think sex is as big of a deal," he said.

According to its Web site, the MPAA lists G-rated films as "all ages admitted," with minimum violence and no nudity or sex scenes.

The mission of the rating system is to offer parents advance information about movies so they can decide what movies they want their children to see, according to the MPAA site.

Murray said parents should research the content of movies through the Internet and newspaper summaries before viewing them with their children.

"A G-rating does not necessarily mean violence-free," he said. "Parents need to take the violence seriously because there is reason to be concerned."

The increase of violence and sexual references in cartoon movies is a reflection of society, not the subjective ratings system of MPAA, said MPAA president Dan Glickman in a CNN report.

One reason for an increase of violence in animated movies is consumers paying for the movies and not boycotting them, said Beth Tatarko,

"A G-rating does not necessarily mean violence-free. Parents need to take the violence seriously because there is reason to be concerned."

John Murray
PROFESSOR

For more information on the movie rating system, go to www.mppa.org

See RATING Page 10

Photo illustration by Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

By Christina Hansen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Rapid growth

Crack replaces meth as most abused drug in the state of Kansas

Crack cocaine has replaced methamphetamine as the most abused drug in Kansas, law enforcement officials said.

Locally, crack cocaine use in Manhattan and its surrounding areas has grown rapidly, said Riley County Police Department Luke Breault.

Breault said pressure on meth dealers and a wider availability of crack cocaine is most likely behind the trend.

"Meth production has been curbed by recent legislation," he said. "A lot of meth users have apparently switched to cocaine."

According to the Office of National Drug Control Policy, crack cocaine was originally used as an anesthesia for medical patients in the late 1800s, but was later abandoned in favor of safer drugs.

Typically found in the form of a powdery white substance, crack can be snorted, smoked or diluted into a solution and injected directly into the blood stream. Users achieve a brief and intense high as the drug builds up dopamine in the brain, causing the continuous stimulation of neurons.

Breault said many users burn the powder on sheets of foil and inhale the vapors.

"They think it's not as bad as smoking it directly, but the effects are the same," he said.

Crack cocaine use presents many serious health risks, including constricted blood vessels and increased temperature, heart and blood pressure rates.

In addition, cocaine smokers may suffer from acute respiratory problems including coughing, shortness of breath and severe chest pains with lung trauma and bleeding.

Long-term use can lead to medical complications such as heart attacks, respiratory failure and strokes and seizures.

Crack users may also experience effects like tremors, vertigo, muscle twitches and extreme paranoia.

The RCPD devotes a team of detectives, the Pro-Active Crime Unit, exclusively to tracking and apprehending drug offenders in the area.

See COCAINE Page 10

Students arrested for possession of marijuana

Staff reports
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Two search warrants served in two rooms in Marlatt and Putnam Halls and a Manhattan residence led to the arrest of five K-State students Thursday evening and the confiscation of one-quarter pound of marijuana.

At 5:30 p.m., the Riley County Police Department executed the warrant after the K-State police notified them of a complaint about the distribution and use of marijuana among the residence halls.

The RCPD found evidence of marijuana usage in the rooms, Putnam 237 and Marlatt 140, and one-quarter pound of marijuana in the residence, 923 Fremont, No. 1.

Aaron Salinas, Marlatt 140, was arrested at 6 p.m. for felony sale of marijuana, felony possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. The freshman in open option was released on a $2,000 bond.

Jeffrey Rogosch, Marlatt 310, was arrested at 6:05 p.m. for felony sale of marijuana, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. The freshman in pre-vet was released on a $2,000 bond.

Adam Ingersoll, Putnam 237, was arrested at 7 p.m. for two counts of felony sale of marijuana, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. The sophomore in biology was released on a $3,000 bond.

George Ulrey, 923 Fremont St., No. 1, was arrested at 7:50 p.m. for felony sale of marijuana, felony possession of marijuana with intent to distribute, felony possession of drug paraphernalia, felony no Kansas drug tax stamp and possession of marijuana.

The junior in economics was released on a $2,500 bond.

Kevin Knapp, 1444 Vattier St., No. 4, was arrested at 9 p.m. for felony sale of marijuana, possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

The senior in marketing was released on a $2,000 bond.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Kansas Death Penalty

Attorney General Phill Kline and Kansas Capital Appellate Defender Rebecca Woodman will present arguments on the state's death penalty law to the U.S. Supreme Court this week. Last year, the state supreme court ruled 4-3 last year that the death penalty law was unconstitutional.

Raytheon sale

Raytheon Aircraft Co. in Wichita received the largest single commercial order in its history Friday, when Net-Jets ordered 50 Hawker 4000 midsize jets. The sale was valued at more than $1 billion and included a 10-year guaranteed maintenance agreement. Deliveries will begin in 2007 and continue through 2013.

Possible U.S. missile

Shrapnel that appeared to be from an American-made missile was found Sunday at the house where Pakistan said a top al-Qaeda operative was killed in an explosion, although President Bush's national security adviser declined to confirm the death. The metal pieces bore the designator "AGM-114," the words "guided missile" and the initials "U.S."

DON'T FORGET

The Festival of Nations will present a festival of holidays from noon to 1 p.m. today in the Union Courtyard.

The men's basketball team will play Longwood at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

The K-State Potters Guild Fall Sale will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in the K-State Student Union.

Today

High 33
Low 13

Tuesday

High 25
Low 3

Claflin Books and Copies

1814 Claflin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.claflinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS
1 Tangelo's move
4 Japanese noodles
9 Burst
12 Blackjack component
13 "Maria" —
14 Lawyers' org.
15 Kreskin, e.g.
17 Boar's mate
18 "Simpsons" store-keeper
19 Abyssinian baby
21 Tale teller
24 Bygone times
25 "The Greatest"
26 Lair
28 "Prince of Tides" actor
31 Wealthy
33 Potential syrup
35 Even
36 "Blossom" star Bialik
38 One of the litter

DOWN
40 Droop
41 Harvester's collection
43 Rook
45 — Curtis (hair-care brand)
47 Book-keeper (Abbr.)
48 Onassis, to pals
49 Trapeze performer
54 Wrong (Pref.)
55 Chum
56 Wish otherwise
57 Prepared
58 Town at the mouth of the Tiber
11 Hock
16 Diet soft drink
20 Jog
21 The Mac-Donald place
22 Pelvic bones
23 Arm-strong, for one
27 Siesta
29 Blue hue
30 Advantage
32 Take on
34 "La Bohème" composer
37 Rainier's home
39 Tropical fruit
42 Jurors, in theory
44 Bando of baseball
45 Radio hobbyists
46 Huron neighbor
50 Deterioration
51 Annoy
52 Bring to trial
53 X rating?

Solution time: 27 mins.

CRYPTOQUIP

S X E T B Q G X T Q M G U L T
Q G H S N F X Q T W E T B Q
U G H S N F Z L G U O T H L S U M Z C C
S L Z U S H Z O O T S F L W G F L

Yesterday's Cryptiquip: DRAMA SERIES IN WHICH COPS STOP FACTORIES FROM GENERATING FOUL SMELLS: "LAW AND ODOR."

Today's Cryptiquip Clue: U equals D

WEEK IN REVIEW

7 things you didn't know 7 days ago

1st partial face transplant successful

Portions of face are surgically transplanted

A team of surgeons in Lyon, France, completed a partial face transplant Sunday — replacing a patient's nose, lips and chin.

A silicon prosthesis was designed and applied to maintain the shape of the face

Donor's partial face was preserved in a solution at 39 F

Reconstruction after the tissue was microsurgically grafted onto the face

SOURCE: CHU de Lyons

ASSOCIATED PRESS GRAPHIC

Graphic shows before and after the face transplant.

Jean-Michel Dubernard, who performed the world's first partial face transplant, said on Dec. 4 the patient is "perfect," in good psychological condition and also doing well medically. Dubernard, who had previously conducted the world's first hand and forearm transplants, said the woman, who was mauled by her dog, would remain in the hospital in Lyon, France, for four to six weeks. She received a section of a nose, lips and chin in the surgery, which was performed a week ago.

STATE REP. PLEADS GUILTY

California representative Randy "Duke" Cunningham, 63, admitted on Nov. 28 to taking $2.4 million in bribes in exchange for funneling government business to defense contractors. He could face up to 10 years in prison for conspiracy to commit bribery, fraud and tax evasion charges. Cunningham's sentencing is scheduled for Feb. 27, and he is allowed to remain free until then.

3 MINE WORKERS MISSING

Rescuers in northeast China searched for three mine workers after a late-Sunday explosion in Dangfeng Coal Mine killed at least 148 people. Rescuers had saved 72 workers and were still looking for the three as of Nov. 29. The high concentration of poisonous gas made the chance of survival low, according to Song Kaicheng, an engineer with the group that owns the mine. Authorities said they have shut down more than 12,000 coal mines this year because of safety inspections, and thousands of mines have been ordered to improve their facilities.

2 SAUDI WOMEN ELECTED

Two Saudi Arabian businesswomen became the first female elected officials of the country on Nov. 30. Officials said Lama al-Sulaiman and Nashwa Taher won the election and were now on the board of Jiddah's chamber of commerce. The weekend elections were the first polls in Saudi Arabia in which women were allowed to run and to vote. Women were not allowed to vote or run in municipal elections earlier this year. Electoral officials said that women may be able to vote in municipal balloting in 2009.

GARNER, AFFLECK HAVE BABY GIRL

Jennifer Garner and Ben Affleck, both 33, had a baby girl on Dec. 1. "Mother, father and baby are doing great," publicists Ken Sunshine and Nicole Kind confirmed. This is the first child for both who were married in June. The couple reportedly named her Violet. The couple starred in "Daredevil" in 2003, but didn't begin dating until last year.

KIDNAPPERS HOLD 4 HOSTAGE

According to a videotape broadcast Dec. 2 by Al-Jazeera television, the kidnappers of four Christian peace activists threatened to kill their hostages unless all prisoners in the U.S. and Iraqi detention centers were released. The tape reportedly showed two Canadian, an American and a Briton hostage. According to Al-Jazeera, a statement was delivered that gave the two governments until Dec. 8 to meet demands. The kidnappers identified themselves as the Swords of Righteousness Brigade, a previously unknown group.

AL-QAEDA LEADER KILLED

One of al-Qaeda's top five leaders was killed by Pakistani security forces in a rocket attack near the Afghan border, American and Pakistani officials said Dec. 3. Hamza Rabia died Thursday in an explosion in the North Waziristan tribal area, and his remains were identified in DNA tests. Officials said Rabia was believed to be an Egyptian and head of al-Qaida's foreign operations.

Source: The Associated Press

The blotter
Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Thursday, Dec. 1

■ Brian Linderman, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 7:25 a.m. for criminal threat, sexual battery and aggravated burglary. Bond was set at $3,000.
■ Aaron Salinas, 140 Marlatt Hall, was arrested at 6 p.m. for unlawful sale of drugs and paraphernalia, possession of a simulated controlled substance and unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $2,000.
■ Jeffrey Rogosch, 310 Marlatt Hall, was arrested at 6:05 p.m. for unlawful sale of drugs and paraphernalia, evidence of drug taxation, possession of a simulated controlled substance and unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $2,000.
■ Adam Ingersoll, 237 Putnam Hall, was arrested at 7 p.m. for two counts of evidence of drug taxation, two counts of unlawful sale of drugs and paraphernalia, two counts of unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia and possession of a simulated controlled substance. Bond was set at $3,500.
■ George Ulrey, 923 Fremont St., No. 1, was arrested at 7:50 p.m. for possession of marijuana, unlawful sale of drugs and paraphernalia, two counts of evidence of drug taxation, three counts of possession of a simulated controlled substance and unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $2,500.
■ Kevin Knapp, 1114 Vattier St., Apt. 14, was arrested at 9 p.m. for unlawful sale of drugs and paraphernalia, possession of a simulated controlled substance and unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $2,000.

The planner
Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ A library basics for science and technology class will be from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. today at Hale Library's reception desk.
■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Yuyang Miao at 1:30 p.m. today in Rathbone 3053.
■ Early-Bird registration for K-State's Relay for Life will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. today in the K-State Student Union.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@spub.ksu.edu.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
pizza
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Every Day Only
ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

JOE'S TAP ROOM
1127 Moro
776-3593
Monday Night Football
20¢ wings
4-Halftime
$2 Big Beers
LIVE AFTER THE GAME
Andrew Zender

Pregnancy Testing Center
"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption." 539-3338
Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment
Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

MEAL MANIA

Quiznos SUB
This coupon entitles you to
FREE CHIP/DRINK WITH PURCHASE OF ANY SIZE SUB
Expires: 12-31-05
DELIVERY 539-9500

Shake & Bake
$1 off
Build your Own Sundae
When you clip this coupon!
5th & Fort Riley Blvd. • 537-9553

GTM Sportswear is looking for a full-time product specialist with degree in Apparel Design/Product Development.
• December graduates are welcome.
• Responsibilities include technical development of sports apparel including design, fit, and construction aspects of a garment. Applicant must be willing to travel 5-6 times per year within the U.S. and possibly 2-3 times overseas.
• Starting wage is negotiable depending upon experience and qualifications. We offer paid time off, health & dental benefits, profit sharing and 401K.
• Stop by 520 McCall Road Manhattan KS and fill out and application, or e-mail klindsay@gtm.com

Monday Night Football
25¢ JUMBO WINGS
$2 BIG BEERS
LAST CHANCE SALOON
Chance to win a Budweiser toolbox refrigerator and other prizes!

Alpha Xi Delta Officers
Executive Board
President- Ashley Renz
Chapter Life VP- Chancy Montera
Public Relations VP- Mary Bershenyi
Financial VP- Courtney Foster
Membership VP- Courtney Foster
Programs VP- Kayla Briggeman
Recording Secretary- Megan Plum
Panhellenic Delegate- Erin Wetta
Other Elected Officers
New Member Orientation Chair- Jess Perry
Academic Achievement Chair- Caitlin Kerr
Corresponding Secretary- Amanda Hill
Publicity Chair- Katelyn Hasler
Historian- Malanie Kriley
Chaplain- Kelly Olsen
Marshal- Stephanie Wilkins Ritual Chair- Erin Schroeder
Appointed Offices
Recruitment Secretary- Katie McCauley
Social Chair- Caitlyn Johnson
Assistant Social Chair- Cara McCoy
Assistant Academic- Makenzie Provorse
Fraternity Heritage Chairwoman- Amber Zawopki
Philanthropy Service Chairwoman- Rachel Barnett
Assistant Philanthropy Chairwoman- Mallory Howlett
Head of Housing Committee- Katy Crabaugh
Assistant New Member Orientation Chair- Jackie Schremer
Junior Panhellenic Delegate- Amanda Capehart
Keesha Holste
Activities Co-Chairs- Jenna Ane and Ane Wertzberger
Courtesy Chair- Marissa Ownes
Assistant Courtesy Chair- Kim Maguire
Intramural Chairwoman- Abby Brockman and Nikki Kennedy
Song Leader- Morgan Potter
Alumnae Relations- Diane Schaller
Mom/Dad Liaison- Megan Butler
House Mom Liaison- Amanda White
Sisterhood Activities Chair- Catrina Compagone
Spirit and Morale- Leah Marietta
Homecoming- Julie Payne
Assistant Homecoming- Amy Shultz

GROW encourages girls to try science, math

Rachel Peters, sixth grader at Douglas Middle School, gets help from Iris Wilson, freshman in geography, while she works on a tornado project. Middle school girls participated in Engineers and Scientists to the Rescue Saturday in the engineering complex.

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Cecilia Perez wants to be a doctor, not a scientist.

"I think (science) is complicated," she said.

Perez, an eighth-grader at Dodge City Middle School, participated in Engineers and Scientists to the Rescue Saturday in the engineering complex.

The event, facilitated by Girls Researching Our World, aims to show girls they can be engineers and scientists, said Laura Torres, the event's lead escort.

This year's rescue theme was chosen because of recent natural disasters, said Torres, junior in electrical engineering, said. Also, girls are generally inclined toward fields that allow them to aid others, she said.

"We're showing them through engineering they can come up with ideas to help solve the problems," Torres said. "A lot of girls want to go through with a major they know will help somebody."

The 94 participating middle school girls went through three "rescue groups" sessions on how to solve problems of household mold, food borne illness, tornadoes and supply distribution, among other topics.

Female K-State students majoring in science and engineering fields served as rescue group teachers and group escorts.

Karen Hayungs, senior in earth science education, taught the "State Fair" rescue group.

"They're basically doing a risk analysis of the avian flu at the State Fair," she said.

The girls, acting as a biosecurity team, examined issues of adequate housing, sanitation, tests for the virus and treatments, Hayungs said.

"A lot of girls want to go through with a major they know will help somebody."

Laura Torres
JUNIOR IN ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

Beth Montelone, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, is on the steering committee that started GROW.

"We wanted to create a program that would encourage young women to enter science and engineering," she said.

Only 14 percent of K-State engineering students are women, she said, and only about 30 percent of students majoring in chemistry, physics and mathematics are women.

GROW's goal is to increase those numbers, Torres said, and since the program is in its sixth year, organizers will begin to be able to see if GROW events have succeeded in encouraging women entering college to major in science and engineering.

The program targets middle school girls because girls at that age begin to drop science classes, Hayungs said.

"There's so many fields where women are vital, and they're just dropping out of science," she said.

GROW's four or five annual events are sponsored by a National Science Foundation grant, Montelone said. Participation has been increasing each year.

"We've really got statewide interest in the program at this point," she said.

Bikers collect toys, money

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

Toys that will be donated to Toys for Manhattan are secured to the back of a motorcycle of a member of ABATE, a motorcycle enthusiast group, as he gets ready at the start for the group's 19th annual Toy Run outside Manhattan Town Center on Saturday afternoon.

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Judy Padgett often cruises on her husband's motorcycle. Saturday, she and some other motorcycle-riding pals sponsored the 19th annual "Toy Run - Ride for the Children" at Manhattan Town Center.

Padgett's group, ABATE, is a motorcycle organization composed of motorcycle enthusiasts throughout the country. ABATE is an abbreviation of the Kansas group's two mottos: "A Brotherhood Against Totalitarian Enactments" and "American Bikers Aimed Towards Education."

As secretary of district 15 and director of Toys for Manhattan, Padgett said ABATE groups will lobby motorcycle legislation, educate communities about vehicular safety and sponsor charity events throughout the year.

"We're more than just a group of motorcyclists," Padgett said. "We're a service group, we have lobbyists, we have a purpose."

A recent Deloitte & Touche USA LLP survey claims Americans plan to contribute their hard-earned cash to charity, as opposed to spending it on gifts and holiday entertainment.

The trends are related to recent disasters including Hurricane Katrina and the earthquake in Pakistan, said Laura Wilker, press contact of Deloitte & Touche USA LLP.

"Charitable donations ranked fourth in spending categories, exceeding planned spending for holiday entertaining at home, non-gift clothing and holiday furnishings, which all showed sharp declines from last year," Wilker said.

ABATE collected more than $300 through the Charity and Poker Run and hundreds of toys through the drive on Saturday. Members then transported the money and toys through a parade and then to the Toys for Manhattan site.

Antiques & Collectibles
Junior & Petite Blue Jeans
Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch,
and more!

Clip this ad for 20% off
—limit one per visit

QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used
CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL

The Apple's Heart
Where Kansas Meets New York
13 S. 5th • downtown pmtr

UPC
UPCOMING EVENTS

Union Program Council

Monday, December 5

Festival of Nations: Festival of Holidays, noon - 1 pm, Union Courtyard, Ground Floor. Free food and entertainment from cultures around the world.

Wednesday, December 7

End-of-the-Semester Destresser: 8 - 10 pm, Union Courtyard, Ground Floor. Free massages, crafts, food, and entertainment.

Friday, December 9

Film: "The 40 Year-Old Virgin," 8 pm, Forum Hall, Ground Floor, $1

Saturday, December 10

Film: "The 40 Year-Old Virgin," 7 & 9:30 pm, Forum Hall, Ground Floor, $2

Sunday, December 11

Film: "The 40 Year-Old Virgin," 8 pm, Forum Hall, Ground Floor, $2

William T. Kemper Gallery

AIDS Memorial Quilt: November 21-December 19

Attention film makers:
Check out www.ksu.edu/upc for information on the Little Apple® Film Festival.

Good luck on finals and Happy Holidays!

www.k-state.edu/upc
UPC hotline: 532-6572
UPC phone: 532-6571

For cats who bleed purple.

Wildcat Visa Credit Cards, Check Cards, and Gift Cards.
Available only at INTRUST Bank.

800-895-2265
www.intrustbank.com

yes you can. INTRUST Bank

TO THE POINT GROW program valuable asset to science, math

As the sexes plunge toward equality, a question remains: why are females perpetually underrepresented in math and science?

Women remain a minority in mathematics, physics and other high-end sciences. There is some speculation as to innate ability, but history does not bear these presumptions out.

Ancient Greek had Theano, the wife of Pythagoras and Diotama, claimed by Plato to be the teacher of Socrates.

The Egyptians had Merit Ptah, speculated to be the world's first named physician and the first woman known by name in the history of science.

Such modern day aspirants as Marie Curie and Evelyn Boyd Granville, the first black woman to obtain a Ph.D in Mathematics, have proven that women can not only participate in science, but can irrevocably alter scientific thinking.

The work of Girls Researching Our World is invaluable to educating young women to the historical contributions of women scientists and the unlimited potential that female scientists offer a rapidly changing scientific world.

Encouraging young women to pursue scientific careers can lead us to nothing but good. We should encourage these young minds to grow and contribute to the vast wealth of knowledge to which those who came before them, both men and women.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

Rediscovering diversity

Good intentions too often fall short

The diversity endeavor is failing. America may be all in favor of celebrating diversity, but true diversity is still being ignored. We're taking too simplistic a view based on broad categories rather than the diversity that truly exists within the race and ethnic categories we do recognize.

When the term "Asian-American" comes into a conversation, for example, many people think only of Chinese, Japanese, Indian or Korean-American. Many don't also see the myriad nations and cultures of Southeast Asia or Indonesia, let alone the incredible linguistic and ethnic diversity within such large nations as India or China; which together account more than one-third of the planet's population. In India alone, there are an incredible number of cultures divided not only by religion and region, but by class, language and other defining elements as well.

African-Americans too are deprived of their own true diversity within their race. We don't talk about or consider the wide range of different African countries, regions, languages and customs of their different ancestral backgrounds.

Latino and Hispanic Americans are often broadly identified as the same regardless of whether they're indigenous, of Spanish descent, descendants of Latin Europeans or are native to any country south of our borders.

Caucasians are just as crudely lumped together. Few of our generation realize the incredible diversity among European-Americans. The general conclusion is that all European-Americans come from a few similar backgrounds — particularly that of Anglo-Saxon background. In actuality, Anglo-Saxons are significantly outnumbered by other Caucasian cultures — cultures that are becoming increasingly anonymous as this diverse pool of nationalities, languages, and ethnicities have dissolved further into the American melting pot with each passing generation.

CHRISTINA FORSBERG

We're oblivious to the greater harm this oversimplification is causing. In order to preserve our heritages from disappearing into a new oversimplified view of "Americanization" we need to revisit an important lesson.

In years past, we attempted to dually embrace American values and the diversity brought to America by immigrants and our forefathers — after all, diversity is arguably what's helped make our nation so great.

This is what helped drive efforts to increase recognition and awareness of African-American culture and contributions during the civil rights era.

Yet diversity recognition programs that started with the best of intentions are only perpetuating some of the problems of the past through broad generalizations that continue to fail to recognize our true diversity.

In our current understanding of diversity, we mistakenly confuse broad race and ethnic categories as acceptable forms of acknowledgment, when race or ethnicity are actually only crude elements of any individual's identity. True diversity exists within the broader brush we've used to define diversity — a brush too sinfully broad to address the actual nature of diversity. Diversity is the quintessence of differences — its multidimensional expanse has been flattened to conform to our current definition of it.

We need to re-examine our broadly generalized perceptions of diversity, because diversity isn't merely a concept of differences between races and ethnic groups. It carries both the depth and width of all of the things that ultimately make each of us so individually human.

Christina Forsberg is a sophomore in astrology with a focus on the Moon-Venus union in Capricorn. Please send comments via telepathy or crystal ball to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

Illustrations by Christina Forsberg | COLLEGIAN

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

Holiday shopping with family a trying experience

LUCAS MADDY

Today, the whole gang from Crappy Acres and the Prison Bar Ranch crawled into the Rainbow Warrior — a 1976 Chevy Suburban that was far too close to the famed explosion of Pete's Paint Barn in spring 1989 — and rolled on down to Sam Walton's shopping extravaganza.

Discovering no valet service, we pettered to a sputtering stop in the closest semi-trailer parking spot and began the two mile hike to Wal-Mart's laser operated automatic doors.

After apologizing to the Salvation Army bell ringer and compensating him to avoid pressing any charges for actions Uncle Tommie committed (Tommie is drawn to bells like a bug to a zipper; consequently, Bessie the milk cow no longer has one due to an embarrassing incident our ex-banker unfortunately witnessed). Frustrated, I calmed my nerves and immediately a 230-year-old hard ass stock boy vehemently protested my use of a flask in his store. I was forced to cease and desist as he backed me up against a display of 14-inch cookies and frisked me to remove what he deemed inappropriate for use in a family store. I decided not to argue with anyone who could outlive a supernova and so began my holiday shopping, 20 minutes and 14 claim tickets later, now absent the flask, all five pocket knives, a Luger .22 (don't know how it got tucked into my hat band), two self-made fishing lures, tweezers, a live shell for a 30-ought-6 and three syringes (one still loaded with seven-way.)

Luckily, they stopped with my jacket pockets under the condition I did not remove it to reveal the bandolier and corn knife. I happily agreed and went on my merry way.

My first stop: air fresheners. I had drawn the short straw and would be riding home next to my father's mother. Next, a gift to keep the mother ship at bay all next year. She complains about not having a chance to go out and wear her fine jewels.

I found a potato peeler, subtracted nine months from my birthday and had the date engraved. I considered a matching knife set, but nixed that thought.

No need providing weapons if she ever finds out what actually happened to the house over Thanksgiving. However, for her to find out, someone there would have to remember, so I am moderately safe.

Onto the clothing department, where the girlfriend picked out something looking a good deal like a stretchy belt. She insisted it a Christmas season must-have. Upon exiting the dressing room, I saw it in fact was not an accessory but an entire outfit. She eventually convinced me to buy her the "spandex/lace/feather/etc" conglomeration after promising she would never wear it in public.

Nine hours and $1,700 later, we enlisted the help of twelve carryout boys and loaded up the car to begin our merry way home. We were all hungry, and an Arby's nervously quivered in the distance. Who knew what havoc the sleigh bells on the door would cause when Tommie walked in.

Merry Christmas and good luck on finals.

Lucas Maddy is a senior in interpretive dance. Comments can be sent by pigeon or Pony Express to the big house west of the three grain bins.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@spub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

The Camps Fourum the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene, and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Chuck Norris and Cartier Martin once got in a fight, and Cartier punched Chuck in the face before Chuck could round house kick Martin in the stomach. That was the end of Chuck-o.

My life is a living hell because they won't stop the jumping.

There is no theory of evolution, just a list of creatures Vin Diesel allows to live.

So I think that some girl over in Ford just saw me naked. I should learn to close the blinds. It goes by Pedro, if you were curious.

I still miss my gallbladder. I just feel so inadequate.

Your eyes are wonky.

Give in to the Gibbon.

I love the new voice.

So there's people spray-painting T-shirts in the lobby of my floor — is that a smart thing to do?

Mary Tyler Moore once broke a man's kneecap with a blunt object because he refused to kneel to her. That man was Chuck Norris, the blunt object, Vin Diesel's severed leg.

Mary Tyler Moore doesn't get that time of the month, she makes Mr. T get it for her.

One time, Jesus told a raging storm to sit down and shut up, it did.

One time, Jesus was at a wedding and they ran out of booze, so he made more, out of water.

One time, Jesus told one of his dead buddies to wake up, and he woke up.

Chuck Norris was born in FarmHouse.

Hey, the K-State Cancer Center sucks, they told me I have a scholarship and I've never got the money, and I don't know what's going on with them.

To all of you who don't tip your delivery driver, we remember who you are and we're spitting in your food.

I would so do Chuck Norris.

Chuck Norris does not sleep, he waits.

Each individual hair in Chuck Norris' beard spends four hours a week using a Bowflex.

Whoa, there's a new voice, why is there a new voice that totally threw me off.

Hey Tim Weiser, pull your head out, forget about the past, hire Venables.

Come on Taco Bell, this line is freaking long and my life is flashing before my eyes.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Cold weather doesn't stop 'Rockefeller Center' lighting

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When Lisa Rockley began working for Downtown Manhattan, Inc. two years ago, she wondered why the city didn't have a Christmas tree.

Last night, several members of the Manhattan community joined Downtown Manhattan, Inc. executive director Rockley, giving the area "finally something it needed," she said.

More than 100 area residents attended the first lighting of the Manhattan Rockefeller Center holiday tree at the "Lights on Downtown" event.

Though some community and Downtown Manhattan, Inc. board members expressed little faith in a Rockefeller Center dedication, Rockley said it was very rewarding to finally see the event in action.

"It was not an easy task," Rockley said.

For those who have not been to New York City, Manhattan Mayor Ed Klinek approved taking a step to bring a taste of the Big Apple to the Little Apple here in Manhattan.

In a proclamation, Klinek declared the location of Third Street and Poyntz Avenue as "Rockefeller Center," similar to the one located in New York City.

"I'm just really glad to see something like this come to Manhattan," Rockley said. "It's a great idea that's been long awaited."

The local Rockefeller Center features seasonal lights and a 30-foot tree, Rockley said. Of-

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

After watching the lighting of the Christmas tree, Ana Roberta, 4 years old, and her mother Lili Macovei speak to Santa Claus about presents for Christmas.

Officials said there are no specific hours the lights will be lit.

Poyntz Avenue businesses, including Steve's Floral and Capitol Federal Savings Bank, sponsored the tree set-up.

"It's just something special, for us all to be out here at this big moment," said Penny Nelson, representing Capitol Federal Savings Bank, 1401 Poyntz Ave. "It's great to see people, even in this bitter cold."

Chilly weather didn't stop attendees from spreading holiday cheer as they sang Christmas carols with Wamego's Dutch Sweet Adelines, rode a horse-drawn carriage and sipped hot cocoa.

Even the "real Santa Claus" warmed up the spirits of children attending, asking them what they wanted for Christmas.

"It means so much for people from the city to gather around and see something so in-tune with the holidays," said Junction City resident Doug Smith. "Look at the children, look at the families. Never have I seen so many people this happy in this cold of weather."

Japanese club performs for International Dance Festival

By Lola Shrimplin
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Japanese Yosakoi Dance Club presented the International Dance Festival in Forum Hall of the K-State Student Union Sunday night.

The club was formed this fall and has about 42 members. Not all the members are Japanese.

American and other International students also participate.

"The club performed nine dances that featured salsa, merengue, samba, cumbia and three Japanese dances.

The Souran Bushi versus Yosakoi Souran Bushi was performed by the Japanese Yosakoi Dance Club.

The dance is a folk-song for fishermen that describes the life of a fisherman.

It was created after World War II and is enormously popular in Japan.

Nina Rath, fourth-year vet-med student, said she had a lot of fun performing with the Yosakoi Dance Club.

"When she's not exercising the brain, she's exercising the body," said Nina's father,

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

Dancing a samba from Brazil, Renata Bolognesi, research associate in biology, at the International Dance Festival.

Rick Johnson.

A crowd favorite was Mariana Ramirez, 9, of Costa Rica. She performed two variations of the cumbia dance, a mix of Indigenous, Spanish, Moorish and African rhythms.

She was asked to perform after someone saw her dancing at a party, said Javier Vinasco, who translated for Mariana's mother.

Imaginative & Well Designed

HANDMADE GIFTS

Very Affordable to Splurge

NEW GLASS STUDIOS

• Dakota Ward (Colorado)
• Venetian Style Ornaments
• Hammerlane Glass (Kansas)
• Wall Vases & Paperweights

PLUS

• More Very Unusual Clocks & New
• Bulova Frank Lloyd Wright Designs
• Cool Jewels Crystal & Sterling Jewelry
• Boxes • Prisms • Glass Candles • Etc...

GLASS IMPRESSIONS

HOLIDAY HOURS:

Mon-Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5
Sundays in December

329 Poyntz Ave • Downtown Manhattan • 785-539-4610

The Collegian is available at 112 locations near you.

COLLEGIAN

MANHATTAN SHOE REPAIR

ONE SIZE FITS:
Men's sizes 6-11;
Women's sizes 5-10.

Walk sure and secure in the...
ICE TREADS
Stay one step ahead of the weather!

Place lightweight, sure-grip treads over shoes-these heavy-duty rubber designs with 4 metal treads dig into treacherous ice and snow...securing every step you take! Folds small to keep in purse or car-so you can avoid falls wherever you go!

#75226 Women's $10.99
#75242 Men's

216 S. 4th St.
Manhattan, Kansas
66502-6003

785-776-1193
1-800-776-1193

January 2006

intersession

December 27, 2005 - January 11, 2006

Time is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an Intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our web site at <http://www.dce.ksu.edu/>. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1815 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $164 per undergraduate resident credit hour and $227 per graduate resident credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14 per credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/5-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Design Graphics and Visual Thinking	LAR 310	94108	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
Prl/Advanced Design Graphics/Visual Thinking	LAR 741	94110	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
Forensic Medicine & the Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94112	3 UG/G	1/3-1/10	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Hip-Hop as Literature	ENGL 295	94118	2 UG	1/3-1/10	MTWUF 12:30 PM-5:00 PM
The History of Insurgency on American Soil	HIST 200	94116	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 6:00 PM-10:00 PM
The History of American Movies and the Movie-Going Experience	HIST 533	94117	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Sport and Exercise Personality	KIN 592	94121	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:45 PM
Philanthropy and Corporate Communication	MC 450	94123	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Jazz in Kansas City and the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94124	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 562	94126	3 UG/G	12/29-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
Theatre for Conflict Resolution	THTRE 673	94129	3 UG/G	12/30-1/11	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
BUSINESS
Achieving Career Success: Developing Personal Competencies.	GENBA 498	94131	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
Outwitting Opponents, & Avoiding Common Career Traps	MANGT 300	94133	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
Introduction to Total Quality Management
EDUCATION
Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94142	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, and Administrators	EDCEP 802	94146	3 G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Early Field Experience	EDSEC 230	94148	1 UG	12/27-1/11	APPT
ENGINEERING
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94151	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94152	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 12:30 PM-4:30 PM
Energy and Environmental Impacts Related to Sustainability	CHE 650	94153	1 UG/G	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94154	1 UG	12/27-12/29	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94155	1 UG	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94156	1 UG	1/9-1/11	MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Building Commissioning	CNS 644	94158	2 UG/G	12/28-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:00 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management	CNS 644	94159	2 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-11:30 AM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	DEN 300	94186	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
Problems/Eng. & Tech: Hazwoper Training	DEN 398	94160	3 UG/N	1/3-1/6	TWUF 8:00 AM-7:00 PM
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics: Introduction to Infant Mental Health:	FSHS 300	94162	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 8:30 AM-1:00 PM
Raising Emotionally Healthy Children	FSHS 700	94166	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:45 PM
Problems in FSHS: Family Law	FSHS 704	94161	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	TWUF 8:30 AM-12:15 PM
Introduction to Marriage and Family Therapy	FSHS 708	94168	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:30 PM-9:00 PM
Topics: Premarital Education and Counseling	GERON 610	94171	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Seminar in Long-Term Care Administration	HRIMD 664	94180	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM
Lodging Management Theory

VERIFY ALL COURSE INFORMATION BY CHECKING THE WEBSITE PRIOR TO THE FIRST DAY OF CLASS.

Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

dependable, quality service
Let us put the final touches on your final projects.
Clafin Books and Copies

You know how great food smells when you don't have to make it yourself?

We can get that for you.

Check out the MENU GUIDE in back of the Campus Phone Book

Available in Kedzie 103
Mon. - Fri. 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Wildcats
suffer
1st lossStaff Reports
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Washington State tried to hand the game to the K-State men's basketball team on multiple occasions on Saturday, but the Wildcats were unable to steal a victory away from the Cougars.

K-State (4-1) suffered its first setback of the season in Pullman, Wash., in a low-scoring 58-57 loss at the hands of Washington State (4-1).

With K-State leading 44-42 with just over nine minutes left in the second half, the Cougars used an 11-0 run over the next five minutes to move ahead 53-44.

At that point, the Wildcats looked as if they were going to let Washington State glide to the easy victory.

However, junior guard Lance Harris scored eight of his 12 points in a K-State run that cut the lead to two points with 1:37 remaining.

Clinging to a one-point lead in the final minute, the Cougars could not seal the win at the free-throw line. They missed three free-throws, and K-State had a chance to win as Harris got open for a 3-pointer with time running out.

Harris' shot attempt was blocked by Cougar guard Kyle Weaver, and time ran out on the Wildcats' first losing effort.

Junior forward Cartier Martin again led K-State in both scoring and rebounding, producing his third double-double of the year with 21 points and 12 rebounds.

Cougar coach Dick Bennett's renowned defense clearly affected the Wildcats' ability to run their offense. K-State struggled from the field, shooting 37.7 percent, and also failed to convert at the free-throw line (54.2 percent).

K-State will have little time to sulk, as the Wildcats are back home tonight to play Longwood University.

Tip-off is set for 7 tonight at Bramlage Coliseum.

The Lancers come into the contest with a 2-5 record after losing 79-69 on Saturday to the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

A year ago, Longwood went 1-30 in its second season as a Division I team.

This season, the Lancers have already won more games, with victories over the University of Virginia-Wise and Liberty University.

K-State enters the game having won 28 of its last 30 home games against non-league competition.

The Wildcats are averaging 72.6 points per game on 46.9 percent shooting from the field.

Washington State 58 K-State 57

	K-State	WSU
Field goals	20-53	22-50
3-point	4-11	6-17
Free throws	13-24	8-15
Rebounds	39	34
Assists	15	12
Turnovers	12	13

Leading scorer	Martin	Low
Leading rebounder	Martin	Cowgill
Leading assists	Taylor	Low

K-State vs. Longwood

When: 7 tonight

Where: Bramlage Coliseum

How much: For ticket information, call (800) 221-CATS or log onto www.k-statesports.com.

Outplayed

Kimberly Dietz and Claire Coggins watch as Saint Joseph players celebrate on the Bramlage Coliseum floor. For the second straight year, K-State lost the championship game of the Commerce Bank Wildcat Classic.

St. Joseph's uses late run to win Commerce Bank Classic

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

St. Joseph's coach Cindy Griffin asked for a small favor Saturday night with her team down 10 points to K-State. She gave herself the sign of the cross and said a quick prayer.

The Hawks went on to outscore K-State 33-13 in the final 12 minutes of the game to earn the 78-68 win in the final of the Commerce Bank Wildcat Classic at Bramlage Coliseum.

"I said 'God help me,' because it was just an emotional game and I didn't think things weren't going our way, so I just needed a little help," Griffin said. "He answered."

Trailing by 15 points with less than 14 minutes to play, the Hawks went on an 11-0 run to cut the K-State lead to four points, the closest the game had been since the Hawks trailed by four with seven minutes remaining in the first half.

The Hawks grabbed their first lead since they led 16-13 on Hillary Klimowicz's 3-point play that put St. Joseph's up two points with a little more than six minutes remaining in the game.

K-State recaptured the lead by a point on a 3-point play from Kimberly Dietz, but it was the last field goal the Wildcats would convert until five seconds remained in the game.

St. Joseph's took the lead back on a basket from Faith Schutte, and went on to score 11 unanswered points to seal the win.

"I felt like St. Joseph's just did a great job the last 10 to 13 minutes of the basketball game on both ends of the floor," coach Deb Patterson said. "Basically they just outplayed us and out worked us for the last 13 minutes of the game and that's something we've got to learn from. Up until that point of time, that game was

St. Joseph's 78 K-State 68

	K-State	St. Joe's
Field goals	27-62	28-56
3-point	3-14	5-10
Free throws	11-19	17-22
Rebounds	31	36
Assists	17	19
Turnovers	12	12

Leading scorer	Hamlin, 22	Cornish, 20
Leading rebounder	Two tied, 6	Three tied, 6
Leading assists	Three tied, 4	Two tied, 2

basically in control for us, but it's a 40-minute contest and there's not going to be any stop or quit in the people you play, and they really outplayed us in all aspects of the game in the last 13 minutes."

See WOMEN Page 10

Bench scores 34 in loss

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State's disappointing loss to St. Joseph's on Saturday shed light on the youth and inexperience of the Wildcat squad. At the same time, there was one positive that emerged from the painful situation — the Wildcats have depth from their bench. So much depth that the K-State bench combined for half of the Cats' 68 points against St. Joseph's.

"They're capable of scoring," junior Twigg McIntyre said of the Wildcat bench. "From starter to bench player, it doesn't matter, coach (Deb Patterson) wants production. When you get off the bench, you just go in there and do what you need to do. That's everyone's mentality that comes off the bench."

Indeed, against St. Joseph's — and K-State's five other opponents — those on the bench have been asked to assume a bigger position this year.

And those on the bench have welcomed their expectations with open arms. For example, freshman Shalee Lehning came off the bench Friday night and scored a career-high 15 points and dished out a career-high 12 assists. McIntyre also scored a career-high 22 points in Friday's match up and 12 points in Saturday's outing. Senior Jessica McFarland contributed to the bench performance, posting a career-high 12 points against St. Joseph's.

In fact, on Saturday seven players scored, and four of those seven — including McIntyre, Lehning, junior Shana Wheeler and sophomore Carolyn McCullough, came off the bench.

That K-State doesn't have any go-to players this year allows for 11 different players to become the leading scorer on any given day, McFarland said.

"This whole year, we don't have any dominant scorers," McFarland said. "Every time I get in the post I'm trying to get it in the hoop."

Two bench players who generate consistent chemistry when they step on the court are McIntyre and Lehning. The tandem agree their playing styles enable them to click when they're in together.

McIntyre has played big all year for the Cats, scoring in double digits in five of six games for K-State. Lehning has also established herself as a leader on the court. In addition to her scoring ability, she also led the Cats in rebounds and assists in both games this weekend.

"I think as two point guards, we're on the same page," Lehning said. "We know what each other's thinking at times, and

See BENCH Page 10

Driving to the basket, senior center Jessica McFarland tries to get around Saint Joseph's Faith Schutte Saturday at Bramlage Coliseum. McFarland had a career-high 12 points in the Wildcat's 78-68 loss to the Hawks.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Virginia's Prince a good fit for football program; fans should show support

If you believe the Web sites and newspapers, Virginia offensive coordinator Ron Prince could be introduced as K-State's new football coach as early as today.

A players' meeting has been called at 2:45 p.m., assumedly to introduce the football team to their new leader.

For those who don't know, Prince's name has only recently been involved in the talk as to who would succeed legendary coach Bill Snyder.

It was always assumed that Snyder's replacement would be a disciple from Snyder's coaching tree.

There was no shortage of options. K-States threw around names like Jim Leavitt, Brent Venables, Phil Bennett and even current K-State assistants Dana Dimel and Del Miller.

Until last Monday, the thought of Prince taking over Snyder's throne was about as popular as Kansas coach Mark Mangino coming back to coach the Wildcats — it just wasn't happening.

Now that it appears Prince is going to be K-State's next head coach; it's time for K-State fans to get behind him and shower him with the support Snyder enjoyed for 17 amazing years.

So Prince doesn't have any direct ties to K-State. That doesn't matter as much as some like to believe. There was no link between Snyder and K-State prior to Snyder's hiring in 1988, and that seemed to turn out OK.

Sure, the immediately appealing pick would have been to hire a former pupil of Snyder's to take over the program, but sometimes, a change of direction can do wonders for a program.

What Prince does have is some of the same characteristics Snyder brought to the ailing Wildcat program.

Both have Kansas roots. Snyder was born in Salina. Prince was raised in Junction City.

Snyder was considered an offensive genius as the offensive coordinator at Iowa under Hayden Fry. Prince is considered an up-and-coming offensive guru as the offensive coordinator at Virginia.

But more importantly, from everyone close to the situation, Prince is a man of impeccable character, much like Snyder.

K-State will get a lot of national press from this hire, and Prince will represent K-State in such a way that will make Wildcat fans proud.

When Prince is officially named coach, there is reason to believe he will be able to return K-State to its glory days under Snyder, because he has the background and the personality to succeed at K-State.

It will be up to K-State fans to make sure Prince is welcomed into the Wildcat nation.

Michael Ashford is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

Sunday NFL Scores

Oakland	10	Green Bay	7
San Diego	34	Chicago	19
Jacksonville	20	Minnesota	21
Cleveland	14	Detroit	16
Tennessee	3	Buffalo	23
Indianapolis	35	Miami	24
Tampa Bay	10	Dallas	10
New Orleans	3	NY Giants	17
Cincinnati	38	Atlanta	6
Pittsburgh	31	Carolina	24
Houston	15	Washington	24
Baltimore	17	St. Louis	9
Arizona	16	Denver	27
San Francisco	10	Kansas City	31
NY Jets	3
New England	16

1-MINUTE
DRILL

Staff Reports

CFB | Watts, Mann named
MVPs of football team

Sophomore Marcus Watts was named both the Wildcats' defensive and special teams MVP and senior Victor Mann was named the team's offensive MVP as K-State held its 2005 awards ceremony Saturday afternoon at McCain Auditorium.

For the season, Watts finished second on the squad in tackles with 71 and led the Wildcats in stops during Big 12 play with 57.

Victor Mann emerged as a solid rushing threat late in the year, rushing 15 times for 79 yards and averaged 5.2 yards per carry in the Wildcats' final three games, including touchdown runs against Nebraska and Missouri. He also hauled in 11 receptions for 138 yards and a touchdown on the year, averaging 12.5 yards per catch.

Sophomore wide receiver Jordy Nelson was named as the offense's most improved player, also picking up the Anthony A. Bates Memorial Award, which is given to the player who best promotes team unity and unselfishness.

The defense's most improved player award went to junior linebacker Zach Diles, who didn't join the team until May but worked his way into the linebacker rotation and finished the year as K-State's fifth leading tackler with 50 stops.

Senior offensive lineman Jeromey Clary took home the Wildcats' Offensive Lineman of the Year award with Greg Wafford. Clary also received K-State's Lifter of the Year Award, the Paul Coffman Award for outstanding leadership and the Scholar-Athlete Award.

The Associated Press

NFL | Reviewed play helps

Chiefs defeat Broncos 31-27

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Kansas City Chiefs received a favorable ruling when they challenged the spot on a run that appeared to give Denver a first down near midfield on a fourth-and-1 play with 2:01 left.

Then the Chiefs (8-4) ran the clock down to 3 seconds and preserved a 31-27 victory that pulled them to within one game of the Broncos (9-3), who had won four in a row.

Trent Green threw two touchdown passes and Larry Johnson rushed for 140 yards and two more scores, but one of the biggest plays was Mike Anderson's plunge into the right side of the line on fourth down.

Officials on the field gave him a first down a couple of yards short of the 50.

But coach Dick Vermeil threw the challenge flag and the officials overturned the spot.

MLB | Yankees reportedly lost
$85 million in 2005

The New York Yankees lost between $50 million and $85 million for the 2005 season, the New York Daily News reported Sunday.

Despite drawing more than four million fans, a payroll of $200 million plus an additional $110 million in revenue sharing and luxury taxes has left the Yankees in the red, according to the paper.

"Yes, even George has his limits," one source told the Daily News.

The paper also reports that the Yankees might have to open up their checkbooks even further if a consultant hired by MLB decides the team undervalued their television rights.

MICHAEL
ASHFORD

THE EDGE

Monday, Dec. 5, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

Commanding the stage

Tracy Morgan, a former Saturday Night Live cast member, does a comedy act for a crowd Friday evening in the K-State Student Union Ballroom. Morgan's performance attracted about 800 people.

Photos by Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Right: Angela Nichols, senior in kinesiology, and Marsha McDade, graduate student in public administration, laugh during the comedy act of Tracy Morgan.

Left: Morgan's act included jokes about sex and race and concluded on a serious note about his family.

Saturday Night Live alumnus talks about race, family

J. Scott Bowman
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Saturday Night Live alumnus Tracy Morgan entertained a crowd of about 800 Friday night in the K-State Student Union Ballroom, and he did not even touch any of his SNL material.

He was introduced by UPC members as a former cast member and mentioned some of his memorable SNL characters including Brian Fellows and Astronaut Jones.

"How do I top Brian Fellows?" Morgan, 37, asked the crowd. "I'm looking at the crowd and I'm wondering where are all the black people? I see there's like four in the back. You got the Rosa Parks section."

"You thought this was going to be like an SNL sketch? Hell no, I'm going to talk about my dick."

Morgan joked about sex and race in his show, which was for mature audiences only, before ending on a serious, intimate note about his family.

After the show, he munched on pizza while fielding questions from students.

He critiqued the performance of Mary Renée Smith, who opened for him with a 5-minute act.

"You have to command the stage," he said. "Did you see me up there? I walked around. You have to move around and be unpredictable. Set the microphone stand in the back and move around."

Smith, freshman in environmental design, said she enjoyed getting advice from someone who has been in the business.

"I've emceed for the Rocky Horror Picture Show and I've done some radio stuff, but this is the first time I've actually done stand up," she said. "He was really generous about telling me about things to do."

"I don't know if I necessarily want to do it on the same realm as him, but I think it would be fun to do the college circuit because it would be a lot of fun."

She said she had the chance to hang out with Morgan after the show and got to see what it is like being a comic.

"I got a few glimpses into what it's like to be in the business," Smith said. "Everyone was talking to him and touching him and it could be tough doing that. Because he has to basically be 'on' all the time."

Tim Taylor, senior in theater, said he really enjoyed the show and it was nice to talk to Morgan.

"It was funny," he said. "It was good and edgy and I'm sure it made a lot of people uncomfortable, but it was for adults only. But I liked how he got serious at the end with the story about his daughter."

Morgan, who just agreed to star in a NBC sitcom with fellow SNL writer Tina Fey, said he enjoys doing comedy and could not imagine doing anything else.

"Comedy is the center of the universe for me," he said during the show. "There's a lot of crazy (things) out there. But look in here. Everyone is laughing and hanging out. Isn't this beautiful? Everyone in here just enjoying themselves."

CELEBRITY QUOTES

"I rejected some gorgeous publicity shots because they just didn't look like me. I won't wear skanky clothes that show off my booty, my belly or boobs. I have a great body. I could be Britney. I could be better than Britney."

— Avril Lavigne

"Is it a man walking on the beach, winking at the girls and looking for going to bed? Is it someone who wears a lot of gold chains and rings and sits at the bar? Because this is not me. I am very, very Latin, but not so much lover."

— Antonio Banderas

"When I was 15-years-old, I took off my clothes and looked in the mirror. When I stared at myself naked, I realized that to be perfectly proportioned I would need twenty-inch arms to match the rest of me."

— Arnold Schwarzenegger

"I'll never forget when the movie started and the spaceship that kept going and going. By the time that thing passed overhead, I knew what I wanted to do with the rest of my life. [on seeing Star Wars]"

— Dean Devlin

"God made a very obvious choice when he made me voluptuous; why would I go against what he decided for me? My limbs work, so I'm not going to complain about the way my body is shaped."

— Drew Barrymore

Courtesy Art

"There's this idea that if you take your clothes off, somehow you must have loose morals."

— Demi Moore

"I'm very superstitious ... I never shout at magpies, walk under ladders or put my shoes on the table."

— Fatboy Slim

"I want to make the book as real as possible, but I can hardly remember a thing."

— Jack Osbourne

"If someone were to harm my family or a friend or somebody I love, I would eat them. I might end up in jail for 500 years, but I would eat them."

— Johnny Depp

"I have no problems with nudity. My friend Ewan and I are starkers in most of our films."

— Jude Law

"Twenty-three is old. It's almost 25, which is like almost mid-20s."

— Jessica Simpson

"I identify with women more than men. I guess I have a strong feminine side."

— Lenny Kravitz

"I try to do the right thing with money. Save a dollar here and there, clip some coupons. Buy 10 gold chains instead of 20. Four summer homes instead of eight."

— LL Cool J

"I'm really demanding. No girl really wants just a guy. You want a prince, you want Jesus. So when he comes around and his name is Steve, what are you supposed to do?"

— Macy Gray

Courtesy Art

"Honestly, if I get a vacation I'm going to go and sit on my couch in New York cause that's the one place I haven't been for a very long time."

— Matt Damon

"It feels like I could go outside with a bikini thong on right now."

— P. Diddy

"I change my mind so much I need two boyfriends and a girlfriend."

— Pink

"I spend so much time living by myself — mostly in hotels — and I pick up cats when I'm feeling particularly lonely."

— Penelope Cruz

Source: www.saidwhat.co.uk

Remake of Austen's classic follows plot, loses minor details

"Pride and Prejudice"

★★★★★

Movie review by Leann Sulzen

Movie goers shouldn't be prejudiced against the remake of a Jane Austen classic.

Unlike many books made into movies, "Pride and Prejudice" directed by Joe Wright, beautifully follows Austen's novel about a young girl named Elizabeth Bennett and her four sisters.

The Bennett sisters are looking for husbands to support them because they won't have an inheritance from their father.

Actress Keira Knightley plays Elizabeth, a strong-willed girl who wants to marry for love and not money.

The story tells the tale of Elizabeth meeting Mr. Darcy, a prestigious man with poor people skills.

Darcy, played by actor Matthew MacFadyen, and Elizabeth form their prejudices about each other the first time they meet.

Darcy sees the way Elizabeth's silly younger sister's act and loses respect for her family.

Elizabeth thinks Darcy to be pompous and proud after he refuses to dance with her.

As the story unfolds, their love for each other grows and Wright shows the characters' feelings with his direction.

The attraction is something that can not be seen so clearly in the book, but Wright uses quick glances and small smiles to make their attraction more apparent.

Although most of the film excellently follows the novel, there are parts that were overlooked by Wright.

When Elizabeth goes to see her sick older sister Jane at Mr. Bingley's rented estate, Netherfield Park where Darcy is also staying, she chooses to walk instead of riding horseback or taking a carriage.

Once she arrives at the estate, a comment is made about her dirty petticoats by Mr. Bingley's sister, Caroline Bingley. In the novel, this shows the great difference in class between Elizabeth and the Bingleys and Darcy.

However, Wright does not show the dirty petticoats when Caroline Bingley makes her comment. Because it is not shown, it loses its meaning and leaves the movie watcher wondering why.

By the end of the film, Darcy's love for Elizabeth is revealed and she realizes that she loves him in return.

They fulfilled the name of the movie by ridding themselves of their pride and prejudice in order to be with each other.

The movie is not shown at Seth Childs Cinema so students should make it a point to visit another city to see "Pride and Prejudice" over the winter break if they want to see an excellent rendition of a classic.

Courtesy Art

Cloned cow gives insight

Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

The cloned cow Chloe, right, and the cow that she was cloned from, get fed with the rest of the herd Sunday afternoon at the K-State's Purebred Beef Teaching Unit.

By Adam Hanks
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When Chloe, a Hereford cow, was born four years ago, she was the center of attention at K-State's Purebred Beef Teaching Unit.

Chloe was cloned from another cow in K-State's herd in 2001, and she gained much media attention. But now, little attention is given to the red and white cow.

"She was made to be a cow, and she's going to be treated like a cow," said Ryan Breiner, a herdsman with the K-State Purebred Beef Teaching Unit.

Breiner, who helps oversee the herd that Chloe and the cow she was cloned from belong to, said she is a normal animal.

"She's just a little smaller than normal, but she is in the same pen as her clone, and they are very similar in size," he said. "They are remarkably the same, but I've never really studied them closely."

Cloning is a process by which an organism is created solely from the DNA of an individual animal.

"No two parents, no sperm and egg," David Grieger said.

Grieger, associate professor of animal science and industry, said Chloe and the cow she was cloned from are similar, but they are not exact copies.

"The colorings on them are very similar, but not exact. That's because there are other factors that go into a calf's development, such as environment," Grieger said.

K-State cloned Chloe in 2001 to study the cloning process, Grieger, who led the research, said.

"It was to answer questions on the cloning process," he said. "Most of the calves don't make it, and it's not an efficient process. Most of the information came from the animal that didn't have a calf. This research wasn't so much to clone a particular animal, but it was part of a project, and this was the result."

Chloe's "parent" was a Hereford cow from K-State's herd, chosen because of her positive production qualities.

"She was a better production

See CLONE Page 10

VOLLEYBALL

K-State season ends with 2nd round loss to Florida

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Down two games to none in the second round of the NCAA Tournament Friday, momentum had shifted in favor of the K-State volleyball team against No. 4 Florida.

The confident Wildcats came from behind to mount a 24-21 lead in game three — their largest lead of the night.

Then, the momentum shifted back to Florida (32-2).

Behind roaring cheers from their home crowd in Gainesville, Fla., the Gators rattled off eight straight points, which brought No. 24 K-State's season to an abrupt end.

Florida, a perfect 18-0 on its home court, swept the Wildcats 30-21, 31-29 and 30-25.

K-State has now lost in the second round of the tournament in six of the last eight years.

However, coach Suzie Fritz was pleased with her team's effort against the Southeastern Conference champions.

"I thought we played incredibly hard, maybe as hard as we have played all year," Fritz said.

Despite the disappointing loss, Fritz said she is proud of what her team accomplished this season.

"I am proud of the fact that I think this team made as much or more improvement than any team I've ever coached," Fritz said. "And I'm proud that this team didn't use its youth and inexperience as an excuse. They took it as a challenge to prove people wrong."

K-State did prove some people wrong, including Big 12 Conference coaches, who collectively picked the Wildcats to finish sixth in the conference — the lowest in Fritz's five-year tenure.

K-State, with four players who played their last match on Friday, responded to its critics by posting a 21-11 record and placing fourth (11-9) in the Big 12 — an improvement over last year's fifth-place finish.

"Nobody thought this team was supposed to be very good," Fritz said. "We overcame our youth and our inexperience."

One of K-State's most experienced players, senior outside hitter Agata Rezende, was hard to stop against Florida.

Rezende, the only Wildcat selected to the All-Big 12 first team on Nov. 28, led K-State in her final match with 16 kills for a .500 hitting percentage.

"We are proud of what she did not only tonight, but throughout the course of the season," assistant coach Jeff Grove said on KMAN-AM 1350 following the match. "Without Agata, our team would not be as successful."

Sophomore Rita Lilliom added 14 kills and 14 digs, while sophomore setter Stacey Spiegelberg notched 45 assists, five kills, five digs and four block assists.

K-State garnered a .261 hitting percentage, while the Gators hit .361 for the match.

After the match, Grove said K-State proved to be a challenge for Florida and other top-ranked teams.

"(We showed) glimpses of brilliance throughout," Grove said. "We can play with any team in the country, and we proved it

See VOLLEYBALL Page 10

GREAT GIFTS FOR EVERYONE
GET YOUR SHOPPING DONE EARLY!

HUCK STAR & ROGERS

- Jewelry
- Lingerie
- Xmas Costume Rentals
- Imports
- Men's & Women's Clothing
- Posters
- Stocking Stuffers
- Purses
- Vintage

587-1819 715 N. 12TH STREET • Organic Botanicals

cleanyourcloset for CASH!
We now buy name brand used clothing!

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

any size one low price!

now thru dec. 17th only!

PASSENGER Firestone FR380
excellent wet traction
$29.99 P155/80R13

Size	Price	Size	Price
P175/60R13	$39.99	P175/60R13	$39.99
P175/60R13	$44.99	P175/60R13	$44.99
P175/60R13	$49.99	P175/60R13	$49.99
P175/60R13	$54.99	P175/60R13	$54.99
P175/60R13	$59.99	P175/60R13	$59.99

55,000 mile limited warranty*

PASSENGER Bridgestone INSIGNIA SE200
$39.99 P155/80R13

Whitewall	Price	Whitewall	Price
P195/70R14	$69.99	P215/70R15	$79.99
P185/65R14	74.99	P195/65R15	79.99
P205/70R15	79.99	P225/60R16	99.99

65,000 mile limited warranty*
*black letters, call for other sizes

standard oil change and filter

- install new oil filter • refill up to 5 quarts Kendall®
- Synthetic Blend motor oil
- lubricate chassis (if applicable)

$16.99

Most vehicles add $2.50 for oil disposal fee Expires 12/17/05

Complete Radiator System Service

- Inspect cooling system & pressure test for leaks
- Refill with correct amount of recycled coolant
- Add sealant / lubricant
- Flush system

Most vehicles help prevent the #1 cause of roadside breakdown

$49.99 Offer Ends 12/17/05

mon.-fri. 7:00 am-6:00 pm sat. 7:00 am-6:00 pm
(*) open sunday 8:00 am-5:00 pm

307 N. 3rd
Manhattan, KS
785-776-8311

90 DAYS INTEREST FREE

ExpertTire
EVERYDAY DISCOUNT PRICES

www.ExpertTire.com

Shop supply charges in the amount of 8% of labor charges will be added to invoices greater than $25. These charges will not exceed $25 and represent costs and profits. Shop supply charges not applicable in CA or NV. Non-manufactured disposal charges, if any, are shown above. May also represent costs and profits. Specific product offerings and listed discounts may vary. Prices, warranties, service, credit plans and other offers available at ExpertTire, see affiliated dealers listed for their respective offers and warranties. You do not achieve guaranteed savings, your ExpertTire retailer will replace your tires on a pro-rated basis. Actual tread life may vary. All warranties apply only to original owner on originally installed vehicle. See retailer for details, restrictions and copy of retail limited warranty. Finance charges waived on qualifying financed Credit Plan purchases that are paid in full within 90 days. MINIMUM MONTHLY PAYMENTS REQUIRED: Regular Rate: 21.94% Annual Percentage Rate: 24.94% APR. Minimum finance charge $1.00. Credit First National Association reserves the right to change APR, fees and other terms without notice. See store for details.

ROYAL PURPLE

we've got the stories you've got to read

Get your Royal Purple yearbook in Kedzie 103, or call 532-6555.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSITY

NEED CLASSES?
Classes run from January 12 - May 5, 2006

◆ FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development
Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92900
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

◆ FSHS 110: Introduction to Human Development
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96701
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-6:55 PM

FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health
CD-ROM/Internet
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92902
Fees: UG 2 hr $523

FSHS 200: Sexuality and Health
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96702
Fees: UG 2 hr $390
1/12/06-5/4/06
U 5:30-6:55 PM

◆ FSHS 300: Problems in FSHS: Parenting in Contemporary Society
Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92905
Fees: UG 3 hr $772

FSHS 301: The Helping Relationship
On-Site
Robert Gellman
Ref# 96710
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 310: Early Childhood
On-Site
Katie Thompson-Laswell
Ref# 96714
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

◆ FSHS 343: Communication Sciences and Disorders
On-Site
Michelle Hart
Ref# 96703
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
MW 5:30-6:45 PM

◆ FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles
Audiotape/Internet/CD-ROM
Kelly Welch
Ref# 92911
Fees: UG 3 hr $772

◆ FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles
On-Site
Katie Daniels
Ref# 96704
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

◆ FSHS 350: Family Relationships and Gender Roles
On-Site
Kelly Welch
Ref# 96715
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 508: Middle Childhood and Adolescence
On-Site
John Murray
Ref# 96705
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 510: Human Development and Aging
On-Site
Gayle Doll
Ref# 96703
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
W 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 524: Professional Seminar in Early Childhood Education
On-Site
Anna Nippert
Ref# 96707
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/18/06-5/3/06
W 5:30-8:20 PM

FSHS 528: Exceptional Development in Early Childhood
On-Site
LuAnn Hoover
Ref# 96716
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
W 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 540: Curriculum for Cognitive and Language Development of Young Children
Internet
Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke
Ref# 92917
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

FSHS 541: Curriculum for Emotional, Social, and Physical Development of Young Children
Internet
Mary DeLuccie/Carrie Ficke
Ref# 92918
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

FSHS 550: The Family
On-Site
Vera White
Ref# 96708
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/17/06-5/2/06
T 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 552: Families and Diversity
On-Site
Jahrae Burrell
Ref# 96711
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 579: Directed Field Experience Orientation
On-Site
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96709
Fees: UG 1 hr $218
1/12/06-5/4/06
U 5:30-6:20 PM

FSHS 580: Directed Field Experience Guided Study
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96712
Fees: UG 8 hr $1419.60
1/18/06-5/3/06

FSHS 585: Professional Seminar in Family Life Education
On-Site
David E. Thompson
Ref# 96713
Fees: UG 3 hr $561.60
1/23/06-5/1/06
M 5:30-7:55 PM

FSHS 670: Working with Parents
CD-ROM/Internet
Mary DeLuccie
Ref# 92920
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 700: Fireworks-3: Anger Management in Adult-Child Relationships
Internet
Charles Smith
Ref# 92926
Fees: UG 3 hr $897; G 3 hr $1128

FSHS 700: Assessment and Observation for Early Childhood Educators
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92927
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 704: Foundations of Infant Mental Health
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92927
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

FSHS 740: Play Facilitation
Internet
Bromwyn Fees
Ref# 92937
Fees: UG 3 hr $772; G 3 hr $1003

FSHS 810: Child Development
Internet
Ann Murray
Ref# 92937
Fees: G 3 hr $1053

GERON 315: Introduction to Gerontology
Internet
Gayle Doll
Ref# 92941
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

GERON 620: Mental Health and Aging
Internet
Janice Dinkel
Ref# 92943
Fees: UG 3 hr $822; G 3 hr $1053

◆ HN 132: Basic Nutrition
Internet
Sharon Morcos
Ref# 92946
Fees: UG 3 hr $872

HN 400: Human Nutrition
Internet/CD-ROM
Richard Baybutt
Ref# 92953
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HN 413: Science of Food
Internet
DeLores Chambers
Ref# 92955
Fees: UG 4 hr $1071

HN 620: Nutrient Metabolism
Internet
Richard Chiang
Ref# 92960
Fees: UC 4 hr $1071; G 4 hr $1379

HN 630: Clinical Nutrition
Internet
Shandria Godwin
Ref# 92962
Fees: UG 5 hr $1320; G 5 hr $1705

HN 820: Functional Foods for Chronic Disease Prevention
Internet
George Wang
Ref# 92967
Fees: G 3 hr $978

HRIMD 130: Careers in Nutrition and Dietetics
Internet/CD-ROM
Deb Canter
Ref# 92971
Fees: UG 1 hr $324

HRIMD 220: Environmental Issues in Hospitality I
Internet
Lynn Riggins
Ref# 92973
Fees: UG 2 hr $573

HRIMD 342: Food Production Management
Internet
Melissa Schrader
Ref# 92976
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HRIMD 422: Cost in Controls in Hospital Operations
Internet
Hui Li-Tzang
Ref# 92979
Fees: UG 3 hr $822

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92346
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
1/18/06-3/13/06
M 6:30-9:00 PM

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92347
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
3/27/06-5/8/06
M 6:30-9:00 PM

HRIMD 442: Introduction to Wines
On-Site
Betsy Barrett
Ref# 92348
Fees: UG 1 hr $280.40
1/17/06-3/14/06
T 6:30-9:00 PM

◆ Indicates the course has been approved for university general education requirement.

Register online at: www.ksu.edu

or in person at the Division of Continuing Education, College Court Building, Monday-Friday, 8 am to 6 pm

For more information: Call 1-800-452-8222 or 785-512-5566

Enroll Now in Courses That Can Be Taken Anytime, Anywhere!

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Monday, Dec. 5, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square
feet. Patio, fenced yard, furnished parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January
lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A LARGE one-bedroom,
Available January 1. Close
to campus. Washer/ dryer.
1704 Fairview. (785)317-
7713.

DUPLEX, CLOSE to campus. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st.
(785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-
4975. (785)313-8296.

ONE AND two-bedroom
apartment. Next to campus.
Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7950.

ONE-BEDROOM APART-
MENT. Close to campus.
Water/ trash/ gas paid. No pets, no smoking. Off-street parking. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-
$490. three-bedrooms
$700-$825. (785)537-7701.

MALE, TWO-BEDROOM apartment, fully furnished, cable included, good location by football field.
Dustin (620)338-7574.

THREE-BEDROOMS
AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid.
Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810.
(785)341-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM AT 1209
Clifton Road. One block
from campus. $600/ month.
January 1st lease. Washer/
dryer. Off-street parking.
(785)341-6972.

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE.
Central air. Pets ok. Large fenced yard. Available December. (785)317-7713.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath duplex. One-half mile from campus. Washer/ dryer included. Single property
owner. No pets. No smoking. 1410 Houston. Number
Two. (785)776-9260.

LOOK BRAND New
House. 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/
dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

RENT NEGOTIABLE:
Three-bedroom, two bath,
one-half duplex. Immaculate and spacious. All appliances included. Walk to Aggieville. (785)565-2432.

145
Roommate
Wanted

JANUARY- AUGUST:
Three-bedroom, $263 plus one-third utilities. Call Philip (913)302-0402.

ROOMMATES NEEDED
for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets.
(785)537-7050.

ROOMMATE NEEDED
for two-bedroom apartment.
Very clean, nice, quiet.
great landlords, available
now. Call Nicole (913)220-5854.

ROOMMATE WANTED
for four-bedroom apartment.
$245/ month. Available early- mid December. Water, trash, and cable paid. Call (316)288-6346.

150
Sublease

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer,
large yard, one-third utilities.
Call James (785)317-5006.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED!
Two-bedroom apartment
with washer and dryer. One block from campus! Water and trash paid. Cheap rent
for location! Call (316)288-9629.

SUBLEASER WANTED:
nice large room available
January 1. $300/month.
Call (785)871-1626.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED:
(785)539-0500.

150
Sublease

ROOMMATE NEEDED:
For a four-bedroom house,
1718 Pierre Street. $312.50 plus utilities/lease time negotiable. Call (316)209-4888.

MATURE FEMALE: roommate wanted for two-bedroom house, one block
from campus. $275/month
utilities paid. Available now.
(785)537-4947.

FEMALE ROOMMATES: needed. Four-bedroom, one and one-half bath, new furnace and carpet.
$195/month. (785)410-0086.

ROOMMATES NEEDED:
Two-bedroom apartment
available January. Pets welcome. $290/month plus electricity and cable.
(785)633-7133.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM
Close to City Park.
Washer/Dryer. No pets.
(913)579-1887. Call for details.

ONE-BEDROOM APART-MENT. Great location, one block to campus. January sublease. $365 a month.
Call (785)554-4424.

MALE SUBLEASER
needed immediately. 1026 Ratlone. Two blocks from campus. Share house with three males. Sublease
January to May. (620)200-0977.

SUBLEASE BEGINS
January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/trash/water/laundry. Call (785)341-7376 or (316)555-
7479.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
wanted for January through July. Walking distance to campus. First month's rent paid. Rent negotiable. Call (785)332-6011.

FEMALE ROOMMATE
wanted. Two-bedroom apartment January to June
lease. $235 a month. Contact LeAnne (316)734-0846
or Erin (785)737-3144.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
needed for two-bedroom,
two bathroom brand new
apartment, close to campus.
Available mid-December to June or August. Washer/
dryer, dishwasher and garbage disposal. Call Jamie at (316)250-2780.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7788.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
wanted. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath, one-half utilities. Available mid-December. Rent negotiable!
Call Tawny (316)706-7767.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
needed. Walking distance to campus. Large room. $300
plus one-third utilities. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

FEMALE ONLY NEEDED for one room in four-bedroom, two bath
close to campus. Washer/dryer. Lease from January
to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

MALE SUBLEASER January-
May. $250/ month, nice
house close to campus. Call (785)302-0098.

FEMALE SUBLEASER
needed. January through May. Clean, quiet, sixbedroom house, one block
from campus. Washer/dryer.
$275 a month plus discount before December 13. Lane
(913)481-4664.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO
bath new duplex.
Washer/dryer. Close to campus. $287/month/person.
Available January 1.
(816)898-9034.

ONE-BEDROOM
FURNISHED/ unfurnished, one bath. For spring semester. Water/trash paid.
$400/month. 1858 Clifton.
Call Andrea (785)341-7892.

SUBLEASER NEEDED
available December or January. One or two room in a four-bedroom. Call (785)317-4301.

MALE SUBLEASER wanted.
One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $200/month or best offer with utilities. Available after finals.
(913)636-6686.

FEMALE ROOMMATE
needed. Two-bedroom available December 17. Walk to campus. Call (913)219-7801.

MALE OR female. Clean and responsible. 613 Laramie.
Contact Travis (785)221-7318.

FEMALE ROOMMATE
wanted. Three-bedroom house. Very nice and newly remodeled. $320 without utilities. (316)990-2046.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No
smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking.
Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATES
needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)488-2745.

MALE ROOMMATE needed
for large two-bedroom, one bath, apartment in Westchester Park: tennis, fitness center, available now. Tyler, (785)539-8773.

ONE ROOMMATE needed
for four-bedroom house.
1811 Elaine Drive. Close to campus. Starting January.
(316)209-1084.

ROOMMATE NEEDED
for one-bedroom in a two-bedroom apartment. $250/ per month with utilities included.
(913)980-9881.

ROOMMATE NEEDED!
Nice apartment, great location, fun roommates. Call Michelle at (785)456-5040
for more information.

ROOMMATE NEEDED:
Male or female. Nice house
with backyard adjacent to campus. Available January
1. Call Andrea (785)341-
2181.

ROOMMATE WANTED.
$350, one-half utilities, Scott
(785)341-5153.

WALK to class. No smoking,
no drinking, no pets.
(785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

NEAT FEMALE roommate
wanted mid-December- July.
Close to campus. $245
monthly plus one-fourth
bills. Call Joan (316)640-5080 or Jannessa (316)204-4910.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/furnished. January 1, at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE
Manhattan Apartments
available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash
paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath
apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/
month. Call Caroline.
(785)564-1284.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 - Vallier.
$250/ month, water, trash,
cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED for
one room in a three-bedroom house on LeGore
Lane. Available at end of
December until end of July.
Call (913)208-2982.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Female roommate wanted for spring semester. Nice house with washer/ dryer. Flexible on rent and dates. Call (316)304-2201.

SUBLEASER NEEDED:
One-bedroom apartment.
Available December 12-
May. $490/ month. Pets allow for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED.
Two-bedroom apartment.
Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/
month. Call (316)210-1164
or (316)993-0214.

TWO-BEDROOM APART-
MENT $400/ month at 1026
Bertrand, upper apartment.
From January through May.
If interested, Call (620)719-6658.

TWO-BEDROOM SPAcious apartment sublease
January 1- May 31. $285/
person. Dishwasher, central heat/ air. Five minute walk
to union. (785)537-6880.

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

'BARTENDING' $300 a day
potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext.
144.

BOWINKLES: NOW hiring
for wait staff and bartenders.
Come to 3043 Anderson to
apply.

COACHES: USD 378. Riley
County is accepting applications for Middle School Boys Basketball coaches (one or two). Please contact Becky
Pultz at bpultz@usd378.org
with mailing address or (785)485-4000 as soon as possible.

FULL-TIME SUMMER work.
Open to all majors. I will take live more students to help me run my own business. Average earns $800/
work. Contact (785)317-0455.

GET PAID to drive a brand
new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month.
Pick up your free car key to-
day.
www.freecarkey.com

GRADUATE RESEARCH
Assistant (GRA) to serve as
a UNIX Technical Support
Programmer in the K-State
Information Systems office.
Assist lead applications developer with UNIX programming tasks. A high level understanding of Sun Solaris
(UNIX) Operating Systems
and thorough understanding of UNIX and/or Perl scripts
are required. This is a year around student opportunity.
Contact John Streeter at (785)532-4758 or as jws@k-state.edu, or come by 2323
Anderson Ave., Suite 215 to apply. Application deadline
is Friday, December 2,
2005. Equal Opportunity
Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. Civic-
Plus is the nation's leader
in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills.
Base wage plus bonuses
equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format.
Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME HELP wanted, laborers and CDL drivers.
Roof Truss manufacturing plant, 5107 Murray Rd., (785)776-5081.

we kick ads.
Classifieds
532-6555 - 532-6560

ADVERTISE.
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS • 532-6555

310
Help Wanted

AFTER SCHOOL mentoring program assistant. Part time for spring semester working with teens
13-18 in a structured setting.
Assist in developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available
Tuesday/Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently.
Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume, and three references to Linda
Teener, UFM, 1221
Thurston Street, Manhattan,
Kansas, 66502. Application deadline December 15.
Equal Opportunity Employer.

CLEANING AND light maintenance. Part time position cleaning the UFM house. Flexible hours. Must be reliable and able to work independently. References needed. Contact Linda Teener at UFM at (785)539-8763.

KANSAS STATE UNIVERSity, Information Systems
Office Associate Director,
Database Management
Services, Kansas State University is seeking a senior technical manager in its Information Systems Office to
be responsible for visioning,
planning and managing all facets of database management services for the university. Minimum requirements include: (1) a Bachelor's degree in Computer
Science, Information Systems, Software Engineering,
Computer Engineering, or other appropriately related technical field; (2) seven years experience in progressively responsible positions
in a major information systems organization, to include 5 years in a highly technical hands-on role in enterprise computing environments involving the administration of enterprise
database and applications
servers; (3) two years technical leadership and/or direct supervision experience
involving responsibility for evaluating technical staff performance is required; and (4) in-depth technical knowledge of Oracle 9i and 10g database management
and applications server
software. A detailed position description is available at www.ksu.edu/iso/employment. Salary is negotiable
based upon qualifications
and experience. A letter of application describing qualifications for and expressing interest in the position, a professional resume, and a list of three professional references with complete contact information should be sent to: Search Committee:
Associate Director of Data-
base Management Services,
Information Systems Office,
2323 Anderson Avenue,
Suite 215, Manhattan, KS
66502-2912 or submitted
electronically to iso@ksu.edu. Review of applications will begin on December 15, 2005 with applications continuing to be considered until the position is filled. Kansas State University is an equal opportunity employer. K-State actively seeks diversity among its employees. Paid for by
Kansas State University.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAY-
GROUND Supervisors-
Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year.
$6.50 per hour, one and
one-half- two hours per day.
11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply
to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz
Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502.
(785)547-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PITA PIT delivery drivers
needed. Shifts available 5 pm- 11 pm and 11pm- 4
am. Duties include greeting customers, making pits,
general cleaning, food preparation and delivering pits.
Must be a team player and
willing to work in a fast-paced fun environment. Pick up application at The Pita
Pit, 1131 Moro.

PROGRAMMER, CIVIC-
PLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites.
Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/
hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format
to jobs@civicplus.com.

KSU STUDENTS: Learn a valuable trade (plumbing, electrical, carpentry, building operations). Housing and Dining Services is accepting applications for employment as a part-time
Student Service Technician.
Work begins 1/12/2006. Will train- no experience necessary. These positions offer a part-time, flexible work schedule with some nights and weekends; and optional full-time work during the summer. Starts $6.75 per hour with scheduled raises and an option for an on-campus apartment with reduced rent. Apply to L.W.
Davenport Building, 1548
Denison Avenue by 12/7/05.
Affirmative Action/ Equal Opportunity Employer

1994 BUICK Skylark, 160K
over 30 MPG. $350 or best offer. Runs good, dependable. (785)547-6531

1997 JEEP Grand Cherokee
Laredo. Black. 4x4, air conditioning, CD, recently inspected, dealer maintained,
excellent condition. 80,000
miles. $5700. (847)452-0958.

2003 FORD Mustang GT
convertible. Leather, loaded. 35,000 miles. $15,000 or best offer. (785)632-5348.

600 travel
trips

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges
our readers to contact the
Better Business Bureau,
501 SE Jefferson, Topeka,
KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

400 open market

405
Wanted to Buy

DON'T PITCH IT. Sell us your old Windows XP computer. Lait Gauche,
(785)776-3302.

410
Items for Sale

MOVING SALE. VHS movies and CD's. $2. Lait Gauche, in Westloot.

NEW P-3 GB computer that a short ad can't describe in loving detail. If you want the best, come talk.
Lait Gauche, (785)776-3302.

WOMEN OF K-State: Don't become a sexual assault victim. Keychain pepper
sprayers on sale half price.
Call (785)341-5294 or email
hacman72@hotmail.com

Quiznos Sub
www...TOASTYE

su/doku

Fill in the grid so that every row,
every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9
with no repeats.

1 6 4 5

5 1 9

8 3 2 9

5 9 8 1 4

4 2 6 3

3 7 4 8 9

1 2 8 9

4 5 8

8 9 7 6

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.

shout outs

332
Shout
Outs

KATIE. SHUT your mouth!
You just shut your mouth!

HAVE A holly jolly Christmas it's the best time of the
year...

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads
can be placed in 103 Ked-zie Hall, $2 for up to 20
words.

THANKS TO all the soldiers who will be spending time away from their families to keep America safe.

BENCH K-State loses tourney final for 2nd time that makes us a pretty dominant duo. I know that I'm going to give her (McIntyre) the ball, and she's going to knock it down."

Continued from Page 6

McIntyre added to the compatible reputation by reiterating Lehnig's comment.

"She (Lehnig) plays a lot like me," McIntyre said. "She's someone I can pass to blindfolded. She knows what I'm going to do, and I know what she's going to do."

Junior guard Twigg McIntyre struggles to gain control of the ball with Saint Joseph's Ayahna Cornish Saturday at Bramlage Coliseum.

Catrina Rawson COLLEGIAN

WOMEN | Coggins scoreless in loss to St. Joseph's

Continued from Page 6

This is the first time in the 11 years of the tournament the Wildcats have lost consecutive championship games of their home tournament. It is the third time K-State has not won the tournament or had one of its players garner MVP honors.

Claire Coggins, who was a member of last year's all-tournament team, went scoreless in the game and said this year's game was more disappointing than last year's loss because the Wildcats had the game in hand.

"It is more disappointing because the fact that we had the lead and it was also high," Coggins said. "We could have, we should have maybe even won. We got outworked. St. Joseph's is a good team, we just kind of let down in the second half, so it's a lot more disappointing."

CLONE | Cloned cow not exactly same as donor cow

Continued from Page 8

animal in our herd, so it makes sense to choose a better animal than one that is less productive," Grieger said.

Though the two cows look similar, Grieger said that it is hard to tell if the same positive qualities found in the cloned cow could be found in Chloe.

"The way we would measure that is by how well her calves do, and right now we only have two, so it's hard to say if she is as productive of a cow,"

he said.

Both of Chloe's calves have been natural. Now it is known that a clone can have a calf, and that her calf can give birth, which is reassuring, Breiner said.

Even though she is a special part of K-State's herd, Chloe is just another cow. The only unusual thing about her is how she has aged these past few years, Breiner said.

"The only thing I would call unusual, I would say she doesn't look her age," he said.

"For a 4-year-old cow, she looks awful old, but that could be from a lot of things."

Though she may appear a little more mature than most cows her age, Grieger said they are not sure she is really aging faster.

"We don't know for her, because to do that you would have to test the length of her chromosomes," he said. "There is some indication that cloned animals could age quicker, but we haven't done those tests, so we don't know for sure."

RATING | G-rated cartoons include more sex, violence

Continued from Page 1

Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 School Board member.

"In terms of violence in cartoons, it started with 'Tom and Jerry' and 'Road Runner,' she said. "However, their violence was less frequent and less realistic than today's violence."

Tatarko said the violence and sex in animated films is an increasing issue with parents and the community.

"It desensitizes children to the world around them," she said. "Overall, it devalues the human race."

Kimberly Weber, Manhattan resident, has three children ages 5, 10 and 11. Weber said she trusts the G-rating of movies when allowing her children to view them.

"I have noticed that they let a lot more slip by with language and violence, though," she said. "I do talk about the inappropriate language and violence with my children."

Former 9/11 commissioners: 'U.S. still at risk for terrorist attacks'

By Hope Yen
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The United States is at great risk for more terrorist attacks because Congress and the White House have failed to enact several strong security measures, members of the former Sept. 11 commission said Sunday.

"It's not a priority for the government right now," said the former chairman, Thomas Kean, ahead of the group's release of a report Monday assessing how well its recommendations have been followed.

"More than four years after 9/11 ... people are not paying attention," the former Republican governor of New Jersey said. "God help us if we have another attack."

Added Lee Hamilton, the former Democratic vice chairman of the commission: "We believe that another attack will occur. It's not a question of if. We are not as well-prepared as we should be."

The five Republicans and five Democrats on the commission, whose recommendations are now promoted through a privately funded group known as the 9/11 Public Discourse Project, conclude the government deserves "more Fs than As" in responding to their 41 suggested changes.

Since the commission's final report in July 2004, the government has enacted the centerpiece proposal to create the new position of national intelligence director.

But the government has stalled on other ideas, including improving communication among emergency responders and shifting federal terrorism-fighting money so it goes to states based on risk level.

"There is a lack of a sense of urgency," Hamilton said. "There are so many competing priorities. We've got three wars going on: one in Afghanistan, one in Iraq and the war against terror. And it's awfully hard to keep people focused on something like this."

National security adviser Stephen Hadley said Sunday that President Bush is committed to putting in place most of the commission's recommendations.

"Obviously, as we've said all along, we are safer, but not yet safe. There is more to do," Hadley said on "Fox News Sunday."

Ex-commissioners contended the government has been remiss by failing to act more quickly.

Kean said the Transportation Security Administration was wrong to announce changes last week that will allow airline passengers to carry small scissors and some sharp tools.

He also said the agency, by now, should have consolidated databases of passenger information into a single "terror watch list" to aid screening.

"I don't think we have to go backward here," said Kean, who appeared with Hamilton on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"They're talking about using more money for random checks. Terrorists coming through the airport may still not be spotted," Kean said.

Kean and Hamilton urged Congress to pass spending bills that would allow police and fire officials to communicate across radio spectrums and to reallocate money so that Washington and New York, which have more people and symbolic landmarks, could receive more for terrorism defense.

Both bills have stalled in Congress, in part over the level of spending and turf fights over which states should get the most dollars.

"This is a no-brainer," said Hamilton, a former Indiana congressman.

VOLLEYBALL | K-State loses at NCAA Tournament

Continued from Page 8

through the course of the season."

Fritz said she wants her four departing players — Rezende, Joy

Hamlin, Jamie Perkins and Katie Stanzel — to know how much they have meant to K-State volleyball.

"They are all incredibly special to us and have had a significant impact on our program," Fritz said. "I felt like late in the season, we really started to come together and play good volleyball, and I attribute a great deal of that to their leadership and their assistance."

COCAINE | Usage rises among college-aged people

Continued from Page 1

Breault, a member of the Pro-Active Unit, said college-aged people are among the crack cocaine users in Riley County.

Libby Holste, sophomore in history, said she was surprised to hear about the rise in crack cocaine use across the county.

"It's pretty remarkable because you don't hear about the problem," she said. "I'm surprised that there's not more media coverage on it."

Holste said she has noticed the effects of recent meth legislation when buying cold medicines such as Sudafed at the store, but wondered if the police department was doing enough to stop crack cocaine use.

ment was doing enough to stop crack cocaine use.

"With the huge college population in Manhattan, I would think the police would need a few more resources to deal with this," she said. "If the department has the funding, they could probably use more detectives assigned to this area."

Highland Community College Wamego Center

Accessible

Only 14 miles east of Manhattan on Highway 24.

The HCC Wamego Center is in the Wamego Industrial Park on the east side of Wamego.

Affordable

Tuition & Fees (TEXTBOOK RENTAL INCLUDED)

Kansas Resident: $84

Class Size

Average of 20 students per class.

2 chemistry labs and 4 biology labs

To View Course Listings Go To:

1. www.highlandcc.edu
2. Prospective Students
3. Course Section Finder
4. Choose Wamego in drop-down, select year/term and
5. Press Search

Highland Community College Wamego Center

500 Miller Drive • Wamego, KS • 785-456-6006 • www.highlandcc.edu

get AHEAD

of the COMPETITION

by ADVERTISING

with us.

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

103 Kedzie 532-6560

MONDAY
MANIA

GUMBY'S
Pizza

770-3333
702 N. 11th

$3.99 Lg. Pizza

Best Deal in the 'Ville on Monday...Period.

•Dine in or Carryout•

GTM
SPORTSWEAR

Associate Sales Representative

Additional growth has propelled GTM Sportswear to seek out four additional associate sales reps. As an associate rep, you spend approx. 30 hours per week in customer service and the balance of the week learning how to become inside sales rep. Our goal is for you to grow into the inside rep ($30,000+) position within 6-9 mos. Starting associate wage is $9/hr plus benefits and profit sharing. Candidates need a college degree and/or have two years sales or customer service experience. You need to be organized and enjoy developing relationships. A background in education or coaching is also a plus, as you are selling our customized apparel to teams and groups all across the U.S.A. For more info contact GTM, Sportswear, 520 McCall Rd. Manhattan, KS. 66502 or e-mail klindsay@igtm.com.

Crossing your fingers won't help...

Emergency contraception can prevent pregnancy if taken within 72 hours of unprotected sex

A prescription is required. Contact your health care provider or local health department.

AND

call the National EC Hotline: 1-800-605-2576

www.not-2-late.com

Part of the Peggy Bowman Second Chance Fund: Emergency Contraception Fund

Aggieville New Year's plans underway

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Bill Snyder is going to drop the ball, but it's not a bad thing.

K-State's retiring head football coach will be pressing the button that makes the ball drop this New Year's Eve in Aggieville, said Steve Levin, K-State Student Union Bookstore manager and event co-founder.

He said Snyder's son Sean had told him Friday he would be a part of the third annual Little Apple New Year's Eve Celebration. K-State President Jon Wefald had the job last year.

Levin said now that Snyder's successor, Ron Prince, has been announced, there is hope that the two would push the button together.

"Hopefully, we could have a 'leaving with the old, a coming in with the new,'" he said.

Levin said the Manhattan Fire Department estimated 9,000 people came to last year's celebration, and said he expects more to come this year. He said there would be buses going from West-loop and Manhattan Town Center to Aggieville to help with parking woes.

Levin said FOX News has told him it plans to send a truck from a Denver affiliate to broadcast live from Manhattan to be a part of its national coverage.

The ball is in the shape of an apple, and made from more than 3,000 individual pieces of Plexiglas, according to a release from Manhattan Festivals, Inc. It said the ball tips the scale at close to 175 pounds.

Levin said the evening will include laser shows on the south wall of Varney's Book Store and down Moro Street, and there will be large amounts of confetti and fireworks for the night's finale.

Levin said there will be

See NEW YEARS Page 10

For more information
www.littleapplenewyears.com

Football player arrested

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Offensive lineman John Hafferty was arrested early Saturday morning for DUI.

Lt. Mike Quintanar with the Riley County Police Department said Hafferty, sophomore in pre-professional business administration, was observed driving east on Bluemont Avenue with no headlights on at about 2:20 a.m.

Quintanar said an officer stopped Hafferty for the violation and believed he was intoxicated.

He said tests were performed at the scene and Hafferty was arrested.

Hafferty was released on $750 bond.

Hafferty

Lifetime of preparation

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Recently announced football coach Ron Prince answers questions during a press conference Monday. Prince was formerly the offensive coordinator at Virginia.

Prince announced as Snyder's replacement; 33rd K-State football coach

By Michael Ashford
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

This was the job Ron Prince had been waiting on for the better part of his lifetime.

Prince was introduced Monday as K-State's 33rd head football coach, and for Prince, it was the one coaching position he had dreamt about since he was a young boy growing up in Junction City.

"I started thinking about this job when I was about 3 or 4," Prince said. "This is something that obviously had been on my mind a long time. I didn't think it would happen this year, this soon."

"But I've been preparing for that date."

It was widely assumed the successor to coach Bill Snyder, who served as K-State's coach for 17 years and guided the Wildcats to 136 wins, the most in school history, would be from Snyder's coaching tree.

While Prince does not have any direct coaching ties to K-State, growing up less than 15 miles from Manhattan allowed Prince some insight into the K-State program, Prince said.

"I was here on an unofficial visit for that North Texas game in 1989

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Members of the media listen as new head football coach Ron Prince speaks Monday afternoon. Prince was selected to fill the coaching position after Bill Snyder announced his retirement in November.

as a junior college recruit from Dodge City (Community College)," Prince said about Snyder's first win as K-State's coach. "I've seen it from the very beginning, what this man (Snyder) has meant to this program and to the people around this state. I did not shy away from, nor was I, at any moment, remotely concerned about anything regarding following coach Snyder. That'd be impossible. But I wanted to be associated with the program that he built."

This is the first head coaching position at any level for Prince, who comes to K-State after five years on Al Groh's staff at Virginia.

Prince was initially hired as the Cavaliers' offensive line coach, a position he had held at Alabama A&M (1993), South Carolina State (1994), James Madison (1995-97) and Cornell (1998-2000). In February 2003, Groh elevated Prince to offensive coordinator.

In introducing Prince as coach, Athletics Director Tim Weiser said he wanted to make the coaching search as broad as possible to provide K-State with the best possible leader for the Wildcat program.

"What we wanted to do was, first and foremost, try and find somebody that was going to be a good fit," Weiser said. "I think the one thing that we knew is that our search had to have enough flexibility and enough response to the situation, so that as candidates came into focus, we could allow ourselves to consider those people. Simply put, we want to win championships."

"We wouldn't invest in our football program the way that we have, with facilities and personnel, if we didn't want to win championships."

Hiring Prince almost didn't happen for K-State.

The university's initial attempts to contact Prince did not pan out,

See PRINCE Page 10

Up 'Til Dawn decorates Christmas cards for St. Jude's Children Hospital

By Megan Green
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

About 60 people braved the bad weather Monday night to decorate Christmas cards for Up 'Til Dawn in the K-State Alumni Center.

They were given glue, crayons, cotton balls and construction paper to make the cards for the children of St. Jude's Children Hospital.

"Everyone deserves Christmas cards," said Ashley Rippe, co-chair and senior in elementary education. "They decorate the halls of the hospital with them."

Each Up 'Til Dawn team, of six or seven people, was able to decorate the cards in any way they wanted.

"Basically, it's anything regarding the holidays," Rippe said.

The decorating time was between 6 and 9 p.m. and had a Caribbean theme to make teams feel warmer, Rippe said. There was also the showing of pictures from previous St. Jude's trips, as well as snacks, drinks and prizes awarded by a former St. Jude's patient.

"We're really glad they came," said Stacia Williams, co-chair and senior in mass communications and poly science. "It's good to have the teams here and it gives them a break from finals. Everyone needs a destresser."

Up 'Til Dawn raises money for St. Jude's Children Hospital each year. The hospital cares for children with diseases and cancers free of cost to families but costs more than $1 million per day to run.

"I just love being able to do things for other people," Seanna Nelson, freshman in apparel marketing, said.

"And it's good to sit here with people for the same reason and get ready for the Christmas season by doing things for other people."

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

Ashton Wright, right, sophomore in pre-journalism and mass communications, and her Up 'Til Dawn teammates, Megan Rhoades, left, sophomore in kinesiology, and Jenny Bleish, junior in pre-dentistry, laugh at a greeting card poem.

Today

High 18
Low 7

Wednesday

High 19
Low 8

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Woman raped

A 22-year-old female reported she was raped early Sunday morning in the northeast part of Manhattan, said Lt. Mike Quintanar with the Riley County Police Department. The suspect was known to the victim and the case is still under investigation, Quintanar said.

Charges dropped

Second Lt. Erick J. Anderson, of Twinsburg, Ohio, was cleared of charges Monday of giving soldiers in his command permission to kill two Iraqi civilians. The Fort Riley soldier faced life in prison for two counts of murder among other charges.

Conspiracy dropped

A conspiracy charge against Rep. Tom DeLay was dropped Monday, but he is still being tried for allegations of money-laundering. The Texas judge issued the ruling after a hearing late last month in which DeLay's attorney argued the indictment was flawed.

DON'T FORGET

The Seventeenth Isadore & Hilda Dressler Lecture by Alf van der Poorten from the Centre for Number Theory Research and the School of Mathematics and Statistics will be at 2:30 p.m. today in Throckmorton 1014.

Women's basketball will play against Louisiana Tech at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

The End-of-the-Semester Destresser will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Union Courtyard.

See our listings in the Classifieds.

DIAMOND

REAL ESTATE PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

785-537-7701

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Glove
5 Owns
8 Bat a 12 Needing 13 Sapporo
14 Horse
15 Justice
17 Crucifix
18 Diving
19 Obliter-
21 Too thin
24 Forehead
25 Oxidation
26 "I hope
30 Rage
31 Mini-
32 Roscoe
33 Indemni-
35 Sheltered
36 Tranquil
37 React to 38 Moon-
41 Humongous

DOWN

1 Wrestling
2 Pronoun
3 Thanks-
4 Despot
5 Boxing
6 Blood-
7 Detour,
8 Spread
9 Courts
10 Lotion
11 Lincoln
16 Eviscer-
20 Scepters
21 Forbid-
22 Eman-
23 Second-
24 Center
26 Re earth
27 Jamaican
28 Poolroom
29 Dandling
31 Unit of 34 Ostenta-
35 Diamond
37 Lend a 38 Semi-39 Cover of 40 October
41 Hopalong
44 Eggs
45 Wet
46 Get —
47 Scooted

Solution time: 21 mins.

Yesterday's answer 12-6

CRYPTOQUIP

Q V H Q T C O G J M H T M B Q J M Z
Z T Q J Z I V J G C B O J P U Z
T I I C W P ? U R C B P P U Z ' P
G W J Q U M R J Z Z B M Z U T M

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF YOU'RE FORCED TO DESIGN FROM YOUR DESIGNATED POST, I'D
CALL IT A DIS-APPOINTMENT.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: P equals S

STREET TALK

What are you doing after your last final?

Barnes

"Going to work at the mall."

Allen Barnes
FRESHMAN IN MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

Piao

"Anything for fun."

Sheng Piao
SOPHOMORE IN BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION PRE-PROFESSIONAL

Zimmerman

"Clear out my dorm room and get home as soon as possible."

Kate Zimmerman
FRESHMAN IN OPEN-OPTION

Clay

"Driving home and getting a job."

Adam Clay
SENIOR IN ENGLISH

Witham

"Moving rooms in my dorm."

Rachel Witham
FRESHMAN IN PRE-JOURNALISM AND MASS
COMMUNICATIONS

Raglin

"Going to sleep because I'm an architecture
student."

Kala Raglin
JUNIOR IN ARCHITECTURE

Killian

"Going to the bars."

April Killian
JUNIOR IN PRE-
PROFESSIONAL ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

Manes

"Going home."

Jason Manes
SOPHOMORE IN BIOLOGY

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- A topic research class will be from 10:30 to 11:30 this morning in Hale 408.
- An effective web searching class will be from 4 to 4:45 p.m. today in Hale 408.
- The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Duane Kitchen at 10 a.m. today in Ackert 324.
- Early-Bird K-State Relay for Life will be today from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the K-State Student Union.
- The Society of Automotive Engineers will meet at 7 tonight in Fiedler Auditorium.

Corrections and clarifications

The Japanese Yosakoi Dance Club presented three dances, not nine, as stated in "Japanese club performs International Dance Festival" in Monday's Collegian. Mary Renee Smith, who opened for Tracey Morgan, is a K-State graduate, not a freshman in environmental design, as stated in Monday's Collegian. The Collegian regrets the errors.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2005

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Friday, Dec. 2

- Jamour Davis-Williamson, 2001 Blue Hills Road, was arrested at 10:15 a.m. for two counts of probation violation. Bond was set at $5,000.
- Christa Beason, 3000 Turtle Creek Blvd., No. 405, was arrested at 11 a.m. for forgery and possession of opiates or narcotics. Bond was set at $1,000.
- Dusty Ellis, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 2 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was not set.
- Julian Wilson, 1207 Kearney St., No. 9, was arrested at 10:45 p.m. for unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $500.

- Antonio Sutton, St. George, Kan., was arrested at 10:59 p.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.

Saturday, Dec. 3

- Joshua Bargman, 1700 N. Manhattan Ave., Apt. 106, was arrested at 12:50 p.m. for obstruction of justice, driving with a suspended license and DUI. Bond was not set.
- Michelle Wolfe, 6228 Canary Lane, No. 47, was arrested at 12:57 p.m. for disorderly conduct. Bond was set at $750.
- Vincent Gregorio, Cheyenne, Wyo., was arrested at 1:35 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Christopher Koehler, 3005 Geneva Drive, was arrested at 1:45 a.m. for resisting arrest and criminal trespass. Bond was set at $1,500.
- John Hafferty, 1725 Colorado St., was arrested at 2:30 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- Neil Jacobson, 1825 Colorado St., was arrested at 2:45 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- Marcus Miles, 244 Westwood Road, was arrested at 8:15 a.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $750.
- Matthew Navarro, 1851 Todd Road, Apt. A1, was arrested at 1:15 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $250.
- Hunter Taylor III, 615 Fairchild Terrace, was arrested at 4 p.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- Antonio Sutton, 2500 Farm Bureau Road, No. 201, was arrested at 4:15 p.m. for vehicle burglary. Bond was set at $1,000.
- Jamerhlat Jackson, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 5:35 p.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $500.
- Micheal Brown, Junction City, was arrested at 5:45 p.m. for three counts of probation violation. Bond was set at $1,500.

Sunday, Dec. 4

- Anthony Bussen, 514 Manhattan St., was arrested at 12:05 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

- Katrin Gordon, 2821 Arbor Drive, was arrested at 1:30 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- Sarah Chapman, Auburn, Kan., was arrested at 2:20 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- Joseph Schlatter, 1919 Hunting Ave., was arrested at 2:50 a.m. for criminal trespass. Bond was set at $750.
- Jacob Thoele, Overland Park, Kan., was arrested at 3:10 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Karen Johnson, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 3:20 a.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.
- Carlos Gutierrez, 623 Yuma St., was arrested at 7:45 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.
- Roy Arceneaux, 530 Colorado St., was arrested at 7:50 a.m. for possession of marijuana with intent to sell, possession of paraphernalia and no Kansas tax stamp. Bond was set at $15,000.
- Stephen Keith, 925 Moro St., was arrested at 9:15 a.m. for two counts of probation violation. Bond was set at $1,250.
- Daniel Marschall, 1010 Laramie St., was arrested at 5:15 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $94.

dependable, quality service

✓ We deliver A+ service with a smile.

Clafin Books and Copies

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing
Totally confidential service
Same day results
Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village
Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Holiday Hairdos!

Call now for your Christmas appointments!

$5 off
for new clients

Bark Avenue
CANINE DESIGNS
607 N. 11th

Located at the Handi Corner in Aggieville
785-565-0612

GTM SPORTSWEAR

Associate Sales Representative

Additional growth has propelled GTM Sportswear to seek out four additional associate sales reps. As an associate rep, you spend approx. 30 hours per week in customer service and the balance of the week learning how to become inside sales rep. Our goal is for you to grow into the inside rep ($30,000+) position within 6-9 mos. Starting associate wage is $9/hr plus benefits and profit sharing. Candidates need a college degree and/or have two years sales or customer service experience. You need to be organized and enjoy developing relationships. A background in education or coaching is also a plus, as you are selling our customized apparel to teams and groups all across the U.S.A. For more info contact GTM Sportswear, 520 McCall Rd. Manhattan, KS. 66502 or e-mail klindsay@igtm.com.

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH!

at
Varney's Book Store - In Aggieville
Textbook Department

Buy Back Hours:
Mon, Dec 12th - Fri, Dec 16th:
9:00 am - 8:00 pm

*Please Bring a Current Photo ID
To Sell Your Books!

LONGHORNS SALOON

Aggieville Manhattan

1/2 Price Everything

Karaoke Night
Live Tomorrow Night

Jason Boland • Get your tickets now!

Save 20-50% OFF
a huge selection of KSU merchandise!

Your source for Nike, Under Armour, Columbia and Adidas.

MANY ITEMS ON SALE AS WELL!

adidas
Columbia Sportswear Company

Ballard's
1218 Moro • Aggieville
539-2441

wildcats
2005-06 BASKETBALL

Tuesday, Dec. 6
vs.
Louisiana Tech
7pm
Bramlage Coliseum

1.800.221.CATS
www.kstatesports.com

GO STATE!

Students experience different cultures at K-State

By Lacey D. Mackey
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Trading in cultures and comfort zones, students across the world annually pick up their passports to try a new way of life for a semester or two.

Almudena Toral, senior in mass communications, is from Madrid, Spain. She received a scholarship from her school in Spain to study in the United States, specifically in the Midwest.

Toral said no particular reason led her to the center of the United States, except for a strong dislike of cold weather.

"I hate the cold, and I didn't want to go to Texas because there are too many Spanish-speaking people there," she said.

While she has already been in the United States twice before, Toral said she still experienced culture shock when she started at K-State.

"The first thing is that it's a little bit of a shock," she said. "The

"In Japan, we don't have enough space, but here, the land is continuous."

Mai Fukuta
STUDENT

style of life is so different.

"In bigger cities, you spend a lot of time in public transportation. Here, you need a car to do anything. If you don't have a car, you're missing a lot of things."

With a love for writing, Toral is now working on a journalism degree and has previously worked for a local paper in Spain.

Toral will be at K-State for two semesters and then return to Spain to finish her degree.

Toral said she was surprised by the amount of homework and daily papers due in U.S. university classes. While she has been studying English for years, Toral said she has still needed to work on technical phrases specific to her major.

"I don't think of my English as that bad," Toral said. "But at the beginning of the semester, I thought I was going to fail all of my classes, but they're getting better and better."

Toral's roommate, Mai Fukuta, is a junior from Japan who is spending one semester at K-State solely to practice English.

"I came because I wanted to improve my English here," Fukuta said. "My university has an exchange program with K-State, and my mentor had been here to study English."

While at K-State, Fukuta said she has experienced some culture shock of her own and has noticed differences in student life from her home in Japan.

"The first day I came here, I thought it was very large - huge land," Fukuta said. "In Japan, we don't have enough space, but here, the land is continuous."

Even fashion has had a bearing on her semester abroad.

"Students wear a lot of casual clothes, like just a T-shirt and jeans," she said.

Both Fukuta and Toral said they were surprised by the number of international students they have met at K-State.

Though they want to learn about the American culture and practice their English, both women said they have found many of their close friends to be from the international community.

"I came with the idea of keeping apart from Spanish students, but it's kind of difficult," Toral said. "It's not that people here are closed. I have more exchange student friends, but I have some good friends from here too."

Donna Davis, director of the International Student Center, said international students go through extensive orientation before classes begin in the fall.

International students, Mai Fukuta, junior in pre-professional business administration, and Almudena Toral, senior in pre-journalism mass communications, live together in Moore Hall.

The center works closely with students on immigration requirements and provides a variety of programs, like a conversational English group for students to practice their English.

"It's not just practicing English and getting to know an American student, but it's meeting the needs on both sides," Davis said.

Meeting parents important to relationships

By Adam Hanks
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Many long-term couples would agree: meeting their significant other's parents is a hard experience early in a relationship.

Tony Jurich, professor of family studies and human service, said it is also one of the most important.

Jurich said there are three major mistakes a couple can make when meeting each other's parents: one not telling the other about parents' behavior, one not telling his or her parents about a significant other, and one failing to be respectful.

People should tell a significant other about their parents' likes, dislikes and mannerisms, and should each tell their parents about the person they are with, Jurich said.

Along with parents feeling like a person is a threat to their child, they can also feel challenged.

"You become a rival for their affection," Jurich said. "You are the competition."

Another mistake people make when meeting a partner's parents is not showing enough respect.

"You either treat their parents as a friend, which they are not, or you treat them like your parents," he said.

For Nikki Steege and Chris Walker, their first experiences with each other's parents went fairly smoothly. The couple, who are engaged to be married in June, said they had good experiences.

"I first met his parents when they came up to visit Chris," Steege, sophomore in pre-nursing, said. "I wasn't expecting to meet them. I just walked into his living room, and they were all sitting in there."

Even though it came as a bit of a shock, Steege said she was glad to be surprised by them.

"It's probably a good thing, because I would have been really nervous from meeting them and wouldn't have been my usual self," she said.

When Walker, sophomore in business administration pre-professional, met Steege's parents, it was a different setting. The two were not dating, which took the pressure off.

"A bunch of our friends went to Kansas City for the weekend and we all stayed at her parents' house," he said. "It was nice that we weren't dating at the time, so I wasn't being questioned."

Even though the first meeting between people and their partner's parents will probably be stressful, Jurich said.

"There is slack that they will give you later on in their relationship, when they know that you are good to their son or daughter," he said.

Service • Auto • Car • Eye Care
• Clothing • Oil Change

SERVICE DIRECTORY

• Beauty • Refill • Planning
• Heating • Plumbing

Oil CHANGE

WHEN YOU BRING IN THIS AD

$14.95

Ekart Automotive Services

776-5110 411 S. 5th St. • 1 Bldg. North of Ft. Riley Blvd.

ONE HOUR MASSAGE

$35+

Body First

2308 Anderson Ave
(785) 587-8300

Little Caesars

HOT-N-READY

LARGE

$5.00

ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!

1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Check out shout outs

in the Classifieds

Get your own shout out for just $2!

Come to 103 Kedzie or call 532-6555

McMullen's ALLEY

1208 Moro • 537-0775

$2.00

shots wells imports premiums bottles

GLASS

QUALITY ETCHED GLASS

Including New Choices!

KSU Paperweights, Boxes, Clocks, Bookends, Nameplates, Decanters, Glassware & Pendants $6 - $67

PUBLIC HOURS

Mon-Fri 10:30-6:30 • Sat 10-5 • Sun 1-5

Glass Impressions • 329 Payntz

January 2006

intersession

December 27, 2005 - January 11, 2006

Time Is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our web site at <http://www.dce.ksu.edu/>. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5566 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $164 per undergraduate resident credit hour and $227 per graduate resident credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. A $14 per credit hour fee is assessed for Engineering and Architecture courses.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	1/5-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Design Graphics and Visual Thinking	LAR 310	94108	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
Prb/Advanced Design Graphics/Visual Thinking	LAR 741	94110	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
Forensic Medicine & the Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94112	3 UG/G	1/3-1/10	MTWUFsa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Hip-Hop as Literature	ENGL 295	94118	2 UG	1/3-1/10	MTWUF 12:30 PM-5:00 PM
The History of Insurgency on American Soil	HIST 200	94116	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 6:00 PM-10:00 PM
The History of American Movies and the Movie-Going Experience	HIST 533	94117	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Phant and Exercise Personality	KIN 592	94121	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:45 PM
Philanthropy and Corporate Communication	MC 450	94123	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Jazz in Kansas City and the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94124	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 562	94126	3 UG/G	12/29-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
					Sa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Theatre for Conflict Resolution	THRE 673	94129	3 UG/G	12/30-1/11	MTWUFsa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
BUSINESS
Achieving Career Success: Developing Personal Competencies, Outwitting Opponents, & Avoiding Common Career Traps	GENBA 498	94131	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	MANGT 300	94133	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
EDUCATION
Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94142	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, and Administrators	EDCEP 802	94146	3 G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Early Field Experience	EDSEC 230	94148	1 UG	12/27-1/11	APPT
ENGINEERING
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94151	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94152	2 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 12:30 PM-4:30 PM
Energy and Environmental Impacts Related to Sustainability	CHE 650	94153	1 UG/G	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94154	1 UG	12/27-12/29	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94155	1 UG	1/4-1/6	WUF 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94156	1 UG	1/9-1/11	MTW 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Building Commissioning	CNS 644	94158	2 UG/G	12/28-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:00 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete Structures in Construction Management	CNS 644	94159	2 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-11:30 AM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	DEN 300	94186	1 UG	1/6-1/9	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM TWUF 8:00 AM-7:00 PM
Problems/Eng. & Tech: Hazwoper Training	DEN 398	94160	3 UG/N	1/3-1/6
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics: Introduction to Infant Mental Health: Raising Emotionally Healthy Children	FSHS 300	94162	3 UG	12/27-1/11	MTWU 8:30 AM-1:00 PM
Problems in FSHS: Family Law	FSHS 700	94166	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:45 PM
Introduction to Marriage and Family Therapy	FSHS 704	94161	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	TWUF 8:30 AM-12:15 PM
Topics: Premarital Education and Counseling	FSHS 708	94168	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:30 PM-9:00 PM
Seminar in Long-Term Care Administration	GERON 610	94171	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:30 PM
Lodging Management Theory	HRIMD 664	94180	3 UG/G	12/27-1/11	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM

VERIFY ALL COURSE INFORMATION BY CHECKING THE WEBSITE PRIOR TO THE FIRST DAY OF CLASS.

KSTATE
Kansas State University

Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

TO THE POINT Students, fans should embrace new coach

A new era in K-State football began Monday with the announcement of Ron Prince as the 33rd head coach.

As cliché as it sounds, he obviously has large shoes to fill following Bill Snyder's 17 years as coach.

Prince deserves the respect, admiration and support of every Wildcat fan past and present. In the almost two decades Snyder roamed the sidelines at the newly-named Bill Snyder Family Stadium, fans became accustomed to how he did things.

With a new coach, comes new ways of doing things.

Undoubtedly there will be some who won't like some of Prince's changes. However, it's the responsibility of each fan to show Prince why K-State is one of the most friendly campuses by welcoming him and embracing his style of coaching.

The choice of hiring Prince as coach was made after many meetings with university officials.

Snyder also publicly endorsed Prince at the press conference saying, "I've seen a man that has a plan. I've seen a gentleman that truly does understand the values that this program has embodied for the past 17 years."

This is the second time in less than 20 years that K-State has taken a chance and hired an offensive coordinator as head coach and look what happened the first time.

Let's welcome Prince and look forward to seeing what he will do with the talent and prestigious program he inherited.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

A semester has come and gone, and the campus breathes a collective sigh of relief as my tenure as Collegian opinion editor nears its sunset.

Don't feel too good just yet, I'll still be a columnist next semester.

The last few months have been, with a few exceptions, good ones. The news has been appropriately exciting without being inappropriately inconvenient. Opinions have flowed like wine, and, occasionally, vinegar.

Some of the goals I had for the opinion page have come to fruition, some have not, such is life.

In all, it has been a decent semester, worth only a few gripes and moans blended well with precipitous liquor consumption.

Pro-lifers, pro-choicers, evangelists, musicians, comics and various others have contributed to the forum of campus life.

Arguably, the Fourum (which is spelled Fourum because it combines a phone and Internet aspect, not forum as the detractors claim) has contributed as well, of what it has contributed I have no idea.

The paper has been appropriately controversial, which is beneficial, as people read and businesses advertise in controversial papers.

Overall, heartburn has been minimized, with a few exceptions; notably, some goofed headlines, minor grumbling over a column about Hurricane Katrina and a few cases of hyper-sensitivity.

Evolution has put us back into the news, provoking debate from the intelligent, name-calling from the pig-headed and a hissy-fit from Dr. Dullard in Lawrence.

Our famed serial killer has been rounded up after a few long decades. Upon finding out what an atrocious nitwit he is, it makes one wonder why Kansas' finest were outsmarted by BTK for so long.

We continue our quest to grind Iraq into civility and democracy — which, apparently, are conditions best applied as a flammable paste.

Columnists have clashed, the Fourum has been used as a dating tool, angry letters have been sent followed by more angry letters as to why the first angry letter did not make print.

Hurricanes have done what hurricanes do, and people have done what people do when law is absent.

An era of K-State history came to an end, and brought about the renaming of a stadium. The old Snyder is gone, and a new Prince is already trying on the big shoes that need filling.

People have died — both senseless and sensible (is there such a thing?) deaths. But, more importantly, people have lived. One day bleeds into the next as we began complaining about the summer heat and now bemoan the lack of it.

We continue to seek out one more day: one more day of sandwiches, squirrels, the Kansas cold, one more Collegian, one more Fourum comment, just one more of everything. Who could ask for more?

In the great nonsense of daily life, the search for meaning continues. After almost 80 days of checking the Fourum, it is impossible to avoid the stark realization that the Fourum imitates life. Happy people, sad people, people who are drunk, stoned or otherwise messed up in some form or another make up my daily interaction.

People call in to complain, whine, praise, complement, laud, bitch, flirt and just plain hear themselves speak.

But, despite it all, a few needles of humor, wit and common sense hide within the gigantic haystack at the bottom of page four.

So in the passing of the first, last and only fall 2005 semester, a moment of reflection seems only natural. Remembering the way things are, the way they were and the way we would like them to be.

A brief moment where we consider life, the Fourum (capital F, lower case o, u, r, u, m) and everything.

Jonas Hogg is a non-traditional student in being oh so very, very, bone-crushingly tired. Please send your comments via masseuse to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

JONAS HOGG

Illustrations by Jordan Mizell | COLLEGIAN

Saving the Bush administration

It started in the year 2000 with the most contested, controversial and all-around screwed-up presidential election in two centuries. With such a bad beginning, one would think Bush's reign could only get better, but it didn't. Next, came terrorist attacks, war in Iraq, the Aug. 6 memo scandal, CIA leaks and a disastrous Supreme Court nominee.

Almost sounds like a long-lost verse from "We Didn't Start the Fire" by Billy Joel doesn't it?

Needless to say, the Bush Administration hasn't exactly endeared itself to a huge majority of Americans, as his latest Gallup Poll approval rating of 37 percent suggests. Nor is the world as a whole lining up to support our commander in chief.

If "Bush and Friends" were a sitcom, it would be about to wrap its fifth season, and ratings would be considerably lower than in the action-packed first and second seasons.

A network exec would know how to handle this problem — introduce a new character (preferably someone younger and cuter) to reinvigorate tired plot lines and win back the hearts of audiences.

That's why I propose a new addition to Bush's cabinet — Miss America.

As a representative of this country, the president probably already has jurisdiction over her anyway. Plus, it's becoming quite fashionable for powerful leaders to choose new employees on televised elimination shows. Turning the Miss American pageant into the executive branch's version of "The Apprentice" is the next logical step. Besides, how fun would it be to watch Bush, clad in a metallic-gold tuxedo, telling smiling beauty queens "you're fired?"

To ensure the right person is chosen for the job, the pageant would have to undergo some serious changes.

The evening gown competition would stay, but the swimsuit competition would have to go. Think: how many times have you seen the president clad in a suit and tie? And how many times have you seen Condoleezza in a bikini? Case closed.

Additionally, the talent competition would be reinstated, but with some minor alterations. Talents like opera singing and baton twirling would be allowed, but a winning contestant would demonstrate mastery of other skills, like diverting attention from government faux pas with cheeky hijinks, not throwing up on foreign heads of state and apologizing for government mistakes in a way that makes people love her for her honesty.

With the right skills and abilities, Miss America could completely revamp Bush's public image, both at home and abroad. Plus, as the cousin Oliver to Bush's Greg Brady, she could use gentle teasing and endearing banter to lend the president a human quality he sometimes lacks.

It would also probably be a good idea for the new sidekick to make nice with Laura Bush, too, lest the president's beautiful, young new colleague turn the wholesome sitcom into a smutty soap opera.

If "Bush and Friends" is to stay on the air until its contract runs out in 2009, adopting a cute new cast member is the way to go.

The Miss America pageant is scheduled for January, giving Bush plenty of time to tweak a few rules and rent a gold tux. And once the winner is selected, all that's left to do is find room in the cabinet for the new Secretary of Turning Those Frowns Upside-down.

After that: hello, Emmy.

Jaci Boydston is a senior in Diet Coke consumption with an emphasis in not knowing when to show up. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@spub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
--	--

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

The campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene, and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

Crack much?

What happened to dead week? I have two lab finals, a four-page homework assignment, a five-page paper, a take-home test, test corrections and a quiz all due by Wednesday. It's more like hell week.

What's an iPod?

I went to K-State with a bachelor's degree in marijuana and left with a master's in cocaine.

Congratulations crack, you're number one.

To me, it's always a good idea to always carry two sacks of something when you walk around. That way, if anybody says, "hey, can you give me a hand?", you can say, "sorry, got these sacks."

When asked if he would run for president, Chuck Norris snickered "no that's just too easy. I want a challenge."

Butters the Squirrel has more Facebook friends than Jesus.

Evolution's such a crack. Chuck Norris should give a roundhouse kick to the side of the head of evolution.

How dare someone say the Cancer Center sucks. Just because you didn't get your money, doesn't mean you have a right to be so insensitive.

To the Collegian, not everyone who participated in the GROW program was female like you said. I am a male and I taught one of the sessions. Just thought I'd correct that.

Guns are for people who don't have the balls to stab someone.

So this Prince guy better be a good coach or I'm transferring to KU.

Someone once asked if Chuck Norris drove a Humvee since he is so macho. Chuck swiftly roundhouse kicked him in the face to prove his machoness and drove off in his Geo.

The Chuck Norris thing is over-played rubbish, we'll come hunt you down.

Why didn't Tetuan get an award for doing worse every year?

We're the only team in the Big 12 North without a bowl. Chuck Norris would not be happy.

What if the Hokey Pokey is what it's all about?

I heard that Chuck Norris invented the Hokey Pokey.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Ice rink can offer holiday diversion

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For those looking for a distraction from studying, some recommend using Manhattan's Indoor Ice Rink.

Though most people are unaware of the location, officials said the Manhattan Parks and Recreation Department has run the ice rink for nearly 23 years at its 1101 Fremont St. location.

"We're not about making money," said Adam Dolezal, recreation supervisor in the parks and recreation department.

Several Manhattan residents and K-State organizations take advantage of the facility, said Erik Barstow, junior in psychology and ice rink attendant.

"It's a fun atmosphere, pretty low key," Barstow said. "People come here for parties, there are a lot of high school, junior high and college students, including fraternities and sororities."

Barstow said it's a great time for people to let loose and enjoy a part of Manhattan they might not have heard.

"Even I'm from Manhattan, and I didn't know that it existed until I worked for parks and recreation," he said.

While the ice rink may be small, Barstow said he plays several roles at the rink, giving it a more hometown atmosphere.

"I clean skates, rent out skates, sell concessions, scrape ice with shovels and brooms," Barstow said. "We don't have a Zamboni, but it's a lot of fun."

Everyone can learn a little, when it comes down to ice skating, Manhattan resident Haley Lintecum said.

"I come out here quite often, and sometimes I do make a dork of myself," said Lintecum. "But that's what makes it fun, to be able to learn something that you don't typically learn in high school P.E. or in college."

Both Dolezal and Barstow said there are limited injuries at the ice rink, with nothing more than bruises for newcomers.

The ice rink will remain open from December until March. In addition to general recreational use of the facilities, the rink offers skating and hockey lessons, among other things.

"People can come in and skate once, but we have a lot of regu-

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN
Paul Jacobsen, Manhattan resident, plays hockey at the Manhattan Parks and Recreation Department Indoor Ice Rink. Hockey players have priority on Wednesdays from 5:30 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays from 5 to 7 p.m.

lars," Barstow said. "It's a fun distraction from studying too." For more information about the ice rink hours or rates, visit www.ci.manhattan.ks.us or call Indoor Ice Rink at 587-2747.

Charges dropped against officer

By John Milburn
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOPEKA — Murder charges were dropped against an infantry officer accused of giving soldiers in his command permission to kill two Iraqi civilians Monday.

Second Lt. Erick J. Anderson, of Twinsburg, Ohio, had been charged with two counts of murder, two counts of conspiracy, making a false statement, dereliction of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer for allegedly authorizing the shooting deaths of Iraqi civilians by soldiers under his command.

All the charges were dropped after an Army investigator who presided over a two-day hearing at Fort Riley last month recommended that Anderson not face a court martial.

If convicted, Anderson, 26, could have faced life in prison.

"Today's a pretty good day," Anderson told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. "Right now, shock and awe is pretty much still in effect. It's been a long 18 months that this has all been going on. The reality of it still hasn't hit that it's done and over with."

Anderson was a platoon leader in Charlie Company, 1st Battalion, 41st Infantry Regiment in August 2004. Four men in his 36-member platoon were convicted of murdering unarmed Iraqis during operations near Sadr City. In later statements made to Army investigators, two of the soldiers said Anderson gave them the go-ahead to kill civilians, including one incident that was described as a "mercy killing."

"The convening authority has dismissed the charges and unless any new significant and substantially credible information comes to light, there will be no further investigation. The case is closed," said Lt. Col. David Velloney, deputy staff judge advocate at Fort Riley.

During the November hearing, one of Anderson's accusers changed his story. Pvt. Michael Williams, of Memphis, Tenn., testified Anderson did not order him to shoot an unarmed Iraqi during a mission on Aug. 28 in Sadr City. Williams said he only implicated Anderson as part of a plea agreement with prosecutors to reduce his own life sentence to 25 years in prison.

Williams said he shot the Iraqi three times before Anderson arrived in a building that was being searched for weapons and insurgents.

A second soldier, Pvt. Johnny Horne Jr., refused to testify unless he was granted immunity from prosecution. Horne previously had said Anderson gave him permission to kill the teenager and "put him out of his misery."

Horne, of Wilson, N.C., and Pvt. Cardenas Alban, of Inglewood, Calif., were sentenced to one year in prison for shooting an Iraqi teenager who was severely wounded on Aug. 18, 2004, near Sadr City.

Alban testified in November that he was told by Horne that Anderson gave permission to put the boy "out of his misery."

Neal Puckett, a former Marine Corps judge who defended Anderson, said the judicial process worked, but the case never should have reached a hearing.

"We have to have a high standard of evidence before we give any credence of charges of war crimes," Puckett said.

Prosecutors in Iraq had dropped charges against Anderson in January, saying there wasn't enough evidence to prosecute him. But they left the investigation open and the case was transferred back to Fort Riley for further review. New charges were filed in October and included the allegations by Williams.

Anderson said for the past year he relied on the prayers of family and friends to get him through the ordeal. He thought he was clear of charges in January, only to have them resurface. Monday's decision allows him to reflect on the events and his future in the Army.

"I haven't let my emotions take hold of me. You try to take days at a half day at a time. So much would change daily, you couldn't look to the end of the day," he said.

Delay still faces money laundering allegations

By April Castro
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN, Texas — A judge dismissed a conspiracy charge Monday against Rep. Tom DeLay, but refused to throw out the far more serious allegations of money laundering, dashing the congressman's hopes for now of reclaiming his post as House majority leader.

Texas Judge Pat Priest, who is presiding over the case against the Republican, issued the ruling after a hearing late last month in which DeLay's attorney argued that the indictment was fatally flawed.

When he was indicted in September, DeLay was required under House rules to relinquish the leadership post he had held since early 2003.

While Monday's ruling was a partial victory for DeLay, he cannot reclaim his post because he remains under indictment.

The ruling means the case will move toward a trial next year, though other defense objections to the indictments remain to be heard by the judge.

"The court's decision to dismiss Ronnie Earle's numerous charges against Mr. DeLay underscores just how baseless and politically motivated the charges were," DeLay spokesman Kevin Madden said, referring to the democratic district attorney who brought the case.

"Mr. DeLay is very encouraged by the swift progress of the legal proceedings and looks forward to his eventual and absolute exoneration based on the facts and the law."

DeLay and two GOP fundraisers, John Colyandro and Jim Ellis, are accused of illegally funneling $190,000 in corporate donations to 2002 Republican candidates for the Texas Legislature.

Under Texas law, corporate money cannot be directly used for political campaigns, but it can be used for administrative purposes.

In asking the case be thrown out, DeLay lawyer Dick DeGuerin argued that one of the charges, conspiracy to violate the Texas election code, did not even take effect until September 2003, a year after the alleged offenses occurred.

Prosecutors, however, said the crime of conspiracy was already on the books, and could be applied to the election code, even though such uses were not explicitly in state law at the time.

The judge was unpersuaded by that argument, and dismissed the conspiracy charge.

But the judge upheld charges of money laundering and conspiracy to commit money laundering.

Those charges involve an alleged attempt by DeLay to conceal the source of the campaign contributions by funneling the money through his own political action committee and then an arm of the Republican National Committee.

In trying to have those charges thrown out, the defense argued the Texas money laundering law does not apply to funds in the form of a check, just coins or paper money.

But the judge said checks "are clearly funds and can be the subject of money laundering."

You know how great food smells when you don't have to make it yourself?

We can get that for you.

Check out the MENU GUIDE in back of the Campus Phone Book

Available in Kozzie 103
Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS

FROM ... for your Holiday Music & Gifts!

Sisters of Sound
MUSIC STORE

• CDs • Vinyl • New • Used

1214-C Moro 770-9767

Shakin' Up The Holidays

Know someone who loves ice cream? Get em' a Shakes Gift Card—they make great stocking stuffers!

Now serving Holly Jolly Peppermint Concretes

Try our speciality coffees .99 on Dec. 3

Shake Cakes available

10% OFF WITH K-STATE ID | $1 OFF WITH THIS AD

Shakes

Highland Community College Wamego Center

Accessible
Only 14 miles east of Manhattan on Highway 24.
The HCC Wamego Center is in the Wamego Industrial Park on the east side of Wamego.

Affordable
Tuition & Fees (TEXTBOOK RENTAL INCLUDED)
Kansas Resident - $84

Class Size
Average of 20 students per class.
2 chemistry labs and 4 biology labs

To View Course Listings Go To:
1. www.highlandcc.edu
2. Prospective Students
3. Course Section Finder
4. Choose Wamego in drop-down, select year/term and
5. Press Search

Highland Community College Wamego Center
500 Miller Drive • Wamego, KS • 785-456-6006 • www.highlandcc.edu

Calculated risk

Athletics Director Tim Weiser sits and listens to new head coach Ron Prince during a press conference Monday afternoon. Weiser, President Jon Wefald and former coach Bill Snyder were involved in selecting Prince as the program's coach.

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Weiser confident in hiring of new football coach

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The day former football coach Bill Snyder announced his retirement, Virginia offensive coordinator and offensive line coach Ron Prince was not considered a leading candidate to replace the 17-year coach.

It was assumed the next coach would have ties to the K-State program or directly to Snyder. Monday afternoon's introduction of Prince as the new coach of the program came as a surprise because he has neither, but Athletics Director Tim Weiser said it was a risk the university needed to take.

"You have to take risks here," Weiser said. "There's no doubt in my mind that Kansas State is going to always have to be willing to take risks. That risk has to be a calculated one, it can't be an irresponsible role of the dice, but I think Kansas State has to have an edge and that means taking risks. You hope that they all turn out well, but sometimes they don't. That's not how I perceive this."

"I believe fully in Ron when he said, 'You'll never regret giving me this opportunity.'"

Weiser, with President Jon Wefald and Snyder, was involved in the final interviewing process that took place on Thursday. Weiser said he did not know a lot about Prince at first besides what he had heard from people within his circle telling him, but he was impressed when he met him.

"We went on what I thought what was going to not be as long a visit, but it turned out to be," Weiser said. "It started with him saying something as simple as, 'I waited my whole life for this opportunity.' That kind of got the attention of the three of us. What really got our attention was that he did an incredible amount of research on our roster and our recruiting class, what states the kids were from and how many of them were still here from the original signed class, and from that, how many are starting."

"He had put together in relatively 24 hours a plan of what he saw for

See FOOTBALL Page 8

Players, fans, students excited about coach Prince

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Be it football players, fans, students or President Jon Wefald — people around Manhattan are finding it difficult to say anything negative about K-State's new coach, Ron Prince.

The speculation over who would be qualified enough to replace Bill Snyder has ceased, and the announcement of Prince on Monday generated excitement around the area.

Snyder's former players said they are happy the 20-day hunt is over and are pleased with the decision of the former Virginia offensive line coach.

"At first, it (the locker room) was a little nervous because we didn't know who it was going to be at all," sophomore defensive back Bryan Baldwin said. "Now hearing what he's (Prince) had to say and what he's going to bring to the table, it's a lot more calm."

Prince's player-oriented system and dedication are the type of characteristics the K-State program needs to revive the winning reputation it had a couple years ago, Baldwin said.

"One of his main issues as a coach was his relationship with players, and definitely as players, I think that's very important to be around coaches who want to be around us," Baldwin said. "The way he talked sounds like he has a lot of determination, so I could see (winning) happening, especially with us because we work hard. It could be a good combination."

Redshirt-freshman quarterback Allan Evridge said he is looking forward to the future with Prince as K-State's coach and is taken aback by the presence he's already brought to the locker room.

"I'm very impressed by his demeanor, and the way he handles things, his plans and his structure," Evridge said. "I have nothing bad to say."

Neither did the K-State students. Some expressed a little shock over the hiring of such a low-profile candidate, but Drew Henderson, senior in electronic journalism, said he was reassured by Prince's experience and youth.

"I was a little surprised. All the talk was that it would be

See REACTION Page 8

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Answering questions after the press conference introducing Ron Prince as the new football coach, sophomore defensive back Marcus Watts looks on. Prince is the 33rd head football coach at K-State.

Dick Vermeil, Chiefs worthy of respect after dominant win over Denver Broncos

In Dick Vermeil's four-and-a-half seasons as coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, the Chiefs have earned little respect.

Sure, Kansas City continually sends a healthy number of players to the Pro Bowl, including six last season, and Vermeil's offenses have been praised for posting outlandish numbers.

Granted, Priest Holmes was widely regarded as football's best player before Peyton Manning and LaDainian Tomlinson took over the title.

There is no denying the Chiefs continue to provide plenty of fantasy football studs.

But outside of Kansas City, Ver-meil's team — even when it finished 13-3 in 2003 — has never been considered a legitimate Super Bowl contender, because the Chiefs haven't boasted a defense that can stop anyone.

Once again, Vermeil's Chiefs are dubbed as "playoff pretenders," perhaps because of last season's 7-9 record or their winless 2005 preseason.

Or, maybe it's because Kansas City tends to lose its focus away from Arrowhead Stadium and let bad teams creep back into games. Honestly, before Sunday's win, Kansas City probably did not deserve much respect.

The Chiefs' only noteworthy performances of the season include a 10-point victory over the depleted New England Patriots at home and an eight-point loss to the talented San Diego Chargers on the road.

But now, after Sunday's 31-27 win over the Denver Broncos, the Chiefs deserve national attention.

Kansas City earned a victory over a solid team that had won four in a row. Denver was the No. 2 team on ESPN.com's Power Rankings entering the game. There are few who doubt the Broncos as a potential Super Bowl contender.

The Chiefs defense, though not exactly impressive for much of Sunday's game, stepped up during crunch time.

Kansas City held Denver to just six points in the second half.

On a crucial fourth down and one with 2 minutes, 1 second remaining, Kansas City's defense held Denver running back Mike Anderson short of the first down. After reviewing the spot, the referees got it right.

The Chiefs are now 8-4 in the toughest division in football. They control their own destiny, though they probably can only afford one more loss.

With an incredibly difficult remaining schedule, the Chiefs appear to be peaking at the right time.

And with Sunday's critical win over Denver, the Chiefs deserve respect.

Mark Potter is a senior in public relations. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

NFL Scores

Seattle 42
Philadelphia 0

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NFL | Eagles pursuing part of T.O.'s signing bonus

For the second time in five months, the Philadelphia Eagles have requested that exiled wide receiver Terrell Owens repay part of the signing bonus that he received when the club signed him to a seven-year, $49 million contract in 2004.

And this time the Eagles plan to collect, team sources said.

Those sources confirmed that the Eagles last week apprised Owens in writing of their intent to recover $1.72 million of his original $2.3 million signing bonus. Team officials have forwarded the pertinent paperwork to the league alerting NFL officials of their intentions.

Owens

MLB | Mets cross catcher off wish list, get Lo Duca

The wheeling-and-dealing New York Mets crossed another need off their 2006 wish list, acquiring All-Star catcher Paul Lo Duca from the Florida Marlins in exchange for two minor league pitchers, the New York Daily News reported on its Web site.

It would be the second deal between the Mets and Marlins this offseason — although The Associated Press reported the Lo Duca deal was not finished — with Florida sending slugging first baseman Carlos Delgado to New York last month. The Mets also signed free-agent closer Billy Wagner, giving Mets general manager Omar Minaya a player at every position he said was a priority.

Lo Duca hit .283 with six homers and 57 RBI for the Marlins in 2005.

MLB | Byrd signs 2-year, $14.25 million deal

CLEVELAND — Free-agent pitcher Paul Byrd signed a two-year, $14.25 million contract Monday with the Cleveland Indians, the club's first move in what could be a busy few days at the winter meetings in Dallas.

Byrd will make $7 million in 2006 and 2007, and the deal includes a club option for 2008 that could raise the value to $22 million over three seasons.

The 35-year-old Byrd went 12-11 with a 3.74 ERA in 31 starts for the Los Angeles Angels last season.

Byrd

WWE | Pro wrestling to institute drug testing

STAMFORD, Conn. — Following the death of one of pro wrestling's biggest stars, World Wrestling Entertainment says it is starting random drug testing to detect illicit drugs, steroids and prescription drug abuse among its performers.

Eddie Guerrero, 38, had struggled with drug abuse for years before he was found dead last month in a Minneapolis hotel shortly before a show.

The medical examiner has yet to rule on the cause of death, but Guerrero's widow has said she was told an autopsy showed signs of heart disease, which she blamed on his past alcohol and drug abuse combined with an aggressive workout regimen.

WWE, whose wrestling programming is among the highest-rated on cable television, said it will announce details of the new testing procedure in the coming weeks.

NBA | Bucks' Smith to miss up to 2 months after surgery

MILWAUKEE — Milwaukee Bucks forward Joe Smith had surgery on his left knee Tuesday and will be sidelined for six to eight weeks.

John Heinrich, the team's orthopedic surgeon, performed the arthroscopic procedure to remove loose cartilage that has caused persistent swelling and pain since training camp.

Smith has been limited to eight games this season, including five starts. The 11th-year pro is averaging 9.8 points and nine rebounds.

The Bucks signed forward Josh Davis, who originally signed with them Oct. 2 and played in one game before being waived Nov. 24.

THE EDGE

Tuesday, Dec. 6, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

The price of dating

Women worth the cost

What my counterpart fails to realize is that college dating should not be viewed as legal prostitution. This Web site, www.costofsex.com implies that a decently-priced hooker is less expensive than having a girlfriend and that men are wasting their time and money on girlfriends.

First of all, in this time where equality is a buzzword and women are more powerful than ever, most girls I know offer to pay for many things in a relationship. If they didn't, most guys would not own cologne or ever get a home-cooked meal.

Second, if boys actually think the money they spend is too much for the sex they're getting, the girls are the ones missing out. More times than not, behind every guy who takes someone out just to sleep with her, is a girl who is not even enjoying the sex they're having.

Third, and most importantly, a guy paying for a movie or footing the bill at a restaurant is minor price to pay for a girl who is forced to listen and put up with "boys being boys." Think of it as a down payment for dealing with the emotionally unavailable, fart-joke-loving, secret porn stashing (should be shared), and generally romantically-challenged male.

Now, there are lots of men who don't equate their girlfriends and significant others with street trash. These are the men who acknowledge that women serve a greater purpose than to take their man's money and spread their legs.

These men are also the ones who have a satisfying, emotional and physical connection with their girlfriends. Of course, there will always be the gold diggers who give us ladies a bad name, but in college this is very rare. It's usually considered a huge splurge when a guy can pay for the pizza and the beer. When it comes to why men spend hard-earned cash on their significant others, I'd like to remind you of the L'Oreal motto: Because I'm worth it.

Men should stop complaining about having to pay for things and start getting a clue about how much women have to offer them.

Holly Kramer is a senior in human ecology and mass communications. You can e-mail her at edge@pub.ksu.edu.

HOLLY KRAMER

Equality means both pay

Last week, I came across a Web site called www.costofsex.com. The purpose of the site is to calculate how much time and money guys "waste" on their girlfriends and wives.

I asked a few people the questions from the site and then calculated the results. According to this Web site, the men who took this survey waste three to six hours per week on their girlfriends.

A guy spends $30 to $70 per week on his girlfriend. This Web site also calculates the financial cost and actual cost (time + money) of each time a guy has sex with his girlfriend. The average financial cost I found was $27 to $35. The actual cost was a bit higher, at $32 to $45. The actual cost is based on the hourly wage of the guy and the time and money he spent on the girl.

JOHN BECKER

It seems the modern woman costs way too much. What happened to equal rights for women? I think they should be able to pay for my dinner once in a while. Every time I turn around, I see guys blowing their paychecks on their girlfriends and then the next day they are fighting about something and break up.

Good investment. I'm not sure if it's just modern women in general or if it's just the American women who idolize stupid spoiled people like Paris Hilton. More and more I see guys who wait on their girlfriends like slaves and they never get any. What gives? How is that fair?

Women should stop expecting to be pampered and love the guy for who he is and not what he's going to buy them next. Any guy that puts a girl that high on a pedestal is either a tool or whipped.

John Becker is a junior in theater. You can e-mail him at edge@pub.ksu.edu.

NEW RELEASES

Music

Lindsay Lohan, "A Little More Personal"

Korn, "See You on the Other Side"

Various Artists, "Our New Orleans: A Benefit Album"

Eminem, "Curtain Call - The Hits"

Lil Wayne, "Tha Carter, Vol. 2"

"Jarhead [Soundtrack]"

Cocteau Twins, "Lullabies to Violaine"

Alanis Morissette, "The Collection"

Sugarcult, "Start Static"

Tori Amos, "The Original Bootlegs"

Ricardo Arjona, "Adentro"

The Bee Gees, "Love Songs"

Ray Lamontagne, "Live from Bonnaroo 2005"

Source: Amazon.com

Lohan

Morissette

Movies in theatres Friday

"The Chronicles of Narnia: The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe" PG

Director Andrew Adamson brings the first novel of C.S. Lewis' classic "Narnia" series to the big screen. This fantasy tells the story of Peter, Susan, Edmund and Lucy, separated from their parents in London during the German air raids of World War II. They are sent to the country for safety and find a magic wardrobe that transports them to the mystical kingdom of Narnia.

"Syriana" R

Director Stephen Gaghan follows up Traffic with this political thriller set in the Cold War era during a global fight for control over the world's oil supply. The stories of a CIA operative, an up-and-coming oil broker, a prince and a corporate lawyer collide as the fighting for the world's most valuable resource heats up.

Source: Movies.go.com

DVDs

"Fantastic Four"

"24 - Season Four"

"The West Wing - The Complete Fifth Season"

"Star Wars - Clone Wars, Vol. 2"

"Full House - The Complete Second Season"

"Cinderella Man"

"M*A*S*H - Season Nine (Collector's Edition)"

"Aqua Teen Hunger Force Vol. 4"

"The Dukes of Hazzard"

"Everybody Loves Raymond - The Complete Fifth Season"

"The Rockford Files - Season One"

"Walt Disney Treasures - The Chronological Donald Volume Two (1942-1946)"

"Walt Disney Treasures - Disney Rarities - Celebrated Shorts, 1920s - 1960s"

"Felicity: An American Girl Adventure"

"Batman - The Animated Series Volume Four"

"Murder She Wrote - The Complete Second Season"

"Star Wars Trilogy"

"Superman - The Animated Series Volume Two"

Source: Amazon.com

Art: Courtesy photos

Comedian, actor Denis Leary hosts anti-Christmas special

By Eileen Laux
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Comedian and star of the show "Rescue Me," Denis Leary has come up with a Christmas special complete with a Santa makeover, "Nuns with Cold Gone Wild" and "It's Jihad Farley Towne."

The special, "Denis Leary's Merry F---in' Christmas" is airing currently on Comedy Central.

Leary said in a conference call that the initial idea came because he recorded the Christmas song with the same title about a year ago. He said he and his band member, Chris Phillips, wrote a previous song together that was popular and thought it was time for a Christmas song.

"We got a good response from the song and then decided to make a video in clay-mation," he said. "Finally we thought, why don't we do the ultimate anti-Christmas special. Let's take Christmas and kick it around a little. We went to Comedy Central, they said yes and that's where it all started."

Leary said he wants the audience to be able to sit down and laugh their way through the holiday. He said everyone shares that sense of not wanting to see relatives or not getting the present they want.

"We were all told the lies about Christmas as a child, when you grow up it's not what you were told it was going to be," he said.

He said he hopes people will come away from the special laughing.

Leary said in his opinion the worst part of the holidays is the fake attitude some people have.

"Even people in your neighborhood that you hate, wish you happy holidays," he said. "You don't talk to me all year and now your going to pretend that you like me and that I have a happy holiday."

He said the main reason for the Christmas special is the lack of specials that are funny, besides Adam Sandler's "Hanukkah song."

"These specials are made up of everybody just pretending to have such a joyous and wonderful time," he said. "There is very little out there that makes you roll around on the couch laughing about Christmas. Our real hope is that there will be people on buses, trains and cabs singing Merry F---in' Christmas under their breath."

Special guests include Barenaked Ladies, Steve Bridges, Chris Elliot, Carmen Electra and William Shatner. Several skits were done including a cartoon, based on "Charlie Brown Christmas," called "It's a Jihad Farley Towne." According to Comedy Central, Santa will get a makeover by celebrity stylist Philip Bloch.

Leary said they hope to get a negative response and backlash, especially from the media because it helps generate more publicity and cause more people to watch the show.

He said the best thing to do when making a comedy album is to put the explicit content sticker on the front.

"I hope that the Catholic Church bans it (comedy special) and somebody in press has a problem with it because that helps get the word out," he said.

Leary said his Christmas plans usually consist of a quiet, family-oriented morning and then his "large, crazy Irish family" as he refers to them, come over and before he knows it there are 40 or 50 people in his house. But, he said it's tradition.

He said he thinks Santa Claus is a lie parents tell their kids.

He said parents should just tell the truth from the beginning, because he would have still taken the presents.

He said he hopes the special will turn to an annual show because everyone had such a good time shooting the special, with the locations, recording the music and being in the studio, so he said he thinks people would come back next year.

"You never know, this Christmas things may turn into an annual special, but that's not saying that we won't find some reason to make fun of Easter or maybe we will do a Hanukkah one next year," he said.

Courtesy art

Courtesy art

"Denis Leary's Merry F---in' Christmas" airs on Comedy Central. Check local listings for times.

Photo illustration by Steven Doll | COLLEGIAN

FOOTBALL | Snyder introduces new Wildcat coach to players, media

Continued from Page 6

Kansas State football. I can assure you that he was the only one that we talked to, that was that thorough and prepared in terms of knowing where he wanted to go."

Wefald, who was the last to meet with Prince, said they looked at former assistants under Snyder, "and for whatever the reason it didn't work out."

Wefald said Prince separated himself from other candidates because it was something he wanted to happen.

"Back in 1989, there were a lot of people that had no interest in being the head coach at Kansas State," Wefald said. "Not every coach out there has a dream to be the head coach here, and sometimes we lose sight of that. A couple of the people that we were reading about in press, I really think they liked it where they were, and so at this time they weren't ready to come to Kansas State. So, when we talked to Ron we saw that he had the organizational ability, the ability to hire outstanding assistant coaches and that he definitely wanted the job."

Snyder was the first person to introduce Prince to the players and the media, and he said

Prince has a plan that he thinks will succeed at K-State.

"I think Ron's a very personable, good young guy," Snyder said. "I think he has a plan that he feels will succeed at Kansas State University for everything, X's and O's, fundamentals, recruiting and those things and he's been tutored by some good coaches and people as well."

WHAT HAPPENED TO VENABLES?

Thought to be the lead candidate after Jim Leavitt signed an extension with the University of South Florida, Brent Venables was left out of the mix. The associate head coach, co-defensive coordinator and linebackers coach at Oklahoma and a former player and assistant coach under Snyder was thought to be the predecessor if Leavitt did not accept the position.

Snyder said he was asked to submit a list of six or seven potential replacements, and Venables was on his list.

He said he and Venables are in good standing.

"Brent and I just visited this morning," Snyder said. "He's somebody that my history with has been pretty special. He's a neat young man, and somebody that I love dearly."

REACTION | Prince 1 of 4 African-American coaches in Division I-A

Continued from Page 6

somebody from the Snyder tree," Henderson said. "I think it will help with recruiting because he's so young, so he will be able to relate to football players and recruits more."

In addition to his youth, Prince has also drawn lot of attention nationwide for being just the fourth African-American coach in Division I-A. Prince said he prefers that the color of his skin not be such an issue, but some consider it an attractive quality of the coach.

"It's cool that he's one of the only minority coaches in Division I-A," Henderson said.

Robert Lipson, an avid K-State and Snyder fan who's been to every game since 1973, said he was a little wary of Prince but likes the fact that he is reputed to be a sharp, bright coach.

"I read that he's an Academic All-American, and that sells me on him," Lipson said. "There will never be another Bill Snyder, but I think he's the best possible coach among all available coaches."

Although Lipson said he believes nobody can replace Snyder, he invites Prince to do better than K-State's former coach.

"If he wants to prove me wrong and exceed Snyder's accomplishments, he's certainly welcome to do so," Lipson said.

Harris scores career-high in win

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Coming off its first loss of the season to Washington State, the K-State men's basketball team was eager to redeem itself against Longwood Monday night.

But despite an 89-60 K-State victory — led by junior Lance Harris' career-high 26 points on 10-of-17 shooting — coach Jim Wooldridge said his squad did not play up to par.

In fact, Wooldridge did not allow his players to comment after the game.

"I think that ball game was a very difficult one to sit through," Wooldridge said. "I don't want to overreact to this game, but I am very disappointed in my inability to get us prepared and play up to what I think is acceptable for our team."

Longwood (2-6) built a 21-12 lead behind a barrage of 3-point shots, forcing K-State (5-1) into two early timeouts.

K-State's poor first-half play caused Wooldridge to rely on production from his bench. Ten minutes in, 10 Wildcats saw action.

"We are going to go back to the drawing board," he said. "We are going to have to look at this and perhaps make some changes, because we can't keep playing like we did in the first half."

Junior forwards Cartier Martin and Serge Afeli led K-State back in position to take the lead.

Afeli blocked two consecutive Longwood shots with 3:48

Lance Harris tries to steal the ball from Longwood's Maurice Sumter during the first half Monday night at Bramlage Coliseum. Harris led the Cats in scoring with 26 points, 19 of those came in the second half.

remaining in the first half. After Lance Harris recovered the ball, he hit 6-foot-2 guard Mario Taylor down the court for an open two-handed dunk, allowing K-State to take a 30-28 lead.

The Wildcats played much better to open the second half, as they built a comfortable 58-37 lead on the strength of a 24-2 run.

The Lancers missed 17 of their first 18 shots in the second period. "The second half, we played a lot more physical," Wooldridge said. "We were able to get some transition baskets and loosen the game up, but I am disappointed we didn't come out playing like that."

K-State will have a quick turnaround, as they prepare to face undefeated Colorado State (6-0) Wednesday at Bramlage Coliseum.

K-State-89 Longwood-60

	K-State	Longwood
Team FG	35-of-73	21-of-64
Team 3-PT	6-of-12	9-of-21
Team FT	13-of-16	9-of-17
Team Rebs	45	38
Team Assists	28	13
Team TOs	15	24

Leading Scorer Harris, 26 Jefferson, 16
Leading Rebs Afeli, 11 Morgan, 9
Leading Assist Stewart, 6 Smith, 4

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

K-State defense key against Louisiana Tech

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The K-State women's basketball team might have suffered its first defeat of the season Saturday against Saint Joseph's, but the Wildcats will face their first real test at 7 tonight against a talented Louisiana Tech squad, coach Deb Patterson said.

"I think this gives us a more realistic preparation for Big 12 play," Patterson said. "You have this day to get ready, unlike the back-to-back with Saint Joseph's, and they are a basketball team that is going to come after you very much like Big 12 opponents and play."

The Cats are 0-6 against Louisiana Tech, and the K-State enters the home-court contest prepared to face a team much like Baylor, Texas or Texas A&M, Patterson said.

"They can really handle the ball, they can really extend the floor, and they can get in and out of passing lanes," Patterson said.

The Lady Techsters bring a more experienced team to the court than the Wildcats. They return four starters, including Tasha Williams, last year's Western Athletic Conference Player of the Year, who is averaging a team-high 16.9 points.

"We really respect Louisiana Tech," junior guard Claire Coggins said. "They are very athletic. They're going to take it to the rack, and defense will be the key."

The importance of defense has been stressed in K-State's last couple practices.

"We kind of lost focus in the second half of our last game and that came back to get us," freshman guard Shalee Lehning said.

The Wildcats have not lost two straight non-conference games since 1999.

Advertise here.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

118 Kedzie 532-6560

Relax for the Holidays!

American Academy of Cosmetology & Massage Therapy
1130 Westloop Place Manhattan, KS 66502

Holiday Gift Cards Available 10% off, It's the perfect Gift!

Call 785.539.1837 to order today
Stressed with exams? Massage Special
$20.00 for 1 Hour Massage!
Relax in our Beautiful Spa for only $20.00

Once in a Lifetime
engagements and weddings

in the Collegian,
the first Friday
of the month.

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

Students' Attorney:
SARAH BARR
785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours
Monday - Friday
9:00 - 11:00 am & 1:00 - 3:00 pm
Other appointments available upon request.

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center

Walk-in Flu Vaccine Clinic
Thursday, Dec. 8th
8:30—11:30 am
1:30—4:30 pm

Cost for students:
$13 shot
$22 intranasal
Cost for all others:
$18 shot
$27 intranasal

The nasal spray vaccine is also available.

For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/lafene

TUESDAY

60¢ Tacos

$2.00 Margaritas

Trivia Night

BOBBY TS

3240 Kimball Ave
537-8383

WEDNESDAY

$7.99 Steak Night

$2.00 Bottles

www.bobbyts.com

Holidazzle

Give yourself a little Glitz

$5 OFF Men's Haircut, Pedicure
$10 OFF Women's Cut & Style, Full Set
$15 OFF Hi-Lite Color Perm

GIFT CERTIFICATES AVAILABLE!

1140 Westloop Pl.
(Behind Little Caesar's)

Present Ad expires 1/31/06

537-1332

IMPRESSIONS
HAIR DESIGN AND NAIL STUDIO

How To Get What You Want:

- 1 Circle your favorite items.
- 2 Cut on dotted line.
- 3 Send to Santa.

Mountain Bike
Sleeping Bag
Backpack
Ski Pants
Tent
Hiking Boots
Swiss Army Knife

North Face Jacket
Fleece Vest
Fly Rod
Climbing Harness
Gift Certificate for $

The PATHFINDER

304 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
785-539-5639

OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS

Don't let it be a WHITE X-Mas

Gift Certificates Available

Stocking Stuffer Specials on Lotions & Packages

Don't forget your friends & family this Holiday Season

Xtreme tanning

Make-your-own gift bags!

1122 Laramie • 539-3742

Come Celebrate

Christmas Graduation New Year's

at

Royal Thai Cuisine

It's the big time for everyone to receive a variety of special gifts whenever you spend at least $11!

Now, until Jan 5, 2006

When you spend You Receive

$11.00+ 2006 Gift Coupon
$40.00+ 2006 Gift Certificate a special treat for you for the whole year of 2006
$60.00+ 2006 Privilege Gift Card special treat for you and your family for the whole year of 2006
$90.00+ 2006 Privilege Gift Card & Gift from Thailand

Special Gift from Thailand for Everyone on December 31, 2005 and January 1, 2006

Open regular hours on Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, New Year's Eve, and New Year's Day

3003 Anderson Ave #1005 (in Plaza West by Alco)
539-0399

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Tuesday, Dec. 6, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

LET'S RENT

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

820 COLORADO. Basement efficiency. 420 square feet. Patio, fenced yard, lighted parking. Shared utilities. NO PETS. January lease. $275. (785)776-8548.

A-LARGE one-bedroom. Available January 1. Close to campus. Washer/dryer. 1784 Fairview. (785)317-7713.

DUPLEX. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st (785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex, close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)537-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-$490. three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Close to campus. Water/ trash/ gas paid. No pets, no smoking. Off-street parking. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air. coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810. (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM AT 1209 Claflin Road. One block from campus. 6000/ month. January 1st lease. Washer/ dryer. Off-street parking. (785)341-6972.

TWO-BEDROOM. ONE bath side-by-side duplex. Living room/ dining room. fireplace, washer/ dryer hookups, unfinished basement. garage. $700. (785)537-0982.

120
For Rent-
Houses

FOUR-BEDROOM HOUSE. Central air. Pets ok. Large fenced yard. Available December. (785)317-7713.

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

RENT NEGOTIABLE. Three-bedroom, two bath, one-half duplex. Immaculate and spacious. All appliances included. Walk to Aggieville. (785)565-2432.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED for two-bedroom apartment. $245/ month. Available early- mid December. Water, trash, and cable paid. Call (316)288-6346.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

MALE, TWO-BEDROOM apartment, fully furnished, cable included, good location by football field. Dustin (620)338-7574.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM, two bathroom apartment, one and one-half blocks from campus, one block from Aggieville. Washer/ dryer. All new appliances, off-street parking. Ground level. $400 per person plus cheap utilities. January through July 31 sublease. Call (785)317-3326 or (316)640-1885.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. Four-bedroom house, $275/ month, negotiable. Call (785)313-0440.

SUBLEASER WANTED. Nice large room available January 1. $300/ month. (785)871-1626.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350. one-half utilities. Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED. (785)539-0500.

ROOMMATE WANTED. Four-bedroom house. One block from campus. $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

ROOMMATES NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment available January. Pets welcome. $290/ month plus electric and cable. (785)633-7133.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Two-bedroom apartment January to June lease. $235 a month. Contact LeAnne (316)734-0846 or Erin (785)737-3144.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for four-bedroom, two bath. Water/ trash paid. $253/ month. Subleasing starting now. (785)383-9885.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. January- May. Clean, quiet six-bedrooms, three bathroom house, one block from campus. Washer/ dryer. $275/ month plus discount before December 13. Lane (913)481-4664.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for January- July. Walking distance to campus, first months rent paid. Rent negotiable. Call (785)332-6011.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath, one-half utilities. Available mid-December. Rent negotiable. Call Tawny (316)706-7767.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. One bedroom in four-bedroom house. Two bath. Very clean. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. $265/ month. Walk to Aggieville. Call Susanne (620)366-0558.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath, one-half utilities. Available mid-December. Rent negotiable. Call Tawny (316)706-7767.

300
employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

BARTENDING. $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

PART-TIME HELP wanted. laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant. 5107 Murray Rd. (785)776-5081.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Teener, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM. Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887, call for details.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished. January 1. at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location, one block to campus. January Sublease. $365/ month. Call (785)554-4424.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE. Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

150
Sublease

ONE-BEDROOM. ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline (785)564-1284.

ONE-BEDROOM. FURNISHED/ unfurnished. One bathroom. For Spring semester. Water/ trash paid. $400/ month. 1858 Claflin. Call Andres (785)341-7892.

RENT NEGOTIABLE. Female sublesser wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

SUBLEASE BEGINS January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/ trash/ water/ laundry/ call (785)341-7336 or (316)655-7494.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Available December or January. One or two rooms in a four-bedroom. Call (785)317-4301.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12- May. $400/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

SUBLEASER WANTED. Available now through May 31. Two blocks from campus. Rent $250 plus utilities. December rent paid. Laundry, water and trash paid. Call Kelly (952)200-6842.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for one-two bedrooms for spring and/or summer. Close to campus with washer/ dryer. Rent negotiable. (316)706-7272.

310
Help Wanted

BARTENDING. $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

PART-TIME HELP wanted. laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant. 5107 Murray Rd. (785)776-5081.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Teener, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM. Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887, call for details.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished. January 1. at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location, one block to campus. January Sublease. $365/ month. Call (785)554-4424.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE. Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM. ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline (785)564-1284.

ONE-BEDROOM. FURNISHED/ unfurnished. One bathroom. For Spring semester. Water/ trash paid. $400/ month. 1858 Claflin. Call Andres (785)341-7892.

RENT NEGOTIABLE. Female sublesser wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

SUBLEASE BEGINS January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/ trash/ water/ laundry/ call (785)341-7336 or (316)655-7494.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Available December or January. One or two rooms in a four-bedroom. Call (785)317-4301.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12- May. $400/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

SUBLEASER WANTED. Available now through May 31. Two blocks from campus. Rent $250 plus utilities. December rent paid. Laundry, water and trash paid. Call Kelly (952)200-6842.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for one-two bedrooms for spring and/or summer. Close to campus with washer/ dryer. Rent negotiable. (316)706-7272.

310
Help Wanted

BARTENDING. $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

PART-TIME HELP wanted. laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant. 5107 Murray Rd. (785)776-5081.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Teener, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM. Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887, call for details.

310
Help Wanted

BARTENDING. $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

PART-TIME HELP wanted. laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant. 5107 Murray Rd. (785)776-5081.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Teener, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM. Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887, call for details.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished. January 1. at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location, one block to campus. January Sublease. $365/ month. Call (785)554-4424.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE. Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM. ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline (785)564-1284.

ONE-BEDROOM. FURNISHED/ unfurnished. One bathroom. For Spring semester. Water/ trash paid. $400/ month. 1858 Claflin. Call Andres (785)341-7892.

RENT NEGOTIABLE. Female sublesser wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

SUBLEASE BEGINS January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/ trash/ water/ laundry/ call (785)341-7336 or (316)655-7494.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Available December or January. One or two rooms in a four-bedroom. Call (785)317-4301.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12- May. $400/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

SUBLEASER WANTED. Available now through May 31. Two blocks from campus. Rent $250 plus utilities. December rent paid. Laundry, water and trash paid. Call Kelly (952)200-6842.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for one-two bedrooms for spring and/or summer. Close to campus with washer/ dryer. Rent negotiable. (316)706-7272.

310
Help Wanted

BARTENDING. $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

PART-TIME HELP wanted. laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant. 5107 Murray Rd. (785)776-5081.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Teener, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM. Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887, call for details.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished. January 1. at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location, one block to campus. January Sublease. $365/ month. Call (785)554-4424.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE. Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM. ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline (785)564-1284.

ONE-BEDROOM. FURNISHED/ unfurnished. One bathroom. For Spring semester. Water/ trash paid. $400/ month. 1858 Claflin. Call Andres (785)341-7892.

RENT NEGOTIABLE. Female sublesser wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

SUBLEASE BEGINS January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/ trash/ water/ laundry/ call (785)341-7336 or (316)655-7494.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Available December or January. One or two rooms in a four-bedroom. Call (785)317-4301.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12- May. $400/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

400 open market

450
Pets and Supplies

455 Sporting
Equipment

WEIDER PRO 9940 dual workout bench. Two years old. $400 new, asking $200. (785)565-3760. (785)565-0711.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

1994 BUICK Skylark 160K over 30 MPG. 5-speed 5200. (785)565-3760. (785)565-0711.

2003 FORD Mustang GT convertible. Leather loaded. 35,000 miles. $15,000 or best offer. (785)632-5346.

600 travel/
trips

630
Spring
Break

#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.LetSureTours.com or (800)838-8202.

PITA PIT delivery drivers needed. Shifts available 5 pm-11 pm and 11 pm-4 am. Duties include greeting customers, making pitas, general cleaning, food preparation and delivering pitas. Must be a team player and willing to work in a fast-paced fun environment. Pick up application at The Pita Pit, 1131 More.

PROGRAMMER, CIVIC PLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

UNION STATE bank is looking for a self-motivated, multi-tasking individual with excellent computer skills, customer service and problem solving abilities in banking operations. Excellent career opportunity with good benefits and work environment. Send resume to USBank@Kansas.net or P.O. Box 518, Clay Center, KS 67432.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

BOWINKLES. NOW hiring for wait staff and bartenders. Come to 30-43 Anderson to apply.

CLEANING AND Light Maintenance. Part-time position cleaning the UFM house. Flexible hours. Must be reliable and able to work independently. References needed. Contact Linda Teener at UFM at (785)539-8763.

Got old stuff?

GET RID OF IT!

in the

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

103 Kedzie
532-6555

Quiznos Sub
HMM...TOASTY!

su/doku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

6 5 1 7 9 4

4 3 8 1

2 5 4 8

8 9 7 3

6 8 3 9

7 8 4 1 3 6

Solution and tips
at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle
and receive FREE chips
and small drink.

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

Former football coach, Bill Snyder and President Jon Wefald listen to questions being asked of new football coach Ron Prince Monday afternoon. Prince took the position as head football coach following the retirement of Snyder in November.

NEW YEARS | United Black Voices to perform at celebration

Continued from Page 1

entertainment at several Aggieville businesses that night and several acts are being planned for the main stage. He said the United Black Voices choir has already been booked to perform.

Robert McNair, adviser for UBV, said they are currently working out which songs to perform for New Year's.

Levin said there will be several deals offered for partygoers in Aggieville, with most businesses offering specials on food, drink and other products. There are also some larger programs working to get people into Manhattan.

First is the "Web, Wings and Wheels Deal," which gives flyers out of Kansas City a discount on a rental car after flying into Manhattan Regional Airport, said Kate Watson, who co-founded the celebration. Second, she said, there are the "Shop 'til the ball drop" maps and bags, which guide shoppers to Manhattan merchants that offer discounts on products to bearers of the bags starting on the afternoon of Dec. 31.

"Basically, we're encouraging people to go out shopping, eat, drink and be merry," Levin said.

Ad It Up!

Talk with one of our advertising sales representatives by calling...

532-6560

KANSAS STATE
COLLEGIAN

PRINCE | Weiser not concerned with lack of head coaching experience

Continued from Page 1

Weiser said, and the search was almost moved to the next line of candidates. But once the opportunity to interview Prince came about, Weiser said he and his staff jumped at the chance.

"Because of some strange circumstances that I won't get in to, all of a sudden the opportunity presented itself for us to visit with him," Weiser said.

"It was like, 'Boy, this guy just keeps coming back and keeps coming back, and we need to pay attention to the kinds of things that we keep hearing and seeing."

Weiser said he was not concerned with Prince's lack of head coaching experience.

The questions Monday often went back to the man who made K-State a desirable job: Snyder.

Snyder met with Prince before he was hired and was there when Prince was introduced to the team in an afternoon meeting at the Vanier Football Complex, and said Prince struck him as a man of high character.

"What I've seen is a man of humility, a man who has a mission, I've seen a man who is caring and someone who genuinely believes in the good in people and in young people," Snyder said.

"I've seen a man that has a plan. I've seen a gentleman that truly does understand the values that this program has embodied for the past 17 years."

Prince said he will immediately focus on completing his staff of assistant coaches, which he said he planned to announce in the next few days, then turn his attention to recruiting and eventually begin preparing for spring practice.

"It's the mission of this organization to become a fast, strong, tough and disciplined team that consistently competes for championships," Prince said.

"We are committed to the total development of our people, not just on the field, but off. We represent K-State as ambassadors of the game and we fully recognize and acknowledge our role on the front porch of this university and this community."

"Our charge is to reinforce the traditions, the excitement and the electricity created by coach Snyder at Kansas State."

GTM Sportswear is looking for a full-time product specialist with degree in Apparel Design/Product Development.

• December graduates are welcome.

• Responsibilities include technical development of sports apparel including design, fit, and construction aspects of a garment. Applicant must be willing to travel 5-6 times per year within the U.S. and possibly 2-3 times overseas.

• Starting wage is negotiable depending upon experience and qualifications. We offer paid time off, health & dental benefits, profit sharing and 401K.

• Stop by 520 McCall Road Manhattan KS and fill out and application, or e-mail klindsay@gtm.com

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH!

at the
K-State Student Union Bookstore
Textbook Department

Buy Back Hours:
Mon, Dec 12th - Thurs, Dec 15th :
8:00 am - 8:00 pm
Fri, Dec 16th : 8:00 am - 6:00 pm

*Please Bring a Current Photo ID To Sell Your Books!

December Specials

2010 Tuttle Creek • 776-0767
3rd St. • 539-3510

Keystone Light	30 pk	$13.39
Coors Light	30 pk	$15.94
Bud Light	30 pk	$15.79
Natural Light	30 pk	$11.84

Great Buy!

32 oz.
Fountain Drink
50¢ on Fridays

Let us
stuff your stockings
with gift certificates

537-3995
sun: 11am - 11pm • mon-wed: 11am - 3am • thurs-sat: 11am - 4am

$1 off any pita
with the purchase of a combo

expires: 12-31-05

CLAIRE & HARLEY'S

a dog bath & boutique

Don't forget about your 4-legged friends this Holiday Season!

Stop in and see our great gift ideas.

108 N. 3rd Street (1/2 block North of Poyntz)

785-537-4805

NOT YOUR ORDINARY PET STORE

ROYAL PURPLE

we've got the stories you've got to read

Get your Royal Purple yearbook
in Kedzie 103,
or call 532-6555.

Give them something they'll really use!

Our gift
certificates!

All I want for Christmas
is a K-State Connection

Motorola
V2-66

2000 Around Town Minutes
350 Anytime Minutes
$37.95 per month

Unlimited Nights & Weekends
Free US long distance
5 month agreement

Some restrictions apply. See your sales representative for further details.

109 East Stadium |
Manhattan, KS 66505

785-532-7001

www.telecom.ksu.edu

K-STATE
connection
YOUR WIRELESS SOLUTION

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

www.kstatecollegian.com

Wednesday, December 7, 2005

Vol. 110, No. 74

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

INSI
Lehn record-tying
20 rebounds

Sports, Page 6

2 Fort Riley soldiers die in explosion

Staff reports
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Fort Riley officials confirmed the deaths of two soldiers from the Company A, 1st Battalion, 13th Armor Regiment tank crew Tuesday.

Spc. Jerry Mills Jr., 23, and Spc. Donald Hasse, 28, died on Nov. 29 when an improvised explosive device detonated near their vehicle while they were conducting combat operations in Taji, Iraq.

Mills, an Arkansas City, Kan., native, was the first soldier from Arkansas City who has died in Iraq, according to the Arkansas City Traveler.

He arrived at Fort Riley on November 2001. This was his second deployment to Iraq since Operation Iraqi Freedom began. He was posthumously promoted to Sergeant, according to Fort Riley.

Hasse, a Wichita Falls, Texas, native, came to Fort Riley in March 2003. He enlisted in 1995. This was his second time to Iraq during Operation Iraqi Freedom. He was posthumously promoted to Sergeant, according to Fort Riley.

About 3,700 soldiers are currently in Iraq, and 61 Fort Riley soldiers have died during Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Professor to report 8 students for cheating

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Eight violations of the K-State Honor Pledge may have occurred in an Introduction to Philosophical Problems class.

Andrew Arana, assistant professor in philosophy, said he suspects seven students of plagiarism and one of unauthorized collaboration on one of the course's two papers. He said one of the violators is a leader in the Greek community.

Arana said Tuesday morning he had not filed a report to the Honor Council, but he said he will file reports this week.

When the papers were submitted, Arana said he had a feeling they were not the students' own work.

"You can just sort of smell when there is something wrong with a paper," he said.

So, Arana said he entered in the parts of the essays he suspected were plagiarized into the Google search engine and found that most of his students used information from the same Web site, www.sparknotes.com.

When he read the information on the Web site, Arana said he was disappointed.

"At least in philosophy, the material on the Internet is awful," he said. "It's utterly pathetic. It's not up to the standards of Kansas State University. It's not even up to the standards of community colleges."

According to the Honor Pledge Violation Form, faculty members have two options when reporting students.

The first includes doing the investigation for the alleged violation and giving a penalty for the student. The second option includes sending the student to the Honors Council for investigation. With this option, the faculty member who is filing the report can recommend a sanction to be considered by the Honor Hearing Panel.

Under the first option, if a student is found to be in violation of the Honor Pledge, the sanction given by the faculty member applies. With the second option, the Honor Hearing Panel makes the final decision on the sanction.

Arana said this was not the first time he has suspected students of cheating. When

See HONOR CODE Page 12

Rural scarcity

Fewer vet-med students choose to work near farms

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Courtney Brown will be a practicing veterinarian in rural Crozet, Va., but she will be treating small and exotic animals.

Brown, fourth-year vet-med student, said she chose to practice in the rural area because it is her home, but it is only 30 minutes away from urban Charlottesville, Va.

While she is choosing a rural setting, Brown is not choosing the life of a rural veterinarian.

Brown said the lifestyle of food animal veterinarians is physically demanding.

"The hours are rough, and you're on call all the time," she said. "If a cow starts calving at 3 a.m., and it's cold, you gotta go."

Brown said income is also an issue with the decline in food animal veterinarians.

"You can make the same amount of money doing the same amount of work with small animals as you can food animals," she said. "People are wanting to get closer to urbanization, and they do not want to get stuck out in the boondocks."

Brown is not alone. In 1986, more than 45 percent of American Veterinary Medical Association's 32,338 members provided at least part-time large animal care, according to an Associated Press report.

But by 2004, only about 22 percent of the 71,000 AVMA-member veterinarians in the United States treated large farm animals at least some of the time.

A rural veterinarian, or food animal veterinarian, typically treats food animals like cattle and swine, said Kenneth Harkin, associate professor of small animal medicine, although rural veterinarians can also treat small animals like dogs, cats and horses.

David Andrus, professor of marketing, is currently completing a two-year study with Kevin Gwinner, associate professor and interim head of the Department of Marketing, and Bruce Prince, professor of management.

The study examined the supply and demand of food animal veterinarians in academia, governments, industry and private practice, Andrus said.

The three professors were contracted by the Veterinary Medical Coalition to conduct the study, which will be published in the Journal of

Photos by Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN

TOP: Bertie Lovett, hospital director in Mosier hall, smiles at Antonio, a greyhound, while Courtney Brown, fourth-year vet-med student holds him Monday morning in Mosier Hall. Antonio comes in for weekly check-ups at the College of Veterinary Medicine.

ABOVE: Brown looks at Antonio's eyes during a check-up Monday morning in Mosier Hall. Brown will be practicing rural veterinary medicine in Crozet, Va.

Veterinary Medicine Education and in the Canadian Journal of Veterinary Medicine.

Andrus said the study found that there is a shortage of veterinarians in general, not just food animal veterinarians. One reason for the shortage is that there are only 28 veterinary colleges in the United States and they are all operating at capacity, he said.

"If you look at the scientific evidence and not the anecdotes, there is a real promising career and lifestyle in food animal medicine," Andrus said.

There is the misconception that small animal veterinarians make a

See VETS Page 12

K-State-Salina students hope to help GlobalFlyer again

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State-Salina will not be the launch site for the Virgin Atlantic GlobalFlyer Ultimate Flight early next year, Dean Dennis Kuhlman said.

Kuhlman said he was notified last week that millionaire pilot Steve Fosssett will take-off from Cape Canaveral, Fla., when he attempts to set an aviation record for distance traveled in a fixed-wing airplane or balloon.

Kuhlman said he is disappointed that it won't take off from K-State-Salina, but said he understands why.

"I know what he is facing from a pilot's standpoint," he said. "He chose Florida because of the positioning and it cuts about 1,000 miles off the total distance he has to travel to be successful. This will enhance his safety."

The Ultimate Flight plan includes departing from Cape Canaveral, circling the globe and landing in Europe.

In March, Fosssett became the first person to fly solo around the world without refueling.

K-State-Salina students helped prepare the plane for take-off and worked in mission control for the first record attempt.

Although take-off won't be from Salina, Kuhlman said he hopes to be able to send K-State students to help in Florida and England where mission control will be located. Kuhlman said he hopes to know if he will be able to include students by the end of the semester.

Pilot Steve Fosssett makes his way through the crowd after a successful trip around the world. Fosssett will attempt another record trip early next year from Cape Canaveral, Florida.

Christopher Hanewinkel
COLLEGIAN

Today

High 14
Low 3

Thursday

High 21
Low 4

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Priest investigation

A woman who says a Wichita priest sexually abused her demanded Tuesday that the diocese remove him from his parish. Peggy Warren said the Catholic Church should not have put the priest back into the ministry after she accused him of sexually assaulting her in 2004.
Page 10

Iranian crash

At least 115 people were killed when a plane loaded with Iranian journalists crashed into a 10-story apartment building Tuesday. The pilot attempted an emergency landing after having engine trouble. The four-engine turboprop plane crashed in the Azari suburb of Tehran.
Page 10

Military vote

The Supreme Court was nearly ready Tuesday to make a decision against colleges that want to limit military recruiting on campus to protest the Pentagon's policy on homosexuals.
Page 10

DON'T FORGET

The End-of-the-Semester Destresser will begin at 8 tonight in the Union Courtyard.

The University Ensemble will present KSU Jazz Combos at 7:30 tonight in Union Station.

Men's basketball will play Colorado State at 7 tonight in Bramlage Coliseum.

Clafin Books and Copies

1814 Clafin Rd. (785) 776-3771
www.clafinbooks.com Fax: (785) 776-1009

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS	38 Revue piece	DOWN	20 Mrs. Herman Munster
1 Guinness or	39 St. Bernard's burden	1 — Romeo	22 He gave us a lift
5 "Skip to My —"	41 Vacillate	2 Rings around the	23 First cloned sheep
8 Venomous vipers	43 Beach structure	3 Dumbo's "wings"	25 Derek and Diddle
12 Cordelia's father	46 Pursuing	4 Put together	26 Copper head?
13 Sort woe!	50 "Oh, woe!"	5 XXVI doubled	27 Illicit rebate
14 Old Italian	51 Have the coin effect	6 Timeworn	29 Toast topper
15 Chat site	54 Powell successor	7 Guitars' kin	31 — generis
17 Mid-month date	55 Back talk	8 Foreigner	32 Ran into
18 Examine ore	56 Fleur-de-lis	9 Companion	34 Indication
19 Catches some z's	57 Puts out feelers	10 Get response	38 Underside of an eave
21 Stomped (on)	58 History chapter	11 Impudent	40 Facilitates
24 Squid squirt	59 Big top	12 UAR nation (Abbr.)	42 Chatter away
25 Prepare a casserole			43 Irene of "Fame"
28 Implement			44 MacGraw and Baba
30 Doctrine			45 Skilled
33 Kyoto cummerbund			47 Grow weary
34 Foolish			48 Green land
35 Prompt			49 Take five
36 Moment			52 Football filler
37 "Survivor" setting, often			53 Figure head? (Abbr.)

Solution time: 21 mins.

Yesterday's answer 12-7

12-7 CRYPTOQUIP

WB OJI WMLUMX H KJKIYHE
GJGSXHWY. W'T XDWMS
XDXH HBXUE OJI TWU OJIE
NKWEWX YWLUN JM.
Yesterday's Cryptquip: WHY WOULD ANYONE WANT TO WATCH A DUEL AS IT OCCURS? I GUESS IT'S DRAWING ATTENTION.
Today's Cryptquip Clue: B equals F

CAMPUS CHRONICLES

Headlines from the nation's universities

'Pancake Roundup' gives students break

EUGENE, Ore. — Some University of Oregon university housing administrators traded in their desks and business attire for a grill and straw cowboy hats and treated students to a late-night breakfast Thursday.

Gathered around the Fire 'n Spice Grill in the Hamilton Complex, students stressed from Dead Week studying took a break from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. to feast on plate-sized pancakes during the "Pancake Roundup."

This is the fourth time housing staff has put on the pancake feed, which takes place on Thursday of Dead Week each term.

"Students love it," said Debbie Meyer, the cash operations general manager for University Housing. "I expect a couple hundred of them."

"It's just a social break," said Sandy Schoonover, director of residence life. "There's so many milling around and eating and laughing."

Before the grill was fired up, six students were already standing in line.

Roughly 10 of the housing professional staff members wore white aprons and wielded large metal spatulas while flipping plate-sized pancakes.

"After about 10 minutes they really get a rhythm down," Meyer said.

Drew Morgan, the Carson Hall complex director, caught a pancake as it flipped through the air over the grill before handing it to a student.

"It's a lot of fun," he said. "It's a great way to connect with students and end the term on a positive note."

Students purchased two plate-sized pancakes for three points on their meal plans. They were offered a variety of toppings, including whipped cream, strawberries, blackberries, bananas and syrup.

"Breakfast at night, what more could you want?" asked Brittany Speer, freshman in pre-business administration.

She said she hadn't started studying yet, but expected to do more during Finals Week.

"I only have two finals," she said. "It's going to be a pretty good finals week considering it's my first term."

Hayley Dixon, sophomore in theater arts, said it was her fourth time attending a pancake feed.

"They taste better every time," she said.

The pancake feeds started in fall 2004, after Heather Dumas-Dyer, the Bean Complex director, proposed the idea to other complex directors.

"I thought it would be a good opportunity for the professional staff to spend time with the students," she said. "I enjoy the fun atmosphere. It's something social and positive before finals."

DONATED CAR HELPS RESEARCH CRIME SCENES

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — A Morgantown, W.Va., resident has recently donated a 1985 Toyota Corolla to West Virginia University's Forensic and Investigative Science Program.

This is a donation "that for educational purposes is worth far more than the monetary value," said Jane Donovan of the Eberly College of Arts and Science.

This is the second donation of its kind in the past four months. Carol Henry, wife of the late Mike Henry, a professor of mathematics and computer science at the university, donated a Ford to the program.

Donations such as this provide students with practical, hands-on experience in addition to laboratory experience they receive in the classroom.

The Toyota will be used for blood-spatter tests, fingerprinting, trace evidence and accident or homicide scenarios.

The second donation allows for the students to take the Ford to a rifle range and have it shot with various caliber guns to study the different angles and trajectories. If a third car were to be donated, the students would be able to light the Ford on fire for a real-life study of arson.

"Ideally, we'd love to get a couple of these a year," Donovan said.

The Forensics and Investigative Science Program, which graduated its first three students in 2001, is "one of the top three majors on campus," said Clifton Bishop, associate professor in the biology department.

Forensic science, which uses the application of biology, chemistry, math, statistics and physics, is a historical science that collects evidence at a crime scene and uses it to reconstruct the events.

Graduates of the Forensics and Investigative Science Program have gone on to work in traditional chemistry and biology labs as well as continue their education in graduate, medical or law school.

"One of our graduates is working for the Secret Service on counterfeit money," Bishop said.

Illustration by Bennie Green | COLLEGIAN

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Monday, Dec. 5

- David Zarger, St. George, Kan., was arrested at 9:45 a.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $500.
- Paula Jones, Junction City, was arrested at 10 a.m. for worthless check. Bond was set at $500.
- Jeria Gibson, Kansas City, Kan., was arrested at 3:52 p.m. for battery. Bond was set at $500.
- John Lucas, 2904 Nelsons Landing, was arrested at 4:17 p.m. for two counts of probation violation. Bond was set at $3,000.
- Travis Taylor, 516 Pierre St., was arrested at 7:25 p.m. for unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $3,000.
- Charles Johnson Sr., 1020 Houston St., No. 4, was arrested at 9:30 p.m. for obstruction of legal process, possession of a simulated controlled substance and possession of opiates or narcotics. Bond was set at $2,000.
- Carl Boyanton, Wichita, was arrested at 11:40 p.m. for probation violation and driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $2,500.

Tuesday, Dec. 6

- Keith Sconiers, 711 Allison Ave., Apt. 4, was arrested at 5:52 a.m. for criminal restraint. Bond was not set.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@spub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

- The Peace Corps will have a brown bag lunch and information meeting from noon to 1 p.m. today in Waters 137.

Corrections and clarifications

Two groups and one individual danced at the International Dance Festival Sunday night. The groups were the Japanese Yosakoi Dance Club and Lati Ritmo. The individual was Laura Villalba de Levea. The Collegian regrets the error.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167.
© Kansas State Collegian, 2005

ONE HOUR MASSAGE
$35+ w/ KSU Student ID
Body First
2308 Anderson Ave.
(785) 587-8300

Wohler's Used Furniture
Visit Wohler's for used Furniture, Antiques, Appliances and miscellaneous items for all needs.
615 N. 3rd St.
539-3319 10-6 Mon.-Fri. 10-5 Sat. Closed on Sun.

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY
pizza
$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
GARY OUT ONLY
ALL DAY EVERYDAY
1150 Westloop • 539-3333

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center
Walk-in Flu Vaccine Clinic
Thursday, Dec. 8th
8:30—11:30 am
1:30—4:30 pm
Cost for students:
$13 shot
$22 intranasal
Cost for all others:
$ 18 shot
$ 27 intranasal
For KSU faculty, staff and students!
All KSU faculty, staff, & students are eligible to receive the injectable vaccine.
The nasal spray vaccine is also available.
For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/health

GTM SPORTSWEAR
Associate Sales Representative
Additional growth has propelled GTM Sportswear to seek out four additional associate sales reps. As an associate rep, you spend approx. 30 hours per week in customer service and the balance of the week learning how to become inside sales rep. Our goal is for you to grow into the inside rep ($30,000+) position within 6-9 mos. Starting associate wage is $9/hr plus benefits and profit sharing. Candidates need a college degree and/or have two years sales or customer service experience. You need to be organized and enjoy developing relationships. A background in education or coaching is also a plus, as you are selling our customized apparel to teams and groups all across the U.S.A. For more info contact GTM, Sportswear, 520 McCall Rd. Manhattan, KS. 66502 or e-mail klindsay@igtm.com.

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH!
at
Varney's Book Store - In Aggieville
Textbook Department
Buy Back Hours:
Mon, Dec 12th - Fri, Dec 16th:
9:00 am - 8:00 pm
"Please Bring a Current Photo ID To Sell Your Books!"

The Salty Rim
SALSA & HAMBARIYA BAR
Hurricanes & Bahama's $3
Bacardi Girls! Free T's! AND BEADS!
1/2 Price Salsa
1204 Moro • 537-8910

Porter's
20¢ Wings
Hot, Mild, BBQ, Honey Mustard
$2.00 Dom. Big Beers
$1.50 Bacardi Cosmopolitans
$1.50 Wells
Bacardi Girls! Free T's!
706 N. Manhattan • 537-7151

A CUT ABOVE
Hair and Nail Salon
1800 Clafin Road, Suite 110 (785) 537-3200
10% off any Gift Certificate

FREE CUT with any color or highlight service expires 12.31.05	$5.00 BROW WAX with any shampoo, cut & style expires 12.31.05
1/2 PRICE certificate for pre-booked fill with full set of acrylic nails. expires 12.31.05	FREE mini manicure with spa pedicure. expires 12.31.05

Army ROTC scholarship amounts triple

By Hannah Crippen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State Army ROTC scholarship funds will total more than $300,000 this year.

Scholarship funds, which totaled $120,862.93 in 2000, are estimated to now be $366,618.87, Lt. Col. Arthur DeGroat, professor of military science, said.

The increase in federal scholarship money is due to the increase in individual Army ROTC students who have earned scholarships, DeGroat said.

"It's a competitive scholarship process," DeGroat said. "It's a performance measure of the success of our students."

Tyson Erdman, junior in mass communications; Adam Cowan, senior in sociology; and Sara Brogan Hoffman, senior in microbiology, are recipients of three-year scholarships.

DeGroat said 49 of 120 Army ROTC students have federal scholarships, which cover tuition, fees and books and provide a monthly cash stipend to support the students' costs of living.

Others have state and private scholarships. In order to keep their scholarships each semester, recipients must maintain high academic and military performance standards.

Hoffman and Erdman both said the need to maintain scholastic and military excellence for the scholarship has helped them focus on school and other tasks.

"It's a big motivating factor to get up in the morning and go to PT and then go to class," Hoffman said. "It's a big motivation factor, not only for yourself, but the ROTC program."

The increase in the federal scholarship money will go to the stipend for the students' cost of living, Erdman said, which will give the students more time for school and other activities.

Hoffman will not receive the increase because she is graduating, but she said it will benefit the ROTC program and its students.

"Even with the stipend, I have to work, but an increase would mean the cadets could work less and focus more on getting up at 6 a.m. for PT and on schoolwork," Hoffman said.

Cowan said the increase will increase the cadets' concentration in the program.

"It'll give me more money to cover my bills," he said. "Not having to work has given me more time to stay in shape, for schoolwork and bettering myself for the Army."

Erdman said he understands why there is a heightened increase in students' interest to join ROTC program at K-State.

"The K-State ROTC program is one of the best in the nation, and they have a really good reputation for creating and training good officers," he said. "Also, K-State's really close to Fort Riley, so that gives us a lot of training opportunities other schools don't get."

This scholarship has provided many cadets with the money they need to attend college.

"If it wasn't for the scholarship, I probably wouldn't have been able to come to K-State," Hoffman said.

National Guard opens at new location

The Kansas Army National Guard had its ribbon cutting ceremony for the opening of their new facility at 721 Levee Drive on Tuesday night.

Steven Doll
COLLEGIAN

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

After the cut of a ribbon and a $1 million check, the Army National Guard opened its new facility with nearly 60 Manhattan residents in attendance Tuesday evening.

The Kansas Army National Guard moved from near the Manhattan Regional Airport to 721 Levee Drive.

"Now that the ribbon is cut, it symbolizes that the facility is ready for the guards," Col. Lee Bunch said.

City and Kansas Army National Guard officials have been working a plan where the city would buy the new building and parking lot for $2.8 million.

Manhattan mayor Ed Klimek, City Manager Ron Fehr and city commissioners were among the officials who presented the $1 million check to the guard. The guard will then pay back the debt to the city over three years.

The move is a greater benefit to not only Manhattan but also the Army National Guard, said Col. Eric Peck, chief of staff of the Kansas Army National Guard.

"We have outgrown our current site and the facilities requiring us to re-evaluate our unit stationing plan and match our current infrastructure with the operational capabilities of the facilities," Peck said. "The Kansas Army National Guard is also transitioning and, as a result, is undergoing a near state-wide reorganization. It's important we have a new place to grow."

In a city commission meeting last month, Peck said the site will also have a small amount of weapons storage.

While storing explosives might be a concern, Peck said the Kansas Army National Guard plans to increase security for the new site.

Other additions to the site include a small manufacturing plant, recreational facility and daycare center.

Officials said these extra add-ons are what make the site a strong part of the community.

The new guard home is open to the public, and eventually will be equipped completely with fitness facilities and more family-based features, Peck said.

"The National Guard facility will include training logistics, military vehicles, maintenance, fuel storage, manufacturing and warehousing."

Students needed to test desk prototypes

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

There are five desks for testing in Hale Library.

A university committee for the planning of technology classrooms wants student opinions on which of five types of new desks should be purchased for classrooms, said Rebecca Gould, director of Information Technology Assistance Center.

Students can sit in the desks in Hale 313, determine their comfort and usability, then fill out an online application rating the desks.

The committee plans to buy thousands of desks to put in classrooms in fall 2006, Gould said, because many of the current desks are old and noisy.

She said the new desks will make students more comfortable, make less noise, and give students more workspace.

Ruth Dyer, associate provost, said new desks will be put in eight or nine classrooms.

Every year, several classrooms are selected for upgrades as faculty members or students comment on the needs of certain rooms and as university funds are available, Dyer said.

"We want to make sure to meet the students' needs as well as possible," she said.

The options include wood, vinyl or plastic; upholstery or no upholstery; different colors; and large or small desktops. Tables and chairs are one option, Dyer

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN
Jan Allen, instructor at Highland Community college and part-time student, works on her laptop in Desk 2. Students are voting on new types of desks to help the university decide which of them they will buy.

said, but that decreases the number of seats in a room. Tablet arm chairs allow for more seats, but provide less surface space.

"We want them to be comfortable and as useable as possible," Dyer said.

The desk test models will be in Hale 313 through finals week, and the committee is aiming for about 1,000 student responses, Gould said.

January 2005

intersession

December 27, 2004 - January 11, 2005

Time Is Running Out. Enroll today! To enroll and/or obtain an intersession schedule with complete course descriptions and prerequisites, visit our Web site at <http://www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession>. If you prefer, call (785) 532-5687 or 1-800-432-8222 or visit the Division of Continuing Education at 131 College Court Building, 1615 Anderson Ave., Manhattan, KS.

Tuition for on-campus coursework will be $129 per undergraduate resident credit hour and $178 per graduate credit hour, plus $1 per day special and health fees. A student services fee and/or materials fee may be required for some courses. Additional fees may be assessed for courses in the College of Architecture and Engineering.

Course Title	Course #	Ref#	Credit	Dates	Times
JANUARY
AGRICULTURE
Practicum in Bakery Technology	GRSC 701	94101	1 UG/G	01/05-01/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
ARCHITECTURE, PLANNING, & DESIGN
Problems: Writing Workshop for Architects	ARCH 765	94107	3 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 10:00 AM-1:30 PM
Portfolio Design Studio	IAPD 406	94103	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Rhino 3D and Flamingo Studio	IAPD 406	94104	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Portfolio Design Studio	IAPD 830	94105	3 G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Rhino 3D & Flamingo Studio	IAPD 830	94106	3 G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:30 PM
Design Graphics and Visual Thinking	LAR 310	94108	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
Pb/Advanced Design Graphics/Visual Thinking	LAR 741	94110	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-4:30 PM
ARTS & SCIENCES
The Rise of Ancient Civilizations	ANTH 521	94111	2 UG/G	01/03-01/11	MTWUF 10:00 AM-3:00 PM
Forensic Medicine & the Investigation of Death	ANTH 684	94112	3 UG/G	01/04-01/11	MTWUFSa 9:00 AM-5:00 PM
Special Studies in Art: Experimental Monoprinting	ART 300	94113	2 & 3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-4:30 PM
Special Studies: Color Experiments, Theory and Application	ART 300	94114	2 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 10:00 AM-3:00 PM
Hip-Hop as Literature	ENGL 295	94118	2 UG	01/03-01/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:00 PM
Physical Activity in Contemporary Society	KIN 340	94120	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:30 PM-5:00 PM
Sport and Exercise Personality	KIN 592	94121	3 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:45 PM
Jazz in Kansas City and the Southwest	MUSIC 424	94124	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Social Construction of Serial Murder	SOCIO 562	94126	3 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-5:30 PM
Women and Islam	WOMST 585	94130	3 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 9:30 AM-1:00 PM
BUSINESS
Achieving Career Success: Developing Personal Competencies, Outwitting Opponents, & Avoiding Common Career Traps	GENBA 498	94131	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
Introduction To Total Quality Management	MANGT 300	94133	1 UG	01/07-01/11	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
EDUCATION
Stress Management	EDCEP 502	94142	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Stress Management for Teachers, Counselors, and Administrators	EDCEP 802	94146	3 G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Teaching as a Career	EDSEC 102	94147	1 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 3:30 PM-6:30 PM
Special Topics: Teaching Adolescent Literature	EDSEC 786	94150	1 UG/G	01/05-01/11	TWUF 4:30 PM-7:00 PM
ENGINEERING
CAD in Engineering and Construction	ARE 311	94151	2 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 8:00 AM-12:00 PM
Hazardous Waste Engineering Seminar	CHE 650	94153	1 UG/G	01/04-01/06	TWU 8:00 AM-4:30 PM
Introduction to Information Technology	CIS 101	94154	1 UG	12/27-12/30	MTW 8:00 AM-11:10 AM
Introduction to Microcomputer Spreadsheet Applications	CIS 102	94155	1 UG	01/03-01/06	MUF 8:00 AM-11:10 AM
Introduction to Microcomputer Database Applications	CIS 103	94156	1 UG	01/07-01/11	TWU 8:00 AM-12:10 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Building Commissioning	CNS 644	94158	2 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:30 PM
Topics in Construction Management: Tilt-Up Concrete	CNS 644	94159	2 UG/G	01/03-01/11	MTWUF 8:15 AM-12:00 PM
Structures in Construction Management	DEN 300	94186	1 UG	01/07-01/11	F 5:00 PM-10:00 PM Sa 8:30 AM-1:00 PM M 5:00 PM-10:00 PM
Introduction to Total Quality Management	DEN 393	94160	3 UG	01/03-01/07	MTWUF 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
Problems/Eng. & Tech. Hazwoper Training	DEN 393	94160	3 UG	01/03-01/07	MTWUF 8:00 AM-5:00 PM
HUMAN ECOLOGY
Topics in FSHS: Introduction to Marriage and Family Therapy	FSHS 300	94161	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
Topics: Introduction to Infant Mental Health: Raising Emotionally Healthy Children	FSHS 300	94162	3 UG	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 8:30 AM-12:00 PM
Problems in FSHS: Family Law	FSHS 700	94166	3 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 1:00 PM-4:45 PM
Topics: Premarital Education and Counseling	FSHS 708	94168	3 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 5:30 PM-9:00 PM
Seminar in Long-Term Care Administration	GERON 610	94171	3 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 5:00 PM-8:00 PM
Topics in Food & Nutrition: Computer Applications in Epidemiology	HN 782	94179	2 UG/G	12/27-01/11	MTWUF 9:00 AM-12:00 PM

VERIFY ALL COURSE INFORMATION BY CHECKING THE WEBSITE PRIOR TO THE FIRST DAY OF CLASS.

Division of Continuing Education
www.dce.ksu.edu/intersession

dependable, quality service
✓ You need binding?
Let us do it.
Clafin Books and Copies
Dr. Ryan J. Kueker
Optometrist
20% OFF Includes: Eye Health Exam, Contact Lens Exam, One Year Supply of Contact Lenses, Six Months of Follow Up Visits, Solution and 15% Off Prescription Sunglasses and Glasses
KSE/ID Required
Call (785) 456-2236 for details
Manhattan
12 minutes from KSU Campus

JUMP AHEAD

of the competition and advertise in the

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN
118 Kedzie
532-6560

TO THE POINT K-State should support rural veterinarians

The money is the same, the hours may be longer, but the benefits of being a rural veterinarian are greater for the society and future of the nation's food supply.

The number of food animal veterinarians has continued to dwindle the last 18 years. In 1986, more than 45 percent of the American Veterinary Medical Association's 32,338 members provided at least part-time large-animal care, according to an Associated Press Report. In 2004, only about 22 percent of the 71,000 AVMA-member veterinarians in the United States treated large farm animals.

There is an overall shortage of veterinarians and one of the reasons is the shortage of veterinary colleges in the United States. There are only 28 colleges operating, all of them are operating at full capacity.

Recognized as one of the nations leading veterinarian institutions, K-State's College of Veterinary Medicine is not one of the universities offering scholarships to students interested in and qualified to become food animal veterinarians.

K-State needs to join the likes of Colorado State, North Carolina State, University of California-Davis and University of Minnesota in offering a program to get more students interested in this field.

Living in an agricultural driven state, there is no reason why we should not be one of the leading institutions in food animal veterinary study.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

Christmas encounter

Columnist learns the true meaning of holiday

'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the wet house, The bed sheets were crawling in dire need of de-louse. The beer cans were scattered about the yard without care, With false hopes that hot girls soon would be there.

KODY COOPER

The drunken boys were all nestled, passed out in their beds, While visions of harlots pole-danced in their heads. And I with my iPod and cold gear Under Armour, Had just passed by as a winter night's jogger.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter, I stopped in my tracks to see what was the matter. Several lights came on, illuminating the windows, The noise abruptly had wakened the drunks from repose.

And then, in a belch, I heard boom from the wet house, A drunken chant that caused my ears to arouse. As I recoiled in shock from the inebriated banter, From the myriad of voices there shouted a lone chanter.

"Now Budweiser! Now, Bud Light! Now Michelob and Busch Lite! On Heineken! On Keystone! On Coors and Natty Ice! To the depths of my liver! To the cells of my brain! Now destroy them! Destroy them! Spend my college years in vain!"

Then, the chants and lights doused, I stood cold and alone, Pondering soft moonshine upon new-fallen snow. When what to my wondering eyes should appear, But a mysterious robed man with a flowing white beard.

Who was this saintly fellow, I started to ponder,

Coming my way, he sought to dispel my wonder. "What are you doing, jogging alone this Christmas Eve night? Shouldn't you be home with your family, tucked in warm and tight?"

His benevolent eyes searched mine, penetrating my soul. I mustered a response; my lonesomeness taking its toll— "Forgive me sir, my parents raised me secular atheist, I've never celebrated or understood this thing you call Christmas."

His deep voice echoed — a chuckle like the crash of a boulder Smiling warmly, he placed a gentle hand on my shoulder, "Dear child, fret not, for many don't know Christmas' true meaning. Syncretism, materialism and secular liberalism have been quite demeaning."

"Just look 'round the public square, and tell me what you see, Twinkling lights, opulent ornaments, patina packages and trees. The true meaning of Christmas is quite profound, try hard and listen, The story begins with God's love for you, whilst you loved only sin."

"He created you to be His, but from his loving arms you strayed, After booze, after sex, after idols, you went your own way. You grieved your creator's heart with iniquities and vice, Yet, grace abounded, and he sent his only begotten Son, Jesus Christ."

"Born of a virgin in Bethlehem, linen-wrapped, laid down in a manger, His unprecedented perfection proved Him to be the all-sufficient Savior. Every Christmas, we fondly recall that immaculate birth, Baffled by God's saving grace towards the lost men of Earth."

His emphatic words hung in the air, like snowflakes upon a windy mist, He spoke not his name, but my heart would always know him as Evangelist. But I heard him exclaim, as he disappeared into the snowy night, "Merry Christmas to all, and happy birthday, Jesus Christ!"

Kody Cooper subsequently converted from secular liberalism after a round-house kick to the face. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

Big corporations can offer big help

There's a saying they have in small town America: "Every time a cash register at Wal-Mart rings, a corporate abolitionist gets its wings." Wal-Mart is bankrupting the "little guys," corporate America is monopolizing the economy. The claims go on and on.

But is Wal-Mart really that bad? New chain stores are everywhere, and the small, locally owned businesses have become an even smaller minority. According to the Institution of Local Self Reliance, Wal-Mart receives 7 percent of the entire consumer spending in the United States. Although Wal-Mart and other chain stores such as Rite-Aid and Home Depot tend to put local businesses out of business, there are many things that these corporations have contributed to the communities they have settled into.

KELSEY CHILDRESS

Wal-Mart supports many organizations, including the Salvation Army, Hurricane Katrina relief efforts, military care packages to those overseas and spends about $170 million dollars a year for educational programs.

The Target Corporation gives more than $100 million a year for family violence education programs, college scholarships and gifts for children at St. Jude's during the holidays. Compared to this, the local "Pop's Grocery" cannot measure up.

All of these big name chains also bring in more job opportunities to towns with smaller economies and many also offer them health care benefits for their families. Store discounts, stock options and new technology also make these bigger corporations easier to welcome into our communities.

This is something that locally-run companies usually cannot give their employees and customers.

Perhaps a part of sense of community is lost through converting towns into the hosts of chain stores. Proponents of small businesses claim that no longer will be the days where the owner is a family friend and the employees know everyone by name. However, this is not the case. A sense of community and kinship is not lost because one shops at Wal-Mart.

It is even stated so in the often-forgotten Eleventh Commandment — "Thou shalt know at least three people every time one enters a Wal-Mart." This also goes hand-in-hand with the even more obscure Twelfth Commandment — "Thou shalt spend no less than 30 minutes in a Wal-Mart." So really, the only reason to dread going into the Supercenter is if you are running late.

While some are left arguing about sense of community, the final question that is really left to ponder is this - what is there to lose? Change is inevitable. And inevitably, there is probably going to be a Wal-Mart within a 10-mile radius of where one may be at any given point in time.

But, the Wal-Mart Corporation shouldn't be thought of as an invading enemy, but rather as a dreamboat of possibilities. As Tina Fey on Saturday Night Live once said, "56 percent of U.S. citizens claim they are against Wal-Mart. The other 44 percent work there."

Kelsey Childress is a sophomore in English. Please send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@spub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian Kedzie 103 Manhattan, KS 66502 Display ads.....532-6560	Classified ads.....532-6555 Newsroom.....532-6556 news@spub.ksu.edu Delivery problems.....532-6555
---	--

Illustrations By Elvis Achelpohl | COLLEGIAN

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@spub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene, and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial Staff.

I saw Saw, you should see Saw 2.

Chuck Norris once walked into a bar and started acting tough when Bruce Willis had to knock him out to show who the real man was.

John Becker, who pays for the wedding? Yeah, the women. Quit your bitching.

Would it be weird if I allowed my computer to get another virus just so I can have that cute guy help me connect it back to the Internet again?

So, I'm waiting to use the pay phone and this guy just keeps talking and talking. Then he hangs up the phone, turns around and tips his cap. And it was none other than Emilio Estevez, the Mighty Duck man himself. And I was all like "Emilio."

I once saw Chuck Norris get bit by a rattle snake in Texas. Soon after, the rattle snake was dead and Chuck Norris stood over it and said, "Have a taste of your own medicine, Chuck Norris style."

Chuck Norris was once asked who would win in a fight, Vin Diesel or himself. Chuck Norris, immediately, gave a round-house kick to the face to that person and then asked, "Is that a question?"

So, you guys want to make out, or what?

Oh, Bob Saget.

Super Smash Brothers, the greatest game invented for Nintendo 64. It rocks.

Cocaine usage is going up because there are no cute boys to cuddle with.

Leaves, leaves, the musical fruit. The more you eat, the less you have to rake.

I want to move to Australia and live in a kangaroo's pocket.

This is Butters and I would just like to say that I am freezing my nuts off. That is all.

I saw Tracy Morgan at a party Friday night. He walked right in front of me. I didn't know he was a short guy. I didn't shake his hand because of the mob of people, but I said hi, and I know he heard me.

If the government views illicit drugs as substitutes, then why are we arresting marijuana distributors instead of crack-cocaine distributors?

You do a line, I do a line, honey. You do a line, I do a line, babe.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Intelligent design religion, not science

Steve Abrams, our enlightened Kansas Board of Education chairman, has said evolutionary theory conflicts with the Bible's version of creation of life on Earth. This contention causes me to react strongly on two levels.

SHANE SANDERS

First, why would a public official be publicly concerned about consistencies between legislation and the Bible? Second, Abrams' viewpoint suggests that science isn't the only subject lacking in Kansas public schools. Even a cursory knowledge of history brings one to the conclusion that evolutionary theory and creationism need not be held as two mutually exclusive beliefs.

For example, during a famous 1925 trial in which high school biology teacher John Scopes of Tennessee was charged with illegally teaching the theory of evolution, defense attorney Clarence Darrow defeated the notion that the timelines of the respective beliefs are necessarily discordant. Apparently, Steve Abrams "don't care 'bout no history" unless it's in the Bible.

Intelligent design is rightly thought of as a newer form of creationism. Its advocates work very hard to alienate their theory from that of evolution, paying little heed to details such as logic in the process.

A recent Collegian article states, "According to the Intelligent Design Network, the theory of intelligent design argues that the universe was created by a higher power as opposed to an undirected process such as natural selection."

Intelligent design advocates make the unfounded assumption that natural selection is an "undirected process" inconsistent with creation by a "higher power." However, no person on Earth has the information to say that natural selection is undirected. It is entirely possible that natural selection is the method by which this proposed higher power guides the course of life.

Creationism reeks of a religion that we as a society do not all share. Furthermore, creationism comes as close to following the scientific method as my fifth grade science project. It is only through great feats of political hypocrisy that such a set of material could creep into discussions concerning public school curriculum.

Shane Sanders is a graduate student in economics. Send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

Lecture incident damaged university's reputation

Editor,

I couldn't help but be amused by your article about Charles Reagan and the Landon Lecture series - which seemed to be about 25 paragraphs of Reagan arrogantly patting himself on the back about how K-State is outpacing the Iowa States, KUs and Oklahomas of the world and that he has the magic formula for getting "great" speakers which he closely guards like "my mother's secret chili recipe."

Earth to Chuck: Last month, you screwed up big-time. You had the former leader of one of the two superpowers and you don't move it to Bramlage Coliseum because you think only five people are going to show up? Might the poor turnout from previous lectures reflect the fact that your speakers are usually more sleep-inducing than thought-provoking?

After the fiasco, a guy wrote a letter to the Collegian saying he thought his "four-year-old son could do a better job." You have alumni who are so angry they are vowing never to give another dime to this institution because it fumbled the ball so badly. If this were the "real world," you probably would have been unceremoniously fired for having screwed up the big account with the major client.

You say you don't want to look stupid by having empty seats. Interesting - because I, and about 3,500 of my closest friends who got turned away thought the whole Gorbachev incident was very stupid.

Ron Stelter
R.A. AND M.A. FROM K-STATE

Smoke-free Manhattan best for residents, workers

Editor,

After I read the article in Nov. 29 Collegian titled "Businesses should allow smoking or not" I was a little ashamed to be a K-State student, when it takes 12 K-State journalists to write an opinion without evidence to back it up and expect the rest of the student body to accept it.

The first sentence states that "people should know by now that smoking can cause lung cancer, heart disease and an assortment of other health problems."

What's ridiculous about that comment is that a lot of people don't know that the No. 1 actual cause of death in the United States is tobacco.

So, when you discuss your view that it is not the responsibility of the city to regulate where people are allowed to smoke I have to remind you that it is the responsibility of the government to control extreme dangers to public health like tobacco.

You made the claim that too often the government is looked to as the "great equalizer" while you would have non-smokers believe that it is better for everyone if we just sucked in the second-hand smoke while we ate (which has been proven more hazardous to health than the smoke that is inhaled by the smoker) because we don't want to make the smokers sit out in the cold.

You also made the point that smoke-free legislation was a "good fit" for Lawrence, but not Manhattan, yet you fail to supply any information to support that claim.

Why don't Manhattan residents deserve that kind of progressive, consumer-sensitive legislation?

According to the Kansas Department of Health and Environment, only 21 percent of Kansans smoke.

This means that eight of every 10 people who walk into a restaurant or bar will prefer a smoke-free environment. Is it fair to make the majority sick and the minority happy?

How is that further from a 1984 society than your paranoia of a smoke-free, healthier Manhattan?

All I ask is that in the future you do a little research to back up your opinion before you print it in the campus newspaper.

Kerri Swafford
SENIOR IN LIFE SCIENCE

Regents should help out-of-state students by offering tuition deals

These days the majority of the 18-22 age demographic enjoys complaining about constantly rising tuition costs, but few take the time to consider those paying out-of-state tuition.

MEGAN CRANE

As a legal resident of Iowa, Kansas at heart, I have the privilege of paying more than three times the in-state tuition rate of $152 per credit hour. Paying $463 per credit hour pains me, so I feel the responsibility to help those in similar situations to myself.

There are ways around the out-of-state tuition curse. Residents of Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska and North Dakota interested in uncommon majors found at K-State can apply for the Midwest Student Exchange Program. Students on MSEP pay 150 percent of in-state tuition and must maintain a 3.5 GPA.

Interested students can also pursue establishing residency, a 365-day ordeal. This also means you have to be financially independent from your parents. No more family insurance.

This list of options, I believe, is lacking. I encourage K-State to consider a contiguous counties border deal. This would mean all residents of counties bordering Kansas would be able to attend K-State for less than out-of-state tuition. I would propose the possibility of 125 percent of in-state tuition.

A border deal for contiguous counties would have the greatest impact on Kansas City, Mo., residents.

When I spoke with Pat Bosco, dean of student life, on the subject, he pointed out that Fort Hays State University, Pittsburg State University and Emporia State University currently have similar plans in place, and this puts K-State behind.

"K-State has a tremendous disadvantage when it comes to recruiting contiguous residents," Bosco said.

When the ever-progressive Bosco admits we're behind the times it's a good sign something has gone terribly, terribly wrong.

Although K-State doesn't have the power itself to change this problem, this is where we need to start. The issue needs to be addressed by the Kansas Board of Regents, get authorized by board policy and taken to the Kansas legislature.

By not offering competitive tuition rates to students just outside our borders we are not only losing everything they have to offer our school, we are condemning them to a lesser education and denying them the opportunity to attend our great institution.

Megan Crane is a sophomore in pre-professional business administration. Send your comments to opinion@spub.ksu.edu.

LONGHORNS SALOON

Aggieville Manhattan

1115 MORO 776-8770

LIVE TONIGHT:

JASON BOLAND

18 to enter, 21 to drink.

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

First Amendment
U.S. CONSTITUTION

Got a NewsTip or Story Idea?

Call 532-6556 or e-mail: collegian@spub.ksu.edu

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

Free Consumer & Tenant Advice

The Consumer and Tenant Affairs Office provides information on landlord/tenant rights and responsibilities and aids in the resolution of consumer complaints regarding products and/or services. Brochures regarding landlord/tenant and consumer issues are also available.

Consumer and Tenant Affairs Office

Appointments Available Daily

Call 532-6541 to make an appointment.

The Office of Student Activities and Services offers:

FREE LEGAL SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

for more information visit the website at <http://www.ksu.edu/osas/legal.htm>

Students' Attorney:

SARAH BARR

785-532-6541

Call now for an appointment

office hours

Monday - Friday

9:00 - 11:00 am & 1:00 - 3:00 pm

Other appointments available upon request.

wildcats

2005-06 BASKETBALL

Wednesday, Dec. 7

vs. Colorado State

7pm

Bramlage Coliseum

1.800.221.CATS

www.kstatesports.com

Go Proud Go Purple

GO STATE!

Sigma Kappa would like to congratulate their new alumnae, initiates, and officers

New Alumnae:

Maggie Riggs

Christine Dana

New Initiates:

Jenny Giraladin

Angel Blobaum

Laura Grauer

Jessica Schneider

Clarissa Thomas

Melissa Bruch

New Officers:

President: Danae Mason

Vice President: Nicole Kramer

VP of New Member Education: Kristina Rodriguez

VP of Membership: Nicki Kirkton

VP of Finance: Jana Owens

VP of Alumnae Relations: Erin Parrott

VP of Scholarship: Rose Erickson

Recording Secretary: Christina Oglesby

PHC Rep: Michaela Kryzer

Co-Homcoming: Megan Woods & Laura Banman

Corresponding Secretary: Samantha Childress

PR/Triangle Correspondent: Caitlin Meehan

Community Service: Molly Gordon

Activities: April Killian

Social: Jessie Karr

House Manager/ Technical: Neeley Kleen

Historian: Taylor Denney

Philanthropy: Stephanie Brady

Co-Foundation: Taylor Strader & Kory Kuenning

Ritual: Maury Angelo

Jr. Panhellenic Delegate: Courtney Cole

Assistant VP/NE: McKenzie Brecht

Continuing Membership Chair: Cindy Quigley

Assistant VP of Finance: Alison Muckle

Sisterhood: Heather Forsythe

SIGMA KAPPA SORORITY

Bringing Sisterhood To Life

Weiser, K-State make right choice hiring Prince

If you had reservations about Ron Prince being hired to succeed Bill Snyder as K-State's football coach, you were not alone.

He was not the first choice, maybe not even the second, but ultimately Athletics Director Tim Weiser got it right when he inked the Junction City native.

Prince had a different approach than the other candidates did — he actually wanted the job.

He called it his "dream job," and told Weiser after he hired him, "You'll never regret giving me this opportunity."

University of South Florida coach Jim Leavitt, who was thought to be the leading candidate, was a long shot from the day Snyder announced his intentions. Why would you leave the Big East Conference, where there is a chance to become eligible for the Bowl Championships Series every year now that powers Miami, Virginia Tech and Florida State reside in the Atlantic Coast Conference?

Leavitt has an easier job in South Florida with less competition and a strong recruiting area, not to mention the seven-year extension at about $1 million annually he received.

K-State would have been a stepping-stone for any other big-name coach. Sure, they could have come in and brought about a quick turnaround, but Prince offers stability and the chance for the Wildcats to get back to where they were a few years ago — a consistent winner.

If you watched or listened to Prince speak on Monday, you have to be impressed. He may have gone to the note cards for the first few moments, but as soon as he started to discuss his intentions with the program, he was clear and concise.

He said all the right things, thanked all the right people and sent a message to Snyder thanking him for serving as an icon in college football for the last 17 years.

The most impressive thing Prince said came when he was asked if it is hard to be a minority coach.

"I'm an African-American," he said. "People ask what it is like to be a black coach; I've never been any other kind. I'm completely aware of the significance of this right now. I'm hopeful that someday this won't be very significant. I hope that we will move past this moment."

"But I'll say this emphatically — right now, going from this day forward, the only color that I hope they will be talking about with this program is purple."

Prince is the only African-American head football coach in the Big 12 Conference, and just the fourth in Division I-A.

The hiring brought immediate attention to Manhattan for those reasons. Eventually, Prince will once again have this program getting the attention it once garnered as a consistent winner that his predecessor laid the ground work for.

Anthony Mendoza is a senior in print journalism. You can e-mail him at sports@pub.ksu.edu.

Lehning ties rebounding record

Chris Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN
Shalee Lehning reacts after a defensive stop during the first half Tuesday evening at Bramlage Coliseum. Lehning finished one point shy of a double-double with nine points and 20 rebounds.

By Anthony Mendoza
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Coach Deb Patterson has been looking for a group of players willing to run through walls in order to make a play. Freshman guard Shalee Lehning just about did that in Tuesday nights 77-66 win over Louisiana Tech at Bramlage Coliseum.

Lehning was among four freshmen mixed in with sophomore Kimberly Dietz who got the starting nod for the Wildcats. "When we step on the basketball court at Kansas State, we're going to be ready to run through a wall every possession and we have to learn that and commit to that," Patterson said.

Four minutes in, Lehning set the tone for the game.

After recording a steal, freshman Danielle Zanotti's traveling call gave the ball back to the Lady Techsters. On the in-bounds play, Lehning broke up the pass and then dove to the floor after the ball, K-State recovered the ball, but did not convert on the play.

It was just one of many floor burns the freshman picked up on her way to tying the team rebounding record previously held by Kendra Wecker and Carlisa Thomas, recording 20 rebounds, and missing a triple-double by two assists and one point.

"I pretty much got lucky; the ball was bouncing my way," Lehning said.

Rebounding is nothing new to the 5-foot-9 guard.

At Sublette High School, she set the state of Kansas all-time career rebounding record, finishing with 1,336 as well as being the state's all-time leader in assists and steals.

"Shalee goes in there; she does it in practice," said junior guard Twiggy McIntyre. "She's gritty, she goes in there with the posts and she bangs with them."

Patterson said she never thought about taking the freshman out because Lehning kept the team flowing on both sides of the court.

"It's been about four or three years since we played a freshman 40-minutes, but to tell you the truth, during the course of this game there was not one minute that I looked at Shalee and felt like she wasn't ready to go full steam or that I even considered taking her out," Patterson said.

Turnaround

K-State wins 1st-ever game against Techsters

K-State- 77 La. Tech- 66

	K-State	La. Tech
Team FG	27-of-62	19-of-60
Team 3-PT	8-of-24	7-of-16
Team FT	15-of-20	21-of-26
Team Rebs	45	34
Team Assists	19	10
Team TOs	20	18

Leading Scorer	McIntyre, 21	Ray-Boyd, 16
Leading Rebs	Lehning, 20	Williams, 7
Leading Assist	Lehning, 8	Williams, 6

By Angie Hanson
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Coach Deb Patterson was not pleased entering the locker room at halftime in K-State's game against Louisiana Tech Tuesday night.

The Cats (6-1) were down 36-35 after the Lady Techsters (3-2) went on a 10-0 run with 1:45 left in the first half. K-State had committed 13 turnovers to that point, and Louisiana Tech had taken advantage by scoring 20 points off Wildcat mistakes. It was starting to look like the end of the second half of K-State's 78-68 loss to St. Joseph's on Saturday.

But this was different. Patterson left the court at the end of the game Tuesday night with a smile on her face, as K-State defended its home court in its first-ever win against Louisiana Tech, 77-66.

Junior Twiggy McIntyre said the loss to St. Joseph's could have been a motivator in Tuesday night's victory.

"I think in a weird way, it was good for us," McIntyre said. "I could've done without the loss, but everyone had their edge on."

Patterson was excited about the win, but it was the first half Patterson wasn't thrilled about.

"It wasn't a pleasant discussion at halftime about our turnover numbers," Patterson said. "It was beyond my comprehension, because I felt like those turnovers were a lack of attention to making a quality basketball decisions."

Whatever Patterson said must have been effective as her team responded in the second half.

"Yeah, coach (Patterson) had some

Catrina Rawson | COLLEGIAN
K-State junior guard Twiggy McIntyre drives around Louisiana Tech's Margaret DeCiman Tuesday evening at Bramlage Coliseum. McIntyre notched 20 points in the Wildcats 77-66 win over the Lady Techsters.

words," sophomore guard Kimberly Dietz said. "We were just telling each other to keep our heads up, and we could pull away from this and be confident."

K-State began slow after halftime, but after a Dietz 3-pointer at about 15 minutes, the Techsters never led again. From there, the Cats outscored Louisiana Tech 36-27 with the help of freshmen Shalee Lehning and Marlies Gipson, senior Jessica McFarland, McIntyre and Dietz.

McIntyre had 21 points, Dietz had 16 points, Gipson notched 14 points and McFarland added 8.

The only one who didn't get a hand in the victory was junior Claire Coggins, who sat on the bench the entire game because of a coach's decision, Patterson said.

"This was the answer to what we were looking in terms of bringing a higher level of passion, a higher level of energy," Patterson said.

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

NFL | Edwards done

for season with knee injury

BEREA, Ohio — Just as Brayton Edwards was showing signs of becoming a special first-round pick for the Cleveland Browns, he became another broken one.

Edwards will miss the rest of the season with a torn knee ligament, yet another setback for one of Cleveland's top picks.

The No. 3 overall selection in the 2005 draft, Edwards tore the anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee while trying to make a leaping catch in the fourth quarter of Sunday's 20-14 loss to the Jacksonville Jaguars.

Edwards' knee buckled awkwardly to the inside after he landed stiff-legged on the incomplete.

Edwards

MLB | Jays land Burnett with 5-year, $55M deal

DALLAS — A.J. Burnett agreed to a five-year, $55 million free-agent contract with the Toronto Blue Jays, a source told ESPN.com.

The deal was to be announced at a Tuesday afternoon news conference.

Kevin C. Cox/WireImage.com
After courting A.J. Burnett for a month, the Blue Jays landed their man.

Burnett joins reliever B.J. Ryan as the second pitcher to sign a five-year deal with Toronto this offseason.

The Burnett deal is the longest contract for a free-agent starter since Chan Ho Park's five-year, $65 million contract with the Texas Rangers in December 2001.

Burnett

CFB | Texas' Brown votes

USC No. 1, Longhorns No. 2

Texas coach Mack Brown has been calling Southern California the No. 1 team all season and it wasn't just talk.

Brown voted USC first in the final USA Today coaches' poll, and so did his brother.

The ballots were made public Monday, a first for the coaches' poll, which is used by the Bowl Championship Series in its standings formula.

The BCS had urged the coaches to remove the secrecy in their poll after the 2004 season, when Texas made a late surge in the polls to earn a Rose Bowl bid over California.

The coaches decided to release only their final ballots, which were printed in Monday's editions of USA Today.

NBA | Anthony fined $5,000 for tossing ball into stands

NEW YORK — Denver Nuggets forward Carmelo Anthony was fined $5,000 by the NBA on Tuesday for throwing a basketball into the stands during a game against the Miami Heat.

With 3:10 left in the first half of Saturday's 101-99 home win over Miami, Anthony was called for charging. He threw the ball into the crowd, and it hit a preteen girl in the head.

The girl, sitting in the front row behind the basket, was not injured. Anthony briefly chatted with her as the Nuggets filed past on their way to the locker room at halftime.

Anthony

Wildcats face 4th undefeated team of non-conference season

By Mark Potter
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Prior to the season, some might have described the K-State men's basketball team's pre-conference schedule as easy.

But six games into the season, coach Jim Wooldridge said he believes K-State's schedule has been tougher than many expected.

"I think we have played a very, very competitive schedule if you look at what some of the teams have done before and after they've been here, and who is left on the schedule," Wooldridge said.

At 7 tonight, K-State will face its fourth undefeated team in seven games as it squares off against Colorado State (6-0) in Bramlage Coliseum.

Tonight's game will cap off an eight-day stretch of four

"Perhaps we have a deeper bench than we have had, and maybe we need to look at more minutes for those guys. Ultimately we are just looking for more production."

Jim Wooldridge
MEN'S BASKETBALL COACH

games for the Wildcats (5-1).

"We haven't had time to do a lot of practicing because of the nature of the games," Wooldridge said.

"This is kind of one last push to give all our energy into this game, and then we can reassess and take a couple days off."

Wooldridge expressed displeasure with his team's 29-point win over Longwood on Monday — so much so that players were still unavailable for comment on Tuesday. As a result, he said he might be forced to make some changes in the near future.

"I don't know what those changes are going to be, but we are going to look at it pretty hard," Wooldridge said following Monday's win.

"Perhaps we have a deeper bench than we have had, and maybe we need to look at more minutes for those guys. Ultimately, we are just looking for more production."

Junior forward Cartier Martin is one K-State player who has consistently produced, scoring in double figures in every game this season.

Martin averages 20.2 points and 9.2 rebounds, leading the Wildcats in both categories.

"He has been our leader," Wooldridge said.

"You can see by the way we've functioned in these early games that we have got to have him produce some big numbers. He's probably played with more confidence than anyone on our team at this point."

Junior guard Lance Harris, who scored a career-high 26 points Monday, ranks second with an average 13.5 points.

"For Lance, (Monday's game) was a big step in the right direction," Wooldridge said. "We have to have Lance Harris score the ball for us."

For the season, K-State is averaging 75.3 points per

K-State vs. Colorado State

When: 7 tonight
Where: Bramlage Coliseum
How much: For ticket information, call (800) 221-CATS or visit www.k-statesports.com.

game, while holding opponents to 60 points or less.

Colorado State comes to Manhattan with an unblemished record, including an 83-82 win over rival Colorado.

Colorado State finished 11-17 last season and features three players over seven feet tall — quite different from Longwood, which had no one above 6-foot-7.

Wooldridge said he will not hesitate in going to a smaller lineup if necessary.

"We'll just try to go with our players who are playing the best and not worry about their size," he said.

THE EDGE

Wednesday, Dec. 7, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

Global oil

George Clooney stars in Warner Bros. Pictures' political thriller Syriana, also starring Matt Damon and Jeffrey Wright. Courtesy of Warner Bros.

Clooney stars in film about modern-day Middle East

By Christina Hansen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Actor George Clooney said his latest film "Syriana" is meant to raise questions about the global oil industry, not to answer them.

"Obviously it's a political film," Clooney said during a conference call. "But our argument is to raise a debate, not to tell people what the answers are, because clearly we don't have any answers for this, the issues or the problems."

"Syriana" is a political thriller set in the modern-day Middle East. Writer and director Stephen Gaghan examines the impact of a CIA agent, a Persian Gulf prince, an oil broker, a corporate lawyer and a Pakistani teenager on the cutthroat world of oil production and policy.

Clooney plays Robert Barnes, a veteran CIA agent who has dedicated his life's work to service and country. Barnes begins to lose faith in the agency when he discovers the true nature of the work he's been doing.

Clooney said he spent considerable time getting to know CIA agent Bob Baer, the inspiration for his character, to prepare for his part in the film. The character's physical appearance also required that he gain 30 pounds, a feat he had to accomplish in 30 days because of his tight shooting schedule.

"The truth is it's not nearly as fun as it sounds, the idea of putting on that kind of weight," Clooney said. "My job was to eat as fast as I could, as much as I could. Mostly you just ate until you wanted to throw up, and made sure you didn't throw up."

"Syriana" marks a departure for Clooney from some of his most famous roles. His smooth operating characters on television's "E.R." and blockbusters "Ocean's Eleven" and "Ocean's Twelve" bear little resemblance to his most recent role as a disillusioned, middle-aged government agent.

"The truth is, I'm really not looking at an image," he said. "I think that I'm constantly searching for and looking to do things that inspire me or move me or interest me. When I come into interviews, I actually have something that I get to talk about besides who I'm dating."

Clooney said the popularity of politically charged movies like "Syriana" is being tested by Hollywood studios right now.

"What it will come down to is whether or not these films make money," he said. "Because ultimately, in Hollywood, that's the only answer. If you make a lot of movies that don't make any money and nobody wants to go see them, then Hollywood changes its ways and does something different."

After receiving criticism several years ago for questioning

Matt Damon (left) and Alexander Siddig in Warner Bros. Pictures' political thriller Syriana, also starring George Clooney and Jeffrey Wright. Courtesy of Warner Bros.

the Iraq War in its early stages, Clooney said that the right to question one's government became an important theme in "Syriana," and his last directorial effort, "Good Night, and Good Luck."

"The only thing that we were saying was we weren't going to be told that we can't dissent or ask questions," he said. "We're not going to be called unpatriotic for asking questions."

"What I look for as an actor, or a director for that matter, is the script first," he said. "That's what you need more than anything because you can make a really bad movie out of a good script, but you just cannot make a good movie out of a bad script, period."

Clooney has adamantly denied speculation that "Syriana" is an attack on the current U.S. political administration. He said the film was meant to bring larger issues than the presidency to light. "This is going after 50 or 60 years of flawed policy in the Middle East," he said. "This isn't something that happened in the past 4 1/2 years."

"We certainly weren't making this as a 'go get Bush' thing. It was much more of a let's talk about some real problems, some fundamental problems with our addiction to oil," he said.

'One way ticket' a solid album from the Darkness

By Mark Sibilla
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

I get no love for loving The Darkness. For me to admit that I enjoy this British band's fractured take on classic rock is to make a pact with the devil. I must face the barrage of disdain from all factions of the music-listening populace.

The indie-rockers turn up their noses because I am breaking the holiest of commandments: Thou shall not fraternize with frat-rock. My response is, "Hey, at least they're not listening to Weezer."

Classic rock purists balk at The Darkness because they think the band is making a joke of the classic riff-makers they hold so dear. To that I say, "Nothing could be further from the truth; The Darkness has a love affair with classic rock — they are paying homage, not parodying the genre."

I also have to add that classic rock itself is a self-lampoon-

ing genre. KISS's reputation has more to do with image than music. When Led Zeppelin wasn't writing songs about sex, drugs and rock 'n' roll, they were penning 10-minute epics about "The Lord of the Rings." And in the case of Van Halen, I have three words: David, Lee, Roth.

I would argue what makes The Darkness (and classic rock) so compelling is, when it comes down to it, these bands are willing to rock out with their [expletive deleted] out. That ability is what made The Darkness' debut, "Permission to Land," rock so thoroughly, and it makes their sophomore effort equally great.

"One Way Ticket to Hell ... And Back" is more of a 'grower.' It lacks any songs as immediate as "I Believe in a Thing Called Love," but there are moments that prove The "One way ticket to hell and back"

★★★★☆

Darkness is the smartest dumb band around.

Roy Thomas

Baker, producer of the first four albums by Queen, helms the production duties. This is a very appropriate move, as Queen is the band The Darkness most resembles. It is apparent that The Darkness has big ambitions with Baker behind the boards.

The album opens with Gregorian chanting and a pan flute fanfare. Suddenly we hear lines of coke being cut and snorted before Justin Hawkins enters with a guitar lick and his multi-octave falsetto. During recording sessions for this album, Hawkins dealt with addiction to cocaine. "One Way Ticket" details, with humor and a smashing sitar solo, his road to recovery.

Hawkins' ability for clever lyrics and double entendres is in full swing on "Is It Just Me (Or Am I All on My Own Again)?" I'll give you a few minutes to ruminate on how witty the line actually is (don't worry; it took me a couple of listens to get it too). The guitar riff isn't too shoddy either.

The Celtic stomp of "Hazel Eyes" is both exhilarating and hilarious, and "English Country Garden" is perhaps the best song on the album. Detailing a romp in (where else but) an English garden, it is full of hair-raising moments both musically and lyrically.

One of my favorites is, "Frolicking in the autumn fields were we/I cherished you and you tolerated me."

Songs like these make The Darkness a band worth rooting for, but there are times when the album just doesn't take flight (a problem that was absent on "Permission to Land").

A track like "Knockers" should be a sure-winner from The Darkness, but a weak chorus and no mention of said body parts make the song rather, well, flat.

While there are times when the album does flag, there are enough moments that bolster the album to make it a worthwhile listen.

Ultimately, a solid album like "One Way Ticket to Hell ... And Back" causes me not to care if I get shunned by my peers for loving The Darkness.

Screw 'em — more room for me to practice my stage-diving, air-guitar antics.

THIS DAY
IN HISTORY

1787 — Delaware ratifies the Constitution

On this day in 1787, Delaware becomes the first state to ratify the Constitution, doing so by a unanimous vote.

1805 — Lewis and Clark temporarily settle in Fort Clatsop

Having spied the Pacific Ocean for the first time a few weeks earlier, Meriwether Lewis and William Clark cross to the south shore of the Columbia River (near modern-day Portland) and begin building the small fort that would be their winter home.

1862 — Battle of Prairie Grove, Arkansas

Northwestern Arkansas and Southwestern Missouri are secured for the Union when troops commanded by General James G. Blunt holds off a group of Confederates under General Thomas Hindman.

1873 — Willa Cather is born

On this day in 1873, author Willa Cather is born in Winchester, Va., Cather was the first of seven children born to an old Virginia family. Her maternal grandfather served several terms in the Virginia House of Delegates. Her grandmother was a strong, courageous woman who had a powerful influence on Cather and served as the model for several of her characters.

1916 — David Lloyd George becomes prime minister of Britain

In London, the embattled prime minister of Britain, Herbert Asquith, is replaced by David Lloyd George.

1925 — Johnny Weissmuller sets world record

Future "Tarzan" actor Johnny Weissmuller sets the world record for the 150-yard freestyle swim. Already a gold medalist at the 1924 Olympics, Weissmuller competed again in 1928, taking five gold medals in all. In 1931, MGM cast Weissmuller to play the title role in "Tarzan the Ape Man" (1932). He continued playing Tarzan in films through the late 1940s. The film series moved to television in 1966. Though Weissmuller didn't star in the TV shows, he did contribute the famous Tarzan yell that was used on the program.

1931 — Ford Model A Discontinued

The last Ford Model A is produced on this day. Afterward, the Ford motor works were shut down for six months for retooling. On April 1, 1932, Ford introduced its new offering: the high-performance Ford V-8, the first Ford with an 8-cylinder engine.

1941 — Pearl Harbor Bombed

At 7:55 a.m. Hawaii time, a Japanese dive-bomber bearing the red symbol of the Rising Sun of Japan on its wings appears out of the clouds above the island of Oahu, Hawaii. A swarm of 360 Japanese warplanes followed, descending on the U.S. naval base at Pearl Harbor in a ferocious assault. The surprise attack struck a critical blow against the U.S. Pacific fleet and drew the United States irrevocably into World War II.

1941 — Movie business down 50 percent due to Pearl Harbor

Japanese planes launch a surprise attack on Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, propelling the United States into World War II. Movie attendance dropped dramatically on Dec. 7, with revenues dipping 50 percent at some theaters that day.

1964 — Situation deteriorates in South Vietnam

The situation worsens in South Vietnam, as the Viet Cong attack and capture the district headquarters at An Lao and much of the surrounding valley 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

1965 — A Fleet Of Chevys

Chevrolet produced its three millionth car for the year. It was the first time Chevrolet had produced an annual total surpassing three million vehicles.

1987 — Mikhail Gorbachev arrives in United States for summit with Ronald Reagan

Despite protests in Washington D.C. concerning Soviet human rights abuses, most Americans get swept up in "Gorbymania" as Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev arrives for his summit with President Ronald Reagan. Gorbachev and his wife, Raisa, charmed the American public and media by praising the United States and calling for closer relations between the Soviet Union and America.

Source: The History Channel

City adopts community reading program for 2006

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

For those who are not the most eager readers,

Mayor Ed Klimek approved a reading program in a city commission meeting Tuesday night, aiming to make fanatics out of those who don't enjoy the leisure.

The program, titled "One Book, One Community 2006," will launch in January through with several community-wide reading program.

"Reading is a cornerstone of education for people of all ages," said Klimek. "Democracy needs an informed citizenry and reading is critical to this purpose."

The first book chosen for the reading program was 'Plainsong' by Kent Haruf, said Allie Lousch, Manhattan Library Association Board Member.

According to Random House, Inc., Haruf's honors include a Whiting Foundation Award and a special citation from the PEN/Hemingway Foundation.

And his most recent novel, 'Plainsong,' has received the Mountains & Plains Booksellers Award and was a finalist for the National Book Award, the Los Angeles Times Book Prize and the New Yorker Book Award.

In February, Lousch said Haruf is scheduled to visit elementary schools, Manhattan High School and possibly K-State.

"Such a program can bring people of diverse backgrounds and viewpoints together, through the shared experience of reading, discussing and exploring the same book," Klimek said. "It's a great idea, bringing such a great author to Manhattan."

Community reading programs have experienced great success throughout the country, Lousch said.

"(Members have) set meetings and agendas and did lots of research and took this whole thing all the way through," Lousch said. "It will bring a lot of benefits toward us in the long run."

Why Read?

■ Children who start reading early do better
Research shows that the more children know about language and literacy before they start school, the better prepared they are to be good readers in school and throughout life.

■ One-third of ninth-graders have major reading problems

An estimated one-third of students enter ninth grade with reading skills that are two or more years below grade level. That means big problems ahead for those who don't get the help they need.

■ As a mother's education increases, so does the likelihood that her child is read to every day
1999, 70 percent of children whose mothers were college graduates were read aloud to every day. In comparison, daily reading aloud occurred for 53 percent of children whose mothers had some postsecondary education, 44 percent whose mothers had completed high school but had no education beyond that, and 38 percent whose mothers had not completed high school.

■ More families read aloud to their children every day
In 1999, 53 percent of children ages 3 to 5 were read to daily by a family member - the same as in 1993, after increasing to 57 percent in 1996.

Source: Johns Hopkins University, National Research Council and Reading is Fundamental, Inc.

Smith wins annual Black & Gold pageant

Kiana Smith, sophomore in pre-professional secondary education, smiles after being crowned Miss Black and Gold 2005. Smith will represent Kansas in the regional Black and Gold pageant in Detroit next April.

Courtesy Photo

By Abby Brownback
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A new Miss Black and Gold was crowned Saturday.

Kiana Smith, sophomore in pre-professional secondary education, was named Miss Black and Gold 2005 in Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity's seventh annual pageant.

"I was elated," Smith said. "I was very pleased with myself because I had dedicated myself to this pageant. This was the cherry on top of the icing on the cake."

Pageant coordinator Brandon Clark, multicultural coordinator, said the pageant recognizes the beauty, talents and accomplishments of African-American women.

Smith, who beat out nine other women to win the title in her first pageant, will go on to represent Kansas in a regional Black and Gold competition in April in Detroit.

The 10 pageant contestants competed in five categories: careerwear, talent, swimwear, eveningwear and a question-and-answer session.

Smith's talent was poetry interpretation of a collection of 1960s and 1970s poems that focus on the civil rights struggle of African-Americans.

"I say the words with feeling," she said. "I try to convey the emotions that I feel."

Smith said the swimwear portion made her nervous.

"It comforted me to know that I wasn't the only one with insecurities," she said. "When you're up on stage, people only know what you let them know. If you let them know you're nervous, you're exposing a lot more of yourself."

Twelve titles were given to the participants, including Miss Career, Miss Talent, Miss Sisterhood and Miss Elegance. The second runner-up, Devin Bailey, was named Miss Black, while the first runner-up, Corazon Ochanda, received the Miss Gold title.

As prizes, Smith won a $300 scholarship for books for next semester. Ochanda and Bailey received $200 and $100 book scholarships, respectively.

The pageant contestants spent about three months preparing for the competition, including learning a runway walk and attending workshops on public speaking. Practices were two or three times per week, until the week prior to the pageant, when contestants practiced for about four hours every night, Smith said.

"It was a lot of bonding because we were together so much," she said.

City to vote on rezoning of Grand Mere Village

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Manhattan City Commission conducted a first reading of an ordinance Tuesday night that will permit rezoning of the Grand Mere Village development from residential to a mixed-use development.

The commission approved the ordinance and it will go back to them for final approval next week.

Grand Mere redevelopment has transformed more than 1,000 acres of land, once used for cattle grazing, to an upscale residential community.

According to plan specification's, the change would accommodate for additional businesses, hotels, hospitals, shops and a park within its current location near Kimball Avenue and Vanesta Drive. Possible fire stations, gas stations and other facilities are also in the works for the area.

"This is rezoning necessary for the improvement of an area this significant," said Eric Cattel, Grand Mere assistant director for planning.

Officials said this plan is a part of the city's comprehensive plan and Grand Mere's master plan.

Cattel was among other applicants discussing the benefits of rezoning the Grand Mere Development, Inc. neighborhoods.

Additional representatives from Grand Mere Village also helped summarize the group's approximate 100-page application.

"This Grand Mere Village development will allow an extremely good opportunity to connect Grand Mere Parkway and north Little Kitten Creek and its sidewalk system, extending trails and connecting these areas in the city," said Jerry Petty, an applicant representing Grand Mere Development. "There will be continuity south of Grand Mere and all the way to Memorial Park."

Though nobody spoke in opposition of the group's proposal, some city officials spoke highly of the plan, considering the years residents have worked on it.

"I appreciate the design showing the neighborhood and architectural character of the particular area," City Commissioner Tom Phillips said.

While Manhattan Mayor Ed Klimek is not officially working closely with the plans, he said that with his prior experience on the issue, he appreciates the progress.

"We did a lot of tweaking, taking this back to the table," Klimek said. "Glad to see it. It looks like it's moving forward."

Bake Sale
Every Wednesday
Variety of cookies & breads
Shellenberger bottom floor 3-5 p.m.
For questions or orders call 532-4065
Visit www.oznet.ksu.edu/bakeclub
e-mail: bakeryclub@hotmail.com

DEFY the COLD

Warm gloves, hats, headbands and socks
Wide variety of coats
Vests, sweaters, fleece jackets
Long underwear

the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS

304 Poyntz, Downtown Manhattan 539-5639

Check Out
sudoku
in the
Classifieds

Manhattan Shoe Repair

House Slippers
List Price $39.99 List Price $29.99
Now $29.99 Now $22.99

Womens House Shoes
Tan Suede/Pink Suede
List Price $29.99
Now $22.49

216 S. 4th St. • VFW Plaza Plaza • 776-1193

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH!

at the
K-State Student Union Bookstore Textbook Department

Buy Back Hours:
Mon, Dec 12th - Thurs, Dec 15th:
8:00 am - 8:00 pm
Fri, Dec 16th: 8:00 am - 6:00 pm
Please Bring a Current Photo ID To Sell Your Books

GTM Sportswear is looking for a full-time product specialist with degree in Apparel Design/Product Development.

- December graduates are welcome.
- Responsibilities include technical development of sports apparel including design, fit, and construction aspects of a garment. Applicant must be willing to travel 5-6 times per year within the U.S. and possibly 2-3 times overseas.
- Starting wage is negotiable depending upon experience and qualifications. We offer paid time off, health & dental benefits, profit sharing and 401K.
- Stop by 520 McCall Road Manhattan KS and fill out an application, or e-mail klindsay@gtm.com

GTM SPORTSWEAR

Happy Holidays!

FINE LINE INC.
PERMANENT COSMETICS AND BODY PIERCING

GIVE A GIFT THAT THEY WILL REMEMBER FOR A LIFETIME!

Gift Certificates Available.

- Brilliant Colors! • Personal Service! • 35 Years Experience
- Single Use needles! • Autoclave Sterilizations!

finelinetattooinc.com

TOPEKA 785-233-8288 Mon. - Sat. 12pm - 8pm 1915 SW Gage Blvd.
JUNCTION CITY 785-238-8238 Thurs. - Sat. 12pm - 8pm 1028 W. 6th
MANHATTAN 785-537-0964 Tues. - Sat. 12pm - 8pm 622 N. Manhattan

Southern Sun
Great Gift Ideas

Holiday Special

$25
1 month unlimited tanning

- Gift Certificates
- 30% OFF All Lotions
- Discounts on all packages

3230 Kimball Ave. (next to Bobby T's) 776-8060
Expires 1/1/06

Greeks decorate for holidays

By Matthew Peterworth
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Various greek houses are showing Christmas spirit by displaying a small bit of shimmer.

The Alpha Tau Omega members collected two or three dollars from each person and 20 to 30 people spent two afternoons putting up decorations, said Scott Dikeman, junior in marketing and member of ATO.

He said the idea for their decorations was to "try to out do Clark Griswold from National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation."

Zach Hauser, senior in political science and member of Delta Chi, said the D-Chis also got their inspiration from the movie. They spent about $400 on decorations and are still in the process of putting them up, he said.

"It takes quite a long time," he said, "maybe 10 or 15 hours so far eight or nine people putting up the decorations."

There is no official competition between greek houses for who has the best decorations, Hauser said. However, he said he does compare their house to others.

"If you see one house with lights on, maybe we'll make ours a little more spectacular,"

he said.

Janelle Heideman of Alpha Delta Pi said the women add to their lights each year.

"We have a collection from throughout the years," Heideman, junior in environmental design, said. "We spent maybe a little extra this year."

ADPi made their decorating a household event.

"We had an all-house party that lasted two hours," Heideman said. "We had tea and cider and Christmas movies playing and we put all of the decorations up. Our decorations are pretty traditional. They're about the same every year."

Alpha Tau Omega

Manhattan wrestling coach honored

By Jonas Hogg
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

C. Lee Woodford might not be getting a stadium renamed in his honor for his retirement, but as of today he will be a part of Manhattan history.

Tuesday night at the Manhattan City Commission meeting, Mayor Ed Klimek declared Dec. 13 as C. Lee Woodford day.

The announcement comes to honor Woodford's induction into the National Wrestling Hall of Fame on Nov. 6.

Woodford coached wrestling for 31 years, according to the proclamation issued by the mayor.

He spent seven years at Goddard (Kan.) High School and then five at Chase (Kan.) High School before coming to Manhattan High School in 1986.

Since then, MHS has won

14 I-70 League Championships and has finished as the runner-up an additional four times.

In addition to the I-70 League Championships, Woodford led the MHS Indians to nine 6A regional championships, one 6A state championship in 2004 and a championship in the Centennial League in 2005, MHS' first year in the league.

Woodford has coached five All-Americans; been named the 6A coach of the year in 1996 and 2001; the National Wrestling Coaches Association, Kansas Coach of the Year; the 2002 Kansas Wrestling Officials Association Sportsman-ship Coach of the Year; and now, is awarded his very own day.

All this is in addition to his duties of a full-time government and history teacher.

Tuesday night at the commission meeting Woodford was all smiles as he spoke after the proclamation was read.

"It's certainly a wonderful feeling," Woodford said.

The MHS Indians' new coach, Robert Gonzalez was also present at the event.

Gonzalez is beginning his first year as the varsity wrestling coach, and opened the wrestling season Saturday, Dec. 3.

"It is an honor to follow in his footsteps," Gonzalez said. "I cannot say enough wonderful things about him, he truly is a hall of famer."

"Lee Wood represents what the national wrestling hall of fame was looking for," Gonzalez said. "He has the highest integrity the highest values, he works for young people, he is tireless in his effort to make sure that young people get the best education. He's taught every young man that came through there."

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Optimist Club member Tom Holder carries out a Fraser Fir tree for the Fritz family Tuesday evening at Longs Park near Fort Riley Blvd.

Tree prices rise before holidays

By Kristen Roderick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

When Jeremy Voth was younger, his parents started a Christmas tradition for him.

When he was about three or four years old, his parents took him to chop down a Christmas tree.

"Every since then, it's been a tradition," the junior in construction science management said. "They figured I'd outgrow it."

He didn't. This year, Voth and his roommate Kelly Huerter, junior in marketing, found their own tree near Manhattan.

"For me, most of Christmas is to actually go out and cut the tree down," Voth said.

For some, this could save a little extra cash. Voth and Huerter split the cost of the $20 tree.

Most locally grown trees have the same price as last year, but those trucked in are more expensive.

With current gas prices higher than $2 a gallon around the country, truck drivers are having to pay more, which means consumers pay more.

Melissa Deetjen, assistant manager of the garden store at Blueville Nursery, 4539 Anderson Ave., said higher gas prices have effected the nursery's prices.

"We had to include higher freight charges," Deetjen said. "However, we're selling as many as last year."

Trees at the nursery range from $17 to $60, depending on the size and brand of tree.

Even so, Deetjen said people should purchase a real tree.

"They certainly smell better and they're natural," she said.

Brad Ames, sophomore in mechanical engineering, said he doesn't have a Christmas tree at K-State, but he likes the smell of the real trees.

Even so, his parents have purchased a fake Christmas tree, and he wants a fake tree when he gets his own.

"The real ones are all sticky," he said.

Ames said money wasn't an issue for the Christmas tree. His parents spent about $150 for a 6 foot tree with built-in lights.

"It was just hard to find the right one and the right size," he said. "It took a lot of time."

Got a NewsTip or Story Idea?

Call 532-6556 or e-mail: collegian@spub.ksu.edu

Ad It Up!

Talk with one of our advertising sales representatives by calling...

532-6560

Optometrists

Dr. Mark Bettencourt & Dr. Russell Hart

539-2020

$20 off Next Contact Lens Exam

930 Hayes Drive Suite D Across from Wal-Mart Tire Center

Highland Community College Wamego Center

Accessible

Only 14 miles east of Manhattan on Highway 24.

The HCC Wamego Center is in the Wamego Industrial Park on the east side of Wamego.

Affordable

Tuition & Fees (TEXTBOOK RENTAL INCLUDED)

Kansas Resident - $84

Class Size

Average of 20 students per class.

2 chemistry labs and 4 biology labs

To View Course Listings Go To:

1. www.highlandcc.edu
2. Prospective Students
3. Course Section Finder
4. Choose Wamego in drop-down, select year/term and
5. Press Search

Highland Community College Wamego Center

500 Miller Drive • Wamego, KS • 785-456-6006 • www.highlandcc.edu

LIVE TONIGHT @ 9 POMEROY

18 & Up To Enter

Now Available! HOT ONES!

Served on Multi-Grain Bread...Goodecents Gold

Get 'Em While They're Hot!

Get Em' While They're Hot!

Subs & Pastas

We Deliver! 539-1900 1317 Anderson

- Limited Time Offer - Buy any regular price 1/2 Sub Sandwich and get the second 1/2 Sub Sandwich for only

99¢

Subs & Pastas

Valid on subs of equal or lesser value. Offer Valid at Participating Topoka, Manhattan, and Salina Mr. Goodcents locations. Not valid in conjunction with any other offers. Offer expires 12-31-05.

Supreme Court could rule against colleges

By Roxana Hegeman
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court appeared ready Tuesday to rule against colleges that want to limit military recruiting on campus to protest the Pentagon's policy on gays.

New Chief Justice John Roberts and other court members signaled support for a law that says schools that accept federal money also have to accommodate military recruiters. The justices seemed concerned about hindering a Defense Department need to fill its ranks when the nation is at war.

"There's the right in the Constitution to raise a military," Roberts said.

Law school campuses have become the latest battleground over the "don't ask, don't tell" policy allowing gay men and women to serve in the military only if they keep their sexual orientation to themselves.

A group of law schools and professors had sued the Pentagon, claiming their free-speech rights are being violated because they are forced to associate with military recruiters or promote their campus appearances. Many law schools forbid the participation of recruiters from public agencies and private companies that have discriminatory policies.

E. Joshua Rosenkranz, the lawyer for the schools, told justices: "There are two messages going on here and they are clashing. There is the military's message, which the schools are interpreting as 'Uncle Sam does not want you,' and there is the school's message which is 'we do not abet those who discriminate. That is immoral.'"

Justice Anthony M. Kennedy said: "Your argument would allow schools to exclude anybody in a uniform from a cafeteria."

Justice Stephen Breyer said that many people disagree with government policies, but they are not allowed to get out of paying taxes or following laws because of that.

Outside court, about a half-dozen supporters of the law from Topeka waved signs and yelled at reporters and passers-by in front of the court before the argument.

Dan Noble, 26, a gay Yale Law School student who camped out overnight to get a courtroom seat, said, "You feel discriminated against when some recruiters will interview your fellow students but won't interview you."

In an unusual move, immediately after the argument the Supreme Court released an audiotape to news organizations because of high interest in the case. Cameras are not allowed in court and recordings normally are not released until the end of the term.

A federal law, known as the Solomon Amendment after its first congressional sponsor, mandates that universities, including their law and medical schools and other branches, give the military the same access as other recruiters or forfeit federal money.

Federal financial support of colleges tops $35 billion a year, and many college leaders say they could not forgo that money.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, who probably won't get to vote in the case, said colleges can post disclaimers on campus noting their objections to the military policy.

Rosenkranz said that when schools help military recruiters, like sending out recruiting e-mails on their behalf, then students think the schools endorse their messages — even with disclaimers.

Roberts fired back, "The reason they don't believe you is because you're willing to take the money. What you're saying is, 'This is a message we believe in strongly, but we don't believe in it to the detriment of $100 million.'"

Dozens of groups filed briefs on both sides of the case, the first gay-rights related appeal since a contentious 2003 Supreme Court ruling that struck down laws criminalizing gay sex.

The argument itself was lopsided, although a few justices seemed sympathetic to the opponents' basic argument.

Justice David H. Souter told the Bush administration lawyer, Paul Clement, "You are forcing them, in effect, to underwrite your speech ... you're forcing them into hypocrisy."

Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, a former women's rights attorney, told Clement, "The pitch that's being made is an equality pitch, that we are teaching our students equality, the equal stature of all people."

Religious misconduct

Woman accuses priest of sexual abuse, demands removal

By Roxana Hegeman
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WICHITA — A woman who says a Wichita priest sexually abused her demanded Tuesday that the diocese remove him from his parish.

At a news conference outside the Wichita Catholic Diocese headquarters, Peggy Warren told reporters she believed the Catholic Church should not have put the priest back in the ministry after she accused him of sexually assaulting her twice in 2004.

After he was made a pastor in August at a Kansas parish, members of the activist group Survivors Network of those Abused by Priests decided to speak out at news conferences in Wichita and St. Louis.

SNAP also delivered a letter to

"I would not knowingly allow at priest to continue in ministry if he were to pose a risk to anyone."

Michael Jackels
BISHOP

the diocese accusing the church of adding to the family's pain and urging church officials to remove the priest from his ministry.

The group also released redacted copies of an agreement reached in June between Warren and church officials, as well as a copy of a protection from abuse order she obtained against the priest.

"I believed my beloved Catholic Church would do the right thing," Warren said. "But unfortunately it did not and that is what has brought me to this point of speaking out."

The Associated Press has a policy of not identifying alleged victims of sexual abuse, unless they are adults who publicly identify themselves, as in this case.

The AP is not naming the accused priest, who has not been charged with any crime.

"This was not a case of clergy sexual abuse; rather, it was a relationship between priest and an adult woman which was both inappropriate and sinful, but nevertheless consensual," said Bishop Michael Jackels.

Jackels told reporters he would welcome an outside investigation of the complaint and said he believed he acted responsibly in allowing the priest to return to active ministry.

"I would not knowingly allow a priest to continue in ministry if he were to pose a risk to anyone," he said.

The Catholic Church paid Warren $15,750 as an act of "Christian charity" to help her and her family pay for counseling and other costs, Jackels said. Nothing in the settlement agreement acknowledges any liability or responsibility by the diocese.

"The idea was to help them close a door," he said. "It doesn't sound like it was effective."

Iranian plane hits apartment building in Tehran suburbs, killing at least 115

By Ali Akbar Dareini
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TEHRAN, Iran — A military plane loaded with Iranian journalists crashed into a 10-story apartment building Tuesday as the pilot attempted an emergency landing after developing engine trouble. At least 115 people died, the Tehran police chief said.

The C-130, a four-engine turboprop, crashed in the Azari suburb of Tehran, site of the Towhid apartment complex that is home to air force personnel and near Tehran's Mehrabad airport.

Before firefighters extinguished the blaze, flames roared from the roof and windows in several of the upper floors. Panicked residents fled the building. Police held back a crowd of thousands, many of them screaming and weeping that they had to find friends or loved ones who were in the building.

Scuffles broke out and police beat back onlookers and those trying to reach the building to keep the way open for emergency vehicles.

Several hours after the crash, the building still was smoldering, with black smoke hanging in the air.

"It was like an earthquake," said Reza Sadeqi, a 25-year-old merchant who saw the plane hit the building. He said he was thrown about nine feet inside his shop by the force of the crash.

"I felt the heat of the fire caused by the crash. It was like being in hell," he said.

Witnesses initially said the plane hit the top of the building. But officials, including Police Chief Mortaza Talei, said one wing of the transport plane hit the second floor as the fuselage crashed to ground, gouging out a huge crater and causing a fire that spread through the structure.

Everyone on the plane — 84 passengers and a crew of 10 — was killed. Most were Iranian radio and television journalists heading to cover military maneuvers in southern Iran.

Twenty-one people in the apartment building also died and 90 were injured, Tehran state radio said. Only nine of the injured were hospitalized late Tuesday, Talei said on Iranian television.

President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, who was visiting Saudi Arabia, sent condolences.

"Rescue teams are required to employ their maximum capability to save and help the survivors," state-run television quoted Ahmadinejad as saying. He asked one of his deputies to take charge and ensure survivors receive the help they need.

The plane, which belonged to the army air force, had just taken off for Bandar Abbas in southern Iran when it developed engine trouble. As it headed back to Mehrabad Airport, the pilot was unable to maintain sufficient altitude and hit the apartment complex, state-run television said.

The report discounted sabotage or terrorism. Aviation officials were not available for comment.

Witness Iraj Moradin told The Associated Press the plane appeared to be circling the airport when its tail suddenly burst into flames, leaving a smoke trail as it plummeted. He said he fled when he thought the plane was going to crash into a gas station, but turned in time to see it hit the building.

We've got the stories you've got to read.

The Royal Purple yearbook is available in Kedzie 103. Stop by or call 532-6555.

EARN MONEY TAKING PHOTOS

Student Publications

is looking for qualified photographers

to take photos for the

Royal Purple Yearbook

and the Collegian.

Applications available in Kedzie 103

All I want for Christmas

is a K-State Connection

CAMERA PHONE

2000 Around Town Minutes

350 Anytime Minutes

$37.95 per month

Unlimited Nights & Weekends

Free US long distance

5 month agreement

Free Motorola V266

Some restrictions apply. See your sales representative for further details.

109 East Stadium
Manhattan, KS 66506
785-532-7001
www.telecom.ksu.edu

K-STATE
connection
YOUR WIRELESS SOLUTION

POST-GRADUATION PLANS IN PLACE?
FULL-TIME JOB INTERNSHIP GRAD SCHOOL SEARCHING
LET US KNOW AT WWW.KSU.EDU/CES

NEED HELP WITH YOUR JOB SEARCH?

CONTACT CAREER & EMPLOYMENT SERVICES • HOLTZ HALL • 532-6506 • CES@KSU.EDU

CONTAINS ONLY GENUINE PLANTS AND ANIMALS.

Chipotle

IN ASHVEILLE

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Wednesday, Dec. 7, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGE

Page 11

LET'S RENT

140
For Rent
Apt.
Unfurnished

DUPLEX, CLOSE to campus. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st. (785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM duplex close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM apartment. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT Close to campus. Water/ trash/ gas paid. No pets, no smoking. Off-street parking. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-$490, three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810, (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM AT 1209 Claffin Road. One block from campus. $600/ month. January 1st lease. Washer/ dryer. Off-street parking. (785)341-6972.

TWO-BEDROOM ONE bath side-by-side duplex. Living room/ dining room, fireplace, washer/ dryer hookups, unfinished basement, garage. $700. (785)537-0982.

120
For Rent
Houses

LOOK BRAND New House 722 Osage. Four bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

RENT NEGOTIABLE: Three-bedroom, two bath, one-half duplex. Immaculate and spacious. All appliances included. Walk to Aggieville. (785)565-2432.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED for two-bedroom apartment. $245/ month. Available early- mid December. Water, trash, and cable paid. Call (316)268-6346.

Roommates needed for two-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

150
Sublease

MALE, TWO-BEDROOM apartment, fully furnished, cable included, good location by football field. Dustin (620)338-7574.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM two bathroom apartment. one and one-half blocks from campus, one block from Aggieville. Washer/ dryer. All new appliances, off-street parking. Ground level. $400 per person plus cheap utilities. January through July 31 sublease. Call (785)317-5326 or (316)640-1885.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female, pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. Four-bedroom house, $275/ month, negotiable. Call (785)313-0440.

SUBLEASER WANTED: nice large room available January 1. $300/ month. First two rent payments free. (785)871-1626.

ROOMMATES NEEDED: two-bedroom apartment available January. Pets welcome. $290/ month plus electric and cable. (785)633-7133.

ROOMMATES WANTED: two female, $250 month all paid. Nice, quiet four-bedroom (West of Stadium). (620)382-6910 or (620)382-6405.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. January to May $240/ month. Includes utilities. Caged animals allowed. Very short walk to campus. Call (913)638-3732.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Two-bedroom apartment. January to June lease. $235 a month. Contact LeAnne (316)734-0846 or Erin (785)737-3144.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for four-bedroom, two bath. Water/ trash paid. $253/ month. Subleasing starting now. (785)383-9885.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Close to campus/ Aggieville. $275/ month plus half utilities. Available January. Call (785)282-5364.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. January- May. Clean, quiet six-bedrooms, three bathroom house, one block from campus. Washer/ dryer. $275/ month plus discount before December 13. Lane (913)481-4664.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for January- July. Walking distance to campus, first months rent paid. Rent negotiable. Call (785)332-6011.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath, one-half utilities. Available mid-December. Rent negotiable. Call Tawny (316)706-7767.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. One bedroom in four-bedroom house. Two bath. Very clean. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. $285/ month. Walk to Aggieville. Call Susanne (620)366-0558.

FEMALES ONLY NEEDED for one room in a four-bedroom, two bath, close to campus. Washer/ dryer. Lease from January to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath new duplex. Washer/ Dryer. Close to campus. $287/ month/ person. Available January 1. (816)898-9034.

MALE SUBLEASE January-May. $250/ month, nice house close to campus. Call (785)302-0098.

MALE SUBLEASE wanted. One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $200/ month or best offer plus utilities. Available after finals. (913)636-6686.

MALE SUBLEASER needed immediately. 1026 Ralene, two blocks from campus. Share house with three males. Sublease January-May. (620)200-0977.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887. call for details.

ONE OR TWO rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished. January 1, at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location. One block to campus. January Sublease. $365/ month. Call (785)554-4424.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline. (785)564-1284.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ONE ROOMMATE needed for four-bedroom house. 1811 Elaine Drive. Close to campus. Starting January. (316)209-1084.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. 1718 Pierre Street. $312.50 plus utilities- lease term negotiable. Call (316)209-4888.

ROOMMATE NEEDED! Nice apartment, great location, fun roommates. Call Michelle at (785)456-5040 for more information.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities. Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED. (785)539-0500.

ROOMMATE WANTED: four-bedroom house. One block from campus. $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

ROOMMATES NEEDED four-bedroom, one bath house. Furnished. No smoking or pets. Washer/ dryer. Hot tub. Six month lease. 2454 Himes. (913)206-2777.

ROOMMATES NEEDED: Two-bedroom apartment available January. Pets welcome. $290/ month plus electric and cable. (785)633-7133.

ROOMMATES WANTED: two female, $250 month all paid. Nice, quiet four-bedroom (West of Stadium). (620)382-6910 or (620)382-6405.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. January to May $240/ month. Includes utilities. Caged animals allowed. Very short walk to campus. Call (913)638-3732.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Two-bedroom apartment. January to June lease. $235 a month. Contact LeAnne (316)734-0846 or Erin (785)737-3144.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed for four-bedroom, two bath. Water/ trash paid. $253/ month. Subleasing starting now. (785)383-9885.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Close to campus/ Aggieville. $275/ month plus half utilities. Available January. Call (785)282-5364.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. January- May. Clean, quiet six-bedrooms, three bathroom house, one block from campus. Washer/ dryer. $275/ month plus discount before December 13. Lane (913)481-4664.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for January- July. Walking distance to campus, first months rent paid. Rent negotiable. Call (785)332-6011.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Two-bedroom, one and one-half bath, one-half utilities. Available mid-December. Rent negotiable. Call Tawny (316)706-7767.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. One bedroom in four-bedroom house. Two bath. Very clean. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. $285/ month. Walk to Aggieville. Call Susanne (620)366-0558.

FEMALES ONLY NEEDED for one room in a four-bedroom, two bath, close to campus. Washer/ dryer. Lease from January to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath new duplex. Washer/ Dryer. Close to campus. $287/ month/ person. Available January 1. (816)898-9034.

MALE SUBLEASE January-May. $250/ month, nice house close to campus. Call (785)302-0098.

MALE SUBLEASE wanted. One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $200/ month or best offer plus utilities. Available after finals. (913)636-6686.

MALE SUBLEASER needed immediately. 1026 Ralene, two blocks from campus. Share house with three males. Sublease January-May. (620)200-0977.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887. call for details.

ONE OR TWO rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished. January 1, at University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location. One block to campus. January Sublease. $365/ month. Call (785)554-4424.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM, ONE bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline. (785)564-1284.

150
Sublease

ONE-BEDROOM, FURNISHED/ unfurnished. One bathroom. For Spring semester. Water/ trash paid. $400/ month. 1858 Claffin. Call Andres. (785)341-7892.

RENT NEGOTIABLE. Female sublease wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

SUBLEASE BEGINS January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/ trash/ water/ laundry/ call (785)341-7336 or (316)655-7494.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Vattier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Available December or January. One or two rooms in a four-bedroom. Call (785)317-4301.

SUBLEASER NEEDED. First month free. As soon as possible. $375/ month, new furnace, carpet. Studio. (785)410-4783.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12-May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

SUBLEASER TO fill one-bedroom in nice three-bedroom house. Five blocks from campus. Call Heather at (620)437-6611.

SUBLEASER WANTED. available now through May 31. Two blocks from campus. Rent $250 plus utilities. December rent paid. Laundry, water and trash paid. Call Kelly (852)200-6842.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED! Two-bedroom apartment with washer and dryer. One block from campus! Water and trash paid. Cheap rent for location! Call (316)288-9629.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED, three-bedroom, two bathroom apartment. Washer/ dryer. Very nice, two years old. Can rent together or individually. (785)317-3036, (785)313-5093.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for one- two bedrooms for spring and/or summer. Close to campus with washer/ dryer. Rent negotiable! (316)706-7272.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Water/ gas/ trash paid. $275/ month each. Call (785)564-2948.

PROGRAMMER, CIVIC-PLUS is the nations leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

UNION STATE bank is looking for a self-motivated, multi-tasking individual with excellent computer skills, customer service and problem solving abilities in banking operations. Excellent career opportunity with good benefits and work environment. Send resume to: USBank@Kansas.net or P.O. Box 518 Clay Center, KS 67432.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Tenner, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

BOWINKLES: NOW hiring for wait staff and bartenders. Come to 3043 Anderson to apply.

FUN, SEASONAL, help wanted. Floral design part-time, experience necessary. Apply at Manhattan Floral next to Target.

310
Help Wanted

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

KSU STUDENT: Learn a valuable trade (plumbing, electrical, carpentry, building operations). Housing and Dining Services is accepting applications for employment as a part-time Student Service Technician. Work begins 1/12/05. Will train- no experience necessary, these positions offer a part-time, flexible work schedule with some nights and weekends; and optional full-time work during the summer. Starts $6.75 per hour with scheduled raises and an option for an on-campus apartment with reduced rent. Apply to the L.W. Davenport Building, 1548 Denson Avenue by 12/07/05. Affirmative Action/ Equal Opportunity Employer.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors: needed for the 2005- 2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half- two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME AFTER School Program Coordinator position in a large established Child Care Center. Coursework in education required. Experience in child-care education preferred. Candidates must be committed to quality after-school programming and motivated to develop partnership with other community agencies. Starting wage is $7.90 and up. Please send letter of application, copy of diploma/ transcripts, and resume with three references to: Program Development Coordinator, K-State Child Development Center, 1948 Jardine Drive, L-9, Manhattan, KS, 66502. Closing date is December 12. Position begins December 16 or sooner if possible. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME HELP wanted, laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant. 5107 Murray Rd., (785)776-5081.

MANHATTAN CITY ORDINANCE 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Tenner, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

BOWINKLES: NOW hiring for wait staff and bartenders. Come to 3043 Anderson to apply.

FUN, SEASONAL, help wanted. Floral design part-time, experience necessary. Apply at Manhattan Floral next to Target.

330
Business
Opportunities

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such business opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

KSU STUDENT: Learn a valuable trade (plumbing, electrical, carpentry, building operations). Housing and Dining Services is accepting applications for employment as a part-time Student Service Technician. Work begins 1/12/05. Will train- no experience necessary, these positions offer a part-time, flexible work schedule with some nights and weekends; and optional full-time work during the summer. Starts $6.75 per hour with scheduled raises and an option for an on-campus apartment with reduced rent. Apply to the L.W. Davenport Building, 1548 Denson Avenue by 12/07/05. Affirmative Action/ Equal Opportunity Employer.

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors: needed for the 2005- 2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half- two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave. Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME AFTER School Program Coordinator position in a large established Child Care Center. Coursework in education required. Experience in child-care education preferred. Candidates must be committed to quality after-school programming and motivated to develop partnership with other community agencies. Starting wage is $7.90 and up. Please send letter of application, copy of diploma/ transcripts, and resume with three references to: Program Development Coordinator, K-State Child Development Center, 1948 Jardine Drive, L-9, Manhattan, KS, 66502. Closing date is December 12. Position begins December 16 or sooner if possible. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME HELP wanted, laborers and CDL drivers. Roof Truss manufacturing plant. 5107 Murray Rd., (785)776-5081.

MANHATTAN CITY ORDINANCE 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/ she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant. part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Tenner, UFM 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

BOWINKLES: NOW hiring for wait staff and bartenders. Come to 3043 Anderson to apply.

FUN, SEASONAL, help wanted. Floral design part-time, experience necessary. Apply at Manhattan Floral next to Target.

Deadlines

Classified ads must be placed by noon the day before you want your ad to run. Classified display ads must be placed by 4 p.m. two working days prior to the date you want your ad to run.

CALL 532-6555

ClassifiedRATES

1 DAY
20 words or less
$8.50
each word over 20
20¢ per word

2 DAYS
20 words or less
$9.95
each word over 20
25¢ per word

3 DAYS
20 words or less
$11.65
each word over 20
30¢ per word

4 DAYS
20 words or less
$12.90
each word over 20
35¢ per word

5 DAYS
20 words or less $14.00
each word over 20
40¢ per word
(consecutive day rate)

TO PLACE AN AD
Go to Kedzie 103
(across from the
K-State Student Union).
Office hours are
Monday through Friday
from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
The office is open
except on holidays.

HOW TO PAY
All classifieds must be paid in advance unless you have an account with Student Publications Inc. Cash, check, MasterCard or Visa are accepted. There is a $10 service charge on all returned checks. We reserve the right to edit, reject or properly classify any ad.

FREE FOUND ADS
As a service to you, we run found ads for three days free of charge.

CORRECTIONS
If you find an error in your ad, please call us. We accept responsibility only for the first wrong insertion.

CANCELLATIONS
If you sell your item before your ad has expired, we will refund you for the remaining days. You must call us before noon the day before the ad is to be published.

HEADLINES
For an extra charge, we'll put a headline above your ad to catch the reader's attention.

032
Shout
Outs

TIMES JUST killed Futura, while Zapfino robbed Cronos.

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

HAVE YOURSELF a merry Christmas, but remember that when you come back in January the vicious cycle starts all over again.

until Thursday, I'm going to watch both seasons of Nip/Tuck on DVD.

HONOR CODE | Professor suspects papers were plagiarized

Continued from Page 1

he taught for the University of Notre Dame he had two cases of cheating and at Stanford University he had one incident. Plagiarism was not the violation at either school.

"The density here is much higher," he said.

David Allen, director of the Honor Council, said there has been an increase in reported Honor Pledge violations. However, Allen said he doesn't think it is because more students are violating the code.

"My guess is we are making faculty members and students aware of the honor system and the process of reporting and what constitutes academic dishonesty," he said.

Scott Jones, director of Greek Affairs, said although one of the students who may have violated the Honor Pledge is a leader in the greek community, each chapter decides how to handle the situation.

"I think it is up to each chapter to decide what a commitment to scholastic excellence means," he said. "That includes achievement and integrity and honesty."

Jones said during his time working in the Office of Student Life, he often met students who had honor code violations.

"A lot of times I experienced some students hadn't really thought through the seriousness and potential consequences that could occur," he said.

Allen said the best way for faculty members to educate students about the Honor Pledge and how to avoid violations is by telling the students what they expect from them.

That is something Arana said he plans on making more clear.

"Next semester I'm going to spend a whole day of class to talk about plagiarism," he said.

VETS | Students choose urban practice instead of work with farm animals

Continued from Page 1

higher income than large animal veterinarians.

In 2004, there were 2,285 large animal exclusive veterinarians in practice in the United States, earning an income of $86,500 before taxes, according to the AVMA Web site. There were 33,417 small animal exclusive veterinarians the same year, and each earned $80,500.

Andrus also said the study found high levels of satisfaction among food animal veterinarians, who said they had a high quality of life, decent income and good relationships with their clientele.

One way to increase the number of food animal veterinarians is to offer more scholarships to qualified and interested students, Andrus said. In exchange for the scholarships, students would work in underserved areas in the state for each year their tuition was relieved.

Andrus said some veterinary colleges already offer such scholarships, including Colorado State University, North Carolina State University, University of California-Davis and the University of Minnesota. The veterinary profession is also attempting to get funding for legislation so the scholarship program could occur on a national level.

The new breed of veterinarians differs from past veterinarians.

Elvon Todd opened his rural veterinary practice in 1955 after graduating from K-State's College of Veterinary Medicine, and at age 81, said he only treats small animals now because of his age.

But the Sabetha, Kan., resident said there was not a shortage in rural veterinarians when he entered the practice 50 years ago.

Todd said he worked at a small animal hospital his first 18 months out of college, but the practice did not appeal to him.

"I have always associated with farm people, and they are some of the best people in the world," he said. "City people tend to spend more money on their pets that they cannot afford to spend."

Todd said he has noticed the change of people being more attached to small animals compared to large animals.

"If someone has a sick puppy or cat, they are going to spend a lot of money because of sentimental value," Todd said, "as compared to food animals, because they make a profit."

Economics also plays a role in the decrease of rural veterinarians, Harkin said.

"Veterinarians can't make as much as a rural vet compared to a bigger city," he said. "Given how much vet school costs these days, many students are looking to make a bigger salary."

Another possible reason for the decrease in rural veterinarians is the changing dynamics of the population, said Brad White, assistant professor of clinical sciences.

"There are fewer people from rural agricultural backgrounds," said White, who specializes in beef cattle. "There are also changing service requests with veterinarians and agriculture and production services are changing."

The College of Veterinary Medicine exposes students to food animal practitioners and shows opportunities in the profession, White said.

"Many students may not have been exposed to this area before coming to school, and we want them to be aware of these opportunities," he said.

Harkin said he agreed that the small enrollment of students from a rural background is a contribution to the decrease of rural veterinarians.

"Students' backgrounds will make it difficult for them to want to work in a rural environment," he said. "Entertainment and social lives aren't going to be as much as in rural practice than a metro area."

We Offer the Full Set!

- Tennis Racquets
- Tennis Bags
- Racquet Ball Racquets
- Court Shoes
- Lessons
- Stringing

Gifts Certificates
& Semester
Memberships
Available

Cottonwood Racquet Club
3615 Claflin Rd • 776-6060

Get your own SHOUT OUT for just $2!
(20 words or less)

Come to 103
Kedzie or call 532-6555

"Can I Have It Like That?"

Bling your ring with the HOTTEST gear for your phone.

Do Your Thing
www.your-thing.com

Ringtones for $2.49 Text code to 386

Title	Text Code
My Humps - Black Eyed Peas	141001
Hustler's Ambition - 50 Cent	141002
Stay Fly - Fall Out Boy	141003
Run It! - Chris Brown	141004
Here We Go Again (feat. Kelly Rowland) - Trina	141005
We Be Burnin' (Legalize It) - Sean Paul	141006
I'm Sprung - T-Pain	141007
Girl Tonite (feat. Trey Songz) - Twista	141008
Don't Cha - Pussycat Dolls	141009
Play - David Banner	141010
I'm a King (feat. T.I. and Lil' Scrappy) - P$C	141011
Reggaeton Latino - Don Omar	141011
Sugar, We're Going Down - Fall Out Boy	141012
Soul Survivor - Young Jeezy	141013
Gold Digger - Kanye West	141014
Presidential - Youngbloodz	141015
Hung Up (I Can't Keep Waiting For You) - Madonna	141016
Welcome to Jamrock - Damian Marley	141017
Jesus of Suburbia - Green Day	141018
Lighters Up - Lil' Kim	141019
Back Then - Mike Jones	141020
Back in Black - AC/DC	141021
Shake It Off - Mariah Carey	141022
Stewie's Sexy Party - Family Guy	141023
Slow Wind - R. Kelly	141024
I'm N Luv (Wit a Stripper) - T-Pain	141025
My Hood - Young Jeezy	141027
Feel Good Inc. - Gorillaz	141028
Bad B*tch - Webbie	141029
Because I Got High - Afroman	141030

Order Now, Right From Your Phone!

Type in the 6-digit code and text it to 386. A link to your purchase will be sent to your msg inbox! Supported carriers: Cingular.

Save 20% with the Ringtone

3 PACK HOOKUP

Sometimes One Just Isn't Enough!

Get 3 new real music ringtones every month for just $5.99. Text HOOKUP to 7225 to SUBSCRIBE NOW

Games & Apps for as low as $3.99* Text code to 386

141040	141041	141042	141043	141044	141045
141047	141048	141050	141051	141052	141053
141054	141055	141056	141057	141058	141059
141060	141061	141062	141063	141065	141066

Graphics for $1.99 Text code to 386

141080	141081	141082	141083	141084	141085	141086	141087
141088	141089	141090	141091	141092	141093	141094	141095

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

INSIDE

Sub. Exp. Date: --/--
Kansas State Historical Society
Newspaper Section
PO Box 3585
Topeka KS 66601

Sports, Page 6

www.kstatecollegian.com

Thursday, December 8, 2005

Vol. 110, No. 75

Students cope with cold, snow

By Kristen Roderick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Students woke up to a blanket of snow Wednesday and faced frigid temperatures on their way to class.

According to the National Weather Service, Riley County received 1.5 to 2 inches of snowfall as of 6 p.m. Snow was expected to continue throughout the night. About 3 inches total was expected to fall, according to the NWS.

Rachel Riedel, junior in elementary education, said she usually enjoys the snow, but Wednesday's snowfall was too cold to enjoy.

"Well, normally I like it because I like all the seasons, but this cold is a bit extreme for me," she said.

Temperatures in Manhattan reached 12 degrees, according to the NWS.

Riedel said she expects this winter to be cold, snowy and icy.

Lauren Tice, sophomore in English, said she loves the snow, but doesn't like to dress in warm clothing and then go into warm buildings.

"Basically I always ended up dying of heat when I get to class because I'm dressed so I don't freeze in the process of getting to class," she said.

However, Wednesday's snow brought back memories for her.

When she was younger, her family and her made a gorilla out of snow. The snow-gorilla was drinking a soft drink and watching TV.

"The next day, when we got onto the bus, everyone was amazed by it," Tice said. "I wish we would have taken pictures. The detail of it was amazing. We carved out abs and a big nose with huge nostrils."

Riedel said people should take advantage of the snow when the weather is above 12 degrees.

"Once it heats up just a little bit more, you could go sledding," she said.

Social Security can be held for delinquent student loans

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

The Supreme Court ruled Wednesday the government can now withhold Social Security benefits for unpaid student loans. The unanimous decision ruled against James Lockhart, a disabled man who lost 15 percent of his Social Security benefits to repay about $77,000 in unpaid student loans.

Before the Supreme Court hearing, Lockhart lost at the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The court said Congress eliminated the 10-year time limit for the government to seek repayment for unpaid student loans.

The Bush administration argued the case was important because there is about $33 billion in unpaid student loans and about $7 billion of that is delinquent debt. About half the delinquent debt is more than 10 years old.

Many K-State students receive loans through Sallie Mae, a company that provides federal and private student loans and other financial services to help students pay for college.

Rick Castellano, Sallie Mae spokesman, said the company is not taking a position on the case.

"We always welcome the clarification of federal law as it relates to the federal student loan program," he said.

—The Associated Press contributed to this story.

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

Dolly Hooks, Manhattan resident, attempts to recite an excerpt from the Book of Mormon to her partner Katherine Hawkins, Riley, Kan., resident, during her Book of Mormon class. The class is taught at The Manhattan Institute of Religion.

Looking for truth

Mormon students learn, find fellowship at institute

FAITH ON CAMPUS

The fifth of a five-part series exploring the beliefs of religious groups on campus.

By Chuck Armstrong
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

"If any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask God, who gives generously to all without reproach, and it will be given him."

After 14-year-old Joseph Smith read this Bible verse from James 1, he dropped to his knees and prayed to God, said Sterling Knapp, director of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints: Institute of Religion for Mormon students.

Knapp said Smith asked God what church he should join, and the heavens opened up and God told Smith that no church spoke the whole truth. After years of praying, Knapp said, Smith organized the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

There are several differences between Christian and Mormon beliefs.

Discussing the importance of faith and repentance, Sterling Knapp, Director of the Manhattan Institute of Religion, talks with his class about a religious text.

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

"Our doctrine on baptism, our doctrine on resurrection — there are a lot of differences," Knapp said.

One difference between Mormons and Christians, he said, is Mormons are part of restoration and Christians are part of reformation.

Restoration refers to Smith starting the church, while reformation refers to Protestants branching off from the Catholic Church and reforming it, Knapp said.

Another difference between the two faiths, he said, is that Mormons baptize the dead.

"Now it's not like we go and dig

See RELIGION Page 10

Air marshal kills agitated passenger

By John Pain
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIAMI — An agitated passenger who claimed to have a bomb in his backpack was shot and killed by a federal air marshal Wednesday after he bolted frantically from a jetliner that was boarding for takeoff, officials said. No bomb was found.

It was the first time since the Sept. 11 attacks that an air marshal had shot at anyone, Homeland Security Department spokesman Brian Doyle said. Another federal official said there was no apparent link to terrorism.

The passenger, identified as Rigoberto Alpizar, a 44-year-old U.S. citizen, was gunned down on a jetway just before the American Airlines plane was about to leave for Orlando, Fla., near his home in Maitland.

According to a witness, the man frantically ran down the aisle of the Boeing 757, flailing his arms, while his wife tried to explain that he was mentally ill and had not taken his medication.

The passenger indicated there was a bomb in his bag and was confronted by air marshals but ran off the aircraft, Doyle said. The marshals went after him and ordered him to get down on the ground, but he did not comply and was shot when he apparently reached into the bag, Doyle said.

Flight 924, which originated in Quito, Ecuador, had arrived in Miami just after noon, and the shooting occurred shortly after 2 p.m. as the plane was about to take off for Orlando, Fla., with the man and 119 other passengers and crew, American Airlines spokesman Tim Wagner said.

Alpizar had arrived in Miami earlier in the day from Ecuador, authorities said.

After the shooting, investigators spread passengers' bags on the tarmac and let dogs sniff them for explosives, and bomb squad members blew up at least two bags.

No bomb was found, said James E. Bauer, agent in charge of the Federal Air Marshals field office in Miami.

He said there was no reason to believe there was any connection to terrorists.

The concourse where the shooting took place was shut down for a half-hour, but the rest of the airport continued operating, officials said.

"This was an isolated incident," the airline said in a news release, adding that none of the other passengers or crew members were ever in danger.

Today

High 19
Low 6

Friday

High 34
Low 16

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Dunleavy resigns

Newman University president, Aidan O. Dunleavy announced his resignation Wednesday. The resignation will become effective at the end of the school year. He said in his last months at the private Roman Catholic school, he will focus on its library and on the development of his advancement programs.

Pearl Harbor memorial

About 2,000 sailors, veterans, community leaders and guests visited Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, Wednesday in remembrance of the attack that hurled the U.S. into World War II 64 years ago. With about 20 Pearl Harbor survivors, the crowd observed a moment of silence at 7:55 a.m., the exact time the attack began in 1941.

Trial adjourned

The trial of Saddam Hussein and seven codefendants was adjourned Wednesday until Dec. 21 after two witnesses testified in a truncated session which Saddam did not attend. On Tuesday, Saddam said he would not take part in what he called an "unjust" court. The other defendants were present at the courtroom.

DON'T FORGET

Malabika Pramnik from the California Institute of Technology will speak at 2:30 p.m. today in Cardwell 122 as a part of the Mathematics Colloquium.

Open Mic Guitar night will be from 7 to 9 tonight in Union Station. Entries to perform were due Dec. 6, but students will be served hot cocoa and cookies.

The Pho Night sponsored by the Vietnamese Student Association will be from 5:30 to 8:30 tonight at the International Student Center.

See our listings in the Classifieds.

DIAMOND

REAL ESTATE PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

785-537-7701

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Epithet for Shake-speare

5 Alfred E. Neuman's magazine

8 Iowa city

12 Addict

13 Past

14 The O'Hara estate

15 Contradict

16 Gun the engine

17 Exam format

18 Cruel treatment

20 Sign up

22 Bill's partner

23 Draft drink

24 Base run-ner's goal

27 Half-year

32 Zsa Zsa's sis

33 Bambi's aunt

34 Playing

35 Voice behind the story

38 Sugar source

39 Thicken

DOWN

1 Roses-to-be

2 Cruising

3 Tear

4 Solid carbon dioxide

5 South American monkey

6 Candle count

7 Peacenik

8 Coral formations

9 Victor Herbert's "Naughty" lady

10 Geological periods

11 Wound worsener

19 "Why should I care?"

21 Dundee denial

24 Coop dweller

25 Eventual aces

26 Thorn in Dennis the Menace's side

28 Brian of rock

29 Showy flower

30 A billion years

31 Catcher's place?

36 Jamaican music

37 Foreman foe

38 Rancher

41 Gift-tag word

42 Blind as —

43 "David Copperfield" character

44 Medley

46 Appellation

47 Joie de vivre

48 Hide-aways

51 90-degree shape

Solution time: 25 mins.

12-8

CRYPTOQUIP

Yesterday's answer 12-8

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

12 13 14

15 16 17

18 19 20 21

22 23

24 25 26 27 28 29 30 31

32 33 34

35 36 37 38

39 40 41

42 43 44 45 46 47 48

49 50 51 52

53 54 55 56

57 58

CRYPTOQUIP

PG P TNNC XEVABX MESD

JNL JLEGAQ YPKFDYPKEVEPSG.

E UNBMC GBT TDG K

"UFPK'G QNBL GESD?"

Yesterday's Cryptoquip: IF YOU INVENT A POPULAR COCKTAIL, I'D THINK THAT AFTER YOU DIE YOUR SPIRIT LIVES ON.

Today's Cryptoquip Clue: N equals O

DIVERSIONS

Made-up news for made-up times

MISSING

Name: Butters the Squirrel

Height: 13 inches
Weight: 11 ounces
Color: Reddish-brown

Last seen: Monday, Dec. 5, near Hale Library

If seen, please contact the Campus Fourum at 395-4444. Possible monetary reward for information leading to Butters' safe return home.

Campus celebrity disappears

Butters the Squirrel, K-State's favorite little furry creature, went missing Monday, according to the Fourum. Several eyewitnesses called into the hotline to report the incident.

Capt. Paul Jackson of the K-State Police said the disappearance is under investigation.

"It doesn't look good," Jackson said. "Margarine or Oleo or whatever you call that thing, is missing and presumed dead."

Jackson encourages anyone with information on the whereabouts of Butters the Squirrel to call the Fourum hotline at 395-4444.

5TH YEAR COLUMNIST FIRED FROM HIS OTHER JOB

Matthew Peterworth, senior in architectural engineering and Ask the Fifth Year columnist for the Collegian, was fired three weeks ago from his other on-campus job as student consultant at the IT Help Desk.

In his satire article, "Students must now use Pine to check their e-mail," Peterworth made up quotes from two fictitious people and also one from his boss, Rebecca Gould, director of the Information Technology Assistance Center.

"I was almost fired myself before my boss found out it was a joke," Gould said. "He can't go around making up quotes like that. In fact, he's probably making up this quote right now."

The problem stemmed from the Collegian not clearly indicating that the piece was satire, Gould said. The IT Help Desk reported an increase in the number of calls due to questions about the article.

Peterworth
5TH YEAR COLUMNIST

"This won't go away for me. I sat down for Thanksgiving dinner and people were still asking me 'How could you say that, Rebecca?'" Gould said.

A poll was taken among managers and student consultants and Peterworth was voted off the I.T.A.C. island, Gould said.

Peterworth could not be reached for comment.

STUDENTS WORKING TO REINSTATE COKE ON CAMPUS

The Campaign to Bring Coke Back, a new organization on campus, is dedicated to getting Coca-Cola products available on K-State's campus.

"For too long, we have been held hostage by the too-sweet travesty known as Pepsi," said club president Grace Sparks, senior in advertising. "Coca-Cola is the classic soft drink. K-State shouldn't be sacrificing its soul for an inferior product just because Pepsi shells out millions of dollars to make this a Pepsi campus."

Students, who are usually found debating whether to call it soda or pop, have taken to the Pepsi versus Coke debate.

"When you look at the Pepsi product line, you've got Mountain Dew. I can't live without my Mountain Dew," said Scott Pearson, junior in chemical engineering. "It keeps me awake at night so I can get all of my boring homework done."

John Whitehead, senior in golf course management and bartender at Auntie Mae's Parlor, said Coke is the industry standard. "People don't come in and order Jack [Daniel's] and Pepsi. They order Jack and Coke."

A representative for Dr Pepper could not be reached for comment.

By Matthew Peterworth

These news articles are intended for entertainment purposes only.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Tuesday, Dec. 6

- Michael Cook, White City, Kan., was arrested at 2:37 p.m. for two counts of failure to appear. Bond was set at $4,000.
- Rey Acosta-Felton, Junction City, was arrested at 5:35 p.m. for probation violation. Bond was set at $2,000.
- Steven Gee, 3651 Powers Lane, was arrested at 6:10 p.m. for criminal trespass. Bond was set at $750.
- Patrick Whalen, 414 Osage St., No. 7, was arrested at 6:35 p.m. was arrested for possession of a simulated controlled substance and unlawful possession of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $500.
- Eric Ortmann, 1851 Todd Road, Apt. D04, was arrested at 11:50 p.m. for driving with a suspended license. Bond was set at $1,500.

Wednesday, Dec. 7

- Amelia Frakovic, 1807 Todd Road, was arrested at 2 a.m. for possession of a simulated controlled substance and unlawful sale of drugs and paraphernalia. Bond was set at $1,500.
- Zane Williams, 1433 Legore Lane, was arrested at 3 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

Campus Calendar is the Collegian's campus bulletin board service. Items in the calendar can be published up to three times. Items might not appear because of space constraints but are guaranteed to appear on the day of the activity. To place an item in the Campus Calendar, stop by Kedzie 116 and fill out a form or e-mail the news editor at collegian@pub.ksu.edu by 11 a.m. two days before it is to run.

■ A class on how to find a journal article will be from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. today in Hale 408.

■ The Graduate School announces the final oral defense of the doctoral dissertation of Liang Fang at 11:30 a.m. today in Dickens 106.

■ The Pho Night sponsored by the Vietnamese Student Association will be from 5:30 to 8:30 tonight at the International Student Center. The cost for those over 12 is $8. Those 12 and under are $4. People can bring nonperishable food items and receive $1 off. All proceeds go to the TET celebration.

Corrections and clarifications

Dr. Roger Fingland is the director of the Veterinary Medicine Teaching Hospital, not Bertie Lovett, as stated in Tuesday's Collegian. Lovett is the assistant to the director of the Veterinary Medicine Teaching Hospital. The Collegian regrets the error.

Kansas State Collegian

(USPS 291 020) The Kansas State Collegian, a student newspaper at Kansas State University, is published by Student Publications Inc., Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506. The Collegian is published weekdays during the school year and on Wednesdays during the summer. Periodical postage is paid at Manhattan, KS 66502. POSTMASTER: Send address changes to Kansas State Collegian, circulation desk, Kedzie 103, Manhattan, KS 66506-7167. © Kansas State Collegian, 2005

This SPOT is reserved just for you.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

110 Kedzie 332-6560

My beer is gone. I bombed my test... but I just saved a bunch of money on my movie rentals.

Rent 1 Movie or Video Game at full price, Get 1 for 1/2 off!

Expires: 12-31-05

Digital Shelf

706 N. 11th 776-6959

Fat's

BAR & GRILL

Thursdays

$200 bottles

$350 fishbowls

12th & Laramie Aggieville

Pregnancy Testing Center

"Supportive services for pregnancy, parenting & adoption."

539-3338

Free pregnancy testing

Totally confidential service

Same day results

Call for appointment

Located across from campus in Anderson Village

Mon.-Fri. 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Myers Insurance Agency

AUTO • HOME • LIFE • BUSINESS • HEALTH • SHORT-TERM HEALTH

776-7199

555 Poyntz Ave. COLONY SQUARE SUITE 227 Manhattan

Dan & Molly Myers

www.farmers.com

1-888-575-9543

aroma lamps

candles & incense

all natural bath & body

jewelry

hoodies, mittens, & scarves

chimes & candle hangers

Wild Side

1128 Moro

EARN MONEY TAKING PHOTOS

Student Publications is looking for qualified photographers

to take photos for the Royal Purple Yearbook and the Collegian.

Applications available in Kedzie 103

Every Weekend!
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday
11:00 p.m. - 3:00 a.m.

We Drive. You Ride. Every Weekend.
Call:

539-0480

A free service provided by the K-State Student Governing Association

USD 383 to become lead agency for ITS

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Manhattan-Ogden USD 383 decided in a 7-0 vote to accept the position of lead agency for Infant-Toddler Services Network of Riley County at last night's meeting.

ITS is a Tiny-K Early Intervention Network that provides screening, evaluation and early intervention services to infants and toddlers who have been diagnosed with a disability and their families. The network offers services to children between the ages of birth and 3 years old.

Out of the 36 ITS networks throughout Kansas, 11 of them appointed school districts or special-ed co-ops as their lead agent.

ITS believes that intervention at a young age should eliminate or reduce the need for special services as children transition to district education, said Pam Russell, executive director of student support services.

Once a child is diagnosed with a disability, the network provides free direct medical services to the family, all of which are home-based. Speech, occupational or physical therapists will be sent to a child's home, in accordance to the child's specific needs.

The network also provides free disability screening and evaluations to young children. The services are mandated, and no waiting lists are allowed.

"Parents may want to bring their child to make sure they are reaching important developmental milestones," Russell said.

ITS serves about 75-80 children on an annual basis. An average of 49 percent of children exiting ITS over the past five years have transitioned to school district services.

"I've known two separate families that were involved with this," board member Dave Colburn said.

As ITS receives all of its funding through state funds administered through the Kansas Department of Health and Environment, Medicaid and state special education categorical aid reimbursement, accepting the title will have no financial implications for the district.

USD 383 has had ties with ITS since its inception in 1989. The Board has served as the fiscal agent for the network since this time, and will continue to do so, which means that all bills and funding for the network are approved by the district.

Furthermore, of the eight individuals who provide services through ITS, five are school district employees.

"I've always considered it a district program," board member Beth Tatarko said.

United States fails terrorism standards

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Nothing can prevent a terrorist from attacking the United States, but after the country was evaluated for national security, experts said most of the country is not prepared to respond to a terrorism disaster.

Earlier this week, the United States was placed in the hot seat, with the former Sept. 11 commission issuing a final report, warning the federal government had failed to place reforms to fend off terrorists.

This is even after the federal government had issued $13 billion toward domestic terrorism preparedness since Sept. 11.

A day later states were evaluated and a public health advisory group reported they are also unprepared in terms of national security. Kansas only met five out of the report's 10 preparedness indicators.

"We need to stop shrugging our shoulders and start rolling up our sleeves," said Lowell Weicker, Jr., in the report.

Weicker is the TFAH board president and former U.S. Senator and governor of Connecticut.

"The response to Hurricane Katrina was a sharp indictment of America's emergency response capabilities," Weicker said. "This report provides further evidence of the major gap between response 'plans' and 'realities.' We need to get real in our planning for health emergencies."

According to the report, however, Kansas was one of 16 states to receive five preparedness indicators. Delaware, South Carolina and Virginia scored the highest, achieving eight of 10 possible indicators.

Alabama, Alaska, Iowa and New Hampshire scored the lowest, achieving only two indicators.

In terms of state preparedness, Gov. Kathleen Sebelius said Kansas is not taking the domestic preparedness concern lightly.

"Right now, the state is regrouping and filling in the gaps with what went wrong (with Hurricane Katrina) and work with what we can for the future," Sebelius said. "We are fools if we

Trust for America's Health standards for emergency preparedness

■ A x means the state received a point for that indicator

Indicator	Kansas	Number of States
1. Has achieved "green" status for Strategic National Stockpile Delivery		7
2. Has sufficient BSL-3 labs to meet bioterrorism preparedness needs as outlined in state plan	x	37
3. Has enough lab scientists to test for anthrax or plague	x	41 and D.C.
4. Has sufficient capabilities to respond to a chemical terrorism threat		10
5. Has a disease tracking system to collect and monitor data electronically via the Internet	x	27
6. Has plan or is part of state/local planning effort to care for patients at non-healthcare facilities	x	35
7. Has plans, incentives, or provisions to ensure continuity of care in the event of a major outbreak		2
8. Has an infection control professional available within 15 minutes on a 24 hour/7 day basis		35 and D.C.
9. Has worked with state or local health department to prioritize hospital workers' receipt of vaccine or antivirals	x	34 and D.C.
10. Has sufficient medical equipment and supplies for 10 additional patients requiring ventilation		29 and D.C.
Total # of x's —	5

Source: Trust for America's Health report, Dec. 6

Kansas was one of 16 states to receive five indicators. Delaware, South Carolina and Virginia scored the highest, achieving eight of 10 possible indicators. Alabama, Alaska, Iowa and New Hampshire scored the lowest, achieving only two indicators.

aren't prepared."

In late September, nearly 200 Kansas medical professionals and government officials participated in a terrorism preparedness study by simulating possible state disasters, said Marta Skalacki, project manager of anti-terror training for Kansas Health Professionals at KU Medical Center.

"For three days, we had people in a classroom session, and they were assigned (and practiced) certain roles."

"And for 24 hours, over the course of the past weekend, people acted out the collaborate response," she said.

Throughout the simulation professionals set cars on fire, destroyed parts of neighborhoods and even bombed a building.

"Physicians and nurses had to get people out of the rubble, then transport them to hospitals," Skalacki said.

More than 17 area hospitals participated in the event.

If one hospital was full, medicines would send individuals to the next closest location.

"The goal of the project was to train, upgrade skills together, to prepare for a real life disaster terror event, and essentially to develop collaborate response," Skalacki said.

One of Skalacki's biggest terror concerns are with a variety of weapons of mass destruction, including dirty bombs, biological and nuclear weapons.

"Most importantly to Kansas is agri-terror, that would apply to not only health professionals, but to farmers as well," she said.

In the TFAH report, Kansas ranked high in regards to bioterrorism.

If an event were to occur in Manhattan, local officials say the area is as prepared as possible for such a disaster.

"As for with Riley County, we have a local emergency planning committee," said Laurie Harrison, assistant county emergency management coordinator. "Part of that committee's responsibility, we have exercises that focus on different scenarios in the county and in the region — tornadoes, wind foreign animal disease, bioterrorism."

The county emergency preparedness group meets at least four times a year and aims to have an emergency simulation twice a year.

This summer, the county explored foreign animal disease, an issue Harrison believed is pertinent to the area.

Harrison has worked in her current job capacity since 1999, and she said that if the country were to have an attack similar to Sept. 11, the county has several plans in mind.

"A lot of it is just awareness," she said. "We've handed out brochures that talk about the national security alert level, about how people should be prepared for that."

Union offers destresser night

By Tessa French
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Free massages. Relaxing crafts. Christmas cookies.

These were a few of the activities offered at Tuesday night's End of Semester Destresser, put on by the Union PC.

"This was a holiday theme, with Christmas card decorating, stocking decorating, gingerbread houses and massages," said Belinda Neibling, junior in mass communications and co-chair of the UPC's Special Events.

"Everyone is stressed out at this time of year," said Neibling. "Anyone is welcome tonight."

Neibling said she hoped for at least 100 people to attend, but knew the weather would probably hinder those numbers. She said that since the event was from 8 to 10 p.m., she hoped anyone walking through the Union would join in.

"We usually have 100-200 people at our other events," said Nacole Boan, senior in political science and president of UPC. "I'd encourage people to come because it's a break from studying, free, and a way to get your mind off schoolwork."

Kristina Wendt, senior in elementary education, and Kristin Fraley, senior in sociology, also braved the weather for an evening of relaxation.

"I'm not really stressed right now," Wendt said. "We wanted to go out tonight anyway, and this is just the beginning of our evening."

Fraley said she doesn't do many crafts and has never had a massage.

"I just saw this in the paper and thought it looked interesting," she said. "I'm really looking forward to the massage because I've never had one."

Antiques & Collectibles
Junior & Petite Blue Jeans
Lucky, Gap, Abercrombie & Fitch
and more!

Clip this ad for 20% off
—limit one per visit

QUALITY NAME BRAND New & Gently Used
CLOTHING AT 50-95% OFF RETAIL

The Apple's Heart
"Where Kansas Meets New York"
113 S. 5th • downtown Topeka

McGraw's
Manhattan's #1 Premier Country Night Club

Best Tacos in Town:
59¢ (hard or soft)

$1.50 Coors Light Pints

Thursday is $1.99 Margaritas

Karaoke Night!
Prizes for ALL Singers!

2317 Tuttle Creek Blvd. • 776-9588
In the Blue Hills Shopping Center

You promised Mom you'd eat well during finals.

MERCADO

15% off any regular purchase, with student ID, now through finals week.

1222 Moro Street, Aggieville
Open Mon.-Sat., 10AM - 6PM

Cold Stone
Gift Certificates are the perfect stocking stuffer.

COLD STONE
CREAMERY

Little Caesars
HOT-N-READY pizza

$5.00 LARGE
WITH PEPPERONI
Carry Out Only

ALL DAY, EVERYDAY!

1150 Westloop • 539-3333

ADVERTISE
532-6560
COLLEGIAN

Part-time job. Full-time college.

We'll help you get your college degree. The Army National Guard offers you the Montgomery GI Bill, Tuition Assistance as well as extra state benefits. Most Guard members serve one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Go to college and still have time for a life. In the Army National Guard, YOU CAN!

Kansas
ARMY NATIONAL GUARD
YOU CAN

1-800-GO-GUARD • www.1-800-GO-GUARD.com

Normal Volunteers

The Clinical Research Institute is conducting a study to evaluate the safety and tolerability of an investigational medication.

Participants can earn $1800.00

Must be: 18-50 years of age
In good physical health
Non-tobacco users
Willing to be on our research unit for 7 days

For more information call
(316) 293-1833

CRI
CLINICAL RESEARCH INSTITUTE

Clinical Research Institute
8911 E. Orme, Suite B
Wichita, KS 67207

SO MANY NUMBERS

sudoku
On the classified Page

TO THE POINT States should use low scores to boost safety

Just because the state of Kansas did not get a perfect score in domestic preparedness doesn't mean it will fail the course.

Since the Sept. 11 attacks, more than $13 billion in domestic preparedness programs, promoting simulations, increase of health supplies and other ways to ensure the safety of the country.

These efforts cannot remain ignored. Locally, Riley County has made significant efforts, delegating responsibilities to the people who are experts in bioterrorism and in preparing educational material for residents about possible disasters.

And with additional area groups focusing on tornadoes and floods – potential disasters in this area – this assessment doesn't fully judge the entire picture in terms of Riley County preparedness.

Although Kansas scored five out of 10 in an evaluation, a majority of states didn't even score this high. Even some states, including Alabama, Alaska, Iowa and New Hampshire scored the lowest by passing only two indicators.

As many critics claim, however, these tests are only a measurement of where the Kansas and the United States are in terms of preparedness.

Now that the former Sept. 11 commission and Trust for America's Health reports reveal that most states are not-so-hot with terrorism responses, these areas should use these low grades as stepping-stones for further improvements.

To the point is an editorial selected and debated by the editorial board and written after a majority opinion is formed. This is the Collegian's official opinion.

Michael Ashford
Johanna Barnes
Abby Brownback
Matthew Girard
Matt Gorney
Jonas Hogg
Curtis Johnson
Annette Lawless
Anthony Mendoza
Alex Peak
Catrina Rawson
Kristen Roderick
Dave Skretta

Christmas is fast approaching, like an Olympic sprinter that just got shot out of a howitzer. Before you know, it'll be here, a festive explosion of red and green, with all kinds of gooey treats and cooked meats – like an Olympic sprinter that just got shot out of a howitzer.

GRANT REICHERT

But it feels hollow celebrating a holiday of this magnitude – Christmas is like fifty Halloweens loot-wise – in the wake of Hurricane Katrina. Of course, loot-wise, Hurricane Katrina was like fifty ... wait, has the moratorium on Katrina jokes expired yet?

I don't now, so I'll play it safe and encourage Christmas donations to Katrina survivors. Me, I'll be donating a special "Atlas Shrugged" edition of "A Christmas Carol." The foreword by Ayn Rand notes that Tiny Tim shouldn't have let his terminal disease and chronic vitamin deficiency stand in the way of life-bettering capitalist ventures.

It's not just Katrina depressing the Christmas spirit. There's also the decline of Webmail. Is it all the spam that's doing her in? I hate spammers – they ruin it for the rest of us that are legitimately trying to sell pharmaceuticals through mass e-mailings, kind of like Steven Seagal ruined cheesy action movies for Jean-Claude Van Damme.

Oh, and on an unrelated note, one time Van Damme spin-kicked Chuck Norris so hard Chuck had to change the name of his show to "Roller, Texas Paraplegic." Realizing the error of his way, Van Damme leapt 30 feet into the air and spun so hard in the opposite direction he unknicked Norris. This was later formalized into Einstein's theory of relativity.

Anyway, compounding Webmail's deterioration and Katrina, was Bill Snyder's retirement.

There's nothing wrong with that on its face. It's said a captain shouldn't abandon a sinking ship. But once that ship dips below the surface – cough, K-State Football, cough – el capitan can start clawing his way onto a life raft. I don't begrudge Snyder that.

All I wanted was an honorable exit. After Missouri, he should've knelt on the 40 yard line and ritually disemboweled himself with a large samurai sword, whilst throngs of ululating fans jockeyed for position in the race to tear themselves an authentic Snyder relic.

I hear his ear cures genital herpes. ("And with that joke, thousands of Snyder fans snapped," says my life narrator in his sonorous "The Wonder Years" voice,

"and I was never heard from again ... except for now, in this nostalgic reminiscence.")

But us K-State students will soldier on. We know that whatever coach we may have, losing is not part of our players' vocabulary – our academic standards for athletes virtually ensures that.

Plus, Willie the Wildcat, our charismatic spiritual leader, the Marshall Applewhite to our Heaven's Gate, the David Koresh to our Waco, the Howard Dean to our Young Democrats, fears nothing.

Nothing, that is, except Bob Barker and the horrific message he propagates. Willie has gotta protect himself after all.

Anyway, to return to my original point – and, yes, I do have a point, she just gets distracted by loud noises and random pop-culture references – Christmas seems hollow after these tragedies.

So I'm going to try altruism this year. I'm going to ask Santa for a million dollars. Then, when I have this cash, I'm going to march straight down to the local orphanage. And then I'm going to call the orphans out front, every one of those rosy-cheeked little rascals.

And then I'm going to lay the money on the ground and say, "Fight for my amusement; the winner shall take home this mound of cash."

'Tis the season.

Grant Reichert is a junior in political science. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

Illustrations by Elvis Achelpohl | COLLEGIAN

More than a temporary immigration

It really does feel good to have the momentum starting to return to us dirty liberals.

Although it's too soon to celebrate with Republicans still in power; we all had a chance to take a short break to sit back and watch President Bush struggle to regain his party.

Sadly, there has to be an end to these good times. Even with his lowered popularity, Bush can still get enough support for one of these blind punch issues he's been coming up with.

His latest attempt to crawl out of the hole he's dug our country into is just as bad as his idea to allow torture. It threatens to return our country to the horrible traditions of racism and bigotry. Just as Benjamin Franklin once objected to Germans taking over the British culture, Bush is attacking immigration.

His new plan, which looks like a last-minute drunken Yale term paper, has been named the Temporary Worker Program. Just like it sounds, immigrants would come work for us and then be rewarded to go home after the work is done.

This is tantamount to saying we should have shipped all the Irish home after the potato famine ended. I, for one, can't imagine what life would be like if their culture hadn't had its influence on my life.

The real solution to the problem we're having with illegal immigration is simple. We have to let more immigrants come into America legally.

ZACHARY T. ECKELS

Of course, there are those out there who will point out that averaging one million immigrants per year is enough. What they will fail to tell you is that this only amounts to four immigrants per year per 1,000 citizens. After looking at the ratio it becomes clear that we aren't even allowing half the percentage of immigrants in that we have in the past.

With nearly 55 percent of counties in this state decreasing in population between 1990 and 2000, immigration could actually save some of these small counties far out west.

Just in case anyone still argues this, I'll make this very clear to you. Immigrants in the United States aren't going to come here and take your job. They're going to be doing the jobs that you don't want or don't have the skills to do.

In fact, Bush's new plan would still include all of the jobs being taken by immigrants with green cards. This is just downright disgraceful to send hardworking immigrants home after their job is done.

We need immigrants in the United States every bit as much as we've needed them in the past. When their work is done they should all be considered citizens of this great land just as most of our ancestors were.

Maybe someday Bush will figure out the difference between the terrorists we need to keep out and the good citizens we need to let in. Until then we can't be misled as we have been in the past. We have to work on making illegal immigrants legal.

Zachary T. Eckels is a junior in liberalism with a minor in hippy socialism. Please send your comments to opinion@pub.ksu.edu.

WRITE TO US

The Collegian welcomes your letters to the editor. They can be submitted by e-mail to letters@pub.ksu.edu, or in person to Kedzie 116. Please include your full name, year in school and major. Letters should be limited to 250 words. All submitted letters may be edited for length and clarity.

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Matthew Girard EDITOR IN CHIEF	Johanna Barnes MANAGING EDITOR	Kristen Roderick NEWS EDITOR
Matt Gorney COPY CHIEF	Catrina Rawson PHOTO EDITOR	Michael Ashford SPORTS EDITOR
Annette Lawless CITY/GOV EDITOR	Abby Brownback CAMPUS EDITOR	Alex Peak THE EDGE EDITOR
Jonas Hogg OPINION EDITOR	Anthony Mendoza PRESENTATION EDITOR	Curtis Johnson ONLINE EDITOR
Dave Skretta WRITING COACH	Brad Simmons AD MANAGER	Andy Walter ASST. AD MANAGER

CONTACT US

Kansas State Collegian	Classified ads.....532-6555
Kedzie 103	Newsroom.....532-6556
Manhattan, KS 66502	news@pub.ksu.edu
Display ads.....532-6560	Delivery problems.....532-6555

CAMPUS FOURUM | 395-4444 -or- fourum@pub.ksu.edu

The Campus Fourum is the Collegian's anonymous call-in system. The Fourum is edited to eliminate vulgar, racist, obscene, and libelous comments. The comments are not the opinion of the Collegian nor are they endorsed by the editorial staff.

To the girl at Hale on Thursday at 10:45 a.m., you took my breath away. From the guy in the black coat and hat. I'll be there all week.

The war of man against machine raged on through the early 70s. You don't remember because back then it was only a prophecy. But now, in the future, the past has occurred.

My Taco Bell sauce packet just told me, "Hello."

Lightning bugs: too slow to resist catching, but too bitter to eat more than a handful at one sitting.

The song "Stairway To Heaven" is essentially a recording of Patrick Swayze's snoring.

Patrick Swayze lost his virginity in the second trimester.

Chuck Norris and Patrick Swayze once challenged each other to a duel. Scientists now refer to this as The Big Bang Theory.

Patrick Swayze has never made a movie. They are all documentaries (barring Donnie Darko).

So my roommate and I were sitting around and decided that we're even more awesome than that other pair of roommates that decided they were awesome.

After much debate, President Truman decided to drop the atomic bomb on Hiroshima rather than the alternative of sending Chuck Norris. His reasoning? It was more "humane."

Chuck Norris often asks people to pull his finger. When they do, he roundhouses them in the abdomen. Then he farts.

Who knew that Sasquatch and the abominable snowman weren't the same thing?

My roommate runs down the pedestrians on campus. But I run down the bikers. I'm not a very good cheer bugger ... (that's "beer bugger" for non-dyslexics.)

This goes out to the couple trying to dry hump at a frat party. It's better with your clothes off.

Don't pretend to throw up in class. That's gross.

My hamster's name is Peanut and someday he and Butters the Squirrel will be friends. Then they can be Peanut and Butters.

My roommate got crabs in Texas.

To the guy that turned in my black purse to the police, thank you. You made me cry. I was so happy. What a great Christmas gift. Angels do exist. Thank you.

Wish you were beer.

Need more Fourum? Go to www.kstatecollegian.com for the full version.

Celebrate! 150 plans final events for 2005

By Annette Lawless
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

As 2005 comes to a close, Riley County officials prepare for final celebrations to celebrate the 150 years Manhattan and Riley County have coexisted.

The first event is a book signing from 4:30 to 6 p.m. on Dec. 15 at the Riley County Historical Museum, 2309 Claflin Ave. And the last event is the Little Apple New Years Eve party lasting from 11 p.m. to midnight on Dec. 31 at the intersection of Manhattan Avenue and Moro Street.

"It's been a really good gig," said Allie Lausch, secretary for the Manhattan-Riley County 150 committee. "We didn't know what it would look like, when planning Riley County 150 stuff nearly four years ago."

Throughout the year, Manhattan-Riley County 150 coordinators have hosted parades, fairs and races.

For Lausch, coordinating the events have been an exhausting task, spending days with her coworkers preparing events for the county, she said.

"For me, it's like getting an MBA, just the people coming together and getting it to work - these are people who get things done," she said. "There are just so many people to list, to thank, but the people that came together made it work, made it great."

With the Dec. 15 book reading, people can expect to meet more than 20 local authors who will be signing their books representing numerous writing styles, Lewis said.

Lowell Jack will be present with his new book "Neighbors of the Past." His book was written in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of Manhattan and Riley County.

Other authors include: Barbara Baldwin, Diane Dollar (illustrator), G.W. Clift, Jerri Garretson, KS Publishing authors, Marion Kundiger, Alton

Lee, Jan McIntosh, Linda Madl, Sheri L. McGathy, Ben Nyberg, Don Parrish, Jean Ponte, Virginia Quiring, Riley County Genealogical Society authors, Doug Tippin and Gerry Walton.

Refreshments will be served and the event is free and open to the public.

As for the Dec. 31 New Years Eve Party, entertainment of the evening will include several Aggieville businesses and the United Black Voices choir, said Steve Levin, K-State Student Union Bookstore manager and event cofounder.

"We are excited to wrap up a great sesquicentennial celebration where we kicked it off," said Dave Lewis, Manhattan-Riley County 150 Chairman, "with a bang-up street party on New Year's Eve. Our sponsorship is a great fit."

Nearly 9,000 revelers rang in 2005 at The Little Apple New Year's Eve Celebration in Aggieville, almost doubling its first year's attendance and earned national attention as the ball drop "In the Little Apple, Manhattan, Kansas" was included in MSNBC's news clips of celebrations world wide.

This year, former football coach Bill Snyder will press the button that makes the ball drop in the celebration.

Officials said they are hoping to have new K-State football coach Ron Prince press the button as well.

Coordinators of the celebration say as they prepare large-scale events like the Little Apple New Year's Eve Celebration, support from the city, not just organizers, is what keeps events like this alive.

"We couldn't possibly put together an event of this magnitude without the generosity of our sponsors," Kate Watson, a co-founder of the event, said. "The C150 organization and its volunteers certainly demonstrate the quality of participation and support it takes."

Cold catch

As snow continues to fall, Kelly Krob, junior in architecture, catches a flying disc while playing with friends in the snow between Hale Library and Eisenhower Hall on Wednesday afternoon.

Steven Doll
COLLEGIAN

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Professor's family thankful for support

Editor,

This letter is directed to all the readers of the Collegian, most of whom already know what happened to my wife, Ines, on Oct. 12. While she was in her office at school, she suffered a brain aneurism that nearly took her life. The bleeding was massive and she was flown to Wichita where she remained in very serious critical condition for three weeks at the Neuro CCU of the Via Christi-St. Francis Hospital.

Miraculously, her life was saved, mainly due to the intervention of Dr. Kumar Reddy, an expert neuroradiologist who performed three angiograms and was able to stop the bleeding and prevent additional damage to the brain.

My wife's recovery has been nothing short of a miracle, and she is now at home recovering further. We want to express our deep gratitude to all the teachers who were able to help my wife and supported us during this critical time. Some of her students, as well, were very kind with cards or visits to the Rehabilitation Hospital in Manhattan.

All of you can realize how special the past Thanksgiving holiday has been for us and how the Christmas holiday season will be unique and full of happiness for our family.

The Collegian, the editor and writers have been wonderful in reporting what happened to my wife and make us realize how much love and respect she has at the school.

There are no words that can easily express our gratitude, but we want to thank the school, teachers and students and wish them all a very special, peaceful and happy holiday season. You are in our hearts.

Fernando Ugarte, M.D.

Shakin' Up The Holidays

Know someone who loves ice cream? Get em' a Shakes Gift Card-they make great stocking stuffers!

Now serving Holly Jolly Peppermint Concretes

Try our speciality coffees .99 on Dec. 3

Shake Cakes available

10% OFF
WITH K-STATE ID

$1 OFF
WITH THIS AD

Holidays a time for giving to others

Editor,

As the holidays approach, many get into the spirit of giving. There are many great organizations to donate to, but there is one that many people do not know about. It is called La Cocina Alegre which means "The Happy Kitchen," and that is exactly what it is.

La Cocina Alegre serves a free breakfast to anyone from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. Tuesday and Friday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church located at Sixth Street and Poyntz Avenue. Anyone is welcome to a free, warm meal.

These are many ways to help out here, too: You can donate money (make checks payable to St. Paul's Episcopal Church.) You can donate food, like potatoes, eggs, biscuit and pancake mix, syrup, butter, meat, gravy, salsa, bread and other breakfast foods, orange juice, coffee.

You can also donate time. This one is very fun. You make breakfast, serve breakfast, and sit with the people who come in and just chat with them. The kitchen is such a fun place to be, even if it is 6:30 in the morning. It's a great group of people to work with. And you hear so many good stories from the people who come and eat.

To volunteer or donate, please call Becca at (918) 694-0316 or Jess at (785) 650-1706.

Becca Millar
VOLUNTEER

Check Out

sudoku

in the Classifieds

Get your SHOUT OUT for just $2!

(20 words or less)

Come to 103 Kedzie or call 532-6555

Kansas Gift Boxes!

Call us! 776-8111 We ship U.P.S.

Kansas Deluxe Box. $22.99
8 oz. Mild Cheddar Alma Cheese, 8 oz. Usinger's Summer Sausage, 8 oz. Tin Sunflower Seed Brittle, 8 oz. Louisburg Apple Butter, 8 oz. 2B Apiaries Honey, 1 lb. Schlaegels' Popcorn

Simplicity Gift Box. $16.99
Same as above except no Sunflower Brittle Tin.

K-State Tailgate Box. $19.99
11 oz. Cox Bro's BBQ Sauce, 8 oz. Monterey Jack Alma Cheese, 8 oz. Usinger's Beef Summer Sausage, 3 oz. Purple & White Candy Coated Sunflower Seeds, 2 oz. Wildcat Shortbread Cookies, 8 oz. Borden's Peanuts

Friendship Gift Box. $19.99
2 lb. Kansas Seal Multi Grain Pancake Mix, 2 oz. Cock A Doodle Brew Coffee, 12 oz. Depot Apple Cider Syrup, 8 oz. 2B Apiaries Honey, and 2 packs of Cloud County Tea, 1.25 oz. Ghirardelli Chocolate Bar

Soup 'n Salsa Box. $19.99
16 oz. Rusty's Last Chance Salsa, 9.9 oz. Elsie's Chicken Chili Soup Mix, 8 oz. Usinger's Summer Sausage, 8 oz. Alma Monterey Jack Cheese, one white & one blue Art's Corn Chips

(add $10 per box, continental U.S.A.)

Eastside & Westside Market

E. Hwy. 24 or W. K-18 by Holidome.

Highland Community College Wamego Center

Accessible

Only 14 miles east of Manhattan on Highway 24. The HCC Wamego Center is in the Wamego Industrial Park on the east side of Wamego.

Affordable

Tuition & Fees (TEXTBOOK RENTAL INCLUDED)
Kansas Resident - $84

Class Size

Average of 20 students per class.
2 chemistry labs and 4 biology labs

To View Course Listings Go To:

1. www.highlandcc.edu
2. Prospective Students
3. Course Section Finder
4. Choose Wamego in drop-down, select year/term and
5. Press Search

Highland Community College Wamego Center

500 Miller Drive • Wamego, KS • 785-456-6006 • www.highlandcc.edu

Rising to the occasion

Hoskins scores career-high 24 points in win over Colorado State

By Nick Dunn
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

K-State-71 Colorado State-67

Team FG	20-of-56	22-of-53
Team 3-PT	4-of-12	5-of-17
Team FT	27-of-32	18-of-22
Team Rebs	34	34
Team Assists	11	15
Team TOs	18	23

Leading Scorer	Hoskins, 24	Harrison, 13
Leading Rebs	Martin, 7	M. Morris, 7
Leading Assist	Taybron, 6	Lewis, 6

For the fourth time this season, an undefeated opponent came into Bramlage Coliseum to face the K-State men's basketball team, and for the fourth time, the Wildcats gave that team its first loss.

This time around, K-State defeated Colorado State 71-67 Wednesday night. The Rams entered the game boasting a perfect 6-0 record.

Sophomore guard David Hoskins led the Cats (6-1) with his best game of the season, scoring a career-high 24 points on 6-of-9 shooting.

Before the game, coach Jim Wooldridge toyed with the idea of changing his starting lineup. This resulted in Hoskins' first career start, in which he came through in a big way.

Wooldridge said Hoskins' inside play was important in the victory.

"He's a tough guard in there," Wooldridge said. "We went to him as much as we could. I thought in the second half he really played well. He's strong, he's quick and he's kind of elusive."

Junior forward Cartier Martin, who pitched in to the scoring effort with 18 points, said he was happy to see Hoskins play so well.

"David Hoskins played great inside," Martin said. "He got some easy buckets, and he provided a presence in the paint for us. He's just a beast in there. He might be a guard, but he's a strong guard."

"Getting him the ball down there is great for us, because he's able to play inside and outside."

It was interesting to see the 6-foot-5 Hoskins score with such ease in the paint considering Colorado State featured two players listed at 7-feet tall.

Sophomore forward Jason Smith, one of the 7-footers, entered the game leading the Rams in scoring and rebounding with 19.8 points and 9.5 rebounds per game.

K-State used a variety of defenders in an attempt to shut down Smith, including 6-foot-6 guard Akeem Wright.

"Akeem has been our stopper," Wooldridge said. "He's been our guy that we go to when we need a perimeter guy guarded, or tonight a 7-foot guy."

Wright, along with Martin and senior forward Dramane Diarra, frustrated Smith throughout the game. Smith failed to score in the first half, and was bothered for much of the second half with foul trouble.

Smith finished the game with six points — on 6-of-6 shooting from the free-throw line — and did not make a field goal in his five attempts.

Junior guard Lance Harris said it was a team effort that allowed the Wildcats to stop Smith.

"We had spies on him every time he caught the ball," Harris said. "We knew they had (two players) who could shoot, so we stayed tight on them. But the other guys were used as spies on Smith."

K-State trailed at halftime 30-29 after shooting just 26.9 percent (7-of-26) from the field in the first half.

The Rams held a 44-42 advantage with 12 minutes, 33 seconds remaining in the game when the Wildcats used a 13-3 run to build a 55-47 lead.

From that point, K-State kept the lead for the rest of the game. Colorado State pulled within two in the final minute, but free-throw shooting sealed the win for the Wildcats.

Overall, free-throws were a strength for K-State, as it shot 27-of-32 from the line.

Wooldridge said his team's free-throw shooting made up for the poor shooting from the field.

"The free-throw line was good to us tonight," Wooldridge said. "It was the best part of our game, and it was consistent with what our game plan

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Sophomore guard David Hoskins puts up a shot over Colorado State's Michael Harrison during the second half Wednesday night at Bramlage Coliseum. Hoskins led the Wildcats in scoring with a game-high 24 points.

was, which was to go attack the basket."

After playing four games in eight days, the team now has a 10-day break before facing Bethune-Cookman at home on Dec. 17.

While some may think the players are ready for a break, Martin said that is not the case.

"I'd rather play in the games than practice," Martin said. "Your adrenaline flows in the games, and you have people watching, so it's a little more exciting."

"These games have been great games. We rested well, we played good teams, and we prepared ourselves well."

Big 12 Conference will earn respect during bowl season

The Big 12 Conference is home to some of the best schools in the country, not just academically, but also athletically.

Year in and year out, the conference always has teams in the national spotlight at the end of each respective season.

The Texas baseball team and Baylor's women's basketball team won national championships last year, while Oklahoma's football team has played in the national championship each of the past two seasons.

The 2005 football season will end with eight teams from the Big 12 competing in bowl games, as Texas (Rose), Texas Tech (Cotton), Iowa State (Houston), Missouri (Independence), Oklahoma (Holiday), Nebraska (Alamo), Colorado (Champs Sports) and Kansas (Fort Worth) represent the conference in this year's bowl games.

Normally, having 75 percent of a conference's teams going to bowls, including Texas, who is in the national championship after posting an undefeated 12-0 record this season, would correlate to positive media coverage and tons of hype surrounding the conference.

This season is different, however, because many sports analysts and writers have dogged the Big 12, calling it a shell of what it once was.

Skip Bayless, sports analyst for ESPN's Cold Pizza, said Texas does not deserve to be in the national championship because any team could go undefeated in the "Little 12."

Texas coach Mack Brown even voted Southern California No. 1 and his Longhorns No. 2 in the latest ESPN/USA Today coaches' poll.

The Longhorns better go into the national championship with a chip on their shoulder after seeing how their coach voted.

I would not want to be on a team whose coach doesn't give them the respect they deserve.

They deserve to be ranked No. 1 in the country, and next month, they are going to show the nation why.

The Longhorns need to defeat the Trojans on Jan. 4 to show the world they are a legitimate powerhouse and the Big 12 can still boast powerful teams.

Longhorn quarterback Vince Young will probably not win the Heisman Trophy this season (see USC's Reggie Bush), but he is the most dominant quarterback on the most dominant team, and it's unfortunate how only people in the Midwest can see that.

People around the country are talking about USC quarterback Matt Leinart as being better than Young, which makes sense considering Leinart did win the Heisman last year and is putting up better statistics this year.

But if you watch Young play, you will see he has one thing over Leinart; he is a better scrambler, making him more effective outside of the pocket, which is important when going up against one of the best pass-rushing teams in the nation.

When Young is on the field, magic happens. Young is the Michael Vick of college football.

Also, we shouldn't overlook the fact that Texas has a powerful running game, which those analysts say is crucial to winning close games.

The Longhorns have five running backs with more than 350 yards rushing, and all have at least six touchdowns.

People can say all they want about the Big 12 being down this season, but I see at least six Big 12 victories out of eight bowls, and Texas will bring home the national championship.

I wonder how fast the analysts are going to change their minds and retract their previous statements about the conference after Jan. 4.

Cedrique Flemming is a junior in mass communications. You can e-mail him at sports@spub.ksu.edu.

1-MINUTE DRILL

The Associated Press

MLB | Royals release

Carrasco; may play in Japan

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Pitcher D.J. Carrasco has been released by Kansas City so he can pursue the chance to play in Japan, the Royals announced Wednesday.

Carrasco became a starter for Kansas City last season and was 6-8 with a 4.79 earned run average in 20 starts and one relief appearance. The 28-year-old right hander spent parts of three seasons with Kansas City, which drafted him from the Pittsburgh Pirates organization in 2002.

He appeared in 101 games for the Royals, starting in 22 of them, and had a 14-15 career record with a 4.81 ERA.

Carrasco

CFB | Denver Post reports

Barnett out at Colorado

Gary Barnett's tumultuous tenure as the University of Colorado's football coach reportedly will come to an end.

However, the coach told ESPN.com that his reported ouster from the school is news to him.

Citing a source close to contract talks between Barnett and the school, the Denver Post reported on Wednesday that Barnett will not be retained as head coach.

The newspaper reported that there is no timetable for an announcement, but athletic director Mike Bohn was expected to talk to Barnett soon.

However, Barnett told ESPN.com's Pat Forde: "No one has said a word to me. I have not heard from one person that is going to happen. ... Nobody has presented anything to me. I am continuing as if I'm the head coach at Colorado."

Barnett

NFL | Architect of 'Steel Curtain' defense dies at 75

SARASOTA, Fla. — Bud Carson, the architect of Pittsburgh's "Steel Curtain" defense who later coached the Cleveland Browns, died Wednesday. He was 75.

Carson, who had been ill with emphysema, died at his home, according to his wife's employer, TV station WWSB.

Carson was the Steelers' defensive coordinator from 1972-77, and shaped a defense led by Joe Greene, Jack Ham and Jack Lambert into one of the best in NFL history. During that time, the Steelers won three Super Bowl titles under coach Chuck Noll.

Carson

CAR | NASCAR agrees

to deal with ESPN, ABC

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — NASCAR agreed to an eight-year television deal Wednesday that will split its schedule among four networks beginning in 2007.

NASCAR's 36-race schedule will be divided among ABC/ESPN, Fox and TNT, and the annual all-star race will be aired on the Speed Channel. The deals with all the networks will run through the 2014 season.

The deal marks a return to the sport for ABC/ESPN and the furthering of a long-term relationship for TNT.

ABC/ESPN had been shut out of the last TV contract that began in 2001 and split the schedule among Fox, NBC and the network's sister stations. When NBC declined to extend its contract with NASCAR, it opened the door for the Disney Company to negotiate.

SCR | Adu makes peace

with United, plans to return

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Freddy Adu has made peace with D.C. United, and the teenager who was disgruntled over lack of playing time plans to return next season.

"I'm excited to remain with D.C. United," Adu said on the team's Web site.

"I'm working hard to improve my game this offseason in order to become a bigger part of the team next season."

Adu, his mother and his agent met with United officials recently, and the 16-year-old forward also held separate meetings with coach Peter Nowak in Florida to clear the air over Adu's role on the team.

Adu

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN

Kyle Lancaster sails over the bar during the invitational events at the Kansas Relays last spring. Lancaster placed second behind 2004 Olympic silver medalist Matt Hemingway.

Senior high-jumper raises bar at K-State

By Jonathan Garten
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Five inches in three years.

Five inches doesn't get you very far, but K-State high jumper Kyle Lancaster is thrilled with the results. Lancaster has improved his personal best mark from 7-feet, 2 inches, to 7-foot-7 in the three years since arriving at K-State.

"Five inches in three years is huge in high jumping," Lancaster said. "It just shows how much I have improved in my time here at K-State."

K-State track and field coach Cliff Rovelto said he expected the Fort Scott, Kan., native to be a solid addition to his track team when he recruited Lancaster. Rovelto never expected the senior to already have three outdoor NCAA All-America awards and two indoor All-America awards.

"There was no way you could predict he was going to get to where he is now," Rovelto said.

Lancaster spent a lot of time getting stronger and faster, Rovelto said, and also made the technical changes necessary to improving.

"He's grown to accept that work is involved," Rovelto said. "His margin of error isn't as great as it is for others."

Growing up, Lancaster played football, basketball and track. In high school he was a three-year starter on the basketball team at Fort Scott High School, earning an All-State selection as a junior.

Lancaster said he wasn't even interested in track until the spring of his junior year when his parents were going to make him get a job.

The threat paid off, as Lancaster was chosen as a high school All-American by Track and Field News in 2002.

Lancaster set his personal best mark of 7-foot-7 last year at the UTEP Springtime Invitational in El Paso, Texas.

At the time, the height was the second-best jump in the nation.

K-State kicks off its indoor track season Friday with the Carol Robinson Winter Pentathlon.

Rovelto said he still does not know if he is going to redshirt Lancaster for the indoor season, as he said he thinks K-State has enough depth in the high jump to have five good high jumpers by the end of the indoor season.

"He had a very long year last year," Rovelto said. "He may be gung-ho right now, but in a couple of months, he could be tired. He's trained well but we want to be careful."

THE EDGE

Thursday, Dec. 8, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 7

Best books

Winter break a good opportunity to catch up on reading

Review by Amy Bolton
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Many students are too busy during the semester to read books outside of class, so winter break is an opportunity to curl up on the couch and read a good book. While there are millions to choose from, these are some good books to consider when browsing the shelves at Barnes & Noble.

"My Sister's Keeper"

★★★★★

By Jodi Picoult

This book will have readers questioning the value of human life, and how far scientists should go to save another human.

Anna's older sister, Kate, has a rare form of leukemia that she was diagnosed with as a baby. Anna was conceived through in vitro fertilization. Scientists created her to be the closest genetic match to Kate so they could use stem cells from her umbilical cord to hopefully put Kate into remission.

As Kate continued to get sick, Anna donates everything from bone marrow to lymphocytes to repeatedly save Kate's life.

Now, Kate's kidneys are failing, and, at age 13, Anna is expected to donate one of hers to save Kate's life again. But instead of helping her sister, Anna sues her parents for medical emancipation, so she can make her own health-related decisions.

The result tears the family apart. Even though Anna knows Kate will die without her kidney, she refuses to donate it. This book will have all readers asking how far one person should be expected to go to save another's life.

"In Her Shoes"

★★★★★

By Jennifer Weiner

Sisters Maggie and Rose have nothing in common, other than the pain of their mother's suicide when they were kids.

Maggie is wild, can't keep a job and is always being evicted from her apartments. Rose is an uptight Ivy-League educated lawyer who continues to bail out her sister and take care of her when she needs it.

When Maggie does something unforgivable, Rose throws her out of her life and vows never to see her again. Both of the sisters thought their lives were good but it isn't until they spend this time apart that they both figure out what they want to do with their lives and what kind of things they are capable of.

Once each sister discovers who she really is, she realizes that despite their differences and troubles, she not only wants her sister back in her life but she can't live without her.

"The Da Vinci Code"

★★★★☆

By Dan Brown

Anyone planning on seeing the Tom Hanks movie "The Da Vinci Code," scheduled to come out in May, needs to read the book before seeing the film.

Predominant symbolologist

Robert Langdon gets a late-night call to come to the Louvre Museum in Paris, where Jacques Saunière, the museum curator, has been murdered.

In the next 12 hours, Landon and Sophie Neveu, Saunière's granddaughter, race across Europe deciphering clues hidden in ancient pieces of art to discover a 2,000-year-old secret before a controversial branch of the church, the Opus Dei, destroys it forever.

"Harry Potter and the Half Blood Prince"

★★★★★

By J.K. Rowling

True Harry Potter fans finished this book the week it came out, but anyone who hasn't read the series should take this time off school to work their way through the 650-plus page book (assuming books one through five have already been finished.)

In this book, the sixth in a series of seven, Harry has to cope with raging hormones, learn more about the childhood

Also worth checking out:

"Angels and Demons" by Dan Brown
"Pride and Prejudice" by Jane Austen
"Velocity" by Dean Koontz
"The Traveler" by John Twelve Hawks
"Memoirs of a Geisha" by Arthur Golden

New York Times Top 5
Best Selling Hardcover
Fiction Books:

1. "Mary, Mary" by James Patterson
2. "At First Sight" by Nicholas Sparks
3. "Light From Heaven" by Jan Karon
4. "Predator" by Patricia Cornwell
5. "The Lighthouse" by P. D. James

Source: The New York Times

of a sinister Dark Lord determined to kill him, and discover who the "Half Blood Prince" is and whether he's helping Harry or trying to destroy the wizarding world.

Like each book before it, this book reveals more and more about the past, and leaves more questions about what will come in the future.

HOROSCOPES

Aquarius (Jan. 21 - Feb. 18)

Good day to curl up with a good book. Later, you will build a fort out of your furniture and some sheets and shoot rubber bands at people.

Pisces (Feb. 19 - March 20)

Excellent day to make strange "hooting" noises while hiding in the bushes.

Aries (March 21 - April 19)

Stop slouching, and sit up straight! How do you expect to get ahead in the world if you pay no attention to proper posture?

Taurus (April 20 - May 20)

You will find a renewed interest in home repair or remodeling soon. Oddly, that will occur shortly after a visit by your nephew.

Gemini (May 21 - June 20)

You will mosey this week. There's nothing that wrong with moseying after all, and it's occasionally just what is needed. In fact, you'll soon begin work on "Mosey Your Way To Fitness," a best-selling self-help book on the topic.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22)

Good day to learn to play the tuba.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22)

Good day to make as much goulash as possible.

Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 22)

Today you will uncover a conspiracy involving leaf-blowers and other noisy and completely pointless garden equipment.

Libra (Sept. 22 - Oct. 22)

The mythic asteroid Chaeron, in collaboration with the uneasy spirit of Atahualpa (the last Inca king), will act to produce a gastric upset of epic proportions today. Keep your chakras clear, and carry some Immodium.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

Today the universe will stop expanding and start contracting. You will be the only one who notices. Also, you will develop a strange desire to wear golf shoes.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

This is a good time to knock on wood. As you know, that's a way of thanking the leprechauns for your recent good fortune. Or if you can find some formica, knock on that — that thanks the mutant sludge creature who is hiding under the stairs. It all depends who you want on your side, I guess.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20)

Today you will flip a coin four times, and it will come up "heads," "tails," "heads," "heads." Then someone will come up and say "hey, whatcha doing?" Then the phone will ring. Just a coincidence though, in this case.

Source: www.humorscope.com

MUSIC

Upcoming Shows:

Thursday, Dec. 8

Arthur Dodge & the Horsefeathers
21+, 10 p.m. at Auntie Mae's Parlor,
614 N. 12th St.

Courtesy art

Friday, Dec. 9

Addictive Behavior, Amsterband,
Emma's Mine, Shaggy Green Carpet
All ages, 5 p.m. at PJ's Bar, 1129
Laramie St.

Rockhill, Pendergast

21+, 10 p.m. at Auntie Mae's Parlor,
614 N. 12th St.

Saturday, Dec. 10

The Meat Purveyors, The Pembertons
21+, 10 p.m. at Auntie Mae's Parlor,
614 N. 12th St.

Source: Manhattan Music Coalition

Variations offered for traditional eggnog recipes

By Kelly Schmitt
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

It's eggnog season, and finding the right recipe for a particular group may prove challenging yet fun.

With hundreds of eggnog recipes to choose from, it could be interesting to try as many different kinds as the holiday season allows.

The traditional eggnog involves a variety of alcohol, from brandy to rum.

However, non-alcoholic recipes are also available, allowing for a wider range of guests to enjoy the traditional treat.

Special variations include eggnogs with peach brandy, and one favorite for the dessert lover is chocolate eggnog.

Some of the eggnogs cook the eggs, while others do not.

Worth the work holiday eggnog

Old-fashioned eggnog

1 pint brandy
1/2 pint rye whiskey
1/2 pint rum
1/4 pint sherry
8 eggs
12 Tablespoons of sugar

1 quart milk
1 quart cream

Mix the liquors. Separate the egg yolks from the egg whites. Beat the yolks only and add sugar. Mix well. Gradually add the liquor mixture, stirring constantly. Add the milk and cream. In a separate bowl, beat the egg whites until stiff. Lightly fold the whites into the mixture. Refrigerate at least two hours or until very cold. Serve with nutmeg sprinkled over the top.

Chocolate eggnog

1 cup of milk
1 1/2 cups of chocolate milk
5 eggs
1/4 cup brown sugar

1/2 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup crème de cacao (or Kahlua)
1/2 cup dark rum
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

In a saucepan, combine the milks until very hot, but do not boil. In a bowl, beat the eggs and sugar. Mixture should be thick. Add half of the milk mixture, stirring well. Pour the mixture into the saucepan with the remaining milk and keep at low heat. Mix in the whipping cream and crème de cacao, stirring until thick. Do not boil. Remove from heat and add the rum and cinnamon. Refrigerate until cold. Serve with nutmeg sprinkled on the top. If desired, add shaved chocolate and whipped cream.

Non-alcoholic eggnog

4 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
4 cups milk
2 teaspoons rum extract
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup whipping cream

Beat the eggs, sugar and salt in a saucepan. Add milk. Mix over low heat, stirring constantly. When done, mixture will lightly coat a spoon. Chill in refrigerator. Add the extract and nutmeg. In a separate bowl, beat the whipped cream until stiff, and then fold into the mixture. Pour into glasses and serve. Sprinkle additional nutmeg over the top, if desired.

Marsh to compete in national video game competition

By Adam Hanks
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Dustin Marsh isn't a video game fanatic. During weeks when his schedule isn't filled with projects, homework and exams, he may sneak in a game a day.

But when he does play, he is good enough to win championships.

Marsh, junior in landscape architecture, won the EA Sports 2006 NCAA Football Tournament at K-State earlier this year, and is getting ready to head to the national competition at the ESPN Zone in New York.

Marsh said he had never played NCAA Football on an Xbox prior to winning the competition; he had always played the game using the PlayStation 2 format. The tournament was his first time using Xbox.

"It was pretty random how I got into the tournament," Marsh said. "I was in class, and a friend of mine came down and asked me if I wanted to play in it. I started winning games and I never stopped."

After a crash course on the Xbox controller, Marsh said he was thrust into the tournament, competing against more than 100 students who had actually played the game on an Xbox before.

"I'd say, percentage wise, it was 50 percent luck, 50 percent skill," Marsh said. "The first person I beat was better than I was, and I was screwing up with the controls, but I ended up winning with a last-second touchdown. I've had my share of breaks, and I hope to continue that luck in New York."

On Friday, Marsh will compete against 16 other top EA Sports NCAA Football players in the nation. They were all chosen in the same way as Marsh — by tournaments at their schools. The first place prize for the tournament is a $10,000 Visa gift card and a trip to the Heisman Memorial Trophy Awards Dinner.

When he gets to the tournament, Marsh said he will probably find an intense and hostile atmosphere, Jennifer Gonzalez, a publicist with EA Sports, said.

"There is always trash talk, and there's a lot of hype around. It's always heated battles." This is the tournament's second year, and last year's champion, Jesse Hanninen from Florida State University, will be back to defend his title.

Despite the level of competition, Marsh said he hasn't been practicing much lately.

"Honestly, I haven't played since Thanksgiving," he said. "I've been up all night for the past two weeks."

Marsh said his past two weeks have been filled with end-of-the-semester projects, and he has to finish them before he leaves.

Along with forcing him to rush the completion of his projects, the tournament may cut into his finals schedule.

"If I win, I'll get back into Kansas City (Mo.) on Tuesday, and I have a final that night," he said.

Even though the competition in New York will be tough, Marsh said he hasn't started to worry — yet.

"I haven't really had time to worry about it," he said. "There will be 15 other players there who I don't hold a candle to, and with $10,000 on the line, there's probably going to be some nerves."

Clearing the path

Christopher Hanewinkel | COLLEGIAN
Joel Groninga, agriculture assistant for the department of facilities, shovels snow from a walkway near the K-State Student Union parking lot Wednesday afternoon.

Internet fraud continues to rise

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

According to the National Fraud Information Center, a project of the National Consumers League, the average loss to Internet crimes had increased to $2,033 in Sept. 2005, up from the average loss of $895 in 2004.

"The rule of thumb is that if it looks too good to be true it probably is," said Brad Schlerf of the Riley County Police Department, who specializes in high-tech and computer crimes.

"Unfortunately, we're a society of people who look to make a dollar ... those are the types of people who fall for the scams."

Among the most common forms of Internet fraud are identity theft, market manipulation schemes, business opportunity scams, investment schemes and auction and retail schemes, which can take place on popular Web sites such as eBay and PayPal.

Steve Gregoire, RCPD detective who specializes in financial crimes, said eBay scams are common.

"In fact, I even got one of those at home myself because we do some eBay shopping from time to time, and we've gotten one of those bogus e-mails saying you have to update your account," he said.

According to the National Fraud Information Center, online auction scams compose 42 percent of all Internet fraud complaints, with an average loss of $1,129 from January to September 2005.

Becky Learmont, sophomore in animal life sciences and industries, has also fallen victim to this particular form of Internet fraud, when making a purchase from eBay.

"I paid $50 to $100 for a piccolo, and it was really bad. I was basically playing a lead pipe," said Learmont, who was fortunate enough to receive a refund.

However, the increased number of scams does not mean that online auctions are entirely unsafe.

Web sites such as eBay are, for the most part, a secure and credible means of business, RCPD officials said.

"There's always going to be a chance, but for the most part, it is

"The rule of thumb is that if it looks too good it probably is."

Brad Schlerf
DETECTIVE

a secure way of doing business," Gregoire said. "There are companies who work solely on eBay and don't even have a store front. There are offices in warehouses where computers are sitting, and that's how they do business. But there's always going to be people out there who try to find the loophole."

However, there are ways to tell if an online auction site is legitimate.

For example, legitimate sites such as eBay will have its logo or some indication that it is an official site, within the browser address.

By highlighting the Web address, one should be able to tell if it is an official eBay site.

Be on the lookout for indication that the site may have come from somewhere else, such as another Web site or a foreign country, Gregoire said.

"If it's anything other than what eBay should look like you can bet it's a scam," he said.

It is not only Internet auctions that online shoppers should be concerned about; identity theft is another common Internet crime.

The best way to prevent this is simply to be more skeptical, Schlerf said.

Local officials said identity theft is the most common scam in the area.

"There's just so much that can be done, scams in general," he said. "The most popular ones are not done directly off of Internet Web sites. They're done through e-mails asking you for your information, or if they appear to be through your bank, or through eBay or through PayPal."

Several identity theft schemes aim to get the victim to go to a site they created, much similar to a credible business site, Schlerf said.

In addition to monitoring which sites should receive personal information, there are ad-

Tips for Avoiding Internet Auction Fraud

- Understand as much as possible about how the auction works, what your obligations are as a buyer, and what the seller's obligations are before you bid.
- Find out what actions the Web site/company takes if a problem occurs and consider insuring the transaction and shipment.
- Learn as much as possible about the seller, especially if the only information you have is an e-mail address. If it is a business, check the Better Business Bureau where the seller/business is located.
- Examine the feedback on the seller.
- Determine what method of payment the seller is asking from the buyer and where he/she is asking to send payment.
- If a problem occurs with the auction transaction, it could be much more difficult if the seller is located outside the U.S. because of the difference in laws.
- Ask the seller about when delivery can be expected and if there is a problem with the merchandise. Is it covered by a warranty or can you exchange it?
- Find out if shipping and delivery are included in the auction price or are additional costs so there are no unexpected costs.
- There should be no reason to give out your social security number or driver's license number to the seller.

Source: Federal Bureau of Investigation

People who have been a victim of an online scam are encouraged to file their complaints with the Internet Crime Complaint Center, which is a government-run Web site, at www.ic3.gov, he said.

ditional ways to protect oneself when making the payment for online goods.

While it is common for online businesses to request payment through Western Union, that may not be a wise decision.

Patrons are best off using payment methods such as credit cards and debit cards that have been issued by a bank.

"Banks offer levels of security with their own services with the cards, and those are always the best because you're protected in more than one way," Schlerf said.

"But for every way we come up with there's a bad guy out there trying to find a way around it."

3 ROTC students selected for education delays

Army cadets chosen to attend graduate school

By Hannah Crippen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Three K-State Army ROTC cadets were granted Army education delays to attend graduate school.

Jason Heaser, senior in political science; Monte Hines, senior in history; and Sara Brogan Hoffman, senior in animal science, received the delays.

Army ROTC seniors become commissioned Army officers upon graduation, but if they are selected for an education delay, they can attend graduate school for two years before joining the Army.

Heaser said he will attend law school so he can serve as a judge advocate general officer. Hines will be an Army chaplain after attending seminary. Hoffman said she will pursue a degree in microbiology and immunology from K-State's Graduate School. She will work as an Army medical research scientist.

"As one of the larger programs by enrollment, our students benefit from an active peer learning environment," Lt. Col. Arthur DeGroat, professor of military science, said. "We also have access to highly successful military practitioners at Fort Riley and Fort Leavenworth to mentor and advise our students towards their military aspirations."

Hines said K-State's ROTC program prepares students to apply for the education delays.

"The biggest thing was networking," he said. "DeGroat knows a retired major general who was the top chaplain in the army. I was able to talk to him."

Hines said having the opportunity to delay his entrance into the Army will enable him to carry out what he said he discovered God wants him to do.

"I want to be able to help soldiers get through difficulties they might have, like right now in Iraq, with psychological problems, with taking another life or being deployed," Hines said.

Of about 150 students nationally who request an education delay, less than 100 students are selected, according to a press release.

DeGroat said the ROTC program works hard from the beginning to prepare cadets in their fields of study for the education delay selection process.

"First, we expose our students to these fields as early as a freshman," DeGroat said. "We provide oversight over the application process, help find top-quality personal endorsements, help schedule key preparatory events."

Giving cadets the opportunity to continue their education provides the Army with people who have leadership development skills, DeGroat said.

Hoffman's father died when she was 6 years old, as a result of some experimental drugs he was given as a child. Then, she decided she wanted to make drugs that didn't hurt people.

"It has been a big part of my life to not have my dad as a part of it," Hoffman said.

She said she wants to work at the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases and make drugs that fight chemical weapons and biological agents. After that, Hoffman said she would like to do research and make vaccines at the Centers for Disease Control. She said her education delay will enable her to reach these goals.

"If it wasn't for Lt. Col. DeGroat, I don't think I would've gotten it," Hoffman said. "We have a great ROTC program here. He works really hard."

DeGroat said the Army and its future are important to him.

"This program is vital to our nation's ability in providing the leadership of our Army," DeGroat said. "It is also vital to allowing our military students to earn an officer's commission from our federal government in the service fields of their choice."

"As a member of the military profession myself, it is both an opportunity to give back to the institution that I have enjoyed serving for 21 years, as well as an opportunity to fulfill the sacred trust made to the American people to provide competent and caring leaders for the young, volunteer soldiers that serve our nation."

Get in the Holiday Spirit!
15% off all gift certificates*
AGGIE HAIR SHAPERS
offer good thru December 15 *good on services only
Phone: 776-3600 Address: 1220 Moro

Crossing your fingers won't help...
Emergency contraception can prevent pregnancy if taken within 72 hours of unprotected sex.
A prescription is required. Contact a doctor, health care provider or local health department.
AND
Call the ARMYLINE Hotline 1-800-665-2358
www.not2late.com

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH!
at the K-State Student Union Bookstore Textbook Department
Buy Back Hours:
Mon, Dec 12th - Thurs, Dec 15th: 8:00 am - 8:00 pm
Fri, Dec 16th: 8:00 am - 6:00 pm
*Please Bring a Current Photo ID To Sell Your Books!

RAMBLERS
Every Thursday night is Steak Night
$8.95 12oz USDA Top Sirloin with all the trimmings
$17.45 Couples Dinner-2 complete dinners
$17.50 All Domestic Bottles
8711 E Hwy 24 (785) 539-4989

hungry? check out the Menu Guide
in back of the Campus Phone Book available in Kadin 103 Mon-Fri 8am-5pm

Killian's ALLEY
1210 Moro 537-0775
$2.00 Killian's Boulevard
$2.00 All Bottles Imports & Domestic
$1.75 Domestic Draws
Killian's Neon Giveaway @ 10 Sign-Up Till 10

The Salty Rim
1204 Moro 537-8910
1/2 Price Margaritas
Ultima-20 oz.
Grape
Strawberry
Orange
Cherry
Watermelon
Berry Banana
Mango
Strawberry Kiwi

CLASSIFIEDS

To place an advertisement call 785-532-6555

Thursday, Dec. 8, 2005

KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Page 9

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

DUPLEX, CLOSE TO CAMPUS. Off-street parking. Spacious two-bedroom, two bath. Available January 1st. (785)456-8835.

NEW TWO-BEDROOM DUPLEX. Close to campus, all appliances furnished. No smoking, no pets. (785)539-1975. (785)313-8296.

ONE AND TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Next to campus. Very nice. Clean, quiet. Water/ trash paid. Parking provided. No pets. (785)537-7050.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Close to campus. Water/ trash/ gas paid. No pets, no smoking. Off-street parking. (785)539-1975 or (785)313-8296.

ONE-BEDROOMS $380-$490. three-bedrooms $700-$825. (785)537-7701.

THREE-BEDROOMS AVAILABLE now. Close to campus. Water/ trash paid. Central air, coin-operated laundry. (785)537-7810. (785)537-2255.

TWO-BEDROOM AT 1209 Claflin Road. One block from campus. $600/ month. January 1st lease. Washer/ dryer. Off-street parking. (785)341-6972.

TWO-BEDROOM, ONE bath side-by-side duplex. Living room/ dining room, fireplace, washer/ dryer hookups, unfinished basement, garage. $700. (785)537-0982.

LOOK BRAND New House. 722 Osage. Four-bedroom, two bath, washer/ dryer, rent/ lease/ pets negotiable. (785)556-1281 or (785)776-9124.

145
Roommate
Wanted

ROOMMATE WANTED for two-bedroom apartment. $245/ month. Available early- mid December. Water, trash, and cable paid. Call (316)288-6346.

Roommates needed for four-bedroom next to campus. Two bath, washer/ dryer, dishwasher. No pets. (785)537-7050.

120
For Rent-
Houses

150
Sublease

NEW TWO-BEDROOM, two bathroom apartment. one and one-half blocks from campus, one block from Aggieville. Washer/ dryer. All new appliances, off-street parking. Ground level. $400 per person plus cheap utilities. January through July 31 sublease. Call (785)317-5326 or (316)640-1885.

ROOMMATES: MALE or female. pets okay. Rent negotiable. Washer/ dryer, large yard, one-third utilities. Call James (785)317-5006.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. Four-bedroom house. $275/ month, negotiable. Call (785)313-0440.

SUBLEASER WANTED: nice large room available January 1. $300/ month. First two rent payments free. (785)871-1626.

125
For Sale-
Houses

COUNTRY ESTATE seven plus acres: three-bedroom, two and one-half bath; two fireplace custom home with numerous upgrades. 30x40 and 40x50 outbuildings. Kaw River view and access; $449,500. Showings by appointment only. McPeak & Pugh Real Estate. (785)456-1899.

OPEN HOUSE Sunday, December 11th 1 to 3 pm. 1411 Julie Drive, Wamego. Three-bedroom, two bath multi-level home in excellent location: two fireplaces, new Lennox furnace, air-filtration and humidifier. $147,900. McPeak & Pugh Real Estate. (785) 456-1899.

135
For Sale-
Mobile Homes

OLDER HOME 12x60 re-modeled cozy interior, two-bedroom, one bath. Five minute from campus. Safe neighborhood. Available January 2006, $7,000. (785)821-0079.

145
Roommate
Wanted

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed non-smoking. $185/ month rent plus one-fifth utilities. Please call Courtney (574)596-5281 or Emily (913)481-1867.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. Available December 15. January to May. $290/ month. Pets allowed. 615 Thurston. Call (785)341-1073.

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. House one block from campus. January 1-May 31st. $240 plus one-fourth utilities. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher, cable, internet. Call (785)317-0965.

FEMALE ROOMMATE wanted. Three-bedroom house. Very nice and newly remodeled. $320 without utilities. (316)990-2046.

FEMALE ROOMMATE: No smoking. Two-bedroom apartment. Close to campus. Off-street parking. Washer/ dryer. Available immediately. (620)481-9837.

FEMALE ROOMMATES needed. Fun, out-going, no pets. Two-bedrooms available. $300/ each. (913)486-2745.

FIRST MONTH'S rent half off! Male roommate needed. Two-bedroom available December 17th. Walk to campus. Call (913)219-7801.

MALE OR Female: Clean and responsible. 613 Larimer. Contact Travis (785)221-7318.

MATURE FEMALE roommate wanted for two-bedroom house one block from campus. $275/ month utilities paid. Available now. (785)537-4947.

ONE-BEDROOM needed for four-bedroom house. 1811 Elaine Drive. Close to campus. Starting January. (316)209-1084.

ROOMMATE NEEDED for four-bedroom house. 1718 Pierre Street. $312.50 plus utilities- lease term negotiable. Call (316)209-4888.

ROOMMATE NEEDED! Nice apartment, great location. Fun roommates. Call Michelle at (785)456-5040 for more information.

ROOMMATE WANTED. $350, one-half utilities. Scott (785)341-5153.

ROOMMATE WANTED. (785)539-0500.

ROOMMATE WANTED: four-bedroom house. One block from campus. $235 plus utilities. (620)654-6044.

ROOMMATES NEEDED four-bedroom, one bath house. Furnished. No smoking or pets. Washer/ dryer. Hot tub. Six month lease. 2454 Himes. (913)206-2777.

ROOMMATES NEEDED. Two-bedroom apartment available January. Pets welcome. $290/ month plus electric and cable. (785)633-7133.

ROOMMATES WANTED: two female, $250. month all paid. Nice, quiet four-bedroom (West of Stadium). (620)382-6910 or (620)382-6405.

WALK to class. No smoking, no drinking, no pets. (785)539-1554.

150
Sublease

FEMALE ROOMMATE needed. January to May. $240/ month, includes utilities. Caged animals allowed. Very short walk to campus. Call (913)638-3732.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. Close to campus/ Aggieville. $275/ month plus half utilities. Available January. Call (785)282-5364.

FEMALE SUBLEASER needed. January- May. Clean, quiet six-bedrooms, three bathroom house, one block from campus. Washer/ dryer. $275/ month plus discount before December 13. Lane (913)481-4664.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted for January- July. Walking distance to campus. First months rent paid. Rent negotiable. Call (785)332-6011.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted. Half block from campus. $275 all utilities paid. Call Ashley (316)258-7768.

FEMALE SUBLEASER wanted: one bedroom in four-bedroom house. Two bath. Very clean. Washer/ dryer, dishwasher. $285/ month. Walk to Aggieville. Call Susanne (620)366-0558.

FEMALES ONLY NEEDED for one room in a four-bedroom, two bath, close to campus. Washer/ dryer. Lease from January to May or January to August. Call (785)776-9746.

FOUR-BEDROOM, TWO bath new duplex. Washer/ dryer. Close to campus. $287/ month/ person. Available January 1. (816)896-9034.

MALE SUBLEASE January- May. $250/ month. nice house close to campus. Call (785)302-0098.

MALE SUBLEASE wanted. One-bedroom out of three-bedroom house. Rent $200/ month or best offer plus utilities. Available after finals. (913)636-6686.

MALE SUBLEASER needed immediately. 1026 Ratone. Two blocks from campus. Share house with three males. Sublease January- May. (620)200-0977.

NICE TWO-BEDROOM. Close to City Park. Washer/ dryer. No pets. (913)579-1887. call for details.

ONE OR two rooms in four-bedroom. $275/ month includes cable/ trash/ deposit/ furnished January 1. At University Crossing. Call (816)728-1019.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Great location, one block to campus. January Sublease. January paid. $365/ month. Call (785)554-4424.

ONE-BEDROOM CHASE Manhattan Apartments available December 21. Call (785)539-8366. Water/ trash paid. Pets allowed.

ONE-BEDROOM. One bath apartment for spring semester. Close to campus. Water and trash paid. $450/ month. Call Caroline. (785)564-1284.

ONE-BEDROOM FURNISHED! unfurnished. One bathroom. For Spring semester. Water/ trash paid. $400/ month. 1858 Claflin. Call Andres. (785)341-7892.

RENT NEGOTIABLE. Female sublease wanted. Walking distance to campus. Large room. Available January 1. Please call (785)640-3288.

SUBLEASE BEGINS January. Nice spacious studio apartment in Aggieville. $400 includes gas/ trash/ water/ laundry. Call (785)341-7336 or (316)655-7494.

SUBLEASE NEEDED one-bedroom in three-bedroom apartment. 1214 Valtier. $250/ month, water, trash, cable paid. (785)554-2349.

SUBLEASER NEEDED from January through July. Spacious three-bedroom apartment. one-half block from campus. Apartment furnished. $283/ month plus bills. For more information call Laura Torres at (786)348-9669 or laigu85@ksu.edu

SUBLEASER NEEDED. Available December or January. One or two rooms in a four-bedroom. Call (785)317-4301.

150
Sublease

SUBLEASER NEEDED. First month free. As soon as possible. $375/ month. new furnace, carpet. Studio. (785)410-4783.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: One-bedroom apartment. Available December 12- May. $490/ month. Pets allowed for $25/ month. Gas and water paid. Laundry facilities. Pool. Call (785)341-1939.

SUBLEASER NEEDED: Two-bedroom apartment. Block from campus and Aggieville. All utilities paid except electricity. $275/ month. Call (316)210-1164 or (316)993-0214.

SUBLEASER TO fill one-bedroom in nice three-bedroom house. Five blocks from campus. Call Heather at (620)437-6611.

SUBLEASER WANTED for spring semester. Huge bedroom with attached bath in large two-bedroom, two bath apartment. Walk to class/ Aggieville. Call (620)408-6442.

SUBLEASER WANTED, available now through May 31. Two blocks from campus. Rent $250 plus utilities. December rent paid. Laundry, water and trash paid. Call Kelly (952)200-6842.

SUBLEASER(S) WANTED! Two-bedroom apartment with washer and dryer. One block from campus! Water and trash paid. Cheap rent for location! Call (316)288-9629.

SUBLEASERS NEEDED, three-bedroom, two bathroom apartment. Washer/ dryer. Very nice, two years old. Can rent together or individually. (785)317-3036, (785)313-5093.

SUBLEASERS WANTED for one- two bedrooms for spring and/or summer. Close to campus with washer/ dryer. Rent negotiable! (316)706-7272.

TWO-BEDROOM APARTMENT. Water/ gas/ trash paid. $275/ month each. Call (785)564-2948.

UNIVERSITY CROSSING. two-bedroom to share with male roommate. Monthly rent negotiable. Furnished washer/ dryer, cable included. Please contact (913)909-5448.

PROGRAMMER CIVIC-PLUS is the nation's leading provider of custom designed local government websites. Microsoft ASP and SQL experience required. $14.50/ hour. Email resume in Microsoft Word or text format to jobs@civicplus.com.

UNION STATE bank is looking for a self-motivated, multi-tasking individual with excellent computer skills, customer service and problem solving abilities in banking operations. Excellent career opportunity with good benefits and work environment. Send resume to USBank@Kansas.net or P.O. Box 518 Clay Center, KS 67432.

200
service
directory

300 employment
opportunities

310
Help Wanted

The Collegian cannot verify the financial potential of advertisements in the Employment/Career classification. Readers are advised to approach any such employment opportunity with reasonable caution. The Collegian urges our readers to contact the Better Business Bureau, 501 SE Jefferson, Topeka, KS 66607-1190. (785)232-0454.

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in securing and holding employment in any field of work or labor for which he/she is properly qualified regardless of race, sex, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2441.

"BARTENDING" $300 a day potential. No experience necessary. Training provided. Call 1-800-965-6520 ext. 144.

OUTBOUND SALES. CivicPlus is the nation's leader in producing custom-designed local government websites. Currently we are hiring part-time and full-time telemarketing staff to assist in our sales efforts. Must be a motivated self-starter with strong communication skills. Base wage plus bonuses equals about $18/ hour or higher. Email resume to jobs@civicplus.com in Microsoft Word or text format. Equal Opportunity Employer.

310
Help Wanted

AFTER SCHOOL Mentoring Program Assistant, part-time for Spring semester working with teens 13-18 in a structured setting. Assistant developing educational activities and facilitating weekly meetings. Must be available Tuesday/ Wednesday afternoons. Must be reliable and able to work independently. Experience working with youth preferred. Send letter of application, resume and three references to Linda Teeter, UFM, 1221 Thurston Street, Manhattan, KS 66502. Applications deadline December 15. Equal Opportunity Employer.

FUN, SEASONAL help wanted. Floral design part-time, experience necessary. Apply at Manhattan Floral next to Target.

GET PAID to drive a brand new car! Now paying drivers $800- $3200 a month. Pick up your free car key today. www.freecarkey.com

LUNCHROOM/ PLAYGROUND Supervisors-Hall Monitors: needed for the 2005-2006 school year. $6.50 per hour, one and one-half-two hours per day. 11:00 a.m.- 1:00 p.m. Apply to USD 383, 2031 Poyntz Ave., Manhattan, KS 66502. (785)587-2000. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME After School Program Coordinator position in a large established Child Care Center. Coursework in education required. Experience in childcare education preferred. Candidates must be committed to quality after-school programming and motivated to develop partnership with other community agencies. Starting wage is $7.90 and up. Please send letter of application, copy of diploma/ transcripts, and resume with three references to: Program Development Coordinator, K-State Child Development Center, 1948 Jar-dine Drive, L-9 Manhattan, KS, 66502. Closing date is December 12. Position begins December 16 or sooner if possible. Equal Opportunity Employer.

PART-TIME HELP wanted, laborers and CDL drivers. Root Truss manufacturing plant, 5107 Murray Rd. (785)776-5081.

WEIDER PRO 9940 dual workout bench. Two years old. $400 new, asking $200. (785)565-3760. (785)565-0711.

500 transportation

510
Automobiles

2003 FORD Mustang GT convertible. Leather, loaded. 35,000 miles. $15,000 or best offer. (785)632-6346.

600 travel
trips

630
Spring
Break

"#1 SPRING Break Website! Low prices guaranteed. Book 11 people, get 12th trip free! Group discounts for six plus. www.SpringBreakDiscounts.com or www.Let'sGoTours.com or (800)838-8202.

Campus Phone Book

Buy it in Kedzie 103. Mon.-Fri. 8 a.m.-5 p.m.

Quiznos Sub HMM...TOASTY!

sudoku

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3 x 3 box contains the digits 1 through 9 with no repeats.

Solution and tips at www.sudoku.com

Bring in puzzle and receive FREE chips and small drink. (with purchase of any size sub)

7 2
1 8 6
6 5 2 4
7 5 4 9
5 8
4 6 1 2
1 4 6 3
2 3 9
7 1

032
Shout
Outs

I DON'T need no stinking gragger.

CLAIRE, TO bad your attitude is bigger than your game.

The Collegian reserves the right to edit or reject ad copy. First or last names can be accepted in ad copy. Photo ID required at placement. Ads can be placed in 103 Kedzie Hall, $2 for up to 20 words.

FOR YOUR own information, Chuck Norris is not real.

I'M GLAD I'm not an Oscar Meyer Weiner, everyone would be in love with me (too!).

LET IT snow, let it snow, let it snow.

SHANA, KEEP wheeling and dealing. Good hops!

NICE WIN, nice game K-state Women's Basketball team Go Ladies.

SHALEE, YOU go girl! The rebound records are going to a new level because of you. Congrats!

TWIGGY WAS hot on the three pointers- keep it up. See you at game time Sunday! Sooo hot!!!

000 bulletin
board

010
Announcements

"LEARN TO FLY" K-State Flying Club has five air-planes and lowest rates. Call (785)776-1744. www.ksu.edu/ksfc

NANCY'S BOUTIQUE at 501 N. 3rd, the finest selection of pre-owned clothing and furniture available. Home decor. Some Vintage Clothes, bar accessories, neon, and other beer signs. Accepting donations. (785)776-4405.

www.bobbys.com CHECK OUT Manhattan's favorite restaurant and bar website. Lots of specials, entertainment, t-shirts, and gift certificates.

020
Lost and Found

Lost and found ads can be placed free for three days.

030
Post a Note

We require a form of picture ID (KSU, driver's license or other) when placing a post a note.

100 housing/
real estate

Need a roommate? Advertise. It works.

Kedzie 103 532-6555

105
For Rent-
Apts. Furnished

Manhattan City Ordinance 4814 assures every person equal opportunity in housing without distinction on account of race, sex, familial status, military status, disability, religion, age, color, national origin or ancestry. Violations should be reported to the Director of Human Resources at City Hall, (785)587-2440.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

1200 SQUARE foot plus, basement apartment. Windows, washer/ dryer share. Two-bedroom, one bath. Private parking. No stove or kitchen sink. Quiet. Near campus. Available January. No smoking. $450. Call (785)341-0829.

901 MOHO, exceptional, new building, two-bedroom with all amenities, ready for January occupancy. $780. (785)539-4283. (785)539-8401.

WILDCAT PROPERTY MANAGEMENT 537-2332
Anderson Village 1BD-1BA $460 for January
1507 Poyntz #1 2BD $600
NEW carpet & paint
Gas & water paid

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT, one-half block from Engineering Building. $415/ month electric only. Need renter as soon as possible. One-half security deposit paid. 1837 College Heights. (785)341-5474.

ONE-BEDROOM APARTMENT for $320/ month. Call Jennifer at (785)341-8654.

110
For Rent-
Apt.
Unfurnished

NOW LEASING
Available in January
2000 College Heights
Cambridge Square •
Sandstone • Pebblebrook
Open Saturday 3-5
537-9064
www.hillinvestmentsreal.com

FOUR-BEDROOM AT 1521 Leavenworth, $800, bills paid. (785)539-4283. (785)539-8401.

LARGE FOUR-BEDROOM apartments available January for six-month lease. No pets. Close to stadium. (785)776-2425. (785)565-3760. www.village-rentals.com.

LARGE THREE-BEDROOM at 917 Kearney, new, all amenities, $1020, exceptional. (785)539-4283. (785)539-8401.

ONE AND two-bedroom apartments, Lee Crest Apartments, within one block of campus. Water and trash paid. (785)539-7991.

ONE AND two-bedrooms close to campus, central-air, parking, laundry. (785)539-5800. (785)537-6017.

ONE-BEDROOM, QUIET, two b-lacks south of campus. Deck, garage, laundry. Water/ trash paid. $425. January 1. Five-seven month lease. No smoking/ pets. (785)537-7431.

During a Tuesday morning class, students study a section of the Book of Mormon. The class meets every Tuesday and Thursday for 50 minutes.

Joslyn Brown | COLLEGIAN

RELIGION | Institute offers opportunities to learn about Mormon faith

Continued from Page 1

up dead bodies," Knapp said. "We believe every person that has ever been born has to accept Christ in order to be saved, and that involves baptism."

He said there are billions of people who die and never have the chance to hear the word of Christ or be baptized.

"We, by proxy, do baptisms for people who have died," Knapp said, "so that if they desire to choose to accept those ordinances they can."

Knapp, who also advises the Latter-Day Saint Student Organization, said the institute offers many opportunities to learn more about the Mormon faith, including seven classes and a weekly meeting where members study scripture and play games.

The classes focus on Smith's life, the Book of Mormon, the Bible's revelation and missionary preparation.

However, classes aren't the only things offered at the institute.

An activity the students seem to enjoy most, Knapp said, is Family Home Evening. Students begin the evening with a scripture reading and a short message from Knapp. After that, the fun begins with anything from games to singing to watching movies to shooting pool, he said. Lee Speirs, junior in political science, said the group has gone ice-skating and went on scavenger hunts.

"It's always a fun evening," Speirs said.

Speirs is taking a class on the Book of Mormon from Knapp. Most people take one or two classes through the institute, he said.

"They usually do a whole bunch of classes on the Book of Mormon," he said. "I've learned a lot through the institute and the class."

Ross Terry, K-State graduate, took part in social activities and classes at the institute. He said his favorite thing was Family Home Evening.

"Every Monday night we play some games, and we have some spiritual bonding," Terry said. "I always liked playing board games and capture the flag."

Knapp said there are 110-120 students in the campus organization who participate in classes and events at the institute, which is for 18- to 30-year-olds.

"We want this to be a place where they can come to and feel comfortable," Knapp said.

The institute has a set of high standards for students, Knapp said.

"We don't drink alcohol; we don't smoke or do drugs," he said. "We want them to keep a balance with religious things. We want them to feel comfortable with people."

Institute leaders know students experiment with new things once they get to college, Knapp said, but the institute wants students to be able to focus on their faith in an atmosphere that is free from distractions that go against their faith.

"The church builds these institutes all over the country," Knapp said. "The institutes are always by big colleges, so that students have a way to socialize and keep a balance of their Mormon faith in a comfortable atmosphere."

Terry, who is now attending school in Utah, said he felt fortunate to be a part of the campus organization through the institute and learned a lot from the experience.

"It was definitely a place to go where I knew it wasn't stressful," Terry said. "It was a place to go where I knew I had friends. I knew everyone there would be kind and generous."

Freshman offer advice for finals

By Adrienne DeWeese
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Finals can be a stressful time for students, but as new students, it can be especially challenging for freshmen. Some freshmen have previous experience with college finals through Advanced Placement courses in high school or community college courses.

PAST EXPERIENCE

Not all freshmen will be taking their first college finals this semester. Emily McDonnell, freshman in mass communications, said she has taken 22 hours of college courses through community college and Advanced Placement courses in high school.

In addition to making note-cards and studying a few weeks in advance, McDonnell said she is not doing any additional preparations.

McDonnell said it is important for freshmen to learn how to take finals now since they are going to take them throughout their college career.

"Finals can be tough and tricky, but you can't let them stress you out too bad," she said.

Students should not expect Advanced Placement and community college finals to be the same as K-State's finals, said Judy Lynch, associate vice president for Educational and Personal Development Programs.

"Don't take anything for granted," she said.

EXTRA STUDY TIME

Ben Myers, freshman in open-option, said he is devoting extra study time in preparation for his finals. Myers, a member of Beta Sigma Psi, is studying an extra hour for each class in addition to his fraternity's study hours from 7 to 10 p.m., Sunday through Thursday. These are his first college finals.

Myers said freshmen should study for finals to avoid poor grades and getting kicked out of the university or a greek organization.

"I'm anxious to get my finals done and over with," he said. "I'm also slightly nervous, but not too much."

Lynch said students should use their extracurricular activities as motivation to do their best on finals.

"At this point, it may or may not be too late to get kicked out for bad grades, but don't give up," she said.

TOUGH COURSES

Some courses may require extra study time for freshmen. Macroeconomics is one such course, said Kristi Konda, freshman in pre-journalism and mass communications.

Konda, who took several college courses in high school, said she is a little nervous about finals but is trying to stay calm overall.

"Finals are the last chance to boost your grade up or keep your grade where you want it," she said.

Lynch said students should spend more study time on finals that are difficult.

"If it is a comprehensive final, put in twice as much effort in going over everything," she said.

ADVISER ADVICE

Adviser Julie Hunt said for those who want to be successful with finals, they should:

Look for personal connections to material while studying, especially with historical dates.

Use memory props to link material together, such as tree diagrams or a timeline.

Make flash cards to drill while waiting in line at the store.

Learn the material by teaching it to someone else.

Study in an environment that mimics the test environment.

Reward yourself for staying on target with study time.

Care packages show thought, raise money

By Leann Sulzen
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Candy, popcorn, chips, pretzels, fruit and pop. No, it's not movie night snacks.

Care packages for finals week often include these treats to help students relax and get through their tests.

Rachael Williams, treasurer of the National Residence Hall Honorary, said the group sold care packages to parents this semester for students in the residence halls.

Each year the group sells pre-made care packages and the profits go to the leadership banquet that recognizes leaders in the residence halls in April.

Williams said they sell different types of care packages for the different tastes of students. There are fruit care packages, some with candy and snacks and some with a mug and hot chocolate or tea.

"If a student likes to have candy to eat, that's what I would send them," she said. "It's supposed to be comfort food to help you destress."

St. Isidore Catholic Student Center also puts together care packages for students with the Knights of Columbus chapter.

Rev. Keith Weber of St. Isidore said their care packages include candy, fruit, pop, a toy and a card from the sender. Their care packages also serve as a fundraiser for the Knights of Columbus.

The packages are advertised to parents of the students who attend St. Isidore and Catholic alumni. Keith said they get a lot of feedback from students who said they enjoyed the packages.

"It has definitely grown over the years," he said. "We had about 130 orders this year."

Although the deadlines to order care packages from NRHH and from St. Isidore have passed, parents and friends can still show support with homemade care packages.

Erin Hudson, sophomore in open-option, said she received a care package from her church this semester. Her package included ramen noodles, candy, popcorn, cookies and pretzels.

Hudson said those who are purchasing care packages for students should think about things that could help students relax as well as comfort food.

Care packages are beneficial because it shows students that someone cares, Hudson said.

"It helps me think that someone back home is thinking about me," she said.

Flu Vaccine @ Lafene Health Center

Walk-in Flu Vaccine Clinic
Thursday, Dec. 8th

8:30-11:30 am

1:30-4:30 pm

Cost for students:

$13 shot

$22 intranasal

Cost for all others:

$16 shot

$27 intranasal

For KSU faculty, staff and students!
All KSU faculty, staff, & students are eligible to receive the injectable vaccine.

The nasal spray vaccine is also available.

For more information go to:
www.k-state.edu/lafene

SELL YOUR TEXTBOOKS FOR CASH!

at Varney's Book Store - In Aggieville
Textbook Department

Buy Back Hours:
Mon, Dec 12th - Fri, Dec 16th:
9:00 am - 8:00 pm

*Please Bring a Current Photo ID
To Sell Your Books!

We Kick Ads!
532.6560

Sell Your Textbooks
at Clafin

Through December 21

It doesn't matter where you bought them.

Photo ID Required

Clafin
Books and Copies
1814 Clafin Road
776-3771

Monday - Friday 9am-7pm
Saturday 9am-5pm
Sunday 1pm-5pm

How To Get What You Want:

- 1 Circle your favorite items.
- 2 Cut on dotted line.
- 3 Send to Santa.

Mountain Bike

Sleeping Bag

Backpack

Ski Pants

Tent

Hiking Boots

Swiss Army Knife

North Face Jacket

Fleece Vest

Fly Rod

Climbing Harness

Gift Certificate for $

the PATHFINDER
OUTDOOR EQUIPMENT SPECIALISTS

304 Poyntz
Downtown Manhattan
785-539-5639

All I want for Christmas
is a K-State Connection
CAMERA PHONE

2000 Around Town Minutes
350 Anytime Minutes
$37.95 per month

Unlimited Nights & Weekends
Free US long distance
5 month agreement

Free Motorola V266

109 East Stadium
Manhattan, KS 66506
785-532-7001
www.telecom.ksu.edu

K-STATE
connection
YOUR WIRELESS SOLUTION

Trial of accused rapist to begin Monday in Manhattan

By Kristen Roderick
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

A man accused of raping a Manhattan woman will be tried at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the Riley County Courthouse, 100 Courthouse Plaza.

Tyson Hampton will be tried Monday for the rape of a Manhattan woman he met on the internet.

Mary Todd, assistant director of the Women's Center, said she encourages people to attend.

"It's an extreme learning experience," she said. "I recommend it."

The two decided to meet at a Manhattan overlook without other people, Todd said, although the victim said she wanted to have friends with her when she met Hampton.

After talking for several minutes, Hampton began sexually advancing on the victim. She tried to tell him not to, but he threatened her with a supposed weapon in his bag, Todd said.

After the alleged rape, the victim ran to her friends and family. They took her to a hospital and contacted the police, Todd said.

Hampton is being tried in other towns for rape as well, but Todd said it is impossible to tell exactly how many women he is accused of raping. She said there are two cases of rape he has been convicted of in Topeka, and one where he pulled a teen off her bicycle and into his car. In the other case, he was struck a woman with his car, injured her and pulled her into his car. Todd said he committing sexual battery when he was arrested.

If the court proves Hampton guilty, he could be sentenced to 20 to 50 years in prison, Todd said.

Barry Wilkerson, Riley County attorney, said he was not able to comment on the case.

Todd said there will also be two trials next semester involving men who raped K-State students. For more information, call the center at 532-6444.

Semester in review

A fall term full of major national, local events that affected K-State staff, students

Photo illustration by Emily Lawrence | COLLEGIAN

By Logan C. Adams
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

From abortion demonstrations to Hurricane Katrina's evacuations, these past 16 weeks have been busy. Here's a look at some of the big stories that affected K-State students this fall semester of 2005.

THE CHANGING OF THE COACH

K-State football coach Bill Snyder shook the university when he announced his retirement Nov. 15. The announcement marked the end of 17 years at the helm of the Wildcats.

That Saturday, K-State defeated the Missouri Tigers 36-28, giving Snyder his 136th win that ended the season at 5-6. The game also saw the renaming of KSU Stadium, which became the Bill Snyder Family Stadium.

"I appreciate the fact that Tim (Weiser) said 'How do you want it named?'" Snyder said, "I said, 'Name it after the people I care about the most.'"

Speculation on a replacement ignited once Snyder's retirement was announced, but it started raging once the season ended as the administration conducted its search. On Dec. 5, the choice of Ron Prince, the offensive coordinator for the University of Virginia, was made public.

Attention then turned to whom Prince will choose to hire for his coaching staff as he takes control of the program.

HUGE HURRICANES HAMMER GULF STATES

Three category five hurricanes, Katrina, Rita and Wilma, stormed through the Gulf of Mexico in what would become the worst hurricane season on record.

Katrina was first and caused the most damage, completely shutting down New Orleans and causing extensive damage throughout coastal Louisiana and Mississippi. It weakened significantly before coming on shore, but levees throughout the city failed and allowed water from canals and Lake Pontchartrain to pour into several neighborhoods.

Several evacuees found shelter in Junction City, including Gilda Clark. She said she worried about the homeless people she used to see while walking to work in New Orleans.

"I don't know how they got there," she said. "Now, here I am, homeless."

There was far less damage when Rita hit Texas and eastern Louisiana and when Wilma hit Florida, but the public reacted much more strongly thanks to the fear created by the aftermath of Katrina.

New Orleans remains a shadow of its former self as many neighborhoods are still being razed and investigations into the local, state and federal government reaction to the disaster continue.

JARDINE ENTERS TRANSITION

The redevelopment of Jardine Apartments began the afternoon on Sept. 7 when a bulldozer started tearing through one of the buildings that make up the complex.

Jardine is used to house non-traditional students whose families live with them. Altaf Karim reminisced while he watched the machine tear through his former apartment, C-27.

"Life carries on," he said. "This is all just a part of life."

The demolition was the beginning of a 10-year redevelopment plan for the complex that will double its capacity. It's expected to cost $102 million.

SUPREME COURT PLAYS MUSICAL CHAIRS

The death of Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist, coupled with the retirement of Associate Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, put two seats on the nation's highest court up for grabs.

O'Connor announced her intention to leave the court in July and President Bush tapped Judge John G. Roberts Jr. from the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Rehnquist died Sept. 3 and Roberts was picked to fill the top spot and was confirmed by the Senate by the end of the month.

See REVIEW Page 8

Finals to be given after graduation

By Kaley Lyon
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

Commencement is nearly here for more than 1,350 graduating seniors, as ceremonies take place today and Dec. 10, at different times and places for each school.

However, these students will be taking final exams the week of Dec. 12-16, when the entire student body is scheduled to take finals.

"First of all, though the calendar has changed some over the years, this pre-dates fall '05 in terms of finals being after commencement," Monty E. Nielsen, registrar, said. "I've been registrar at other universities as well. This is very typical of fall semester."

When students go through the commencement process, they do not receive an actual diploma. They receive an empty diploma case and a congratulatory insert. Once final exams have been administered, and it has been determined the students have met all requirements, a diploma is mailed to their permanent address.

"If, for some reason, you don't complete the requirements this fall - different scenarios could unfold - you might know in advance that you weren't going to complete all requirements," Nielsen said. "Rather than applying for commencement in December, you would wait, finish your courses, redo them in the spring, and graduate in the spring."

Unless this is the case, all graduating students participate in commencement, though none of them have officially met all requirements. Once they have been cleared to receive a diploma, their degree will be posted as well.

Spring semester, however, is scheduled differently. The commencement for spring 2006 will be on May 12 and 13, following finals week, which will take place the week of May 8-12.

There are several reasons for this, Nielsen said. With the December commencement close to

See FINALS Page 8

Students should sell textbooks next week

By Adam Hanks
KANSAS STATE COLLEGIAN

With the end of the semester almost here, students are starting to sell back their textbooks.

Varney's Book Store and the K-State Student Union Bookstore are buying back students' textbooks, but Steve Levin, the manager of the Union Bookstore, said students are better off selling their books back next week.

"Students can start selling their books now, and what we try to do is when a student comes in, we have a price, and if it isn't the best price, we suggest they come back next week,"

Levin said.

Neither bookstore has a full list of textbooks for next semester, so neither is able to give students the full price for some books. When the list is complete, final prices will be set.

The Union Bookstore has been seeing steady business all week, Andrea Daily, Union Bookstore employee, said.

"We have probably three people in line, but next week will be the main time," Daily said.

The Union Bookstore will probably be busiest during the mornings of finals week, while Varney's will be most crowded during the afternoons, Levin said. He said students should try to make it to the stores during off-peak hours.

"Most of the students are on campus during the day, then after two or three, most students leave campus, and we have no lines at all at the Union," he said.

Students who decide to sell back their books to Varney's or the Union Bookstore can expect to receive about half of the amount they paid for the books, Levin said.

"Our buy-back price is based off of a new book, so if a book cost $100, they get back $50,

See BOOKS Page 8

Today

High 30
Low 17

Saturday

High 45
Low 23

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS

Victim dies

John B. Gaston, 22, and James D. Rickey, 34, of Joplin Mo., have been charged in Columbus, Kan., with first-degree murder after a robbery victim had an apparent heart attack from the stress of being robbed. Dorothy Daniels, 86, drove to a neighbor's house to call for help after the men entered her home posing as handymen. She died while talking to police.

Man charged

Robert J. Land, 32, was charged with first-degree murder after killing Angela May Goddard, a Fort Hays University student Land was dating. Goddard was found dead Nov. 29 near an oil-field tank battery southwest of Hays. Police said she died of asphyxia or suffocation. Land was being held Thursday in the Ellis County Jail on $1 million bond.

Officer suspended

San Francisco police officer Andrew Cohen was suspended Thursday after producing videos parodying life on the force. He said he was suspended for posting inappropriate and unauthorized pictures about the department on the Internet. Cohen is one of about 20 officers expected to be disciplined for the video clips.

DON'T FORGET

Commencement ceremonies are today and Saturday. For more information, contact the various schools.

K-State track will compete in the Carol Robinson Winter Pentathlon today at the R.V. Christian Track. They will compete in the KSU All-Comers all day Saturday at the track.

Women's basketball will play the University of Missouri-Kansas City at 3 p.m. Sunday in Bramlage Coliseum.

See our listings in the Classifieds.

DIAMOND

REAL ESTATE

785-537-7701

PROPERTY MANAGEMENT

Puzzles | Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Unhealthily pale

6 Chart

9 IRS worker

12 Cognizant

13 Sugar suffix

14 Gehrig or Gossett

15 Powder used in glass-polishing

16 Deal

18 Liz Smith's field

20 Litter's littlest

21 Put away

23 — Aviv

24 Vile

25 Cooped (up)

27 Free-stone, e.g.

29 Japanese straw mat

31 Hammock occupant

35 Musical instrument

37 Poet

38 Shy

41 Indivisible

43 Flushed

44 Arabian Sea gulf

45 Golf-course bend

47 Used mouth-wash

49 Duck

52 Census stat

53 Silithery one

54 Gram-marian's concern

55 "Mayday!"

56 Praise in verse

57 Adversary

DOWN

1 Lobbyist's org

2 Blow one's mind

3 Portraitist

John Singer

4 Small combo

5 Dough component

6 Alabama city

7 Now, on a memo

8 Apiece

9 Annual visitor

10 Purpose

11 One of the kin

17 "How to Be Born Again" author

19 Old photo tint

21 Likely

22 Afternoon gathering

24 Cpl., for one

26 Studio goings-on

28 In accompaniment

30 Central

32 Almost at the end

33 CBS logo

34 "Way out!"

36 Brain (Sl.)

38 Frat-party garb

39 Big bug

40 Former fillies

42 Cheer up

45 "Monopoly" card

46 Tied

48 Zodiac cat

50 Tenet

51 "Partridge Family" cast member

Solution time: 25 mins.

12-9

CRYPTOQUIP

1 | The Red State Blues Band

The Red State Blues Band, a seven member group of musicians mostly affiliated with K-State will perform at 8 tonight at the Manhattan Arts Center, 1520 Poyntz Ave. The band will perform Chicago-style rock 'n' roll blues and Delta blues. Cost is $3 for tickets. Call 537-4420 for more information.

4 | Rock Shows

Addictive Behavior with Amsterband, Emma's Mine and Shaggy Green Carpet will perform at 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. tonight at P.J.'s Bar, 1129 Laramie St. Addictive Behavior will play both shows. Cover charge is $5 for ages 18 to 20 and $3 for 21 and over. Rockhill and Pendergast will be performing at 10 tonight at Auntie Mae's Parlor, 614 N. 12th St. Cover charge is $3 for ages 21 and over. The Meat Purveyors and the Pembertons will perform at 10 p.m. Saturday. That cover is $6 for ages 21 and over. Call Auntie Mae's at 539-8508 or P.J.'s at 539-7055 for more information.

BEST BETS

Your guide to the weekend's entertainment

2 | Only the Best

The Strecker-Nelson Art Gallery, will have an exhibit of regional landscape artists, including artists from the "Homage to the Flint Hills," touring exhibit. The exhibit will be at the gallery, 406 1/2 Poyntz Ave., until Jan. 14. Hours are Mon-Sat 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Call 537-2099 or e-mail at gallery@kansas.net.

3 | Santa Paws

The Riley County Humane Society has invited children and pets to come get their picture taken with Santa Claus from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at 3262 Kimball Ave. Photos are $5 and all proceeds go toward the Riley County Humane society. Call 776-8433 for more information.

5 | K-State vs. UMKC

K-State women's basketball will face off against UMKC at 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon at Bramlage Coliseum. The Wildcats have a 6-1 record to the Kangaroos' 3-5 record. Call the K-State ticket office at 1-800-221-CATS or visit www.kstatesports.com for more information.

Corrections and clarifications

Corrections and clarifications appear in this space. If you see something that should be corrected, call news editor Kristen Roderick at 532-6556 or e-mail collegian@pub.ksu.edu.

The blotter

Arrests in Riley County

Reports are taken directly from Riley County Police Department's daily logs. The Collegian does not list wheel locks or minor traffic violations because of space constraints.

Wednesday, Dec. 7

■ Nicholas Brown, Lawrence, was arrested at 4:40 p.m. for failure to appear. Bond was set at $1,000.

Thursday, Dec. 8

■ Michael Hall, Ogden, Kan., was arrested at 3 a.m. for DUI. Bond was set at $750.

The planner

Campus bulletin board

